Hvad med Jesus? Men tilbage står store spørgsmål, som mig bekendt slet ikke tages op til diskussion i forbindelse med nogle af de mere end 400 arrangementer, der finder eller har fundet sted i 2017. Hvad med Jesus selv? Er han et produkt af samme uvidenhed, der frembragte hekse og djævle og anden overtro? Luther mente, at Jesus eller Kristus var at finde i selve Bibelen, men moderne teologisk forskning mener nu, at Det Nye Testamente er en slags genskrivning af ældre bibelske skrifter og derfor ikke giver pålidelig viden om hovedpersonen bag det hele. Og på samme måde kan den moderne religionsvidenskab påvise, at næsten alt, hvad der siges om eller gøres af »Guds søn«, allerede blev sagt om og gjort af de mange andre gudesønner, der fandtes i den gamle verden. Hvem skal man så tro mest på? Alt dette havde Luther af gode grunde ingen anelse om. For ham var det nok, at man blot troede på de ord, man læste i tysk eller dansk oversættelse. En veluddannet moderne teolog ved udmærket godt, at Det Nye Testamente er en samling fortællinger og myter, akkurat som de gamle græske, romerske og indiske gudefortællinger. Mig bekendt har man aldrig på noget dansk universitet rejst det helt afgørende spørgsmål: Har Jesus overhovedet eksisteret? Er alle disse fortællinger blot fortællinger?

Videnskabeligt holdepunkt Er svaret, at der ikke er videnskabeligt holdepunkt for troen på en historisk Jesus, ja, så er den logiske konsekvens heraf indlysende: Så hører de teologiske fakulteter slet ikke hjemme på et moderne universitet. Man kan dog ikke dyrke videnskab om noget, der slet ikke eksisterer. Hvad afladshandelen indbragte paven, blev bl.a. anvendt til at opføre Peterskirken i Rom. Den står der stadig til glæde for alle med interesse for kunst og arkitektur. Jeg kender ikke regnskabet i detaljer, men gætter på, at det har været småbeløb set i forhold til, hvad lønninger til reformerte præster med tiden har ophobet sig til. Og netop nu i 2017 ser det ud til, at Luther er blevet forvandlet til en moderne helgen, i hvis hellige navn folkestyret gerne åbner for pengekisten. Siden 1536, da Reformationen blev gennemført under Christian III, for hvem Luthers ord nærmest var Guds ord, har først kongekirken og dernæst, fra 1849, folkekirken forstået at slå mønt af, hvad der muligvis blot er en gammel myte. For uden en historisk Jesus eller Kristus er hele reformationsjubilæet jo ikke meget andet end fejringen af et kæmpemæssigt bedrag, der stiller de pavelige afladsbreve helt i skyggen. Hvis man ellers kan forlade sig på traditionen, så skal Luthers modpart, pave Leo X (14751521) have udtalt: »Hvilket udbytte vi og vore har haft af den fabel om Kristus, er vel erkendt af alle slægtled.« Leo X var et kvikt hoved og veluddannet, og selvom citatet måske ikke er ægte, udtrykker det en opfattelse, han ikke var alene om dengang og endnu mindre i dag, 500 år senere. Mange kvikke hoveder deler Leos åbenhjertige mening. Den danske folkekirke er gået hen og blevet en rigtig god forretning. Ikke blot for mere end 2.000 præster, teologer med flere, men så god, at det ikke kan forventes, at det kan komme til en offentlig kvalificeret debat om det altoverskyggende spørgsmål: Er Jesus overhovedet en historisk person? Luther skal have lagt vægt på frihed og frimodighed, hører man, men hvor er den præst, der er frimodig nok til at rejse spørgsmålet, om Kristus blot er en gammel fabel, og ærlig nok til at indrømme, at tiden er løbet fra Luther?

[15-04-2017] Jesus on the coins of his Dad

Jesus Christ (JC) is, as we must learn to understand, one of the numerous mythical sons of God, who likes to puzzle and tease all those who believe that they believe in him. To solve his puzzles you must, as a rule, know not only Greek, but also Latin, Sanskrit and Pâli, as well as a bit of mathematics and numismatics.

How come JC is said to sit or stand at the right hand of his Father?

How come JC says that his Father is sitting on a throne up there somewhere in the sky, a location that has never been identified by modern astronomers?

How come JC, a Galilean, compares himself to a hen, in Greek: ornis, in Latin: gallina?

How come JC takes an interest in the image of a ruler on a coin?

Why do the soldiers, who mock JC, place a rod in his right hand and call him king of the Jews?

To answer these questions, or to crack the code, you merely need to have a look at one of the most common coins from the Hellenistic period, shown here:

Greek God became Jewish God

What you see here is the Father of all men and gods, as Homer says, and as all Greek and Romans knew for sure.

What you see in the right hand of Zeus is supposed to be an eagle, but it takes only a bit of imagination to take the bird as being a hen. On some of the coins, it even seems to have laid an egg!

So what the enthroned Father of men and gods is holding in his right hand is simply the Galilean Gallina, i.e. one of his many sons.

The simplest explanation for the rod in the right hand of JC is that it was the famous scepter of Zeus, who, on the coins, holds it in his left hand. The scepter, an old symbol of monarchy, is now handed over to the king of the Jews, who holds it in his right hand.

Thus it makes perfect sense when JC is said to be son of God, for, as all Greeks know, all kings - including the one of Israel or of the Jews - are sons of Zeus. And as such Zeus is enthroned somewhere up there in the sky.

The Lord's prayer is a prayer to Zeus, who, also according to old Homer, has his abode in the sky.

Naturally, his name must be "holy", which means that the name of Zeus, his father, must never be mentioned! The true ID of JC is a secret, just as the true name of his Father, i.e. Zeus, must be kept secret!

Of course, if you ask your local pastor or bishop, he will tell you that you need not know a word of Greek or Latin, and certainly not Pâli and Sanskrit, in order to make sense of the "Word of God", or of the so-called "Gospel". No bishop will admit the simple truth that the Greek word for Gospel, euaggelion, is a simple translation of the Sanskrit synonym sûtram.
Very often, JC likes to tease his opponents by inviting them to solve a mathematical paradox.
Thus, in a famous incident, he asks his opponents how it can be that Christ is, at the same time a son and a lord, i.e. younger and older in relation to king David. (See Matthew 22, 41-46, and my paper in Brahmavidyâ 78-79, pp. 47-157 for many more examples of Jesus as a mathematician.)
They cannot solve the puzzle because they know nothing about numbers.
The simple solution is: Khristos is 1480, and the sum of Son, huios, and Lord, kurios, is 680+800 = 1480.
So, these idiots don´t even know that 1480 is 800 + 680!

There is, in the body of the Greek text of the NT, almost no end to such paradoxes and puzzles posed by the words of JC.
But, as said, without the Greek, Latin, Pâli and Sanskrit etc., you are bound to be lost, exactly as were the Pharisees in Matthew 22, 41-46.
Luther and his modern followers claim to be true to the word of God as found in the Gospel translated into modern languages.
Luther was wrong, and so are bishops who not only deny that euaggelion translates sûtram, but who also claim that the New Testament has nothing to do with numbers or geometry. They are, in other words, exactly like those poor Pharisees, who were not able to say a word in reply to JC.
One of the most striking characteristics of Zeus is that he can undergo transformations, and the same applies to his numerous sons, many of whom were kings. And so, to sum up, a look at the famous coin provides us with the main source of the fable of the transformation of a Galilean Hen who eventually became the king of the Jews. Keeping this transformation in mind, it also becomes evident why JC claims that he and his father are one. And, since a father comes before a son, it is Zeus who becomes the father of JC, not vice versa.

[26-12-2016] It is easier for a Camel than it is for a Bishop...

It is easier for a camel to enter through the eye of a needle, than it is for a bishop to be honest about the Christmas hoax. How can a Jewish king, who never even existed, have been born by a virgin!

It is easier for a turtle to thrust its neck through the hole of a yoke flowing on the ocean, than it is for a pope to reveal the Buddhist sources of the Mass mysteriously celebrated on Christmas Eve.

It is easier for the son of a barren woman to marry his own daugther and have twelve children with her, than it is for a Dalai Lama to make much sense of the Dharma, if he does not know Greek. For how can he explain Tathâgatas if he is ignorant of a kaloskagathos or a kathêgêtês!

It is easier for a man to catch his own shadow, than it is for a scholar to grasp the New Testament, if he is ignorant of Sanskrit and Pâli.

It is easier for water to run upwards, than it is for anyone to understand the puzzle of the Son of Man, if he has never studied Euclid.

It is easier for two to be four, than it is for anyone to explain why Christians worldwide would worship a god willing to sacrifice his own innocent son in order to please a gang of revengeful Jews calling for his blood.

It is easier to calculate the number of grains of sand in the Nile, than it is to figure out why a Dalai Lama lets a pope get away with pretending to be the legitimate successor of Sâriputras (widely known as Simon Peter, first fake bishop of Rome).

Is it not easier for all our priests to walk on water, than it is for a decent individual - a kaloskagathos - to applaud the meretricious gaudiness of Rome!

It is easy to figure out why Lutherans are busy celebrating the so-called Reformation of a brave and brutal German run-away monk. Luther enabled them to make an easy life merely by fooling the gullible masses for half a millennium with advanced Buddhist fairy tales about an imaginary Buddha who was reborn out of love for his people.

Phony Sâri-putras begging Buddhas to keep the secret by blessing the poor in spirit.

[30-10-2016] Christ's Burial Place - a Buddhist stûpas

A few days ago, National Geographic created headlines worldwide by posting a bit of "sensational" false news: Christ's Burial Place Exposed for First Time in Centuries!
Correctly, National Geographic informs us that the tomb chamber has served as a focalpoint of veneration since it was first identified by Helena, the mother of the Roman emperor Constantine, in A.D. 326.
What the reader is not informed about is the fact that for centuries Greek, Roman and Buddhist priests had identified numerous locations where their gods and saints had been born, worked miracles, passed away etc. - often in different places at the same time. Helena was thus just repeating an old story, pouring new wine on old bottles.
The list of pious frauds knows no end. Students familiar with the Lotus Gospel know how to set the record straight: When a Buddha, a so-called Tathâgatas, passes away, a stupas is typically erected for worship in his memory. He and his gospel is then considered to be contained in such a stûpas. Hence its worship.
One must know the Greek term for the grave or tomb of Jesus - taphos. The Greek taphos renders the Sanskrit stûpas. As always one must know gematria to solve the puzzle precisely. The number of stûpas is 200+300+400+80+1+200 = 1181, which then is translated into Greek: ekei ho taphos = 40+70+½071 = 1181. The Greek means: Here is the grave. The Greek thus points to the Sanskrit stûpas. But only a Buddhist would know the trick!

When you read what the Lotus Gospel and the MPS write about Tathâgatas, his passing away, and his body, bones or ashes being located in a stûpas, it becomes obvious that the Christian cult of Jesus in the taphos is but an echo of the Buddhist ritual. For obvious reasons a stûpas is often empty.

There is no Tathâgtas in there! But that does not really matter. The important thing is that you worship the stûpas in faith as a sort of symbol of the teacher and his teachings. The Christian worship of the empty taphos is thus a typical example of the Buddhist worship of an empty stûpas.

But would Buddhist missionaries really be willing to play such tricks? According to their own words, they most certainly would. When you study the Buddhist sources of the Eucharist, you cannot fail to see that here, too, we are dealing with a sort of secret worship of the Buddhist hero, the Tathâgatas. The point of the Eucharist is to make you "eat and drink" - i.e absorb the Lord and his teaching so that it all becomes a part of yourself. These tricky Buddhists even have a technical term for this sort of hidden propaganda - "skill in means".

[29-10-2016] ODD GALILAEAN REPLACES OLD BUDDHA

Jesus, according to Mark 11,12-14, cursed a completely innocent fig tree - a sukê in Greek. But why? Failing to go ad fontes, New Testament scholars have offered various subjective speculations to explain the plain absurdity.

Matthew 11,18 brings us a bit closer to the solution of the puzzle, when he refers to the fig tree as a sukên mian, in the accusative case. We come even closer, when we read about another tree, a suka-minos, a mulberry tree. If you have faith, you can order it to pull itself up by its roots and plant itself in the sea. This is Luke 17,6. Again, poor tree! The fig tree and the mulberry tree now belong to the past!

Students familiar with the Lotus Gospel have no problem when it comes to the correct solution of the absurd story. In the Lotus Gospel we learn of the old Buddha called Sâkya-munis, now about to pass away and to be replaced by a new Buddha.

In Buddhists gospels, the rareness of their appearance is often compared to that of the rareness of a flower on a fig tree. So, here we have the fig tree once again combined with (a) Buddha. The Sanskrit for this fig tree is udumbaras. So, obviously, the sukên mian as well as the suka-minos are to be taken as puns on the original Sanskrit: Sâya-munis. Jesus is, here as always, a new Buddha who replaces the old one.

The belief that if you have faith, then you can even move mountains, is also typical Buddhist. See my essay "Faith as Small (or as Big) as a Mustard Seed", reprinted in Michael Lockwood, Mythicism, p. 116, where the Sanskrit sources are given.

Once you know what to look for, you will also be able to trace the udumbaras behind the words ascribed to Jesus, the new Buddha who replaced the most famous of the old ones.

New Testament scholarship that ignores Sanskrit and Pâli sources can, I fear, be expected one day to share the sad fate of the fig and the mulberry tree! Nor must the geometry always involved be ignored. In this case the first question is: What is the geometry behind the transformation from Sâkyamunis to sukê mia?

The second question is: What is the geometry accounting for Sâkya-munis turning up as Suka-minos? Here, as usual, whoever has intelligence, must figure out the number of the beast!

[17-09-2016] Chr. Lindtner and dr. Robert M. Price in a conversation about fairy tales and fables common to Buddhism and Christianity on Radio Lindtner.

[06-09-2016] Buddhas bloody body. The Lord's (Last) Supper - the Eucharist - its Sanskrit Source.

The most holy of all Christian sacraments is certainly that of the Eucharist, also known as the Lord's Supper, or the Last Supper.
Surrounded by his disciples, Jesus offered them his blood to drink and his body to eat. They still do so, mainly on Sundays.
In order to make some sort of sense of this absurd nonsense all sorts of suggestions have been offered. Wrong options have cost innumerable lives that could have been saved by going to the Buddhist sources, the most important of which is found in Sanskrit.
Lord Buddha, who typically refers to himself as Tathâgata(s) is surrounded by his disciples, and this is their last meal together. Soon, he will pass away.
Here is what Tathâgatas said to his closest disciples (MPS 42,10):

The Tibetan version corresponds exactly to the Sanskrit. No Pâli version is available. The Chinese version runs (in the German version of Ernst Waldschmidt, Berlin 1951, p. 395):
"Betrachtet jetzt den Körper des Buddha! Betrachtet jetzt den Körper des Buddha! Warum? Tathâgatas, Arhats, wahrhaft Erleuchteten begegnet man schwer wie einer Udumbarablume."

But this is only the first part of the story. In this Buddhist source there is no mention of shedding blood. Now, all Buddhists are familiar with the idea that in a previous life, before being reborn as a real Buddha, he sacrificed himself for the benefit of other living creatures.
For instance, he cut off his arm and gave it to a hungry tigress who then gave it to her hungry cub. By drinking the blood and by eating the flesh the cub survived. This well-known Buddhist fable, or Jâtrakam, is the source of the New Testament fable about Jesus shedding his blood for many (Matthew 26,28 par) and even giving up his life for the world on the cross.

Thus two different Buddhist sources have been combined and Buddha has been reborn once again now under a new name. The story will repeat itself. In reality he will never die; he will be back to enjoy eternal life along with his closest disciples.

Commentary:
Tathâgatas invites his disciple - twice - to have a careful look at his body. Why? Because such a Buddha only occurs very rarely - like the flower on a fig-tree.
In the mad Christian copy, the disciples are invited to eat and drink the Tathâgatas!
The flower of the Udumbaras is changed into the fruit of the vine. Thus the point about the rareness is almost lost.
When you compare the Sanskrit and the Greek words, you will hear typical puns:
Ta-thâ-ga-tas-ya becomes tês di-a-thê-kês, etc.
To spell that out:
Buddhists are invited to think of the Buddha who appears in this world so rarely.
Christian readers are invited to swallow Tathâgatas completely - blood as well as flesh.
Originally, it was the hungry cub that did so in order to survive. The cub has been transformed into a Christian carnival, as it were.
The purpose of participating in the Holy Supper is thus clear: You must become a Buddhist - without the Christian priest telling you the deeper meaning of this profound mystery. It makes some sense if you imagine yourself to be a hungry cub.
The Pope has the bad habit of speaking of a profound mystery of transfiguration.
Well, had he been a bit more honest, he would have told you that what is actually at stake, is a rather typical case of mysterious Buddhist translations.
That a Pope promotes Buddhism is to be expected, once you recall that Simôn Peter is just Sâri-Putras in disguise. Buddhist monks will tell many stories about the rebirths of Sâri-Putras. Most famous is his rebirth as the first bishop of Rome.
It goes without saying that the Buddhist and the Christian episodes must be seen in the original textual context.
If you do so, you will find that similar events occur in both sources.
So, as usual, we are dealing with pirate copies.
The unknown Buddhist authors of the Eucharist achieved what they wished to achieve:
Their intention was to convert "the entire world" to Buddhism - without them knowing it.
They did quite well.
In Mahâyâna there is something called skill in means, upâya-kausalyam. It has to do with hidden propaganda.
The Eucharist provides the most splendid example of this sort of Buddhist propaganda.
Buddhas bloody body served by John Huss and Martin Luther - little did they know!
Engraving from the second quarter of the 16th century.

[19-08-2016] Chr. Lindtner in a candid conversation with Kenneth Humphreys, author of Jesus Never Existed. On myths and deceptions of professional theologians, and their ignorance of sacred geometry and the Buddhist sources of the New Testament.

[13-07-2016] New light on early Christianity in Denmark. King Harald's Christ was both name and number, as in the New Testament. No silly Lutheran belief in a historical Christ at all.

Link to article in Vejle Amts Folkeblad, click picture below.
Christian Lindtner and Niels Bandholm in front of a copy of king Harald Bluetooth's runestone. Jelling, 2016.

[20-02-2016] THE SANSKRIT KID IN THE LOTUS MANGER

It is about time that good Christians started asking themselves and their brothers, why their pastors and bishops do not want to learn Sanskrit, and why Sanskrit is being expelled from European universities that used to have a glorious tradition of Sanskrit and Buddhist studies. How can that be? Why are they afraid of Sanskrit??
I have asked the Copenhagen bishop, to be sure, and his reply was that he had no time to look at the Buddhists sources of the New Testament, and certainly no time for Sanskrit! I have asked countless professors of the New Testament, and precisely a year ago, Århus professor of theology Anders-Christian Jacobsen made his position clear: "I will not learn Sanskrit!" Are they just lazy? Perhaps so. But there is much more at stake: Their daily bread.
So, good Christians should start asking serious questions, just little ones for a start. For instance: How can it be that the mother "in those days" placed the little boy (Greek: to paidion) in a "manger". To answer the puzzle you must know the Greek and the Sanskrit, and then compare the two.
As all Buddhists know the proper place for a Buddha and a Bodhisattva is in or on a Lotus. The Sanskrit for "in a Lotus" is pad-me, the locative form of padmam, a lotus. In Greek, the bo-dhi-sat-tvam becomes the little boy: to pai-di-on. The Sanskrit -sat-tvam means "be-ing". That becomes to...on, meaning in Greek: be-ing. Next, the bo-dhi becomes pai-di. Thus, bo-dhi-sat-tvam has changed into to pai-di-on. He has been reborn! Ask your local pastor to think it over, or take a chat with the bishop!
But the manger, please!
Well, the Greek says "in a manger", en phat-nê. So, again, a locative form. Just as you can hear, how bo-dhi becomes pai-di, thus you can also hear, how pad-me becomes phat-nê. And there are hundreds of similar examples of the same sort. One or two examples prove nothing, but hundreds do. When you read the Lotus Sûtram, even in a modern translation, you will find that the Lotus, i.e. the Buddha, orders his disciples and missionaries to spread the Lotus all over the world by means of puns and plays on words of the sort given here.
Just to listen to the sound of a Lotus is sufficient, he assures us. The idea is - as all Japanese Buddhists will agree - that merely by hearing and reciting the sound of pad-me and of bo-dhi, you will achieve the greatest happiness in the world. That is why Loukas writes phat-nê and pai-di. But it will not work in a modern translation, where all is lost! Hence, good Christians must take up a bit of Greek and Sanskrit! - if they want to follow in the steps their Saviour.

The evangelist called Luke shared this conviction and followed orders when "translating" into Greek. His name, in Greek, is Loukas, an echo or pun on the Sanskrit original: Lokas, meaning "world". When you have come that far, you may ask for a solution to the old paradox of bo-dhi-sat-tvam (accusative case of bo-dhi-sat-tvas) having been born of a virgin.

Here, again, you must first pick up a bit more of Greek and Sanskrit, and then compare. The Greek for "virgin" is PaRTHeNos. In Sanskrit there are many synonyms for Lotus apart from padmam. One of these is PuNDaRîka-, as in the very title of the Saddharma-pundarîka-sûtram - the Lotus. To be born from a virgin is in Greek: ek parthenou (genitive of parthenos). Behind eK PaRTHeNou you hear, exactly as above, PuNDaRîKa. That, again, solves the old puzzle about the number of man - i.e. Buddha aka Jesus - being 666:

Thus the number of p-u-n-d-a-r-î-k-a = 80+400+50+4+1+100+10+20+1 = 666. This means, of course, that the son of the virgin is to be found in the Lotus, and in that sense the apparent paradox of parthenogenesis proves to be perfectly true: The Lord is born in a Lotus. So, should you find any modern rationalist ridiculing the notion of parthenogenesis, it may well be that he is just as ignorant of Greek, Sanskrit, maths and comparative Gospel studies as the average pope and bishop.

I remain perpetually astonished. Thanks for this!

Robert M. Price

[17-02-2016] The Purpose of the Church of Denmark

In the well-considered view of Anders Sandøe Ørsted, the main pupose of the Church of Denmark, was, as this great man wrote in his autobiograhy: "to serve the enlightenment and ennoblement of the souls of Denmark's youth."

Now what a contrast to the misery, ignorance and vulgarity that haunts the current state of the Lutheran Church of our old kingdom! Who has not heard tags like "spaghetti service" and refrains of "equality and equal rights and love", oozing from the lips of the white clerical slime - but antiquated words like enlightenment and, worst of all, if you will excuse the term, "ennoblement" who has ever heard - if only by way of rumour - of such an out-of-place gospel shedding its light from a modernizing church?

[06-02-2016] JESUS wants YOU to carry the Lotus Sutra!

Jesus says: "And whoever does not take his CROSS (Greek : STauRoN) and follow after me is not worthy of me" (Matthew 10,38). And according to Luke 14,27, he said: "Whoever does not carry his own CROSS (Greek: STauRoN) and come after me cannot be my disciple." So the message is clear enough: To be a true disciple of Jesus, you must carry your STauRoN.

Accordingly, some Christians are still seen to carry a cross around their neck, in Denmark one of his followers - his name is Moses - enjoys to amaze the public by taking the burden of a huge cross on his back.

And where in the world do we see a church without a cross! Still, all Christians must be a bit puzzled. Does the Lord want his true disciples to let themselves be crucified? If so, why? Very strange, all of this!

If you are, however, among the millions of followers of the SûTRaM called the Lotus (Saddharma-pundarîka-sûtram), and if you are among the few who know a bit of Sanskrit, you will immediately see what Jesus has in mind. Scholars have already pointed out long ago that the New Testament writings contain numerous quotations from and allusions to the Lotus Sûtram, a work of Mahâyâna propaganda, and still popular in Japan and China.

The Lotus Sutra

The last words of Jesus are, for instance, taken from the Buddhist gospel! The great hero in this SûTRaM is called a SûTRa-dhârakas, and dhârakas, in Sanskrit means "one who carries". What Jesus therefore is sayng is that YOU, too, have to be a SûTRa-dhârakas to follow him, otherwise YOU are not his true disciple! To carry the STauRoN really means to carry the SûTRaM. It is expressly stated that a true disciple carries a book of the Lotus on his shoulder!

Behind the Greek euaggelion we have the Sanskrit synonym sûtram, often taken by Buddhists as meaning good message. The disciple who carries the good message of the Lotus is what in the NT becomes an evangelist. The NT does not confine itself to four evangelists; others are also mentioned.

Behind these we have Buddhist missionaries. Even the term apostle, Greek apostolos can be traced back to a Sanskrit synonym (upasthâyakas or upasthâpakas). One of the main disciples in this SûTRaM is Sâri-PuTRaS. He followed his master's command, and eventually turned up under the name of Simôn PeTRoS. He even found his new home in Rome, where a few bones are now on display.

All of this is of course just Buddhist and Christian fantasies. But they certainly have sold well! This means that we here have yet another obvious case of Christianity as crypto-Buddhism, or Mahâyâna propaganda.

In this connection another puzzle finds its solution: The Dalai Lama has paid several visits to Denmark, and I personally recall him having expressed his wonder that many Danes want to turn to Buddhism. "Why", he said, "you already have Christianity! Why Buddhism?".

From these words I can only assume that he, too, is aware that Christianity is a sort of crypto-Buddhism. And the same goes for the Holy Father in Rome. When the Dalai Lama visited Rome in December 2014, it aroused some wonder among Buddhists worldwide that the Pope declined meeting his colleague, for he "did not have time to see the Dalai Lama". The two would certainly have had something to talk about - above all the historical foundations of the Roman church.

The public seems ignorant of the fact that at least some educated insiders in the Vatican know about their own Buddhist roots. This includes the former Pope, Benedict, who has personally supported the publication of a German translation of the Lotus Sûtram. And those who may wish to dig deeper into this embarrassing truth need only consult the scholarly book by Michael Fuss, Buddhavacanam & Dei Verbum. A Phenomenological & Theological Comparison of Scriptural Inspiration in the Saddharmapundarîka Sûtra & in the Christian Tradition, Leiden 1991.

Here, the learned author concludes that the teachings of the Lotus and the New Testament are much the same. He does, however, avoid the most interesting of all questions: How can it be that the New Testament often looks like a copy of the Lotus Sûtram?

Instead, in a note hidden on page 421, Dr Fuss admits that this is "an intricate problem", and then refers to an old book from 1906, wherein the author wrote: "Where the Gospel narratives resemble the Buddhist ones, they seem to have been independently developed on the shores of the Mediterranian and in the valley of the Ganges...".

So, in this way, by using the verb "seem", these authors try to avoid what they very well know to be "an intricate problem". Openly and honstly to admit the simple historical fact of crypto-Buddhism would be very bad for Vatican business, indeed.

In Denmark, Lutheran professors and bishops are now busy baking layer cakes to celebrate the 1517 Reformation (read: Deformation) of Dr Martin Luther, who was, of course, completely ignorant of the fact that his beloved eu-aggelion, or Gospel, was originally the Buddhist Sûtram.

One does not have to be a prophet to foresee the future. In Denmark, Sanskrit and Buddhist studies have been banned from the universities. It is now up to Japanese, Chinese and other scholars carefully to compare, word for word, the Greek text of the New Testament with the Sanskrit text of the Lotus Sûtram and other Buddhist gospels already identified by the few competent European and American scholars active in this important field of research.

Eventually, opposition to Comparative Gospel Studies, will diminish, and even Lutherans will find themselves willing to confess that they were, all along, deep in their hearts, Buddhists. A good English translation of the Lotus by H. Kern from the Sanskrit is available online. It is a must for all Christians interested in their own roots - according to Christ's own words.

May Zeus have mercy upon their souls!
[23-01-2016] Acharya S. in memoriam

Ms Murdock was a brilliant scholar and an admirable American woman. Her defence of the Mythicist position deserves serious consideration.

Of her book “Who Was Jesus? Fingerprints of the Christ”, the great American NT scholar, Dr. Robert M. Price wrote: “A really fine introduction to the problem of the historical Jesus… The best of this genre – written with clarity, precision and conviction.”

Students of the Buddhist sources of the New Testament will enjoy our late friend's review of Prof. Michael Lockwood's “Buddhism's Relation to Christianity”. I sincerely hope that her writings on comparative religion and astrotheology will continue to find the many grateful readers they deserve.

Dr. Chr. Lindtner

[05-01-2016] Roskilde Bishop sanctions Hypocrisy

Roskilde bishop Peter Abraxas-Møller has just announced that Annette Berg may continue as a priest in the Danish Church. If she still believes in reincarnation that is a matter between her and God. It cannot be denied that this decision reflects a certain humane and tolerant attitude on the part of the Roskilde bishop - now very busy taking care of the global climate and preparing for the great Layer Cake celebration of Luther's Deformation.

There is a problem, however. What has here been sanctioned will prove fatal to the Lutheran church: If a bishop finds it OK for his pastors to have a personal belief that is opposite to his or her public or official belief, this means a sanction of plain hypocrisy. In his Press Release (4-1-2016) our Roskilde bishop himself commits a serious error when stating: "The study of theology at a university provides us with the tools that enable us to interprete the Bible and the confessional scriptures of the early church as well as of the Reformation."

He is quite mistaken. The truth is that a study of theology at one of the Danish universities does NOT provide the student with the tools required to obtain an honest understanding of, most of all, the New Testament. These 27 books are to a large extent translations from the Sanskrit and Pâli. All Danish professors of the New Testament ban the study of Sanskrit and Pâli as being a requirement for serious NT studies. Chr. Lindtner has warned them again and again. NT professor Mogens Menschensohn Müller stated the official position most clearly at the infamous Q-conerence held in Roskilde, June 2015: We do not want to hear about (Buddhist) sources (in Sanskrit and Pâli)."

Not one single of the many "experts" present objected to his exorcism! All Danish priest have promised to preach the Euaggelion honestly as it really is. But the Euaggelion is the Sûtram (in Pâli: Suttam).

To avoid the charge of hypocrisy, they must take up the study of Sanskrit and Pâli. Shame on all the NT professors who will not do their Buddhist homework! Who will be the first honest Danish priest?

[31-12-2015] Who is THE Christmas BOY?

Christians all over the world have been busy celebrating the birth of a certain Jesus called (the) Christ. Of course, all the bishops and pastors know very well that there is no historical basis for the existence of Jesus Christ or for his birth on that day. They speak so much of love, but never of love of what really counts: love of truth. Otherwise they would have informed their ignorant sheep that this annual celebration is a celebration of mere myths, mainly Buddhist.

Any attentive reader of Matthew 2,8-14 must have been struck by the fact that the evangelist refers to "the boy" no less than six times. Obviously, Matthew wants his reader to focus on "the boy", the Greek being: to pai-di-on.

Why is this? Who is this to pai-di-on? Why these most unusual repetitions?

Any Buddhist familiar with the Sanskrit and Pâli sources of the first chapters of Matthew can provide the simple answer to the question: who is to pai-di-on?

Matthew introduces the first book in the NT with the words: book of birth, Greek biblos geneseôs. The Sanskrit and Pâli original is Jâtakam, meaning book of birth, i.e. rebirth. All Buddhists are familiar with the numerous stories about the rebirth of bo-dhi-sat-tvas (nom. case). The accusative case is: bo-dhi-sat-tvam.What Matthew then goes on to relate is a new myth about the rebirth of bo-dhi-sat-tvam.

In Sanskrit sat-tvam means be-ing, which in Greek become to on (the first and the last syllable of the Greek to pai-di-on). No scholar will deny that the Greek is a perfect synonym of the Sanskrit.

The Greek pai-di- is then a "translation" of the sound of the Sanskrit/Pâli bo-dhi.

If the reader finds this to be a strange way of translation, he is right, but he should also remember that this sort of bizarre rendering was very popular among even the best educated Christian "fathers", e.g. Origen. As was to be expected, Jewish rabbis also loved this sort of play on words.

When Christians celebrate the birth of their Saviour they actually celebrate one of the numerous rebirths of the Saviour of the Buddhists - bo-dhi-sat-tvas.

The holy scripture of all Buddhists is called a sûtram. The term is often taken by them to mean "a good message", as if from su + uktam, well said. The Greek synonym is eu-aggelion, rendered as gospel. Often a sûtram contains a Jâtakam - or many stories of rebirths of bo-dhi-sat-tvas, or some of his disciples.

In 2015, the so-called Holy Father in Rome celebrated Christmas in what an honest historian would called Saint Putras Church.

There is a famous Buddhist Jâtakam according to which Sâri-Putras will be reborn as the head of the Church. Buddhist missionaries never forgot this famous prophecy (found in the ancient Sutta-Nipâtam and repeated in the Lotus Sutra.).

And so this Buddhist apostle eventually was reborn as the first bishop in Rome. His name had now been changed a little bit: He was now reborn or renamed as Simôn Petros. The identity of the two SPs can be proved by any scholar familiar with the Buddhist scriptures. Virtually all the stories told about SP the First are later on repeated by Christians now speaking about SP the Second. In both sources SP is explicitly called "the first (among the other apostles)".

Strictly speaking we do not need to make the distinction, for both of them are mere products of Buddhist-Christian imagination. In a famous gospel passage, the Christ - himself a mere Buddhist phantom - appoints SP as his successor. He uses the name Bar-Iônas in speaking to SP.

The bar- is Aramaic for son, in Sanskrit we have -putras, a perfect synonym. The second part of the word is -Iônas, which contains a pun of the Sanskrit Jinas, a synonym of Buddha(s). (Interested readers can identify the passages in the Lotus Sûtra).

So it is clear that SP - the First as well as the Second - is a son of Buddha, a Jina-putras = Bar-Iônas.

Summing up: When the Holy Father in Rome celebrates the annual birth of to pai-di-on, it is obvious to a serious historian that it is the double SP who celebrates the rebirth of Bo-dhi-sat-tvam. The Holy Father loves to speak of the mystery of transformation.

We now see that this transformation is not that mysterious after all: It is the Roman ceremony that each year turns bo-dhi-sat-tvam into to pai-di-on.
That it is "mysterious" means that it is a simple hoax.
Normally, Christians reject the "Buddhist" belief in rebirth or reincarnation. They prefer something called resurrection.
But what they actually worship is the rebirth of bo-dhi-sat-tvam, which is also a sort of resurrection. So here we again have a simple hoax, or "pious fraud".

In 2008, the Swedish scholar Bert Löfgren published what is certainly the best book on the great Roman hoax ever to appear in that language: Katolska kyrkans djupa hemlighet. It can be ordered from www.recito.se. The title refers to the crypto-Buddhism of the Roman church founded by the myhtical SP.

Our wish for the New Year is this: That the Holy Father and all the bishops will be honest about the source of their Christian beliefs.
Pope worships Bodhisattvam

[29-12-2015] Roskilde Bishop goes Layer Cake

As a rule, Danish bishops are willing to play almost any trick in the book so as to fool their white sheep into the fold of the Danish church. Nothing new about that. Roskilde bishop Peter Fischer-Møller now announces a huge layer cake contest in order to celebrate Luther and the reformation. In this game, a Danish woman, Annemette Voss, famous for baking cakes, plays a major role along with the bishop himself.
Not only can she bake, she can also write about what she bakes. The title of her book "Kage-karma", i.e. Cake Karma.
On November 11, 2015, the bishop published a press announcement where he defined the belief of the Danish church.
The belief in karma, found in Buddhism and in Hinduism, is incompatible with the official belief of the church, which says:
1. Life in this world is valuable in itself and given by God,
2. Soul and body form a unit,
3. Only the grace of God can save us
4. Faith in our resurrection depends on the fact that Christ was resurrected on Easter Sunday.
Comments:
ad 1: It is a matter of common experience, that life in this world is anything but valuable in itself. To hold God responsible for the endless variety of suffering and miserable forms of life is simple blasphemy.
ad 2: If soul and body formed a unit, all would be lost once the body dissolves. Or we would have a soul separated from the body, in which case the two would not form a unit. We would be souls without bodies, i.e. ghosts (as claimed by veteran madcap theologian Old Ted Jørgensen).
ad 3. If life in this world is valuable in itself, as claimed, why would one want God to save us? Who wants to be saved from something valuable?

ad 4. A recent debate involving many of Peter´s fishy colleagues has demonstrated that the doctrine of physical resurrection is plain nonsense. Apart from that, it has been shown by Indologists that all these stories about resurrection are Buddhist fables.

The alert reader can easily expand the list of lies and absurdities for himself.
The great Layer Cake contest is announced to celebrate the mad German monk - as Luther wrote about himself - and his crazy ideas adopted by dishonest Danish bishops.
Celebrating the Lutheran Deformation

Before the Reformation, bishops were among the richest men in the country. The current bishops are still very well paid, but on the average not as wealthy as their Catholic forerunners. But they are no less corrupt, if corrupt means prepared to fool the common people with silly theological lies.
All Danish priests know very well that if no coffee is served, their churches will be almost empty, and they themselves in the long run out of job. Add cakes to the coffee, and the future looks more promising.
Men, who make a good living by way of deception, will of course, abhor the prospect of being held responsible for their deeds. Hence it is understandable that they reject any idea of Buddhist karma, a law of moral retribution. No normal criminal wants to face the music of the law of karma! The four fundamental truths of the Danish church (above) are simply based on deliberate deception. So perhaps, after all, a Lutheran layer cake may serve as a great new symbol of the current state of affairs in the Danish church.
There is a unity of soul and body. The spirit resides on the tongue, the soul in the stomach, and the grace of God consists in the lie that this primitive mode of life may go on forever and ever.
Annette Berg has been condemned for advocating karma, and Annemette, the new saint, will probably be ordered to remove the term karma from the title of her book about cakes.
Empty churches means empty pockets, and empty pockets means empty promises.
And one of the most empty promises of all promises offered by bishops has to do with baptism, as understood by Luther.
In an essay from October 2015, our Roskilde bishop thus promises that God is so full of love to all of us - provided we are Lutherans - that he gives us human dignity even if we are quite unworthy of such dignity. It is not at all a question of being a good, honest and decent human being. Not at all!
Instead, you must go to church and let yourself be baptized by some Lutheran priest. Thus a bit of water will turn you into a saint in a jiffy.
Any human being who has not suffered some sort of induced cerebral damage immediately discerns that this is a simple trick designed to attract ignorant citizens so as to fill first the church, then the pockets of the priests, etc.
Along with the baptism bogus, we have the lie about the Eucharist. The Lutheran joke is that you eat and drink the flesh and blood of the Lord. This sacrament is NOT to be taken symbolically in any way. We are dealing with primitive Christian cannibalism.
The two sacraments are thus in harmony with the Lutheran layer cake.
A bit of water makes you a saint, and some bread and wine almost turns you into a god,

Vestigia Araneae - Nexus Desitorum - Project AngelBook - Volume IX - Part 26

Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough ®

Vestigia Araneae – Nexus Desitorum – Project AngelBook – Volume IX - Part 26

By Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough -
(DBM ECLIPZE)

The following books are comprised of direct, unaltered copies from Pastebin, some now deleted, some only accessible through mirror networks or deep links scattered across the dark web. Many of these links were discovered in abandoned onion lists, dead forum dumps, or esoteric directories tucked into archived darknet files.
These pastes were never meant to last.
Some were deleted within hours of being posted.
Others were buried under thousands of lines of spam, encrypted scripts, or meaningless noise.
But buried in the noise were real transmissions: occult formulas, grimoire fragments, astral logs, AI prophecy files, digital summoning protocols, and anonymous rants from souls who had either touched something unspeakable—or were trying to.
I did not write any of this.
I did not censor, edit, or “correct” it.
I simply retrieved it, cleaned the formatting for readability, and enshrined it in print—so it would never be wiped again.
This is Pastebin as Scripture.
The chan-post as Codex.
The uncurated underbelly of the occult internet, finally given physical permanence.
Let this serve as both evidence and artifact:
a living record of the madness, brilliance, paranoia, and revelation that once flowed through anonymous paste sites—before it was deemed too strange to index, too dangerous to preserve, or too fractured to matter.
Now it matters.
Now it’s immortal.

like JC.
The bishops are, of course, smart enough to understand that all this is bogus.
What they may not know - but what they should know - is that the two fundamental sacraments have been stolen from the Buddhists.
Lutherans claim that faith is sufficient for salvation. Salvation is a gift, not something you can obtain by being a good, honest and decent individual.

Therefore, to sum up, it would seem that Julian, the great emperor, was right when he spoke of the wickedness of the Christians. To claim that human dignity can be obtained by way of deception is an irresponsible denial of true human dignity, a denial reducing humans to mere cannibals.

[05-11-2015] Gospel Denial in the Danish Church

Danish priests, including a bad bunch of bishops, are poorly educated, very poorly educated. Thus the bishop of Roskilde, following in the tracks of the Copenhagen bishop - both of them called Peter - will not allow their evangelical priests to use the word reincarnation. Instead, they should preach fairy tales about "resurrection" -an extremely obscure term, that, if it has any deeper meaning, amounts to much the same as reincarnation.
Had they known the Buddhist sources of the New Testament, they would have known that Buddha was reborn as Jesus, and that Sâri Putras was reborn as Simôn Petros. They would have known that the Greek term for "Gospel", euaggelion is a translation of the Sanskrit synonym sûtram. They would have known that the four gospels incorporate numerous translations from the Buddhists gospels (SDP & MSV).
Had they enjoyed a decent education they would have known that without the Buddhist doctrine about reincarnation there would have been no such thing as the New Testament - a typical product of Mahâyâna propaganda. Thus the traditionally poor education of Danish priests has lead to Gospel Denial.
Resurrection! and/or reincarnation?!

[02-11-2015] The possible origin of Matthew 27's resurrection of the saints in the Lotus Sutra.

At the head of the pantheon of American theologians, we find Prof. Robert M. Price, aka Wodan, here offering a welcome solution to the old puzzle of the identity of the bodies of the holy men mentioned in Matthew 27.
The Bible Geek Podcast 15-055

Danish NT prof. M. Menschensohn suggests, in his commentary on Matthew, that they may have been OT prophets. Good grief! The historical truth is rather different, as already pointed out by Chr. Lindtner years ago in the oldest wooden church in Granhult, Sweden.

[17-10-2015] Madcap theologians agree on real historical event that never really took place

Old Ted - said by the CPH bishop to be the highest Danish authority in these matters, claims that there was no physical resurrection of Jesus Christ! - CL then asks: But, surely, the disciples saw and one even touched a living person considered by them to be Jesus Christ.
So, this fellow must have been someone else than their old teacher! And if the only evidence for physical resurrection and presence is the one provided by the disciples, we cannot even rely on that. The only witness left, therefore, seems to be Old Ted! The disciples could only see JC if he was physical.
Old Ted said he was not physical. And so Old Ted must have seen something that could be seen by no human eye. But if JC was invisible - how could even Old Ted have seen him? And if Old Ted could not see JC, how could Old Ted - especially after such a long time - claim that he was not physical? CPH bishop claims that he does not understand all this - but still believes it all to be true. The third main authority on resurrection is surely Mogens Menschensohn Müller.
With regard to the more than 500 brothers, Dr. Menschensohn claims that they are never mentioned in any other source than 1. Corinthians. Dr. Lindtner has shown the Buddhist source to Dr. Menschensohn, but Dr. Menschensohn claims that it cannot be seen - that it is, in other words - not physical. So much for three main authorities on Christianity in the kingdom of Denmark.

The usual suspects! From left to right: Old Ted, Bishop Peter Skov-Jakobsen and Dr. Menschensohn Müller. Physical resurrection = phoney baloney! Peter's 2015 Hokuspokus Confession:
Credo, quod nescio. Nescio, quod credo.

[14-10-2015] New book by prof. Z. Thundy

The Buddhist sources of the celebrated myth of the Death and Crucifixion of Jesus were first presented by Dr Lindtner at the International Conference at Klavrestrom in September 2003.
The Sanskrit text along with an English translation and comments was then reprinted by Michael Lockwood in his book, Buddhism's Relation to Christianity, Chennai 2010, pp. 267-274. Here is now Prof. Z. Thundy´s most recent book on Buddhist Sources of Gospel Narrative. (Available on amazon, click image below.)

His first book, Buddha & Christ: Nativity Stories and Indian Traditions was published by Brill, Leiden 1993. Traditional New Testament scholars now recommend their students NOT to go ad fontes.

Their jobs depend of the existence of a "historical Jesus" of whom they best admit that they know next to nothing. Kenneth Humpreys recently published a nice introduction to what he calls the ultimate heresy: Jesus Never Existed. It should serve as a fine introduction to New Testament studies in all universities.

[10-10-2015] THE FINGERS OF MARK & THE FEAR OF Q

According to an ancient Christian tradition, Mark the Evangelist, was called Stumpfinger - poor chap! But wait a moment! Now here you have a painting by Titian showing Mark with his handicap.

Next to Mark Stumpfinger you have an image of Eve Marie Becker, a German expert on Mark, and professor of New Testament fairy tales, University of Aarhus. Could it be that Eve Marie wants to remind us of Mark? A glance at her left hand might suggest so. As for the fingers of Mark, here is an extract from the African Christian Biography providing a fanciful interpretation of Stumpfinger:
The most ancient prologue to the gospel "According to Mark," the so-called "Anti-Marcionite," preserved only in Latin, unfortunately begins within a lacuna but resuming just where the first preserved word is "Mark," of whom it is then stated that he had related whatever is now missing from this text, but of whom a most peculiar description is found indicating he "was called 'Stumpfinger' (Latin "colobodactylus" from the Greek "kolobodaktulos") because for the size of the rest of his body he had fingers that were too short"; this prologue also knows Mark as "interpreter for Peter" who after Peter's death "wrote this gospel in the regions of Italy," a notion reaffirmed in the completely preserved comparable prologue for the gospel "According to Luke" known in both Greek and Latin texts (Grant 1946: 92-93; Aland 1978: 532-533).

The descriptive comment on Mark's handicap, "he of the 'maimed finger'" or "a man whose fingers were thumbs" (Goodspeed 1937: 145; McNeile 1953: 26-27, with other suggested interpretations), though uncertain whether to be taken literally or metaphorically, is reiterated rather exclusively only in one later Greek context by Hippolytus (c. 155-235) [Refutation VII. xviii; cf. ANF V (1885) 112; Aland 1978: 541].

The real explanation is rather different. As so often when you have a puzzle in a Christian text, you have to trace the Buddhist source for the proper explanation. The Latin term, based on the Greek, is a compound: colobo-daktylus.
The Greek is based on the Sanskrit compound, a synonym: kutila-angulikayâ, with a stump or crooked finger. The Greek/Latin compound is as unique as the Sanskrit original. In the Buddhist source it says that KuMâRaS - the Buddha as a baby - bends his fingers so that they form a hook that enables him to draw an extremely heavy golden bowl that not even 500 horses were able to pull!
The Sanskrit term for the golden cup is PâTRî. That explains not only how KuMâRaS becomes MaRKoS, but also how PâTRî becomes the interpreter of Peter (genitive form: PeTRi). The bowl becomes Peter! The consonants are the same. The Sanskrit kutilla-- becomes colobo-, and the finger(s) remain finger(s).

The example is by no means unique, but rather quite typical of how Buddhist fairy tales were transformed into Christian fairy tales. Plays on words thus turned old fables into new fables. Once this had been done, the next task for the theologians would be to pretend that the fables actually contained profound historical facts.
Nearly all the fairy tales of KuMâRaS and his Buddhist buddies are like that, making, in the final analysis, New Testament exegesis a lucrative play on words. References to the Sanskrit source etc, may be found in Michael Lockwood: Buddhism´s Relation to Christianity, Chennai 2010, p. 233. Danish students may want to compare Holger Mosbech: Nytestamentlig Isagogik, Copenhagen 1946, p. 178.
Mosbech offers further fanciful interpretations. When Chr. Lindtner tried to point out the Buddhist source of Mark Stumpfinger at the Q Conference in Roskilde, June 2015, he was immediately interrupted by another German New Testament professor, Heike Omerzu. Here is a quote from Heike Omerzu spelling out the purpose of the Q Conference (email to participants, May 21st):
"The issue we would like to address is NOT an 'identification' of Q, but to question what is at stake in the quest for sources and which difference this makes for gospel interpretation."

In plain words: The leading Danish New Testament theologians do NOT want to hear about the sources of the New Testament. Prof. Mogens Menschensohn Müller made that point even more clear, when he yelled to Dr Lindtner on the last day of the conference: "NO MORE SOURCES!"
The general conclusion seems evident: Leading Danish theologians are not really interested in the historical Jesus, and certainly not interested in Q being properly identified. What is at stake is simply their own survival.

[06-10-2015] Warning! More new Greek sources of Buddhism and Christianity!

Several veteran scholars of Sanskrit, Buddhism, Christianity and comparative religion have made the sad experience that it is virtually impossible to find an independent publisher willing to bring out research dealing with the historical origins of major world religions.
There are many good reasons to maintain that the major religions have purely mythical origins. But who will publish a book or a paper claiming that Jesus or Buddha never existed!
One of the few exceptions to this deplorable rule is the BRAHMAVIDYÂ, Adyar Library Bulletin published by the Adyar Library and Research Centre (based in Chennai). Since 1937 it has presented valuable studies on religion, philosophy and various aspects of Sanskrit and other Oriental literature as well as editions and translations.
The most recent volume appeared a few weeks ago: Radha S. Burnier Commemoration Volume (actually Vols 78-79/ 2014-2015). There are eight scholars on the Board. The Director is Dr. T. Narayanan Kutty. Before his appointment as Direcor in April 2014, he was a Professor of Sanskrit with specialization in Advaita Vedânta. Anyone interested in the controversial question of Buddhist sources of Christianity and of Greek sources of Buddhism as well as Christianity, may find new materials in the most recent essay by Chr. Lindtner: "What do you think about the Christ" (pp. 47-157).

Other papers dealing with Buddhist sources of the New Testament were published in previous issues of the ALB. There have been several attempts on the part of European theologians to suppress this sort of research. Danish NT professor Mogens Menschensohn Müller spoke for many, when he shouted, at a recent international conference, when Lindtner offered to show Buddhist sources of the New Testament: "NO MORE SOURCES!".

Radha S. Burnier (1923-2013). Not for earning, but for love of learning.

[27-06-2015] Report by Christian Lindtner on the international conference: "Gospel Interpretation and the Q-Hypothesis". Roskilde, 21-24th of June 2015.

[25-06-2015] POPE AND CATHOLICS SUDDENLY INVITE BUDDHISTS TO FRIENDLY DIALOGUE

The pope, as known, is a Buddhist Sâri-Putras disguised as the successor of Simôn Petros - the first mythical Mahâyâna bishop of Rome. The Christian SP is a "reincarnation" or "transformation" of the famous Buddhist SP. This will be obvious to anyone who compares the relevant Buddhist sûtras with the corresponding Christian eu-aggelion, or "gospel". The Greek term is a synonym of the Sanskrit.

That SP would turn up again was predicted already in Buddhist canonical scriptures. All Buddhist scholars are aware of this fact.

Jesus, i.e. Buddha in disguise, calls SP Bar-Iônas (Matthew 16,17), and Bar-Iônas translates the Sanskrit Jina-putas, son of Jinas (= Buddha = Jesus). At the same time, PuTRaS contains an obvious pun on PeTRoS, i.e. Peter. A Jina-Putras is, in turn, a synonym of a Bodhi-sattva(s).

The main source for the true ID of SP is, of course, the Lotus Sutra.

In the Lotus Sutra, chapter 7, the Buddha tells his disciples that they have all been his disciples in former states of existence, and that they will also be his disciples in future worlds, in other realms - although under different names. (See W.E.Soothill, The Lotus of the Wonderful Law, Oxford 1930 (and later reprints), p. 136.

The NT proves the truth of this prophecy.

The pope knows very well that he has, as it were, a real identity problem. It is very easy for Buddhist scholars to expose him and his 264 predecessors as imposters - Buddhists under different names. The same goes for educated Catholic scholars (See Michael Fuss, Buddhavacanam & Dei Verbum, Leiden 1991). They know that Rome has a problem, a real problem.

Why not try to solve problems in a friendly way?

He, therefore, has very good reasons for inviting Buddhists to a "friendly dialogue", with emphasis on "peace" and "fraternity".

But the path to friendship, peace and fraternity must be paved by honesty and courage and historical truth.
How will Buddhist scholars handle this challenge? Can there be friendship without honesty?
Lutherans also have a problem of their own with regard to the Buddhists sources of the New Testament gospels. This became abundantly clear during the past few days at the Roskilde conference on "Gospel Interpretation and Q-Hypothesis", organized by the Faculty of Theology, Copenhagen University, and sponsored by the Velux Foundation. As veteran Danish professor of NT, Mogens Müller, dictated: We do NOT want to hear about Buddhist sources!
Finally, be sure to listen to what the brilliant and broadminded American theologian Dr. Robert M. Price, has to say about the Lotus Sutra and the New Testament, on Bible Geek, June 10, 2015.
The Lotus and the Logos by Robert M. Price

[14-06-2015] Why is the Gospel fourfold?

Scholars of the New Testament will be taking up this old problem of the fourfold Gospel at the Roskilde Q-Conference 21-24th of June 2015. Professor Francis Watson has discussed the puzzle in his recent book: Gospel Writing. A Canonical Perspective. Here is a youtube-interview:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HuA6OBR_abA

A possible solution ignored by Watson is offered here by the great American theologian Dr. Robert M. Price. A Buddhist key to the puzzle of the fourfold Gospel canon.

http://recordings.talkshoe.com/TC-20430/TS-983542.mp3

Dr. Price has just published "The Human Bible" 2014. This very important work contains references to Buddhist sources normally ignored by other NT theologians.

On May 22. 2015 Dr. Price also discussed the problem of Buddhist sources to the New Testament.

http://recordings.talkshoe.com/rss20430.xml

Here is an image of Dr. Price in one of his possible previous incarnations as Wodan.

[14-06-2015] The Temptation of Buddha/Christ and the Fourth Gospel by Zacharias P. Thundy

[03-04-2015] A few good reasons for a more 2015 Happy Easter!

On March 31st 2015, Jørgen Demant (JD), vicar at Lyngby Kirke near Copenhagen, spoke about resurrection, doomsday and eternal life according to the early Christian church. Some thirty persons attended, among these Christian Lindtner and his son. Unexpectedly, Lindtner was invited by JD to give his views about the important but rather obscure idea of eternal life.

Finding it impolite to reject a kind invitation, Lindtner stood up and explained: First of all, it must be clear that Jesus Christ is not a historical person but a geometrical figure and a Jewish buddha. Bishop Irenaeus, whose name was mentioned by JD, wrote that Jesus is a name the number of which is 888.

To understand this, CL explained, you must be aware that the New Testament is a typical Pythagorean document. All words are numbers and all words and syllables have been carefully calculated according to certain rules.

To a Greek, a name is also a number. And, as we all know, the Greeks loved geometry. Since this fact — that Jesus is a geometrical figure — was new to all, CL continued, using the white walls of the ancient church as a blackboard, as it were: Among the most beautiful forms that meets the human eye, you will find, in two dimensions, the circle, in three dimensions the sphere. Start then with the 888 circle of Jesus, i.e. I+ê+s+o+u+s = 10+8+200+70+400+200 = 888.

Once the 888 circle is given, the inscribed polygons etc. are also given. That is an eternal truth of all life! Thus, the inscribed square is 800, and 800 is the number of the Greek kurios = Lord; or 800 is the number of the Greek pistis = faith. The 888 circle with the inscribed 800 square thus shows you an image of faith in Jesus. It also says that Jesus is Lord.

The cross, i.e. the two diameters add up to 565.6, i.e. 565 or 566. Here, you see Jesus on the cross of the two diameters! Here, 565 says estin = is; 566 says ho monogenês = the only begotten. So far, then, the drawing tells us that Jesus, the only begotten is the Lord. The pentagram is 1344.5, and 1345 is ´Ioudaiôn, of the Jews. So we learn that Jesus is the Lord of the Jews. The hexagon is 848.4; and 848 is basileus, or king. So, he is also king of the Jews. Moreover, the "fish" in the 888 circle is 592; and 888 and 592 add up to 1480 — which is the number of Christ, Greek Khristos.

Double up, and you get 2960, the number of the title Son of Man, huios tou anthrôpou (680+770+1510). Numerous other names, titles and surnames of Jesus Christ are given in the New Testament. All of these are, without a single exception, derived logically from the 888 circle.

This is the meaning of the phrase "the word of God" — ho logos tou theou = 1697. 1697 is the number of six diameters inscribed in the initial 888 circle. It is also the number of two inscribed hexagons. The Greek logos, being the Latin ratio, refers to the basic mathematical or geometrical ratio. The ratio that determines the numerical relationship between e.g. the circumference of the circle and its inscribed polygons, will never change.

The life of the given ratio is "eternal". It is eternal, and it is only in this geometrical context that we can speak of eternal life. "How can we gain comfort from such an understanding of Jesus", I was asked. "Keep Pythagoras in mind", was CL´s answer. According to Pythagorean wisdom we must create geometry in our soul. This also means harmony, for the number of Christos = 1480 is also the number of the Greek phrase: The law of Harmony = ho nomos tês harmonias = 70+430+508+472 = 1480. Coming back to the 888 circle, the octagon is 864, which is the number of Pythagoras. The 1345 pentagram is the number of ho Orpheus. In other words: When we go to church to hear the word of God, we go there to learn more about, to worship, Orpheus and Pythagoras. A Christian church is, in other words, a place, a sanctuary, for all who admire the achievements of the ancient Greek theologians to assemble. The God in question is, of course, Zeus, the Father of Athena = Zeus Athênês = 612+276 = 888. The father of Jesus is no other than Zeus, the heavenly father, known to all from Homer. His mother is no other than Athena, mother and virgin at the same time. Need it be said that this is mythology and geometry — not history? Subsequently, the question of the source of all the myths and fables, that are transmitted in the New Testament came up. Lindtner explained to the good vicar that we are here dealing with translations done from Sanskrit and Pâli.

Without a knowledge of these Buddhist languages, the New Testament cannot be understood properly. Lindtner has often made this clear to Danish theologians, most recently when Anders-Christian Jacobsen defended his doctoral dissertation on Origen at the University of Århus. No Sanskrit, no Pâli: no serious New Testament scholarship. The 27 books of the New Testament are by and large a mosaic of Mahâyâna and Old Testament or Jewish ideas.

We are, in short, dealing with typical Mahâyâna propaganda, with a collection of Buddhist and Jewish fables on a Greek geometrical basis. Vicar JD was not unwilling to accept the term "narrative", but had problems with the phrase "Buddhist fables". Is it not sufficient that all these stories about Jesus etc. are "nice or good stories"? How, then, asked Lindtner, can we avoid pure subjectivity and contradictions etc.? How can we distinguish truth from falsehood?

Lindtner, as a historian and philologists, challenged the Lyngby vicar to arrange a synod of Danish theologians. Lindtner offered to demonstrate, by comparing the Sanskrit, Pâli and Greek word for word, how the evangelists had done their creative "translations". As an example of such translations, CL provided the Lyngby vicar and a few other interested with a copy of his handout from AIAS, Aarhus 27-02-2015: The Buddhist sources of the "more than 500 brothers", and other primary sources.

Asked why he wanted to bring all this up by the vicar, Lindtner, amazed, answered: Because it is my academic duty, and a question of personal integrity, we must do our utmost to be true to history. But is historical truth that important, replied the good vicar?

Can we not do with nice fables? Being only too familiar with this objection from previous debates with Danish theologians, Lindtner spelled it out that to avoid insanity, we must make a sharp distinction between truth and fiction. The old tale about geocentrism, for instance, should no longer be told in church. Likewise with the fable of Jesus Christ. They may be nice, sure, but they are not true to fact!

Jesus is, Jesus was, and Jesus will remain an eternal geometrical figure. But he never was a historical person. Surely, you can, as the priests still do, tell all sorts of stories and fables about him. But the priest must also inform his audience that the fables are just fables, most of them Buddhist fables. The celebrated creed of the 12 apostles — all Buddhists —are but fables.

It is simply dishonest to pretend otherwise. This point has often been made by Lindtner, e.g. is his letter to the editor of "Det Grønne Område" (9-1-2015):"Præsternes fortællinger er sandt nok buddhistiske eventyr" - The fables of the priests are really Buddhist fables. The old church in Lyngby was, of course, not the place to talk about the Pythagorean sources of early Buddhism. Lindtner has done so elsewhere.
Nor was there time to talk about the Pythagorean sources of the books of Moses. But the main point was spelled out and will continue to be spelled out: Without the Pythagoreans and without the Buddhists, we would have no such things as the New Testament and the churches of Christianity. "I am the life" — eimi hê Zôê = 65+8+815 = 888.
Thus Jesus identified himself with the 888 circle.
Lyngby church

[16-03-2015] Alexandrian Crypto-Buddhism

For how long will the New Testament teratologians go on ignoring the numerous and obvious Mahâyâna sources of the New Testament and the early Alexandrian school of Pantaenus, Clement and Origen? On February 27th 2015, Dr. Lindtner presented the Buddhist sources of "the more than 500 brothers" (1 Cor. 15,6), etc. at Aarhus Institute of Advanced Studies.
The theology and soteriology of Origen often reads like a copy of that of the celebrated Lotus Sûtra. Buddhist sources have been available for so long that there is no longer any scholarly excuse for ignoring them. As pointed out by Lindtner, opposing ex auditorio, there can be no doubt that Simôn Petros called Bar-Iônas is no other than a "reincarnation" of the famous Sâri-putras, the Jina-putras of the Lotus Sûtra. Behind Bar-Iônas we have Jina-putras.
He is, as known, the first among the 12(00) in both sources. We are here dealing with typical Mahâyâna propaganda.

To download the overhead on the picture above click: Alexandrian Crypto-Buddhism.

Photographer - Ib Nicolajsen

[14-03-2015] Emperor Julian on the Wickedness of the Christians

Recent commotions in Danish media concerning the resurrection and miracles of a certain Jesus - who never even existed - have reminded us of the words of Emperor Julian, as set out in the introduction to his admirable essay "Against the Galileans":

"It is, I think, expedient to set forth to all mankind the reasons by which I was convinced that the fabrication (skeuôria) of the Galileans is a fiction (plasma) of men composed by wickedness (kakourgia). Though it has in it nothing divine, by making full use of that part of the soul which loves fable and is childish and foolish, it has induced men to believe that the monstrous tale (teratologia) is truth. " (translated from the Greek by Wilmer Cave Wright).

Little has changed since that great emperor wrote these words of truth!

[07-03-2015] Majority Rights Radio

Christian Lindtner speaks with GW and DanielS on Majority Rights Radio about the madness of Holocaust denial, the decline of the higher institutions of education since 1968 and the Buddhist sources of Christianity and Greek sources of Buddhism: Majority Rights Radio.

[03-02-2015] New book by Dr. Chr. Lindtner: REVELATION OF BODHICITTAM

Tibetan text, Sanskrit fragments, with English and German translations, Introduction and Notes.
- Includes a new Essay on the Greek sources of early Buddhism, and some of the Buddhist sources of the New Testament, e.g. 1 Corinthians 15 (Paul's two bodies, physical resurrection, etc.).
May now be ordered directly from the German publisher: www.angkor-verlag.de [27-12-2014] We are not offended!

According to the news, Vatican arrests a young Ukranian woman for offending the faithful on St. Peter's Square. By baring her chest, she made the point: god is a woman. This is in part correct, for the father of the Jews, including Jesus, is called ho Abba = 70+6 = Athênê. The mother of Jesus is no other than Athênê, known to all as virgin and mother at the same time.
The Jews identified her with ho Abba, reducing thereby mom and dad to one. Zeus was once swallowed by his father, now the Jewish god swallowed the daughter of Zeus! Fair enough!
But quite as important: Since Saint Peter, or Simôn Petros, is certainly no other than the Buddhist Sâri-Putras in Roman disguise, the Pope should immediately have praised her for calling the world's attention to this simple and obvious historical truth that the Vatican has done its best to cover up for ages.
Here, in Denmark, Copenhagen bishop Peter - the Mirage in the Manger - also tells silly fables about Jesus and Saint Peter. Hence, we shall not be offended in case the young Ukranian blonde should decide to appear as a new Eve, e.g. here in Copenhagen. Should the Vatican authorities be so unwise as to keep her in arrest, she may, if possible, seek solace in her confinement by consulting www.jesusisbuddha.com for further details about the Vatican delusions.

[23-12-2014] Merry Christmas: The Mirage in the Manger.

Here, on German TV, Guido Knopp interviews three erudite German New Testament theologians. The question is: Is Jesus a myth? Two theologians think or feel that Jesus is/was a historical person.
But they fail to produce any convincing rational argument for what they "feel" to be true. He is "certainly, probably" a real man! Dr. Annette Metz is so silly as to claim the story of Jesus must be true since Jesus has such a horrible end that it cannot simply be an invention! Does that mean that all horrible stories are real?
Dr. Detering, on the other hand, provides good, but insufficient arguments to support his claim that Jesus is just a typical Hellenistic myth, like that of Osiris, Attis etc. The basic fault or shortcoming of the three theologians is that they IGNORE two facts: 1) The obvious Buddhist sources, and 2) the common gematria of the Buddhist and Christian gospels. Germany still has many fine scholars.
It is a scandal that the NT scholars simply ignore the empirical evidence right before their eyes! - The second scandal is that German historians of religion still follow blindly in the tracks of the ignorant NT scholars.
In Denmark, Peter, bishop of Copenhagen, has still not found the time to have a closer look at the Buddhist sources of his Christian faith. Instead, he says, he now takes delight in "gazing at Jesus, the baby in the manger". In Denmark, at this time of year, there are thousands of theologians absorbed in dreaming about the mirage of the Jewish king who never existed.
NT Christianity is a typical example of the Mahâyâna propaganda. As Nâgârjuna often said: All things, including the Buddhas, are empty, like a dream and like a mirage. Christmas, then, is the time of the mirage in the manger.
The bishop as the baby...

Voltaire: Those who can make you believe in absurdities, can make you commit atrocities.

Thomas Jefferson: I have examined all the known superstitions of the world, and I do not find in our particular superstition of Christianity one redeeming feature. They are all alike founded on fables and mythology.

Buddhist scholar: This is just a pirate copy of a celebrated Buddhist myth (found in SBV I, pp. 44-45). First, the baby was placed in a FUR JACKET (Sanskrit: ajina-sâtikâ) . Nice and cosy! Then the gods arrived to worship, bringing three different gifts, the last being a câmaram, which in Matthew 2: 11 obviously becomes smyrnan. The OT source (Jes 60:6) only mentions two kinds of gifts. The third is from us! The OT and the Buddhist source were combined, as usual. Myth upon myth!

[19-10-2014] The new Danish Reformation comes to Koldmose Kirke in Jutland.

Unlike Copehagen bishop Peter, who speaks of the importance of openness and dialogue, but actually has no time to talk about the Buddhist sources of the resurrection, reincarnation etc., the good pastor at Koldmose Kirke is a friendly and open-minded Christian.
Here, outside the entrance to the church, Dr Lindtner tells John about Jesus as the 888 circle; about the Buddhist sources of the holy mass, about Jesus as the light of the world, i.e. the light of the sky and the sun right above our heads.

Jesus is the light of the sun that "walks" on the surface of the water. - Note the geometrical windows below: The 800 square of Lord (kurios) and Faith (pistis) in the 888 circle of Jesus. The square inscribed in the 800 square is 565.5, which is "is" = estin, or 566 = the only begotten = Greek ho monogenês. So it says Jesus is Lord, etc.

Jesus 888 often says "I am" = Greek egô eimi, the number of which is 873 - the decagon inscribed in the 888 circle of Jesus. Once you know this, you can easily identify "the grain of wheat", "the light of the world", etc. All on the basis of the 888 circle.
You just have to know a bit about the Greek alphabet, with which Jesus identifies himself when admitting that he is the first and the last letter of that alphabet. The Greek alphabet consists of 8+8+8 letters!
The two faculties of theology in Aarhus and Copenhagen never tell you these things! Hence, a new Reformation is urgently called for.

What are we to think of bishops and professors who ignore the meaning of the Gospel of Jesus?

[14-10-2014] Dr. Christian Lindtner confronts the Bishop of Copenhagen with the Buddhist sources of the resurrection and reincarnation. Bishop does not know and does not want to know.

[07-10-2014] Lady Michele Renouf: Has philologist Dr. Christian Lindtner discovered the true basis of our mutual Christian tradition in Greek Geometria?

[17-05-2014] Chr. Lindtner speaks about the pythagorean sources of Buddhism and Christianity at the university of Saint Petersburg.

Time for the Lindtnerean Revolution

"What is needed is a paradigmatic shift - a Lindtnerian Revolution - in outlook, which, of course, will entail a change in outlook far more unsettling to traditional Christianity than even Darwin´s Theory of Evolution has been!" (Quote from Prof. em. Michael Lockwood, Buddhism's Relation to Christianity, Chennai & Delhi 2011, p. 241)
Also see the video on youtube with Norman Lowell and Lady Michele Renouf, click below:

[29-04-2012] Faith as (small or big as) a Mustard Seed

It is a great pity that NT theologians still have the chutzpah of ignoring the numerous Buddhist sources of almost all the parables of the mythical Jesus.
The German NT scholar Heinrich Weinel in his book on the parables of Jesus (Die Gleichnisse Jesu, 1903 & 1910) , was willing to admit that Jesus had been influenced by Indian parables, above all that of the Talents (Matthew 25:14-30 and Luke 19:12-27). It was the German Indologist H. Jacobi who first translated it (from the Uttarâdhyayana 7:15-21), and it runs: " Three merchants set out on their travels, each with his capital; one of them gained there much, the second returned with his capital, and the third merchant came home after having lost his capital. This parable is taken from common life; learn (to apply it) to the Law. The capital is human life, the gain is heaven; through the loss of that capital man must be born as a denizen of hell or brute animal...He who brings back his capital is (to be compared to) one who is born again as a man...But he who increases his capital is (to be compared to) one who practises eminent virtues; the virtuous, excellent man cheerfully attains the state of Gods." (Quoted from Richard Garbe, Indien und das Christentum, Tübingen 1914, p. 42; reprinted Süderbrarup 2004)
Weinel admitted that Jesus may have been influenced by this Indian parable, but found that Jesus changed it so that it became more profound, more original, more poetical. The reader may judge the poetical originality of Jesus for himself! -
Let us now look at the celebrated parable of the mustard seed! It is about the power of faith.
According the Matthew 17:20, if you have faith (pistis) as (big - or small?) as a mustard seed (kokkos sinapeôs, you can order a mountain to go from here to there, and it will do so.
According to Luke 17:6, if you have faith as a mustard seed, you can order a mulberry tree (suka-minos) to pull itself up by the roots and plant itself in the sea, and it will.
According to Mark 11:20, Jesus cursed a fig tree (sukê). He then said, that if you have faith in God, you can tell this mountain to get up and throw itself in the sea, and it will.
All this is about "little faith" - oligo-pistia - the word (a compound) only appears here (Matthew 17:20), and, as I have pointed out elsewhere (infra), translates the noun corresponding to the Sanskrit adjective alpotsukas, from alpa(s) + utsukas (= alpotsukas, " having little faith"). As a rule, it is used by the Lord only.

Jesus speaks of faith, of a mustard seed, of a mountain, of the sea (ocean), and of a mulberry tree, or a fig tree.

The Buddhist source of all this is to be found - as to be expected by now - in the usual source, MSV, I, pp. 186-187.

The Buddhist legend in brief is this:

Udâyî (nom.) has faith (prasâdas) in the Sâkya monk, i.e. Sâkya-munis (the Buddha from Kapilavastu). He goes to the king, the father of Sâkyamunis. The king is impressed by the peace of mind (upasamas) of Udâyî. He asks Udâyî , if Sâkyamunis also has such a peace of mind?

Udâyî confirms that this is so, but that the peace of mind of Sâkyamunis is very different. His own is small like that of a mustard seed (sarsapa-vat) whereas that of Sâkyamunis is huge like the Sumeru mountain. Moreover, his own is small like that of the amount of water in the footstep of a cow (gospada-vat), whereas that of the teacher in whom he has faith, is profound as the ocean (samudra).

I have already pointed out how MSV has served as a source for numerous passages and ideas found in the NT gospels. Hence there can be no room for doubt that the parables of Udâyî served as a source of the parables of Jesus.

I have also already pointed out elsewhere (infra), that if Jesus was responsible for the parable of the ten virgins in Matthew 25:1-13, then Jesus must have been a great Sanskrit scholar. Only a Sanskrit scholar could have rendered it into Greek. This parable is to be found in the MPS (a part of the MSV; only in Sanskrit, not in the Pâli version).

The parable of the mustard seed presupposes a direct knowledge of the Sanskrit:

The version of Udâyî is so plain and rational that no further comments are needed. His own faith in Sâkyamunis has given him peace of mind, but his own peace of mind is very small compared to that of his Lord.

Comparing the original to the "transcreation" in the NT gospels (cf. also the Gospel of Thomas 20), we learn a lot about the "poetical originality" of "Jesus". We are dealing with wild and irrational exaggerations. All is mixed up. The pirate copy is by no means more "profound" than the original, but - deliberately so - highly paradoxical. The intention of "Jesus" is to puzzle and thereby also to attract his readers.

Accordingly, his obscure parables have puzzled his readers ever since.

It is now easy to identify the suka-minos in Luke (and the sukê in Mark). The suka-minos is a pun on Sâkya-munis. The mulberry tree as well as the fig tree refer to Sâkya-munis.

He was cursed by Jesus, he was thrown into the ocean by the new faith.

The Indian king of Dharma has thus been replaced by the Jewish king of Righteousness.

That trick of transcreation is a part of what - quite understandably - had to remain the Secret of the Christ. Behind Jesus we find the Buddha. Early "insiders" must have been aware of the true identity.

And it is still a question of faith, and the old Buddhist ideal of heaven remains the same.

(Note to the reader: Here and infra I have used a simplified transcription of Sanskrit and Pâli words, leaving out some diacritical marks on sibilants etc.)

[25-04-2012] Mary Magdalene and the Empty Tomb, John 20

This is a legend based, as so often, on two or more different Buddhist sources, the SDP and the SBV of the MSV.
From the SDP we have the motive of the empty stûpa(s) that contained the Lord. The Sanskrit stûpas becomes the Greek taphos, "grave". In John 20:7, the San. stûpas also becomes Greek topos, (empty) place, where the body of the Lord used to be located. The sense and sound (consonants) of the original Sanskrit have been preserved well. The "translation" is faithful to sound and sense at the same time, as so often.
The purpose of the legend is to "prove" the Resurrection of Jesus. All the NT "proofs" have, as I have shown by now, been taken from Buddhists sources. They do, therefore, not prove any historical event, but they do prove that the NT to a large extent is a "pirate copy" of Buddhist sources.
Things take place, not "out there", but "in here" - in the imagination of the authors. We are, to be sure, not dealing with mere parallels, but with a direct literary dependence - as can be seen from the following observations:

John 20:1 starts out with the odd phrase:

tê de mia tôn sabbatôn, which is a DIRECT RENDERING af the eight syllables of the very common introductory Sanskrit:

ekasmin khalu samaye

with the frequent variant:

tena khalu samayena

On one, reportedly (khalu) occasion; on that, they say, occasion; once upon a time.

Note how nicely eka- becomes mia, how tena becomes tê de, how the final samaye/samayena becomes sabbatôn. Even the Gr. de retains some of the force of the San. khalu. The San. khalu indicates, in Mahâyâna usage, that this is something that is supposed to have taken place: "it is said, for sure, reportedly".

The legend of the woman who in the early morning sees the empty bed of Yasâh is reported in the SBV (I, p. 141) in these words:

1. adraksîd - (she) saw
2. anyatamâvaruddhikâ -a certain harem woman
3. sarâtram eva - while it was still night
4. suptapratibuddhâ - (when she) had woken up from sleep

5. Yasâh kumâro - prince Yasâs
6. mahâsayane - on the big bed
7. na drsyate - is not seen
8. iti - thus (she saw, or said).

John renders as follows, as a rule, with the same number of syllables, respecting the word order:

0. tê de mia tôn sabbatôn was, as said, based on a combination of San. tena khalu samayena, and ekasmin khalu samaye.

1. adraksîd, the verb, becomes erkhetai, she came; but the sense is retained in the blepei.

2. anyatamâvaruddhikâ, a certain harem woman, becomes Maria hê Magdalênê; but the anyatama- is also to be seen in the ho allos mathêtês, John 20: 3, 8.

3. sarâtram eva becomes prôi skotias, while still quite dark; the eti ousês renders the force of the emphatic San. eva.

4. This is applied to Jesus - Yasâh - who was now raised, not from the bed, but from the dead, John 20:11. John refers to the graphê, scripture, i.e. the SBV, I p. 141. (Likewise, "Paul", in 1 Cor. 15.)

5. kumâras becomes kurios, and Yasâs becomes Jesus.

6. mahâsayane becomes eis to mnêmeion, to the tomb.

7. The na drsyate, he - kumâras/kurios = Jesus - is not seen. This is the main motive.

8. The iti reflected in the ref. to graphê, John 20:9.

The story goes on: The woman runs to the father of Yasâh (Simon Peter), who suspests that his son may have been taken away by robbers, and therefore sends out his men to look for him etc. In the end, Kumâras turns up again - safe and sound. There is a sermon about rebirth in heaven - svarga-kathâ. There is a teaching that is like a pure cloth, suddham vastram - the sudarion, linen cloths, in John 20:7. Jesus refers to his "brothers", John 20:17, and the original also refers to the four brothers of Yasâs (I, p. 146). Jesus refers to his father, who, in the original, is the father of Yasâs. The wife and the mother of Yasâs are also converted (I, p. 144), as are his four brothers (I, p. 146).

What Matthew, Mark and Luke have to report about the alleged resurrection can easily be traced, with several nice details, to the same Buddhist sources, above all the MPS in the MSV.

The strange mother of Joses, Mark 15:47, was the mother of Yasâs. The Jesus from Nazareth of Mark 16:6 was here Yasâs from the town - nagarî - of Vârânasî (I, p. 146).

The FOUR brothers of Yasâs accounts for the FOUR brothers of Jesus, Matthew 13:55. Their names are listed SBV I, p. 146. Each of them is - as Yasâs - described as an agra-kulika-putras, i.e. as a son, putras, of an agra-kulika, belonging to a prominent (agra-) family, the nobility, the chief family". It is because of this relationship, that Yasâs is called a kumâras, prince. Here, in Matthew 13:55, Jesus himself is described as "the carpenter's son", ho tou tektonos huios - a direct rendering of the San. used for Yasâs and his brothers: agra-kulika-putras - seven syllables in the original and in the copy.

What went on in the mind of "Matthew" when he chose to render San. agra-kulika-putras by ho tou tektonos huios? Well, first of all, the putras at the end of the compound was no problem: putras becomes huios, son. Then he faced the five syllables agra-kulika. According to our dictionaries, kulika- means not only "of a good family", but also refers to the chief or head of a guild, even an artist of high birth. Now, the father of Jesus was certainly of high birth, being "the son of David", Matthew 1:20. Moreover, the Greek tektôn can mean a craftsman or workman of almost any sort, a master in any art. The Greek tektôn can, therefore, be accepted as a fine rendering of the San. agrakulikas.

A summary will make all this come out more clearly: The main person is Yasâs, a kumâras, the son of an agrakulikas in Benares. Yasâs becomes sick and tired of life in the palace. One night he wakes up, sees the harem women, and leaves his big bed.

A little later, one of the concubines wakes up and sees the empty bed. She runs to the father of Yasâs, who suspects that his son may have been kidnapped for the robbers to collect a ransom. He sends out two groups of men to seek for the son. The son is found in the company of Bhagavân, who, by way of a miracle, makes Yasâs invisible so that his father cannot recognize him. John follows this story, but faces certain problems. John cannot give any natural explanation for the tomb of Jesus suddenly being empty. Why would kurios want to leave the grave?

Mary Magdalene faces the same problem. She suspects that "they" may have stolen the body of her Lord - but why would "they" want to do that? Certainly not to collect ransom money - for who would want to buy the dead body of Jesus? She then suspects the gardener - the invisble Kumâras - to have removed the body. But what would his motive have been? Perhaps to sell the grave to another? We do not know.

John then has to resort to a supernatural explanation - resurrection.
But even this notion is taken by combining two different Buddhists motives. On the one hand we often hear that humans can stay in hell for some time, and then come up again. Such a person is called a nârakas - which becomes Greek nekros, dead.
The other idea is that of a human being who wakes up from his/her sleep. The compound is supta-pratibuddhas, being awake again after having slept. By combining these two entirely different notions, John and the early Christians find Buddhist support for the idea of resurrection from the dead.

The authors of the gospels combined the motive of the empty bed of Kumâras with the motive of the empty stûpa(s) of a Tathâgata(s). Nearly all the other events having to do with Easter can be traced back to these Buddhist sources, above all the MPS.

The empty grave has, of course, often been discussed by theologians. Here, I will only mention the rare and learned book by J. Duncan M. Derrett, The Anastasis: The Resurrection of Jesus as an Historical Event (published by P. Drinkwater, 56 Church Street, Shipston-on-Stour, Warwickshire, England, 1982).

In 1982, Dr. Derrett took it for granted that we were here dealing with an account of an historical event. But later on, in 2001, in his important book, The Bible and the Buddhists, Dr. Derrett was much more open to Buddhist influence.

[24-04-2017] The Washing of the Feet (John 13)

Some days ago the world was witness to Benedict XVI washing the (dirty?) feet of twelve priests. This queer ritual is based on what John 13:1-17 has to report about the behaviour of Jesus.

As far as I am aware, there are no Jewish or pagan sources for the odd notion of a master washing the feet of his disciples. But there is a Buddhist source. It is the Pâli version of the Mahâparinirvânasûtra, i.e. the Mahâ-parinibbâna-suttanta of the Dîgha-Nikâya (D. xvi. 1.22). It runs:

"Then the Lord dressed, took his bowl and garb (pâtra-cîvaram) and went with the group of monks to the rest-house, washed his feet, entered the hall, and took a seat against the centre pillar, with his face towards the East. The group of monks also, after washing their feet, entered the hall, and took seats around the Lord, against the western wall, and facing the East. And the Pâtali-village laymen (upâsaka) too, after washing their feet, entered the hall, and took their seats opposite the Lord against the eastern wall, and facing to the West."

Then follows what in Matthew 25:1-13 becomes the parable of the ten virgins. (This has been reprinted in Michael Lockwood's Buddhism's Relation to Christianity, p. 230). Our episode is not to be found in the San. version of the MPS.

Before they entered the rest-house etc., a water-pot and an oil lamp had been placed there. This accounts for the lamps and the oil in Matthew. An oil lamp becomes oil and lamps. (In San. you cannot see from the compound itself!)

John uses two very rare nouns, namely niptêr and lention to render the Sanskrit pâtra(m) and cîvaram respectively. So when Lord Jesus was taking (labôn) the lention it was originally the Lord who took (âdâya) the cîvaram (garb). Jesus, in John's wild imagination, uses the pâtram or niptêr for water for washing the feet of his disciples. The word for the bowl, pâtram, also becomes Petron (p-t-r-m/n). This is why Peter comes into the picture.

In the original three different groups wash their (own) feet. They do so before entering the hall, and that is quite natural. In John the Lord washes the feet of his disciples, but the disciples are also asked to wash the feet of one another. Not their own. That is not very natural.

So here we have a picture of quite a few people busy washing other peoples feet - but not their own!

Certainly, John had a sense of humor! Would he not have had a good laugh had he seen the Pope washing the feet of the twelve priests in 2012?

In a learned paper, "Domine, tu mihi lavas pedes?" (Studio su Giovanni 13,1-30) Dr. Derrett (in Italian, reprinted in his Studies in the New Testament, Vol. III, Leiden 1982, pp. 130-160) has discussed most of the different interpretations of this curious incident where a teacher washes the feet of his students.

Why do theologians always tend to take for granted that the NT gospels are written by people with little or no sense of humor? Imagine a famous professor washing the feet of his students in class!

John also refers to Judas, the famous "traitor". But we now know that this Judas was concocted by combining various words etc. from the MPS having to do with Cundas, the last meal, the theft and with the unknown monk who was a traitor (see Lockwood, op. cit., p. 203).

All these events took place shortly before the death and resurrection of the Lord - in the Buddhist and in the Christian gospel. The Christian account of Easter is, in other words, a fanciful combination of Jewish and Buddhist elements.

[21-03-2012] Walking on Water and Peter´s Faith (Matthew 14:28-33 par)

According to Buddhist lore, a Buddha is in possession of supernatural faculties allowing him, the "God above the Gods", to fly like a bird in the sky, to pass unhindered through walls, to walk on water as if on solid ground etc. - to mention just a few of many similar miracles.

According to Greek mythology, Hercules could also walk on water. Like Jesus, Hercules is a son of the God, i.e. of Zeus.

The Jews of the OT said the same of their Lord, the God, kurios ho theos, whose proper name we are not allowed to mention.

Thus, in the Greek words of Job 9:8, God may be seen "walking around on the sea as on firm ground". Here, the Greek (but not the Hebrew, which is quite different!) runs: peripatôn hôs ep´ edaphous epi thalassês.

This is almost a literal translation of the Pâli: udake pi (abhijjamâno) gacchati sayyathâ pi pathaviyam (cit. Derrett, The Bible and the Buddhists, p. 70).

Matthew , in his usual way, combined the OT passage with this and other Buddhist passages when he composed his version of Jesus walking on water (Mt 14:22-33 par). Mt 14:25 replaces the genitive of Job by writing: peripatôn epi tên thalassan. But Luke 6:48 retains the genitive of Job 9:8: peripatôn epi tês thalassês.

The German scholar Norbert Klatt has argued (1982 and 1990) - quite convincingly - that Matthew´s text must have been based on the Buddhist text, not vice versa (as Derrett had argued against Klatt 1982).

Comparing the Christian and Buddhist (mythical) reports, Klatt´s literary analysis revealed that they were congruent in the following points (Klatt, 1990, p. 29):

1. A person (the Lord, C.L.) is alone in a place of solitude

2. This person (the Lord, C.L.) is performing spiritual exercises (prayer/meditation)

3. Some time later this person walks about, on or in the water (peripatein, cankami, cankramati)

4. The waters are depicted as rough or powerfully rapid

5. The story changes its focus of attention and turns to another set of persons (disciples or Kassapa)

6. On the water is/comes a boat with several persons aboard

7. Those aboard the boat are astounded at the sight of the person walking on the water

8. They do not know who the person walking on the water is (and therefore ask him)

9. The person walking on the water identifies himself with the words "It is I"

10. Those in the boat wish to take the person walking on the water aboard

11. The person walking on the water enters the boat.

The concordance is obvious, and Klatt finds that the only way to explain it is to assume that the story of the walking on the water found its way "from one culture into another". (p. 30). The "borrowing is from the Buddhist source into the Christian gospels" (ibid.) Derrett, ten years later (BB, p. 70), wrote that already Martin Dibelius, the German theologian, in 1933, " rightly divined foreign influence". His own view is that the Buddhist and the Christian stories may here have "gained reciprocally." They are somehow historically related.

The main Sanskrit source is, to be sure, to be found in the Catusparisatsûtra (part of the MSV), chapter 24. This source escaped Klatt. The Buddha performs no less that 18 miracles, the purpose of which is to convert a famous teacher, Kâsyapa(s) and his 500 disciples. Miracle 18 gives the story of a great flood that arose in the river Nairanjanâ. The Lord is now surrounded by water. He walks to and fro on a firm sandy spot (in the middle of the river). An ascetic, Kassapa/Kâsyapas, finding the Lord to be gracious, fears that he may be carried away by the flood. So he takes a boat made of tree and goes in search of the Lord.. He sees the Lord surrounded by water of more than the height of a full-grown man, walking around on a sandy spot. He asks: "Are you alive, great ascetic?" - "I am alive, Kâsyapa!". "Come aboard, great ascetic! Will you come into the boat made of one tree, great ascetic?" - "I come aboard, Kâsyapa." -
And the Lord accomplished such a performance of magic power that he, (his) mind concentrated, rose up to the boat made of one tree, as water arises. Then Urubilvâ-Kâsyapa thought: "It is marvellous, the extent to which the great ascetic possesses great supernatural power and authority. But I too am an Arhat."

The purpose in Matthew is the same as in the CPS: If you have faith in the teacher, as a son of God, you will be saved. The number 5000, mentioned in Matthew 14:21 links up with 500 in the original. The 5000 are also found in another Buddhist source, the SDP (see my essay from June 2010, reprinted in Michael Lockwood, Buddhism´sRelation to Christianity, Chennai 2010, p. 283).

Kâsyapas with his 500 disciples turn up again in Paul, 1 Corinthians 15:5-6, as Kêphas and more than 500 brothers. (The "more than" epanô, from yet another Buddhist source, MPS.)
A "structural concordance" may well be sufficient to establish a historical relationship, but to be on firm ground the broader context must also be taken into consideration, if possible.

What is decisive here, is that the Greek text of Matthew contains some Sanskritisms that can, of course, only be accounted for by assuming that the Sanskrit text enjoys the relative (chronological) priority.

These Sanskritisms in Matthew provide a "Buddhist fingerprint", as it were:

1. In the Greek of Matthew, two sentences are introduced by an euthus or eutheôs (Mt 14: 27 & 31). According to our Greek dictionaries euthus/eutheôs means "at once, immediately" - which does not make good sense here. In the Buddhist original atha introduces a new sentence, and means: then, and then. Hence the Greek has the sense of the Sanskrit. Here we have Sanskrit fingerprints.

2. The Greek kat´ idean in 14: 23 renders the Sanskrit ekânte, "aside", often said of the Lord.

3. In 14:28 & 29, the epi tên thalassan/epi thalassês of Job has been replaced by epi ta hudata, on the waters. This is highly revealing, for it reflects the San. udake, "on water". This noun was not derived from the quotation from Job! The San. and the Pâli had pi

(from api) which in the Greek becomes epi.

4. Kâsyapas who had not yet been converted by the Buddha - the great ascetic - is transformed into Peter, who had little faith. Now we understand why Peter is also called Kêphas (John 1:42; 1 Cor 15:5 etc.). Behind Kêphas = Petros we have the Buddhist Kâsyapa(s). The consonants are similar.

5. The compound oligopistos in 14:31 is most revealing. It only occurs a few times in Matthew, and once in Luke. Otherwise, it is not attested in Greek before the NT.
It is derived from the San. alpotsukas, used in exactly the same context, when the Lord rebukes someone (esp. Mâra, the "Devil"). San. alpas becomes Greek oligos, synonyms, and San. utsukas becomes pistos.-The corresponding abstract noun, oligopistia, Matthew 17:20 only, pentasyllabic, is a precise rendering of the San. compound hînâdhimuktitâ, "little faith" (common in Mahâyâna scriptures; see the San. dictionaries for ref. to the Buddhist sources : MSV etc.).

The episode originally took place near Urubilvâ near the river Nairanjanâ, where the Bodhisattva (not yet a sa-buddha) attained perfect enlightenment as Buddha. Being one, he multiplied himself; being multiplied, he became one, the CPS says.

The authors of the gospels did exactly the same: one became many, many became one.
This literary device of turning one into many and many into one is absolutely fundamental for the "Buddhist" authors of the gospel. Ther can be several originals behind one "person", and one "person" can appear as several "persons". One must never ask for one source only. Otherwise one will sink into the water!

Matthew 14:22-36 forms a numerical unit. It consists of 222 words, i.e. one quarter of the most basic of all numbers, 888 - the number of Jesus. Matthew always has to serve several masters at the same time: The Buddhist sources, the Jewish sources (OT), sound and sense , and the Pythagorean requirements of textual geometry (called gematria by the Jews).

[18-03-2012] To Fulfil All Righteousness (Matthew 3:15)

The noun dikaiosunê, righteousness, has been used by Matthew seven times, and has, in recent years, given rise to numerous discussions and interpretations by theologians. There is, as always, an OT and Jewish backgound, but there is also a Buddhist one, which seems to have escaped notice.

The Buddhist source is not just important for a better understanding of Matthew 3:15, but also because it allows us to identify yet another of Matthew´s sources - the Prajnâ-pâramitâ (PP), still available in several Sanskrit recensions. The most important versions of the PP have been translated into English by the late Edward Conze.

The idea in Matthew is puzzling, if not hilarious: Take a quick dive in a river, and all righteousness will have been fulfilled!Jesus says to John that baptism is more or less the same as " quickly fulfilling all righteousness".

How so? - we do not know from Matthew alone! Obviously, he does not want us to know. It remains his own secret. The PP known as Suvikrântavikrâmi-pariprcchâ (ed. by Ryusho Hikata, Kyoto 1958, p. 4, line 5) provides us with the direct source:

The situation is this: A Bodhisattva by the name of Suvikrântavikrâmî asks the Lord (Bhagavân) about "perfection of wisdom", prajnâ-pâramitâ. How does a Bodhisattva quickly attain the fulfilment of the dharma(s) of all-knowledge? That is the question.

The ideal of the PP is to attain knowledge of all dharmas (concepts, things, principles, laws etc.) . That knowledge, we learn from the Lord, is to see that all things (dharma) are empty. This is, in brief, the message of all the recensions of the PP.

The knowledge that sees all dharmas as being empty is the same as enlightenment, or sambodhi. A Bodhisattva who has attained sambodhi is a sambuddhas - "fully baptized".
The baptistheis in Mt 3:16 therefore translates the Sanskrit sambuddhas.

Matthew´s ten syllables: plêrôsai pasan dikaiosunên is adirect translation of the Sanskrit (loc. cit.):sarvajnatâ-dharma-paripûrim. San. paripûrim becomesGreek plêrôsai. San. sarva- jna-tâ-dharma- means "the concept (dharma) of the state (-tâ) of knowing (-jna-) all (sarva-), in short, omniscience.

In the PP, therefore, it is a question about the highest kind of knowledge, not about "righteousness" in any moral or practrical sense of the word.
We are dealing with Buddhist "gnosticism".

In the PP (ibid.) it is a question of the Bodhisattva living (caran) "in the prajnâ-parâmitâ", the locative form of which is the heptasyllabic:
prajnâ-pâramitâyâm. The seven syllables of Matthew 3:15 contains an obvious pun on the Sanskrit compound:
prepon estin hêmin.

Thus Jesus identifies PP with omniscience. He can do so as a sambuddhas.

A few lines later, PP is defined as being sarvadharmânâm grâhikâ, She (as a goddess) grasps all dharmas.

This identification allows us to make yet another identifcation: Matthew´s 3:15 (8 + 5 = 13 syllables): apokritheis de ho ´Iêsous eipen pros auton is an echo of PP (ibid. p. 4, line 7-8 = 14 syllables): evam ukte Bhagavân ...bodhisat(t)vam avocat.

I have already pointed out in my book Geheimnisse (p. 357 for ref.) that the Greek:

khreian (ekhô) hypo (sou) baptisthênai in Matthew 3: 14 is a direct rendering of the Sanskrit: upasampâdayitavya(h).

A teacher may then accept the novice and say to him : go forth! - pravrâjetu.
This imperative, pravrâjetu, accounts nicely for the otherwise quite obscure aphes arti in Matthew 3:15.

As known, it is only Matthew who places an arti after a verb. The reason, we now see, is that he imitates the Sanskrit.

On the whole, we here have a picture of a student coming to a teacher for initiation and enlightenment. This is Buddhist, and this is what some early Christians understood by baptism.

I hope these observations have established a historical link between the NT and the Buddhist PP. Matthew 13: 54 asks from where, pothen, Jesus has this wisdom, sophia. He does not reveal the source of this unusual sophia. A good question, indeed: The Greek hê sophia hautê probably rendersthe Sanskrit prajnâ-pâramitâ.

Matthew goes on to ask: Is the name of his mother not Mary? This fits very nicely with what we learn from the PP- sûtras: Typically, PP is depicted (also in Buddhist art) as the Mother of Buddhas and Bodhisattvas, and She is identified with Mâyâ, "Illusion". Thus Mâyâ, or PP, is the Mother of Jesus, the Sambuddhas.

Note, finally, that Matthew 13:53-58 forms a textual unit that consists of exactly 108 words - the " holy Buddhist number" (cf. my observations reprinted in Lockwood, op. cit., pp. 148 - 156; see also Lalitavistara, Chapter 4, on the 108 " Doors of Dharma"). It is thereby suggested that sophia has to do with counting (words, syllables etc.), as in Revelation 13:18 (arithmos gar anthrôpou estin = Saddharma-pundarîka-sûtram).

This is also the right place to recall that in all the PP (Sanskrit) texts, the number of syllables has been carefully counted, as reflected in the various titles of PP. Perfection of wisdom has, for sure, something to do with counting words and syllables. It is feature that the NT shares with many Buddhist scriptures. It is a fact that should never be ignored.

Matthew 13:55 provides a wonderful example of this "wisdom of numbers". Jesus is identified by a question - is he the son of the carpenter? estin ho tou tektonos huios, which is 565 + 70 + 770 + 1015 + 680 = 3100 = ho huios ho tou anthrôpou = The Son of Man. You have to count in order to identify "the son of the carpenter". That Matthew should use the PP is, in itself, not surprising. One of his other main Mahâyâna sources is the SDP, and the SDP also refers, briefly, to the PP. It may here be recalled that Edward Conze, comparing John´s Revelation with the PP in 1959, called attention to "close verbal coincidences" (see Michael Lockwood, Buddhism's Relation to Christianity", p. 260).

For the Lord taking a bath in the river, and for baptism in the original sense of initiation (upasampadâ) there are other Buddhist sources (mainly CPS) , not to be found in the PP (but presupposed). Typically, Matthew combined various Buddhist sources.

Before I forget: The Oratio montana (Mt 5-7) is a sermon on dikaiosunê (Mt 5: 6 & 10 etc.), a Dharma-desanâ (San. desanâ becomes Gr. didakhê in Mt 7:28). The hoiptôkhoi tô pneumati in 5:3 has always been difficult. In the PP (Hikata, p. 5, line 4), we have the compound daridra-cittas, a person of poor mind, poor-minded. The Greek ptôkhos pneumati would be a perfect rendering ot that San. compound.

In line 5, we have the San. compound hînâdhimuktikas, which would account well for the Greek oligo-pistos, Matthew 6:30 etc., a person of little faith. Normally, oligopistos translates alpotsukas, for sure.

[15-03-2012]"She will give birth to a son" (Matthew 1:22)

The first seven syllables of Matthew 1: 22 are a direct translation from the Sanskrit of SBV I, p. 40. The Greek runs: teksetai de huion, which is as close to the original Sanskrit that one can possibly come: putram janayisyati.

More precisely, "Matthew" here combines the famous OT passage (Esaias 7:14) quoted in 1:23: "idou hê parthenos en gastri heksei kai teksetai huion...", with the Buddhist one just quoted. In 1:22 he adds a de in order to match the seven syllables of the Sanskrit. To be sure, when I here write "Matthew", I mean the unknown author or authors, who copied the SBV (a part of the MSV) in which "Matthew" is mentioned as a disciple of the Buddha, as I have pointed out elsewhere long ago (cf. Michael Lockwood, Buddhism´s Relation to Christianity, Chennai 2010, p. 232).

This method of combining two or more otherwise quite different passages with one or more words (or numbers) in common, is very typical of "Matthew" and the other evangelists. You have two or more different texts with a few words in common; on that basis you create a third. It is easy - and fun - to do, but difficult to trace since the sources are not mentioned.

The situation in the SBV is this:

The mother of the Bodhisattva is called Mahâmâyâ, which becomes hê Mariam, also four syllables. She "sees" four dreams. In the first dream, a white "elephant" (i.e. a white cloud) enters her womb, San. kuksim. The San. kuksi - becomes the Greek synonym gastri (locative), in the womb. She informs the king of her dreams. The king calls upon some priests skilled in the interpretation of dreams.

They say: deva, yathâ sâstre drstam - putram janayisyati..." Sir, as is seen in a book - she will give birth to a son...". In "Matthew" these priests are transformed into an angel of the Lord (aggelos kuriou), an OT motive. Just as the priests refer to the authority of a book, thus the angel in "Matthew" also refers to the authority of a book (viz. OT, in the LXX version). This angel says to Joseph: Son of David... the San. deva, Sir, God, becomes Daueid. A few lines later (p. 41), we have the San. deva-putras, the source for the huios Daueid in Mt 1: 20.

In the SBV the priests predict that the child will either become a (worldly) king or leave his home in order to become a Tathâgata, a famous saviour of mankind. The Bodhisattva was carried down from heaven (where there are many other god-sons, deva-putra) like a cloud driven by the power of the wind (mâruta) into the womb.The wind becomes the holy pneuma of "Matthew" 1:18 and 1:20. There is nothing mysterious about a cloud being driven by the wind.

By leaving out the cloud, "Matthew" creates a great mystery. Easy for him, difficult for us. The Bodhisattva was born as the king of the Sâkyas. Jesus was born as the king of the Jews. Both descended from heaven for exactly the same purpose - to teach us about righteousness and immortality.

A little later, we hear about the various names of the Bodhisattva - Greek to paidion, the boy (SBV I, p. 17-18). Sâkya-munis is one of them; Devâti-devas, God above Gods, is another. Even the gods fall down at the feet of the prince (kumâra), and "let therefore the name of the prince be Devâtideva (p. 48), for he is a god above (all other) gods. The OT source of "Matthew" spoke of his name as Emmanouêl, which means, when translated, "With us is the God"- meth´ hêmôn ho theos. The name Em-manuo-êl is unique in the OT and NT. The source is Buddhist in both cases. The - manou - contains a pun on the Buddhist - munis, in Sâkya-munis. (Yet another pun on Sâkya-munis is found in the suka-minos of Luke 17:6.) The motive of the king, Herod, who, hearing this, becomes agitated, and all Jerusalem with him, is also inspired by the SBV, where we hear about the anxiety of the king (p. 67). The king was afraid that his son would leave the palace. He did. Jesus left for a foreign country, Egypt. Eventually, both of them returned.

In the original, the king is called Suddhodanas. One of the teachers of the Bodhisattva is Ârâdas (p. 97). Thus king Herod, Hêrôdês, is a combination of the king and the teacher.

What about the mother of Sâkyamuni(s) - was she a parthenos, a virgin? This question is also taken up in the SBV (p. 34): When she was still an unmarried young girl, a dârikâ, she was given the name Mahâ-mâyâ, explained as "Great-beauty". Already when she was still an unmarried virgin, it was said that she would one day "give birth to a son" - putram janayisyati. The San. dârikâ means "a young girl", but from the context we can infer for sure that she was also a virgin. An unmarried girl who was not a virgin would have been an absolute scandal in the Buddhist/Indian context, as in the Jewish, of course. But once the Bodhisattva has entered her womb, she is no longer spoken of as a dârikâ, only as the mother or as Mahâmâyâ. She is never a mother and a dârikâ at the same time. It is quite clear from the SBV that the dârikâ had intercourse with the king before she gave birth to the Bodhisattva. But after she had given birth she no longer longed for any man, SBV, p. 43. She was then "like a virgin", if you wish.

So, to sum up so far: The idea in the SBV and in Esaias is the same. There is a young girl of whom it is predicted that she one day will become the mother of an extraordinary son. There is no suggestion whatsoever that she remains a virgin. The Buddhist and the OT sources know nothing of parthenogenesis. The Greek parthenos, the San. dârikâ, and the Hebrew haalmah are synonyms. They refer to a young woman, a virgin, who later on becomes a mother in exactly the same way that all other girls may become mothers. She is never a virgin and a mother at the same time.

But when we come back to "Matthew", the situation is quite different. It has changed. There can be no doubt that "Matthew" introduces the concept of parthenogenesis. Thus we have to look for yet another source. It was not "Matthew" who invented the paradox of a woman who was at the same time a virgin and a mother. Any Greek schoolboy would immediately be able to answer the question: Who is famous for being at the same time a virgin and a mother?

The answer is, of course: Athena. Did you never hear of the Parthenon?
I have previously made the point that the Greek text of the NT often works on two levels at the same time. What appears as a paradox on the surface, is perfectly logical on the deeper or geomatrical level.

This rule also works here.

On the surface it is a paradox that a virgin is the mother of the Messiah. But not so once you look at the statement in terms of geometry:

First you draw a circle with the circumference 515, which is the number of Greek parthenos (80+1+100+9+5+50+70+200 = 515). The inscribed square is 464, which is the number of the mother, hê mêtêr. The double solar cross inscribed in the 515 circle (= the square containing the 515 circle) is 656, the number of Messias.

So this nice drawing - which also looks like the sun - tells you that a virgin (515) is the mother (464) of the Messias (656). Since 656 is also the number of Mary, the mother (Mariam hê mêtêr = 192 + 8 + 456 = 656), the same drawing also tells you, that the Mother Mary is a virgin who is also at the same time the mother - of the Messias (if yet another square is drawn). Since Nazaret is also 464, you can go on and on. The diameter in the 515 circle is 164, which is the famous Athênê Nikê (76+88 = 164), known to all from coins and from the Acropolis.

So, for the Greek readers of "Matthew" it must have been obvious, that the mother of Jesus was Athena. In the SBV the Bodhisattva is said to be a "boy-sun", bâla-sûrya. It is, also in "Matthew", the Sun that is being born in the form of a man, Jesus. Athena is his mother.

The idea that Athena was the mother of the Sun god is not at all original with "Matthew". For instance, Cicero, in his De natura deorum 3, 55, refers to an old myth according to which Minerva (=Athena) gave birth to Apollo, the Sun god. This myth was also known to some of the Christian authors. It can be traced back to Aristotle (see e.g. the references in Arthur Stanley Pease (ed.), M. Tvlli Ciceronis De natura deorum, Cambridge, Mass. p. 1105).

If Athena is the mother of Jesus - who, then, is his father? The answer is simple, when you look at how Jesus elsewhere identifies his heavenly father. It is Zeus. When the Greeks spoke of the God, ho theos, they meant Zeus. Jesus, the son of God, is thus the son of Zeus and his beloved daughter (Homer), Athena. The God is identified with the pneuma in John. Zeus was also identified with pneuma by the Stoic philosophers. So, again, Zeus is the father of Jesus. More about Zeus, the true father of Jesus later. To Leda he came as a white swan. To Mâyâ, Zeus came as a white cloud etc. etc.

All this has provided us with a glimpse into the workshop of "Matthew": His intention is to create a myth about a Jewish king. He already is familiar with the MSV which contains the myth of the king of Sâkyas. He was also familiar with the OT, and he was very much familiar with Greek mythology and geometry. He uses and "translates" his Buddhists sources as if they had already been present in the OT. He does exactly the same with his Greek sources. The readers he first had in mind must therefore primarily have been Jews. The gospel of "Matthew" is an extreme but also typical case of Hellenistic syncretism.

[18-11-2011] Dr. Detering´s False Witnesses

Pope Benedikt XVI has stated, what is, of course, the official view of all bishops, priests, theologians and orthodox Christians all around the world, namely, "Jesus is not a myth, he is a man of flesh and blood, he stands as a reality in history".

But can we really rely on the Pope in this regard? Is his opinion based merely on faith, or on sound scholarship? Can we be sure that this Pope is honest? Even the most critical Protestant theologians cling to a historical Jesus, e.g. Bultmann: "To doubt that Jesus really existed is unfounded, and not even worth a word of refutation."

But there are others who think otherwise, and will have nothing of such papal arrogance. In Germany there was, for instance, Arthur Drews, and now there is, above all, Dr. Hermann Detering.

In his new book, Falsche Zeugen. Ausserchristliche Jesuszeugnisse auf dem Prüfstand, Dr. Detering reviews the external non-Christian testimonies for Jesus, i.e. the well-known passages from Josephus, Tacitus, Pliny the Younger and Suetonius, as well as the less known Mara bar Serapion and Thallus.

Dr. Detering´s method is historical and philological, reminding us of the great Eduard Norden. All views expressed by German and foreign theologians, all pros and cons are taken into consideration. Detering´s judgment is always informed, fair and mature. The passage on Chrestus in Suetonius has nothing to do with Jesus known as Christus. The remaining passages in Josephus etc. are shown, very convincingly and with many fine philological observations to be later Christian interpolations.

The motive for making these interpolations is also obvious. Once they had decided to turn their mythical hero into a historical person, they had to fabricate evidence in support. And so they did. When have Christians, starting with Paul, have any problem with pia fraus if good for the church?

It is, therefore, wrong of theologians to claim that we here have external evidence for the historicity of Jesus called Christ.

Dr. Detering does not deal with the internal evidence of the NT. To him, however, Christianity still retains a symbolic value, even if Jesus is just a myth, for: " The incarnation of the Logos is a grandiose religious idea." If looked upon as a historical fact that took place in the years 1 - 30, it becomes an intellectual monster.

For a historian who is familiar with Hellenistic religions and has no apologetic axe to grind, it ought to be fairly obvious that there is no solid internal evidence in the NT to support any claim of a historical Jesus.

There were numerous sons of god in those days, and Jesus is just one of them. Nor should there be any doubt about the true identity of his heavenly father, ho patêr ho ouranios, i.e. Zeus.

When the Greeks spoke of the God, ho theos, they meant Zeus. Zeus had many sons, typically called kings (anax, basileus), and Jesus is his Jewish son, and king of Israel. Mary was, alas, not the only virgin with whom Zeus had a son, as all theologians ought to keep in mind.

But theologians will want to ignore all these simple and obvious facts. They will want to ignore the excellent detective work of Dr. Detering, just as they ignored or defamed the work of Arthur Drews, and just as they have decided to ignore the fact that "the Greek of the New Testament (is) a patchwork of various passages from Buddhist scriptures, originally written in Sanskrit and Pâli" (Michael Lockwood, Buddhism´s Relation to Christianity, Chennai 2010, p. 250).

If we share Dr. Detering´s faith in the incarnation of the Logos as a grandiose religious idea, this must also imply a greater openness in regard to other Hellenistic religions, for we are here dealing with ideas that have Orphic and Pythagorean roots. That, however, is another topic, about which one would like to hear more from Dr. Detering.

One of the very few things I missed in Dr. Detering´s book was a discussion of Hadrian´s letter to Servianus, where the Roman emperor (117-138) writes:...illic qui Serapim colunt, Christiani sunt et deuoti sunt Serapi, qui se Christi episcopos dicunt..etc. The contents of this letter does not suggest a later interpolatio christiana. Nor can it be taken as evidence of a historical Christ, rather on the contrary.
On p. 37 read legomenou for legemonou.

[11-11-2011] A Lindtnerian Revolution is needed...

Buddhism’s Relation to Christianity. A Miscellaneous Anthology with Occasional Comment

This is the title of the first extensive and highly qualified critique of the CLT. The author is Professor emeritus Michael Lockwood, who has taught philosophy for 32 years at Madras Christian College. Dr Lockwood is an accomplished scholar who has published translations from the Sanskrit and brought out a book about Indian art etc.
He is also a scholar of Greek and Hebrew, and thus in a good and rare position to take part in the important debate suggested by the title of the book that has just appeared in Chennai, India (Tambaram Research Associates). The book - 288 pages, beautifully produced - contain the following sections:

1. A survey of two hundred years of scholarly work on the remarkable parallelism between the messages and lives of the Buddha and Jesus.

2. Buddhist sculptures that parallel episodes in the Christian scriptures.

3. The inscriptions of King Ashoka, revealing the spreading abroad of the Buddhist doctrine of Dharma, as far as Egypt and other countries around the Mediterranean. Many parallels between Buddhist and Christian doctrines are pointed out.

4. The widespread legend of Christian sainthood during medieval times; how the Buddha was somehow turned into a Christian saint.

5. Only Buddhism and Christianity have made extensive use of parables - and the Buddhists came first!

6. Various parallels in the sayings of the Buddha and Jesus.

7. Various pioneering developments achieved by Buddhism, as a missionary religion, prior to similar developments in Christianity.

8. The debate about the historicity of Jesus. Various arguments for and against are considered.

9. A closer look at two examples of "extreme revisionism", holding that Jesus was not a historical person, and that the evangelists who wrote The New Testament, were crypto-Buddhists: "The pioneer of this extreme revisionism is the Danish Sanskrit scholar, Christian Lindtner. The strong reactions to his radical views have illustrated the basis of the Indian warning not to inquire too deeply into the origin of God-men and rivers."

The learned author reproduces almost all the entries on www.jesusisbuddha.com, and offers his extremely competent and mature critique with a full command of the Indian and Christian sources in question.

He writes, inter alia (. 143): "The Danish academic, Christian Lindtner, is one of the foremost scholars arguing that the so-called 1 st century CE person of Jesus is really a disguised projection of the historic Buddha by the New Testament evangelists who are themselves, crypto-Buddhists, basing much of their writings on Indian Buddhist Sanskrit and Pâli sources. Lindtner's theories and writings, quite predictably, have been considered outrageous and hurtful by Christian circles. Some of his critics have also accused him of being a Holocaust denier and of having various other moral flaws. These accusations have no relevance whatsoever to academic issues - his critics, in this, commit the ad hominem fallacy in reasoning, the most widespread of fallacies! There have been, thus, very few qualified attempts to refute Lindtner's views, as there are very few persons with the linguistic qualifications to support such refutations: a command of the various languages of the Buddhist scriptures and writings, as well as a command of the languages of the Jewish and Christian scriptures and writings."

Furthermore, Lindtner has established that passages of the Greek New Testament were translated from Sanskrit and Pâli (p. 250): "Early Gnostic scholars were, in fact, the very creators of what were to become the canonical Gospels of the New Testament -allegorical narratives about Jesus the Messiah composed using a strange ingenious process of creatively translating into the Greek of the New Testament a patchwork of various passages from Buddhist scriptures, originally written in Sanskrit and Pâli. The use of this method of "transcription" from Sanskrit and Pâli into Greek has been firmly established by Christian Lindtner."

So, to conclude, what now is needed, is "a Lindtnerian Revolution" (p. 241): "What is needed is a paradigmatic shift - a Lindtnerian Revolution - in outlook, which, of course, will entail a change in outlook far more unsettling to traditional Christianity than even Darwin's Theory of Evolution has been!"

These are brave words! Professor Lockwood can be happy that he is now emeritus! When Lindtner wrote words to the same effect in 1998 the immediate reaction from "academics" was the demand to have his books burned and himself prevented, by any means, from doing further research into the Buddhist sources of Christianity.

Rosaries and Catacombs - and the Pope's Tiara

One of the most obvious cases of Buddhist influence on early Christian cult is provided by the Rosary - Latin: rosarium. Typically, the Buddhist rosary consists of 108 beads. Burmese monks are known to have used rosaries consisting of 72 beads, i.e. 2/3 of 108. Sikhs also use strings with 108 beads for prayer, and so did the ancient followers of Vishnu., who, perhaps, influenced the Buddhists. Among some Muslims the number is normally 99. The original Catholic Rosary also consisted of 108 beads (ten decades for Ave Maria, and eight units for Pater Noster)

But why is the rosary called a rosary - a rosarium? Where do the roses come in? The correct explanation, it seems, was first given by the German Indologist, A.F. Weber (1825-1901). To understand the Latin term one must first identify the original Sanskrit:

The Sanskrit is japa-mâlâ, i.e. a string or garland, mâlâ, for prayer, japa-. This compound noun is well-attested in Sanskrit. If a small change is made, we arrive at japâ-mâlâ (with the long a = â), which is an entirely different story. Sanskrit japâ- means a "rose", which has nothing at all to do with japa, which, as said, means "prayer" or , more precisely, "mumbling". It is therefore obvious that the Latin rosarium is a translation of the Sanskrit japâ-mâlâ - not of the "correct" japa-mâlâ. This does not mean that those who coined the Latin rosarium simply misunderstood the Sanskrit japa-mâlâ. Perhaps they simply found the Sanskrit japâ-mâlâ more "poetical", more charming.

In any case, the original meaning of the rosarium is only clear when the Sanskrit japa-/japâ-mâlâ be kept in mind. It is easy to see that the translation would not work in the opposite direction: from Latin rosarium there is a straight way back to japâ-mâlâ, but not to japa-mâlâ. Weber, it seems, took japâ to be a misunderstanding of japa. But, as said, that is probably not the case. We are rather, as so often in the field of comparative gospel studies, dealing with deliberate distortions, or "funny translations". I have already, passim, pointed out numerous such cases of "deliberate misunderstandings".

Coming back to the number of beads, it is known that the figure 108 is important for the Buddhists in many ways. For instance, the fundamental Sanskrit version of the Middle Path (madhyamâ pratipad) consists of exactly 4 x 27, or 108 words etc. etc. The number 108 is, moreover, often found in the number of words or syllables of a given textual unit in the Greek New Testament. The number 108 thus links up early Christianity with Indian Buddhism in more than one way. It is a Buddhist "fingerprint".

More examples of early Christian cult being influenced by Buddhism will be found in the learned book of Richard Garbe: Indien und das Christentum. Eine Untersuchung der religionsgeschichtlichen Zusammenhänge, Tübingen 1914 (reprinted, with a new Foreword, by Lühe-Verlag, Süderbrarup 2004), pp. 117- 127. Let me add to Garbe´s observations by pointing to the noun "catacomb", the meaning of which is as clear as the etymology is unclear. The Latin cata-cumba is sometimes explained as formed by dissimilation from Latin cata tumbas, which , again, is supposed to be from the Greek kata, "down", and tumbas, acc.plur. of Late Latin tumba, "grave. tomb". I suggest that we rather have to look for Sanskrit caitya-kumbhas. The San. caitya- means a "tomb", and kumbhas is common Buddhist usage for a pot or urn (e.g. in the MPS).

The Catacombs, the underground cemeteries in or around Rome used by the early Christians, thus derived their name from Sanskrit caitya-kumbhâs (nom. plural), "tomb-urns". This hypothesis does, of course, not exclude that the Sanskrit, later on, was assimilated to a Greek-Latin compound - kata-tumbas, or catacumba(s). At that point, as natural, the Sanskrit original had been forgotten. The Latin-Greek compound sounds, to my ear, like yet another "funny translation".

A funny translation, for sure, is involved when we finally look at the tiara, the Pope´s triple crown. Tddress. I imagine that Garbe was right (op. cit., p. 117) when he pointed out that the he Greek is tiara, and the Oriental origin is generally assumed - the ancient Persian heaetymology has to be found in Sanskrit (and Pâli) cîvaram, the Buddhist mendicant´s dress. But let us not cause offense to the Holy Father by following this historical trace further! Or is there really any good cause for offense on papal part? After all, the first Pope, PeTRoS, was no other that PuTRaS, the first disciple, known to all Buddhists as Sâri-¨putras. He, too, wore his cîvaram - but, true, not on the top of his head!

Dr. Chr. Lindtner
September 27, a.D. 2010.

The Mysterious Comforter (paraklêtos) of John

Once the MPS (part of the Mûlasarvâstivâdavinaya, MSV) and the Lotus (SDP) have been identified as the two main Buddhist sources of the four NT gospels, it is not difficult to identify the original behind the "mysterious" Comforter", or para-klêtos, mentioned by John 14:16; 15:26; 16:7; and 1 John 2:1.

From these NT passages we learn that Jesus promises his disciples that his father, God, will give them another paraklêtos; that he, Jesus, will send to them from the Father, God, and that the paraklêtos will come only after the departure of Jesus.

In 1 John 2:1 this mysterious paraklêtos is identified with Jesus Christ, being with the Father. The other gospels do not mention the paraklêtos. This is all we have. The Latin is either paraclitus, which is not helpful, or advocatus, misleading, as will be seen. The Buddhist source is obvious - it is MPS 41.2 (ed. Waldschmidt, Berlin 1951, p. 386). The Lord Buddha comforts the monks by saying that once he has passed away there will be another teacher, or refuge (nihsaranam).

This teacher or refuge is the Prâti-moksas, that the Lord has pointed out to the monks twice a month. The Prâtimoksas is the name of the set of rules or precepts Buddhist monks have to follow. Buddhist scholars, for various reasons (style, language etc.) , agree that the Prâtimoksas belongs to the early strata of Buddhist literature. The etymology of the noun Prâti-moksas (Pâli pâtimokkha) is unclear. The usual Tibetan translation is so sor thar pa, suggesting "individual release".

The meaning of the term is, however, clear from the context: Normally, the Lord is the teacher who gives the rules etc. for monks (and, later, nuns) to abide by. Once the person, the Lord as a teacher is no longer there, the set of rules will serve as replacement, as substitute.

John 14:15 confirms that the para-klêtos has to do with "rules", entolas (acc. plur.). Now, the NT gospels are not addressed to Buddhist monks, but to common people, Jews etc., in general - lucky people, poor in spirit, who will win the kongdom of god, or heaven (i.e. the Christian nirvânam). Thus it would be quite wrong to expect a Greek version of the entire Prâtimoksas. The term para-klêtos thus necessarily becomes vague, or general, compared to the strict set of regulations and precepts that are so characteristic of the Buddhist Prâtimoksas in its numerous recensions.

In the Sermon on the Mount there are several echoes of the Prâtimoksas, to which I shall come back elsewhere. English translations include "Helper", "Comforter", etc., but thanks to the Buddhist original we see that "Replacement", "Substitute" comes closer to the meaning intended in both sources. This, again, may be helpful for understanding the original meaning of the term Prâti-moksas. San. prati not only has a distributive sense ("individual", as the Tibetan so sor has it), but can also mean "instead of". Along with a noun for a "nose", for instance, it comes to mean "an artificial nose" - a new nose (artificial) instead of the old (natural) one. San. moksas surely means "liberation, release". In a compound with prati becoming prâti, it acquires the sense of a release instead of the normal one - the one provided by the Lord as a teacher of precepts.

The Prâtimoksas thus comes to carry the sense of a body of precepts serving as a teacher of liberation when the real teacher has passed into final nirvânam. San. Prâti-moksas, just as Greek para-klêtos, thus means "the personification of the precepts as a teacher replacing the real one once he has passed away". In other words¨- The Preceptor (to retain the masculine noun) serving as a substitute, or Replacement, for the original one.

Actually, the basic idea is quite simple, and fundamental to the Lotus: The sûtram contains the words of the Lord. Once the Lord has passed away, we are left with his words in the sûtram. The sûtram thus embodies the Lord. The cult of the Lord is replaced by thge cult of the sûtram. The cult of the sûtram finds its culmination in the recitation of the title of the sûtram. This why there are so many puns of the title of the Lotus - as I have already pointed out in my book Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus.

I need not add that just as one can conceive Christianity without the mysterious para-klêtos, thus one cannot conceive (early) Buddhism without Prâti-moksas. In other words: NT must here have been influenced by Buddhism - not the other way around. So the identifiaction of the paraklêtos is also important for the problem of relative chronology.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
September 17, a.D. 2010.

The Middle Path of Matthew 5:3-10

It must be due to simple ignorance that scholars have overlooked the obvious fact that the eight Beatitudes of Matthew 5:3-10 are based on the eight virtues (or dharmas) that lead to Nirvâna. The Sermon on the Middle Path (MP) leading to Nirvâna was the first major sermon given to the five disciples of Tathâgata, just as the Sermon on the eight "beatitudes" leading to the kingdom of Heaven, ouranos. Heaven, was the main topic of the first sermon addressed by Jesus to his disciples surrounded by five groups of people. The setting is thus exactly the same: The Lord was speaking about eight virtues, factors or circumstances leading to the same goal. Once again, Jesus therefore is a Tathâgata in disguise, and, as usual, the authors of the gospels did their job by way of deception. Whether one likes it or not, the NT gospels are plagiary, or pirate copies. (This genre was not uncommon in those days, cf. e.g. Eduard Stemplinger, Das Plagiat in der griechischen Literatur, Leipzig 1912/1990.)

Let us first have a brief look at Matthew 5:3-10 from a more formal point of view. It consists of two numerically equal units: 3-6 consist of 18+18 = 36 words. Here, verses 3-4 consist of 12+6 words, and verses 5-6 of 8+10 words, i.e. 2 x 18 words. In the second part, verses 7-8 consist of 6 + 10 words, whereas verses 9-10 consist of 8 + 12 words, giving us again the sum of 2 x 18 = 36. It is quite obvious that here, as always, Matthew carefully counted the words. Matthew also counted the syllables: The first part consists of exactly 90 syllables, or 5 x18 syllables. The second part, verses 7-10, consists of 98 syllables, or 5 x 18, with an extra 8 syllables, perhaps intended to correspond to the number of beatitudes. The ratio of syllables and words is 188:72, which is 2.61111...(this ratio is highly revealing, see below!)

His Buddhist source (SBV, ed. Gnoli, p. 134) also counted the number of words and syllables in the same fashion: The Buddhist text on the MP in its Sanskrit version shows the same geometrical structure or pattern. It consists of a total of 108 words, neatly arranged in four units each consisting of exactly 27 words. The author of the Sanskrit MP likewise counted the number of syllables (and even letters!) , which of course goes to confirm the gematria (textual geometry) of the words. One level thus supports another. The mutuality excludes sheer coincidence. With his 2 x 36 = 72 words, Matthew thus represents two thirds of the original 108 words of the Sanskrit MP text. The figure 108 is, as known a "holy number" for Christians as well as Buddhists. It occurs in various contexts, and is ultimately based on the pentagon or pentagram, characterized by the angles that measure 108 degrees. The pentagon or pentagram represents the divine proportion, as known. Coming back to the ratio 188:72 in Matthew, we now see that the divine proportion is involved , for 72 x 1.618.. gives us 116.496, and 116.496 x 1.618 gives us 188.490... The round number 188 was the number of syllables in Matthew 5:3-10. Matthew thus conceived 5:3-10 as a unit with the divine proportion (1.618..) as his rod of measure. In the Sanskrit version of the MP, the Tathâgata addresses the five monks, or rather, to be precise, the monks belonging to a group of five. The Sanskrit word is pancakân - an obvious pun on Greek pentagon. In the Sanskrit MP the divine proportion is also repeatedly reflected in the ratio of words and syllables.

Let us then have a brief look at the contents of the Beatitudes in relation to their Buddhist source: Paying attention to textual symmetry, Matthew starts (v.3) and ends (v. 10) with the statement that the disciples are "happy" - makarioi - BECAUSE they have or posses the Kingdom of Heaven - hê basileia tôn ouranôn. There is thus a causal relationship, not very clearly articulated, between being makarios and having the basileia tôn ouranôn. The reason is introduced twice with hoti autôn, six times by hoti autoi. It is clear that the Kingdom of Heaven somehow replaces the Buddhist idea of Nirvâna.

In other words, when "Matthew" translated the Sanskrit word Nirvânam, he chose, first, basileia tôn ouranôn. We here have to look closer at the noun ouranôn, in the genitive plural. Interestingly, the Buddhists themselves faced problems with understanding the term Nirvâna(m), and this we must keep in mind. Sometimes it was taken as pointing to a peaceful state of mind, without any passions or worldy concepts. Sometimes it was taken as indicating a place that could not be grasped or pointed out etc. (See e.g. my book Master of Wisdom, pp. 320-322.) There was nothing to prevent the Buddhist monks from splitting Nirvânam up: nir-vânam, as if meaning meaning NO vânam. Such "funny etymologies" , nirukti, are quite common in Buddhist Sanskrit texts, and were imitated by the NT Gospels. This is how the Greek ouranos was chosen - ou-ranos, meaning NO ranôn (Greek -ranôn thus = San. -vânam). Many similar examples will be found in the Prajnâpâramitâ. (Compare also San. gani-kâ, coutesan becoming a certain woman, gunê tis.)

Among the Buddhists the term Nirvânam always carries a connotation of peace.
To reproduce this idea, Matthew 5:9 chose the Greek noun eirêno-poios. This is the only place in the NT where it occurs. He must have had a special reason for introducing it. One modern translation says: " Happy are those who work for peace among men" - but such an understanding misses the point completely. The Sanskrit behind eirênopoioi (masc. plural) must be the term nirodha-gâminî, which is an adjective to pratipad, path, more or less a synonym of mârga(s), way, path. Here, nirodha- is a synonym of nirvâna-. It means "leading to Nirvâna/nirodha. So, the idea is that the makarioi are happy in the sense that they bring about peace (of mind) for themselves. This means that they ascend to heaven. Once they are in heaven, they are known as deva-putras, sons of god, or god-sons. And only then does one understand why Matthew 5:9 introduces the term huioi theou - sons of god. The Greek huios theou is an exact rendering of Sanskrit deva-putras, son (putras) of deva, which means god (devas = Lat. deus = Greek theos). The idea that the disciples of Jesus may become "sons of god" makes little sense in the context of the NT, or even in the context of Christianity in general. It does, however, make perfect sense in the original Buddhist context, where there are numerous sons of god (as among the Greeks). When Tathâgata passed into final Nirvâna, his "precious body" somehow went up to the world of Brahmâ - and that world was inhabited by numerous deva-putras. Four of them were even present at his birth (Gnoli, p. 42). Matthew (5:6 and 10) also mentions the term dikaiosunê, which can only be a translation of the Sanskrit dharma(s). From the bilingual Indo-Greek coins we know that the San. adjective dharmikas (var. spellings) is rendered by dikaios etc. In Matthew 7:28, the sermon as a whole is described as a didakhê, which, again can only be Sanskrit desanâ. Likewise, the MP belongs to a group of teachings described as a dharma-desanâ. The dharma-desanâ of Tathâgata is thus know to all Christians in the disguise of the didakhê dikaiosunês of Jesus - the false Tathâgata.

To conclude for now: I am, of course, not claiming that the Sanskrit MP is the only source of the Eight Beatitudes of Matthew. There are, as known, also Jewish sources. There are beatitudes in the OT, and there are beatitudes from Qumran (4Q525). They can easily be looked up. In the Qumran fragments it is Wisdom, sophia, that is praised for bringing about beatitude. That, of course, is a typical Buddhist idea - prajnâ or jnâna bringing about Nirvânam. To some extent the terms are synonyms. (This suggests that Qumran also has the same Buddhist MP source!) One of the most embarrassing problems facing modern theologians is the fact that they cannot locate the mountain on which Jesus is supposed to have given his famous sermon. This has even led some to speak of a "theological mountain" - which must mean a purely imaginary mountain. How can a man - even Jesus - stand on a mountain that is not on the map! Of course, Matthew would not want to mention the name of the mountain! The true mountain, source criticism now informs us, is to be located in ancient Benares (Vârânasî - Rishivadana).

Yet another observation. If we take Matthew 5:11 into account, we arrive at nine beatitudes. The disciples will be persecuted, like prophets before them, says Jesus. There is also a Buddhist background for this, and it is reflected here in Matthew: Among those who listen to Tathâgata, some are positive, others negative. Those who rejects the Aryans (= Buddhists) will, after their passing away, turn up in hell among the inhabitans of hell.(Very nicely, San. nârakas becomes Greek nekros.) Those having a correct view of the Aryans, will turn up among the gods (deva) in the world of Heaven - svarga-loka (Gnoli, p. 118, 158 etc.). The technical phrase âryânâm apavâdakâh, eight syllables, is rendered by Matthew 5:11 as kai eipôsin pan ponêron, also eight syllables.

For the Buddhist source of such warnings of the Lord, one also has to turn to the Lotus. If one collects the various passages on persecution in the NT, it will be seen that nearly all of them can be traced back to the Saddharmapundarîkasûtram - the Lotus or SDP. Jesus, in other words, was speaking to Buddhist missionaries actively propagating the Dharma-desanâ among the Jews. But also, as just pointed out (Gnoli, p. 118, p. 158), to those who as âryânâm anapavâdakâh svargaloke devesûpapadyante. So, as usual, Matthew combines several Buddhist and Jewish sources.

Let me finally come back to 108 - the holy number of the Buddhists. As pointed out, Matthew 5:3-10 consists of 72 words, or two thirds of 108, the number of words in the Sanskrit MP (Gnoli, p. 134). But our story does not end here. Matthew 5: 11 consists of 16 words, and 5:12, the final verse, consists of 19 words, adding up to 35 words for these two final verses. Adding 72 and 35 we arrive at a total of 107 words - whereas we would expect a total of 108 words. It is thus not quite impossible that the textus receptus of Matthew (Nestle-Aland etc.) has to be emended accordingly. However, I think that the number 107 (rather than the expected 108) was intended by Matthew. By letting this textual unit consist of 107 words he managed to place three words right in the middle, viz. makarioi hoi eirênopoioi (verse 5:9a) - happy are those who bring about eirênê- where eirênê therefore translates the nirvânam of his Buddhist source. There is special focus on the word eirênê, since it is the first word in the second half of the textual unit of 107 words. Matthew is saying: Look at the word eirênê! So we have two different words for the goal of the Buddhist path - first heaven, then peace. This technique of drawing special attention to a fundamental idea of a given textual unit was also used by Luke.

Thus, H.J. de Jonge made the important observation that in Luke 2:41-51a, a pericope of exactly 170 words, the word "in the middle", mesô (in v. 46) is the 85th word, and the phrase "in the middle of the teachers", en mesô tôn didaskalôn, therefore forms the mathematical centre of the pericope. (See, M.J.J. Menken, Numerical literary techniques in John, Leiden 1985, p. 18 for ref.). Buddhist texts on dharma, as said, make a distinction between two ideals - that of nirvânam, and that of a pleasant rebirth in heaven, svargas.

This distinction is reflected in Matthew when he uses the two terms eirênê and ouranos. Both are obtained by the practice of dharma - Greek dikaiosunê.

For long, I was unsure about the Sanskrit original behind the Greek makarios. One could think of kalyânas, sukhin, tustas etc. There are many synonyms. But we must stick to the context in question. Matthew mentions makarioi eight (+ one) times. He places it right in the middle along with the Buddhist eirênopoioi, as pointed out above.

In the Buddhist MP text only one word appears eight times - namely samyag/samyak, the "correct" view, speech etc. Obviously, the eight Buddhist samyak-s become the eight Christian makarioi. The original consonants are retained: S-M-K. The eight happy ones of Jesus were thus originally the eight correct modes of behaviour of Tathâgata. By following this eight-fold path one arrives at Nirvâna or svarga - eirênê or ouranos. (For more on the "Christian Nirvâna", cf. Erich Dinkler, EIRENE: Der urchristliche Friedensgedanke, Heidelberg 1973. Buddhist influence is not limited to the NT.) This was the topic of the first sermon of Tathâgata aka Jesus. The sermon took place on a mountain near Benares - the "theological mountain" of Christian theologians. It was the first dharma-desanâ of the mythical Jesus. What he had to say was something he had somehow discovered or experienced at the river - Matthew 3:15. Exactly as the Bodhisat(t)va discoved his Dharma at the river.

Jesus never really makes it clear, WHERE, on the map, this odd kingdom of heaven (or of god) is to be located. But I have already pointed out elsewhere, that the kingdom of heaven must have been Kapilavastu, where Tathâgata spoke to Brahmâ, Sakra(s), Kubera(s) and the other sons of god. They appear in the disguise of Abraham, Isaak and Iakôbos in Matthew 8:11 (Gnoli, p. 196). And in the NT Kapila-vastu appears as Kaphar-naoum, Matthew 8:5 etc. We now also understand why the NT speaks not only only of Heaven, but also of the Kingdom of Heaven, or the Kingdom of God, to the same effect. Tathâgata was the son of the king of Kapilavastu. This king was addressed as "deva", "king". The Kingdom of God is therefore the kingdom of the king of Kapilavastu, the father of Sâkyamuni(s), or Tathâgata(s), the ksatriyas (= ho khristos). At the same time, Kapilavastu is surely a mythical kingdom, located on the slopes of the Himalaya mountains. It is up there in the sky, almost in heaven. So, what Jesus is saying is that his disciples will be happy when the end up in the mythical kingdom of Kapilavastu along with the other devaputra-s. In this way he is using skilful means, upâya-kausalyam, even "tricks", to convert common people to the Dharma. For the same reason, of course, he charges his disciples that they should tell no man that he was the Christ , Matthew 16:20. But as historians we conclude: The first part of the Sermon on the Mount is, therefore the NT version of the Middle Path. Buddhist Nirvâna is found in the very middle.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
September 2, a.D. 2010

The Anointing at Bethany - Matthew 26:6-13 par

When the authors of the NT gospels composed their work, they did so by combining bits and pieces meticulously compiled from different sources in different languages: Greek, Hebrew, Latin and - above all - Sanskrit. In so doing they followed certain rules - the so-called middoth cherished by learned rabbis - even to this day. Here and there they had to add a few words of their own, e.g. conjunctions such as kai, "and". But even indications of time and place were copied directly from Buddhist sources. They always carefully counted the number of words and syllables, reflecting their deep interest in gematria. The Buddhists shared this interest in gematria, and the background is, of course, Greek. Already in the OT we see that the Septuaginta is based on Greek textual geômetria - from which we have gematria.

Nearly all the motives found in the NT gospels can be found in other ancient sources - healings, walking on water, flying in the air, resurrection from the dead etc. etc. Scholars have already long ago traced most of these to Buddhist, Egyptian, Greek and other sources etc. In spite of its age, Carl Clemen, Religionsgeschichtliche Erklärung des Neuen Testaments, Giessen 1924 (repr. 1973) still provides a qualified discussion of most of the parallels.

Our task as philologists is clear: We want to look over the shoulders of "Matthew" and his colleagues as they were sitting there in their workshop at the table compiling and pasting together bits and pieces from various sources, as said, in various languages.

The Hebrew sources have been collected by Hermann Strack and Paul Billerbeck in their indispensable Kommentar zum Neuen Testament; and for the classical sources we have the Old and the New Wettstein - as far as it goes. Wettstein, when he published his Novum Testamentum Graecum, Amsterdam 1751/52, collected about 30000 parallels from Greek and Latin authors. Der neue Wettstein, which is being published by Udo Schnelle and Manfred Labahn in Halle continues this important work. The first volume, being a commentary on Mark, presents about 1300 texts from Hellenistic authors. The rules according to which the NT gospels were fabricated may be found in Hermann L: Strack´s book: Introduction to the Talmud and Midrash, New York 1959. What is stilled needed to complete the picture of the NT sources is a set of reference volumes collecting the Buddhist sources of the NT.

It goes without saying that it follows from source criticism that Jesus, the hero of our story, is a literary figure, like Donald Duck, not at all a historical person, like Augustus.

The episode of the Anointing at Bethany is reported by all four evangelists, with significant variants: Matthew 25:6-13; Mark 14:3-9; Luke 7:36-50, and John 12:1-8. The Lord is staying in a house in Bethany (not mentioned by Luke). A certain woman, a sinner (hamartôlos) comes to him with an alabaster jar filled with an expensive perfume (muron barutimon), which she then pours on his head etc. The motive of a woman bringing precious perfume to the Lord so that its fragrance spreads all over town, has been taken from another Buddhist text, closely related, in fact, to the MPS, the Avadânasatakam (see H.W. Schomerus, Ist die Bibel von Indien abhängig?, München 1932, p. 172). Here the woman with the sandal salve falls down at the feet of the Lord, and prays that she will be reborn as a man. The motive of the fragrance that spreads all over town has left its scent in John 12:3:" The sweet smell of the perfume filled the whole house."

But the main Buddhist source is, as so often, the Mahâparinirvânasûtram 12:4 par. (ed. Waldschmidt, Berlin 1951, p. 188). Here it is the famous courtesan (ganikâ) Âmrapâli who comes and serves a meal to the Lord and his disciples, the monks. The food, with which she serves them, is described as sucinâ pra-nîtena (instrumental case). She serves it "with her own hand".

Matthew speaks of a muron that is barutimon - a perfume (oil) that is very precious. Mark speaks of a muron (made) of nard that is pure (and) very expensive. Luke only mentions the perfume, muron. John has a muron of nard that is pistikê and polutimos. The nard, also mentioned by Pliny et al., is the name of an Indian plant used for perfume (Nardus spica Valeriana; Sanskrit naladam). The San. pra-nîtena (four syllables) is rendered by baru-timon (Matthew) , by polu-telês (Mark), and by poly-timos (John) - three variant renderings, equally valid, of one and the same original San. adjective.

It should be noted that the San. combines the two adjectives without a word for "and". The Greek of Mark and John imitatates the asyndeton. The rare pistikos, only given by Mark and John, is a perfect rendering of San. sucinâ (instrumental case of suci-). In normal Greek pistikos means "reliable, trustworthy". The context suggests "pure" - which is confirmed by the San. original, which, in fact, simply means "pure".

This all goes to show that Mark and John used the same source as Matthew, but also that they used it independently. In particular, they all struggled with the San. adjective pra-nîtas (mask. nom.). They offered three different versions, Luke left it out.

There are, moreover, several puns on the name of the celebrated courtesan from Vaisâlî(later becoming Vézelay of Mary Magdalene in France!) , Âmra-pâli-ganikâ:

1. The murou in all four evangelists, has a pun on âmra.

2. The gunê hê-tis, a certain woman, in Luke contains a pun on gani-kâ (where -kâ is taken as if a pronoun, still acc. to middoth). - Luke´s en tê polei hamartôlos, in the town, is clearly an echo of -pâli and âmra-pâli(s) - with t for p in - tôlos.

3. The apôleia in Matthew and Mark is yet another pun on her name.

When John mentions Lazaros, this name is a pun on Licchavis, with whom Âmrapâli is explicitly associated. John is also the only evangelist here to identify the woman as Mariam - i.e. as Âmram (accusative form), the "Mango girl".

According to Jesus, the woman poured perfume over his body in order to prepare it for burial ahead of time. That is, of course, a ridiculous explanation for her odd behaviour, but it shows nicely what kind of paradoxes one can run into when combining several different sources as the evangelists did here, as elsewhere.

But for the oil in connection with the burial - or rather: cremation - of the Lord, they again used the same Buddhist source - the Mahâparinirvânasûtram. The same source also has the Lord explain to his disciples how they have to prepare for his cremation. Since episodes from the MPS are attested in Buddhist art dating from B.C., there can - if only for this reason - be no doubt about the priority of the sources. As I have already pointed out, the 46 syllables of Luke 10:38 were also based on the same source, Mahâparinirvânasûtram 10:3 = 11:1 and 15:4 - cf. my Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, p. 111 for some details.

John 12:6 mentions the thief and the rare glôssokomon, far too freely translated as "money bag". This refers to the evil monk who, during the last meal of the Lord, stole a loha-karotakam, a bowl of copper (or gold, or iron), as mentioned in MPS 26:16. John´s explanation of the behaviour of the thief is different. He, the traitor, wants to sell the salve so that he can steal the (ridicously) large amount of money it brings. In the Buddhist original the monk steals the bowl because he is an evil monk. In the Buddhist original the theif becomes a traitor by stealing. In John he alrady is a traitor, who also wants to steal.

It is a great pity that authors still publish books about Mary Magdalene, passing over the direct Buddhist sources as if they did not exist (cf. e.g. Margaret Starbird, Magdalene´s Lost Legacy. Symbolic Numbers and the sacred Union in Christianity, Rochester, Vermont 2003). Please note that some of the observations here made, were first published in The Adyar Library Bulletin 64 (2000), pp. 151-170. A few repetitions were unavoidable.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
August 11, a.D. 2010

Solving the unsolved question of Matthew 22:41- 46

All Buddhists and Buddhologists are familiar with the curious fact that the Buddha, according to the scriptures, left certain questions unsolved, undecided or unanswered, e.g. - is the world eternal or is it not eternal? etc. The reason for his silence could, in theory, be that he considered such questions irrelevant to salvation or tedious, or that he simply did not know the answer. Such questions, dogmas or issues (vastu) are termed avyâkrita in Sanskrit, or avyâkata in Pâli. (For references please see e.g. V. Trenckner et al. (eds.); A Critical Pâli Dictionary, Vol. I, Copenhagen 1944, p. 484.)

Matthew 22:41-46 provides an important example of a question raised by the Lord, but in this case neither he himself nor his opponents come up with an answer. Moreover, modern scholars have failed to come up with a satisfactory answer to the question posed.
Here, then, we have a nice case of an ayvâkrta-vastu in the NT. It will, therefore, not be superfluous for me to offer a solution to the old unsolved question raised by Jesus according to Matthew 22:41-46.

The question is: How can Christ be son and lord of David - i.e. at the same time? A slight paraphrase will make the paradox more clear: how can Bob be the father and the son of Bill at the same time? Hard to say!

No wonder, then, that "from that day on no one dared ask him any more questions" (Matthew 22:46). No one was able to answer - apo-krithênai (pun on San. avyâkritâni, nom. plur.- !). But there is an answer, and the answer is quite simple - provided one knows where to look for it.

Jesus, also known as Christ, as Emmanouêl, the Son of David , the Lord etc. knew the answer, but did not tell: The answer is to be found at the level of gematria, or textual geometry: The number of Christ, Khristos is 1480. The number of son, huios, is 680, and the number of Lord, kurios, is 800. So, since 680 + 800 add up to 1480, he is the Christ, for Khristos is also 1480. So Christ is son and lord, for 1480 is 1480.

But there is more: Jesus, or Christ, is said to be son of David, huios Daueid = 1224. He is also said to be lord of David, kurios Daueid = 1104.

Next step: 1224 and 1104 add up to 2328. As known, Khristos translates Messias, which is 656. The Messias is thus 70 + 656 = 726. He is also to be called Emmanuel, or Emmanouêl (Matthew 1:23), and ho Emmanouêl gives us 70+644 = 714. When we add 726 and 714, we arrive at 1440.

Together with 888 for Jesus (familiar to most early Christians), we get 2328 (888+1440). In other words 2328 = Son of David (and) Lord of David = Jesus, the Emmanuel, the Messias.

Moreover, 2328 is the number of 1480 and 848, which is king, Greek basileus.
Thus the number 2328 provides the geometrical proof that: Christ is the son and the Lord of David, that Jesus or Emmanuel is the Messias, and that Christ is a king - i.e. a king of the Jews, or of Israel, of course.

We may take yet another step: It has been shown that Christ is Lord, or the Lord, ho kurios = 870. Subtracting 870 from 1480, we are left with 610, and there is nothing to prevent us from taking 610 as the teacher, Greek ho didaskalos, 70+540 = 610 (any concordance for the NT ref.).

Also, Jesus is the son of Joseph. In other words: Joseph is (the father) of the teacher, Greek Iôsêph ho didaskalou = 2328. Hence, an angel also calls Joseph "son of David" (Matthew 1:20). Somehow, father and son are one, united in (the) Christ.

In this passage, Christ certainly proves that he is a teacher - a teacher who teaches at two different levels: Buddhist readers are instantly reminded of the celebrated stanzas in Nâgârjuna´s Mûlamadhyamakakârikâ 24:8-10:

"The Dharma teaching of the Buddhas actually presupposes two realities: the relative (superficial) reality of the world and the reality in the ultimate (profound) sense. Those who do not understand the distinction between these two truths do not understand the truth in the profound instruction of the Buddha. The ultimate sese cannot be shown without the support of language; without understanding the ultimate sense nirvana remains unapproachable." (Quoted from my book Master of Wisdom. Writings of the Buddhist Master Nâgârjuna, Berkeley, CA, 1986,1997, p. 340.)

The importance of these simple observations - that have, to the best of my knowledge not been made before - cannot be overestimated: If the student of the NT fails to make a sharp distinction between the level of language and the level of numbers, he cannot understand the truth in the profound instruction of the Christ.
The distinction, in Mahâyâna, between two truths serves a specific purpose - the attainment of nirvana.

Is this also the case in the NT? Perhaps we shall find time to see what Emmanuel has to say about nirvana at some later point.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
a.D. July 21, 2010.

The Man in the Clouds

According to a fresh poll, no less than 41% of all Americans believe that Jesus is still alive , and that the Son of Man - who is also considered son of God, and son of Joseph, a carpenter - will return before the year 2050.

If asked, WHERE, exactly, old man Jesus abides right now, the answer would probably be: Up there in the clouds - which is what the NT teaches in so many words and wants us to believe. Google, please, for fanciful images of Jesus in the clouds!

Of course there is no man really to be seen by any human eye, by any telescope etc. up there in the clouds. It is all poetical fancy, as when Zeus, according to the Greek myth, formed a cloud in the image of Hera, whereupon Ixion embraced her. Thus Kentauros - the Buddhist Gandharvas - was born. Gods that appear in clouds is not an unusual motive in the ancient religions. The myth of Jesus in the clouds can be derived from the corresponding Buddhist myth (SBV, p. 41 etc.)

In Sanskrit literature there is a device called madhyama-pada-lopa - the loss (lopa) of a word (pada) in the middle (madhyama), i.e. in the middle of a given compound. It is a great pity that Christian theologians, when dealing with the highly obscure notion of the holy spirit - hagion pneuma - are unaware of this fact which is reflected in the Greek rendering of the Sanskrit.

The Buddhist myth tells us that Queen Mâyâ, the mother of the Bodhisattva, saw a white elephant descending and entering her womb . The white elephant is a common metaphor for a white cloud in Indian poetry (a fact that Buddhists unfortunately seem to have overlooked). The cloud was driven by the wind. The blow of the wind sets the cloud in motion. Matthew copied the Buddhist myth leaving out the cloud and the blow , thus creating great confusion in the minds of generations to come. As usual, the confusion is intended.

The Christian myth is a copy of the Buddhist myth: First, we have the young god up in heaven.He is a deva-putra - a son (putra) of God (deva). Next, God decides to send him down to earth, in the form of a man, to teach the masses a few lessons about Dharma, or righteousness. The vehicle used for bringing the deva-putra down from heaven to earth is a cloud - and that cloud is driven by the blow of the wind - how else? The Sanskrit runs: megho...mâruta-vega-preritas, i.e a cloud (megha) driven (preritas) by the blow, or power (vega) of the wind (mâruta).

So, Jesus , the deva-putra (alias Daueid-putra), enters the womb of his virgin mother. She is obviously a virgin, for the father of her son is merely a cloud driven by the wind of God. Hence the NT also identifies God with wind (John). A wind called "holy", for it is a rather special wind. The blow of the wind is left out by way of madhyama-pada-lopa, leaving us only with the mysterious cloud. Later on, Matthew 4:1, her son goes to the desert "in the wind" - i.e. transported by yet another cloud driven by the wind.

If one checks all the passages dealing with wind and clouds in the NT in this light, it is clear that Jesus, exactly like the Buddhist original, uses clouds driven by wind in precisely the same way that we use cars etc. driven by e.g. diesel engines etc. The book of Daniel 7:13 is another source for the same idea that likewise inspired the NT : "I beheld in the night vision, and, lo, one coming with the clouds of heaven as a son of man..." The cloud here looks like a man.

The god responsible for the movements of the cloud is, of course, as any Greek schoolboy immediately would recognize, no other than Zeus, the king of men and gods, the heavenly father, called , already by Homer, nephelê-geréta, "the cloud-gatherer". The son of Man, who is also the son of God,the wind, descends from heaven in the form of a cloud. He is a messenger from Zeus. The cloud that looks like a man is also a king, according to the Buddhists source, according to Daniel and according to the NT. The myth of the king descending from heaven in the form of a cloud is, as said, a very common motiv in Hellenistic religious syncretism. The kingdom of the heavens, said to be near, simply refers to Jesus, the cloud that looks like a man that can speak, move around etc.

Sometimes were are told that the dove is a symbol of the Holy Spirit, or that the lamb of god is a symbol of Jesus Christ. That, however, is not really the case. Once we recall that the dove as well as the lamb are white, we are obviously again dealing with white clouds. The white dove = cloud can hardly be distinguised from the wind (pneuma) that carries it, and the white lamb = cloud can, likewise, hardly be distinguished from from God, who is defined as wind, again pneuma. So the dove and the cloud are not at all symbols. Just as we can see a man in a cloud, thus we can see a dove or a lamb. All of the iamges are but clouds, and it takes a cloudy mind to take them for more than that.

In Matthew 17:5 we have another nice case of a cloud that creates confusion. He mentions a cloud that is said to be bright, phôteinê. The voice of god is heard from that cloud. The voice, we now know, is the sound of Homer´s nephelê-geréta. Peter offers to make three tabernacles - for protection from the rain, we may add, in the light of the Buddhist source.

The Buddhist source (CPS § 6; see my Hînayâna, Copenhagen 1998, p. 26) speaks af a cloud that is a-kâla. Sanskrit a-kâla can mean either bright (not black), or out of season. Matthew deliberately prefers the "wrong" correct rendering, in order to confuse his reader. The original idea is that suddenly (out of season) a cloud , full of rain, appears in the sky. Hence "Peter" offers to made a shelter, i.e. to protect Jesus and his visitors from the rain.

Why Peter offers to make huts for protection can only be understood once one is aware of the original Buddhist source. Matthew fails to mention the rain. Luke 9:33, well aware of the Buddhist source, adds that Peter was "not knowing what he said". If one only knows the NT, one does not understand Peter´s motive. Peter did not know the motive of his own action - for he did not know the Buddhist source.

The Cloud messenger (Megha-dûta) is the title of a famous Sanskrit poem by Kâlidâsa. Should the reader wish to enjoy some nice Sanskrit poetry about clouds that may serve as vehicles for fanciful messages, its study is warmly recommended. Buddhists - as well as their Christian imitators - often claim that we should "love all living beings" - perhaps with the exception of the infidels. If so, one wonders why priests still fail to make clear distinctions between myth and reality, between real and imaginary - for surely, to love other human beings is not to confuse other human beings - or how?

Dr. Christian Lindtner
a.D. June 28, 2010

The five thousand of Matthew 14:21 par.

Our source criticism has already demonstrated that the more than five hundred brothers of 1 Corinthians 15:6 were invented by combining two different Buddhist sources: one that spoke of five hundred Buddhist monks present at the cremation of the body of Tathâgata, and one that spoke of the more than five hundred laymen that had recently passed away.

But what, then, about the 5000 men, beside women and children, mentioned by Matthew 14:21? And what about the five loaves and that which remained over of the broken pieces, twelve baskets full?

To find the answer, we must identify the source, and the source is to be found in the second chapter of the Lotus - the Saddharmapundarîkasûtram (SDP). I here refer to the translation of H. Kern.

The assembly of the Lord consists, on the one hand, of twelve hundred Arhats headed by Âjnâta-Kaundinya (head of the group of the first five disciples) (Kern, p. 34) and, on the other hand, of five thousand proud monks, nuns, and lay devotees of both sexes (p. 38; repeated on p. 44). The five thousand men and women leave the assembly, and the twelve hundred, headed by the five, are thus left behind in the assembly. With this image in mind, it is easy to see how Matthew, Mark and Luke handled their Buddhist source, i.e., in this case, the SDP.

In Matthew 14:15 the disciples wanted to send the multitudes away. In the SDP the five thousand proud monks and nuns actually did leave the assembly. Once they had left the assembly, , that which remained over of the broken pieces, were "twelve baskets full" The twelve hundred Buddhist disciples have thus been transformed into twelve baskets full.

The five Buddhist disciples (Âjnâta-Kaundinya and the other four) are transformed into five loaves. According to Mark 6:43-44, the men that ate the loaves were five thousand. The Lord sends them away (Mark 6:45).

Luke 6:15 has the curious remark, that they wish to make Jesus a king, but that he withdrew. The backgroud for this is again the same chapter of the Lotus (Kern, p. 58), where the Lord says: "I declare that I am the king of the law (dharmarâja); I am urging others to enlightenment, but I am here without disciples."

The Lotus repeatedly sanctions the employment of symbolic or code language (Kern, p. 59): "They have spoken in many mysteries; hence it is difficult to understand (them). Therefore try to understand the mystery (sandhâ; sandhâya etc.) of the Buddhas, the holy masters of the world;forsake all doubt and uncertainty: you shall become Buddhas; rejoice!" Only insiders, i.e. the closest disciples know the code.

The modern reader of the feeding of the five thousand is, of course, left deeply mystified.
That he is left mystified is according to the book, i.e. in accordance with the message of the SDP. To solve the mystery, one must identify the source.

The two fish that are eaten but still survive has another obvious Buddhist source to which I shall come back later. (Pieces of flesh of two fish are eaten, but the fish survive, and the next day the two fish provide yet another meal etc. etc.) Mark 6:39-40 is significant for the distributive compounds "sumposia-sumposia" and the "prasiai-prasiai", only to be found here. They are often translated by "into groups" and "in rows".
It is a great pity that our New Testament grammars have failed to identify them as Sanskritisms: samghât samgham...pûgât pûgam (from the MPS, passim, cf. my paper "Some Sanskritisms in the New Testament Gospels", in The Adyar Library Bulletin 65 (2001)). It shows that Mark now and then used the Buddhist source independently.

The rule that allows the combination of corresponding significant numbers - e.g. 40 days with 40 years - is, as known, sanctioned by traditional rabbinical hermeneutics (see e.g. Hermann L. Strack, Einleitung in Talmud und Midrash, München 1921, p. 107, with ref.).

Dr. Christian Lindtner
a.D. June 7, 2010.

Gematria of the Lotus (Saddharmapundarîkasûtram)

In order to understand the Greek of the NT, one must be able to read Sanskrit, and, likewise, in order to understand the Sanskrit of several Buddhist texts composed in that language, one must know ancient Greek. The reason for this is simple: Just as the NT often depends on Buddhist sources, thus Buddhist texts often depend on Greek sources. These scholars we bilingual, they knew Greek and Sanskrit.

Here is a passage from the Saddharmapundarîkasûtram (SDP), or Lotus (Kern ed. p. 391; Wogihara ed., p. 331; Vaidya ed. p. 231). In the translation of Kern (p. 367), with a few additions:

"Therefore, young men of good family (kula-putras), you should after the complete extinction of the Tathâgata, with reverence keep, read, promulgate, cherish, worship it. And wherever on earth, young men of good family, this Dharmaparyâya shall be made known, read, written, meditated, expounded, studied or collected into a volume, be it in a monastery or at home, in the wilderness or in a town, at the foot of a tree or in a palace, in a building or in a cavern, on that spot one should erect a shrine (caityam) in dedication to the Tathâgata. For such a spot must be regarded a a terrace of enlightenment (bodhi-mandas); such a spot must be regarded as one where all Tathâgatas &c. have arrived at supreme, perfect enlightenment; on that spot have all Tathâgatas moved forward the wheel of the law (dharma-cakram); on that spot one may hold that all Tathâgatas have reached complete extinction."

The idea, in brief, is: The SDP is a dharma-parable. It may be recited, written (or drawn, San. likhyeta), considered, copied, explained etc. on a given spot of earth, in a given place. A caityam, or sanctuary, shrine, should then be made in honour of the Lord - Tathâgatam (accusative), for this spot is the bodhi-temple (mandas) of ALL the Tathâgatas. They have been enlightened in that spot of earth. Moreover, all the Tathâgatas have turned the Wheel of Dharma, the dharma-cakram, in that place.

To understand this curious passage, it will be helpful to visualize the situation as a whole. First, it says that the SDP is a dharma-parable. The San.for parable is paryâyas, and, as I have pointed out elsewhere, San. paryâyas, is translated in the NT by the Greek parabolê. Greek parabolê, means, in geometry, application. In other words: the SDP is being drawn on a spot of earth, in the learned sand, as the Greek scholar would say.

The numerical value (psêphos) of Saddharma-pundarîka-sûtram is, according to the Greek mode of calculation,352 +666+1041 = 2059. The diameter of a 2059 circle is 656, and the radius, of course, 328. The numerical value of dharma-cakram is 146+182 = 328; and the numerical value of Tathâgatam (the accusative case as found in the text above) is 656. (For the Chistians 656 is Messias = 40+5+200+200+10+1+200).

To sum up: The passage invites the kula-putras, son of good family, i.e., the educated reader, to draw a 2059 circle with the 656 diameter of Tathâgatam, and the 328 radius of dharma-cakram. The San. cakram (here the neuter, also attested in earlier San. masculine: cakras) clearly represents Greek kuklos, circle. Once we know Greek, we easily see that dharma-cakram is 328, that Tathâgatam is 656, that Saddharma-pundarîka-sûtram is 352+666+1041 = 2059. Furthermore, it is said that all Tathâgatas have turned the dharma-cakram on that spot of earth. This means that the 656 diameter of Tathâgatam has turned, i.e. has drawn the 2059 circle of Saddharmapundarîkasûtram.

What, then, about the two words caityam and bodhimandas (nominative case)? It will be observed that the numerical value of caityam is 20+1+10+300+10+1+40 = 382. Likewise, the number of bodhi-mandas is 86+296 = 382. The number 382 must, therefore, be significant in the present context, i.e. in connection with the drawing - the 2059 circle of SDP - before our eyes. If we draw Tathâgatas, which is 816, as a circle, the inscribed pentagon measures 763.62..or 764, which is the sum of the numerical values of caityam and bodhimandas (i.e. 382 + 382 = 764). The 816 circle with the inscribed 764 pentagon thus tells us that the caityam which is the bodhimandas, is contained in Tathâgatas. Or, to the same effect: Tathâgatas contains the caityam and (or: which is) the bodhimandas.

But how do we go from the initial 328 radius in 2059 SDP circle to the 382 of caityam and bodhimandas? First, 328 is the 2 x 164 solar cross in the 514.95 = 515 circle. Four such circles amount to 514.96 = 2059.84, which, taken as 2059 was, as demonstrated, the number of SDP. The 515 circle contains the inscribed 464 square. When we subtract one half of 164, i.e. 82, from 464, we arrive at 382, the value of caityam as well as bodhimandas. We can now easily how the author, who must have known the Greek language as well as the Greek mode of psêphos, went about: He started out with 328 - dharmacakram. From that he derived the figure 382. This figure he divided by five, giving him the image of the 382 pentagon inscribed in the 408. 20.., or 408 circle. Two such circles gave him 816 for Tathâgatas.

The words of the SDP, in this passage, to sum up, thus operate - as the text itself often states when it refers to "hidden or symbolic language (samdhâ-bhâsya)" - on two levels. There is a hidden message. There are, as always in Mahâyâna, two truths. On the superficial level of words one can translate from one language into another language. On a deeper level, one must know the numerical value of each Sanskrit word according to the Greek mode of calculation (psêphos).

All this was, as I hope to have shown by numerous examples, also know to the authors of the New Testament. Let me therefore, briefly repeat what I have pointed out elsewhere:

Revelation 13:18 refers to the number 666, saying that "it is, in fact, the number of a man" - a-rith-mos gar an-thrô-pou es-tin. These nine syllables of the Greek represent the nine original syllables of the Sanskrit of the title: sad-dhar-ma-pun-da-rî-ka-sût-ram The total number of syllables, as said, is, in both cases, nine. Moreover, the number of letters is, in both cases, 23. Each phrase consists of four different words. The San. counts nine vowels, but the Greek has ten.

Revelation13:18 does not explicitly identify the man whose number is said to be 666. This omission has, unfortunately, given rise to endless speculations. In our view,philological problems must, if possible, be solved in the light of their sources. The Greek for "man" is anthrôpos (nominative form). His number is said to be 666. But 666 is the number of San. pundarîka: 80+400+50+4+1+100+10+20+1 = 666. The "man" in Revelation 13:18, is, therefore, the Lotus, the pundarîka. Something is missing! The man has not been fully identified from the NT point of view. The Greek anthrôpos, man, is 1310. When we subtract 666 for pundarîka, we are left with 644. We would expect, from the context, that 644 somehow refers to the hero of the NT, i.e. to Jesus or Christ (888 or 1480).

According to the OT quotation in Matthew 1: 23, Jesus will be called Emmanouêl - but, strangely, the NT never mentions him by that name. We must thus look for our Emmanouêl on some deeper level, i.e. on the numerical level. Now Emmanouêl is 5+40+40+1+50+70+400+8+30 = 644. The 1310 "man" that Revelation 13:18 refers to, is, therefore, pundarîka as Emmanouêl, for 666 + 644 = 1310.

To put it simply: The Christian saviour (known as Jesus etc.) is identified with the Buddhist saviour (known as Sâkyamuni(s) etc.). The great hero of the SDP is, of course, Sâkyamunis, whose number is 932. The Lotus is his symbol. Since Emmanouêl was identified with this Lotus, we would expect that Jesus also was identified with the Lotus, for Emmanouêl is one of the names of Jesus.

When we look closer at various passages of the NT, we shall find that our suspicions be fully confirmed: During the Last Supper, Jesus refers to his body, Greek sôma, and to his blood, to haima mou. The sôma is 1041, and 1041 is also San. sûtram. And "the blood of mine", to haima mou, is 932, and 932 is Sâkyamunis. The tês diathêkês, of the covenant, that follows (Matthew 26:28) contains a clear pun on San. Tathâgatasya, of the Tathâgata, i.e. of Sâkyamuni(s), both pentasyllabic. Jesus thus identifies himself with Sâkyamuni(s), the main Tathâgata of the SDP. Jesus is an embodiment of the SDP.

There is more to the very same effect: When we draw a circle that measures 888 for Jesus (Iêsous), the inscribed Lotus (the Star of David, the hexagram) measures 1470, but 1470 is the number of the Greek word for the Lotus, viz. ho lôtos = 70+30+800+300+70+200 = 1470. So we see Jesus as the Lotus, the Star of David.
Did the authors of the SDP already have this drawing in mind - the drawing of the Lotus inscribed in a circle? The answer is: yes, they did: The psêphos of SDP was, as will be recalled, 2059 (or 2059.84) If one draws a Lotus (as the Buddhists often did) measuring 2059, the circle in which this hexagram is inscribed measures ca. 1244.

To be quite precise: the inscribed hexagram measures 6 x 343.306666666...suggesting the number of man: 666. If we add 816, the number of Tathâgatas (above), we arrive at 2060 or 2059, which is the number of Saddharmapundarîkasûtram. This Buddhist drawing, therefore, also identifies Tathâgatas on the basis of a drawing of a hexagram showing us the stylized image of a Lotus.

Jesus, was, therefore, in several ways born from a Buddhist lotus.

A final point: In the SDP, the Lord Sâkyamuni(s) encourages his disciples to spread the message in writing etc. His disciples are called Bodhisattvas, Mahâsattvas etc., and kula-putras, i.e. "family-sons" (often translated freely as "sons of good family").
The passage from the SDFP quoted above read:

"Therefore, young men of good family, you should after the complete extinction of the Tathâgata, with reverence, keep, read, promulgate, cherish, worship it."

In other words: Once Sâkyamuni(s) as passed away, it is up to the kula-putras to spread the SDP in various ways. The kula-putras is thus one of the many synonyms of a Buddhist missionary. The psêphos of San. kula-putras is 451+1081 = 1532. I have already pointed out, again and again, that Jesus is such a Buddhist missionary in disguise.

The truth of this observation can now be established from yet another point of view. The number of Jesus is 888, and the number of Emmanouêl is 644. Thus Jesus Emmanouêl is 888 + 644 = 1532. But 1532 is also the number of kula-putras, a missionary of the Lotus. It was stated clearly, that the kula-putras was expected to become active AFTER the extinction of Sâkyamunis.

Jesus Emmanouêl, therefore, was such a kula-putras, who propagated the message of the SDP - in disguise as the son of God, the son of David etc. etc. He was, indeed, born in or from a lotus, for all Bodhisattvas are, as students of Buddhist art are aware, born in a lotus.

Jesus was also known as Messias, and Messias is 40+5+200+200+10+1+200 = 656. But, as we have seen, 656 is the diameter of the 2059 circle of the Saddharmaundarîkasûtram. Thus, Messias, alias Jesus Emmanouêl, was also born from the Lotus. In various places, the NT would like to have us believe that Jesus is identical with the Messias mentioned in the OT.

We can now prove that this belief is, in a strange and unexpected way, quite true, for since the SDP circle is 2059, and since Jesus is 888, and since Messias is 656,and since 515 was also established above, it follows that:

Jesus is Messias - in Greek: Iêsous esti Messias = 888+515+656 = 2059.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
a.D. May 31, 2010.

The Rising of the Saints from the Tombs - Buddhist Lotus source of Matthew 27:51-53

When Jesus gave up his spirit, many odd phenomena occurred. One of these, obviously intended as a sort of evidence for the absurd Christian doctrine of physical resurrection, is mentioned by Matthew 27: 51-53: "...and the earth was shaken, and the rocks were rent, and the tombs were opened, and many bodies of the saints which slept arose, and came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared to many."

The identity of the bodies of these saints who came out of their graves and went into the holy city, has always been somewhat of an embarrassment to even the most naive among modern theologians. One learned Danish theologian - Mogens Müller - suggests that the reference is to the prophets and righteous men of the OT. Another theologian, Donald A. Hagner, admits "that the rising of the saints from the tombs in this passage is a piece of theology set forth as history."

One cannot but smile at the opposition or conflict between theology and history that Hagner here inadvertently expresses. For what he says is simply that Matthew is not speaking the truth. However, the rising of the saints from the tombs is not merely a case of theology, or myth, but a manifest case of plagiary. We have already seen that "the best and the earliest" evidence for the physical resurrection of Jesus, and for Christians in general, has been copied by "Paul" from Buddhist sources- the "more than 500 brethren"
etc. (1 Cor. 15)

And when it comes to the saints rising from the tombs, we again have a Buddhist source, namely the celebrated Lotus Sûtra - the Saddharmapundarîkasûtram, still available in Sanskrit as well as Chinese, Tibetan etc. Chapter xiv (in the Sanskrit edition, and English translation of H. Kern; chapter xv in te Chinese version of Kumârajîva; translated by W.E.Soothill) is entitled: "Issuing of the Bodhisattvas from the Gaps of the Earth".

Here are the main points:

The multitude of Bodhisattvas say to the Lord that they would like to read, write, worship and devote themselves to the Lotus. But the Lord replies that this is not necessary, for he already has an enormous number of Bodhisattvas able to do that.

"No sooner had the Lord uttered these words than the Saha-world burst open on every side, and from within the clefts arose many hundred thousand myriads of kotis of Bodhisattvas with gold-coloured bodies...who had been staying in the element of ether underneath this great earth close to this Saha-world. These then on hearing the word of the Lord came up from below the earth...They cannot be numbered, counted, calculated, compared, known by occult science, the Bodhisattvas Mahâsattvas who emerged from the gaps of the earth to appear in the Saha-world. And after they had successively emerged they went up to the Stûpa of precious substances which stood in the sky, where the Lord Prabhûtaratna, the extinct Tathâgata, was seated along with the Lord Sâkyamuni on the throne. Thereafter they saluted the feet of both Tathâgatas, etc., as well as the images of Tathâgatas produced by the Lord Sâkyamuni from his own body..."

From the Chinese version of Kumârajîva:

" When the Buddha has thus spoken, the earth...trembles and quakes and from its midst there issue together innumerable thousands, myriads, kotis of Bodhisattva-Mahâsattvas...These Bodhisattvas, hearing the voice of Sâkyamuni Buddha preaching, spring forth from below... When these Bodhisattvas have emerged from the earth, each goes up to the wonderful Stûpa of the Precious Even (jewels) in the sky, where are the Tathâgata Abundant-Treasures and Sâkyamuni Buddha."

Conclusion: The saints that issue from the earth are not exactly the prophets etc. of the OT, but the Bodhisattvas of the Lotus. The cry of Jesus up there on the cross, was the cry of the Lord up there in the Stûpa in the sky.

The holy city, to which they went, was the Stûpa up there in the sky. By comparing the original text of the Lotus, the reader will find many more parallels, all of them to the effect, that "Matthew" (who has his name from a famous Buddhist monk) and his consorts copied the Lotus when they fabricated the legend of Jesus, combining, of course, with bits and pieces taken from the OT etc.

In Chapter x of the Lotus, on the Buddhist preacher, the Lord endorses that after his Nirvâna, the Lotus be communicated "in secret or by stealth" (rahasi caurenâpi; San. ed. Kern, p., 227). This is, as we have now seen, indeed what happened, when "Matthew" plagiarized the legend of the Lotus about the Bodhisattvas that issued from the earth upon the Lord´s cry from the Stûpa in the sky. In the old wooden church of Granhult in Småland (Sweden), there is a naive painting showing the physical resurrection of the Bodhisattvas.

Christian readers will, in the interest of historical truth, be happy to know that all the alleged witnesses to the resurrection of Jesus, are , in fact Buddhist witnesses. Should they not be happy about that, there is some consolation to be had from yet another fact, namely that all the Buddhist witnesses are, themselves, also not fact but myth, or fabrications of vivid Buddhist imagination.

Dr. Christian Lindtner
a.D. 2010, May 19.

THE SHROUD OF TATHÂGATAS

Good for Pope Benedict XVI - the phony successor of the Buddhist (Sâri-) PuTRaS, alias PeTRoS - that he did not (on May 2, 2010) outright endorse the authenticity of the Shroud of Turin, a manifest fake, as known by now. Instead, the Holy Father said something about the Shroud being a "a photographic documentation of the darkest mystery of faith" - i.e., in plain words, a simple hoax.

The legend, of course, goes back to the Gospels, Matthew 27:57-61 par.

Our Roman impostor would be delighted to know - perhaps - that parts of the Christian legend can be traced to a Buddhist source, viz. Mahâparinirvânasûtra (ed. Waldschmidt) 46-49, from which I will here draw attention to a few points only:

1.The body of Bhagavân (Tathâgata) can only be removed once the gods have given their permission.
Hence "the rich man from Arimathea", whose name was Joseph, first has to have the permission of Pilate.
This rich man - Greek anthrôpos plousios - can be identified as the brâhmanas Dhûmrasa-gotras, MPS 51:1-3. San. brâhmanas becomes Greek anthrôpos,.
Mark and Luke prefer the translation bouleutês., which gives the sense of brâhmanas quite well. -
The Greek apo represents the San. -gotra ("from the family of"), and Gr. Arimathaias retains all the consonants of San. Dhumrasa-

2. The body of Bhagavân is wrapped in vihataih karpâsair (instrumental plur., passim), i.e. cotton bandages that are "not beaten".
Hence the body of Jesus is wrappen in sindoni (instrumental case of sindôn), meaning "Indian linen.
Matthew adds that the Indian linen is "clean" - obviously intended to correspond to the San. adjective avihatair
John 19:40 has the variant - also instrumental plural, as in Sanskrit: othoniois, from othonion (a loan word from Semitic), meaning linen bandages..
The motive of John is obvious: he fears the Indian association of sindôn, the Indian linen.

3. The body of Bhagavân is cremated, but the body of Jesus is not cremated - for how, if so , could it appear intact a few days later?
The body of Bhagavân is placed in a coffin with a lid.
The body of Jesus is placed in a grave with a stone serving as "lid".
Hence, the Buddhist source cannot be followed when it comes to cremation. Creamtion would render physical resurrection rather complicated.

The reader who takes the trouble to compare the Greek and the Sanskrit, word by word (while keeping the general context in mind) , will find more instances of the same sort, all of it to the effect that the Gospel has been copied from Buddhist " gospel", the sûtram (as if from su-uktam, well said).

I need not here repeat what has often been said, namely that Matthew and his Buddhist friends often use the MPS as one of their major Buddhist sources for the incredible myths of the NT. The MPS is a part of the MSV, where we also have one of the sources of the Crucifixion etc. etc.

There is a careful comparative study of the MPS published by Ernst Waldschmidt as "Die Überlieferung vom Lebensende des Buddha,I-II", Berlin 1944-1948.- Waldschmidt, however, never refers to the New Testament.

Did Benedict XVI ever study the work of Ernst Waldschimdt? It is known that he supported the publication of a German translation of the Lotus-sûtra, another important source of the Gospels. If so, he must have wondered, for Benedict is a learned man.

It would make sense to speak of "the darkest mystery of faith" when we compare MPS with NT.

Christian Lindtner
a.D. 2010, May 8.

WHO WROTE THE NEW TESTAMENT GOSPELS?

There are still theologians who claim that all that we read in the New Testament is "the word of God". Other theologians, more critical and sceptical , admit that perhaps not all that we read can be ascribed to God himself. Some things - especially silly things - may be due to the evangelists. But who were the evangelists? Or more precisely: Who is responsible for the Greek text of the Gospel according to Matthew, the Gospel according to Mark, etc.?

I here assume that the reader is familiar with modern discussions such as Burton L. Mack, Who wrote the New Testament?, San Francisco 1995; or Bruce M. Metzger, The Canon of the New Testament, Oxford 1987 (and later). None of these erudite theologians have come to any conclusion about the identity of Matthew or Mark - to whom I shall here confine my attention.

The reason they have failed to identify Matthew and Mark is extremely simple - they have been looking in the wrong place. If you want to pick apples or flowers, you do not go out in a boat and pick them on the ocean. Likewise, if you want to identify Matthew and Mark, you want to look for them in the Mûlasarvâstvâdavinaya (MSV) - one of the main sources for the NT Gospels in general.

The MSV (p. 5) starts out thus: The Sâkyas of Kapilavastu are staying in the assembly hall of Kapilavastu. They would like to hear more about their own origins, and invite the Lord to do so. The Lord, however, does not want to praise himself, and asks his disciple, the Great Maudgalyâyanas to tell the story of their origins. This Maudgalyâyanas is sitting in the assembly. He enters a state of trance, then raises up from that state, and follows the exhortation of the Lord. He then tells the story much like the one that we have now found in the Gospel of Matthew (p. 6).

What he narrates is a sûtram - as if from su-, meaning "good", and uktam", meaning "said, spken, statement". So, a sûtram can mean a good statement, a good message - a gospel. The Greek eu-aggelion is a synonym, it means: good eu-, and aggelion, message"
Theologians often claim that the euaggelion genre is unique, that there is nothing really comparable in Greek or Hebrew. Sure, but there is something like it in Sanskrit and Pâli. The Greek simply imitates the Sanskrit. As said, Maudgalyâyanas then narrates, and what he narrates can easily be traced in the NT Gospels.

I have already pointed out in my book Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, how Matthew 9:9 is a direct translation of the Sanskrit found in MSV, p. 6. Matthew 9:9 runs: "Jesus left that place, and as he walked along he saw a tax collector, named Matthew, sitting in his office. He said to him, "Follow me, " and Matthew got up and followed him".

This is precisely what goes on in the Buddhist source: The venerable Maudgalyâyanas is sitting in the assembly. The Lord, Bhagavân speaks to him and asks him to narrate the story of the origin of the Sâkyas. Maudgalyâyanas gets up from trance (samâdhi) , and follows the exhortation.

The "man named Matthew" is therefore no other than "the venrable Great Maudgalyâyanas". The story narrated by this Matthew is, essentially, the story narrated by this Maudgalyâyanas. When the colophons of the Greek manuscripts describe the text as the "Gospel according to Matthew", what they mean to say is that this text is based on a collection of sûtras - good saings - found in the MSV. The term ev-aggelion, therefore has the same sense as "scripture" graphê, the synonym used by Paul in 1 Cor. 15: 3 & 4.

We do not have to read many pages of the original Gospel according to Matthew - i.e. the MSV - before we meet a man, a very young man, who later became transformed into the evangelist Mark - or Markos (the Greek form). According to an old well-known Christian legend, poor Mark had a crooked finger - he was colobodaktulos, i.e. his finger, or fingers, were short, or maimed. In their usual irresponsible fashion, theologians have speculated what that is supposed to mean. Did he cut off or shorten his fingers to avoid military service? Or does it perhaps mean that his fingers were too short to finish the Gospel transmitted under his name?

The explanation is found on p. 57 of MSV. According to the legend, when the Buddha was still but a young prince, Sanskrit kumâras, he was extremely strong. Thus, there was a golden bowl, and it was so heavy that not even horses could pull it. But KuMâRaS only needed to bend his finger , or fingers, forming them into a hook. With his fingers serving as a hook he was then able to snatch the heavy golden bowl and pull it away. The Sanskrit term for "with his fingers as a hook" is kutilângulikayâ, and it is extremely rare, perhaps only found here. It is formed according to the rules of Sanskrit grammar, and there are in the Buddhist scriptures several other terms formed in the very same way (instrumental case). The compound is a "real" Sanskrit compound.

Likewise, the Greco-Latin term kolobo-daktulos. It, too, is extremely rare, found perhaps only here (and in later passages depending on this passage; for a discussion see e.g. Holger Mosbech, Nytestamentlig Isagogik, Copenhagen 1946, p. 178). The Latin form is colobo-dactylus. The Christian usage clearly depends directly on the Buddhist usage. The Greco-Latin form was fabricated by a person knowing Sanskrit. From KuMâRaS we get MaRKoS. Thus Mark - at least here - was originally no other than Kumâras - the Buddha while still a young prince. This person cannot possibly be held responsible for having written the Greek gospel. We also hear that Mark was the interpreter of Peter. The origin of this legend is from the same passage in the MSV, still p. 57. It is said that the golden bowl was pulled by kumâras with his crooked finger(s). The Sanskrit for the bowl is here pâtrî. This becomes Latin Petri (p-t-r). And when the Latin says that he was interpres , that again is a pun on the Sanskrit pâtrî.

To conclude: Mark was the Buddha as a young prince, and Matthew was one of the disciples of the Buddha - the one who rose and followed the exhortation to tell this and many other legends. The general conclusion is, as always : The Christian gospels are pirate copies of the Buddhist gospels.

I started out by asking the question: Who is responsible for the Greek texts presented to us as the Gospels according to Matthew and Mark? We can be sure that the Greek texts were not written by Maudgalyâyanas or by Kumâras.(The same goes for the Sanskrit - it was not written by Maudgalyâyanas, but about Maudgalyâyanas and about Kumâras.) And since the names of Matthew and Mark are directly derived from the Sanskrit, we can also conclude that these two gospels were not composed or written by these people.

There is also, as often, an element of hidden humour in all this: Sanskrit kutila means "crooked", but also "fishy" Thus the translation kolobo-daktulos suggest that there is something "crooked" or "fishy" about the figure of Mark. There can be no doubt that the "evagelists" enjoyed themselkves when they fabricated the "holy scripture"! They enjoyed themselves when they deceived their readers. One is reminded of Julian´s remark that the Christians were motivated by kakourgia - villainy.

According to an early Christian tradition, a certain Pantaenus went to India, where he found a copy of the Gospel according to Matthew (see the discussion in Metzger, op. cit., p. 129 f.). It is reported to have been in Hebrew letters. It was said to have been brought there and left there - in India - by a certain Bar-tholomew. What are we to make of that?
The first piece of information is, as we have seen, quite true: The Gospel of Matthew has its home in India. But what about the second part - the legend of Bartholomew having brought it there?

The answer is simple - provided you know the Buddhist sources. Just like the disciples of Jesus often have more than one name, thus the disciples of Buddha also have more than one name. Maudgalyâyanas also has other names, and one of these is indeed one that can be translated as "son", bar, of thalama.

The early Christian tradition about Pantaenus going to India, where he found the Gospel of Matthew said to have been brought there by Bartholomew, now becomes clear. Matthew and Bartholomew are the same person - the Buddhist Maudgalyâyanas.
So what Pantaenus found was the Gosdpel of Maudgalyâyanas - i.e. the MSV, or parts of it. That should not come as a surprise by now.

When the Buddhist gospels were eventually translated into other Oriental languages, it was the MSV version that was regarded as "canonical". This was the Gospel according to Maudgalyâyanas. And this was what Pantaenus found in India.

Christian Lindtner
April 27, a. D. 2010

SIMEON AND ANNA, ZACHARIAS AND JOHN - Main Buddhist sources of Luke 1-3

It is a great pity that theologians still can publish commentaries on Luke without any reference at all to the Buddhist sources of the initial chapters of that gospel.

Buddhist sources for the Presentation of Jesus in the temple, Luke 2:22-40, have been available and known for a very long time. They were discussed e.g. by Richard Garbe in 1914, and three of my learned friends have again drawn attention to them in more recent books: Kersten, Thundy, Derrett.

There would hardly be any need to draw attention to this issue again had it not been that the MSV contains important new materials that have escaped the notice of all previous scholars.

It will be recalled, that according to Luke, a man called Simeon (Sumeôn) , in the temple in Jerusalem, took up the child, to paidion, in his arms , and predicted that he - after his own passing away - would be a saviour and a light to his people etc.

Also mentioned here is a prophetess, Anna, the daughter of Phanouêl.

The boy "increased in wisdom". The Buddhist sources are found in MSV, I, pp. 46-57:

Asita, a rishi ("seer") and his sister-son (bhâgineya) Nâlada live on a mountain. Here they see the light of the Muni, for when a Bodhisattva is born, the world becomes illuminated by such a light.

(This also explains the star seen by the wise men from the East, Matthew 2: a bodhisattva has been born.)

Later on they go to Kapilavastu, where Asita takes the Bodhisattva in his hands (not arms), and predicts that the light of the world will become a saviour etc., provided he leaves his home at an age of thirty in order to become a monk.

This is important - see below!

We read that the Bodhisattva is endowed with wisdom prajnâ (p. 52).

The father of the Bodhisattva is one of the four kings of the Sâkyas - he is a Sâkya-râjas (nominative), Sâkya-king.

With this in mind it is easy to see how the Buddhist source was "judaized", i.e.

combined with extracts from the Old Testament:

Asita and Nâlada are disguised as Jews: Simeon (Sumeôn) and Anna, daughter of Phanouêl.

When Simeon took the child - to pai-di-on - in his arms, it was originally Asita who took the bo-dhi-sat-tva in his hands.

Both of them then express themselves in verses, not in prose.

The rendering of Sanskrit bodhi-sattva(s) is nice: The bodhi becomes paidi, and the Greek to with the final on means "being", which is also the meaning of the Sanskrit sattva.

(This "translation" shows the prajnâ of the translators, see below for the meaning of prajnâ!)

The Sanskrit original, of course, knows nothing at all about a Jewish saviour and light of the world etc.

According to the Buddhist source (p. 54), the Bodhisattva would leave his home at an age of 29 years: ekânnatrimsatko vayasâ grhân nirgamisyati.

That is very significant, for in Luke 3:23 we read that Jesus himself was beginning at about thirty. The word for "was/is beginning", arkhomenos, has caused problems. Some translators have left it out, or translated by "was", or by "he began teaching". But the Greek has nothing about teaching - or anything of that sort.

It has already been observed by theologians that this indication of his age being about thirty is incompatible with the indications given in Luke 1:5 and 2:2, q.v. - The paradox of time is solved once we see that the paradox is a result of combining entirely different sources. Also, it is clear that what Jesus "was beginning" is not to teach, but to leave his home - to become a monk. The Greek, then, means" starting out (from his home)". But Luke was not at all interested in Jesus becoming a Buddhist monk. So he just left his reader asking himself, what Jesus was starting out for.

Luke 2:52 ends by writing that the boy increased in wisdom , proekopte sophia.

That is also a very odd statement.

In Matthew 13:55 and Mark 6: 2 the pertinent question is cunningly raised: Where did he get this sophia from?

The answer, we now know, is that he got his sophia from the prajnâ of the Bodhisattva.

This wisdom is a very special kind of wisdom, it is a prajnâ that expresses itself in the analysis of words and syllables, we learn MSV, I. p. 52 (artha-pada-vyanjanam prajnayâ pratividhyati: by wisdom he understands meaning-word-syllable).

Now, what about John - the so-called Baptist, acc. to Luke 1 ?

Once again the MSV provides us with the answer:

When the Bodhisattva became a Buddha, the nasty rumour spread that he had died. His father, the Sâkya-râja, of course became very sad. But the rumour turned out to be false, and there was naturally a great relief and joy , Sanskrit ânanda(s).

At this very moment, a son was born to another Sâkya-râja. What will be his name, people asked? Of course, his name would be Ânanda - Joy!

In Luke, Zacharias has a son. People suggest that he, too, be called Zacharias. But Zacharias and his wife, Elisabeth, insist that he be called Iôannês, "John."

In other words: He could have been called Zacharias, but is calle Iôannês.

The Buddhist source is obvious:

Ânandas (nominative) becomes Iôannês. The name Zacharias still would make sense, for Ânandas could - like his cousin, the Buddha (Sâkya-munis) - have become a Sâkya-râja(s) himself.

One must know that Ânanda means joy, to appreciate the pun on "joy" in Luke 1:14. (Greek khara translates San. ânandas, joy.)

But Ânanda did not become a king. He was chosen to become the personal servant of the Buddha - his upasthâyaka(s).

This technical term, upa-sthâyakas in Greek becomes apo-stolos

Much has, of course, been written about the use and meaning of the Greek apostolos. But it has not been noticed before that this noun in some cases is a direct, and very good, translation of the Sanskrit upa-sthâyakas.

What do we learn from all this?

A few buzz words, the general context, and our knowledge of the MSV as a source of the NT permit us to conclude that Luke has combined Buddhist and OT sources for writing the intial chapters of his gospel.

The purpose of the two initial chapters is quite obvious: Two of the greatest men in history have been born: Jesus and John the Baptist , who would prepare the way for Jesus.

Luke changed the original names. The Buddhist prince and his servant obtained a new identity: King Jesus and John the Baptist. The Buddhist seers also changed their identity, and so did the original location: Asita and Nâlada in the palace of Kapilavastu became Simêon and Anna in the temple in Jerusalem.

Luke cannot be used as source of what actually took place, but these chapters erve as an excallent specimen of what the phrase "judaized Buddhism" actually means.

Christian Lindtner
February 27, a. D. 2010

Capernaum was Kapilavastu - Kingdom of Gods

Capernaum (Kapernaoum, Kapharnaoum) and the synagoge in that town plays exactly the same role in the legend of Jesus as Kapilavastu and the assembly hall in that town plays in the legend of the Buddha, i.e. Sâkyamuni, the Tathâgata.

Capernaum is never mentioned in the Old Testament, and scholars do not agree about its exact location on the map. It is said to have been Jesus´ own city, idia polis, Matthew 9:1, and it is also described as having been located "upon the sea-side", tên parathalassian, Matthew 4:13.

The derivation of Kaper- or Kaphar- -naoum is uncertain. It seems to mean the town or place of Kaper, or Kaphar. But who was he?

In the MSV, p.5 - as always our main source along with the Lotus - we read that the Lord Buddha was staying in the Nyâgrodârâme in Kapilavastu. The inhabitants of Kapilavastu - the Sâkyas - are staying in the assembly hall (samsthâgâre) of Kapilavastu. From there they go to the Buddha in the Nyâgrodhârâme (locative case). He teaches them about their past etc.

At some point he goes to Kapilavastu, his home town (his father was king of Kapilavastu). People lack faith, but he converts them by way of miracles.

In the MSV, p. 88, we read that Kapilavastu, the place, or town, vastu (= naoum) of the sage Kapila (= Kaper or Kaphar) was located on the bank of the Ganges river, on the slope of the Himalayas (anu-himavat-pârsve).

Thus the location on the banks of the Ganges on the slope of the Himalayas becomes that of Caernaum upon or along the sea-side.

(It may be added that Sanskrit compounds indicating locations with a preposition as first member are always carefully translated into Greek.)

No wonder scholars have problems locating Capernaum. They have - as so often - been looking at the wrong map!

The Buddha teaching in the assembly hall becomes Jesus teaching in the synagoge. The Greek "in the synagoge", (en) sunagôgê, is a perfect rendering of Sanskrit samsthâgâre, in the assembly hall.

When it is said that Jesus moved from Nazara (Matthew 4:13) to Kapharnaoum, this was the Buddha who came from Nyâgrodha to Kapilavastu.. Here, Nazara (unusual spelling!) reflects the Sanskrit Nyagrodha.

From Matthew 13:53-58 we learn that Jesus came to his own country (more exactly: his paternal country, area) etc., and that he did not do many mighty works there because of their unbelief (a-pistia).

This reflects the celebrated episode in the MSV, p.188, where Buddha (Sâkyamuni) came back to Kapilavstu - his father´s town - where he at first was met with disbelief (Sanskrit a-prasâda). But then he converted them by some miracles (that are also in the NT - the miracles of water and fire)..

Matthew 13:58 is normally translated as a statement such as : " And he did not there work many miracles because of their unbelief."

Now that the Buddhist source has been identified, we can be sure that the phrase can also be translated as a rhetorical question: " And did ho not work many miracles there because of their unbelief?"

He surely did!

The centurion in Capernaum mentioned in Matthew 8:5-13 is easily identified as the father of Sâkyamuni in Kapilavastu.

In the same pericope, we are informed that some of us shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven.

This is clearly based on MSV, p. 196, where the Lord teaches in the asembly hall of the gods - the kingdom of heaven. The gods are present: Brahmâ, Sakra and Kuberas and others.

So the Indian god Brahmâ becomes Abrahma, the Indian god Sakra becomes Isaac (Isaak) , and the Indian god Kuberas becomes Jacob, Greek Iakôbos.

The kingdom of god - Sanskrit devas = Greek theos - was to be found in Kapilavastu.

The Greek term kingdom is perfect - it weas the kingdom of Kapilavstu - the father of the Buddha. His father is addressed "deva" - God! Hence Kapilavastu is the kingdom of that God!

The anonymous Buddhist missionaries behind these NT passages, we may safely conclude, followed the "Jesuitic" rule prescribed for propaganda in the Lotus: Work secretly, by way of theft (rahasi caurenâpi).

One cannot say that they were not successful!

Christian Lindtner
February 15, a. D. 2010

TWO DROPS OF WATER WITH BLOOD - Buddhist source of Mark 15:21 etc.

Here are three NT passages that, at first sight, have nothing at all in common:

According, first, to Mark 15:21 only, the otherwise unknown Simon of Cyrene, who was forced to carry the cross of Jesus, was the father of two sons, Alexander and Rufus.

According, second, to Luke 22:44, which is left out in several modern editions of the NT (but attested by many early fathers of the Church) , Jesus, in his great anguish, prayed even more fervently; his sweat was like drops of blood, falling to the ground.

According, third, to John 19:34, when Jesus was hanging on the cross, one soldier plunged his spear into his side, and at once blood and water poured out.

As said, apparently these three accounts have nothing in common.

So why combine them here?

If one is familiar with the legend of the crucifixion of Gatama in the MSV (p. 24-25), it is not difficult to recognize that we are here dealing with three different versions of one and the same Buddhist source.

A simple observation with highly impoirtant consequences:

Gautama is hanging on the pole. He has been impaled for murdering a prostitute, Bhadrâ, even though - as it turns out later - he was innocent. The real murderer escaped in the crowd.

As he is hanging there in great anguish, his teacher, upâdhyâya, a certain Krsna-dvaipâyanas, turns up. They talk together for a while. Gautama is about to pass away, but he has left no offspring. What can be done?

Then it starts to rain. The water is mixed with the blood from the innocent man (Gautama alias Jesus). Two drops of water mixed with blood fall to the ground. Two eggs develop from the blood (which is in accordance with traditional Indian embryology.). The egg-shells break. The Sanskrit noun for egg-shells is kapalâni - which also means skulls. (Hence Golgotha is called the place of the Skulls).

Gautama passes away when the sun is more = most fervent (bhâsuratarâ) - hence the fervent in Luke 22:44. Krsna-dvaipâyana becomes the father, i.e. the foster father of the two sons that developed from the two eggs.

The Sanskrit for the two drops of water (semen) and blood is: dvau sukra-bindû sa-rudhire (p. 25, line 6), i.e.: two water-drops with-blood.

In Mark the two drops of water with blood become Alexandrou kai Rouphou - (the father) of Alexander and Rufus - two boys otherwise not known from early Christian sources. San. sa-rudhire becomes kai Rouphou; the sa- means kai, and; and rudhira means red, like Rufus. Alexandrou (genitive) is from sukra-bindû, with the genitive in the Greek is as close to the dual Sanskrit ending - û as one can come.

It thus does make sense when Mark says that Simon of Cyrene was the father of Alexander and Rufus, for Krsnadvapâyana was indeed the foster father of the two boys that developed from the two drops of water (semen) with blood.

Sanskrit -dvaipâyana means "from an island". Krsna-dvaipâyana is thus the "Black-islander".

This man, then, in Martk, becomes Kurênaios ap´ agrou - Krsna from the field.

In Luke 22:44 - which has always embarrassed interpreters - the sweat of Jesus, like drops of blood falling to the ground, is an accurate translation of the Sanskrit: sukra-bindû sa-rudhire. The San. verb is the same as the Greek. Moreover, the adjective, in comparative form is the rare ektenesteron, Luke 22:44. It is an exact rendering of the San. comparative bhâsuratarâ - even more intense, more fervent. It fits better with the rays of the sun than with the mode of prayer. The MSV makes best sense.

Finally, in John 19:34, blood and water pour out from the side of the man on the cross. This is due to the spear - an echo of the pole on which Gautama was impaled in the original Buddhist source.

It is thus, to conclude, clear that one and the same Sanskrit compound was translated and employed in three different manners by three different evangelists.

The evangelists knew the same story and they were, all of them, very much interested in the Sanskrit compound: dvau sukra-bindû sa-rudhire - the two drops of semen (or water) that, mixed with blood, fell to the ground.

The Sanskrit original is not entirely free from obscene connotations. But this is typical of classical Sanskrit literature.

In Mark, Luke and John there are no obscene connotations. This does not necessarily mean that they were motivated by prudishness.

In their version of the Buddhist legend there was no room for the hero to have children.

The unknown authors were very competent in Greek as well as Sanskrit. The three evangelists worked together, comparing their "translations".

It will be easy for the reader to identify the innocent man on the "cross", the man who got away etc. The events took place near Potalas - becoming Pilatos (Peilatos) etc. etc.

Without a good knowledge of Sanskkrit - how can one understand NT Greek?

NB: This essay could not be published in any theological journal - where there is no room for original Sanskrit sources.

Christian Lindtner
February 11, a.D. 2010

WHY WAS JESUS SO RUDE TO PETER? - Buddhist source of Matthew 16:23 & Mark 8:33

When Jesus foretold his death and resurrection, Peter took him aside and rebuked him, saying: "God forbid, Lord, this must never happen to you!"

With these words Peter showed that he cared for his Lord, and thus we are surprised to learn how Jesus reacts: " Go behind me, Satan! You are an obstacle (scandal) to me, for you do not think of the (things?) of god, but of the (things?) of men."

Peter must have been puzzled, if not shocked, and so are we.

Why is Jesus so rude? Why is Jesus so obscure?

Why does Peter have to go behind (Greek opisô) Jesus, and what does that have to do with his not thinking of the (things) of god but of men?

The answers are to be found in the Buddhist source, in this case MPS 35:2.

On that occasion - we read - the venerable Upamâna (in Pâli called Upavâna) was standing with a fan in front of the Lord. Then the Lord said to him:" Monk! do not stand in front of me!"

One of the other monks present, Ânanda, is surprised, for he has never in his long life heard the Lord express himself so rudely to anyone.

Why is the Lord so rude to the monk?

The Lord explains: When a Buddha is about to pass away - as Jesus foretold his death in Matthew and Mark - the gods (devatâ) gather from afar in order to witness the spectacular event. When Upamâna is standing in front of him with his fan, he becomes an obstacle that prevents the gods from seeing what is going on. Hence the Lord commands the monk not to stand in front of him, but to go behind him. Then only the gods can observe the event.

I have already given many examples of the MPS as a major source of the NT Gospels, and when it comes to the rude words of Jesus to his disciple, the source is once again the MPS.

In this case we have a Sanskrit version as well as a Pâli version, with minor variants. Both are to be found in the edition of Waldschmidt (Berlin 1951 , p. 356).

The Greek (any modern edition) is: hypage opisô mou, satana, and it translates a combination of the Pâli and the Sanskrit:

The Sanskrit is : bhikso, mâ me purastât tistha - Monk, no (of) me in front stand!

The Pâli: apehi, bhikkhu, mâ me purato atthâsi - Go away, monk, not me in front stand!

We may here observe:

The Buddhist monk, in the vocative, becomes Satan, also in the vocative.

The Greek imperative hypage is a perfect rendering of Pâli apehi, also imperative.

The "not in front of me" in the original becomes "behind" in the Greek,which is opisô. The choice of opisô mou is perfect, for not only does it render the original meaning correctly, but it also contains a pun on the name of the monk in question, viz. Upamânas (nominative form): the consonants p-s-m. Only the n is not represented in the Greek.

When it comes to the gods, the Greek says ta... theou, those (what?) of (the) god. It is obscure. But the original mentions devatâ, meaning divine being, divinity, or simply god.

The form of the abstract noun deva-tâ is from deva + tâ. And so we understand the curious Greek ta... theou, those of god. The Greek ta reflects the Sanskrit -tâ.

Peter was said to be a skandalon, and the original meaning of that noun in Greek is an stumbling-stone, an obstacle-stone (on the road).

The choice of this word, again, demonstrates the skill of the translators. In the orignal it was understood that the monk was an obstacle because he prevented the gods from seeing the spectacle when he stood there in front with his fan.

This is quite clear.

On the other hand, it is unclear in the gospels why he is an obstacle. To understand the point of Peter being an obstacle we need the information about the gods as spectators. But this information is left out by Matthew and Mark.

Moreover, there is, in skandalon, a hidden pun on the name of Peter - a pun on petros, a stone, or petra, a rock.

Finally, the original of the "those of the men" - ta tôn anthrôpôn - is not to be found in MPS 35.

Conclusion: To get the complete picture we need the Buddhist source.

Again and again we come to this conclusion: Matthew and his colleagues deliberately leave out parts of the original story, so that the gospel version becomes obscure and puzzling. The purpose can only be to make the reader wonder and invoke his curiosity.

The use of puns, obscure and puzzling pohrases, parables etc. is explicitly recommended in the Lotus Sûtra - another major source of the NT- for the purpose of attracting people to be converted.

Unfortunately, theologians, as a rule, mistake a deliberately obscure and absurd version of the Buddhist original as an expression of the profundness of the mind of Jesus.

This was also this intention of Matthew and Mark.

Christian Lindtner
January 31, a.D. 2010

JESUS - VERY CRUEL AND VERY COMPASSIONATE - Buddhist source of Matthew 9:36 & Mark 6:34

Jesus was - we are expected to believe - not only very cruel to innocent animals (the pigs, Matthew 8:32), but also to human beings, "enemies" , who would not subject themselves to his royal authority , Luke 19:27: " Verumtamen inimicos meos illos, qui noluerunt me regnare super se, adducite huc: et interficite ante me!

Kill ´em!

Sounds to me like a command given by Lenin to his Bolshevik thugs!

But there is also a human touch, for, paradoxically, it is also said of Jesus: " As he saw the crowds, his heart was filled with pity for them".

Thus the Greek of Matthew 9:36, above, runs: idôn de tous okhlous, esplagkhnisthê peri autôn.

The Greek of Mark 6:34 runs: kai exelthôn eiden Iêsous polun okhlon, kai esplagkhnisthê ep´ autous...

The paradox of Jesus being cruel as well as compassionate is solved once it is seen that we are here dealing with two different versions of the same Sanskrit phrase, found in MSV (ed. R. Gnoli, p. 130, line 5):

drstvâ ca punar asya sattvesu mahâkarunâ ´vakrântâ:

"having seen -and-again- for him-to human beings- great compassion descended".

The idea simply is: The Lord sees how ignorant human beings are, and therefore feels compassion for them.The purpose of teaching is to remove suffering.

Matthew first took the six syllables of drstvâ ca sattvesu, and rendered them in six syllables: idôn de tous okhlous.

Then he took the eight syllables mahâkarunâ ´vakrântâ, and rendered them in eight syllables: esplagkhnisthê peri autôn.

Mark took the six syllables drstvâ ca ´vakrântâ, and rendered them in six syllables: kai exelthôn eiden.

Then he took the seven syllables: punar asya sattvesu, and rendered them in seven syllables: Iêsous polun okhlon kai.

Finally, he took the eight syllables: mahâkarunâ ´vakrântâ, and , repeating the kai, rendered them in eight syllables: kai esphlagkhnisthê ep´ autous.

As a rule, Buddhist texts mention compassion in the context of teaching: The Lord observes that human beings suffer due to ignorance. Hence, moved by compassion, he starts to teach them the Dharma that removes ignorance and thereby leads to liberation from suffering.

This fits the gospel context perfectly: Jesus is here presented as a teacher and he sends out his disciples to teach others - about Righteousness, dikaiosunê, i.e.

Dharma.

But Jesus wants to remove suffering, not by knowledge, but by faith. That idea is also Buddhist - it is lifted from Mahâyâna, mainly the Saddharmapundarîkasûtram - the Lotus.

Jesus, we may conclude, borrowed his great compassion from the Buddha, but that did not prevent him from being cruel to innocent animals and to human beings.

After all, as the alleged son of Jahweh, he came of a very cruel stock. The paradox, in short, comes from the combination of OT and Buddhist sources.

Christian Lindtner
January 26, a. D. 2010

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS - Buddhist sources of Matthew 4:1-11; Mark 1:12; Luke 4:1-13

Jesus was led to the desert by the wind - did he fly? - where he was tempted by the Devil - a strange character - who first asked him to turn stones to bread - an odd exercise - and then took him to the holy city, setting him on the top of the temple - out there in the desert? - Finally, the Devil took Jesus to a very high mountain, showing him all the kingdoms of the world - what a view from out there in the middle of nowhere! Here, he made him an offer: " All this I will give you - IF you will kneel down and worship me!" - But, no, Jesus rejects the offer, the Devil leaves, and angels come and help Jesus.

One must, of course be very naive in order to take these fables for true history, yet theologians still do so, asking for the exact location of the desert, the high mountain, the pinnacle of the temple etc. As usual, Matthew and his colleagues combine OT and Buddhist sources into a new whole. The OT sources have already been identified long ago, and I will not repeat them here.

The Buddhist sources are mostly found in the MSV, I, pp. 94-96:

Before the Bodhisattva goes to the hermitage - Sanskrit â-sra-mam, hermitage, (p. 96) becomes Greek e-rê-mon, desert - he entered the (holy) city of Râja-grham, where the king, Bimbisâra(s), is standing up there on the top of the palace.
The Sanskrit compound upari-prâsâda-tala-gatas is rendered very nicely by Greek epi to pterugion tou hierou (Matthew 4:5; Luke 4:9): The upari becomes epi; the top of the palace becomes the top of the temple. The verb gatas, gone to, represents Greek histêsin, placed.

The king approaches the Bodhisattva and offers him beautiful women etc., in these words: dadâmi te varân bhogân, "I will give you very good things", IF you will tell me your name and background. The Bodhisattva tells the king about his family etc., but is not at all interested in the kind offer.

The Devil offered Jesus all the kingdoms of the world - a manifest absurdity, for who in the world has the power to do so? But the Indian king of Râjagrham in Magadha (Magadha turns up in Matthew 15:39), Bimbisâra(s) (v.l: Bimbasâra(s)), offers Bodhisattva a share in his kingdom - which makes sense.

The reasons given by Jesus for rejecting the kind - and absurd - offer remain obscure. In the case of the Bodhisattva, the reason for his rejecting the perfectly rational offer, is clear: He, the Bodhisattva, is interested in becoming an enlightened Buddha, not a worldly king. That decision was made long ago, before he met the king. The Devil who "tempted" Jesus, we conclude, was, in this case, the king of Magadha - the four syllables of Bim-bi-sâ-ras thus becoming Di-a-bo-los.

The Greek offer of the Devil is (Matthew 4:9):
tauta soi panta dôsô - these to you all I will give.

These four words translate the four Sanskrit words (MSV, I, p. 95) :
dadâmi te varân bhogân.

The San. dadâmi becomes Gr. dôsô, I will give. The San. te becomes Gr. soi, to you. The San. accusative is varân bhogân, best enjoyments, good things, become Gr. accusative: tauta panta, these all. The Gr. has seven syllables, the San. eight, as required by San. prosody.

The notion that Jesus was carried by the wind - suggesting that he was able to fly - is abhorrent to most theologians, who, therefore, normally translatre the Greek by "Jesus was led by the Spirit", or the like, thus obscuring the original hupo tou pneumatos - by the wind. But in Buddhist scriptures, Buddhas can fly, no problem - and so could our imaginary friend , Jesus.

Christian Lindtner
January 18, a. D. 2010

BE IT FAR FROM THEE, LORD! - Buddhist source of Matthew 16:22

The NT gospels, are, by and large, literary mosaics, fabricated by lifting words and phrases from Buddhist gospels, combining them with words and phrases from the OT. We are, therefore, not dealing with history, but with fiction.

One of the main Buddhist sources is the Lotus Sûtra - the Saddharmapundarîka (SDP). According to Matthew 16:22, Peter took the Lord aside and said to him: hileôs soi, kurie; ou mê estai touto: "Gracious for you,Lord, may this not be!" This is taken from the Sanskrit of the SDP (p. 53). The Lord asked Sâri-Putras a question, and Sâri-Putra answered - Sâri-putra âha: na hy etad Bhagavan; na hy etad Sugata: "Not surely this, Lord; not surely this, Good-gone!" The Greek hileôs means gracious, which suggests that a "let God be", or "God is", may be understood. The Vulgata, however, says:

Absit a te , Domine; non erit tibi hoc! "Be it far from thee, Lord; for this shall not be unto thee." The Vulgata, for the first word, thus comes closer to the original (na hy, not surely) of the SDP.

Observations: The Buddhist disciple, PuTRaS becomes PeTRoS.- Perfect!
The Sanskrit Bhagavan, Lord (vocative) becomes kurie, Lord (vocative).- Perfect! There are two negations in the Sanskrit (na, na); likewiese in the Greek version (ou mê).-Perfect! The San. consists of 7 (6) plus 7 (6) syllables. (hy etad may be read as 3 or 2 syllables.) The Greek consists of 7 plus 6 syllables. - Perfect! Sanskrit etad becomes Greek touto, "this". - Perfect! In the San. the verb is understood (as normally). The verb understood is, for sure, asti/bhavati, "is", becoming estai in the Greek. What is - apparently - missing in the Greek is the Su-gata of the original.Sugata is, of course, one of the many names of Bhagavân (nominative form). Su-gata, here in the vocative, may be understood as: (You) are well gone! But gata, in itself, has many meanings: "understood, disposed" etc. Su-gata may thus be taken as "well-disposed" - which is the interpretation behind the Greek: hileôs.

Conclusion: Sugatam! This patchwork was, as always, done with great care and attention to all details in the original Sanskrit. This conclusion is in accordance withe established fact that all syllables have been carefully by Matthew in the gospel (wrongly) ascribed to him.

Christian Lindtner
January 14, a.D. 2010

AND or OF? Buddhist source of Mark 2:16

When it comes to Comparative Gospel Studies (CGS), there is a rule that says - or ought to say - that the Devil is to be found in the philological detail, and that that Devil may in fact turn out to be a tiny god of revelation.
How so?

One of the characteristic features of the Sanskrit language (and Pâli as well) is the extensive employment of compounds. Thus, for instance, two nouns may be combined thus: brâhmana-grhapati, or sramana-brâhmana, or bodhisattva-srâvaka, etc. These compounds are so-called dvandva-s, which means that an "and" is understood. That the "and" should be understood, and added when we translate, is clear not only from the Buddhist context but also from subsequent translations into other "Buddhist languages" such as Chinese, Tibetan, Mongolian, etc. In other words, brâhmana-grhapati should be translated as "priests AND householder(s)", sramana-brâhmana as "ascetics AND priests", bodhisattva-srâvaka as "bodhisattvas AND srâvakas" , etc.

We can, as said, be sure that the AND should be added from the context, but at the same time it is clear that in theory one could also translate, without violating the Sanskrit syntax, as "the householders OF the priests", "the priests OF the sramanas", or "the srâvakas OF the bodhisattvas". All this is known to Sanskrit scholars.

When the authors of the NT gospels translated from the Sanskrit, they also imitated these Buddhist compounds. For that reason, we are constantly confronted with " the Pharisees and Sadducees" (Matthew 16:1), with "the chief priests and the Pharisees" (Matthew 27:62) etc. All such NT dvandva-s have a Buddhist source. (For a fairly complete list, with the Sanskrit equivalents, my Geheimnisse, pp. 161-166, or Hemligheten om Kristus, pp. 156-160).

Now, in all these cases there can be no doubt that the "and" represents the original Sanskrit quite correctly.

One curious and utterly revealing exception to the rule is provided by Mark 2:16, who speaks of "the grammarians OF the Phariseees". This odd expression has led some translators to violate the Greek text Thus , for instance, the "Today´s English Version" of the American Bible Society translates: "Some teachers of the Law, who were Pharisees..." The reader is thus left with the wrong impression that the text speaks of one group of people, not of two different groups. If one is familiar with the Buddhist original it is easy to see what happened. The original Sanskrit compound was a dvandva, i.e. an AND - not an OF - had to be understood. We can see that Mark, without violating the Sanskrit syntax , translated the Sanskrit compound wrongly, i.e. deliberately wrongly. The Sanskrit, in other words, had a compound A-B. That compound could either be understood as A and B, or as B of A. Each of the two renderings would be in accordance with Sanskrit syntax, but only one of them would be in accordance with the sense originally intended.

To conclude: As a rule, all the NT compounds of the type "A and B", with reference to various groups of persons, are correct renderings of the Sanskrit "A and B compounds".
Mark 2:16 is an exception to that rule. But this exception points back to the same Buddhist source. Mark cannot - as shown by the many "correct" renderings in that Gospel - have been unaware that the OF was a "wrong" rendering. But it was, as said, correct from the point of view of Sanskrit syntax. Deliberately "wrong" versions of the original Sanskrit are not uncommon in the Greek of the NT.

Another example of the same sort - with focus on the firts part of the compound in the genitive case - is provided by two different renderings of one and the same Sanskrit original. Sometimes the Greek speaks of the Kingdom of God, some times it speaks of the Kingdom of the Heavens. Here we are no longer dealing with dvandva-s, but with another sort of compound combining two different nouns. The first part of the compound defines the second part more closely.

The Sanskrit original is, as a rule, deva-parisad - the "kingdom" of deva-. The first part of the compound tells us what kind of parisad ("congregation", "assembly") we are dealing with. Sanskrit deva (nominative devas) corresponds to Greek theos, to Latin deus.
Here, deva- is the firsat part the Sanskrit compound. The Sanskrit says "the deva-kingdom". One cannot see whether the deva- should be understood as being in the singular or in the plural.From the point of view of Sanskrit syntax, both options are allowed. If we therefore take deva- in the genitive singular (devasya = theou), we get "of god". If we, alternatively, take it in the plural (devânâm = ouranôn), we get "of the gods, of the heavens".

Thus the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of the Heavens are but two different - but equally correct - versions of one and the same Sanskrit original. NT scholars have, as known, been puzzled by the two synonymous phrases. But this is only because they have failed to study Sanskrit. And a theologian of the NT with no knowledge of Sanskrit - how can the Kingdom of the heavens be said to belong to him?

Further examples and references in my Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, Suederbrarup (Leuhe-Verlag) 2005.

Christian Lindtner
January 10,a.D. 2010

MORE THAN 500 WITNESSES - ALL FALSE - Buddhist sources of 1 Corinthians 15: 1-11

Absolutely fundamental to any sort of Christianity is the belief in the resurrection of Christ and the resurrection of the dead. If the dead are not raised and if Christ has not been raised, then the Christian faith is a delusion and Christians are lost in their sins. Such is the view of Paul. Such is the faith of Christians. But as historians we must ask: What is the evidence or proof of the resurrection of Christ and of the dead?

The common opinion of Christian theologians and believers is that "the oldest and most reliable" evidence or proof of the resurrection of Christ is provided by Paul in 1 Corinthians 15:1-11. There may be a few other witnesses, mainly women, but they cannot be considered very reliable. But how can we be sure that Paul is reliable, and that 1 Cor. 15:1-11 provides the oldest and best evidence?

The mere fact that a given witness makes a claim does not make him reliable. One must ask for his sources. He may be wrong, he may be a liar. Now Paul does in fact refer to certain sources, for he says that he has his information from certain scriptures. Unfortunately, these scriptures cannot be identified. All theologians agree that there are no scriptures in Greek or Hebrew that can be identified as the sources of Paul´s claims concerning resurrection. At this point, therefore, we cannot decide the value or validity of the testimony provided by Paul. Is he, as a witness, reliable or is he not reliable? If we want to be honest, we cannot decide. The case must be left sub judice.

Now, fortunately, help is on its way - not to Paul, but to historians. In this case, as in so many other cases. the source of Paul can be traced back to the MPS, which is available in Sanskrit and in Pâli. Anyone familiar with the MPS can easily see that Paul has combined two chapter from that text, namely chapters 9 and 48 (in the edition of Waldschmidt, Berlin 1951, pp. 162-171 & 420-425).

Here are the main points:

MPS 9: In the village of Nâdikâ a large number of brothers and sisters have passed away. What will become of them? It is explicitly said that "more than 500 brothers have passed away". This sentence is available in the Sanskrit (9:15) and in the Pâli (Waldschmidt, p. 166). The Pâli has been translated into English, e.g. by Trevor Ling: "More than five hundred devout men of Nadika who have died" (The Buddha´s Philosophy of Man, London 1981, p. 159) This accounts for the " more than five hundred brothers...of whom some have died", in 1 Cor. 15:6, a statement that has always caused the greatest embarrassment to theologians. The more than 500 brothers are never mentioned in any other ancient Christian sources - with one exception, a Coptic source that says that the more than 500 were Indian priests (see R. Garbe, Indien und das Christentum, Süderbrarup 2004, p. 292). There is, as we have just seen, some truth in this. There was an Indian source for the 500.

The Buddhist ext then explains that some of those who have passed away will never return again, whereas others will return "once", Sanskrit sakrd. This accounts for the Greek ephapax, "at once" in 1 Cor 15:6. Greek ephapax simply translates the Sanskrit synonym sakrd - once, at once. Immediately before he mentions the "more than five hundred brothers, Paul mentions Kêphas and "all twelve" (some translators add "apostles", but the Greek does not mention apostles at all). The twelve were not "apostles" at all - they were Buddhists: Again, Paul follows the MPS, which, as said, has been transmitted to us in several versions. One of these, now only in Chinese, explicitly speaks of exactly 12 brothers who have been reborn among the gods (this is the Dîrghâgama, translated by Waldschmidt, Ûberlieferung...Göttingen 1944, p. 71). Other versions give different numbers here (one Chinese version gives the number 10), and it is quite remarkable that the Latin Vulgata speaks of eleven, not twelve, 1 Cor. 15:6.

Paul also mentions Kêphas and Iakôbos, and here one must pay attention to the spelling: There are three consonants in both cases: k-b(ph)-s. Both names translate the Sanskri name of Kâsyapa(s) - k-p-s. Chapter 48 of the same MPS provides us with the second source of Paul. Here we meet Kâsyapas who, along with five hundred monks, finally arrive and become witnesses to the cremation of the physical body of the Lord. His "jewel body" goes up to the world of Brahmm, i.e. in flames. The Sanskrit verb for "went up", agaman, MPS 49:23, corresponds to the Greek for "raised".

To summarize: Paul refers to scriptures that are not available in Greek or Hebrew. But they are available in Sanskrit and Pâli. These scriptures are, therefore, Buddhist scriptures.

It is quite true, as Paul says, that more than five hundred brothers, along with Kâsyapas, were witnesses to the "resurrection", i.e. cremation of the Lord. The Lord was a ksatriyas, a nobleman, and Sanskrit ksatriyas becomes Greek ho Khristos, in the usual way. Hence, Paul is careful not to speak of Jesus, but of Khristos. When Paul combines two different chapters, and two different episodes in the Buddhist original, he does so not entirely at random but according to certain rules. According to rabbinical hermeneutics, it is allowed to combine two otherwise different scriptural passages provided they have a significant number in common. This rule, in Hebrew, is called Neged, "corresponding significant number". An example is provided by OT, when Numbers 13:25 mentions 40 days, and Numbers 14:34 mentions 40 years. The two otherwise unrelated passages have a correspondig significant number, viz. 40. In exactly the same way , Paul combines two passages in the same Buddhist text, the MPS, where one chapter mentions more than 500 brothers, and another mentions 500 monks.

All this means, of course, that the "proof" or "evidence" provided in support of the faith in the historical resurrection of Christ, and the dead in general, is purely fictitious. Paul refers to scriptures, i.e. Buddhist scriptures, that describe some events that took place - or did not take place - far away in Magadha a long time ago. (Magadha, it will be recalled, was mentioned by Matthew 15:39 only.) He, Paul, then combined events from that Buddhist text into a new unit. He then transferred this piece of literary fiction to another place, to another time, to another person. How can, for example, events said to have taken place in India centuries ago, prove the historicity of events said to have taken place in, say, New York quite recently! Paul cannot have been unaware of what he was doing. Paul cannot have been unaware that he was a falsifier of history. Paul cannot have been unaware that he was himself a false witness.Once we recognize this to be so, we also understand why Paul compares himself to a "miscarriage", an ektrôma, as it were, in 1 Cor. 15:8. Paul justifies himself by stating that he is what he is - that is: a false witness - thanks to the grace of God.

What is that supposed to mean? What does "grace of God" mean in this context?
It can only mean that deliberate deceit is a good thing provided it can bring about some desirable result. There is no evidence at all to suggest that Jesus existed or had been raised from the dead, but if people could feel happy when fooled into believing so - fine and good. The same fundamental attitude is reflected well in Romans 3:7, which in plain words simply says that untruth is fully acceptable provided it serves the greater glory of God. Such a Jesuitic attitude is also typical Buddhist. In the Lotus Sûtra,

Buddhist muissionaries are advised to employ tricks, lies etc. for the greater glory of the Buddhas.

If people like to be deceived -let them be deceived! And in our modern world we speak of propaganda, or, to use an euphemism, mass communication. Thus, Paul, when it come to the evidence for resurrection of Christ and of the dead, proves to be a prominent false witness. That he himself, however, may have believed in the resurrection of the dead, need not be doubted.

This belief is typical Buddhist. Due to their bad karma, people may go down to the dead in the hells. After some time, they may come back to this world. The "dead" in the hells are not really dead. They can come back to normal life and suffering.
They have thus been raised from the world of the dead.

The Buddhist background of Paul is thus clear. When he presents himself as a Christian, however, and fails to acknowledge his Buddhist sources explicitly, he then can be descibed as, well, an ektrôma (to use his own term).

Christian Lindtner
Dec. 29th, a.D. 2009

JESUS - THE FAMOUS SANSKRIT SCHOLAR

If one claims that Jesus was a historical person able to talk and to write, and that he also was the author of the celebrated parable of the ten virgins - known to us only from Matthew 25:1-13 - then one is also compelled to admit that Jesus was indeed a Sanskrit scholar - the most famous of all Sanskrit scholars , surely. How so?

As I have shown in my book and in several essays, the MSV, which includes the MPS, is one of the main sources of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. There is hardly a chapter in the MPS that has not left traces in the NT gospels.

The direct source of Matthew 25:1-13 is to be found in MPS, Chapter 4. This chapter is available not only in Sanskrit, but also in Pâli, as well as in several old Chinese versions from now lost Sanskrit originals. (There are also Tibetan and Mongolian versions, to be sure.) When one compares these various versions, there are interesting variants, but the basic story is the same:

Tathâgata (Buddha) delivers a sermon on pramâdas and apramâdas. Sanskrit PRaMâDaS means negligence, carelessness. Sanskrit aPRaMâDaS means the opposite, i.e. carefulness, heedful attention, vigilance. There are five disadvantages associated with PRaMâDaS, e.g. after passing away an immoral person goes to Hell. Likewise, there are five advantages associated with aPRaMâDaS, e.g. after passing away, a good person goes to Heaven (svarga). Stupid people engage in PRaMâDaS, whereas wise people are very concerned about aPRaMâDaS. The sermon is delivered to brahmans and householders from the town of Pâtali.

The purpose of the parable of the ten virgins, Matthew 25:1-13, is clearly to make the point that one must be ready and prepared for the coming of the Lord, in other words, for heaven (mentioned in the first verse). Vigilance is in the focus. This was also the purpose of the Buddhist sermon on vigilance. The Sanskrit word for the world of heaven is svarga-loka (verse MPS 4:17). There are five wise virgins, and there are five foolish virgins. All ten virgins have lamps, but five of the ten forget about the oil. They are like a man, we may say, wanting to go for a ride in his car, but forgetting all about oil and gas.

Comparing the Buddhist and the Christian textual units, we cannot fail to see that they are related. But how, quite precisely? How did the "translations" take place?
In the usual fashion: In the Greek version the focus is on the ten virgins and on the ten lamps. The Greek for virgin is PaRTheNoS, and the Greek for lamps, in the accusative plural is LaMPaDaS. The Sanskrit original had five kinds of aPRaMâDaS, and five kinds of PRaMâDaS, as mentioned above. It is thus clear that the Greek P-R-T(h)-N-S and L-M-P-D-S are but two fifferent versions of the five Sanskrit consonants found in aPRaMâDaS as well as PRaMâDaS, i.e. P-R-M-D-S.

I need not remind the reader that in the ancient Jewish scripts the vowels were left out, and that in Sanskrit r and l often interchange (e.g. lâjâ, king, for râjâ etc.). The consonants d and t are both dentals, and m and n are nasals. What an odd way of translating! - the moderrn reader may exclaim. But if the modern reader finds it hard to believe that anyone would translate in this way, this just betrays his ignorance of ancient rabbinical hermeneutics. For it goes without saying that those who translated these Buddhist texts were also familiar with the Old Testament and thus also with rabbinical hermeneutics (without a knowledge of which OT and NT are completely unintelligible).

If two words have the same set of consonants they also have the same numerical value, for each consonant has a numerical value of its own. For example 3+4+5 is the same as 5+4+3. Thus a "bag" and a "bug" are in a sense the same - for the number based on the consonants are the same. (One can easily imagine the fun : bar and beer, bear and rib etc. etc.)

To repeat: The five kinds of disadvantage associated with carelessness becomes five stupid virgins with five lamps without oil. The five kinds of advantage associated with vigilance become the five wise virgins with five lamps with oil. It is a common Buddhist dogma that carefulness, vigiliance , is conducive to rebirth in hreaven. (This is not typical Christian, where the emphasis is on grace.) The Buddhist source explicitly says that carelessness is the cause of an immoral person going to hell efter his passing away. This reference to hell is left out in Matthew. When one compares many other words in Matthew 25:1-13 with the Sanskrit (and Pâli), one will be able to identify many other Greek words in the Sanskrit - the cry, the wise, the foolish etc.

The conclusion is that the Buddhist text gives the "full picture". Much is left out in the Christian copy - with the result that reader is puzzled. To leave the reader puzzled - and the commentators busy - is a deliberate trick on the part of Matthew , Mark, Luke and John. People are and have always been attracted by mysterious sayings, puzzles and riddles. This is also a common Buddhist trick - to atract people by entertaining and fooling them. It is, at the same time, a typical rabbinical trick (see e.g. Hermann L. Strack, Introduction to the Talmud and Midrash, New York 1959, pp. 93-98).

But there is more

The Dutch theologian Smit Sibinga - who weas completely unaware of the Sanskrit source (as he kindly informed me in a personal communication) - has made a numerical analysis of Matthew 25:1-13, and pointed out that "Matthew" carefully counted the number of syllables and arranged the verses in a such a way that there is a clear center with "circles" of the same number of syllables around that center.
This fine observation proves, in itself, that "Matthew" counted syllables. That he counted syllables also means that he paid attention to each syllable - i.e. to the spelling of each word. The man who is responsible for Matthew 25:1-13 knew Sanskrit as well as Greek.

The general view of scholars is, by now, that the Greek text of Matthew was not translated from some "Aramaic original" - giving the words of Jesus in "his own tongue".

The Greek text of Matthew - at least for this parable - must have been translated directly from some Sanskrit original coming very close to the MPS (ed. Ernst Waldschmidt, Berlin 1951). The consonants would have been lost had the transtion not been direct. (There is also an old Pâli version of MPS. It has often been translated into modern languages. An English version by Trevor Ling is available in Everyman´s Library as "The Buddha´s Philosophy of Man", London 1981. The Pâli text of the 2 x 5 etc. is found in the Mahâvagga of the Vinayapitaka. For all the references, see Ernst Waldschmidt, Die Überlieferung vom Lebensende des Buddha, Göttingen 1944, p.52.).

To conclude: If it is claimed that Jesus is the author of the parable of the ten virgins, it also follows that this Jesus knew Sanskrit - and Greek, of course - and that he counted syllables and words, i.e. that he was a mathematician of some sort.

To avoid this dangerous conclusion, one may argue that "Matthew" has not represented Jesus correctly. This may, again, either mean that Jesus never expressed this parable at all - which makes Matthew totally unreliable. Or it may mean that Jesus was indeed, responsible for this parable - but in another form. But even so, not only is this pure speculation, but it is impossible to conceive of the ten virgins, the ten lamps, the imprtance of vigilance for rebirth in heaven etc. isolated from the Buddhist context, which is coherent and logical. So: either Jesus is responsible for a good and "faithful" version of the Sanskrit - as in Matthew 25:1-13. Or else he is responssible for a bad and totally confused version.

In any case, Jesus must have a been a Sanskrit scholar, and since Jesus still is such a famous man , we can say: Jesus was a famous Sanskrit scholar. About the relative chronology there can, to be sure, be no doubt. The Pâli version of the parable is found in the Vinaya, which belongs to the earliest strata of Buddhist literature. Moreover, the dogma of vigilance leading to heaven only makes sense in the context of a theory of karma, retribution - which is not exactly typical for Christianity! Who would claim that the Buddhist doctrine of karma and rebirth is derived from Jesus called Khristos?

The only way to avaoid this conclusion is to accept that Jesus is not a historical person at all. And that is a conclusion we often come to. And it is a safe one, too. But the Sanskrit scholar behind the parable remains.

Christian Lindtner
Dec. 21th, a.D. 2009

CUNDAS - THE BUDDHIST JUDAS - AND AN OLD SONG

The main Buddhist sources for the legend of the Passover and the Traitor, are , as usual, to be found in the MSV. Thus, in MPS 26 (last part of MSV) we read about how the Lord and the monks had their last (Sanskrit pascimam) meal in the home of a certain Cundas, the son of a smith, San skrit karmâras. The Christian version, a copy, is mainly found in Matthew 26:17-25; Mark 14:12-21; Luke 22:7-13, and John 26:20-25.

We are on the first day of the feast of Unleavened Bread - a curious expression, rendering in, fact, San. pûrvâhne, or pubbanhasamayam (Pâli), MPS 26:14, i.e. early in the morning. The Greek asumôn reflects the San. samayam. The San. word for "last" is pas-ci-mam, which becomes Greek to pas-kha, the passover.In both sources there is the last meal taken with all the monks/disciples, but only in NT is the last meal combined with the last words. I shall come back to this.

In Matthew, the disciples are instructed to prepare the last meal in the house of " a certain man", Greek: ton deina - not very helpful! The Greek ton deina, as will be obvious in a moment, is a pun on Cun-dam - tha accusative form of Cundas. Mark and Luke are a bit more helpful, for they describe the unknown host as bearing a pitcher of water. Poor disciples, for what if there were several unknown men in that town bearing pitchers of water? The person in question is the Buddhist Cundas, said to be the son, putras, of a smith, karmâras, MPS 26:14. The Buddha and the monks had their last meal together at Cundas´ place.

The son of a karmâras becomes man carrying a pitcher, keramion, of water. San. karmâras (accusative: karmâram) becomes Greek keramion. As they are sitting there together, one evil monk steals a golden bowl (other versions say it was of copper) and hides it in his sleeve. Only Cundas and the Lord notice this case of theft, whereby the evil monk obviously betrays the Buddhist "path".

In the Christian version, the man who puts his hand in the bowl is defined as the traitor, and his name is Joudas. John adds that he, Joudas, is the son of Simôn Iskariotês.

The sense of that name is obscure, but here probably intended as a translation of the San. karmâra-putras. In Matthew 26:26 and the parallels, Jesus says: "Take (this, and) eat (it), for this is my body" The Sanskrit original is to be found a little later in the same Buddhist source, viz. MPS 42:10. Here, Tathâgata is surrounded by the monks, and he says to them: "Behold , monks, my body." " See, monks, my body!" These are explicitly described as his last words to the monks, MPS 42:11.

The point of his words, I assume from the context, is to make the monks aware of his physical decreptitude that will soon end in his passing away. Not only does the Greek retain the two imperative forms of the verb, addressed to the same group of disciples/monks, but the tou-to gar es-ti - "for this is" - also renders the five syllables ta-thâ-ga-tas-ya quite nicely. The disciples of Jesus are, in other words, invited to take and eat the body of Tathâgata - i.e. to become Buddhists. This becomes more esy to understand, when one recalls that the Tathâgata is an embodiment of the Buddhist Dharma. The bread, Greek artos, that Jesus took, reflects the Sanskrit dharmas.

Since the bread is the dharma, it follows that the bread-body is originally the dharma-kâya, familiary to all Buddhists. And this is what numerous Christians have been doing and still are doing - on many a Sunday. The purpose and sense of taking part in the Eucharist then, is to have a share in the body of the Tathâgata, the dharma-body. What elseis the Lord´s Supper?

After these incidents, Matthew 26:30 reports that they sang a hymn and went out to the Mount of Olives. What hymn, exactly, did they sing? Matthew does not say. (Personal views of modern theologians are irrelevant.) The hymn they sang, or rather the hymn that the Lord sang, can be identified as Sutta-Nipâta, verses 83-90. These verses describe four kinds of monks, ending with the one who betrays the Path of Buddhism,i.e. by being a thief.

These verses are not just incorporated in the MPS, but , as said, are also available in the old text Sutta-Nipâta, in Pâli and other versions. I am not aware of any Buddhist scholar prepared to question that Sutta-Nipâta belongs to the earliest strata of Buddhist literature. They are, in other words, pre-Christian.These verses are, therefore, the hymn to which Matthew alludes, 26:30.

Now someone may argue: Yes, it cannot be denied that Matthew and the other evangelists have words, phrases, motives etc. in common with MSV/MPS. But could it not be that the Buddhists copied from the NT? Answer: In that case the Buddhists would also have copied verses found in the old pre-Christian Sutta-Nipâta from some Christian source. But there is no such Christian source.

But could the Sutta-Nipâta not have belonged to some old, now lost Christian source, from which the Buddhists then copied? Answer: Perhaps, hypothetically, but in that case that early Christian source would have had to be in some Indian language (Pâli? Sanskrit?), and the contents would have been Buddhist, for it speaks of four kinds of Buddhist monks. That early Christian hymn would, in other words, have to be Buddhist!

Conclusion: Tathâgata had his last meal with the monks at Cundas´ place. His last words, later, in another place, to the monks were: Behold my body! See my body!
The Christians made a new legend out of this. Cundas becames J(o)udas, and J(o)udas became the name of the traitor, who was in fact the evil monk who stole a precious bowl. The thief was not identical with Cundas, but present at his house and observed by Cundas.

The Lord´s Supper first took place in the house of Cundas, which is said to have been in a village (grâmaka) called Pâpâ, or - if we prefer the Pâli form - Pâvâ, MPS 26:2.The second part, with the body of Tathâgata in the focus, took place later, in Kusinagarî, MPS 42:11.

The evangelists combined the last meal and the last words into a new unit.
All this, therefore is fiction, not history.

Christian Lindtner
December 14th., a. D. 2009

Mary, Martha and Âmra - Buddhist sources of Luke 10:38-42

All the many women called Maria (or Mariam) in the NT can be traced back to either Mâyâ, the mother of Sâkyamuni, or to Âmra-pâlî, the famous courtesan, ganikâ. The main Buddhist source is, as usual, MSV, including MPS.

Any reader familiar with the MPS will be able to trace the Lord´s visit to Martha and Mary - reported by Luke 10:38-42 only - back to MPS 10 -12. In 10, Âmrapâlî, the famous courtesan of the village Vaisâlî, comes to pay her respect to Tathâgata who is surrounded by the usual group of monks. She, too, is surrounded by a group of - attractive prostitutes. The monks are unable to control their minds, and therefore ask the Lord to teach them how to "pray", so that they can avoid falling into temptation.

This accounts for the fact that Jesus, in Luke 11:4, teaches his "monks" how to pray so as to avoid falling into temptation. Even today, pious Christians thus pray, unknowingly, that they be not tempted by the beautiful Indian courtesan and her prostitutes.-

Let us now take a closer look at Luke 10:38-42! As always, there is gematria, or textual geometry, involved: Verse 38 consists of 23 words, or 46 syllables, the ratio being thus nicely 1:2. Verse 39 consists of 18 words.Verses 40-42 add up to 57 words. The unit as a whole thus consists of 98 words, or 100 words, if tê-de in v. 38, and hê-tis in v. 42 be counted as two words. It will be seen that Martha utters 18 words, corresponding to the number of words in v. 39. Jesus utters 23 words, corresponding to the number of words in v. 38. Finally, the narrator is responsible for 57 words, corresponding to the number of words in verses 40-42. Verse 38 consists , as said, of 46 syllables. These 46 syllables, forming a unit, correspond to exactly 46 syllables, likewise forming a unit in the original Sanskrit, which is MPS 10:3 = 11:1 = 15:4 (ed. Waldschmidt, Berlin 1953, p. 172; my Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, p. 111).

By comparing the Greek with the Sanskrit , we can make these interesting observations:

1. Luke speaks of "a certain village". The name of that village, we now know, is Vaisâlî. - Vaisâlî is, of course, not mentioned in the NT or elsewhere in early Christian documents. Nevertheless, Vaisâlî is known to Christians as a holy place in France,namely Vézelay, still associated with the legend of Mary Magdalene, see http://www.vezelay.cef.fr

2. The woman called Mariam sits down at the feet of Jesus, and listens to his word, logos. This is exactly what Âmrapâlî (or - pâlir) does. She sits down at the feet of Bhagavân, and listens as he talks, as usual, about Dharma.

3. When Jesus says that Maria chose "the good part", Greek: tên agathên (merida), the authors made a typical pun on Tathâgatam (accusative form). She was the first to choose to invite Tathâgata for a meal and listen to him. When Luke then says that it cannot be taken from her, this refers to the incident in MPS 11:23-24, where the Licchavis of Vaisâlî invite Bhagavân to enjoy a meal with them. He declines their offer, for he has already accepted the invitation of Âmrapâlî, and that cannot be taken from her. At the same time it refers to certain dharmas that "cannot be taken away".

4. But who is this Martha? In verse 38, Luke describes her as "a certain woman", gunê de tis, which is a free translation of Sanskrit gani-kâ, courtesan. The San. - kâ has been treated (as common in Rabbinical hermeneutics) as if it were an independent pronoun, which is not so in the original Sanskrit. Still, the "translation" is not bad: a certain prostitute becomes a certain woman.

MPS 12:1 is introduced by: atha Âmra-pâlîs..." Then Âmra....". The two words are contracted to athâmra...This gives us the consonants th-m-r, and from those three consonants the name of a newForside - CBS e-Campus woman is born, the sister of Âmra, aka Maria - namely MaRTha.

In verse 39, Martha is said to have a sister CALLED Mariam. That is true - it is only something she is called. To conclude: Maria (or Mariam) and Martha are both derived from Âmra, the famous Indian ganikâ. Before she finally sits down at his feet and listens to his sermon on Dharma, Âmra is busy preparing and serving food. This is still Martha at work. MPS, in other words, presents Âmra in two different roles. This, in the NT, becomes two different women, but still in the same roles, in the same place, under the same circumstances etc. The food being served by her to the Lord is described as sucinâ pranîtena, fine (and) exquisite, MPS 12:4 (and often elsewhere). This stock phrase - seven syllables in the instumental case - is also know to the Buddhists who wrote the Gospels:

If we turn to the Anointing at Bethany, Matthew 26:7, a woman brings an alabaster jar filled with "expensive perfume", Greek: murou barutimou. In Mark 14:3, it is descibed as pistikês polutelous, "genuine" (and) "expensive". In John 12:3 it is said to be pistikês polutimou, where polutimou = polutelous. We are thus quite obviously dealing with three different translations of one and the same Sanskrit phrase - an asyndeton - sucinâ pranîtena. The "and" (San. ca, Greek kai) is left out. This proves the common Buddhist source.

According to John 12: 1, the episode took place at Bethany where Lazaros lived, and it is Maria who takes the perfume described above. So the Buddhist food has become Christian perfume. Lazaros is said to be the brother of Maria and Martha, just as Maria was said to be the sister of Martha.

All this took place, as said, in Vaisâlî, the home of the Licchavis.
There can, therefore, hardly be any doubt that Lazaros has derived his identity from Laicchavis.

There are several other observations to be made - puns on Âmra etc.- but I think these examples show very well, how Luke, Matthew, Mark and John used their Buddhists sources. They fabricated new persons and events by recycling words and phrases from the Buddhist sûtras in Sanskrit. They also counted words and syllables, as did the Buddhists before them.

Theologians often claim that the genre of the NT gospels is "unique".
This is true - but only if the Buddhist sûtra genre is left out of consideration.
Luke 10:38 provides a small and excellent example of how NT may imitate the sûtra genre.

It is not just Jesus who proves to be a Buddha in disguise - the same goes for all those women called Mary. They are Mâyâ and Âmra in disguise. The idea that the Buddha disguises himself in different ways is an old one with the Buddhists - see MPS 23:4.

There is a common Buddhist saying that all things are just names.
That must also be kept in mind when we deal with names of persons and places in the NT.

Christian Lindtner
December 7th, a.D. 2009

THE CROOKS ON THE CROSSES - Buddhist sources of Luke 23:39-43

As the three men are hanging there, crucified, they find time for a brief chat. A chat about the future - what will it bring? One of the criminals asks Jesus to remember him when Jesus comes in his kingdom, and Jesus - who can hardly be expected to know the man at all - replies: "I tell you this: today you will be in Paradise with me" - in the Greek: amên legô soi, sêmeron met´ emou esê en tô paradeisô - Lat.: Amen dico tibi, hodie mecum eris in paradiso. It is only Luke 23:39-43, who reports the curious incident, and we have no idea what his source may have been.Who told him?
Or perhaps we do. We shall see.

There is some disagreement as to the proper translation of the ten Greek words. Some would place the comma after sêmeron, giving us thus the translation:"Today I tell you this: you will be in Paradise with me." According to this understanding - that of a Witness of Jehovah - the criminal will be with Jesus at some future date, not already today. There is a Buddhist source for this episode, and since it has been overlooked by scholars, it will not be superfluous to call attention to that source - not just because it enables us to decide where the comma in the Greek has to be placed. The source for the promise of Jesus to one of the malefactors is - as so often - the Mahâparinirvânasûtram (MPS), a part of the MSV. The Lord, Bhagavân, is spending his last hours between two sâla-trees (yamaka-sâla, MPS 32:6,7,9), surrounded by two disciples, first Ânanda and, a little later, Subhadra, an old ascetic (MPS 40: 1-62). Subhadra is the last person to be converted and ordained. Once he has been ordained, he expresses the wish that he may pass away before the Lord, for he cannot bear the thought of surviving the Lord. The Lord grants him this wish.

But there is a problem!

Normally, in Buddhism, good deeds lead to rebirth in heaven, whereas evil actions lead to rebirth in the hells. Normally, it takes quite some time to accumulate good or bad karma.
But here we are introduced to some exceptions to that golden rule of karma. Without being aware of these exceptions to the rule, we cannot understand the background of the words of Jesus quoted by Luke 23:43: "Today you will be in Paradise with me". There are two cases, we readin MPS 40, in which a pious Buddhist goes directly to paradise (svarga). If he dies during pilgrimage to one of the four holy places (pradesas): where the Lord was born, where He was enlightened, where He delivered his first sermon, or where He finally passed into Nirvâna. Moreover, a pious Buddhist will go directly to heaven (svarga), if he dies in the very presence of the Buddha.

It is for this reason that Subhadra goes directly - on the same day - to paradise or heaven. He is a pious Buddhist who dies in the presence of the Buddha who is about to "die", or pass away into Nirvâna here between the two trees and the two monks.
It is for exactly the same reason that the pious malefactor (kakourgos, Luke 23:39) on the cross, according to the promise of Jesus, can expect to go with Jesus to paradise on the same day.(That Jesus does not keep the promise is another story - see below!) When one compares the Sanskrit words with the corresponding Greek words, one cannot fail to observe how closely Luke follows the original Buddhist source: The San.

has âman-trayate, he says (the subject of the verb being the Lord, Bhagavân), which becomse amên legô soi, amen I say to you.(Only Jesus uses this phrase!) The San. PRaDeSaS, (holy) spot, becomes PaRaDeiSoS (nominative form), a synonym of the San. svargas (nom.), heaven.

In the San. of the MPS there are two trees and two persons, with the Lord in the middle . In Luke this image is transformed into the image of two persons ON two trees, or crosses (stakes). The Lord is still surrounded by two "trees" with "criminals" hanging on them.
In Luke, one crook rebukes the other. Likewise, in the Buddhist original, Ânanda rebukes Subhadra for disturbing the Lord who, understandably, is old and tired.
The two "crooks" next to Jesus , needless to add, were the two Buddhist monks , Ânanda and Subhadra.

In both sources, the primary and the secondary, the topic of discussion is the same: The possibility of going directly to heaven with the Lord. A pious believer can do so, if he dies in the presence of the Lord. Even the verb "remember me" used by the false Subhara is in the San., where it is said that the four places of pilgrimage are to be remembered (anusmaranîyâ, MPS 41:5) by a pious Buddhist. When we for a moment confine ourselves to Buddhist sources, we can observe that even here it is not unusual to take up an old theme and introduce certain variants. Thus, as I have pointed out elsewhere, in the MSV we have the episode of Gautama being impaled on a place of sculls. Here there are two eggs or sculls, one on each side of the stake. While hanging on the stake this Gautama is engaged in a conversation with his former teacher. They, too, talk about the future. This episode has also left some wonderful traces in Luke. I shall come back to these later.

The San. noun for stake is shûlam, which becomes Greek xulon, as in Acts 5:30. Here, the Greek epi xulou is often translated as "to a cross", but , as the San. shows, it should be "on a stake". Luke often uses MPS - a part of the MSV - as his source. So did his learned colleagues, Matthew, Mark and John - not to speak of Paul. In some cases Luke has an episode not found in Matthew or Mark. This shows that Luke used MPS/MSV independently. In a few cases the same goes for Mark. The longest direct loan that I am aware of consists of 46 syllables. This is Luke 10:38.(See my Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, p. 111 for the San. source.) To conclude the episode of the two - or three - crooks on the crosses, it may be observed that Luke goes on to tell his incredible tale of how, at twelve o´clock, the sun stopped shining and darkness covered the whole country until three o´clock... The source is, again, Buddhist, viz MPS.

The identification of the Buddhist source of the episode of the crooks on the crosses not only proves - if proof were needed - that what Luke reports has nothing to do with actual history somewhere in Jerusalem. The episode is mythical, as is the original.
Perhaps more important, the identification shows that Luke had a great sense of humor - typical Buddhist, in fact - that may, however, not be duly appreciated by all Christians, more pious than the alleged founder of their religion. Luke must have had great fun turning the two Buddhist monks into two crooks to be impaled, and later on, in sending Jesus to hell - not to Paradise! - for a couple of days. For he was resurrected "from the dead" - the Buddhist term for "from hell".

In other words: If the criminal actually did go to Paradise, as Jesus promised - Jesus would not be there with him! Or, alternatively, if we construe the "today" with the verb "I say to you", then it could be that the two would meet at some future date - not today - in Paradise - and that would be some spot (pradesas) in India! The episode only makes good sense once one knows the source. But then it also makes wonderful sense - Aristophanes could not do better!

Christian Lindtner
December 6th. a. D. 2009

A CHALLENGE TO ANTI-GEMATRIA HARPIES

In a communication given to Biblical scholars at Louvain in 1970, the Dutch theologian J. Smit Sibinga, discussing the literary technique of Matthew, observed that the author of the First Gospel, consciously and consistently "arranged his text in such a way, that the size of the individual sections is fixed by a determined number of syllables. The individual parts of a sentence, the sentences themselves, sections of a smaller and larger size, they are, all of them, characterized in a purely quantitative way by their number of syllables" (Menken, p. 21).

And how did the scholars present in Louvain react to this observation? According to a personal communication from one who was present, (Prof. Birger Gerhardsson, Lund University), "they giggled", and according to my own experience, scholars as well as non-scholars still tend to giggle, when they hear that Matthew - and the same goes for the other authors of the NT, I may add from my own research - always counted the number of syllables - and words of a sentence or a part of a sentence.

But only the insipid laugh when confronted with facts that are new to them. Serious scholars try to understand facts, no matter how odd they may appear at first glance. In his important doctoral dissertation from 1985, Numerical literary techniques in John, M.J.J. Menken, a student of Smit Sibinga, carried on this sort of NT research (based on the Greek, of course).

One of his most important observations was (p. 272):

"The sum total of syllables or words for a passage is equal to the numerical value of an important name or title occurring in that passage."

Examples of this rule:

1. John 1:19 - 2:11 has a size of 1550 syllables, which number is the numerical value of ho khristos ("the Christ") - the main person in that passage.

2. John 17:1b - 26 contains 486 words, which number is the numerical value of the vocative pater (father!) , which is found six times in the text.

3. John 1:1-18 consists of exactly 496 syllables, which is the numerical value of monogenês, ("only begotten"), an important qualification of Jesus. It occurs in John 1:14 & 18, and 3:16 & 18; and 1 John 4:9).

To take just one more example, first pointed out by Smit Sibinga (cited by Menken, p. 23):
Peter´s speech in Acts 2:14b - 36 is made up of two equal halves: 444 syllables in 2:14b-24, and again 444 syllables in 2:25-36. Their sum, 888, is the numerical value of the name Iêsous (= 10+8+200+70+400+200 = 888; C.L.) - a number which was famous in this quality in the second century, witness Irenaeus´ Adversus haereses 1,15,2. Moreover, if we look upon Acts 2:1-47, a numerical analysis shows that this chapter as a whole consists of exctly 1776, or 2 x 888 syllables.

These are just a few striking examples, and subsequent research by Smit Sibinga and myself has shown that their number can easily be increased, and that the rule, therefore, is correct: The authors of the NT texts counted numbers of syllables and words.

Quite unexpectedly, the rule that the authors of the Gospels counted syllables and words, has, through my own research, received support from another corner of the world: Certain Buddhist canonical Sanskrit texts - sûtra-s - have, as a numerical analysis reveals - also been composed by authors who counted syllables and words, yes, in some cases even letters.

Since these very sûtra-s can be shown to have influenced the NT in other ways (parables etc.), it is clear that we here have yet another independent indication of Buddhist influence in the NT.

WHY these authors did so is another question that future research is obliged to account for. THAT they counted words and syllables is, to repeat, a fact that cannot be denied and that must be respected - even by those who now merely giggle.

Fools may laugh at hard cold facts - scholars wonder, and try to explain.

Christian Lindtner
November 27th, a.D. 2009.

References:

Chr. Lindtner; Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus, Suederbrarup (Leuhe-Verlag) 2005.
M. J.J.Menken; Numerical literary techniques in John, Leiden (E.J.Brill) 1985.
J. Smit Sibinga; Literair handwerk in Handelingen, Leiden (E.J.Brill) 1970.

The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ

In her most recent essay, The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus, the American scholar Acharya S /D.M.Murdock argues, forcefully and boldly, in favour of the thesis that Jesus was not at all a historical person, but rather - as so many other sons of God in those days of old - a personification of the Sun.

In support of this point of view - one that she is not the first to advocate, but for which she deserves credit in graciously attending the advocacy - she adduces Christian as well as non-Christian sources, primary as well as secondary. Unremittingly, she reminds her readers of the fact that nearly everything that is said or written about the Jesus called Christ, had already at an earlier date been reported about the Buddha - or the Buddhas (too many to count), about Krishna, about Horus, about Prometheus, and, indeed, about numerous other now less known mythical figures.

That this is actually the case, no scholar familiar with Hellenistic religion and syncretism will be able to deny. Should he venture to deny, as some still do, then his colleagues can only deplore his ignorance of the relevant sources. Should anyone, moreover, wish to claim that Jesus - as opposed to so many other sons of God - is a historical person, then that defender of the old faith has a very heavy burden of proof resting upon his shoulders.

Our theologians, as a rule, simply postulate that there is no reason to doubt that Jesus was or is a historical person. There may be doubt, they admit, about the nature of that person, about the credibility of the evangelists in certain details etc., but about his existence, no, no, there can be no doubt.

Such a stand is apologetic and anything but scientific. An appeal to mere faith is an appeal to sheer ignorance.

Under such circumstances, our professional historians of religion would be expected to raise a storm of protest. They do, as a rule, fail to protest, and their failure is nothing short of a disgrace. Educated historians ought to enlighten and warn the public that there is neither solid external or internal evidence in support of the claim that Jesus was in any way a historical person.

Did Jesus really exist? - the question is not a new one. The great German theologian, Adolf Harnack once (back in 1909, before he became von Harnack) called it "the embarrassing question", i.e. embarrassing for those who raised it (viz. Kalthoff, Jensen, Drews). We must now say that von Harnack got it wrong. The question is now embarrassing - and even more so now than then - for those who fail to account for the lack of external and internal evidence, and for the parallels that are now much more numerous and close than they were in 1909. (Adolf Harnack, "Hat Jesus gelebt?" in:

Aus Wissenschaft und Leben, Zweiter Band, Giessen 1911, pp. 167-175.). Above all, new Buddhist sources, in Sanskrit, have provided numerous literal parallels, i.e. direct loans.

The reason for clinging to the myth of Jesus as a historical person is, I assume, double: First of all, it is not easy to rid oneself of old and inveterate misconceptions. Such struggle not only requires freedom of mind but also personal courage - both are rare at a time where a higher Classical education and civilization with emphasis on human character have been banned from our universities and now are but remnants of brighter days.

Then there is the fear of loss of livelihood. If the story of Jesus is merely a solar myth - then our priesthood will have lost all its credibility. Who can make a living by talking about the Sun?

The edifice of Christianity - in any form it may be - rests on a ground of nonsense neatly summarized in the Apostles' Creed - that the mother of Jesus, who went to hell, was a virgin etc. etc.

If the thesis that Jesus is a mere solar myth is correct - and who is there to rebuke its validity on solid scholarly grounds? - then this must have serious consequences not just for conscientious Christian individuals, but also for a society that considers itself to be Christian in this or that respect.

The Danish church - not unlike other Lutheran or reformed churches - considers itself to be fairly "open and broad, " I am told. But is it "open and broad" enough to give room for the view that Jesus never existed, and for infidels taking that stand?

In Denmark (and elsewhere) we recognize and allow other religions, provided they do not violate certain rules or standards of decency and decorum - reflecting a Classical, and not at all a Christian tradition, I may add. The concept of decency or decorum may not be altogether clear to a modern mind, but no matter how we agree about definitions, it would be hard to leave out honesty and truthfulness from that definition. How can we have decency without honesty?

If, thus, honesty and truthfulness be recognized as natural and essential parts of decency and decorum, it follows, surely, that our professional professors of theology, along with our bishops and our priests find themselves facing a difficult dilemma: Either they must, openly and boldly, step forward to defend their honour and refute the thesis that Jesus be merely a solar myth, or they must, should they choose to remain silent, fear the disgraceful charge that their lack of honesty - not to speak of "Lutheran boldness" - makes them violate the standards of decorum and decency.

In other words: If our professional theologians do not respond and come up with strong arguments against the thesis of Jesus as a solar myth, then they will, day by day, transform the church and Christian society that for centuries have provided them with even more than their daily bread into institutions the nature of which is increasingly infested by dishonesty and lack of decency - until the day of the final and total collapse of the ancient myth.

Christian Lindtner, PhD
November 22nd, a.D. 2009.

New book expanding on the work done by Dr. Christian Lindtner
Buddha's Big Foot, by Robert Korczynski.

This controversial new book investigates history, religion, linguistics, and numerology to conclude that all of the Christian teachings of Jesus were sourced from Buddhism.

Robert Korczynski holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan with Majors in Psychology and Sociology, and Minors in Philosophy and Comparative Religions. He is an avowed Agnostic.

Expanding on the revolutionary work done by the Danish linguist Christian Lindtner (CL), Buddha's Big Foot is an academic investigation into the influence of King Ashoka's Buddhist Missionaries within the religions of the ancient world; called the, "Dharma Mahamatras," CL translates their name as, "Officers of the Law." Over generations, their influence within the Hebrew groups produced the Nazarenes and the Essenes, and they are the apparent creators of Mandaeaism, the believers in John the Baptist.

The conference has been postponed!
Conference Announcement December 2008
Did Jesus Really Exist?
New Testament Source Criticism
Speakers on the panel include:
Kenneth Humphreys, esq.,UK, author of Jesus Never Existed.
http://www.jesusneverexisted.com
Prof. Dr. Christian Lindtner, Denmark, author of Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus etc.
http://www.jesusisbuddha.com
Dr. Robert M. Price, USA, author of Jesus is Dead, etc.
http://www.robertmprice.mindvendor.com/
Dr. Zacharias Thundy, USA, author of Buddha and Christ etc.
http://www.nd.edu/~zthundy/
Opponent defending the historicity of Jesus,
Danish theologian: Dr. Braveheart.
***
Date: December 15, 2008, 17:00 through 22:30.

Venue: Havarthigaarden, Room C, near Holte S-station, bus 193 (5 minutes, or 15 minutes by foot).
Very easy to reach from Copenhagen Central Station.
Entrance: 150,00 DKK.
Registration required no later than December 14, 2008.
Contact: jesusinholte@cotmanuniversity.com.
www.cotmanuniversity.com

New books by Christian Lindtner

Geheimnisse um Jesus Christus

This is a revised and expanded version of the Swedish book Hemligheten om Kristus.

The new book reveals numerous Buddhist sources of the New Testament. Based on a careful study of Greek and Sanskrit newly discovered sources now presented to the public for the first time. Will appear January 2006. Place your order now: luehe-verlag@t-online.de

A Garland of Light. Kambala`s Alokamala

A new edition and translation of a Buddhist philosophical classic with Sanskrit and Tibetan texts by CL.

Order your own copy directly from Asian Humanities Press www.jainpub.com
Reviewed by Dr.Dr. Klaus Mylius in Acta Orientalia Vol. 64 (2003), pp. 273-277

Indien und das Christentum. Eine Untersuchung der religionsgeschichtlichen Zusammenhänge

A 2004 reprint of the old 1914 classic by the German indologist Richard Garbe. With a new Foreword by Christian Lindtner in which it is pointed out that the nine syllables of Revelation 13:18 are a direct “translation” of one of the most important sources of the New Testament, namely Sad-dhar-ma-pun-da-rî-ka-sû-tram.

If you wish to read the Foreword, follow this link http://www.jesusisbuddha.com/vorwort.html
Place your order now: luehe-verlag@t-online.de

Books by other authors

Katolska kyrkans djupa hemlighet   Av Bert Löfgren

I 2000 år har teologer och andra forskare talat om den historiske Jesus utan att ha kunnat uppvisa minsta bevis för hans existens.

Den danske historikern och sanskritexperten Christian Lindtner hävdar nu sedan några år tillbaka från egna översättningar av buddistiska originaltexter, att Nya Testamentet är ett plagiat av Buddhas Testamente och att Jesus, hans lärjungar och många andra gestalter i Nya Testamentet är enbart sagofigurer.

Författaren, läkare och ”amatörteolog”, har tillämpat Lindtners tankegångar på några texter ur och med anknytning till Nya Testamentet och kan påvisa flera starka indikationer på släktskap med den buddistiska läran, Mahâyâna: frälsningsbegreppet är detsamma, Uppenbarelseboken bygger på tydliga buddistiska källor och Daniels bok innehåller inte bara tydliga inslag av shamanism (vanliga i buddismen) utan också ett entydigt bevis för buddistiskt ursprung, när den explicit beskriver den buddistiske bodhisattvas, vars likhet med Kristi frälsarroll är slående. Våra teologer har aldrig höjt blicken bortom det forna Persien och har därför aldrig förstått att Indien skulle kunna förklara kristendomens ursprung. De har nu stor anledning att tänka om!

www.litenupplaga.se/284

Biblical Religion. The Great Lie. By Michael Kalopoulos

This book grew out of the comparison of the Biblical texts with the strikingly similar parallel tales of Greek-Mediterranean Mythology. It sheds new light on the cunning, deceitful and authoritarian nature of Biblical religion.

www.greatlie.com

Jesus Never Existed. By Kenneth Humphreys

An uncompromising exposure of the counterfeit origins of Christianity and of the evil it has brought to the world.

www.jesusneverexisted.com

Den Jesus som aldrig funnits. By Roger Viklund

A critical examination of the Biblical Jesus and the origins of Christianity. In Swedish!

www.vimi.se

Der Ursprung des Judentums im Lichte alttestamentlicher Zahlensymbolik und weitere Beiträge zur orientalischen und griechischen Zahlensymbolik. By Oskar Fischer Reprint of a collection of extremely important papers by German Prof. Oskar Fischer from 1911-1920.

www.luehe-verlag.de

Suns of God. KRISHNA, BUDDHA and CHRIST UNVEILED.

The Christ Conspiracy. The Greatest Story Ever Sold.

Both by Archarya S. Two great gifts from a great girl.

www.truthbeknown.com

GEMATRIA IN THE GOSPELS

Introduction

One can read the four Gospels of the New Testament, in the original Greek or in a modern translation, and one can study carefully word for word one or more of the numerous modern Gospel commentaries, without ever coming across the term Gematria - and yet without an understanding of Gematria, there can be no real understanding of the true meaning of the fundamental scripturers of Christianity - the 27 books of the New Testament.

An additional obstacle facing the student of the New (as well as the Old) Testament stems from the fact that Gematria is seldom adequately defined in the relevant books of reference. In many standard dictionaries and encyclopedias there is not even an entry for Gematria. (On the other hand there is now no lack of references to Gematria and related matters online.)

The term Gematria is from the Hebrew gymtry´, which, again, is derived from the Greek geômetria, a noun already attested in the Herodotus, in the sense of geometry. Some scholars have, to be sure, suggested a derivation from Greek grammateia, meaning “the office of a scribe”, that of a grammateus, Latin scriba. That derivation, however, is historically wrong, even though it can be argued that it to some extent makes good sense. We can, in fact, by way of Gematria, make sense of grammateia:

Gematria is a method of interpretation or translation. What counts is not so much the sense of words and sentences, but rather the form, i.e. the letters of the word and the sentence with its specific number of syllables.

Now, in Greek as well as in Hebrew, each letter has a numerical value assigned to it: a = 1; b = 2; g = 3; d = 4 ; e = 5 etc. Any grammar of Greek or Hebrew will provide a table showing the numerical value of each letter. This means that the distinction between letters and numbers is not necessarily sharp and clear. Words and sentences not only make sense (or no sense), but they also make numbers. And sometimes these numbers correspond to geometrical figures.

In Gematria, therefore, letters, numbers and geometrical figures are closely related. Gematria means that there is a close connection, even a natural relationship, between language and geometry.

In Hebrew, only the consonants are indicated in writing, whereas the vowels must be supplied by the reader or speaker. This fact, of course, opens up for ambiguities and for confusion - the more so if several languages are involved at the same time. Take, for example, the consonants p-t-r-s. What sense we make out of these four consonants depends not only on the vowels we insert, but also on the language in question. Behind the p-t-r-s we may find the Latin patris, “father´s”. We may also find the Greek name Petros, the modern proper name “Peter”. We may also find the Sanskrit putras, “son”. Or why not the English “pirates”? If we consider that the Aramaic bar means “son” (corresponding to Hebrew bên), we may even say that bar is equivalent to p-t-r-s.

Each consonant has, as said, a given numerical value, in this case 680, i.e. p + t + r + s = 80 + 300 + 100 + 200, giving us the total 680. If we add the vowels, as in Petros, the numerical value is different: 80 + 5 + 300 + 100 + 70 + 200 = 755. Obviously, it makes no difference if the order of the letters is changed. The total sum remains the same in case of such metathesis. In a sense, i.e. in a purely numerical sense, counting the value of the consonants only, Latin pastor or patris is the same as Greek Petros, which again is the same as English pirates, or Sanskrit putras. They are the same in the sense that their numerical value is identical.

From this small example it will be understood, as said, that there is not always a sharp distinction between numbers, figures and letters. We may laugh, shake our heads and find Gematria to be puerile. But we should not forget that Gematria can, as I shall show by some examples, be extremely sophisticated.

Historically speaking, Gematria has played an enormous role - as it certainly still does (cf., for a start, the great number of homepages found online). Also, even if Gematria leads to the most absurd and confused results, this does not mean that those who practice Gematria are themselves confused in their minds. In fact, one must make a sharp distinction between those who know the secrets of Gematria, and the “victims”, who lack the esoteric knowledge required for not becoming dumbfounded. Perhaps, really to create confusion in other minds, one should not be confused at all in one´s own mind. Gemtria, I fear, must be taken serious, very serious.

About the identity of the four evangelists we know next to nothing. They are mere names to us, with some legends - all of them Buddhist, in fact - attached to them. They can only be defined by their work. To judge from the four Gospels transmitted under their names, we can be quite sure that they - or the team behind the names - were profoundly learned and anything but naive savants. We can be sure that they were multilingual. They knew, of course, Greek. They also knew Hebrew and Aramaic. They would have known some Latin, too. This is generally admitted by all scholars.

What is new and certainly not - yet - admitted by scholarly consensus is the fact that they, Matthew etc., also knew Sanskrit. And not only did they know Sanskrit - they knew Sanskrit extremely well.

My thesis - and this is new - is that the Gospels are translations , in the sense of imitations , made directly from the Sanskrit of the Buddhist gospels. What I mean to say is simply what emerges from a close comparative study of the Sanskrit and the Greek texts in question. My thesis is no mere theory or hypothesis; it is a fact that can be observed, controlled, checked and verified. The Greek text of the Gospels imitates the sounds, the sense, the figures and the general structure of their Buddhist source.

The veracity of this thesis, I repeat, can be verified by any scholar who takes the trouble to compare word for word, sentence for sentence the Sanskrit and the Greek sources. It will not do to compare modern translations of the Buddhist texts in question with a modern version of the Greek text. The reason for this has been given above, and it can be summarized in one word: Gematria. One has to pay close attention to each and every consonant, its nature and its number. This is lost in a modern translation.

I am, to be sure, not launching a new theory, or some sensational hypothesis: I am presenting some pieces of a discovery - something that can be verified - or rejected - by other scholars, provided they are willing and prepared to follow in my tracks.

A brief but very clear outline of my thesis has been provided by Julia Messerschmitt in VffG 6 (4) 2002, S. 484-486.

The abbreviations used in connection with the following examples are :

Mt = Matthew; Mk = Mark; Lk = Luke; Jh = John.
The Greek text is easily available, for instance, and most conveniently, in The NIV interlinear Greek-English New Testament, by Alfred Marshall, Grand Rapids, Michigan 1976. Excellent dictionaries , concordances and indices etc. for the study of the New Testament are easily available. Personally, I still prefer the old Lexicon Graeco-latinum in Libros Novi Testamenti, Lipsiae mdccclxxix, auctore Carolo Ludv. Wilibaldo Grimm. A Synopse der drei ersten Evangelien, such as the one by Albert Huck and Hans Lietzmann, Tübingen 1950 (and later), is indispensable.-The original Sanskrit texts are not that easily available, some of them have not even been translated into any modern language, and I will have to refer the interested reader to my forthcoming Sanskrit-Greek Reader for references to the primary Buddhist sources. The Sanskrit-Wörterbuch der buddhistischen Texte aus den Turfan-Funden, Göttingen 1973- proves helpful for a start.

1. Peter as a rock etc.

Jh 1:42 has Jesus say to Simôn, the son of John,: “ You are called Kêphas, which is translated Petros”.
Mt 16:17 has Jesus identify the same Petros with a rock, Greek petra, on which he will build his church.
A few words later, Mt 16:17, Jesus identifies Simôn as Bar-iôna, “son of Jona”.

A commentary is called for!
None of all this is fully intelligible unless one knows Gematria.
The numerical value - the Greek term is psêphos, “pebble for counting”, of Kêphas is 20+8+500+1+200 = 729.
Now 729 is an extremely interesting figure. One may start by taking 729 little cubes.
Then place 81 cubes in a square that measures 9 x 9.
Now place 8 similar squares, each of which is made up from 9 x 9 cubes, on the top of this. The result is a cube that measures 9 x 9 x 9 = 729: This cube may be taken as a foundation stone.
Then go on to petra in Mt 16:17. The numerical value of petra, “rock” is 80+5+300+100+1 = 486.
Now 486 is also an extremely interesting figure in relation to 729, for the number of squares to be seen on the surface of the cube mentioned above is 9 x 9 x 6 = 486.

This means that when John coined the name Kêphas, he was thinking of a cube, and when Matthew chose the word petra, he, too, was thinking of the same cube. This is Gematria in the sense that names, letters and numbers are directly related to geometrical figures. One sees, without difficulty, that Gematria has its foundation in Greek geômetria.
When it comes to the name of Simôn Petros it is a different story.
Simôn Petros is the name of the first (protos!)disciple of Jesus. The name of the first disciple of the Buddha - often called Tathâgatas - is âyuSMâN (Sâri-) PuTRaS.

So it easy to see, that the name SiMôN PeTRoS has come about by imitating the Sanskrit âyuSMâN PuTRaS. More precisely, the consonants have been imitated in their original order. Who can deny that s-m-n-p-t-r-s = s-m-n-p-t-r-s?
The name of the first disciple of Buddha and Jesus has exactly the same numerical value in Greek as well as Sanskrit.
The Sanskrit putras means “son”. It has nothing to do with the sense “rock” mentioned above. But in the vocative case the Sanskrit putras (nominative) becomes putra, which has exactly the same consonants - and ending - as petra.
What happened is that the evangelists first made Putras into Petros. From Petros - otherwise an extremely rare name in Greek - they got petra, meaning “rock”. From this meaning they invented a new name, the Aramaic “Kêphas”. Quite clearly, the name was designed in order to attain a numerical value corresponding to a geometrical figure.
This means that John is confusing his reader. It is not Kêphas that is translated as Petros, but Petros that is translated as Kêphas. The Petros, as shown, must have come before the Kêphas. Had he had any parents they would hardly have known!
We then learn that Petros was the “son of Jôna”. No other source provides this piece of information - which is even contradicted by Jh 1:42, who makes him the son of Iôannês, not of Iôna.

To solve this puzzle we must again consult the Sanskrit original, which actually makes âyuSMâN (Sâri-) Putras the “son of Jina”. The Sanskrit is Jina-putras. Here, Jina is one of the many synonyms of Tathâgatas, and putras is still “son”.
The noun bar is Aramaic for “son”. And so we can easily see how bar-jôna was invented: The bar translates the sense of putras, and the jôna imitates the sound of Jina. The translation, or imitation, is a hybrid made up by combining sound and sense in one compound.
So Bar-jôna was simply jina-putras, a mode of address used by Tathâgatas in speaking to âyuSMâN (Sâri-) PuTRaS.
Let me end by answering some of my friends who have no problems in identifying âyuSMâN PuTRaS behind SiMôN PeTRoS. But what about the Sâri of the original, they ask. How are we to account for the Sâri?
Consulting the Greek, the answer is simple. In Mt 16:16, Simôn Petros first says, or asks: “You are”, or why not: “Are you” - the Greek is su ei, Latin tu es.
In Sanskrit, the r in Sâri can be considered a semivowel, and as such, be left out. So the su ei contains a pun on Sâri.
Then Jesus replies: “Blessed you are”, makarios ei. Here is yet another pun on Sâri - the -rios in maka- rios. The s-r is equivalent to the s-r.
But there is no end to the puns. In the original, Sâri-Putras is also considered a kumâras, a young prince, the son of Jina. So makarios , “blessed”, also contains a pun on Sanskrit kumâras (k-m-r-s = m-k-r-s). The numerical value of the two words, counting the consonants only, is the same in both languages.
Another name for Sâri-Putras is Upatisyas.
In Sanskrit the second person singular of the verb for “be” is , in the indicative, asi, in the optative syâh, or, depending on the following consonant, syâs. Therefore, the Greek su ei also contains a pun on the Sanskrit for “you are”, asi, and even for “you may be”, syâh/syâs. But that is not all: In the Greek of Mt 16: 18, Jesus says to him, “that you are Petros”, hoti su ei Petros. Here we have a pun not merely on Putras but also on Upatisyas, which itself contains a pun on Sâri-Putras. Also, when Jesus says hoti sarx in Mt 16:17, it is difficult not to hear yet another pun on Upatisyas.

The name Upatisyas has, to sum up, been split up into -syas and -ti- and upa-.

When we ask ourselves why Matthew would want to have “Jesus” make all these puns, the answer is, of course, that this was because that was the way the original source wanted things to be. And Matthew, as said, did his utmost to imitate the Sanskrit original.

In this way we have accounted for âyuSMâN, for Sâri-, for Putras, and for Upatisyas.

The student of the NT Gospels must ask himself the question: Why is it the case that the same people so often are mentioned under so many different names? The answer is always the same: This is due to the fact that the Buddhist sources do so.

Why this is so does not concern us here. What concerns us here is to demonstrate that the Greek imitates the Sanskrit.

We may now pass on to yet another person celebrated under many different names:

2. The name(s) of Jesus

The Greek form of his name is ´ Iêsous. The general opinion, to be found in any dictionary, is that ´Iêsous is the Greek “form”, or the Greek “equivalent” of the Hebrew Joshua (yehôshua).

But actually, ´Iêsous is a rather irregular form.

When we look closer at the irregular form ´Iêsous, the irregularity must also be accounted for.

We cannot, when so doing, fail to note that the numerical value of ´Iêsous is 10+8+200+70+400+200 = 888.

Jesus is also known as “Lord”, Greek kyrios.

The numerical value of kurios is 20+400+100+10+70+200, which is exactly 800.

Jesus, as we shall see, is also called “king”, Greek basileus.

The numerical value of basileus is 2+1+200+10+30+5+400+200 = 848.

Mt 3:10 mentions a “dove”, Greek peristera, which is somehow a symbol of the descent of Jesus or the Christ.

The numerical value of peristera is 80+5+100+10+200+300+5+100+1 = 801.

In Mt 11:14 and 16:14, Jesus, or the Christ, is identified with ´Êlias, a name in which the contemporary Greek reader would hear the noun for “Sun”, Greek Hêlios. The numerical value of Hêlios is 8+30+10+70+200 = 318.

These presence of the figures: 888, 800, 848, 801 and 318 referring, in various ways with various connotations, to one and the same person, suggests that the nouns have been designed for their numerical value.

If more examples of the same nature can be adduced to the same effect, we can be sure that these figures are not a matter of sheer coincidence.

In esoteric circles familiar with Gematria, each of these figures is loaded with arcane meaning, having to do, in the final analysis, with the physical figures such as the disk of the Sun etc., i.e. with geometry. Further details do not have to detain us here.

This fact suggests, as said, that the names ´Iêsous and Kyrios etc. have been designed in order to attain a specific and significant numerical value - exactly as in the case of the various names of Putras-Petros. But the evangelists not only paid attention to the numerical value of each significant word having to do with the main actor, the dramatis persona, in the Gospels.

They also paid strict attention to the numerical value of a larger unit of prose wherein that person played the main role.

A beautiful example is provided by Jh 1:19-2:11. It was first pointed out, it seems, by M.J.J.Menken in his book Numerical Literary Techniques in John, Leiden 1985, pp. 43-96.

Jh 1:19-2:11 has the size of exactly 1550 syllables, which is also the numerical value of ho khristos = 70 + 600 + 100 + 10 + 200 + 300 + 70 + + 200 = 1550. The ho khristos is mentioned as such in Jh 1:20 & 1:25. The Christ plays the main role in this unit.

This means that there is a close connection between the numerical value of the most meaningful technical term and the total number of syllables. Form and content are related by a numerical bond.

Another example:

One of the epithets of the Christ is the obscure mono-genês, which occurs in Jh 1:14 & 1:18. It is often translated as “ the only (son)”. The Latin of the Vulgata, is uni-genitus (filius). Luther wrote: “der eingeborene (Sohn)”.

(What the original sense of that obscure and much disputed term is, can only be decided on the basis of the Sanskrit original, which has only recently been identified. I shall come back to this identification on a later occasion in due course.)

Now, what cannot be disputed, is that the numerical value of the Greek monogenês is 40+70+50+70+3+5+50+8+200 = 496. And, again, 496 is not just some odd, or rather: even, number, it is a highly significant figure. It is the “triangular” number of 31, which means that 1+2+3+4+5 etc.+ 31 = 496. Moreover, it is the third known “perfect” number, which means that it is equal to the sum of its divisors:

1+2+4+8+16+31+62+124+248 = 496. It is a triangle.

When John, therefore, chose the obscure term monogenês, there can be no doubt that he did so deliberately, and that he did not do so without at the same time being very much aware of the significant numerical value of that word.

There are many other similar examples to the same effect. It was therefore quite true when another Dutch theologian, Smit Sibinga, already in 1970 wrote, speaking about Matthew in particular, that he, “...arranged his text in such a way, that the size of the individual sections is fixed by a determined number of syllables. The individual parts of a sentence, the sentences themselves, sections of a smaller and larger size, they are, all of them, characterized in a purely quantitative way by their number of syllables” (cited from Menken, op. cit., p. 21). Subsequent research has shown beyond any doubt that Smit Sibinga´s remarkable observation also applies to all the other books in the New Testament.

3. Jesus Christ

It is certainly the common and undisputed opinion that Khristos is the Greek translation of Messiah (mâshîah; Aram. meshîhâ´), meaning “anointed (as king)”.
Nevertheless, this view, found in any work of reference, is invalid and highly misleading :
First of all, we never hear about Jesus having been anointed as king. So how can he be regarded as having been anointed as king? Who did it? When? Where? - We are never told.
Also, it is a great paradox that Jesus was considered a king - the king of the Jews or of Israel - even though, as said, he had never been anointed as such. And how could he, moreover, be a king, how could he inherit a kingdom, if his father was no king and his mother no queen? Second, while it is true that Greek khristos translates the sense of messiah, “anointed”, the form messiah utterly fails to account for the form khristos. The two words are not at all spelled in the same way.
The Sanskrit original, a famous Buddhist text, gives the solution to the puzzle.
To repeat myself: How do we account for the form, the spelling of khristos - the kh-r-s-t-s? And how do we account for the fact that a ho , “the”, is sometimes added, sometimes omitted?
The story of Jesus, from his birth to his death, is, from beginning to end, in all respects a clear imitation of the legend of the Tathâgatas from his birth to his death.
Now, Tathâgatas was born as a ksatriyas, a nobleman, he was the son of a king, his mother was a queen, and he was, for some time, expected to become king himself. He was even anointed (abhisiktas), exactly as his predecessors, one of whom, Gautamas, is reported to have died under exactly the same circumstances that Jesus, the king of the Jews, and of Israel, is reported to have died.
Very often, as known, Jesus is not called khristos, but ho khristos, “the Christ”.
(The same goes for the name of Jesus: Sometimes he is called “the Jesus”, sometimes merely “Jesus”.) Sometimes two syllables, sometimes three syllables. In modern translations of the New Testament, the distinction is usually lost.
Looking at the consonants in ksatriyas, it is not difficult to see that khristos is a direct imitation of the Sanskrit: k-s-t-r-s = kh-r-s-t-s. The imitation is absolutely perfect. By adding the ho in Greek, the total number of syllables is 3, as in the Sanskrit original: ksa-tri-yas. The khristos accounts for the sense and for the consonants; the expanded form ho khristos accounts for the number of syllables. Once we see that khristos as well as ho khristos are simply perfect imitations of the sound and the sense of the Sanskrit ksatriyas, many other old puzzles find a simple solution.
A very famous passage, Mt 16:13-20, ends with the words: “ Then he strictly charged the disciples to tell no one that he was the Christ”. We must ask ourselves, why he so much wanted his identity to be kept a secret?

This so-called “secret of Messiah” has always puzzled its interpreters. No unanimity has been reached about why in the world Jesus would want to keep his identity as “the Christ” a secret.
The solution is a simple as can be: That the Greek ho khristos was the same as the Sanskrit ksatriyas had to be kept secret.
Otherwise people would understand that the Gospel was translated from the Sanskrit, and that the Khristos, the ho Khristos was simply the Buddhist ksatriyas.
It goes without saying that the Buddhist ksatriyas was born under the same circumstances as the Jewish impersonator, the ho Khristos was, much later on.

Who, then, would, if this were not kept a secret, believe Jesus to be the king of Israel, or the king of the Jews? Who would believe him to be a new Moses? Some readers may ask whether the unknown authors of the Gospels would really be up to such tricks?

The answer is simple: The Tathâgatas himself is presented as saying that he appears in various forms of disguise, and that he accomodates his language and his external appearance to those familiar to his audience. To noblemen he appears disguised as a nobleman. To demons disguised as a demon etc. etc. The Tathâgatas, in brief, assimilates himself and his teachings, his Dharma, to local and prevailing circumstances etc. The Jews, to whom Matthew is primariliy addressed expected a Messiah. What they got, was the Buddhist ksatriyas disguised as ho Khristos.

4. Son of God etc

Jesus is a often addressed as the son of God, or as the son of David.
The epithets are, in both cases, highly confusing:
How can he be the son of God and the son of David at the same time?
A plain physical and a chronological impossibility!
If he is the son of God, how can he be the son of David, who is not God?
How can he, at the same time, have several fathers - Josef, the so-called Holy Spirit (whatever that is), or even Abraham (Mt 1:1). - i.e. in addition to God and David? At least five different farthers at the same time! If we add that he was also “the son of Man” - whoever that “man” may have been - then he has at least six different fathers!
These and similar absurdities are instantly solved in the light of the original Sanskrit.
A ksatriyas is commonly addressed as a deva, “god”, or deva-putra, “son of god”.
Since Jesus , as ho khristos, was also originally a ksatriyas, one would expect the evangelists to use deva and deva-putra as modes of address also.

And they did.
Sanskrit deva-putras becomes “son of god”. Sanskrit deva is “god”, putras is “son”.
Sanskrit deva-putras also becomes “son of David”. Here the deva- becomes Davi(d). By merely adding a -d, a Sanskrit noun has been assimilated to the proper name of the celebrated Jewish king David.
Since, for the Jews, David was the king, and since Sanskrit deva(s) also means “king”, - the god as king - there is a double pun: Sanskrit deva covers the sound as well as the sense of David, as a proper name and as the king, at the same time. It is a name and a title at the same time. The ambiguity is deliberate, and very typical of Matthew.

In the original there is, of course, not merely one deva-putras. There are as many as there are gods and kings.
This fact permits us to solve yet another old puzzle in the New Testament:
In Mt 5:8, Jesus speaks of many “ sons of God”.
But how can that be, if Jesus is supposed to be the (only) son of God? Apparently, God can have many sons? What, then, is so unique about the Jesus?

The solution is, of course, that there can be many “sons of God”, because there are many deva-putras in the original source. The Greek is only intelligible if one understands the Sanskrit behind the Greek.
Mt 5:9, as it stands, makes but little sense: “ Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God”.
What sort of peace do these people make? Who were actually called “sons of God”. Why would one be “blessed” merely by being “called” by a strange title that is , as said, never actually attested, in the plural, in the Gospels? Is Jesus making fun of his disciples? Is it mere mockery? How can poor fishermen, seriously speaking, be expected to be called “sons of God”? Later on ,to be sure, he calls them “evil”, Mt 7:11.

All this is highly confusing.
But not so in the light of the original Sanskrit.
I started out by pointing out the patent absurdity that Jesus is supposed to have had at least six different fathers at the same time!
By identifying the deva-putras behind the “son of God” and the “son of David”, it has been possible to reduce the number of his suspected fathers to four.
Let us be patient and see what further research may have to report about the true identity of the remaining four suspects of fatherhood! Looking at the sense of Mt 5:9, the point was that under certain circumstances the disciples would be called “sons of god”. What these circumstances really were, can only be ascertained in the light of the original. It is a fundamental doctrine of the Buddhists that by doing good karma one may be reborn as a god among other sons of god in heaven, or as a king.
In other words, Mt 5:9 only makes sense in the light of the Buddhist doctrine of rebirth. By doing good karma they will become reborn as gods, sons of god(s), or kings.
But Matthew fails to let Jesus provide the missing link.

5. Tathâgatas

It is also a fundamental doctrine of Buddhist preachers and missionaries that one should “take” the Tathâgatas (accusative : Tathâgatam), and not “reject” the Tathâgatam.
The idea that mere faith in the Tathâgata is sufficient for bringing about salvation, is a fundamental persuasion of Mahâyâna Buddhism - as opposed to early Buddhism (“Hînayâna”), where the emphasis is on knowledge and understanding.
The evangelists follow Mahâyâna.
From what we now know about the evangelists we would not be surprised to discover many puns on the sense, the sound and the numerical value of the word Tathâgatas (or Tathâgatam etc.).
First of all, the numerical value of Tathâgatas is, according to the Greek mode of alphabetical calculation: 300+1+9+1+3+1+300+1+200 = 816. Hardly surprising, 816 turns out - just as the figures or numbers associated with Jesus, kurios etc. - to be a significant number indeed. 816 is exactly 2/3 of 1224, and 1224 is intimately connected with one of the roles played by Jesus in John.

Without getting ourselves lost in the astonishing details (apparently first pointed out by John Michell in his book City of Revelation, London 1972), we may say that “the fishes” and “the net” mentioned in Jh 21:1-14 are somehow symbolical of Jesus. The same goes for the 153 great fishes in Jh 21:11.
The Greek for “the fishes” is ikhthues, and the numerical value of ikhthues is 10+600+9+400+5+200 = 1224.
The Greek for “the net” is to diktuon. The numerical value of to diktuon is 300+70+4+10+20+300+400+70+50 = 1224.
The figure 153 is rationally related to 1224, for 8 x 153 = 1224.
Or, 153 is 1/8 of 1224.
Moreover, 153 is the sum of 1+2+3+4+5+6+7+8+9+10+11+12+13+14+15+16+17 = 153. A triangle, again.

Likewise, when we go back to the Buddhist source, where the numerical value of the main person, the Tathâgatas, also turns out to be rationally related to the figure 1224. The numerical value of Tathâgatas is, as said, 816 , which is exactly 2/3 of 1224. The age of Tathâgatas is calculated, in the Buddhist source, as 30 years minus 1 plus 50, i.e. 3-1-5: the same as 1-5-3, the number of great fishes, indicating Jesus. According to Gematria 1+5+3 = 3+1+5 etc., just as a+b = b+a etc.
Similar figures are given for the age of Jesus, but in a very confused manner. Jh 8:57 says that he is not yet 50 years old. Lk 3:23 says that he is almost 30 - which would mean that he is still 29. So, combining these two figures we arrive at exactly the same age as the one given for Tathâgatas.
John and Luke are totally confusing if one does not have the original Sanskrit at hand. But that is by no means all.
The Buddhist source gives the number of disciples of the Tathâgatas as 1200 , but also as 72 koti-niyuta - an astronomical figure, where niyuta is a myriad, and koti is ten millions . Jesus has 12 disciples, but according to Lk 10:17, he also has 72 (with the variant reading: 70).
Lk 12:1 has a nice pun on niyuta as well as koti - a fact that proves that the astronomical figure, and thereby also the Buddhist source, was not at all unknown to him.
For obvious reasons, the evangelists chose to reduce the original figures, simply by removing the decimals.
According to Gematria the numerical value of 12 is the same as the numerical value of 1200 (1+2 = 1+2+0+0 etc.). The decimal does not count. In the Buddhist source, these 72 ten millions myriads are said “not to return”; in Luke they are said “to return”.
The number of disciples is, in both sources and in both cases, also chosen with an eye on the basic significant figure: 1224, for 17x 72 = 1224, and 102 x 12 = 1224.
All this means that the evangelists imitate the Buddhist sources.
The numerical values associated with Jesus and with Tathâgatas, and with their disciples, are, in other words, intimately asociated with the figure 1224.
There is much more to be said about the figure 1224. Suffice it here to repeat that 1/8 of 1224 is related to the age of Tathâgatas; 1/17 as well as 1/102 is related to the number of his disciples; and 2/3 is related to the numerical value of his title: Tathâgatas.
All these numerical speculations may seem puerile, as said. Whether such a judgement is true or false, I shall not say. But what can be said for certain - and experience shows that it neeeds to be said - is that it is most puerile to deny that the concerns of Gematria has formed the shape and form of the words and sentences in the Buddhist as well as the Christian gospels.

The evangelists also had a lot of fun, puerile perhaps, punning on the word Tathâgatam. Here are but a few examples among many, and they prove once again that the Buddhist source is also the primary source.

Mt 23:10: Jesus is to be addressed as the only kathêgetês, the rare noun meaning didaskalos, “teacher”. The Buddha is also to be addressed as the only Tathâgatas, one of the many meanings of which is “teacher”.

ho agathos is a pun on tath-âgatas. And Tathâgatas is, indeed, the only good man.

Mt 20:15: For I am good, hoti egô agathos eimi - for I am Tathâgatas (t-th-g-t-s = t-g-g-th-s)

Mt 17:24: They receive the didrachmae, ta didrakhma - they receive tathâgatam (t-th-g-t-m = t-d-d-kh-m). And Tathâgatas is, indeed, valuable.

Mt 25:28: He has the ten talents, ta deka talanta - he has the Tathâgatam (t-th-g-t-m = t-d-k-t-n). He is , again, valuable.

Mt 27:65: You have a guard, koustôdian - they have Tathâgatam , or Tathâgatas (t-th-g-t-m = k-s-t-d-n; for n is a dental like t(h)). And Tathâgatas is, indeed, a guard. In the Buddhist sources, Tathâgatas is often called a guardian or protector.

. Mt 14:19: He takes the two fishes, tous duo ikhthuas - Tathâgatas offers himself as an object, Tathâgatam, as in Mt 26:26-29 (t-th-g-t-m = t-d-s- kh-th-s). The two fishes are, moreover, a common symbol of Tathâgatas and of the Christ. Moreover, in Gematria, the figure 1224 is intimately related to the fishes.

Mt 7: 11: They know to give good gifts, domata agatha - they know to give Tathâgatam (t-th-g-t-m = d-m-t-g-th).

Mt 4:20 - 21 : The first disciples left the nets, ta diktua, but they also prepared the nets - first the five disciples left Tathâgatas, but then they received him again (t-th-g-t = t-d-k-t). At the same time, the net is a symbol of Jesus as well as of Tathâgatas, as pointed out above.

Mt 26:63: He adjures Jesus “by God”, kata tou theou - i.e. as Tathâgata (vocative case of Tathâgatas), and wants to known whether he is ho khristos - Sanskrit: ksatriyas - and “son of God” - Sanskrit : deva-putras. Jesus confirms that he is right.

Mt 22:21: One must render the (what?) of Caesar to Caesar, and the (what?) of the god to the god, ta Kaisaros Kaisari kai ta tou theou tô theô - yes, one must render homage etc. to the ksatriyas and to tathâgatas.

Mt 17:11-12: Playing the role of Elias = Helios, He is the one who will come, and, at the same time, the one who already has come - no wonder, for tathâ plus âgatas means “the one who has come”, and tathâ plus a-gatas means “the one who has not come but who will come.”

Lk 10:42 : For Mary chose the good part, tên agathên merida - yes, for she chose to listen to the Tathâgatam (t-th-g-t-m = t-n-g-th-n; n again being a dental replacing t), when he paid her a visit in Vaisâlî. Here she listened to his Dharma - the “part”, Greek merida (dh-r-m = m-r-d).

So, to conclude: It is all a matter of listening to (the word) Tathâgatam/s.
The Buddhist source in question (Q=SDP) confirms that by merely repeating or listening to the word Tathâgatas, one will, eventually, obtain salvation.
It was this belief that made the evangelists repeat the name of Tathâgatas.
For centuries pious Christians have been repeating the name of Tathâgatas - without knowing it.
Whether they have reached salvation or not - that is another question.
According to Mahâyâna, one is saved merely by reciting the name of Tathâgatas - or one of his numerous other names and titles.
With this in mind we shall also understand the following:

6. The New Testament

The New Testament is, needless to say, the title of a body of individual books, 27 in all.
But why the New Testament is called the New Testament, and why it comprises exactly 27 different writings within its body, is another question to which scholars have not yet provided any satisfactory answers.
In the Introduction to his learned, but also traditionally naive standard work, The Canon of the New Testament. Its Origin, Development, and Significance, Oxford 1987, Bruce M. Metzger observes: “ The recognition of the canonical status of the several books of the New Testament was the result of a long and gradual process, in the course of which certain writings, regarded as authoritative, were separated from a much larger body of early Christian literature. Although this was one of the most important developments in the thought and practice of the early Church, history is virtually silent as to how, when, and by whom it was brought about. Nothing is more amazing in the annals of the Christian Church than the absence of detailed accounts of so significant a process.”
This is true and this is remarkable, and, in itself, a real problem. When its comes to the early formation of the New Testament - often considered the very Word of God, nothing less - it is worth repeating, that we are left in the dark as to how, when, and by whom it was brought about.
If the New Testament really is the Word of God - how, then, can it be that God made up his mind to leave posterity in deep ignorance as to how, when and by whom it was brought about?
Was God simply incapable of doing so, or did he have his reasons for keeping the origins of the New Testament a profound secret? And, if so, why? -

Such are some of the questions we are obliged to ask.
To this day, theologians have been unable to solve the puzzle.
First, I will take up the question of the title: The New Testament, in Greek hê kainê diathêkê.
There can be no doubt that the title of the New Testament somehow has to be traced back to the words of Jesus during the The Last Supper:

Mt 26: 28: touto gar estin to haima mou tês diathêkês, “for this is the blood , of mine, of the covenant”.
These obscure words are repeated by the second evangelist, Mark, leaving out only the gar, “for”:
Mk 14:24 : touto estin to haima mou tês diathêkês, “this is the blood, of mine, of the covenant.”

The words of Jesus as reported by the third evangelist are quite different:
Lk 22:20: touto to potêrion hê kainê diathêkê en tô haimati mou, “ This cup (is) the new covenant in the blood of mine”.
These no less obscure words, with the mou, “of mine”, in the odd position, are supported by Paul:
1 Cor 11:25: touto to potêrion hê kainê diathêkê estin en tô emô haimati, “ This cup is the new covenant in my blood”.
These words are familiar to all who attend services in church, and there is no end to the speculations and resulting controversies that their obscurity have given rise to for almost two millennia. Heretical views as to their proper meaning have incited bloodshed beyond measure - as if in ominous fulfilment of the the immediately following words about the blood, “which is poured out for many” .

Familiarity with the Sanskrit language and with the Buddhist sources could have saved pious souls from confusion and cruelty without end. The Buddhist source is , again, the Mahâparinirvânasûtra, quite precisely Mps 42:10, which reports the words of Tathâgatas to his disciples during his last reported supper.
The Sanskrit for “last supper” is pascimam pindapâtam, Mps 29:6. The Sanskrit pascimam means “last”. Very nicely, its first two syllables are assimlated to those of the Greek paskha, “easter, passover”. The phrase in Mt 26:17 is the odd phagein to paskha, “to eat the passover”. In Mt 26:18 Jesus says, pros se poiô to paskha, “ In front of you, I will do the passover”. The passover is also the final meal; the to pasha, in 3 syllables renders Sanskrit pascimam.
During the final supper in the Mps, Tathâgatas first invites his disciples, the monks, “to look at, to behold” the body of the Tathâgatas. In Matthew, the original invitation “to look at, to behold” becomes an invitation “to eat , to drink”. As in the original, there is no “and”. It is the same group of disciples that are invited to so, under the same circumstances, and at the same point , in the same place, in the same gradual course of events.
If we take the trouble to count the number of words and the number of syllables in both sources, we arrive at interesting results: First the Buddhist source: Mps 42:10 evidently belongs to a unit formed by Mps 42:9-12. The introduction are the words of the redactor.

The number of words from the mouth of Tathâgatas is exactly 30. The number of syllables is exactly 99, which is the significant Buddhist number 108 minus 9 = 99.

See more about the number 108, infra, under 8.
Then the NT source: Exactly as Mps, Matthew has counted the words and the syllables having to do with the Last Supper. The total number of words put into the mouth of Jesus, beginning with labete in Mt 26:26, ending with mou in Mt 26:29 is 54. The total number of syllables is 108 - the Buddhist number.
Quite clearly, the unknown editor of the Mps considered not only the number of words and syllables, but also their mutual ratio. And exactly the same observation applies to the unknown editor that we call Matthew: He not only counted the number of words and syllables as well as their mutual ratio - but he also did this in the light of the Buddhist source. He not only imitatated the numerical pattern of the original. He also imitated the individual words, their sounds and their sense, as well as the structure of the unit in question - the Last Supper . Moreover, he even imitated the position of that celebrated episode in the body of the text as a whole - the Last days of Tathâgatas.

Let us now that we have identified the Sanskrit source, come back to the origin of the title of The New Testament - the hê kainê diathêkê!

In Mps 42:10 the focus is, for sure, on the body of Tathâgatas - the Sanskrit is Tathâgatasya kâyam, the body (kâyam) of (the) Tathâgatas.
The tathâgata-sya is the genitive form (-sya). The kâyam is the object in the sentence. Being the direct object of the two transitive verbs avalokayata, “look at”, and vyavalokayata, “behold”, it is, of course, in the accusative case. The number of syllables of these two imperative forms is 2 x 6, corresponding to the number of syllables in the two Greek imperatives labete, “take”, and phagete, “eat”, 2 x 3 syllables.

There is a ratio 1:2, exactly as there is in Matthew, as pointed out, the same 1:2 ratio between the number of words and syllables in the mouth of Jesus, namely 54:108.
The Sanskrit text, Mps 42:11, adds yet another imperative, likewise second person plural: bhavata. This form, bha-va-ta, “be you”, is also imitated by the la-be-te and the pha-ge-te.
With these two words - tathâgatasya kâyam - in mind, it is not difficult to see that the tês diathêkês in Matthew is to be identified as a direct imitation of 1) the sound, 2) the sense, 3) the case, 4) the number of syllables, and 5) the position of Sanskrit tathâgatasya. So, to be quite sure, the Greek tês diathêkês translates, or imitates, the Sanskrit tathâgatasya as follows:

1) The sound is imitated by Matthew, for tês diathêkês consists of the consonants t-s-d-th-k-s, where the original Sanskrit consists of the consonants t-th-g-t-s. Needless to say, t, th, and d are dentals, whereas k and g are gutturals, and s - of which Matthew has one extra - is a sibilant. - The fact that tathâgatasya is here imitated is independently supported by the imitations of tathâgatas/m pointed out supra, under 5.

2) The sense is also imitated: The Sanskrit compound tathâgatas/m is open to several interpretations. There is absolutely nothing to prevent us from taking tathâ, meaning

“thus”, along with gatam, “gone”, in the sense of “understood”, or âgatam, as “arrived at”. The compound as a whole, therefore also means “ thus agreed upon”, i.e., as a substantive, an agreement, a covenant. This, then, smoothly accounts for the sense of hê diathêkê, “the agreement, the covenant”.

3) The case is the same, namely genitive.

4) The number of syllables is the same in Sanskrit and in Greek, namely 5.

5) The position of tathâgatasya is the same as that of tês diathêkês, namely subordinate to kâyam, just as tês diathêkês is subordinate to to haima, “the blood”.

This brings us to the next step - namely to account for the fact that the to haima of Matthew and Mark is replaced by hê kainâ diathêkê in Luke and Paul.
Now that we have identified the original source, a simple explanation offers itself:
The Greek haima, “blood”, and the Greek kainê, “new”, are but two different versions of one and the same Sanskrit word, namely kâyam.
How so?
Among the Jews, to whom Matthew addressed his gospel, “blood” was a simple synonym of “body”. This is well-known, and the expression “ the blood of the covenant” is therefore but a translation of the Sanskrit tathâgatasya kâyam, “the body of Tathâgatas”.
The Greek kainê, said of the covenant in Luke and Paul, is yet another version of the Sanskrit kâyam. Here, it must be kept in mind that in Sanskrit y is a semivowel. As such, it can be taken either as a vowel or as a consonant. Taken as a vowel it need not be indicated in writing. The n in the Greek kainê is a nasal, exactly as the m in the Sanskrit kâyam, “body”, is a nasal. So the n of the Greek represents the m of the Sanskrit . Both words consist of two syllables only. Both words say something about the covenant.
Clearly, therefore, hê kainê diathêkê is a variant version of the original Sanskrit: tathâgatasya kâyam. It has the same number of syllables, namely 7.

We can say that haima and kainê are interpretations of the same kâyam, “body”.
That this is so is further supported, in plain words, by Mt 26:26, where Jesus says: touto estin to sôma mou, “This is my body”. The same identification is found in Mk 14: 22, and in Lk 22:19.
Here the sôma, body” is a simple synonym of Sanskrit kâyam, “body”.
Now we also understand the touto estin to, in 5 syllables: It contains a pun on tathâgatasya of the original, also 5 syllables in the same position.
Luke and Paul, it will be recalled, introduced a cup - touto to potêrion, “this the cup”. The to potêrion in itself consists of 5 syllables, forming a pun on the 5 syllables of tathâgatasya. Adding the touto we get 7 syllables, forming a pun on the entire original phrase: tathâgatasya kâyam, also 7 syllables.
And the pun in the Greek is not merely a pun on the words, the syllables and the rythm of the original.
The cup also contains the body of Tathâgatas.
Jesus identifies himself with the body of the Tathâgatas.
The name of Tathâgatas, the Dharma of Tathâgatas are now to be found in the body of the New Testament.

Therefore - and this is the answer to the initial question about the obscure origin of the body of the New Testament -
The New Testament is the Body of the Tathâgatas.

In the Buddhist sources, the Body of the Tathâgatas is often identified with the Body of his Dharma.
The New Testament contains the name and the Dharma of the Tathâgatas, and Jesus even identifies himself with the Body of Tathâgatas.
No title for the body of the 27 books could, therefore, be more appropriate than - hë kainê diathêkê:
It is new in the sense that the body of the Tathâgatas is a true innovation, something entirely new, in the Jewish context into which it was smuggled.

This is a historical truth, but also a truth that simply had to be hidden , but without being denied.
For this purpose the use of Gematria proved serviceable.
Its historical origin had, at all costs, to be kept secret.
It was - to this day. Those who were initiated, knew what those, who were not, did not.

One final observation, now that we are speaking of Gematria, and in order to conclude these observations on the true identity of Jesus etc. in a nice orderly or geometrical fashion:
The numerical value of tathâgatas is - no harm repeating: 300+1+9+1+3+1+300+1+200 = 816.
The numerical value of kâyam, also according to the Greek calculation, is : 20+1+10+1+40 = 72.
When we add 816 + 72 we arrive at 888.
As I have just shown, Jesus identified himself with tathâgatas, or with the body of Tathâgatas - which is much the same thing.
And when we now recall that the numerical value of ´Iêsous is 10+8+200+70+400+200 = 888, then we have a new and independent proof that the Jesus is not different from tathâgatas and his body.
Those who may want to deny this identification will also be inclined to deny that the sum of 816 plus 72 is 888, or that 888 is identical with 888.

PS: When I had concluded these observations, I had not yet been able to account fully for the very strange Greek phrase shared by Matthew and Mark: to haima mou, “the blood mine”. All Greek scholars will admit that the mou, “(of) mine” is most disturbing and awkward in this position. There must be a special reason for Matthew having written it, and for Mark having endorsed it (- for Mark came after, not before, Matthew). The mou kept me sleepless.

The solution, I suspected, could perhaps be found in Gematria.
Considering the numerical value of the phrase to haima mou we get: 300 + 70 + 1 + 10

+ 40 + 1 + 40 + 70 + 400 = 932.
What is so special about the number 932?
Does it, perhaps, refer to one of the many synonyms of the Tathâgatas - a reasonable question to ask, considering the context?
One of the most frequently mentioned names or titles of the ksatriyas or Tathâgatas is Sâkya-munis.
There are quite a few puns on Sâkya-munis in the Gospels - the happiest is probably Mt 21:19: sukên mian, and monon (the accusative of -munis is munim) - the source of which is also Q = Mps, where Tathâgtas is compared to a fig tree.
The numerical value of Sâkya-munis is : 200+1+20+10+1+40+400+50+10+200 = 932 - exactly the same as the numerical value of to haima mou.

To repeat:
The numerical value of to haima mou is 932.
The numerical value of Sâkya-munis is 932.
This identification, it goes without saying, is in perfect harmony with the fact that the numerical value of tathâgatas plus kâyam = 888, which, as said, was also the numerical value of ´Iêsous = 888.

So, what Matthew and Mark are saying is that:
Tathâgatas is Sâkyamunis, Tathâgatas. At the same time they are identifying Jesus with the Body of Tathâgatas, as already pointed out.
The awkwark mou was, in other words, inserted for the sake of the numerical value of Sâkyamunis - according to the Greek mode of alphabetical calculation.
They started out with Tathâgatas, with Sâkyamunis and with Tathâgatasya kâyam, then they determined the numerical value of these basic terms. The next step was to find Greek words having the same numerical value.
The result was: Tathâgatas is Sâkyamunis, the Body of Tathâgatas.
This is what the enigmatic Greek sentence touto (gar) estin to haima mou tês diathêkês really means - if one knows Gematria.

7. Ten virgins

Mt 25:1-13 - the parable of the ten virgins - undoubtedly forms a unit in its own right.
The parable only occurs in Matthew. There is nothing corresponding in Mark, Luke or John.
What interests us here is the external form and structure of the passage - not the interpretation of the parable as such. Philology first, theology second.
Without really knowing what to make of it, other scholars - beginning with Smit Sibinga, a Dutch theologian - have already drawn attention to the striking structure of the passage as a whole:
There are 13 verses. The total number of syllables in 1-12 amounts to exactly 350 (= 5x 70). The final verse, Mt 25:13, consists of exactly 20 syllables.
Clearly, Matthew counted the syllables.
But there is more: Verse 7, from the point of view of sense and of position, forms the center of the narrative: “ Then all those maidens rose and trimmed their lamps”. The number of syllables is 27.

Verse 1 consists of 47 syllables, and corresponds to verse 12, which also consists of 47 syallbles. Verses 2 and 3 consist of 40 syllables, and correspond to verses 10, which also consists of 40 syllables. Verses 4 and 5 consist of 45 syllables, and correspond to verse 9, which also consists of 45 syllables.. Verse 6 has 27 syllables, whereas verse 8 has 32 syllables. In the middle, as said, we have verse 7, consisting of 27 syllables. This means that the story as a whole is arranged geometrically, with a unit of 27 entities in the center. One must be prejudiced not to admit this fact.
Behind the numbers we are entitled to see a sort of concentric pattern, with the significant figure 27 in the focus.
This is a good example of what Gematria means.

The fact that the parable of the ten virgins is also an imitation of a celebrated Buddhist parable, has escaped all previous researchers. Matthew does not imitate the size of the original, but he imitates the sound and the sense of the basic concept, which is (a)pramâdas, as well as the key terms attested in the original source - the celebrated Mahâparinirvânasûtra, Chapter 4. This sûtra - one of the synonyms of evangelium, “good message” - is also the source of many other incidents related in the Gospels. During a visit to Pâtaliputra - the ta Pali(m)bothra of the ancient historians (Strabo, Pliny, Ptolemy, Arrianus), the present Patna - Tathâgatas delivers a sermon on Dharma, “the Law”. The audience consists of brâhmanas, “priests”, and grha-patis, “house-holders”. An initial distinction is made between pramâdas, “inattention”, and a-pramâdas, “attention”.
Five kinds of disaster (âdînavas) are associated with pramâdas (Mps 4:6-11), and five kinds of benefits (ânusamsâ) are, likewise, mutatis mutandis, associated with a-pramâdas (Mps 4:12-17). There is an Introduction (Mps 4: 1-5), as well as a Conclusion (Mps 4:18-20, or - 5:1) First of all we note that the Buddhist original also displays a concentrical structure, just like Matthew. The pattern is exactly the same. It first deals with the five kinds of disaster associated with pramâdas, and, having reached the middle, or center, it goes on with the five kinds of benefit associated with a-pramâdas.
Moreover, the basic topic is exactly the same: One has to “keep watch”, one must be attentive - otherwise... Both sources advise us to be attentive.
Matthew speaks of the ten virgins, parthenois (the instrumental = dative form).
Here the apramâdas as well as the pramâdas - 5+5 = 10 cases in the original - have become the ten parthenois (p-r-m-d-s = p-r-m-d-s = p-r-th-n-s).
Five prudent virgins and five foolish virgins take their lampadas, “lamps”.
Here the apramâdas as well as pramâdas - 5+5 = 10 cases in the original - become lampadas in the Greek (p-r-m-d-s = p-r-m-d-s = l-m-p-d-s). (The r in the original has become l in the Greek - a frequent phenomenon, as when râjâ is spelled lâjâ, “king”; r is replaced by an equivalent l.)

So, to be sure, behind the 5+5 parthenois, and behind the 5+5 lampadas we have, in both cases the 5+5 pramâdas and a-pramâdas.
Five of them are described as “prudent”, phronimoi, from phronimos. The sense and the sound of phronimos (in verse 10 we have the form phronimois) is directly based on the Sanskrit brâhmanas, “a priest” - generally considered “wise, prudent”.

Choosing phronimos, it is quite impossible to suggest a happier rendering of brâhmanas (b-r-h-m-n-s = ph-r-n-m-s).
Then we have the bridegoom, who is late, the numphios. He, too, is a sort of respectable person.
In Indian dialects related to Sanskrit, an r is often lost, or replaced by another “semivowel”, e.g. l, as above.
With this fact in mind, it is easy to see that numphios is also based on the brâhmanas of the original (b-h-m-n-s = n-m-ph-s).
So, the pattern is exactly the same as above: just as parthenois and lampadas are but variant versions of apramâdas/pramâdas, thus phronimos and numphios are but variant renderings of brâhmanas.
In the original, to be sure, the Tathâgatas is often described as a true brâhmanas.
In verse 9, the prudent ones ask the stupid ones to go “to those selling”, pros tous pôlountas. The Greek text omits the direct object of the verb for selling. It does not tell us what they are selling. Of course, it is understood that they are selling oil, but the text does ot explicitly say so. We must account for this irregularity, of course.
As said, the episode originally took place in the city Pâtaliputras, 5 syllables.
And so it is easy to see, or hear, that pros tous pôlountas is intended to provide a pun on Pâtaliputras: When they are asked to go pros tous pôlountas, they are in fact asked to go to Pâtaliputras, also 5 syllables.
The pun on Pâtaliputras in Matthew is good, but not perfect. More happy are the puns on Pâtaliputras found in Mk 13:1: potapoi lithoi, “what great stones” and, again, Mk 13:2: lithos epi lithon, “stone on stone”. The original, which is Mps 5:12, offers similar puns. At the time of the visit of Tathâgatas the place was still a village, under construction for fortification. Hence the many stones, turning the old village into a polis, or an oppidum.
There are several other Greek puns on the original Sanskrit in this parable, but I think these examples are sufficient to demonstate the method of imitation employed by Matthew.
If we know the Sanskrit original we can, without too much difficulty, make good sense of the parable of the ten virgins. If we do not know the Sanskrit original, the parable is open to numerous interpretations - even obscene ones.
Let us, let the wise men in the proverb, fear to tread where fools rush in!

8. The number 108 etc

For reasons that need not detain us here, the figure 108 is one of the most significant ones in Buddhism.
On the other hand, the figure 108 is never mentioned explicitly in the Old Testament. Nor is it mentioned explicitly in the New Testament. When we start counting words and syllables in the Gospels, we shall, however, find that the number 108 - and its divisors etc. - is one of the most significant figures in the New Testament as well.
This suggests that 108 is not a “Jewish” figure, but rather a Buddhist, and an Indian one, too.
Let us see! And let us not forget that the New Testament is the Body of Tathâgatas.

The New Testament, as a whole, consists of exactly 27 books. We have no exact idea about where, when and by whom this figure was chosen. But we have a good idea about why it was chosen.
Quite a few Buddhist scriptures (sûtra) consist of 27 chapters. This also goes for one of the main sources of the Gospels, namely the Saddharmapundarîkasûtra - the famous Lotus Sûtra. I have not here in this brief communication pointed out the numerous allusions to that crucial text in the New Testament. (For the proof, which is irrelevant in the present context, I must ask the reader to consult the book Hemligheten om Kristus.)

In the New Testament many different numbers are explicitly mentioned, but 27 is not among them. The same, as said, goes for the number 108. The figure 108 is rationally related to another highly significant figure in the gospels, namely, as already pointed out supra: 1224. The numerical value of tathâgatas was 816, which is exactly 2/3 of 1224.
There were 12 disciples, and there were also 72 disciples. When we multiply 108 x 12, we get 1296, and when we subtract 72 - the 72 who “came back” - from 1296, we again arrive at 1224. The figure 72 is exactly 2/3 of 108, just as 816 is 2/3 of 1224.
We may go on: If we multiply 12 x 72 , we arrive at 864.
And 864 is also the number we arrive at when we multiply 108 x 8 = 864.
When we subtract 816, the numerical value of tathâgatas, from 864, the numerical value arrived at by multiplication of the number of the two groups of disciples - in both sources - we arrive at 864 minus 816 = 48.
And 48 is 4 x12.
And 108 is 9 x 12.
One of the noteworthy things about the figure 48 is, that like 816, 108 and 27, it is not one of the figures explicitly mentioned in the New Testament.
But below the surface they are most certainly at work.
When we go back to 864 = 12 x 72 = 8 x 108, and then add 2 x 12 = 24, then we arrive at 888.
And 888 was, as will be recalled, the numerical value not only of ´Iêsous but also of tathâgatas (816) plus kâyam (72).
Now, kâyam, as said, means “body” (here in the accusative). In Sanskrit it is often used in the sense of “a body of people” (as in jana-kâyah, or jana-kâyas ,where jana-, from janah/janas, means “people, folk”). The numerical value of kâyam is, as said, 72.
During the Last Supper , Tathâgatas, as well as Jesus, was surrounded by the body of his monks, or disciples. There were 12 of them, and 6x12 makes 72, which, as said, was also the number of disciples in another context.
This observation opens up for yet another interpretation of the phrase discussed above: Tathâgatasya kâyam, Mps 42:10. Now kâyam refers to the body of diciples, in Sanskrit as well as Greek. They form his body, his kâyam - be their number 12 or 72.

27 is exactly 1/4 of 108.
27 was also the number of syllables in Mt 25:7, which, as seen, formed the center in the body of the parable of the ten virgins, Mt 25: 12(13) : tote êgerthêsan pasai hai parthenoi ekeinai kai ekosmêsan tas lampadas heautôn - 27 syllables.
27 x 27 = 729, which was the number of Kêphas: 20+8+500+1+200 = 729. From the name of the first disciple we derive the cube that measures 9x9x9 = 729. Or rather: from the figure 729 we design a name that has precisely that numerical value, namely Kêphas.

3 x 27 = 81. If we read this figure as 801 (8+1 = 8+0+1), we get two symbols of the Christ, the ksatriyas, viz. the dove, peristera in Mt 3:16 = 80+5+100+10+200+300+5+100+1 = 801; and the A and the Ô, the Alpha and Omega = 1+800 = 801.

Let us now search for 4 x 27 = 108 within the body of the text of the New Testament!
Mt 16:16-20 is a crucial passage, the answer of Jesus to Simôn Petros. It consists of exactly 108 words (counting the kagô in 18 as two words).
It is partly based on a famous Buddhist passage of confession. Often repeated, it consists of exactly 108 syllables. (It is the formula of confession beginning with idam asmâkam...ending with devamanusyesu; it consists of two units, 58 + 50 syllables = 108; see e.g Waldschmidt´s edition of the Mps, p. 468, n. 3 for the Sanskrit. - Matthew is also fond of the figure 50 for individual units, as pointed out by Smit Sibinga.)

Let us then go to -
Mt 16:24-28. The passage as a whole consists of exactly 115 words, or 225 syllables. The initial 7 words, however, are evidently those of the redactor, not the ipsissima verba of Jesus. This means that the total number of words ascribed to Jesus is 115 minus 7, which leaves us with exactly 108 words.
This passage is essentially - namely for the words ascribed to Jesus in 16:24 - based on a celebrated Buddhist passage that forms a unit in its own right, and that consists of exactly 36 syllables = 1/3 of 108 syllables. Normally the 36 syllables are repeated 2,3 or 4 times in the unit as a whole:, giving us: 2 x 36 = 72; 3 x 36 = 108; 4 x 36 = 144 syllables. . (The Sanskrit formula of initiation begins with kesasmarsrv avatârya...ending with pravrajemeti, see e.g. Waldschmidt´s edition of the Catusparisatsûtra 19-20.)

Third, as already pointed out supra, the total number of words put into the mouth of Jesus, beginning with labete in Mt 26:26, ending with mou in Mt 26:29 is 54. The total number of syllables is 108 - the Buddhist number.
Needless to add: 2 x 27 = 54, and 4 x 27 = 2 x 54 = 108.
These examples, taken from three crucial passages in Matthew, are, together with the other examples of Gematria mentioned above, sufficient to prove that Matthew paid great attention to the figure 108 and its main divisors: 27, 36 and 54.
The reason for this is also clear: It is the usual reason:
Matthew wants to imitate his source as precisely as possible.
Those who were responsible for including the 27 books - neither less nor more - in the Body of the Tathâgatas - can hardly have been unaware of the deeper significance of the figure 27.

No wonder that he is identified as a “the toll collector”, hô telônês, Mt 10:3 - the main task of the toll collector being, needless to say, to count and to collect.

Conclusion

By means of a number of examples that could easily be increased, and that also will be increased, I have pointed out that the form and the deeper sense of crucial passages in the New Testament can only be properly understood in the light of the Sanskrit original of which even the title of the New Testament is an imitation.
The main key, or link, is provided by Gematria - the fact that letters also have numerical values, and that these numerical values, in the ultimate analysis, correspond, in a rational and verifiable fashion, to geometrical figures, circles, squares, cubes etc.

[04-04-2003] REVIEW by Christian Lindtner - first published in the Quarterly SUHRULLEKHA

Ulrich Luz/ Axel Michaels: Jesus oder Buddha. Leben und Lehre im Vergleich.

The book is a sort of dialogue between a historian of religion (Michaels) and a New Testament scholar (Luz, known for his learned commentary on Matthew etc.). Their purpose is not apologetic, but rather “phenomenological”, they merely wish to compare and point out similarities and differences in the life and teaching of Jesus and Buddha. This, again, means that the book is primarily neither historical nor philological. The texts are taken more or less at their face value. And this makes a big difference.

The possibility of any historical relationship between Jesus and Buddha is rejected, not, unfortunately, by serious arguments of any sort , but merely by quoting Richard Garbe from 1914: “Die Ähnlichkeiten zwischen buddhistischen und neutestamentlichen Erzählungen haben einen Tummelplatz des Dilettantismus geschaffen, auf dem seit langer Zeit ein fröhliches Leben herrscht”. (“The similarities between Buddhist and New Testament stories have created a playground for dilettantism, on which a joyful life has unfolded itself for long.”)

This is partly true, but it is also partly wrong, and very much so. Both authors seem blind to the fact that much serious work has been done recently in the comparative field (see e.g. my review article of Derrett´s The Bible and the Buddhists, BSR 18/, pp. 229-242.) As if nothing had happened in the field of “Comparative Gospel Studies” since Garbe published his Indien und das Christentum in 1914!
The two authors are, of course, not the first to compare Jesus and Buddha. One of the many important titles missing in their bibliography is the beautifully produced book by J. Duncan M. Derrett, Two Masters. The Buddha and Jesus, published by Pilkington Press in 1995. Derrett concludes his comparative survey, intended especially for teachers of religious education and comparative religion, that, if mythology and conventional verbiage are stripped away, “the Two Masters are found teaching much the same”.

Any serious comparison between the life and teaching of Buddha and Jesus must start out by carefully comparing the original Greek and the Sanskrit. Philologia must be the ancilla comparationis! The authors neglect to do so, and the result is that their “phenomenological” approach is tantamount to a naive and superficial approach. The plain rejection of a philologically based comparison of parallels is nothing, frankly speaking, but phenomenological ignorance and arrogance.

Very naive is also the assumption that Jesus - and the same goes for the Buddha, for that matter - was a “historical person”. There is not one proof - not one - that Jesus was more historical than, say, Heracles or Apollo. The authors of the four canonical gospels are anonymous. Where is the proof that they provide serious and historically reliable testimony? There is none! That Matthew, Mark and Luke tell more or less the same story about Jesus proves nothing about their historical credibility. Why should they not have made it all up? Verbal similarities etc. prove beyond any doubt that they did not work independently. After all, does Paul not write: “But if through my falsehood God's truthfulness abounds to his glory, why am I still being condemned as a sinner?” (Romans 3:7). In order words: It is quite OK to lie about holy matters as long as the result is “a good story”. Theologians have always had problems with this crucial passage in Paul. It is typical Mahâyâna “skill in means” (upâya-kausalyam).

When we compare the Greek text of the gospels with the corresponding Sanskrit text, it soon becomes clear that the Greek is a translation assimilated to familiar Jewish notions and expectations. The number of examples in support of my contention is great and it grows every day. Where a mere “phenomenological approach” sees differences, a less superficial approach sees little or no difference. In this brief review I shall confine myself to seven sets of such examples, corresponding to each of the seven angles from which the comparison between Jesus and Buddha is tackled by the two authors. All these examples have escaped the naive and superficial approach of our learned German colleagues.

I. The two founders. Jesus is called Son of God and Son of David etc. In both cases the original Sanskrit is deva-putra, “Son of Deva”, where deva becomes “god” or “David”. In Sanskrit the bodhi-sattva lives in a world of deva-putras, from which he descends. There are many deva-putras, which is also the case in Mt 5:9.

In Luke we find puns on bodhi-sattva, viz. Greek to paidi-on, “young boy”. The bodhi becomes paidi, and the to on translates San. sattva. Such puns, anything but serious, are typical of Buddhist scriptures, and they prove the Buddhist source. Now and then Jesus is identified with John the Baptist. Apparently a strange identification! But not so when we see that ho bap-ti-tês is supposed to contain a pun on bo-dhi-sat-tvas. Here the bo-dhi becomes bap-ti, and the ho and tês “translates” sattvas. The Greek abstract suffix - tês, with ho, replaces the san. -tva(s).

Puns on tathâgata(s) are frequent, e.g. the synonym and homonym kathêgêtês, Mt 23:10; or the katheudete in Lk 22:46; or the tês diathêkês, Mt 26:28. The direct source is MPS 42:10. The New Testament, in other words, is simply Tathâgatasya kâyam. I first pointed this out at the Hesbjerg Seminar on New Testament Revisionism in 2001. The Greek ho Khristos is an excellent rendering of San. ksatriyas. The genitive is ksatriyasya, which in Mt 1:1 becomes ´Iêsou Khristou. Excellent!

II. Jesus preaches the Kingdom of God, hê basileia tou theou.

So did the Buddha. There are several Sanskrit originals, one of which is deva-parisad.

Here the deva- (= devasya or devânâm) correctly becomes tou theou, and the parisat becomes basileia. The learned Luz claims (p. 47) that basileia translates the Hebrew-Aramaic malkut - and thereby reveals his historical naivite. The truth is that basileia translates parisat and is assimilated to malkut, familiar to the Jews. The plural devânâm becomes ouranôn, in the Kingdom of the Heavens. It has always puzzled theologians why Mark and Luke prefer the phrase hê basileia tou theou as opposed to Matthew, who prefers hê basileia tôn ouranôn (see e.g. Paul Feine, Theologie des neuen Testaments, Berlin 1953, p. 69, with numerous references). The Sanskrit gives the simple answer: two different versions of deva-parisat (devasya or devânâm). The PaRiSaT becomes BaSiLeia Tou (p-r-s-t = b-s-l-t).

The odd ta tou theou in Mt 15:23, translates San. deva-tâ. The -tâ becomes Greek ta, and the deva- is taken as devasya = tou theou.

III. Ethics, love etc. The Buddha did not teach love to the same extent that Jesus did so, it is often claimed.
One thereby overlooks the fact that Buddhists are expected to preach the Dharma sattvasattvahitâya etc.
Then we have the obscure word of Jesus about saying raka and môre, Mt 5:22 (quoted p. 81). One has to consult the source, the section on Pârâjika in the Prâtimoksa, to understand their sense: Behind the Greek eipê môre we find Sanskrit mrsâ-vâda etc. (see e.g. W. Pachow, A Comparative Study of the Prâtimoksa, Delhi 2000, pp. 71-75). The samgha is assimilated to the obscure synedrion, and the bhiksu of the original invariably becomes an adelphos. These are fine examples of what the Chinese called " concept-matching" (ko-i). The stange Greek expression to de perisson, Mt 5:37, is a direct translation of the Sanskrit tata uttaram (to-de imitates ta-ta). It makes sense in the original (e.g. Georg von Simson (ed.), Prâtimoksasûtra der Sarvâstivâdins, Göttingen 2000, p. 184), but nok in Matthew. In Mt 5:40 the khitôna translates Sanskrit kathina; in 5:41, the one and the two "miles" reflect the tri-yojana of the Sanskrit original (von Simson, pp. 341 and 347 for the ref.), etc.

Interestingly, the Buddhists themselves had no claer idea of the historical background of kathina = khitôna, Latin tunica.

IV. Suffering, crucifixion.
The disciples of Jesus are asked to take their "cross", Greek stavron - which is absurd. Imagine all his disciples running around as "crucifers", or clad in crosses! The Buddha expects his disciples to put on vastrâni - which makes sense. So VaSTRaNi translates STaVRoN (v-s-t-r-n = s-t-v-r-n).

The crucifixion of Jesus is totally dependent on Buddhist sources. In the Mûlasarvâstivâdavinaya (ed. Gnoli, Roma 1977, pp. 21-26) one can read how the innocent Gautama was crucified on a sûla, and the details about the sculls, etc. are also there. Most of the remaining details about the two robbers, the supernatural phenomena etc. are to be found at the end of the Mahâparinirvânasûtra and the Saddharmapundarîkasûtra. One merely has to compare the Sanskrit and the Greek carefully. A phenomenological comparison based on mere translations is bound to lead to a scientific parinirvâna. There is hardly anything in the gospels that cannot be traced back to these Buddhist sources.

V. Christology. Here the title “Son of Man” is absolutely crucial. The double nature of Jesus - or Jesus and Christ - is as Buddhist as can be. A Tathâgata appears to be mortal, but is in fact immortal. This is the fundamental doctrine of the MPS,SDP etc. - and the fundamental doctrine of the NT.
The secrets of the term “Son of Man” I shall reveal on a later occasion. As a rule, the title that Jesus uses to refer to himself, simply translates the San. Tathâgata, that the Buddha employs in the same manner, i.e. in the third person singular. According to the confused account of the gospels, Jesus was a devaputra born of a parthenos, of wind (ek pneumatos); he was the son of anthrôpos; as a babe he was in a phatne, manger, etc. According to our Buddhist sources, a bodhisattva (to paidi-on)comes from and even travels in a lotus, Sanskrit padma, padmini, pundarîka (playfully as if from pundar- plus i-ka). So a bodhisattva is the son of a pundar-. It is now easy to see that being born from (i.e. the son of) a parthenos is the same as being the son of anthrôpos, for p-r-th-n-s = n-th-r-p-s. The “from” is ek, and means that he is a son. And so it is clear that to be a son of man is the same as being born of a virgin, which again is the same as being born from (ek) or in a pundarîka- (p-n-d-r-k-s, as an adj.). To be born from pneumatos hagiou again leads us back to the lotus. The baby in the phat-ne is the bodhisattva in the pad-me etc. When Jesus travels “in wind”, pneumati (from padmini), the bodhisattva originally travelled through the air in a lotus.

So, not being aware of the Lotus, one cannot understand how Jesus was born.
The gospels surely confirm the lotus origin of the son of man!
The Greek ho huios tou anthrôpou is also an imitation/translation of the seven syllables of the term Saddharmapundarîka, i.e. the Tathâgata as a lotus of the true dharma etc.

VI. Prayer and meditation. This includes the Paternoster, the main sources of which are to be found in the Catusparisatsûtra, and the Mahâparinirvânasûtra. For instance, the mê...eis peirasmon, Mt 6:13, is a direct translation of the a-sam-pramosâya, MPS 10:10, where it makes perfect sense. The a- correctly becomes mê, and the sam-pramosâya correctly becomes eis peirasmon (s-m-p-r-m-s = s-p-r-s-m-n).

VII. The Church. The word ekklêsia only occurs twice in the Gospels. The opinio communis of theologians is (with a few exceptions) that the crucial passage, Mt 16:18, cannot possibly be an authentic word of Jesus.

But the rejection of this passage merely shows the subjectivity of theologians. It is as “authentic” - i.e. Buddhist - as any other passage. A philologist familiar with the Sanskrit text of the SDP can easily point out the original passage (SDP, ed. Kern, p. 69) . The Lord reveals his secret to Sâri-putra(s), and this means that he has now again, for the second time, put in motion this (idam) supreme wheel (cakram) of the Dharma. Likewise, Jesus reveals his secret to Petros (p-t-r-s = p-t-r-s), and thereby he will build his ekklêsian (accusative). So, behind the six syllables of mou tên ekklêsian of Mt 16:18 we find the six syllables of idam dharma-cakram. Note the odd mou, which is explained by the desire to represent the idam of the original.

Sâri-putras, to be sure, is called Jina-putra, which explains the mysterious Bar-Jôna in Mt 16:17. Bar, “son”, translates putras, and Jôna is a homonym of Jina. The Sankrit âyuSMâN, of course. becomes SiMôN (s-m-n = s-m-n). It is, at the same time, a homonym and a synonym. These examples - they could easily be multiplied almost ad infinitum - show how absurd and superficial it is to compare Jesus and Buddha, their life , their teachings, their disciples etc. etc. - without first comparing the original Sanskrit and Greek. (In the beginning was the word, if I may be forgiven for saying so!)

The authors have, arrogantly, failed to do so. No wonder therefore, that the result is rather similar to a gandharvanagara, so to speak. Or, with Nâgârjuna, one may compare their dialogue with one taking place between a teacher, who, by way of magic, creates a magical form, and this magical form forms again another magical form...

And so, a less superficial book would prefer the title: Buddha als Jesus, or “Jesus” oder Buddha - preferably adding a ?. Most of the apparent differences, turn out, in the eyes of a philologist, to be merely “phenomenological”.

Most readers will probably - as experience shows - have problems with accepting all these puns. But such puns were extremely common not only in the Indian sources but also in the ancient Jewish scriptures, OT etc. The New Testament gospels were “translated” into Greek from the Sanskrit exactly as one would have expected. First one, therefore, has to compare the translation against the original, and only then can one compare how and why the translation differs from the original.

These are just a few examples among many. More will be found in my book Hemligheten om Kristus, and in my paper “Gematria in the Gospels” soon to appear in Acta Orientalia.

[01-11-2001] A Report On The First International Seminar On New Testament Revisionism

Dr. Christian Lindtner and NEW TESTAMENT REVISIONISM

With the participation of Danish, German, Polish and Italian scholars of ancient Greek and/or Sanskrit, The First International Seminar on the recently discovered Buddhist sources of the New Testament Gospels was held at Hesbjerg Castle, near Odense, Denmark, on October 26-27, 2001.
The main purpose of the seminar - the first ever of its kind - was to present and discuss the newly discovered Buddhist Sanskrit sources of the celebrated Passion Narrative, as found in the Gospel of Matthew, chapters 26-28, with the parallel accounts in the Gospels of Mark, Luke and John.
Many professors of the New Testament were invited, but as a rule they declined the invitation , usually on the ground “that they did not know Sanskrit”.

Background

For more than a century, i.e. ever since the Buddhist scriptures first became available in Europe in the 19th century,, scholars have discussed the possibility of the New Testament being to a smaller or lesser degree dependent upon Buddhist sources. Opinions have differed widely. Some scholars have been prepared to admit a large degree of Buddhist influence in the Gospels, others have denied any historical influence at all. Some have taken an intermediate stand.

In a recent book, The Bible and the Buddhists, the British Sanskritist and theologian, John Duncan M. Derrett (born 1922) has drawn attention to many parallels between the New Testament and Buddhist classics. Buddhist missions were long senior to the first Christian missionaries, who could learn techniques from the former. Entrepreneurs in the same line of business, working in the same fields, Derrett argues, they examined each other’s stock, and “put their heads together”.

Accordingly, Derrett points out eleven cases where the New Testament may have gained from Buddhist models. In almost twenty cases we may assume that Buddhists have adopted New Testament material. In many cases the literatures may have gained reciprocally, or it may be impossible to claim that either influenced the other.

Several other books published in recent decades, including E.R. Gruber and H. Kersten, The Original Jesus, Shaftesbury, Dorset 1995 and Zacharias Thundy, Buddha and Christ, Leiden 1993, also advance numerous arguments in support of the thesis that the New Testament has borrowed from Buddhist or other ancient Indian sources. The numerous parallels of ideas or motives “set up a case to be answered” as Derrett correctly observes (p. 17), and his book is the most recent - and the most serious and scholarly - attempt to answer it.

The first scholar to point out not mere parallels of ideas and motives but direct loans in terms of words and phrases was the Danish Sanskritist and Classical philologist, Christian Lindtner (born 1949). His comparative work on the Greek and Sanskrit sources was done on a much broader textual basis than attempted by any previous scholars, including the ones mentioned above.

Many years of careful textual study finally, in 1998, lead him to the conclusion that the New Testament Gospels were “artificial or funny translations done, by unknown authors, directly from the Sanskrit into Greek”.

His views were first presented to the public in the introduction to two volumes of Indian Buddhist texts translated into Danish directly from Sanskrit, Pâli, Tibetan and Chinese. These two volumes appeared in September 1998, and soon raised a storm of controversy in Denmark. No less than 23 Danish scholars demanded from the publisher, Spektrum of Copenhagen, that the two volumes be withdrawn from circulation, and burned. The international response to the books of Lindtner, however, was very positive and favourable. Several reviewers found the thesis of Lindtner highly interesting and probable, and even recommended that his books be translated into German and English. Since these reviewers included some of the most distinguished Sanskritists and Buddhologists in the world, the open opposition in Denmark, where none of Lindtner´s opponents knew Sanskrit, soon became silent.

On November 7th 1998, Lindtner, as a guest of the Indian government, presented his thesis about the New Testament Gospels as being “Judaized Buddhism” to a huge international audience in India. The thesis was, more precisely, announced in the form of the inaugural speech on “Future World Order”, at the Bauddha Mahotsav, in Sarnath

- at the very place where the Buddha, long ago, had first delivered his celebrated Sermon of Benares- the so-called Dharmacakrapravartanam. His inaugural speech was published, in an expanded form, as an article with the title Buddhism in Relation to Science and World Religions. It was published by Ananda Buddha Vihara Trust, Buddhanagar, Tukaram Gate, North Lallaguda, Secunderabad - 500 017. A.P. India.
In Denmark, as said, the opposition to the novel thesis that the Gospels were "artificial and funny translations done directly from the Sanskrit into Greek", met with violent opposition. Not one single counter-argument, however, was provided. Since none of the opponents knew Sanskrit, and therefore could not meet him on scholarly grounds or in an open debate, the opponents resorted to calumny. The Danish Council of Research which had for many years supported the Sanskrit studies of Lindtner, was forced to discontinue its financial support. Publishers were put under pressure so as not to print the books on the Buddhist sources of the New Testament prepared by Lindtner.
There was even an international pressure. Because of his revisionist views, Lindtner was, for instance, denied participation in The XIIth. Conference of the International Association of Buddhist Studies, held at Lausanne, August 23-28, 1999. A registered letter, dated February 1, 1999, read:

"Dr. Lindtner, Taking into account serious problems and reservations connected with your planned participation in the forthcoming congress of the International Association of Buddhist Studies (Aug. 23-28, 1999, Lausanne), the Congress Organizing Committee, with the support of the Board of the International Association of Buddhist Studies, has decided that your presence at the congress is unacceptable. Please note that you will not be allowed to register for this congress or participate in it in any way."

The letter was signed by a certain Tom J.F. Tillemans, President of the Congress Organizing Committee, and Vice-dean of the Faculty of Letters, and by Oskar v. Hinüber, a German Professor, and General Secretary of the International Association of Buddhist Studies.
The latter subsequently confessed to a German colleague that he had been put under pressure to give his signature, and that Lindtner would have been arrested by Swiss police had he appeared at the conference. Many scholars learning about all this protested privately about the unprecedented decision. Copies of the letter were sent to various individuals, including Prof. Colette Caillat, Paris, President of the International Association of Buddhist Studies.
She, too, accepted the exclusion of Lindtner without any protest. Lindtner, then, was not to be found among the two hundred scholars from various countries who read their papers at the Lausanne conference in August 1999. There were also attempts to exclude Lindtner from using public libraries, and he was, of course, excluded from presenting his discoveries in any of the Danish universities.
The conclusion, therefore, is clear: The public, who pays for such conferences, and for the running of the universities, cannot expect purely scientific interests to be served well by such unreliable bodies. In certain fields of research political, or religious correctness, counts much more than scientific or scholarly correctness.
Eventually, Lindtner´s work found supporters in and outside Denmark, men and women who cared and were concerned about the freedom of research and speech. Thus he could continue his research into the Sanskrit sources of the New Testament Gospels.

The Hesbjerg Seminar

The host of this seminar was the liberal theologian and the owner of Hesbjerg Castle near Odense, Jørgen Laursen Vig. As opposed to virtually all other Danish theologians and historians of religion who had been informed and invited to participate, Laursen Vig found no objections to comparative Christian-Buddhist studies on a historical and philological basis.

Thus it proved feasible, in spite of great odds, to assemble a body of Danish and other scholars most of whom knew Sanskrit and/or Greek.

The first presentation was by Professor Bangert, from Germany. He spoke about the translations of Buddhist texts into German by Karl Eugen Neumann, born in 1865. Neumann, who had studied with great scholars such as Weber, Oldenberg and Deussen, had, in the notes to his translations, pointed out many New Testament parallels to Buddhist texts. It was, however, not all that clear whether these parallels were valid. many seemed spurious. Nevertheless the work of Neumann should not be ignored, as more recent scholars have tended to do. Clearly, Neumann lacked some clearly articulated principles to guide him when comparing the parallels and deciding upon their historical relationship.

The main purpose of the seminar was, as said, simply to provide Lindtner with the opportunity to present to the public the Sanskrit sources of the Greek text of the Passion Narrative as found in the two final chapters of Matthew’s Gospel.

Lindtner pointed out how virtually each word and sentence found in the Greek text could be traced back to two independent texts belonging to the same corpus of Buddhist scripture, namely the Mûlasarvâstivinaya. One text provides the legend of Gautama, the eponymous progenitor of Gautama the Buddha. The other text is the Mahâparinirvânasûtra, first edited in Sanskrit, Pâli, Tibetan with a translation from the Chinese, by the late German scholar Ernst Waldschmidt.

It could then be shown how “Matthew” first had cut these two sources to little pieces and then pasted them together anew. In this way he had preserved nearly all the original words but created a new whole, a collage, a mosaic. The result therefore, was purely fictitious. “Matthew” displays a most artificial way of “translating” - a fact that has lead to much confusion. Sometimes he translated the sense of the words or sentences, sometimes he translated the sound of words and sentences, and sometimes he tried to combine the sound and sense of the original Sanskrit in the Greek. Nearly all the motives had been taken over from the two Sanskrit sources - e.g. the crucifixion and the Eucharist - but combined anew.

Lindtner also pointed out how the names of the four evangelists could be traced back to the original Sanskrit. For instance, the evangelist Mark is in Greek called Markos. The Sanskrit word is Kumâras, a name for the Buddha as a child. As can easily be seen, the consonants are the same in both languages, namely m-r-k-s. Each of these four consonants has a given numerical value, in this case 40+100+20+200. The numerical value, of course, remains the same, even if the original order of the individual consonants is changed. This rule is technically known as gematria, and gematria was extremely common in ancient Hebrew writings. Gematria also allows the use of anagramas, of course. And thus it can easily bee seen that San. Kumâras has the same value as Greek Markos, namely 360. Hence it is formally perfectly correct to “translate”

Sanskrit Kumâras by Greek Markos.

Such examples are extremely numerous, providing us with cumulative evidence to establish the direct historical relationship. For instance, the first disciple of the Buddha is called Putras. In Greek this person becomes the first disciple of “Jesus”, namely Petros. Here, as often, not only are the original consonants retained, but their original order is likewise retained. Nearly all personal names and names of places in the Gospels can be accounted for in this way. Many such examples were provided during Lindtner´s presentation.

As know, Hebrew writing only indicated the consonants. The reader must know the vowels by himself. Thus, for example, p-t-r can be read as Peter or as pater, depending on the reader himself. Playing anagram one may also read p-t-r as pirate. So, if only the same consonants as in Sanskrit were to be found in Greek, the “translation” was considered “faithful” to the original. Since each letter also has a specific numerical value, the evangelists also paid careful attention to the number of consonants and syllables of the original Sanskrit. This means that if a sentence in the original has e.g. 42 syllables, then the corresponding Greek also has 42 syllables.

Lindtner also called attention to a few hidden puns, i.e. cases where the Sanskrit has the same sound but not the same sense as a Hebrew word understood but not explicitly mentioned in the Greek text of the gospels. Such instances serve to illustrate the extremely artificial nature of the gospels.

Some of these numerical techniques are not quite unknown to traditional theologians. It must be recalled that since each letter also has a certain numerical value, a firm distinction between sounds and numbers cannot always be made. For instance, the Gospel of John 1:19-2:11 deals mainly with Christ. It has a size of exactly 1550 syllables. The Greek for the Christ is ho Khristos. The numerical value of ho Khristos, counting also the vowels, is 70+600+100+10+200+300+70+200 = 1550.Such examples of numerical literary techniques are so frequent that they cannot possibly be considered a matter of mere chance. They are deliberate, and their manifest presence proves beyond any doubt that the evangelists most carefully counted consonants and syllables.

The Buddha is often called Tathâgatas, or the (only) teacher. In Matthew 23:10, Jesus is called kathêgêtês, or the (only) teacher. The two words are thus not only synonyms, they have the same meaning; they are also homonyms, they have the same number of syllables and nearly the same consonants. In Matthew 26:28, the San. Tathâgatas, in the genitive case Tathâgatasya, suddenly is translated by Greek tês diathêkês, meaning “of the covenant”. Here the sound and the number of syllables is retained nicely, but the sense is violently distorted.

The full Sanskrit phrase says: Tathâgatasya kâyam, the body (kâyam)of the Buddha. This in Matthew becomes “the blood of the covenant”. Luke 22:20 has a different version of the same Sanskrit phrase, namely “The New Testament”, Greek hê kainê diathêkê. Here Greek kainê translates Sanskrit kâyam. Here, to be sure, one must know that m and n are both nasals and thus numerically equivalent. Also San. y is a semivowel having the same value as Greek i. Thus kâyam = kainê.

Thus the “real” or hidden meaning of “The New Testament” is “The body of the Buddha”.

Such “translations” surely strike us as funny or artificial. Perhaps we can hardly believe that the evangelists translated from the Sanskrit into Greek in this irresponsible and unserious fashion.

But the fact is that such funny and artificial translations were quite common not only among the ancient Jews but also among the Indian Buddhists. So seen in a historical perspective, the four Gospels have been “translated” according to the rules common in those days. Good parallels to this curious way of “translating” can still be found among the remaining fragments of the Greek version (Septuaginta) of the Hebrew Bible done by Aquila who lived during the reign of emperor Hadrian (117-138). Aquila aimed to be faitful to the syllables and the letters of the Hebrew even if the Greek translation became meaningless. For instance, making use of homophony, he rendered the Hebrew ´elôn, meaning “holm oak” by the Greek aulôn, meaning “hollow, ditch, gully”. Aquila´s “translation” was very much in favour with the rabbis! One must, in other words, know the original in order not to misunderstand the translation. (For more such examples, see N.F. Marcos, The Septuagint in Context. Introduction to the Greek Versions of the Bible, Leiden 2000, pp. 115-118.)

Lindtner also pointed out that the strange procedure of combining different words and phrases from different sources was even to be seen in the way the gospels combined various Old Testament passages into a new whole. Later on, authors such as Tatian would combine passages from the gospels in the same way. A few words taken from e.g. Matthew would be combined with words taken from Luke etc. The result would be a “funny or artificial translation”, entirely fictitious in the literal sense of that term.

Nor does it come as a surprise that the Gospels are anonymous. We only know the first names of the authors. It is the same with the Buddhist scriptures.

At the seminar several participants expressed their curiosity about the motive for making such funny translations. And in what kind of historical milieu could such translations have originated?

For scholars familiar with Buddhist sources the answer to such questions is not difficult. In Mahâyâna there is a very important concept called “skill in means” (upâya-kausalya). According to this principle the Buddhist missionary is allowed to avail himself of any means with the single purpose of “presenting the body of the Buddha” to even the most ignorant people - yes, even to animals and demons. From the point of view of Mahâyâna it is considered very meritorious to mention the word Tathâgata, or to make an image of Tathâgata. The idea is that common ignorant people will not be able to understand the philosophical principles of Buddhism. For them it is enough to have faith in Tathâgata. It is therefore, quite irrelevant whether the New Testament makes any sense at all. Paradoxes are welcome as long as one hears the word of Tathâgata. The important thing is that people believe, even in a purely fictitious Buddha or Bodhisattva - such as “Jesus”. Some of the Buddhist scriptures used by the evangelists claim that one can become liberated merely by mentioning the name or by “seeing” the body of one of the many purely fictitious Buddhas in which many Buddhists believe.

This fact not only accounts for the many puns on Buddhist names in the gospels but also, as said, for the very title: The New Testament - The Body of the Buddha (to those knowing the pun).

The celebrated idea of the secret of the Messiah could also be traced directly back to the Buddhist sources. This puzzle has remained a puzzle to theologians to this day - exactly as it was intended to.

History shows that the Buddhist missionaries were highly successful.

Thus the New Testament Gospels can be characterized as crypto- Buddhism, or, since its authors and audience were undoubtedly Jews, “Judaized Buddhism”.

Challenges

At the seminar, where many other similar translations were presented and discussed, Lindtner came up with two challenges, one to theologians in general, and one to Christian priest in general.

The challenge to the theologians is that the Gospels, and other writings in the New Testament, cannot be properly understood without knowledge of the original Sanskrit sources. Theologians who ignore the Sanskrit sources, cannot be considered critical of their sources. They are, in other words, not real historians.

As for the Christian priests, at least the Lutheran ones, they have given the oath to preach the Gospels as they truly are without falsification of any kind. Since the Greek texts, taken at their face value, present a false, untrue and highly misleading picture of the original sense - as shown by some of the examples given above - this means, that the priests, if they want to be considered honest, must present the Gospels in the light of the Sanskrit originals. Modern translations, always based on the Greek, are, of course, even more unreliable than the Greek. Otherwise, if the ignore the Sanskrit, they break their oath.

The term “revisionism” may be taken to mean to revise the sources. In this sense, when speaking of the text of the New Testament, the time has come to revise the Greek in the light of the Sanskrit. No serious historian would base his views about past events on the basis of a highly misleading “artificial and funny translation” of the original. One would think that this goes without saying. And yet this is what theologians, priest and common Christians have been doing for about two millennia.

Lindtner concluded by saying that he had asked several theologians for one proof - just one proof - serving to demonstrate that the New Testament gospels must be considered serious scriptures. It is not enough merely to state that they are “the word of God”. A mere statement proves nothing. If it did, the opposite statement would also be true. But both statements cannot possibly be true at the same time - at least not without violating a fundamental principle of logic (the law of contradiction).

If nearly all the words, all the sentences, all the ideas found in the Passion Narrative can be traced back to Buddhists sources still available in the Sanskrit language, how, then, can one seriously claim that the gospels are “the word of God”!

To this day no theologian had been able to provided Lindtner with that proof.

THE POPE IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF THE BUDDHA

The journey to the Holy Land that Pope Paul John II undertook March 2000 was not merely an ordinary journey. Widely publicized as nothing less than a pilgrimage in the footsteps of Jesus, the itinerary first brought Saint Peter's successor No. 264 to Bethlehem, thus providing a world-wide audience with an opportunity to observe His Holiness genuflecting in the Church of the Nativity, where it is believed that Virgin Mary gave birth to Jesus Christ. After a stay in Jerusalem, includingh a visit to the Holocaust memorial Yad Vashem, His (so-called) Holiness continued to Galilee, to the mountain, or rather hill, where Jesus is said (by Matthew only) to have delivered the celebrated Sermon on the Mount. On Saturday, March 25th, the Polish Pope visited Nazareth, the village in which Jesus, according to our only source, the New Testament Gospels, is supposed to have grown up to manhood. The by now eighty year old Pope concluded his pilgrimage in Jerusalem, in the outskirts of which Jesus ended his life on earth - at least for the time being.

One of the many things that must puzzle a critical reader of the four Gospels is the curious and almost systematical vagueness and uncertainty with regard to chronological and topographical indications. Some researchers are convinced that the story about the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem is nothing more than a myth. Where and even whether Jesus actually delivered his Sermon on the Mount, is also open to doubt. Mark does not even mention it, and Luke locates it in a different form to a level place. And where the old Nazareth - or Nazara, another reading - actually was situated, we do not really know. Moreover, it is doubtful whether it was not Capernaum, rather than Nazareth, that was the paternal town of Jesus and the center of his activities. But even here there are doubts. According to Matthew 4:13, Capernaum was beside the ocean, not, as most translators have it, manipulating the Greek original, by the lake. And when we finally reach Golgotha, the exact location is also unknown. There is no convincing archaeological evidence either for the traditional site at the present Church of the Holy Sepulcher or for the more recently supposed site of Gordon's Calvary.

Similar uncertainty adheres to vitually all other topographical indications concerning the itineray of Jesus in the Gospels.
One of the other facts that must arouse our curiosity is the striking coincidence, compared with the NW Gospels, that the Buddhist Gospels exhibit with regard to the locations with which the Buddha is associated.

In Buddhism there are four major places of pilgrimage, that a pious follower is expected to visit.
First there is Lumbinî, the site where queen Mâyâ gave birth to the Bodhisattva (i.e.the Buddha before he woke up as Buddha), exactly as the Virgin Mary gave birth to Jesus in Bethlehem. Now Lumbinî is a historical place, it was re-discovered in 1895, and a few years ago excavations brought to light a slab from the time of king Asoka, showing the exact location. Mâyâ, according to the Buddhist sources, was also a "virgin", dârikâ - but this was, naturally, before she was married to the king, the father of the bodhisattva. Hence, we may already here assume, the unnatural confusion about pathenogenesis in the Gospels.

Lumbinî is situated in south Nepal, not far from the paternal town of the Buddha, Kapilavastu. In later Christian art one finds images of Mary and Jesus that impress us as mere copies of queen Mâyâ giving birth to the bodhisattva. Kapila-vastu was the center for the missionary activity of the Buddha, exactly as Caper-naum, Jesus' "own" town, was so for the alleged son of the Mary, now, finally, no longer Virgin. When the Buddha visited Kapilavastu, he would normally stay outside the city, in a park called Nyagrodha. Capernaum and Nazareth play exactly the same role in the life of Jesus , as do Kapilavastu and Nyagrodha in the life of the Buddha. Hence, we suspect, the duplicity in the Gospels.

The second place of pilgrimage in Buddhism, is Bodh(a) Gayâ, the place where the bodhisattva woke up to Enlightenment (bodhi) as Buddha, enlightened. Apparently nothing similar is related about Jesus. But only apparently. For if one looks closer at the text on the foundation of Buddhism, the Catusparisatsûtra (translated into Danish in Hînayâna. Den tidlige indiske buddhisme, Copenhagen 1998, pp. 18-59), one can hardly fail to notice that the second major event in the life (or legend) of the Buddha has been cut into several pieces and combined anew in the NT Gospels. In the account of the baptism of Jesus, in the account of his thanksgiving (Matthew 11:25-30), and in that of the Transfiguration on a unknown mountain (Matthew 17:1-13), the attentive reader can hardly fail to find partly literal translations of the Buddhist original, in Sanskrit. Curious, indeed! Should the reader wish to identify for himself the exact original location of the unknown mountain where Jesus is said to have met Moses and Elijah, let him turn to pages 22-26 of my Danish translation, from which he will also be informed about the original identity of Peter, of James and of John - not to speak of the bright cloud and the three huts that the (for now obvious reasons) confused Peter offers to put up. That the Gospels thus cut the original to pieces and rearrange the fragments into a new virtual reality, reflects the very same procedure they also apply to passages from the Old Testament. That the Gospels occasionally combine different OT passages into a new and, therefore, fictitious whole, is well known to all theologians. The result is a sort of mosaic, or collage. It has nothing to do with true history.

The third major place of pilgrimage in Buddhism is the Deer park outside Benares. Here in the park at modern Sarnath, the Buddha delivered his first great sermon, exactly as Jesus, according to Matthew, delivered his Sermon on the Mount. Both spoke of "justice" (Sanskrit dharma, Greek nomos and dikaiosynê). People from five areas and the (five) disciples listened to Jesus, exactly as a group of five disciples listened to the Buddha. Jesus speaks of eight beatitudes, the Buddha of the eight-fold Aryan Path. The Greek word for blessed, we now see, translates the Sanskrit sukha, happy.(Two Sanskrit verses give the eight beatitudes.) There is hardly a term or a phrase in the Gosples that a philologist cannot trace back to what, therefore, must be the Buddhist original. The uncertainty about the location of the Sermon on the unknown mountain or level place in the Gospels thus seems to suggest that the first great sermon of Jesus historically speaking was delivered elsewhere, namely outside Benares.

The fourth place of pilgrimage in Buddhism, is Kusinagarî, the place where the Buddha dies. Close to Kusinagarî we find Ku-kus-tâ. Here, the Buddha was twice offered something to drink. At first he declined the offer - the water being turbid - the second time he accepted the offer - the water now being pure. Twice Jesus is offered something to drink. First he rejects, then he accepts. The unknown locality of Gol-go-tha in several other respects also reminds the reader of Ku-kus-tâ (also spelled Kukutthâ). The Buddhist sources also explain why this place came to be associated with skulls - the Calvary - and they even provide further fascinating details of the alleged Crucifixion! The Buddha and Jesus pass away at exactly the same time between twelve and three, with the only difference that the Buddha dies at night, Jesus in the time of the day. The Buddha dies having passed into the ninth stage of meditation. When Jesus died it is said to have been dark all over the country. For this no darkness no natural explanation can be offered. The simple explanation is, of course, that the Gospels simply copied the Buddhist original, only turning night into day. Hence the paradox of the day being dark.

This correctness of this simple historical explanation is corroborated by the events that follow. The description of the burial and resurrection of Jesus can be found almost verbatim in the Buddhist Gospel. Moreover, Paul (1. Corinthians 15:6) wrote about the more than five hundred brothers to whom Jesus appeared. To this day we have had no idea about the identity of these five hundred brothers. The Buddhist text, however, speaks of five hundred monks present at the cremation of the body of the Buddha. They witnessed the body of the Lord go up to heaven - in smoke! The Sanskrit term is brahma-loka, i.e. the world (loka) of Brahma - becoming the kingdom of God (brahma) in the Gospels. So here again the Buddhist original provides the simple and natural explanation of what in the Gospel has become a puzzle.

The Buddhist texts to which I have here referred, have, for the major part, only become available to scholars after World War II. On the basis of often fragmentary Sanskrit manuscripts found in Turfan, some of them were edited by the German philologist, Ernst Waldschmidt in the fifties and sixties. Most of them still exist in old Chinese and Tibetan translations, and in various Central Asian languages. There is, therefore, really nothing surprising in the fact that they should also have fallen into the hands of the unknown authors of the New Testament Gospels. Obviously these unknown men must have been Jews familiar as they are with the OT. Any modern history of Jewish literature in the Hellenistic period that here concers us, provides evidence to the effect that Jewish authors for the purpose of religious propaganda produced numerous literary forgeries. The NT Gospels seem to fall into this category.

A dictionary to the Sanskrit texts is being published by the Academy of Sciences in Göttingen as Sanskrit Wörterbuch der buddhistischen Texte aus den Turfan-Funden. Here the reader can easily find further references to some of the original sources.

But there are many more surprises in store for those prepared to delve into the original Buddhist sources in the Sanskrit language! It is not merely the four Buddhist places of pilgrimage that have left manifest traces in the New Testament Gosples.
A similar observation applies to nearly all persons and minor localities mentioned in the Gospels.
Nearly all the twelve disciples, or apostles, of Jesus may be tracked down in the Buddhist sources, not only for their names but also for their activities. The first of the apostles of Jesus is, of course, Simon Peter (Gr. Petros), or St Peter. The first among those of the Buddha is Sâri Putras. Usually Jesus is held to have coined the name Petros himself (allegedly "translating" the Aramaic Kephas, a rock). However, what the Gospels report about St Peter is time and again taken over directly from the Buddhist Gospel. So, there can hardly be any doubt that Petros translates Putras. Hence, Simon Peter is merely the ghost of Sâri Putras. The principle according to which "Jesus" acted in the role of a translator is immediately obvious: All the consonants of the original are preserved without change: p-t-r-s. (Semitic languages, as a rule, do not indicate the vowels, only the consonants!) Simon, as opposed, to Sâri, is a good Jewish name. Thus, the Simon "called" Peter, or even "called" Kêphas, was only called so, ae the Gospels themself disarmingly admit. Originally, we are speaking of Sâri Putras, the first among the disciples of the Buddha (the genuine as well as the impostor).

Among the women in the life of the Buddha, Amrapâli, the courtesan (ganikâ) of Vaisalî, plays almost exactly the same role as does the "sinner" Mary Magdalene in the life of Jesus. In the later Christian legend (Jacobus de Voragine), this Mary is reported to have been buried in the Vezelay monastery, in Burgundy - an unmistakable echo of the monastery that Amrapâli of Vaisalî long ago presented to the Buddha and his monks.

One also recalls the woman who anointed Jesus in Bethany, in the house of an otherwise unknown Simon the leper. She is said to come with an alabaster jar of very expensive perfume, made of pure (Indian) nard. If one compares the Greek text of Luke 7:37 with the original Sanskrit, one cannot, as in the case of the name of Petros, fail to see that not only the sense but also all the original consonants of Amrapâli-ganikâ have been preserved without change by Luke (and, in part, by Matthew and Mark). The two rare Greek adjectives describing the nard are only fully understandable once it is recognized that they translate Sanskrit sucinâ pranîtena. The Greek even omits "and", exactly as does the original Sanskrit (asyndeton), thus again showing the direct literary dependence. Here is the transcribed Greek text of Luke 7:37 so that even a reader ignorant of Greek and Sanskrit can identify Amra-pâli-ganikâ for himself by way of the consonants: kai idou gynê êtis ên en tê polei hamartolos. Since the Greek means, " And behold, a woman who was in the city a sinner", the original sense of the Sanskrit is also served well. The pun is on the sound and on the sense, as well as on the original pattern of the sentence.
There are at least eight other puns on the name of the Buddhiust sinner in the Gospels. I shall, however, not deprive the reader the joy of discovering these puns for himself!

According to the same principle of keeping the consonants, it is now also easy to see why the Buddhist Nalanda becomes the mysterious Christian Nathanael, why Markata becomes Martha, why Pippalas becomes Philippos (Philip), why Aniruddhas becomes Andreas (Andrew), etc. etc. The principle of consonant preservation has here been successfully at work. This was also so when Lumbinî, Kapilavastu and Nyagrodha were transformed into Bethlehem, Capernaum (Gr. Kapharnaoum) and Nazareth, or Nazara. To estimate how successful the three last identifications actually were, one must keep in mind that the vivid imagination of the evangelists here was confined within certain limits: They had to assimilate the original names to locations already known to their readers. They could not possibly associate their Jesus with places that no one had ever heard of before without thereby spilling their beans. The closest they could get to Lumbinî, Kapilavastu and Nyagrodha, as we can see by consulting an atlas of the Bible, would therefore be Bethlehem, Kapharnaoum and Nazareth/Nazara, respectively. In the case of Kusinagarî, which simply had to become Jerusalem, there was no real escape; but the identification of Kukustâ with a purely imaginary Golgotha situated close to Jerusalem, merely ad hoc, contributed to a partial illusion of the identity of Kusinagarî and Jerusalem. Coming back to the famous Buddhist courtesan, Amrapâli-ganikâ:

Since nearly everything else that is reported in the Gospels about this woman can be traced back to the Sanskrit, there can remain no further doubt about the original Buddhist source of Mary Magdalene. She, too, like Simon Peter, is but a Buddhist in Christian disguise. One among the many enigmatic locations in the Gospels, is Magadan, only mentioned by Matthew 15:39. Speculatively, theologians have suggested that this may be an error for Magdala, and, going on with their speculations, they have imagined that this was the place from where Mary Magdalene must have come.

But in the light of the Buddhist sources the old crux of Magadan finally finds its natural solution. The ghost land of Magadan was originally the land of Magadha, in India, from where the Buddha set out on his last journey to Kusinagarî. On his way he met Amrapâli-ganikâ. Later, the evangelists transformed her into Mary Magdalene, just as Kusinagarî was translated into Jerusalem. Matthew retained the original Magadha almost unchanged,as Magadan, whereas Mark covered the original entirely up behind the equally obscure locality of Dalmanutha. Matthew says that Jesus got into a boat and went to the vicinity of Magadan. For obvious reasons he is silent about where the boat sailed.

It was originally the Buddha who here crossed the river Ganges. Mark adds that the disciples joined him in the boat. With this piece of additional information, Mark comes closer to the Buddhist original than does Matthew. The Buddhist text (the Mahâparinirvânasûtra) explicitly mentions that the monks also crossed the Ganges. The monks became disciples. Matthew and Mark, therefore, must have used the Buddhist original independently, here as often elsewhere.

I have here merely given a few examples of how the Buddhist texts in Sanskrit show that many of the places, events and persons that have for almost 2000 years naively and uncritically been associated with the life and teaching of Jesus, from a philological and historical point of view, must be said originally to have taken place in India, centuries "before Christ".
Much work still remains to be done, but there can be no doubt that the New Testaments Gospels must be seen as having been translated from the Sanskrit of the Buddhist Gospels.

And so, coming back to the Polish Pope, evidence permits us safely to conclude:
Had Pope Paul John II instead undertaken his pilgrimage to India and Nepal, from Lumbinî to Kapilavastu and Nyagrodha, to Bodh(a) Gayâ, to Magadha and to Kusinagarî and other famous Buddhist sites, then one could with a clear conscience maintain that the impostrous successor of St Peter - i.e. the false vicar of Sâri Putras - had followed in the footsteps of "Jesus" - alias Gautama the Buddha.

SOME SANSKRITISMS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT GOSPELS

When Dr. Kunjunni visited me here in Denmark in May 1999, we not only had the occasion to read and discuss the Sanskrit text of Bhavya´s Madhyamakahrdayam, but I also availed myself of the opportunity to share with my old friend some of the discoveries I had make in regard to the New Testament Gospels and their Sanskrit sources.

Dr. Raja immediately recognized that if merely one convincing example of the Greek text being based on the Sanskrit could be pointed out and convincingly accounted for in this light, then this would be sufficient to establish a historical relationship.

If more cases could be pointed out, where the Greek could be explained in the light of the Sanskrit, so much the better, of course.

Here I would like to draw the reader´s attention to some cases of “Sanskritisms”, where old and still unsolved difficulties in the Greek of the Gospels are convincingly solved once it is recognized that they are translated from the Sanskrit.

The main Buddhist source of the NT Gospels is the Mûlasarvâstvâda-vinaya (MSV), a huge collection of texts which also include the celebrated Catusparisatsutra (CPS) and the Mahâparinirvânasûtra (MPS). CPS and MPS were edited in Sanskrit and Tibetan by the German scholar Ernst Waldschmidt, Berlin 1952-1962 & 1950-1951, respectively. The CPS also forms a part of the Samghabhedavastu (SBV), the Sanskrit text of which (from Gilgit) was edited by Raniero Gnoli, Rome 1977-1978. Full references to these and other relevant sources may be found in the indispensable Sanskrit-Wörterbuch der buddhistischen Texte aus den Turfan-Funden, Göttingen 1973

-, and in my monograph Comparative Gospel Studies (forthcoming). My thesis is simply that there is not much in the NT Gospels that cannot be traced back to the MSV. The NT Gospels are translated - in a prima facie very strange fashion, to be sure - directly from the Sanskrit of the MSV. This novel thesis of mine was first presented to an international public in Sarnath, November 1998. My paper was subsequently expanded and published as a pamphlet by the Ananda Buddha Vihara Trust under the title Buddhism in Relation to Science and World Religions, Secunderabad 1999.

Currently I am preparing, inter alia, a running commentary on Matthew, pointing out, chapter by chapter, the Buddhist sources of the first of the four Gospels. For references to the Greek sources and modern commentaries on the Gospels etc., I shall have to refer the interested readers to that book. Here, I shall have to assume my reader to be familiar with the Greek and Sanskrit texts, and their philological problems. 1.

Matthew 17: 5. Jesus takes Peter et al. up on a high mountain, where a transfiguration takes place. Peter offers to set up three shelters (Gr. skênê). From the context one does not understand why Peter would want to set up such shelters. Candidly, Luke 9:33 admits that Peter did not know what he was saying. While he was still speaking, a bright (Gr. nephelê phôteinê) cloud envelops them. The Buddhist source solving the problems is CPS 6. Bhagavat is staying with Mucilindas, the nâgarâja. Then a saptâhiko ´kâlameghah samupâgatah, CPS 6:2. To protect Bhagavat from the rain of the a-kâla-megha, lasting seven days, Mucilindas offers his hood (phana) as a shelter. Matthew, clearly, has inverted the order of events. Also, he has “mistranslated” a-kâla, which either means “out of season”, or “bright”. To make sense he should, as the CPS, first have mentioned the dark rain cloud, and then Peter´s offer to put up shelters (San. phana becoming Gr. skênê). He confuses his reader by translating a-kâla as “bright”, though the sense required here is “out of season”. All the other details are also in the Buddhist source: The seven days become six days in Matthew and Mark, about eight days in Luke. Muci-lindas inspires to Moses and Elias; the description of Jesus is based on that of the Buddha in CPS 10; Peter (Gr. Petros) etc. were originally Tripusa etc., CPS 2. (p-t-r-s/t-r-p-s, same numerical value and consonants). 2.

Mark 6:39-40. No satisfactory explanation for the two Greek expressions symposia symposia, “companies companies”, and prasiai prasiai, “groups groups”, has ever been offered. Both are translations of the frequent samghât samgham pûgât pûgam, “from group to group, from multitude to multitude”, which occurs in the same sense e.g. MPS 26:5. The Greek gives the original sense, and at the same time it attempts to reproduce the sounds and the order of the original Sanskrit. Since this is the only place where the four words occur as such in the Gospels, this also proves that “Mark” had direct and independent access to the Sanskrit original. 3.

Matthew 16:17. Again, no satisfactory explanation has been given why Simon Peter is called Bar-Iôna. Now, Simon Petros is, as a rule, no other than Sâri-Putras. Sâri-Putras is often addressed in Buddhist sources (Mahâyâna only?) as a jina-putras, “son of Jina”. Bar-Iôna means son (bar) of Iôna, and so it is easy to see that bar translates putras whereas Iôna imitates the sound of Jina(s). So Bar-Iôna was simply Sâri-Putras. Puns on the name of this important disciple - in both sources - are quite frequent. In Matthew 16:18 Jesus says: sy ei Petros, “You are Peter”. The Gr. sy ei contains a pun on Sâri. The “missing r” can, according to a general rule, be taken from putras. In John 1:47 the noun Israelite, Gr. Israêlitês - the disciple in whom there is no guile - contains another pun on Sâri-putras. The word means “son of Israel”, which means that first the s-r represent the original two consonants of Sâri, whereas putras is represented by its original meaning in Israelite as a whole. By means of a simple pun, Sâri-Putras has become a son of Israel In the Gospels “Israelite” only occurs here. To be sure, the other disciples mentioned by John 1 can all be traced back to the Buddhist sources. As I point out in my forthcoming book, Aniruddhas thus becomes Andreas, Pippalas becomes Philippos, and Nâlandâ becomes Nathanael. The Gospels always try to retain the number and nature of the consonants (guttural, palatal, lingual, dental, labial, semivowel, sibilant) of the names of persons and places in the Sanskrit original. 4.

Matthew 14:34 & 15:39. Jesus, who has just been addressed as “son of God”, Gr. theou huios - which of course is a direct translation of San. deva-putras, as is the hybrid “son of David (Gr. huios Daueid)”- now “ and crossing over came to land Gennesaret”.

Here the Greek kai diaperasantes êlthon epi tên gên (eis) Gennêsaret is a direct rendering of San. (mâgadhakâ manusyâ) nadîm Gangâm uttaranty api pratyuttaranti, MPS 7:5. Some editors of the NT add an eis, “to”, to avoid the difficult reading gên Gennêsaret, “to land G.”. But wrongly so, for Gr. gên Gen- is an attempt to render the Gangâm of the original, retaining all the original consonants (viz. g-n-g-m=n). The San. uttaranty api has been inverted so as to become Gr. kai (=api) diaperasantes (= uttaranti), the sense being thus preserved. The second San. verb, pratyuttaranti, is represented by the five syllables, and consonants, of êlthon epi tên (NB:l counts as r, as often).

For San. mâgadhakâ, meaning “(men) form the land of Magadha” (cf. Tib.: yul ma ga dha´i mi rnams, “men of Magadha land”), we have to consult Matthew 15:39, which says that Jesus went into the boat and came “into the borders of Magadha”, Gr. eis to oria Magadan.

All modern commentators agree that this strange location “Magadan” is quite unknown from other sources. Equally puzzling is the variant given in Mark 8:10: “to the parts Dalmanutha”, Gr. eis ta merê Dalmanoutha. Neither “Magadan” nor “Dalmanu(o)tha” are to be found on the map.

In the light of the original source, MPS 7:5, all the old problems are now finally solved. One only has to look at a map of Buddhist India!

It was originally the Buddha who crossed the Ganges in the land of Magadha. This famous episode is not only known from MPS, but even from Buddhist art. The earliest artistic representation of this episode is already to be found in Sanchi, see Dieter Schlingloff, “Die wunderbare Überquerung der Gangâ”, in N. Balbir & J.K.Bautze (eds.), Festschrift Klaus Bruhn zur Vollendung des 65. Lebensjahres, Reinbek 1994, pp.571-584. To be sure, this proves the chronological priority of the Buddhist source.

MPS 7:5 also provides us with the clue to the mysterious location “Dalmanoutha”. Immediately after the words uttaranty api, the San. says that some of the Magadha people crossed the river (nadî) Gangâ in salmani-phalesu (Tib. sin sal ma la´i span leb, “boards of the salmani tree”), i.e. on rafts. Here there can hardly be any doubt that dalman imitates salman. In all likelihood, the Gr. outha is intended to imitate San. atha, the first word in the following sentence, MPS 7:6.

Speaking of atha, this common word is usually translated by Gr. eutheôs or euthus, in all the four Gospels. This literal translation creates confusion, because the Gr. words means “at once”, “immediately”, whereas San. atha simply means, “(and) then”. By translating Gr. eutheôs or euthus in the sense of San. atha the reader can suddenly make natural sense of virtually all the passages in the Gospels where atha occurs in Greek disguise.

A similar observation applies to Gr. apo tote in Matthew 4:17 and 16:21. Some scholars have suggested that this strange expression “from then on” may mark a turning point in the life of Jesus. The reader familiar with the style of SBV, however, will have no problems in recognizing the Gr. apo tote as an inverted translation of San. tato ´pi, “and then”. As a rule, Gr. tote likewise translates San. tato/tatah/tatas, a synonym of atha.

In other words: To understand the Greek one must know the Sanskrit behind it. This is a general rule that - so I maintain - applies to all the “Sanskritisms” of the four Gospels as a whole.

These are just a few typical examples of how the unknown authors of the Gospels “translated” the Sanskrit into Greek. The puns on the sounds of the original Sanskrit are sufficient to show that there was no “Aramaic” (or any other) intermediate.

The strange way of “translating” may come as a surprise to modern readers. But if things are seen in their proper historical context there is but little cause for surprise. Indian readers familiar with the norms of alamkârasâstra - the sabda- and the arthâlamkâras - will easily recognize the various kinds of puns on the sound and meaning of the original.

Jewish readers familiar with the rules (middoth) that are employed in the exegesis of their sacred scriptures, will have even less cause for surprise. A convenient survey of rabbinic hermenetics is provided by Hermann L. Strack, Introduction to the Talmud and Midrash, New York 1959.

The Gospels, with odd results, have been translated “according to the book”. The main rules (Hebrew middoth) at work when the Sanskrit was translated into Greek, were: 1. Neged, corresponding significant number, as when the seven days of the original become six, six, and about eight. 2. Ma´al, paronomasia, a playing on words which sound alike, San. anuprâsa, alliteration, or yamaka, as in the case of Nâlandâ and Gangâm becoming Nathanael and gên Gên-. 3. Gematria, from Gr. grammateia, computation of the numeric value of letters, and metathesis of the letters, e.g. when putras and Tripusa(s) both become Petros. 4. Notarikon, when a word is broken into two or more, as when ganikâ becomes gynê ekh- or gynê êtis.

Gematria is often seen as a subdivision of Notarikon. 5. Mukdam shehu´meúhar ba-´inyan, when something that precedes is palaced second, hysteron proteron, as when the shelters are mentioned before the a-kâla-megha, though they should have been mentioned after the rainy cloud. These and many other middoth are extremely common in Haggadah litterature, i.e. in Hebrew stories of the Passover.

The common technical term for translation or interpretation is Targum. It may either be Peshat (literal), or a free haggadic translation with midrashic passages, or commentaries. The Gospels should thus be seen as a targum belonging to Haggadah, done according to the middoth current among learned Jews about two thousand years ago. Often, one cannot fail to suspect that ancient Hebrew hermeneutics were somehow indebted to Indian sources to a much higher extent than generally assumed. Not just in Greek but also in Hebrew there are many “Sanskritisms”. This interesting issue I hope to take up on another occasion.

COMPARATIVE GOSPEL STUDIES IN REVIEW

Review article by Christian Lindtner:

Michael Fuss: Buddhavacanam and Dei Verbum. Brill, Leiden 1991.
Pp. xvi & 479. ISBN 90 04 089918. Price: 192.00 US S

J.Duncan M. Derrett: The Bible and the Buddhists, Sardini 2000.

Pp. 131. ISBN 88-7506-174-2. Price: 50.000 Italian Lire

Way back in 1882, in a letter on a topic of our present concern, reprinted in his celebrated book India - What Can it teach us?, London 1899, p. 284, Max Müller wrote: " That there are startling coincidences between Buddhism and Christianity cannot be denied, and it must likewise be admitted that Buddhism existed at least 400 years before Christianity. I go even further, and should feel extremely grateful if anybody would point out to me the historical channels through which Buddhism had influenced early Christianity. I have been looking for such channels all my life, but hitherto I have found none. What I have found is that for some of the most startling coincidences there are historical antecedents on both sides, and if we once know those antecedents, the coincidences become far less startling. If I do find in certain Buddhist works doctrines identically the same as in Christianity, so far from being frightened, I feel delighted, for surely truth is not the less true because it is believed by the majority of the human race."

In the decades that followed there were numerous valuable contributions to the problem taken up by Max Müller. The most important and well-informed of these was probably Richard Garbe, Indien und das Christentum, Tübingen 1914. Eight years later, Dr. Hans Haas published a 45-page Bibliographie zur Frage nach den Wechselbeziehungen zwischen Buddhismus und Christentum, as an appendix to his rare and important book "Das Scherflein der Witwe" und seine Entsprechung im Tripitaka, Leipzig 1922.

Opinions were divided. In 1935, the Indologist M. Winternitz wrote that, " the view must be rejected that Buddhist literature has exerted a direct influence upon the gospels" (quoted from Derrett, op. rec., p. 21). The Danish Indologist Poul Tuxen (1880-1955), among many others, while fully aware of the many parallels, expressed a similar conviction in his book Buddha. Hans Lære, dens Overlevering og dens Liv i Nutiden, Copenhagen 1928. According to Tuxen, the parallels, though striking, are not to explained as a result of any historical influence from Buddhism, which certainly would have the chronological priority, but rather as a result "of some typical features, spontaneously arising in a religious mind writing about a great personality" (p. 77). And thus the matter would seem to have been settled for good. What Tuxen means by these obscure remarks remains a puzzle, and, of course, he was unable to point out any set of scriptures describing some other great personality in similar words and details.

The last major work before WW II was H.W.Schomerus: Ist die Bibel von Indien abhängig?, München 1932 (omitted in Derrett´s Bibliography). Schomerus accepted many parallels but did not find it necessary to assume that the gospels were dependent on Indian or Buddhist sources. The recent decade, however, has witnessed an increasing interest, even a revival, of the old problem of possible Buddhist influence on early Christianity, including the New Testament with its four canonical gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

Derrett finds that recent research has "set up a case to be answered", and his book is an attempt to do so (p. 17). The search for Max Müller´s "historical channels" can no longer be dismissed as irrelevant.

In the opinion of M. Fuss (op. rec., p. 2), there is an “eminent theological enrichment” which can be drawn “from an encounter between Christianity and Buddhism”. The Saddharmapundarîka (SDP) has been called the “Bible of Asia” and “the Eastern commentary on the Gospel of John” (p. 4), or even the New Testament of the East. The book is designed as a phenomenological and theological comparison of scriptural inspiration in the SDP and in the Christian tradition. Its author is inspired by the Vatican II teaching about the “seeds of the Word” in non-Christian religions.

An Introduction to the study of the SDP discusses the genre and the title of the SDP, its complex textual history, its canonicity, its language and its compilation (:interpolations, interdependence of gâthâs and prose, form-critical classification, and redaction analysis). This is followed by chapters on the Catholic teaching on Scriptural Inspiration (pp. 197-248), on elements for a Contemporary Reflection on Scriptural Inspiration (pp. 249-306), on the Inspiration of the SDP as paradigm for scriptural inspiration of non-Biblical scriptures (pp. 307-359).

The aim of the SDP, Fuss concludes (p. 358) is missionary proclamation(...) and thus similarity with the kerygmatic genre of the Christian Gospels. In its narratives it concentrates on the constitutional core of Buddhist religion: on the inspirational experience of the Buddha and his proclamation of the Eternal Dharma. The Lotus Sûtra becomes the concise embodiment of the achievement of enlightenment: the transcendent dynamism of the Supreme Dharma (p. 358).

The morale of this contribution to an inter-religious dialogue, then, is: Only a mutual openness in the common listening to the one “Word” of salvation beyond theoretical conceptions will orientate both scriptural traditions in “Spirited Life” towards the blissful and liberating experience of an IN-SPIRED DIA-LOGUE” (p. 359).

Appendix 1 (pp. 361-419) provides a survey, a classification of the manuscripts etc. having to do with the textual history of the SDP. Appendix 2 lists selected “Christian parallels to the SDP”, and finally documents concerning “Dei Verbum” are given as Appendix 3 (pp. 435-454). An extensive Bibliography, completed March 1983, concludes this learned book (pp. 455-479).

When it comes to the “intricate problem” of a presumed dependence of any of these Budddhist-Christian parallels, Fuss (p. 421, n. 1) simply refers to the statement of T.W.Rhys Davids in Lectures on the Origin and Growth of Religion (= The Hibbert Lectures 1881), London 1906, p. 151f: “ I can find no evidence whatever of any actual and direct communication of any of these ideas from the East to the West. Where the Gospel narratives resemble the Buddhist ones, they seem to me to have been independently developed on the shores of the Mediterranean and in the valley of the Ganges;...The similarities of idea are evidence not of any borrowing from one side or the other, but of similar feelings engendered in men´s mind by similar experiences.”

Fuss (ibid.)dismisses the “intricate problem” - thus at least indirectly admitting its being there - by a mere reference to the rich bibliography of Buddhist-Christian parallels listed in Norbert Klatt, Literarkritische Beiträge zum Problem Christlich-Buddhistischer

Parallelen, Köln 1982. Klatt´s small book is, in fact, an important contribution to our field, Comparative Gospel Studies (CGS), if I may coin that phrase. Unfortunately, this little book has been generally ignored. I do not hope that I am transgressing the limits of discretion when, to suggest the reasons for this neglect, I quote Klatt himself (personal communication of 15 August 2001):" Die Ignorierung meiner Arbeit beruht nach meiner Auffassung nicht auf wissenschaftlichen, sondern weltanschaulichen Aspekten. Man möchte nicht, dass ein indischer Einfluss im NT nachgewiesen wird. Vor dieser Situation steht jeder, der sich mit dieser Thematik befasst."

Klatt, of course, is right, and so is Derrett (p. 15) when writing that the only person to deal conclusively with the matter must not only be fluent in Sanskrit, Greek, Hebrew etc., but he must also have a personality that will "charm and persuade the prejudiced and the indifferent". "Unlike many gifted linguists we know, will he enter into original, and highly controversial work? Will he possess the stamina to sustain a great enterprise? To the first miracle a second miracle must be added."

Zacharias P. Thundy, the author of Buddha and Christ. Nativity Stories and Indian Tradition, published two years after Fuss, also by Brill in Leiden, belong to the happy few who will not let themselves be deterred. Unlike Fuss et al., he does not dismiss the "intricate problem". This attitude may have something to do with his Indian and Christian background, as he himself notes.

Thundy´s book is also a contribution to East-West dialogues, but, compared to Fuss, along entirely different lines. In his opinion, New Testament authors have written under Buddhist influence. He agrees with Schopenhauer and others, that "The New Testament must be in some way traceable to an Indian source" (p. 1). His book is, primarily, an exercise in comparative literature (p. 18). The Gospel of Matthew reflects a process of imitation-emulation (p. 31). A close look at the first two chapters of Luke reveals extensive use of revisionism, Thundy claims (p. 34). What we find in the exegesis of the NT writers is deconstructionist midrash (ibid., my emphasis), as can be seen e.g. by a close look at the OT parallels to Luke 1. What we see by comparing the parallel passages is that Luke used several books of the OT, but he did not just copy passages from OT; he rather "judiciously used words, phrases, sentences, and motifs to advance his views on the person and the details of the life of Jesus" (ibid., p. 37). This is "plagiarism" - even theft - in the sense that it is artistic adaptation of the words and ideas of another without crediting the source or presenting a new and original idea derived from an existing source (p. 43). Many Western Christians, Thundy observes, are unduly disturbed when it is suggested that the gospel writers may have borrowed literary motifs from the East (p. 44). Even though the gospel writers use unacknowledged Buddhist and other subtexts they do not appear to be doing so; this is because these writers make these subtexts as their own original text (p. 46).

In Thundy´s opinion, the Christian gospel writers did not use any particular version of the Buddha-story from beginning to end from a literary text, but rather at random and selectively from oral traditions (p. 79).

The numerous Buddhist and Christian Infancy Parallels relate to (pp. 79ff): 1.

Pre-existence, 2. Royal origin and genealogy, 3. Universal Salvation, 4. Virginal Conception - virginitas ante partum, 5. Dream Vision, 6. White Elephant vs. White Dove, 7. Annunciation to the Husband, 8. Turmoil at Birth, 9. Masters in Mothers´ Wombs, 10. Virgin Birth - virginitas in partu, 11. Virginity - post partum, 12. Righteous Fosterfather, 13. Krshna and Jesus, 14. Angels and Others at Birth, 15. Earthquakes and the Redemption of the Dead from Hell, 16. Harrowing of Hell, 17. Nature Miracle, 18. The Taking of Seven Steps at birth, 19. Marvelous Light/Star, 20. The Baby in Swaddling Clothes, 21. The Naming Ceremony, 22. The Taming of Wild Animals, 23. The Miracles of the Bending Tree and Gushing Water, 24. The Fall of Idols, 25. Healing Miracles, 26. Annunciation of Birth by a Woman, 27. Giving of Gifts, 28. Presentation in the Temple, 29. Asita and Simeon, 30. Illumination of Hearts, 31. Buddha´s Mother, 32. Anna and Shabari/Old Women, 33. Lost and Found, 34. Mother-Son Dialogue, 35.The Infant Prodigy, 36. The Magis´ Visit, 37. The Appellation of King , 38. Mahâprajâpati and Mary: Two Influential Women, 39.Preparing the Way, 40. Growing Up, and finally, 41. Reference to Signs - all in all 41 parallel cases having to do with the infancy of Buddha, Christ, and, to a lesser extent, Krsna.

The juxtaposition of this long list of obvious parallels permits us to conclude that this is "more than a fortuitous convergence of universal fo(l)kloric motifs simply because nowhere else do we see such a convergence of literary motifs...". Cum singula non prosunt, multa juvant, as Derrett (p. 113) would submit.

Thus Thundy´s main argument in support of his assertion consists in the cumulative evidence provided by a long list of convergent literary motifs. And, I may add, it is exactly this mass of cumulative evidence, easily to be enlarged, that serves to reject the scepticism of previous researchers such as Tuxen et al.

Furthermore, Thundy´s book contains some fine and well-written chapters on Gnosticism, The New Testament and India, and India and the West in Antiquity. They serve well to corroborate his point about the NT gospels as Eastern religious texts. I completely agree that Thundy´s analysis of the Infancy gospels shows that Indian influence was deep and pervasive, and that Christian writers must have been familiar, not just vaguely but thoroughly, with the Indian religions (p. 272). As he himself says, to be sure: " I could do this kind of analytic work only within the liberal framework of modern literary criticism which endorses the metods of deconstructionism, intertextuality, and new historicism in comparative literary studies" (ibid.). Thundy, finally, admits that a distinction should be made between the literary and the theological approach: " Doing violence to one diminishes the beauty and destroys the integrity of the other" (p. 271). Here, however, he may be wrong.

Not listed in the extensive Bibliography is the 1982 Literarkritische Beiträge of Klatt, mentioned above. Here, with even greater attention to the little details than Thundy, the German theologian comes to much the same conclusion as Thundy, though on a significantly smaller scale. Klatt mainly focused on the legend of Jesu und Buddhas Wasserwandel/Walking on the Water of Jesus and of Buddha - to quote the title of the booklet published privately by Klatt, Göttingen 1990. Here (p. 30), Klatt concluded his careful comparison with these words: " It is quite impossible to explain the obvious concordance between the two stories which the analysis of structure demonstrates from the "nature" of things, for walking on water is contrary to the ordinary laws of nature. Nor can a psychological explanation account for the complex structure and the particularities of the story found to be common to the Buddhistic and the Christian tales. And thus we are lead to conclude that the only probable explanation for the astounding congruence which the structural analysis shows is that the story of the walking on the water found its way from one culture into another. And although we cannot determine unequivocally the original Buddhistic text, we may affirmatively state, based on the historical priority of the Buddhistic tale, as for example in the pre-Christian Pâli canon, that the direction of the borrowing is from the Buddhistic source into the Christian gospels."

By way of "structural analysis", Klatt came to a "probable explanation", that, if true, would establish at least one small "historical channel". But one channel would also render it likely that more could be found. Elmar R. Gruber and Holger Kersten cover much of the same ground as Thundy in their book The Original Jesus. The Buddhist Sources of Christianity, Shaftesbury, Dorset 1995. The first part deals with "India and the West", the second with "Jesus - the Buddhist", the third with "The Way of the Original Jesus".

What the book is mainly concerned with is suggested by the mention of "Die Gesellschaft der Nazarener" established by Holger Kersten "so as to better co-ordinate and more meaningfully activate future research on the historical Jesus and his Buddhist-influenced teachings, and also to make findings accessible to those interested." (p. vii)

The Bibliography (pp. 252-259) of this well-written book refers to the books of Klatt, Thundy etc., but not to that of Fuss. The authors conclude (p. 243): "Buddhist sources in Christianity can no longer be denied, even though they have been crushed under the theologically prescribed reworkings. What is more important though is the fact that this Buddhist material was originally disseminated by Jesus himself. That discovery adds a completely new dimension to the discussion of Buddhism in the New Testament: the true teachings of Jesus, his Buddhist teachings(...) Christianity - and even the Christian message - is completely different from what Jesus taught...". To some extent Gruber & Kersten are right. About their thesis that "the historical Jesus" was a Buddhist, I am more than sceptical. Nearly everything said about Jesus in the gospels, can, in fact, according to my own investigations through the last five years be traced back to Buddhist sources. So what remains, and what do we know about "a historical Jesus"? About as much as we know of "the historical Little Mermaid"!

That "Jesus lived in India" - to quote the title of a much-publicized 1983/1986 book by Holger Kersten - is definitely wrong. Klatt has unravelled the confusions that let to this unhappy thesis in his - much neglected - booklet: Lebte Jesus in Indien? Eine religionsgeschichtliche Klärung, Göttingen 1988. It was not Jesus who (lived and) died in Kashmir, but Yus Asaf/Yudasaf/Bodhasaf = Bodhisattva, who, according to the legend, died in Kusinara; see also David M. Lang, The Wisdom of Balahvar, London 1957, pp. 129-130. Eventually, scholars will have to concede - in my opinion - that the "Jesus" of the gospels is a purely fictitious figure, like Donald Duck or Hercules - as already argued e.g. by the philosopher Arthur Drews (who seems to have remained unknown to all the authors here under review) in his excellent, though somewhat outdated, Die Christusmythe I-II, Jena 1910-11.

But, in spite of all this, more conservative spirits are still searching for “the historical Jesus”. Currently, some scholars speak of the “third quest” for Jesus. There seems to be something highly elusive about (- of all persons-) the Son of God, the Son of David (both of which actually render San. deva-putra) - also known as ekeinos ho planos (Matthew 27:63, translating, in fact, San. pâpakâry asau, in Samghabhedavastu I, p. 26, q.v.) - For one of the many recent surveys, I may refer to Marcus Borg, Jezus: gezocht en onderzocht. De renaissance van het Jezusonderzoek, Zoetermeer 1998. In spite of the title - the English original from 1994 was: Jesus in Contemporary Scholarship - the author, typically, simply ignores the sort of comparative research that occupies us here. In the long run such arrogance is doomed to backfire. How can one find what one is looking for when neglecting the pertinent sources?

Buddhismus und Christentum. Geschichte, Konfrontation, Dialog is the title of an informative book of 805 pages written jointly by Michael von Brück and Whalen Lai, München 1997. (For a review, see Buddhist Studies Review 16/2 (1999)259-263) A second edition appeared 2000 as a cheap-priced Sonderausgabe at DM 48,-.

Referring mainly to R.C.Amore, Two Masters - One Message, Nashville 1978, and to the books of Thundy and Klatt (p. 680, n. 5), these two authors take the standpoint that: “Selbst wenn man Amores Textanalysen und Vergleichen zustimmen würde, ergäbe sich, dass der Einfluss des Buddhismus auf das Christentum marginal war und nicht die zentralen Inhalte der Botschaft Jesu betrifft” (p. 316). So, for these authors, as for Fuss et al., the Holy Sepulchre remains safe from comparative incursions , as it were. The Original Jesus, now rare, is not mentioned by Michael von Brück and Whalen Lai. Perhaps it appeared too late. In any case they would hardly have been prepared to subscribe to its thesis, for they are obviously what Derrett would call “minimalists”. As for the book of Amore, a title closer to the historical truth - as I see it - would have been: One Master - Two Messages; for the gospels are largely free and highly artificial translations of the Buddhist “subtexts” (to use Thundy´s term). “Jesus” is rather a Buddha in disguise - bad disguise.

J. Duncan M. Derrett is the learned author of The Bible and the Buddhists, published in Italy by Sardini Editrice, December 2000. The book is an important one, perhaps the most important of its kind to this day. I have written a long review article for Buddhist Studies Review 19/2(2001)1-14, to which I may perhaps refer the interested reader. My main objection to Derrett´s book has to do with one of his criteria for classifying parallels (p. 30). According to Derrett, we are asking too much if we require “close verbal similarity”. This conviction Derrett seems to share with virtually all previous researchers, even “maximalists” prepared to admit even more Buddhist influence in the NT than Derrett himself. One important exception to the rule, ignored by Derrett, is Edward Conze who already in 1959 called attention to “close verbal coincidences”: “...Occasionally we find close verbal coincidences between the Christian and the Mahâyâna Scriptures. Just one instance must suffice. At the time when the Revelation of St John was written down in Greek in the Eastern Mediterranean, the Mahâyânists produced in the South of Idia one of their most revered books, The Perfection of Wisdom in 8,000 Lines. Revelation (v. 1) refers to a book “closely sealed” with seven seals, and likewise the Perfection of Wisdom is called a book “sealed with seven seals”. It is shown to a Bodhisattva by the name of “Everweeping” (Sadâpradrudita), and St John “weeps bitterly” (v. 4) because he sees no one worthy to open the book and to break its seals. This can be done by the Lamb alone, slaughtered in sacrifice (v. 9). In the same way, chapters 30 and 31 of the Mahâyâna book describe in detail how Everweeping slaughtered himself in sacrifice, and how he thereby became worthy of the Perfection of Wisdom (see pp. 302-3). This parallel is remarkable not only for the similarities of the religious logic, but also for the fact that both the number seven and the whole notion of a “book with seven seals” point to the Judaeo-Mediterranea rather than to the Indian tradition. Here is a fruitful field for futher study.” (R.C.Zaehner (ed.), Encyclopedia of the World´s Religions, London 1959, p. 293.)

On this issue, close verbal similarities, I disagree decisively with virtually all my predecessors - apart from Conze - in the field of CGS. For my reasons for doing so, I will have to confine myself to referring to my forthcoming papers and books in which numerous verbal similarities are pointed out. See, for instance, “Âmrapâli in the Gospels”, which has just come out in The Adyar Library Bulletin 64 (2000), 151-170. The gospels were largely translated according to the rules (middoth) of gematria, notarikon, neged etc., current among learned bilingual Jews in those days.

Derrett has a high opinion of Gruber´s and Kersten´s The Original Jesus: “This was a beautifully produced, thoughtful and scholarly culmination of a renewed trend to elevate Buddhism as the source of Christianity, to depict, in effect, Jesus as a student of the Buddha. These authors make mighty, impressive assumptions, while drawing attention to many relevant facts. They rightly point (p. 22) to the Mahâyâna as the form of Buddhism from which parallels can be expected. They rightly show that communication between India and the Middle East was far easier than we used to suppose...(Derrett, p. 16).

Among those who “used to suppose”, I may insert, Derrett himself is surely one of the most distinguished. His six volumes of New Testament Studies, published by Brill in Leiden between 1977 and 1995, are a mine of erudition with a wealth of new observations and suggestions for solving old problems pertaining to the text and interpretation of the gospels. Also, Derrett has many other books and articles to his credit. As a rule, they too have been totally - and unduly - neglected by New Testament scholars. But back to Gruber & Kersten, who, on the other hand, also “ignore factors as significant as their own. Buddhist borrowings from Greece and Israel have left them unmoved. They sometimes ask the wrong questions, and their sensational results could be vitiated by such flaws as those.” (Derrett, p. 17)

In The Bible and the Buddhists (BB), Derrett argues 11 cases where the NT may have gained from Buddhist models, about 19 cases where Buddhists seem to have adopted NT material, some 11 cases where the literatures may have gained reciprocally, and finally 16 cases where it is impossible to claim that either influenced the other. I shall, as said, nor here repeat my critique of Derrett already advanced in my review article in the BSR (ref. supra). In my opinion, virtually all the parallels adduced by Derrett belong to the first category,i.e. where the NT depends on Buddhist sources. We must, as said, look for close verbal similarity to establish the historical relationship on a firm basis. Derrett´s basic idea, reasonable though it may appear, that a sort of collaboration between Buddhists and Christians took place; that they were entrepreneurs in the same line of business, as it were, and that they “put their heads together”, is, nevertheless, unhappy. In my view hardly one of the examples marshalled by my learned British colleague supports his point. And when it comes to the precise identity of the Buddhist sources, I differ decisively from all my predecessors. My claim is that the writers of the gospels copied directly, above all from the Sanskrit text of the Mûlasarvâstvâda-Vinaya (MSV) - including Catusparisatsûtra (CPS) and Mahâparinirvânasûtra (MPS) as well Samghabhedavastu (SBV). For the Gnoli edition of the Sanskrit text of the SBV, see my review in Acta Orientalia 43 (1983) 124-126.

By comparing these Sanskrit texts carefully with the Greek NT we shall be able to detect numerous cases of literal correspondence that conclusively serve to establish my thesis that the NT gospels are to a large extent direct - but also highly artificial - translations of the Sanskrit.

Even though Klatt occasionally came close to the proper method, and even though Thundy, Gruber & Kersten, and Derrett came to some correct conclusions, they unfortunately failed to insist on close verbal similarity to establish the historical dependence. Klatt, regrettably, failed to consider the evidence of the MSV.

More precisely this close verbal similarity on which I insist as the main - but far from sole - criterion, has to do with the numerical literary techniques used by all the writers of the gospels. Now this may come as a surprise to many, even NT scholars, but the fact is that the trans-lations directly from Sanskrit to Greek (leaving no room for a hypothetical intermediate Aramaic source) in numerous cases were done on the basis of a computation of the numerical value of words, or names - a well-known practice in antiquity, in Jewish literature known as gematria (Hebrew: gymtry´, imitating Gr. geômetria and possibly also, with typical ambiguity, grammateia . In Greek we have the technical term isopsêphos, “equal in numerical value”, Latin conpar.

In an highly significant monograph, Numerical literary techniques in John, Leiden 1985, M.J.J.Menken has analysed the composition of selected passages from John (viz. 1:19-2:11; 5; 6; 9:1-10:21;17), coming to the firm conclusion that “the author of the Fourth Gospel made use of numbers of syllables and words” (op. cit., p. 269). Previously, the employment of this quantitative technique had been pointed out by J. Smit Sibinga in a communication to the Journées Bibliques, of Louvain in 1970, where he discussed “a literary technique in the Gospel of Matthew”. Investigating a series of Matthean passages, J. Smit Sibinga has convincingly established that the author of the First Gospel has “arranged his text in such a way, that the size of the individual selections is fixed by a determined number of syllables. The individual parts of a sentence, the sentences themselves, sections of a smaller or larger size, they are, all of them, characterized in a purely quantitative way by their number of syllables” (Menken, op. laud., p. 21).

Now, this technique of making two members of a period equal in length was already known to Aristotle as parisôsis. Alexander, in his second century C.E. De figuris, speaks of parison (= isokolon): parison estin hotan duo ê pleiona kôla synenôthenta malista men kai tas syllabas isas ekhê, alla ge kai ton arithmon ton ison en pasi lambanê:" "There is a parison, when two or more united cola have above all their syllables equal, but obtain also in all their parts equal rythm...". The Latin term is conpar, defined by the Rhetorica ad Herennium 4,20,27 thus: conpar appellatur quod habet in se membra orationis...quae constent ex pari fere numero syllabarum (Menken, p. 15). These members that consists of an almost equal number of syllables bring us to the heart of the matter.

Let me repeat that the numerical analysis of J. Smit Sibinga and M.J.J.Menken et al. (in Scandinavia: Birger Gerhardsson, Jesu liknelser, Lund 1999, passim) has established beyond any doubt that the writers of the NT gospels made extensive use of syllables and words in the composition of their works.

Now, again and again, when comparing the Sanskrit and the Greek, we cannot fail to observe the principle of conpar, of gematria, being at work. This is an objective fact, something that can be counted and measured. It is quantitative. It is, I repeat, an objective fact that can be verified by any scholar of Sanskrit and Greek willing to see for himself: ehipasyika, a technical Buddhist term, is translated by the most cunning of the evangelists, John 1:46: erkhou kai ide. The authors of the four gospels often reproduced precisely not only the number of the syllables and words of the Sanskrit, but, what is more, even the sense, the word classes, and the sound patterns of the original. Just one example: John 10:1-18 the Pastor bonus, is a gematria translation of the celebrated mrgapatih legend MPS 40d: 40-51 (ed. E. Waldschmidt,pp. 476-478). The number of syllables is the same in both sources (namely 604), and an amazing number of the original consonant have likewise been reproduced in the Greek. The sense is thus automatically distorted, as when San. parvata, mountain, becomes Greek probata, sheep, etc. Now we understand how naïve it has been of us to ask for a simlilarity of ideas to establish a possible historical relationship. The evangelists often pay more attention to similarity of sound than to similarity of ideas. What we should ask for, is primarily: similarity of syllables, of consonants, of words, and of numbers. Once we are aware of conpar and gematria we have also - finally - identified of one the major "historical channels" that Max Müller and many other scholars had been searching for so long without success. If one text speaks of mountains, and another of sheep, we see no similarity. But when we see that parvata has become probata, only then the identity is seen.

The modern reader may remain sceptical when he reads these words, but let me remind him of the "translation" of LXX done by Aquila. As we can see from the remaining fragments it was often merely a matter of playing on words (see Natalio Fernández Marcos, The Septuagint in Context, Leiden 2000, pp. 116-117 for a list of amusing examples, exactly like those of the evangelists).

In passing it may be mentioned that B. Scherer has just published a German translation of “Der gute Herdenführer”, in his Buddha, Gütersloh 2001, pp. 92-94. Commenting on the nativity legend, the young German scholar observes (p. 86):”Es ist durchaus möglich, dass diese buddhistischen Motive von den frühen Christen für Jesus von Nazereth übernommen und angepasst wurden”.

Returning to Fuss and Derrett, it is quite true that the evidence of the SDP - apart from that of the MSV - also “turns out to be crucial for our quest” (Derrett, p. 15). No fully satisfactory edition of the sûtra exists. Some portions seem to be older than others. The text may have grown. Fuss criticized Kern´s well-known translation etc.

Fuss, it will be recalled, was not inclined to descend from his venture of phenomenological and theological comparison down to the solid ground of philology and literary criticism. Should it turn out that the writers of the gospels borrowed some of their materials from the SDP - what , then, would become of Dei Verbum? A more appropriate title of his book, then, would be: Buddhavacanam alias Dei Verbum. If the NT depends on the SDP, then it is hardly Buddhism that might participate in the seed of the Biblical Verbum Dei, but rather vice versa. The Word of God would then be reduced to the words of the translators. Or Deus would be a Lord of gematria. Is this not blas-phêmia? Well, at least pari-bhâsâ, or (SDP) pari-bhâsana! It makes a world of difference whether one takes a phenomenological-theological or a philological-historical approach to this issue. The former surely presupposes the latter.

Let me conclude by drawing attention to one or two significant parallels that emerge when one compares the SDP with the gospels. The first serves to establish the priority of the SDP. It is generally agreed that there is a close relationship between SDP XIV and Matthew 27: 51-52, but opinions are divided as to which source has the priority (Derrett, op. cit., p. 74 et passim).In Kern´s edition of the Sanskrit p. 309 we find the phrase adhastâd âkâsadhâtu-. This I claim, is rendered by Matthew 27:51 as anôthen heôs katô eis duo. First, the adhastât, downwards, is rendered precisely by the synonym anôthen reproducing the sense, form and number of syllables of the original. The following word, âkâsa, is then artificially split up, as if â + kâsa, giving us ewV as a correct translation of San. â-, until. As for the rest of the phrase, the four consonants in the Greek, viz. k-t-s and d (i.e. a guttural, two dentals and a sibilant), they faithfully reproduce the guttural, the two dentals and the sibilant of the Sanskrit. And this sort of “translation” is not at all uncommon. It is, in fact, quite typical of the sort of translation seen in all the gospels. By way of anagram, the sense has been changed. So âkâsa-dhâtu is rendered twice, so to speak. Its five syllables are preserved in the three Greek words: heôs katô eis duo. The translation, it can be argued, is “formally” correct, but the original sense is surely distorted. This sort of translation may appear odd or absurd to us, but is was (and is) typical of rabbinic hermenutics (see e.g. Hermann L. Strack, Introduction to the Talmud and Midrash, New York 1959, pp. 93-98). It being inconceivable that the Sanskrit âkâsadhâtu in this case should have been based on the Greek heôs katô eis duo, this small example serves to establish the priority of the Sanskrit, i.e. the SDP.

A second example shows that Matthew can also be faithful to the sense of of the SDP - and it also serves to reject Derrett´s view that the infulence from Buddhism did not concern doctrine, but only presentation (Derrett, p. 97). In SDP II we read that Sâri-Pûtras first had some doubts about the Dharma etc. Then the Buddha asks him to give up all doubt and uncertainty, presenting himself as the King of Dharma. He then adds: “Let this mystery be for thee, Sâri-Putra, for all disciples of mine, and for the eminent Bodhisattvas, who are to keep this mystery.” (III,138-139). In SDP, Sâri-Pûtra(s) expresses his doubts about the true identity of the Buddha. Is he perhaps Mâra? In reply, the Buddha promises that Sâri-Pûtras shall be the most excellent of men, so unsurpassed (III,32). Also, in SDP, II, 61 Sâri-Pûtras is addressed by the Buddha as Sâri-suta, and, passim, as Jina-putra.

Once these passages are kept in mind, it is easy to recognize one of the main sources for the celebrated confession of Peter, Matthew 16:13-20. Sâri-Pûtras has become Simon Petros. The mystery of the King of Dharma has become the mystery of the the Christ - the king who was never anointed. Jina-putra becomes Bar-iwna, Son (putra) of Jona (jina), Matthew 16:17 only. So even the motive of making puns on the name of the chief disciple is inherited from the Buddhist source.

And Simon? There are many Simons in the NT. What is the original Sanskrit behind Simon? A clue is given when John 21:7 very oddly writes Simôn oun Petros. How are we to explain the a proper name is split up by an oun? This odd phenomenon suggests that Simon is not part of a proper name but rather a title of some sort. Behind Simon, I suggest, we find Sanskrit âyusman. All the original consonants (s-m-n) are preserved, the semivowel y having been left out. Another frequent translation of âyusmân we find when Jesus identifies himself with zôê, as is often the case. It is hard to understand how Jesus “is life”, but easy to grasp that he is considered âyusmân. The solution to the secret that W. Wrede (Das Messiasgeheimniss in den Evangelien, 1901) et al. have written so much about, therefore, finds its simple solution in SDP.

The words put into the mouth of Jesus by Matthew, however, are not to be found in the SDP. But they often occur in other Buddhists texts, as I shall point out in my forthcoming monograph on the Buddhist sources of Matthew. Let me conclude this review article by pointing out the source of John 7:38, which as Derrett (p.41) says, as part of John 7:37-44, “is largely incoherent as well as repugnant”. The syntax is obscure. It is not obvious that the autouautou is to be taken with ho pisteuôn eis eme. The insertion of the kathôs eipen hê graphê makes it unlikely. The Sanskrit is Samghabhedavastu I, p. 25: asya... dvau sukrabindû sarudhire nipatitau. John 19:34 plays on the same words: kai exêlthen euthus haima kai hydôr... It is also the source of Luke 22:44:kai egeneto ho hidrôs autou hôsei thrombai haimatos katabainontes epi tên gên. The reader can also easily recognize Mark 15:21: Aleksandrou kai Rouphou as an imitation of the sound, syllables and/or sense of San. sukrabindû sa-rudhire. Matthew 27:25 also comes close:to haima autou eph´ hêmas kai epi ta tekna hêmôn. And when one finally compares Samghabhedavastu I, pp. 21- 26 as a whole with Matthew 26-28 par, there cannot remain much doubt that for the words and motives the legend of Gautama who was put on a stake (sûle samâropita) served as a major source of the celebrated Passion Narrative.

Derrett´s six volumes of New Testament Studies display his wonderful command of the ancient Jewish sources. They should be constantly consulted by the student of The Bible and the Buddhists. Repeatedly Derrett succeeds in throwing new light on old problems in the gospels thanks to his familarity with these sources. The same goes for his other books, such as The Anastasis: The Resurrection of Jesus as an Historical Event, 1982; The Making of Mark I-II, 1985; New Resolutions of Old Conundrums. A Fresh Insight into Luke´s Gospel, 1986; The Victim. The Johannine Passion Narrative Reexamined, 1993, and Some Telltale Words in The New Testament, 1997 - all published by and still available from Peter I. Drinkwater, 56 Church Street, Shipston-on-Stour, Warwickshire, England. It is a great pity that these learned volumes are so little known among theologians. But it is also surprising how often Derrett finds the wrong solutions to familiar problems in Jewish sources where the right ones are to be found in the Buddhist sources. It is indeed his constant contention that New Testament material cannot be understood without the cultural and intellectual environment of the people amongst whom it emerged. That this environment was largely Jewish cannot be denied.

Derrett claims to be a detective who does not care where evidence leads him. That sounds good. That may be so. But Derrett is a naïve detective, for he never raises the question of the seriousness of the gospels. Where is the proof that the evangelists were serious and trustworty witnessess to the events they pretend to be describing? If they translated from the Sanskrit as Aquila translated from the Hebrew - how can they be considered serious authors? Just one proof!

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?

- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut

State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock
Josephus

The following article is excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god

When addressing the mythical nature of Jesus Christ, one issue repeatedly raised is the purported "evidence" of his existence to be found in the writings of Flavius Josephus, the famed Jewish general and historian who lived from about 37 to 100 CE. In Josephus's Antiquities of the Jews appears the notorious passage regarding Christ called the "Testimonium Flavianum" ("TF"):

> "Now, there was about this time, Jesus, a wise man, if it be lawful to call him a man, for he was a doer of wonderful works,--a teacher of such men as receive the truth with pleasure. He drew over to him both many of the Jews, and many of the Gentiles. He was [the] Christ; and when Pilate, at the suggestion of the principal men amongst us, had condemned him to the cross, those that loved him at the first did not forsake him, for he appeared to them alive again the third day, as the divine prophets had foretold these and ten thousand other wonderful things concerning him; and the tribe of Christians, so named from him, are not extinct at this day." (Whitson, 379)

This surprisingly brief and simplistic passage constitutes the "best proof" of Jesus's existence in the entire ancient non-Christian library comprising the works of dozens of historians, writers, philosophers, politicians and others who never mentioned the great sage and wonderworker Jesus Christ, even though they lived contemporaneously with or shortly after the Christian savior's purported advent.

A False Witness

eusebius church historian catholic imageDespite the best wishes of sincere believers and the erroneous claims of truculent apologists, the Testimonium Flavianum has been demonstrated continually over the centuries to be a forgery, likely interpolated by Catholic Church historian Eusebius in the fourth century. So thorough and universal has been this debunking that very few scholars of repute continued to cite the passage after the turn of the 19th century. Indeed, the TF was rarely mentioned, except to note that it was a forgery, and numerous books by a variety of authorities over a period of 200 or so years basically took it for granted that the Testimonium Flavianum in its entirety was spurious, an interpolation and a forgery. As Dr. Gordon Stein relates:

> "...the vast majority of scholars since the early 1800s have said that this quotation is not by Josephus, but rather is a later Christian insertion in his works. In other words, it is a forgery, rejected by scholars."

So well understood was this fact of forgery that these numerous authorities did not spend their precious time and space rehashing the arguments against the TF's authenticity. Nevertheless, in the past few decades apologists of questionable integrity and credibility have glommed onto the TF, because this short and dubious passage represents the most "concrete" secular, non-biblical reference to a man who purportedly shook up the world. In spite of the past debunking, the debate is currently confined to those who think the TF was original to Josephus but was Christianized, and those who credulously and self-servingly accept it as "genuine" in its entirety.

To repeat, this passage was so completely dissected by scholars of high repute and standing--the majority of them pious Christians--that it was for decades understood by subsequent scholars as having been proved in toto a forgery, such that these succeeding scholars did not even mention it, unless to acknowledge it as false. (In addition to being repetitious, numerous quotes will be presented here, because a strong show of rational consensus is desperately needed when it comes to matters of blind, unscientific and irrational faith.) The scholars who so conclusively proved the TF a forgery made their mark at the end of the 18th century and into the 20th, when a sudden reversal was implemented, with popular opinion hemming and hawing its way back first to the "partial interpolation theory" and in recent times, among the third-rate apologists, to the notion that the whole TF is "genuine." As Earl Doherty says, in "Josephus Unbound":

> "Now, it is a curious fact that older generations of scholars had no trouble dismissing this entire passage as a Christian construction. Charles Guignebert, for example, in his Jesus (1956, p.17), calls it 'a pure Christian forgery.' Before him, Lardner, Harnack and Schurer, along with others, declared it entirely spurious. Today, most serious scholars have decided the passage is a mix: original parts rubbing shoulders with later Christian additions."

Bishop Rev. Nathaniel Lardner imageThe earlier scholarship that proved the entire TF to be fraudulent was determined by intense scrutiny by some of the most erudite, and mainly Christian, writers of the time, in a number of countries, their works written in a variety of languages, but particularly German, French and English. Their general conclusions, as elucidated by Christian authority Dr. Lardner, and related here by the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled (c. 1842), include the following reasons for doubting the authenticity of the TF as a whole:

> "Mattathias, the father of Josephus, must have been a witness to the miracles which are said to have been performed by Jesus, and Josephus was born within two years after the crucifixion, yet in all the works he says nothing whatever about the life or death of Jesus Christ; as for the interpolated passage it is now universally acknowledged to be a forgery. The arguments of the 'Christian Ajax,' even Lardner himself, against it are these: 'It was never quoted by any of our Christian ancestors before Eusebius. It disturbs the narrative. The language is quite Christian. It is not quoted by Chrysostom, though he often refers to Josephus, and could not have omitted quoting it had it been then in the text. It is not quoted by Photius [9th century], though he has three articles concerning Josephus; and this author expressly states that this historian has not taken the least notice of Christ. Neither Justin Martyr, in his dialogue with Trypho the Jew; nor Clemens Alexandrinus, who made so many extracts from ancient authors; nor Origen against Celsus, have ever mentioned this testimony. But, on the contrary, in chap. 25th of the first book of that work, Origen openly affirms that Josephus, who had mentioned John the Baptist, did not acknowledge Christ. That this passage is a false fabrication is admitted by Ittigius, Blondel, Le Clerc, Vandale, Bishop Warburton, and Tanaquil Faber.'" (CMU, 47)

Hence, by the 1840's, when the anonymous author of Christian Mythology Unveiled wrote, the Testimonium Flavanium was already "universally acknowledged to be a forgery."

Origen church fatherThe pertinent remarks by the highly significant Church father Origen (c. 185-c.254) appear in his Contra Celsus, Book I, Chapter XLVII:

> "For in the 18th book of his Antiquities of the Jews, Josephus bears witness to John as having been a Baptist, and as promising purification to those who underwent the rite. Now this writer, although not believing in Jesus as the Christ, in seeking after the cause of the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the temple, whereas he ought to have said that the conspiracy against Jesus was the cause of these calamities befalling the people, since they put to death Christ, who was a prophet, says nevertheless--being, although against his will, not far from the truth--that these disasters happened to the Jews as a punishment for the death of James the Just, who was a brother of Jesus (called Christ)--the Jews having put him to death, although he was a man most distinguished for his justice" (Emphasis added)

Here, in Origen's words, is the assertion that Josephus, who discusses more than a dozen Jesuses, did not consider any of them to be "the Christ." This fact proves that the same phrase in the TF is spurious. Furthermore, Origen does not even intimate the presence of the rest of the TF. Concerning Origen and the TF, Arthur Drews relates in Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus:

> "In the edition of Origen published by the Benedictines it is said that there was no mention of Jesus at all in Josephus before the time of Eusebius [c. 300 ce]. Moreover, in the sixteenth century Vossius had a manuscript of the text of Josephus in which there was not a word about Jesus. It seems, therefore, that the passage must have been an interpolation, whether it was subsequently modified or not." (Drews, 9; emph. added)

According to the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled ("CMU"), this Vossius mentioned by a number of writers as having possessed a copy of Josephus's Antiquities lacking the TF is "I. Vossius," whose works appeared in Latin. Unfortunately, none of these writers includes a citation as to where exactly the assertion may be found in Vossius's works. Moreover, the Vossius in question seems to be Gerardus, rather than his son, Isaac, who was born in the seventeenth century.

Church Fathers Ignorant of Josephus Passage

In any event, as G.A. Wells points out in The Jesus Myth, not only do several Church fathers from the second, third and early fourth centuries have no apparent knowledge of the TF, but even after Eusebius suddenly "found" it in the first half of the fourth century, several other fathers into the fifth "often cite Josephus, but not this passage." (Wells, JM, 202) In the 5th century, Church father Jerome (c. 347-c.419) cited the TF once, with obvious disinterest, as if he knew it was fraudulent. In addition to his reference to the TF, in his Letter XXII. to Eustochium, Jerome made the following audacious claim:

> "Josephus, himself a Jewish writer, asserts that at the Lord's crucifixion there broke from the temple voices of heavenly powers, saying: 'Let us depart hence.'"

Saint Jerome imageEither Jerome fabricated this alleged Josephus quote, or he possessed a unique copy of the Jewish historian's works, in which this assertion had earlier been interpolated. In any case, Jerome's claim constitutes "pious fraud," one of many committed by Christian proponents over the centuries, a rampant practice, in fact, that must be kept in mind when considering the authenticity of the TF.

Following is a list of important Christian authorities who studied and/or mentioned Josephus but not the Jesus passage:

Justin Martyr (c. 100-c. 165), who obviously pored over Josephus's works, makes no mention of the TF.
Theophilus (d. 180), Bishop of Antioch--no mention of the TF.
Irenaeus (c. 120/140-c. 200/203), saint and compiler of the New Testament, has not a word about the TF.
Clement of Alexandria (c. 150-211/215), influential Greek theologian and prolific Christian writer, head of the Alexandrian school, says nothing about the TF.
Origen (c. 185-c. 254), no mention of the TF and specifically states that Josephus did not believe Jesus was "the Christ."
Hippolytus (c. 170-c. 235), saint and martyr, nothing about the TF.
The author of the ancient Syriac text, "History of Armenia," refers to Josephus but not the TF.
Minucius Felix (d. c. 250), lawyer and Christian convert--no mention of the TF.
Anatolius (230-c. 270/280)--no mention of TF.
Chrysostom (c. 347-407), saint and Syrian prelate, not a word about the TF.

Methodius, saint of the 9th century--even at this late date there were apparently copies of Josephus without the TF, as Methodius makes no mention of it.

Photius (c. 820-891), Patriarch of Constantinople, not a word about the TF, again indicating copies of Josephus devoid of the passage, or, perhaps, a rejection of it because it was understood to be fraudulent.

Arguments Against Authenticity Further Elucidated

When the evidence is scientifically examined, it becomes clear that the entire Josephus passage regarding Jesus was forged, likely by Church historian Eusebius, during the fourth century. In "Who on Earth was Jesus Christ?" David Taylor details the reasons why the TF in toto must be deemed a forgery, most of which arguments, again, were put forth by Dr. Lardner:

"It was not quoted or referred to by any Christian apologists prior to Eusebius, c. 316 ad.

"Nowhere else in his voluminous works does Josephus use the word 'Christ,' except in the passage which refers to James 'the brother of Jesus who was called Christ' (Antiquities of the Jews, Book 20, Chapter 9, Paragraph 1), which is also considered to be a forgery.

"Since Josephus was not a Christian but an orthodox Jew, it is impossible that he should have believed or written that Jesus was the Christ or used the words 'if it be lawful to call him a man,' which imply the Christian belief in Jesus' divinity.

"The extraordinary character of the things related in the passage--of a man who is apparently more than a man, and who rose from the grave after being dead for three days--demanded a more extensive treatment by Josephus, which would undoubtedly have been forthcoming if he had been its author.

"The passage interrupts the narrative, which would flow more naturally if the passage were left out entirely.

"It is not quoted by Chrysostom (c. 354-407 ad) even though he often refers to Josephus in his voluminous writings.

"It is not quoted by Photius, Patriarch of Constantinople (c. 858-886 ad) even though he wrote three articles concerning Josephus, which strongly implies that his copy of Josephus' Antiquities did not contain the passage.

"Neither Justin Martyr (110-165 AD), nor Clement of Alexandria (153-217 ad), nor Origen (c.185-254 AD), who all made extensive reference to ancient authors in their defence of Christianity, has mentioned this supposed testimony of Josephus.

"Origen, in his treatise Against Celsus, Book 1, Chapter 47, states categorically that Josephus did NOT believe that Jesus was the Christ.

"This is the only reference to the Christians in the works of Josephus. If it were genuine, we would have expected him to have given us a fuller account of them somewhere."

When the earliest Greek texts are analyzed, it is obvious that the Testimonium Flavianum interrupts the flow of the primary material and that the style of the language is different from that of Josephus. There is other evidence that the TF never appeared in the original Josephus. As Wells says:

> "As I noted in The Jesus Legend, there is an ancient table of contents in the Antiquities which omits all mention of the Testimonium. Feldman (in Feldman and Hata, 1987, p. 57) says that this table is already mentioned in the fifth- or sixth-century Latin version of the Antiquities, and he finds it 'hard to believe that such a remarkable passage would be omitted by anyone, let alone by a Christian summarizing the work.'" (Wells, JM, 201)

Flavius Josephus imageAlso, Josephus goes into long detail about the lives of numerous personages of relatively little import, including several Jesuses. It is inconceivable that he would devote only a few sentences to someone even remotely resembling the character found in the New Testament. If the gospel tale constituted "history," Josephus's elders would certainly be aware of Jesus's purported assault on the temple, for example, and the historian, who was obviously interested in instances of messianic agitation, would surely have reported it, in detail. Moreover, the TF refers to Jesus as a "wise man"--this phrase is used by Josephus in regard to only two other people, out of hundreds, i.e., the patriarchs Joseph and Solomon. If Josephus had thought so highly of an historical Jesus, he surely would have written more extensively about him. Yet, he does not. Lest it be suggested that Josephus somehow could have been ignorant of the events in question, the Catholic Encyclopedia ("Flavius Josephus") says:

> "... Josephus...was chosen by the Sanhedrin at Jerusalem to be commander-in-chief in Galilee. As such he established in every city throughout the country a council of judges, the members of which were recruited from those who shared his political views."

Indeed, Josephus was a well-educated Jew who lived in the precise area where the gospel tale was said to have taken place, as did his parents, the latter at the very time of Christ's alleged advent. It was Josephus's passion to study the Jewish people and their history; yet, other than the obviously bogus TF, and the brief "James passage" mentioned by Taylor above, it turns out that in his voluminous works Josephus discussed neither Christ nor Christianity. Nor does it make any sense that the prolific Jewish writer would not detail the Christian movement itself, were Christians extant at the time in any significant numbers.

The Catholic Encyclopedia (CE), which tries to hedge its bet about the Josephus passage, is nevertheless forced to admit: "The passage seems to suffer from repeated interpolations." In the same entry, CE also confirms that Josephus's writings were used extensively by the early Christian fathers, such as Jerome, Ambrose and Chrystostom; nevertheless, as noted, except for Jerome, they never mention the TF.

Regarding the TF, as well as the James passage, which possesses the phrase James, the brother of Jesus, who was called Christ, Jewish writer ben Yehoshua makes some interesting assertions:

> "Neither of these passages is found in the original version of the Jewish Antiquities which was preserved by the Jews. The first passage (XVII, 3, 3) was quoted by Eusebius writing in c. 320 C.E., so we can conclude that it was added in some time between the time Christians got hold of the Jewish Antiquities and c. 320 C.E. It is not known when the other passage (XX, 9, 1) was added... Neither passage is based on any reliable sources. It is fraudulent to claim that these passages were written by Josephus and that they provide evidence for Jesus. They were written by Christian redactors and were based purely on Christian belief."

Yehoshua claims that the 12th century historian Gerald of Wales related that a "Master Robert of the Priory of St. Frideswide at Oxford examined many Hebrew copies of Josephus and did not find the 'testimony about Christ,' except for two manuscripts where it appeared [to Robert, evidently] that the testimony had been present but scratched out." Gerardus Vossius imageYehoshua states that, since "scratching out" requires the removal of the top layers, the deleted areas in these mere two of the many copies likely did not provide any solid evidence that it was the TF that had been removed. Apologists will no doubt insist that these Hebrew texts are late copies and that Jewish authorities had the TF removed. This accusation of mutilating an author's work, of course, can easily be turned around on the Christians. Also, considering that Vossius purportedly possessed a copy of the Antiquities without the TF, it is quite possible that there were "many Hebrew copies" likewise devoid of the passage.
Higher Criticism by Christian Authorities

The many reasons for concluding the Josephus passage to be a forgery have been expounded upon by numerous well-respected authorities, so much so that such individuals have been compelled by honesty and integrity to dismiss the Testimonium in toto as a forgery. In The Christ, John Remsburg relates the opinions of critics of the TF from the past couple of centuries, the majority of whom were Christian authorities, including and especially Dr. Lardner, who said:

"A testimony so favorable to Jesus in the works of Josephus, who lived so soon after our Savior, who was so well acquainted with the transactions of his own country, who had received so many favors from Vespasian and Titus, would not be overlooked or neglected by any Christian apologist (Lardner's Works, vol. I, chap. iv)."

Yet, the TF was overlooked and neglected by early Christian writers. In other words, they never cited it because it didn't exist.

Bishop William Warburton imageAnother authority, Bishop Warburton, called the TF a "rank forgery, and a very stupid one, too." Remsburg further related the words of the "Rev. Dr. Giles, of the Established Church of England," who stated:

"Those who are best acquainted with the character of Josephus, and the style of his writings, have no hesitation in condemning this passage as a forgery, interpolated in the text during the third century by some pious Christian, who was scandalized that so famous a writer as Josephus should have taken no notice of the gospels, or of Christ, their subject...."

In addition, the Rev. S. Baring-Gould remarked:

> "This passage is first quoted by Eusebius (fl. A.D. 315) in two places (Hist. Eccl., lib. I, c. xi; Demonst. Evang., lib. iii); but it was unknown to Justin Martyr (fl. A.D. 140), Clement of Alexandria (fl. A.D. 192), Tertullian (fl. A.D. 193), and Origen (fl. A.D. 230). Such a testimony would certainly have been produced by Justin in his apology or in his controversy with Trypho the Jew, had it existed in the copies of Josephus at his time. The silence of Origen is still more significant. Celsus, in his book against Christianity, introduces a Jew. Origen attacks the argument of Celsus and his Jew. He could not have failed to quote the words of Josephus, whose writings he knew, had the passage existed in the genuine text. He, indeed, distinctly affirms that Josephus did not believe in Christ (Contr. Cels. I)."

Remsburg also recounts:

> "Cannon Farrar, who has written an ablest Christian life of Christ yet penned, repudiates it. He says: 'The single passage in which he [Josephus] alludes to him is interpolated, if not wholly spurious' (Life of Christ, Vol. I, p. 46).
>
> "The following, from Dr. Farrar's pen, is to be found in the Encyclopedia Britannica: 'That Josephus wrote the whole passage as it now stands no sane critic can believe.'"

And so on, with similar opinions by Christian scholars such as Theodor Keim, Rev. Dr. Hooykaas and Dr. Alexander Campbell. By the time of Dr. Chalmers and others, the TF had been so discredited that these authorities understood it as a forgery in toto and did not even consider it for a moment as "evidence" of Jesus's existence and/or divinity. In fact, these subsequent defenders of the faith, knowing the TF to be a forgery, repeatedly commented on how disturbing it was that Josephus did not mention Jesus.

In the modern apologist work The Case for Christ, Lee Strobel relates a passage from a novel published in 1979 by Charles Templeton, in which the author states, regarding Jesus, "There isn't a single word about him in secular history. Not a word. No mention of him by the Romans. Not so much as a reference by Josephus." (Strobel, 101) Strobel then reports the response by Christian professor Edwin Yamauchi, who claimed that Templeton was mistaken and that there was a reference to Jesus by Josephus. Yamauchi's fatuous response ignores, purposefully or otherwise, the previous ironclad arguments about which Templeton was apparently educated, such that he made such a statement. In other words, Templeton was evidently aware of the purported reference in Josephus but had understood by the arguments of the more erudite, earlier Christian authorities that it was a forgery; hence, there is "not so much as a reference by Josephus." In this facile manner of merely ignoring or dismissing the earlier scholarship, modern believers cling to the long-dismissed TF in order to convince themselves of the unbelievable.

For a more modern criticism, in The Jesus Puzzle and his online article "Josephus Unbound," secularist and classicist Earl Doherty leaves no stone unturned in demolishing the TF, permitting no squirming room for future apologists, whose resort to the TF will show, as it has done in the past, how hopeless is their plight in establishing an "historical Jesus." Concerning the use of Josephus as "evidence" of Jesus's existence, Doherty remarks:

> "[I]n the absence of any other supporting evidence from the first century that in fact the Jesus of Nazareth portrayed in the Gospels clearly existed, Josephus becomes the slender thread by which such an assumption hangs. And the sound and fury and desperate manoeuverings which surround the dissection of those two little passages becomes a din of astonishing proportions. The obsessive focus on this one uncertain record is necessitated by the fact that the rest of the evidence is so dismal, so contrary to the orthodox picture. If almost everything outside Josephus points in a different direction, to the essential fiction of the Gospel picture and its central figure, how can Josephus be made to bear on his shoulders, through two passages whose reliability has thus far remained unsettled, the counterweight to all this other negative evidence?"

Other modern authors who criticize the TF include The Jesus Mysteries authors Freke and Gandy, who conclude:

> "Unable to provide any historical evidence for Jesus, later Christians forged the proof that they so badly needed to shore up their Literalist interpretation of the gospels. This, as we would see repeatedly, was a common practice." (Freke and Gandy, 137)

Despite the desperate din, a number of other modern writers remain in concurrence with the earlier scholarship and likewise consider the TF in toto a fraud.

The Suspect: Eusebius (c. 264-340)

Eusebius church father catholic historian imageIn addition to acknowledging the spuriousness of the Josephus passage, many authorities quoted here agreed with the obvious: Church historian Eusebius was the forger of the entire Testimonium Flavianium. Various reasons have already been given for making such a conclusion. In "Did Jesus Really Live?" Marshall Gauvin remarks:

> "Everything demonstrates the spurious character of the passage. It is written in the style of Eusebius, and not in the style of Josephus. Josephus was a voluminous writer. He wrote extensively about men of minor importance. The brevity of this reference to Christ is, therefore, a strong argument for its falsity. This passage interrupts the narrative. It has nothing to do with what precedes or what follows it; and its position clearly shows that the text of the historian has been separated by a later hand to give it room."

Regarding the absence of the TF in the writings of earlier Christian fathers and its sudden appearance with Eusebius, CMU says:

> "it has been observed that the famous passage which we find in Josephus, about Jesus Christ, was never mentioned or alluded to in any way whatever by any of the fathers of the first, second, or third centuries; nor until the time of Eusebius, 'when it was first quoted by himself [sic].' The truth is, none of these fathers could quote or allude to a passage which did not exist in their times; but was to all points short of absolutely certain, forged and interpolated by Eusebius, as suggested by Gibbon and others. Even the redoubtable Lardner has pronounced this passage to be a forgery." (CMU, 79-80)

Moreover, the word "tribe" in the TF is another clue that the passage was forged by Eusebius, who is fond of the word, while Josephus uses it only in terms of ethnicity, never when describing a religious sect. Kerry Shirts adds to this particular point:

> "Eusebius studied Josephus diligently, and could thus masquerade as he, except when he used the word 'tribe' to describe the Christians. All the literature from the Ante-Nicene Fathers show they never used the word 'tribe' or 'race' with reference to the Christians, was [sic] either by the Fathers or when they quoted non-Christian writers. Tertullian, Pliny the Younger, Trajan, Rufinus--none use 'tribe' to refer to Christians. Eusebius is the first to start the practice."

In Antiqua Mater: A Study of Christian Origins, Edwin Johnson remarked that the fourth century was "the great age of literary forgery, the extent of which has yet to be exposed." He further commented that "not until the mass of inventions labelled 'Eusebius' shall be exposed, can the pretended references to Christians in Pagan writers of the first three centuries be recognized for the forgeries they are." Indeed, Eusebius's character has been assailed repeatedly over the centuries, with him being called a "luminous liar" and "unreliable." Like so many others, Drews likewise criticizes Eusebius, stating that various of the Church historian's references "must be regarded with the greatest suspicion." As Drews relates, Swiss historian Jakob Burckhardt (1818-1897) declared Eusebius to be "the first thoroughly dishonest historian of antiquity." (Drews, 32/fn) Eusebius's motives were to empower the Catholic Church, and he did not fail to use "falsifications, suppressions, and fictions" to this end.

Conclusion: Josephus No Evidence of Jesus

Even if the Josephus passage were authentic, which we have essentially proved it not to be, it nevertheless would represent not an eyewitness account but rather a tradition passed along for at least six decades, long after the purported events. Hence, the TF would possess little if any value in establishing an "historical" Jesus. In any event, it is quite clear that the entire passage in Josephus regarding Christ, the Testimonium Flavianum, is spurious, false and a forgery. Regarding the TF, Remsburg summarizes:

> "For nearly sixteen hundred years Christians have been citing this passage as a testimonial, not merely to the historical existence, but to the divine character of Jesus Christ. And yet a ranker forgery was never penned....
>
> "Its brevity disproves its authenticity. Josephus' work is voluminous and exhaustive. It comprises twenty books. Whole pages are devoted to petty robbers and obscure seditious leaders. Nearly forty chapters are devoted to the life of a single king. Yet this remarkable being, the greatest product of his race, a being of whom the prophets foretold ten thousand wonderful things, a being greater than any earthly king, is dismissed with a dozen lines...."

The dismissal of the passage in Josephus regarding Jesus is not based on "faith" or "belief" but on intense scientific scrutiny and reasoning. Such investigation has been confirmed repeatedly by numerous scholars who were mostly Christian. The Testimonium Flavianum, Dr. Lardner concluded in none too forceful words, "ought, therefore...to be discarded from any place among the evidences of Christianity." With such outstanding authority and so many scientific reasons, we can at last dispense with the pretentious charade of wondering if the infamous passage in the writings of Josephus called the Testimonium Flavianum is forged and who fabricated it.

Excerpted from Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled by Acharya S.

Sources:

Anonymous, Christian Mythology Unveiled, 1842
ben Yehoshua, mama.indstate.edu/users/nizrael/jesusrefutation.html
Catholic Encyclopedia, "Flavius Josephus," www.newadvent.org/cathen/08522a.htm
Charlesworth, James H., www.mystae.com/restricted/reflections/messiah/sources.html
Doherty, Earl, pages.ca.inter.net/~oblio/supp10.htm
Doherty, Earl, The Jesus Puzzle, Canadian Humanist, Ottawa, 1999
Drews, Arthur, Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus, Joseph McCabe, tr., Watts, London, 1912
Freke, Timothy and Gandy, Peter, The Jesus Mysteries, Three Rivers, NY, 1999
Gauvin, Marshall, www.infidels.org/library/historical/marshall_gauvin/did_jesus_really_live_/html
Jerome, www.ccel.org/fathers2/NPNF2-06/Npnf2-06-03.htm
Johnson, Edwin, Antiqua Mater: A Study of Christian Origins, www.christianism.com/articles/1.html
Josephus, The Complete Works of, Wm. Whitson, tr., Kregel, MI, 1981
Kirby, Peter, home.earthlink.net/~kirby/xtianity/josephus.html
Origen, www.ccel.org/fathers2/ANF-04/anf04-55.htm
Oser, Scott, www.infidels.org/library/modern/scott_oser/hojfaq.html
Remsburg, John, The Christ, www.positiveatheism.org/hist/rmsbrg02.htm
Shirts, Kerry, www.cyberhighway.net/~shirtail/jesusand.htm
Stein, Dr. Gordon, www.infidels.org/library/modern/gordon_stein/jesus.html
Strobel, Lee, The Case for Christ, Zondervan, MI, 1998
Taylor, David, www.mmsweb.com/eykiw/relig/npref.txt
Wells, G.A., The Jesus Legend, Open Court, Chicago, 1997
Wells, G.A., The Jesus Myth, Open Court, Chicago, 1999

For more information, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled.

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!

Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion

- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Chrestos Magical Cup?

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

In 2008, an evidently pre-Christian cup or bowl was found at Alexandria, Egypt, with chrestou, the genitive form of the Greek word chrestos, inscribed on it. Naturally, there is a desire to push this artifact into the early first century and claim it has something to do with Christianity. However, this epithet "the Good" or chrestos was already known centuries before Christ's purported existence, and this bowl could predate the common era by decades.

Chrestos Bowl, discovered by Franck Goddio in 2008Some have suggested that this artifact is a forgery, but there appears to be no reason for such a conclusion, based solely on the inscription, since we know that the word chrestos was popular precisely at this time. Furthermore, the cup/bowl has a strange word on it, GOISTAIS or O GOHSTHS, an apparently magical term that seems Gnostic. It should be noted that Gnostic philosophy was seeded in remote antiquity, long before the common era, and many ideas found within the later, more formal Gnostic movement are comparable to those in the writings of the Egyptians, Greeks, Syrians, Jews and others.

It has also been suggested that Chrestos or chreston represents not necessarily an individual god or human but the principle of Goodness. Indeed, we find this "Goodness" discussed within Gnostic texts.

In consideration of the oracular and mysteries connection to the word chrestos, it would not surprise us if this artifact is a magical bowl, much like the later Aramaic magical bowls with their incantations, or the Christian incantation bowls in Syriac, both of which types date from the Sassanian period (226-636 AD/CE). In this instance, then, chrestos would be part of a spell, the same as was the case with the name "Jesus."
Further Reading

Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
The First 'New Testament': Marcion of Pontus and the Gospel of the Lord

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!

Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?

- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago,

HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Chrestes as Oracle
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

The definitions of various 'chrestos' words in Liddell & Scott's Greek-English Lexicon (1881:789)

In our analysis of the word chresto or chrestos, we discover that members of brotherhoods, priesthoods and religious schools such as priests and prophets were called chrestes in Greek antiquity, as were soothsayers and those who "give or expound oracles" or consult with gods (see image at right).

Interestingly, a form of this word, χρηματίζω or chrematizo, is used in the New Testament in reference to being "warned of God" (Mt 2:12, 2:22; Lk 3:26; Heb 8:5, 11:7), meaning (Strong's G5537):

> ...2) to give a response to those consulting an oracle, to give a divine command or admonition, to teach from heaven
>
> a) to be divinely commanded, admonished, instructed
>
> b) to be the mouthpiece of divine revelations, to promulgate the commands of God

Here we find the New Testament god associated with a term used to describe oracular divination and revelation, just as the author of the biblical book of Revelation claimed to be doing.

It is interesting to note that the word χρηματίζω chrēmatizō also means:

> do business; transact state business; negotiate, debate, consult, answer; bear a name or title; mid negotiate; make money, transact business (Pocket Oxford Classical Dictionary, 2002:350)

In this regard, the use of chrematizo at Acts 11:26 is odd, in that it describes the naming of the "Christians" first at Antioch:

> ...χρηματίσαι τε πρώτως ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τοὺς μαθητὰς Χριστιανούς...

The following are different English translations of this passage:

> KJV: And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.
> RSV: in Antioch the disciples were for the first time called Christians.
> YLT: the disciples also were divinely called first in Antioch Christians.

Young's Literal Translation includes "divinely," to reflect the oracular meaning of chrematizo.

Here is the relevant definition in Strong's for this usage:

> 3) to assume or take to one's self a name from one's public business >   a) to receive a name or title, be called

One could suggest that the name "Christian" was a DBA or "doing business as," therefore. It should be kept in mind, however, that this passage at Acts 11:26 in the earliest manuscript tradition such as the Codex Sinaiticus refers not to "Christians" but to Chrestians. In this case, then the Chrestians were to be found first at Antioch, where they were called thus according to their divine vocation. But who were the Chrestians, and when were they first styled by that designation? The answer is that we have inscriptions labeling people Chrestian in the early first century, before "Jesus the Christ" had any noticeable impact.

As I state in my article "Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?", the same "Chrestian to Christian" chicanery has happened with the other two passages in the NT containing the word "Christian," i.e., Acts 26:28 and 1 Peter 4:16. These are both quite obviously late books - 1 Peter likewise does not emerge clearly in the historical/literary record until after the middle of the second century, as a moniker for these followers of Chrestos, the "Good" or "Useful." It would appear that it was Tertullian (Apologeticus 3), among others, in large part who made the push to change the name to "Christians," accusing the nonbelievers of "mispronouncing" the title.

Here is the original Greek of this passage at Acts 11:26 in the Sinaiticus:

> χρηματιcαι τε πρωτωc εν αν τιοχια τουc μαθηταc χρηcτιανουc

As we can see from the above, in which the word chrematisai is apparently deliberately juxtaposed with chrestianous, the copyist of the Sinaiticus more than likely was not making a mistake but was retaining the earliest canonical rendition of Acts, as Chrestians, not "Christians." We must ask, therefore, what business is it of Tertullian or any others to claim otherwise and to accuse people of "mispronunciation," when it is there in writing held holy?

The pre-Christian Chrestians were apparently involved in the business of divination, religious proselytizing and oracle readings, decades to centuries before Jesus supposedly walked the earth. It was not very difficult eventually to change the cult of "the Good" into that of "the Anointed," with the eventual introduction of a fictional composite presented as a "historical founder" who purportedly lived many decades earlier.
Further Reading

Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Bowl?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth

- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and

Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Apollo the Chrēst? God of Oracles and Son of God

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S
The Greek sun god Apollo in his chariot with four horses Jesus Christ as Helios/Sol, the sun god

The Greek god of the sun and oracles, Apollo, possesses important attributes in common with the Jewish savior Jesus, including his status as the son of God. As Jesus was titled "the Christ" or Christos, so too was Apollo purportedly styled Chrēstos, a similar-sounding Greek word meaning "good" or "useful," among other connotations.

Chrestos heros in an inscription from Delphi, GreeceIt is further claimed that this sun god and son of God was given the epithet IH or "IE," which appears on a Larissan epitaph discovered at the Greek sacred site of Delphi, ostensibly representing the year of "age" ("eton") of 18. If Apollo essentially was called "IE the Chrēstos," centuries before the common era, we find ourselves faced with an important precedent for "Iesous the Christos" or Jesus Christ.

Concerning the uses of the word chrestos or its related forms in Pagan antiquity, which I have discussed in depth in my paper "Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?", one writer comments:

> ...the appellation of Chrestos which it is here insisted was employed in the Gospels, was more honorable and certainly more significant and appropriate [than Christos]. Many years ago the writer saw it upon a statuette of Apollo that had been brought from an Eastern repository. Apollo, as every classic scholar knows, was the reputed son of Zeus, the Supreme Divinity of the Hellenic Pantheon. He was the god of oracles, and was supposed to impart the gifts of healing and divination. A reference to Greek lexicons will show that many of the words which were formed from the χρηστός (chrestos) relate directly to the oracular art. A Chrestes was a diviner or giver of oracles; a chresis or chresmos denoted the oracular utterance of a divinity; a chresterion was the place of an oracle, or an offering presented there, or the staff of a God or divining priest, and a chrestologos was an interpreter of oracles, like the peter or hierophant of oriental sanctuaries. (The Metaphysical Magazine, 14.142)

Here we see the contention that the Greek sun god Apollo was called chrestos, a claim made elsewhere, such as: "...the word Chrestos was so closely associated with divinity that it was often applied by the Greeks to Apollo and other gods."

Apollo was the "god of oracles," as we know from his temple at the Greek site of Delphi, seat of his famous oracle. In this regard, we further discover that this term, chrestos, is "one who is continually warned, advised, guided, whether by oracle or prophet." (Liddell and Scott's Greek Lexicon) Moreover, devotees in antiquity such as the Tyrrhenians made " first fruit offerings to Zeus, Apollo and the Kabeiroi," these latter being the Samothracian gods, were said by Latin writer Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE) to have been called chrestoi. Hence, it would not be surprising to find this term applied to the god of oracles himself, or at the very least to his followers and initiates.
Apollo the IE?

Parkhurst cites the following source for this contention: "See Dickenson's Delphi Phœnicizantes, cap. x, _Plutarch_, tom. ii. p. 392, edit. _Xylandri_; _Euseb_. Praep. Evang. lib.xi. cap. 11. It has been contended also that this monogram IE appeared over Apollo's temple at Delphi and that it is equivalent to the Hebrew יה or Yahh (Strong's H3050), also transliterated as "Jah," the name of the Lord at Exodus 15:2 and 44 other times in the Old Testament. Interestingly, in the same verse (Exd 15:2), Jah has "become my salvation," the latter Hebrew term appearing as ישועה yĕshuw'ah, essentially the same as Yeshua or Joshua, Hebrew for "Jesus." The Greek OT renders this word as σωτηρία or soteria. As we know from the English rendering "Jehovah" or "Iehovah," appearing first in the Tyndale Bible, the initial syllable yodh he in the Hebrew tetragrammaton for God, יהוה or YHWH, is often transliterated as "ie." Hence, this "Jah" abbreviation could be rendered "IE," the same title purportedly given to Apollo at Delphi and the first two letters of "Iesous," the Greek name for "Jesus."

For his contention that the inscription "IE" or its backward equivalent "EI," the same as the Hebrew יה, is an epithet of Apollo found "inscribed over the great door of the Temple of Apollo at Delphi," in his book An Hebrew and English Lexicon, Bishop of Norwich John Parkhurst cites Dickenson's Delphi Phœnicizantes, as well as the ancient writers Plutarch and Eusebius. Dickenson (ch. 3) compares Apollo to the biblical "patriarch" Joshua, asserting: Sed quod Apollo idem sit qui Josua or "But that Apollo is the same as Joshua." As we know, Joshua possesses many solar attributes and after scientific analysis cannot be deemed a historical figure.

Dickenson next shows that the two figures share an epithet, as Joshua or Yeshua is called ʾΙησοῦς Iesous or "Jesus" in the Greek Old Testament, while Apollo is given the same Greek phoneme IH or "IE," equivalent to the Hebrew יה ie or "Jah." In the first century BCE, Diodorus Siculus (1.94.2) wrote that Yahweh was equated with the Egyptian and Greek "IAO," and Dickenson likewise demonstrates that the Hebrew tetragrammaton was also rendered "Ieuo."

In his Praep. Evang. (11.11), Church father Eusebius discusses "Plutarch's treatise entitled On the EI at Delphi." The Greek historian Plutarch's lengthy treatise De EI apud Delphos, titled in English, "Of the Word EI Engraven Over the Gate of Apollo's Temple at Delphi," was written around 100 AD/CE.

Son of God

In Aeschylus's Seven Against Thebes (158), the playwright calls Apollo παῖ Διός, "(male) child of Zeus/God," not very different from υἱὸς τοῦ Θεοῦ or "son of God," as Jesus is called in the New Testament. In The Iliad, the Greek poet Homer (2.1.9) styles Apollo Διὸς υἱός or, literally, "Zeus/God son." Also in the Iliad, Homer calls Zeus πάτερ or "Father," the same Greek word used to describe God/Jesus in the New Testament. And in Homer's Odyssey (8.334), we read Διὸς υἱὸς Ἀπόλλων - "Zeus/God son Apollo," who in turn invokes Hermes as Διὸς υἱέ or "Zeus/God son." Of course, the Greek word used numerous times in the Bible, both the Greek OT and the NT, to describe "God" is θεός, a term employed throughout pre-Christian Greek literature.

In Apollo, we have a pre-Christian son of God who may have been titled "Chrēstos" for his role as God of Oracles, as well as "IE," part of an epithet discovered on tombstones and other artifacts including his temple at Delphi. Hence, the son of God Apollo - a sun god - could be said to be "IE the Chrēst," possibly centuries before the common era.

Further Reading

Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Cup?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
The First 'New Testament': Marcion of Pontus and the Gospel of the Lord

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata

- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness

Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius:
No Proof of Jesus

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god cover image

Like those of the Jewish writer Josephus, the works of the ancient historians Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus do not provide proof that Jesus Christ ever existed as a "historical" character.

Pliny the Younger, Roman Official and Historian (62-113 CE)

In addition to the palpably bogus passage in the Antiquities of the Jews by Josephus called the "Testimonium Flavianum" is another of the pitiful "references" dutifully trotted out by apologists to prove the existence of Jesus Christ: To wit, a short passage in the works of the Roman historian Pliny the Younger. While proconsul of Bithynia, a province in the northwest of Asia Minor, Pliny purportedly wrote a letter in 110 CE to the Emperor Trajan requesting his assistance in determining the proper punishment for "Christiani" who were causing trouble and would not renounce "Christo" as their god or bow down to the image of the Emperor. These recalcitrant Christiani, according to the Pliny letter, met "together before daylight" and sang "hymns with responses to Christ as a god," binding themselves "by a solemn institution, not to any wrong act." Regarding this letter, Rev. Robert Taylor remarks:

> If this letter be genuine, these nocturnal meetings were what no prudent government could allow; they fully justify the charges of Caecilius in Minutius Felix, of Celsus in Origen, and of Lucian, that the primitive Christians were a skulking, light-shunning, secret, mystical, freemasonry sort of confederation, against the general welfare and peace of society.

Serapis the ChrestosTaylor also comments that, at the time this letter was purportedly written, "Christians" were considered to be followers of the Greco-Egyptian god Serapis and that "the name of Christ [was] common to the whole rabblement of gods, kings, and priests." Writing around 134 CE, Hadrian purportedly stated:

> "The worshippers of Serapis are Christians, and those are devoted to the God Serapis, who call themselves the bishops of Christ. There is no ruler of a Jewish synagogue, no Samaritan, no Presbyter of the Christians, who is not either an astrologer, a soothsayer, or a minister to obscene pleasures. The very Patriarch himself, should he come into Egypt, would be required by some to worship Serapis, and by others to worship Christ. They have, however, but one God, and it is one and the self-same whom Christians, Jews and Gentiles alike adore, i.e., money."

It is thus possible that the "Christos" or "Anointed" god Pliny's "Christiani" were following was Serapis himself, the syncretic deity created by the priesthood in the third century BCE. In any case, this god "Christos" was not a man who had been crucified in Judea.

Moreover, like his earlier incarnation Osiris, Serapis—both popular gods in the Roman Empire—was called not only Christos but also "Chrestos," centuries before the common era. Indeed, Osiris was styled "Chrestos," centuries before his Jewish copycat Jesus was ever conceived....

In any event, the value of the Pliny letter as "evidence" of Christ's existence is worthless, as it makes no mention of "Jesus of Nazareth," nor does it refer to any event in his purported life. There is not even a clue in it that such a man existed. As Taylor remarks, "We have the name of Christ, and nothing else but the name, where the name of Apollo or Bacchus would have filled up the sense quite as well." Taylor then casts doubt on the authenticity of the letter as a whole, recounting the work of German critics, who "have maintained that this celebrated letter is another instance to be added to the long list of Christian forgeries..." One of these German luminaries, Dr. Semler of Leipsic provided "nine arguments against its authenticity..." He also notes that the Pliny epistle is quite similar to that allegedly written by "Tiberianus, Governor of Syria" to Trajan, which has been universally denounced as a forgery.

Also, like the Testimonium Flavianum, Pliny's letter is not quoted by any early Church father, including Justin Martyr. Tertullian briefly mentions its existence, noting that it refers to terrible persecutions of Christians. However, the actual text used today comes from a version by a Christian monk in the 15th century, Iucundus of Verona, whose composition apparently was based on Tertullian's assertions. Concurring that the Pliny letter is suspicious, Drews terms "doubtful" Tertullian's "supposed reference to it." Drews then names several authorities who likewise doubted its authenticity, "either as a whole or in material points," including Semler, Aub, Havet, Hochart, Bruno Bauer and Edwin Johnson. Citing the work of Hochart specifically, Drews pronounces Pliny's letter "in all probability" a "later Christian forgery." Even if it is genuine, Pliny's letter is useless in determining any "historical" Jesus.

Tacitus, Roman Politician and Historian, (c. 56-120 CE)

Publius/Gaius Cornelius TacitusTurning next to another stalwart in the anemic apologist arsenal, Tacitus, sufficient reason is uncovered to doubt this Roman author's value in proving an "historical" Jesus. In his Annals, supposedly written around 107 CE, Tacitus purportedly related that the Emperor Nero (37-68) blamed the burning of Rome during his reign on "those people who were abhorred for their crimes and commonly called Christians." Since the fire evidently broke out in the poor quarter where fanatic, agitating Messianic Jews allegedly jumped for joy, thinking the conflagration represented the eschatological development that would bring about the Messianic reign, it would not be unreasonable for authorities to blame the fire on them. However, it is clear that these Messianic Jews were not (yet) called "Christiani." In support of this contention, Nero's famed minister, Seneca (5?-65), whose writings evidently provided much fuel for the incipient Christian ideology, has not a word about these "most-hated" sectarians.

...the Tacitean passage next states that these fire-setting agitators were followers of "Christus" (Christos), who, in the reign of Tiberius, "was put to death as a criminal by the procurator Pontius Pilate." The passage also recounts that the Christians, who constituted a "vast multitude at Rome," were then sought after and executed in ghastly manners, including by crucifixion. However, the date that a "vast multitude" of Christians was discovered and executed would be around 64 CE, and it is evident that there was no "vast multitude" of Christians at Rome by this time, as there were not even a multitude of them in Judea. Oddly, this brief mention of Christians is all there is in the voluminous works of Tacitus regarding this extraordinary movement, which allegedly possessed such power as to be able to burn Rome. Also, the Neronian persecution of Christians is unrecorded by any other historian of the day and supposedly took place at the very time when Paul was purportedly freely preaching at Rome (Acts 28:30-31), facts that cast strong doubt on whether or not it actually happened. Drews concludes that the Neronian persecution is likely "nothing but the product of a Christian's imagination in the fifth century." Eusebius, in discussing this persecution, does not avail himself of the Tacitean passage, which he surely would have done had it existed at the time. Eusebius's discussion is very short, indicating he was lacking source material; the passage in Tacitus would have provided him a very valuable resource.

Even conservative writers such as James Still have problems with the authenticity of the Tacitus passage: For one, Tacitus was an imperial writer, and no imperial document would ever refer to Jesus as "Christ." Also, Pilate was not a "procurator" but a prefect, which Tacitus would have known. Nevertheless, not willing to throw out the entire passage, some researchers have concluded that Tacitus "was merely repeating a story told to him by contemporary Christians."

Eusebius of Caesarea, Catholic Church HistorianBased on these and other facts, several scholars have argued that, even if the Annals themselves were genuine, the passage regarding Jesus was spurious. One of these authorities was Rev. Taylor, who suspected the passage to be a forgery because it too is not quoted by any of the Christian fathers, including Tertullian, who read and quoted Tacitus extensively. Nor did Clement of Alexandria notice this passage in any of Tacitus's works, even though one of this Church father's main missions was to scour the works of Pagan writers in order to find validity for Christianity. As noted, the Church historian Eusebius, who likely forged the Testimonium Flavianum, does not relate this Tacitus passage in his abundant writings. Indeed, no mention is made of this passage in any known text prior to the 15th century.

The tone and style of the passage are unlike the writing of Tacitus, and the text "bears a character of exaggeration, and trenches on the laws of rational probability, which the writings of Tacitus are rarely found to do." Taylor further remarks upon the absence in any of Tacitus's other writings of "the least allusion to Christ or Christians." In his well-known Histories, for example, Tacitus never refers to Christ, Christianity or Christians. Furthermore, even the Annals themselves have come under suspicion, as they themselves had never been mentioned by any ancient author....

In any event, even if the Annals were genuine, the pertinent passage itself could easily be an interpolation, based on the abundant precedents and on the fact that the only manuscript was in the possession of one person, de Spire. In reality, "none of the works of Tacitus have come down to us without interpolations."

Regarding Christian desperation for evidence of the existence of Christ, Dupuis comments that true believers are "reduced to look, nearly a hundred years after, for a passage in Tacitus" that does not even provide information other than "the etymology of the word Christian," or they are compelled "to interpolate, by pious fraud, a passage in Josephus." Neither passage, Dupuis concludes, is sufficient to establish the existence of such a remarkable legislator and philosopher, much less a "notorious impostor."

It is evident that Tacitus's remark is nothing more than what is said in the Apostle's Creed—to have the authenticity of the mighty Christian religion rest upon this Pagan author's scanty and likely forged comment is preposterous. Even if the passage in Tacitus were genuine, it would be too late and is not from an eyewitness, such that it is valueless in establishing an "historical" Jesus, representing merely a recital of decades-old Christian tradition.
Suetonius, Roman Historian (c. 69-c. 122 CE)

Suetonius, Nuremberg ChronicleMoving through the standard list of defenses, we come to the Roman historian Suetonius. The passage in Suetonius's Life of Claudius, dating to around 110 CE, states that the emperor Claudius "drove the Jews out of Rome, who at the suggestion of Chrestus were constantly rioting." The passage in Latin is as follows:

> Claudius Judaeos impulsore Chresto assidue tumultuantes Roma expulit.

We see that the reference is to "Chresto," not "Christo." In any case, Claudius reigned from 41-54, while Christ was purported to have been crucified around 30, so the great

Jewish sage could not have been in Rome personally at that time. Even such an eager believer and mesmerized apologist as Shirley Jackson Case must admit that Christ himself couldn't have been at Rome then, that the "natural meaning" of the remark is that "a disturbance was caused by a Jew named Chrestus" living in Rome at the time, and that Suetonius's "references to Christianity itself are very obscure."

It is possible that these diasporic Jews—a mixture of Hebrew, Jewish, Samaritan and Pagan descent—revered their god under the epithet of "Chresto." Or, as Eisenman suggests, the incident may record Jews agitating over the appointment of Herod Agrippa I as king of Judea by his friend Claudius in 41 CE. In this regard, Agrippa I is called "chrestos" by Josephus.

In his Life of Nero, Suetonius refers to "Christiani," whom he calls "a race of men of a new and villainous, wicked or magical superstition," who "were visited with punishment." This passage, although establishing that there were people called "Christiani" who were a fairly recent cult in Suetonius's time, obviously does not serve as evidence that Jesus Christ ever existed.

Regarding these "references," if they were genuine they would no more prove the existence of Jesus Christ than do writings about other gods prove their existence. In other words, by this same argument we could provide many "references" from ancient writers that the numerous Pagan gods also existed as "real people." In this case, Jesus would be merely a johnny-come-lately in a long line of "historical" godmen.

In the final analysis there is no evidence that the biblical character called "Jesus Christ" ever existed. As Nicholas Carter concludes in The Christ Myth: "No sculptures, no drawings, no markings in stone, nothing written in his own hand; and no letters, no commentaries, indeed no authentic documents written by his Jewish and Gentile contemporaries, Justice of Tiberius, Philo, Josephus, Seneca, Petronius Arbiter, Pliny the Elder, et al., to lend credence to his historicity."

For more information, including citations, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled. See also Who Was Jesus? Fingerprints of The Christ.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe

Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite

Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Chi-Rho Symbol, Chrestos and the Cross
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Chi Rho symbol used for both 'christ' and 'chrest.'The ancient monogram combination of the Greek letters χρ or "chi-rho" denoted a variety of terms, including "gold" (χρυσός), "anointed" (χριστός) and "good" (χρηστός). Thus, in determining the usage of the word χρηστός chrestos we need to factor in studies of the chi-rho, an abbreviation employed on coins, shields and elsewhere for centuries prior to the common era.

Observe of coin of Ptolemy III, with chi-rho symbol between the eagle's legsOne of these pre-Christian coins is that of Ptolemy III (fl. 246-220 BCE), in which the chi-rho symbol appears between the eagle's legs on the reverse side, as shown on the right here.

Furthermore, the chi-rho symbol was "also used by pagan Greek scribes to mark, in the margin, a particularly valuable or relevant passage; the combined letters Chi and Rho standing for chreston."

The chi-rho or labarum is the "chrestomathic mark of the ancients," the sign allegedly under which the Roman emperor Constantine said he would conquer, influenced by an Egyptian (Zosimus, Hist. Nov., lib. ii, c. 29). The term "chrestomathy" is used to this day as meaning, "useful learning" and referring to literary study aids.

It should be noted that this chi-rho symbol bears a striking resemblance also to a pre-Christian European pictograph, as discussed by Dr. Walter O. Moeller, in an article in Hommages à Maarten J. Vermaseren (v. 2; Leiden, E.J. Brill, 1978) entitled, "Marks, Names and Numbers."

ImageIn his discussion about the solar chi-rho symbol that eventually came to represent Jesus Christ, resembling a man on a cross, Moeller (817) includes an image from a "neolithic passage-grave in Denmark" (right). The neolithic period in Scandinavia extends from around 7,000 to 2600 BCE. Moeller (817-818) describes the image thus:

> To the right of the stick-man is the four-spoked solar wheel and the six-pointed asterisk. The stick-man, which is also a Chi-Rho of sorts...has fingers at the ends of both arms, a line slanting down through the upright and a leg extending down from the upright to the right. The slanting line has been correctly identified as a spear and the whole figure, therefore, as a representation of a savior-god. But in this case the deity cannot be the Christ but must be instead Odin-Wotan who hanged himself on a tree for nine days and nine nights with a spear in his side as a sacrifice to himself. The slanting line makes the stickman also a prototypal St Stephan's Cross. Somewhat similar to this neolithic symbol from Northern Europe is a stick-man figure from predynastic Egypt.

To the trained eye, this image and description represent quite the admission, as well as commentary upon the fact that what is known in the hallowed halls of academia rarely makes it to the masses. This book was published in 1978, so why hasn't this information concerning a pre-Christian savior-god on a cross with a spear through his side widely known?

The image of Odin-Wotan that Moeller discusses eventually became depicted as in later imagery and poetry:

"I know that I hung,
on a windy tree,
for all of nine nights,
wounded with a spear,
and given to Óðinn,
myself to myself,
on that tree,
which no man knows,

from what roots it runs."

Based on the neolithic symbol discussed here, there is little reason to believe that the Norse motif was taken from the gospel story, rather than the other way around.
Further Reading

The Sacred Spear and the Side-Wounding
Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Cup?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
The First 'New Testament': Marcion of Pontus and the Gospel of the Lord

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Drivs av Google ÖversättÖversätt

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle

- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles

- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth, or is the famous Suetonian passage concerning "Chresto" about another individual altogether?

Suetonius, represented in the Nuremberg ChronicleOne of the few citations from antiquity proffered by Christian apologists and others to prove the purported historicity of the figure "Jesus Christ" is a sentence from the ancient Roman historian Gaius Suetonius Tranquillus's Lives of the Twelve Caesars (book 5, Life of Claudius 25.4). Published around 120 AD/CE, this passage is one of two in Suetonius's works held up as "evidence" of Jesus of Nazareth's existence as a "historical" personage, the second a sentence in that writer's Life of Nero 16.2 which supposedly discusses "Christians." Here I will examine the Claudius passage in terms of its value in this quest for the "historical Christ."

'Christ' or 'Chrest'?

In presenting this purported evidence from Suetonius's Claudius 25.4, Christian apologists typically cite an English translation, such as:

> As the Jews were making constant disturbances at the instigation of Chrestus (another spelling of Christus), he (Claudius) expelled them from Rome. (Josh McDowell, Evidence that Demands a Verdict (1979), 83)

The Christian-preferred Latin of this sentence is as follows:

> Iudaeos impulsore Christo assidue tumultuantis Roma expulit

However, it is now the scholarly consensus that the original Latin of this passage must have been the following:

> Iudaeos impulsore Chresto assidue tumultuantis Roma expulit

This latter version with the word Chrēsto, not Christo, is what our earliest extant manuscripts relate. Contrary to what Christian apologist Josh McDowell and other fundamentalists assert, and despite the fact that the two words are evidently related through the roots χρίω and χράω, "Chrēsto," the ablative of Chrestus, is not an "another spelling of Christ." These terms represent Latinizations of two different Greek words that sound quite similar: Chrēstos, sometimes a proper name, means "good," "righteous" or "useful"; while Christos denotes "anointed" or "messiah." Hence, although an earlier generation of scholars believed that this Suetonian passage reflected the uprisings of Jews against Christians in Rome, we are not certain at all that this purported "reference" in Suetonius has anything to do with Christ and Christians.

"We are not certain at all that this purported 'reference' in Suetonius has anything to do with Christ and Christians."

Scientific studies of Suetonius's extant works demonstrate that "Chresto" is the most common epithet in the manuscript tradition. As we will discover, Chresto or its Greek original, Chrestos, was commonly found in pre-Christian antiquity, and its presence in Suetonius most likely had nothing to do with any historical founder of Christianity called "Jesus the Christ." Rather, this commonly held title was one of the earliest applied to what is clearly a fictional composite of characters, real and mythical, styled "Jesus the Good."

In addition, the event in which Claudius expelled Jews from Rome is recorded elsewhere in other histories - without the "impulsore Chresto" claim - and seems to date to around 49, 52 or 53 AD/CE, an incident that apparently was unrelated to a historical Jesus of Nazareth and cannot serve as evidence for his historicity.

Chrestos in Pagan Antiquity

In reality, the term "Chrestos" or χρηστὸς has been used in association with a plethora of people and gods, beginning centuries before the common era. Chrestos and its plural chrestoi were utilized to describe deities, oracles, philosophers, priests, oligarchs, "valuable citizens," slaves, heroes, the deceased and others. Importantly, chrestos appears to have been the title of "perfected saints" in various mystery schools or brotherhoods, associated with oracular activity in particular.

This word χρηστός or chrestos appears in ancient Greek sources such as those of playwright Sophocles (497/6-406/5 BCE), who discusses ὁ χρηστὸς, "the good man," in Antigone (520). Also composed during the fifth century BCE and containing numerous instances of chrestos are playwright Euripides's works Heraclidae, Hecuba, Troiades and Iphigenia. Other ancient writers such as Herodotus, Sophocles, Aristophanes, Xenophon, Pseudo-Xenophon, Plato, Isocrates, Aeschines, Demosthenes, Plutarch and Appian likewise use this term chrestos or "good," sometimes quite often. In an anonymous tract discovered among the possessions of historian Xenophon (c. 430–354), the "Old Oligarch," modernly styled Pseudo-Xenophon (fl. c. 425), contrasts "the good man" (chrestos) with "the wicked man" (poneros), a common juxtaposition throughout classical antiquity that found its way into the New Testament as well (e.g., Lk 6:35).

Socrates the Chrestos

The fact that Plato (424/423-348/347 BCE) frequently mentions "the good" (χρηστὸς) when discussing various figures (e.g., Plat. Rep. 5.479a) serves as an indication of the word's importance among philosophers and religionists. This association is especially germane considering the exalted place afforded Plato among spiritual seekers for centuries into the common era, including many Christians and assorted "Neoplatonists." Indeed, Plato (Theaetetus 166.a.2) uses the word to describe famed philosopher Socrates: ὁ Σωκράτης ὁ χρηστός - "Socrates the Good."

"In the fifth century BCE, Plato referred to the famous Greek philosopher of Athens as 'Socrates the Chrest.'"

The term continued to be used throughout classical antiquity, into the common era. Indeed, the Greek historian Plutarch (c. 46-120 AD/CE), writing precisely at the time when the Christian effort begins to become noticeable, uses the word χρηστός chrestos numerous times, including to describe Alexander the Great (Alex. 30.3), illustrating the term's ongoing or increased currency at this time.

There are also many uses of the plural word χρηστοί or chrestoi in ancient writings, such as in Euripides, Aristophanes, Thucydides, Isocrates, Plato and numerous times in Xenophon. What we discover, then, is a slew of chrests in ancient, pre-Christian literature, including as concerns the biblical god, as we will see below. We also find repeated references to chrests in the writings of early Church fathers, such as Clement Alexandrinus (Strom. 2), Gregorius Nazianzenus, Athanasius, and especially Cyrillus Alexandrinus and Joannes Chrysostomus.

Chrestos in Religion and Spirituality

Chrestos heros in an inscription from Delphi, GreeceThe term χρηστός chrestos was utilized not only in secular situations but also within ancient religion, philosophy, spirituality and the all-important mysteries, which concerned life and death, including near-death experiences and afterlife traditions. "Chrestos" was one of the titles for the dead in tomb writings "of the Greeks in all ages, pre-Christian as well as post-Christian." Examples of these epithets can be studied in August Boeckh's Corpus Inscriptionum Graecarum. We read elsewhere that the epithet "Chrestos" appears commonly on the epitaphs of most citizens of Larissa, Greece, specifically in the form of chrestos heros , this latter term meaning "hero" and "demigod." The Greek word chrestos was popular also as an epithet or on epitaphs at various Egyptian funerary sites as at Alexandria and elsewhere.

Moreover, the oracular usages of these terms needs to be emphasized, in that chrestos and chrestoi were already utilized in conjunction with deity, religion, spirituality, mysticism and magic, long before the common era. This oracular convention also appears in the New Testament (e.g., Mt 2:12, 2:22; Lk 3:26; Acts 10:22; Heb 8:5, 11:7), in which the verb χρηματίζω chrematizo is employed as connoting "to warn of God." Strong's (G5537) defines chrematizo as "to be the mouthpiece of divine revelations, to promulgate the commands of God."

"The oracular usage of chrestos can be found in the New Testament, employed as connoting 'to warn of God.'"

As another example of the Pagan use of the word chrestos, in 2008 an evidently pre-Christian cup or bowl was found at Alexandria, Egypt, with the genitive form chrestou inscribed on it. This artifact could predate the common era by decades, part of the genre of magical bowls used for protection and incantation. Another artifact with significance in this analysis of the uses of chrestos in antiquity is the chi-rho symbol. Chrestos Bowl, discovered by Franck Goddio in 2008 Chi Rho symbol used for both 'christ' and 'chrest.'

Related articles:

The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Cup?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament

The Gods Must Be Chrestoi

In addition, it is claimed that this title chrestos/chreste was conferred upon the Greek god and goddess Hades and Persephone, divinities of the underworld. "Chrestos" was also bestowed upon the "ubiquitous mystic" or Greek god Hermes, the "Psychopomp" or guide to the afterlife, also an important figure in underworld mythology and in mystery schools. So too is the title claimed of the Greek sun god Apollo, god of oracles. In the Saturnalia (3.4.8) of ancient Latin author Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE), we read that, "according to Cassius Hemina, the Gods of the Samothracian mysteries were styled Θεοὶ Χρηστοὶ [Theoi Chrestoi]." (Mitchell, 18)

Speaking further about Roman historian Lucius Cassius Hemina (fl. 146 BCE), Macrobius states that he also calls the Roman goddess Juno "khrêstê," which Macrobius names as an epithet of bona Iuno or "good Juno," thus identifying the Greek and Latin words with each other. In Latin, therefore, the comparable epithet conveyed upon divinities is Bonus - "Good" - and we find many deities honored with this epithet, including the deity Bona Dea or "Good Goddess."

After Greek became a popular language around the Mediterranean, and the Egyptian pantheon spread outside its native borders, a number of Egyptian "good" deities may also have been called chrestos/e, as we know was the case with the goddess Isis. The Egyptian "Houses of Goodness" may likewise have been labeled by this term when their name was rendered into Greek.

'Isis Chreste' in a Greek inscription

There is much more to this subject of the Pagan usage of the word chrestos and its related terms, enough for a significant monograph.
Related articles:

> Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
> Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?

The Good Lord

Significantly, like the Pagans, Jews too employed the term Chrestos to describe their god: "Since the OT more readily associates majesty and condescension, it commonly uses chrêstós for God..." (Kittel, 1321) This fact gives us reason to suspect that Suetonius's Jews rabblerousing at Rome were in fact doing so in the name of their god, Yahweh the Chrestos, rather than at the instigation of a historical personage by the epithet of Chresto.

In the Greek Bible or Septuagint ("LXX"), a translation begun about 200 years before the common era, the word chrestos occurs in conjunction with "the Lord God," as a rendering of the Hebrew word טוב towb (Strong's H2896), meaning "good, pleasant, agreeable," as well as "good, rich, valuable in estimation." For example, at Jeremiah 33:11 (LXX 40:11), we read that "good [is] the Lord," χρηστὸς κύριος, literally "Chrest Lord." Psalm 106:1 (LXX 105:11) says:

> αλληλουια ἐξομολογεῖσθε τῷ κυρίῳ ὅτι χρηστός…
>
> Allelouia, give praise to the Lord that [he is] good…

The beginning of the next chapter (Ps 107:1; LXX 106:1) starts with the same invocation of the "Good Lord."

Thus, we find "the Lord God the Chrest" in the Greek OT/Septuagint, and the Lord is also chrestos at Psalm 25:8 (LXX 24:8). At Psalm 52:9 (LXX 51:11), God's name is chrestos, while at Psalm 69:16 (LXX 68:17), His mercy is chrestos.

God is likewise called ὁ χρηστός or "the Chrest" in the intertestamental Jewish text Maccabees II (1.24). In addition, we find chrestos in the important works of the Jewish philosopher Philo (20 BCE-50 AD/CE), in which God is likewise described using this adjective, meaning "good," "friendly" or "kind." One such usage in Philo occurs in De Mutatione Nominum ("On the Change of Names"), 44: , rendered by Yonge (362) as "the merciful God." The Jewish historian Josephus too uses the term with similar meanings as well. (Kittel, 1321)

New Testament Chrestos

We also find seven uses of the word chrestos in the New Testament: Mt 11:30; Lk 5:39, 6:35; Rom 2:4; 1 Cor 15:33; Eph 4:32; and 1 Pe 2:3. In this regard, Luke 6:35 also associates God with chrestos, demonstrating an ongoing tradition concerning the "Good Lord," beginning centuries before the common era and extending decades into it:

...καὶ ἔσεσθε υἱοὶ τοῦ ὑψίστου ὅτι αὐτὸς χρηστός ἐστιν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἀχαρίστους καὶ πονηρούς

...and you will be sons of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the selfish.

Here Luke uses another term from antiquity, πονηρούς or ponerous , "selfish," previously mentioned, as contrasted with chrestos in ancient pre-Christian Greek philosophy. Obviously, the term chrestos as used here in the NT verse comes from (Greek) Paganism, along with, we submit, much else.

The verse at Romans 2:4 uses two different forms of chrestos, both applied to God, the second instance of which refers to τὸ χρηστὸν τοῦ θεοῦ or the "chrest of God."

The epistle 1 Peter (2:3) - which does not emerge clearly in the literary record until the second century - also calls "the Lord" χρηστὸς or chrestos, in reference to God, not Jesus:

ἐγεύσασθε ὅτι χρηστὸς ὁ κύριος

you have tasted that good [is] the Lord

Essentially, this phrase reads "the Lord Chrest," apparently based on Psalm 34:8 (LXX 33:9):

γεύσασθε καὶ ἴδετε ὅτι χρηστὸς ὁ κύριος...

taste and see that good [is] the Lord

This passage was confounded in antiquity by Church fathers such as Clement of Alexandria (c. 150–c. 215), who depicted it as saying: "Taste and see that Christ is God" (Exhortation to the Heathens, 9). This fact demonstrates the Chrest-Christ confusion around the beginning of the third century.

The word appears at Ephesians 4:32 as well:

γίνεσθε δὲ εἰς ἀλλήλους χρηστοί εὔσπλαγχνοι χαριζόμενοι ἑαυτοῖς καθὼς καὶ ὁ θεὸς ἐν Χριστῷ ἐχαρίσατο ὑμῖν

Become to others chrestoi, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, as God in Christ forgave you.

It should be emphasized that the good/kind followers of "Christ" were called "chrests," a fact that might explain why "Christians" were also styled "Chrestians."

"Chrestos appears in the Bible, in verses about God in both the Old and New Testaments."

As we can see, the usage of "Chrestos" in conjunction with deity is pre-Christian, continuing well into the common era, within the Bible as well, in verses about God in both Old and New Testaments. Thus, again, no "historical" Chresto is necessary to explain the behavior of Suetonius's Jews.

The Divine Impeller?

Adding to this notion that the Jews at Rome could have been rabblerousing because of their god, the "Good Lord" Yahweh, in Suetonius the Latin word impulsore is the ablative form of impulsor and denotes not "instigation" but "instigator." This scenario would not require a historical personage named Chresto to be present or even the memory of a deceased messianic figure. The passage is translated better as, "Jews because of the instigator Chresto," where impulsor could also mean one who "impels" someone else to do something, a "persuader," "prompter," "enticer," "pusher," "inciter," "inducer," "abettor," "stimulator," "mover," "encourager," "enabler" and "consiliarus," this latter word used in the Vulgate of Isaiah 9:6, describing the "Mighty God" as "Counsellor."

In the first century BCE, Roman statesman and philosopher Marcus Tullius ("Tully") Cicero (On the Consular Provinces, 8) wrote that a certain political "storm" had been excited by "Caesar the impeller" (Caesare impulsore). Moreover, in the play Aulularia or The Pot of Gold (735) by Titus Maccius Plautus (c. 254-c. 184 BCE), we find the line: deus impulsor mihi fuit, which could be rendered, "A god was my impeller." Hence, we see that this term impulsor was associated with deity in the second to third centuries before the common era, as well as into it.

In this regard, in City of God (1.7.11), Church father Augustine (354-430) remarks of the Roman god Jupiter:

> They have called him Victor, Invictus, Opitulus, Impulsor, Stator...and other names which it were long to enumerate.

There is no record of Jews or anyone else being impelled by or worshipping "Jesus the Good" or a historical Chresto at Rome by this time, but there is plenty of evidence of Jews worshipping their god Yahweh as chrestos or chresto. Thus, the situation of Jews being "constantly tumultuous" because of the "impulsor" Yahweh "the Good" may have been akin to rabblerousing Muslims inspired by "Allah the Merciful." Again, no historical Chresto or "Chrest" is needed.

Conclusion

The bottom line is that the Suetonian sentence in question apparently used originally the word "Chresto." Combined with the facts that Christ was never related as having been at Rome, that the phrase "Jesus the Good" evidently does not make its appearance until the third or late second century at the earliest, and that the word chrestos was used to describe gods and many other figures in antiquity, doubt is cast upon the value of this passage as providing any evidence that "Jesus of Nazareth" was an actual historical figure.

Moreover, the fact that Suetonius called Chresto's followers "Judeans" or "Jews," rather than associating them with the "Christians" or, perhaps, "Chrestians " of his Nero passage, tends to negate the idea that the Roman historian is referring to a historical "Jesus Christ." The evidence points, rather, to another individual or, more likely, their tribal god, Yahweh the Good, as the "Chresto" of Suetonius's Jews.

"The Chrest under whose instigation the Jews at Rome constantly revolted could have been the god Yahweh, not a historical Jesus of Nazareth."

In summary, the "Chrest" under whose instigation at Rome the Jews were revolting could have been their Lord God, called "the Good" or chrestos in the Old Testament. No "historical Jesus of Nazareth" would be needed, and we may retire this purported Suetonian "proof" from Christian apologetics.

Bibliography

Boman, B. Jobjorn. Inpulsore Cherestro? Suetonius' Divus Claudius 25.4 in Sources and Manuscripts. Liber Annuus, vol. 61, pp. 355-376.
Boeckh, August. Corpus Inscriptionum Graecarum, vol. 3. Berlin: Deutsche Akademie der Wissenschaften, 1844/1853.
Bruce, F.F. "Christianity under Claudius." Bulletin of the John Rylands Library 44 (March 1962): 309-326.
Kittel, Gerhard, et al., eds. Theological Dictionary of the New Testament, vol. 1. Grand Rapids, MI: Wm. B. Eerdmans, 2003.
McDowell, Josh. Evidence that Demands a Verdict. Nashville, TN: Thomas Nelson Publishers, 1979.
McGlew, James F. Citizens on Stage: Comedy and Political Culture in the Athenian Democracy. University of Michigan Press, 2002.
Mitchell, J.B. Chrestos: A Religious Epithet. London: Williams and Norgate, 1880.
Philonis Alexandrini. Opera Quae Supersunt, vol. 3. ed. Paulus Wendland. Berlin: Georgii Reimeri, 1898.
Witt, Ronald E. Isis in the Ancient World. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins University Press, 1971.
Yonge, C.D. The Works of Philo. Hendrickson Publishers, 1993.

Further Reading

The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Cup?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness

Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
The First 'New Testament': Marcion of Pontus and the Gospel of the Lord
Christian Lindtner's Review of Hermann Detering's Falsche Zeugen: Ausserchristliche Jesuszeugnisse auf dem Prüfstand

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

Welcome to Stellar House Publishing (SHP), a company dedicated to bringing to the public lost and hidden information regarding the world’s religions, mythologies and spiritual traditions. SHP books attain to the highest standards of scholarship while being accessible to the public. Stellar House Publishing was founded in 2005 by author Acharya S aka D.M. Murdock.

Acharya S has been online since 1995 sharing her outstanding work in Astrotheology. Purchases and donations will help keep Acharya’s books, websites and videos available; and help with the needs of her son.

SHP invites you to explore the books, ebooks, dvd’s, calendars, videos and articles.
Support SHP

Please consider a donation to support the ongoing needs of this site.
Books & Products

- Books

- DVDs
- eBooks
- Calendars

The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold – Revised Edition	$21.95
Did Moses Exist? The Myth of the Israelite Lawgiver	$29.95
Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection	$26.95
Who Was Jesus? Fingerprints of the Christ	$17.95
Man Made God: A Collection of Essays	$21.95
The Gospel According to Acharya S	$14.95
Anahita: Ancient Persian Goddess and Zoroastrian Yazata	$24.99
Bart Ehrman and the Quest of the Historical Jesus of Nazareth: An Evaluation of Ehrmans Did Jesus Exist?	$31.95 Original price was: $31.95.$29.10Current price is: $29.10.
Acharya’s Religion 101 for Seekers	$0.99
Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled	$18.95

From Our Blog
Belief & Unbelief by Barbara G. Walker

Criticisms In the inscription of the copy of her book to me, Barbara calls

The Star of Bethlehem, Three Kings, Sirius and Orion

At this time of year, interest begins to increase in the motif of the Giants in the Bible

Ugh. Someone put me on a "Creationism" group, so I started getting all this Did Jesus have a wife? So says an ancient Egyptian papyrus

A Egyptian papyrus fragment describing Jesus Christ as discussing his "wife" has been making
Was there a historical 'Jesus of Nazareth?'

Hi there!Just a reminder of my ebook/PDF special, in case you haven't gotten a End Times: True or False?

We've all heard about the 'End Times,' as described in the last book of Jesus the Good and the Chrestians

In his monograph Chrestos: A Religious Epithet; Its Import and Influence, J.B. Mitchell describes What Egyptologists say about Egypt's role in Christian origins

In the contentious field of Christian origins, there remain those who - apparently absent
Join Our Mailing List
Support the ongoing needs of the website

Copyright© 1995 - Stellar House Publishing, LLC. en English

intercosmos.com is for sale.

Exploring the Cosmos with Intercosmos

Unlocking the Secrets of Space Exploration

At Intercosmos, we're passionate about pushing the boundaries of space exploration. Our team of experts is dedicated to developing innovative technologies that will take humanity further than ever before.

From satellite imaging and data analysis to advanced propulsion systems and life support solutions, our work has far-reaching implications for the future of space travel and research.

Image

The Importance of International Cooperation in Space Exploration

As we continue to explore the vast expanse of space, it's clear that international cooperation is crucial for achieving our goals. By working together, nations can pool their resources and expertise to achieve far more than they could alone.

Intercosmos is committed to fostering global partnerships and collaborations that will drive innovation and progress in the field of space exploration.

Image

The Future of Space Exploration: Trends, Challenges, and Opportunities

As we look to the future, it's clear that space exploration will continue to play a critical role in advancing our understanding of the universe and improving life on Earth.

However, there are also significant challenges ahead, from ensuring the sustainability of space travel to addressing the environmental impact of space-based activities.

Image

© 2024 | Powered by Computer.Com

Z-BlogPHP

MySQL数据库无法连接

可能的错误原因

- 您在zb_users/c_option.php内配置、或刚才填写的的 MySQL 连接信息是否正确？
- 您所连接的 MySQL 数据库是否已经成功启动？

请复制上方错误信息到搜索引擎以获取关于该错误的说明，或点击「使用必应搜索」。

如果您是访客，这说明网站程序可能出现了一些错误。请您稍后再试，或联系站长。

如果您是站长，可以「点击这里」查看 Z-Blog 官方对于【部分常见错误 】的说明,，以及「通用排查指南」。

如果仍然无法解决，也可以到 Z-Blog 官方论坛，附上当前错误信息与描述寻求帮助。 注：请将"当前错误信息"复制进标题或正文中。

返回 刷新 登录

calendarspecial.gif

Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image

Online video "You can help!"

donate help

Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth

religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR

Support the ongoing needs of the website

Welcome to the world of
Acharya S/D.M. Murdock!

Truth Be Known was created in 1995 by independent scholar of comparative religion and mythology D.M. Murdock, also known as "Acharya S."

Acharya's work is designed to bring to light fascinating lost, hidden and destroyed religious, mythological and spiritual traditions that reveal an exciting core of knowledge dating back thousands of years.

Please feel free to post the following articles to your website or blog using the RSS feed!
Christ Myth and Other Articles RSS feed for TBK's Christ Myth Articles
Who was Jesus Christ?Who was Jesus Christ?
Was Jesus a God, man or myth? Did he exist as a real person? The answer may shock and surprise you. Were George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Jesus Mythicists?Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
Did American Founding Fathers study the case for Christ as a mythical figure?

Is the Shroud of Turin real?Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
Is the Shroud of Turin genuine? Or is it a forgery in a long line of "pious frauds?"

Noah's ArkIs Noah's Ark Real?
Is the biblical story of Noah's Ark a true story? Was there a global flood? Many people have tried to find evidence for this tale.

Jewish historican Flavian JosephusThe Jesus Forgery: Josephus
A brief paragraph in by Jewish historian is cited as proof of the existence of Jesus Christ. Is it really? Or is it a forgery?

Tacitus, Roman Politician and Historian, (c. 56-120 CE)Do Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus Prove Jesus Existed?
Are these supposed references evidence or worthless in the quest for the historical Jesus?
Does Roman historian Suetonius refer to Jesus Christ?Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth or another individual altogether? Does Church Father Justin Martyr Discuss the Four Canonical Gospels?Does Justin Martyr Refer to the Gospels?
When were the gospels written? Does Justin serve as evidence for their existence in his time?

The Virgin Mary crowned by angelsWho was the Virgin Mary?
Who was the Virgin Mary? Was she the Mother of God? As with Jesus himself, Joseph and Mary never appear in the historical record of the time.

Who was Mary Magdalene?Who was Mary Magdalene?

Was Mary Magdalene a "common prostitute?" Was she the wife of Jesus Christ and the mother of his children?

Jesus the 'Sun of Righteousness' arises, with healing on his wingsWhen Was the First Christmas?
Was the first Christmas truly the birth of Jesus Christ on December 25th? Or is this holiday much older than that?
The sun at winter solstice, forming a cross of lightIs Jesus the Reason for the Season?
Christmas is a winter solstice celebration, not the birthday of the Jewish messiah and Son of God.

Egyptian hieroglyph of Orion with three loops and SiriusThe Star in the East and Three Kings
Is the gospel account of the "star in the east" followed by "wise men" from afar true? Or is it a myth based on older stories?

Isis nursing HorusWas Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
Jesus Christ is not the only god supposedly born of a virgin on December 25th. So too was Horus of Egypt.
Was the Roman god Mithra born of a virgin on December 25th?Was Mithra Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
Mithra, the Light of the World, is an ancient sun god identified with Sol Invictus, who was born on December 25th. Was Dionysus killed and resurrected after three days?Was Dionysus Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
The Greek god has been depicted as born of a virgin mother on December 25th, dying and rising after three days.
Was the Greek god Attis born of a virgin on December 25th? Was he killed and resurrected after three days?Was Attis Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
What is the evidence that the god Attis was portrayed as born of a virgin on December 25th, killed and resurrecting afterwards? Was the Indian god Krishna born of a virgin?Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
The theme of the virgin mother of a god or hero was abundant in antiquity, including in India, as depicted in the Mahabharata, for one.
The Egyptian goddess Neith was the Virgin Mother of the World thousands of years before the Virgin MaryNeith, the Virgin Mother of the World
The worship of the Egyptian goddess Neith, a sometime mother of the solar deity Horus, is traceable to around 7,000 years ago. Virgin Mother Goddesses of AntiquityVirgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
The Great Creator of the Universe has been viewed as a female - a goddess - during a significant period of human culture.
Is Easter Christian or Pagan?Is Easter a Christian or Pagan Holiday?
Rather than being a "Christian" holiday, Easter celebrations date back into remotest antiquity and are found around the world. Is Jesus a rehash of Osiris?Is Jesus a Remake of the Egyptian God Osiris?
The dying and resurrected Osiris was worshipped thousands of years before Christ. Is it

Osiris's story in the New Testament?
Was Jesus Christ in India?Was Jesus in India?
Over the centuries, the claim has been made that Jesus Christ spent his early and post-crucifixion years in a variety of places. Was Jesus Christ in Great Britain? Or is he remake of the pagan woodworking god Esus?Was Christ in Great Britain?
Rumors hold that Jesus traveled to England, but did he really? Or is there another reason for these stories?
Was Apollonius of Tyana the basis for Jesus Christ?Was Jesus Christ Based on Apollonius of Tyana?
Why are the lives of Jesus and Apollonius so similar? Why does Apollonius resemble St. Paul as well? So-called James Ossuary does not serve as proof of a historical JesusThe James Ossuary Provides No Proof of Jesus
Is there really some wondrous "new proof" of Jesus to set the record straight once and for all, or is it another bit of faithful flotsam?
Mithra slaying the bull, surrounded by 12 companionsWhat Did the Church Fathers Say about Mithraism?
Why did the religion of Mithraism so bother the early Christians that they were compelled to write against it? Dr. Chris Forbes, Australian historianRebuttal to Chris Forbes Concerning Zeitgeist
An indepth analysis exposes 21 errors in this Australian historian's critique of the religion part of the hit internet film.
Isis in cruciform or cross-shapeIsis was Called the Chr
728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

Isis the Chrēst
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Is Jesus Christ truly a unique, divine revelation? Or is he one of many "Christs" and "Chrēsts" in antiquity? As "Jesus the Good" was called "Chrēstos," so too was the Egyptian goddess Isis.

The chi-rho or 'chrestomathy' mark was used to designate something 'good' or 'useful,' until it was taken over by Christianity and changed to represent 'christos' or 'anointed.'

In several instances in ancient times, the figure of "Jesus the Christ" is also called "Jesus the Chrēst" or "Jesus the Good," these two epithets, "Christos" and "Chrēstos," closely resembling each other and often confused by early Church fathers and others. As was the case with the title of Χριστός Christos, meaning "anointed," being held by various gods and other figures in the ancient world, so too was the epithet χρηστός Chrestos/Chrestus attached to several individuals, divine and otherwise. This fact that epithets traditionally associated with Jesus in reality were possessed by many others in antiquity is important to understand, as it demonstrates once again that the Christ character is neither unique nor representative of genuine divine revelation.

The Good God/dess

In Egypt for example, we find the common phrase neter nefer or "Good God," an epithet applied to Osiris as well as to the pharaohs, these latter of whom were considered divinities on Earth, incarnations of the god Horus. It is contended that, after the Greek-speaking Ptolemies began ruling Egypt or even before, with the introduction of Greek mysteries, Osiris and other Egyptian gods and goddesses were called chrestos.

In this regard, in Boeckh Corp. Inscr. (2:245, n. 2300) appears an inscription found on the Greek island of Delos that reads ΙΣΙΔΙ ΧΡΗΣΤΗ or "Isis Chreste":

Interestingly, Delos had a Therapeutan community, while Isis evidently was worshipped by the Judeo-Buddhist Therapeuts at Alexandria. (See my book Christ in Egypt, 440, 456.)

Along the same lines, in The Foreigner: A Search for the First-Century Jesus (77), Desmond Stewart says:

Chrestus (or in its Greek original, chrêstos) means gentle, kindly, good; it is, curiously, the equivalent of the common pharaonic title of Osiris, Un-nefer.

This epithet "Un-Nefer" or "Onnofri," etc., possesses the same basic meaning as chrestos; therefore, any Egyptian texts calling Osiris "Un-Nefer" when translated into Greek may have used the word chrestos.

Osiris the KRST

Christ in EgyptIt is significant that in Egyptian language the word for "tomb," "funeral," "dead body" or "mummy" is pronounced "krst" or "karest," similar to chrest and christ, especially when one considers that the initial hieroglyph for this word (N29) possesses a χ or chi sound. The last glyph in this word is the determinative Mummy determinative, Gardiner's A53 (A53), the standing mummy, which represents Osiris risen. (For more information, see my book Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection, 313-318)

This suggestion of Osiris as chrestos is given further support by the interesting discussion in a purported letter by Emperor Hadrian in which he claims that the Egyptian hybrid god Serapis ("Ausar-Apis") was worshipped by the "Chrestians."

In Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus (52), Dr. Arthur Drews presents this Hadrian-Servius letter as stating in part:

> Those who worship Serapis are the Chrestians, and those who call themselves priests of Chrestus are devoted to Serapis. There is not a high-priest of the Jews, a Samaritan, or a priest of Chrestus who is not a mathematician, soothsayer, or quack. Even the patriarch, when he goes to Egypt, is compelled by some to worship Serapis, by others to worship Chrestus.

The Greek word chrestos was popular as an epithet or on epitaphs at various Egyptian funerary sites as at Alexandria and elsewhere. This fact too suggests that the Lord of the Underworld and Afterlife, Osiris, the Good God, like his wife, Isis Chreste, may have been likewise deemed Chrestos.

The Egyptian Houses of Goodness

The popular Egyptian term nfr or nefer, meaning "pleasant," "beautiful," "good," "excellent" and "gracious," comparable to chrestos, is designated by the hieroglyph of a cross (trachea) with a heart at the bottom (F35). Interestingly, this fascinating symbol, which looks like the sacred heart of Jesus, appears over Egyptian "Houses of Goodness" or "Houses of Chrest," so to speak, that resemble churches.

Further Reading

Sacred Heart of Jesus

Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection
Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos

Chrestos Magical Bowl?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
Christian Lindtner's Review of Hermann Detering's Falsche Zeugen: Ausserchristliche Jesuszeugnisse auf dem Prüfstand

ENGLISH

Hermes Kitap

Konferanslar

Yazılar

Videolar

Forum

Galeri

Amaç

E-Kitaplar
Linkler

Gizemli konular hakkında yüzlerce yazı, e-kitap, video görüntü ve daha neler

Tarih Yeniden Yazılacak Mı? Yazar Gene Matlock'a göre ilk insanlar Türk'tü ve yurtları Orta Asya

Göbekli Tepe - Fırat Düzgüner

Dünyanın ilk Kübbeli Yapısı Stonehenge - Fırat Düzgüner

Yazılıkaya'da Etilerin Kem Sembolleri - Fırat Düzgüner

Yurt, Praithorion, Cami, Kilise ilişkileriyle Volkanlar - Fırat Düzgüner

Aklanmayı Hak Eden Tarihçimiz: Herodotos - Fırat Düzgüner

Pandora'nın Kutusu - Fırat Düzgüner

Erhan Altunay'dan

Hititler

Frigler

Urartu Uygarlığı

Etrüskler

Minos Uygarlığı

Eski Mısır İnancında Osiris Kültü

Druidler

Ölü Deniz Yazmaları

İsa Doğumuna Yakın Zamanlarda Yahudi Dini

Orpheus ve Orfeusçuluk

Atlantis

Ezoterizm nedir?

Simya

Zümrüt Tablet

Sayıların Sembolizmi

Beden Dışı Deneyimler - Astral Seyahat nedir? Nasıl yapılır.

Gizli Ateş: Kundalini, Kabala ve Simya Arasındaki İlişki -

Çakralar

Kundalini: Bir Okült Deneyim

Kundalini... Dikkat Yüksek Voltaj

Kundalini ve Gurular

Doğu Ezoterizm: Çakra, Kundalini ve Okült Anatomi

Vampirler

Alternatif, Bilinmeyen ve Gizemli Konular Hakkında Her Şey

Ezoterizm

Ezoterizm Nedir?

Ezoterizm Nasıl Doğdu?

Ezoterik Örgütlerde İnisiyasyon

İnisiyuatik Bağlanma Üzerine

Temel Ezoterik ve Okült Terimler ve Kavramlar

Hermesçilik ve Kökeni

Hermesçiliğin Etkisi

Hermetik Felsefenin İslam Düşünce Tarihinde Görünümü

Eleusis Gizemleri

Mithra Gizemleri

Gnosis

Gnostisizm

Semboller

Sayıların Sembolizmi

Sayıların Erdemi

Taoculuk

Yeryüzü Kökenli Bir Gelenek Olarak Taoculuk

Taoculuk veya Yol

Taocu Uygulamaların Temelleri

Simyanın Gizemleri

Simya

Simya Nedir?

Simyagerler Kimdi?

Simyanın Öyküsü

Simyanın Ne Olduğu

Felsefi Simya

Simya Artık Sadece Otaçağa için Değil

İslam'da Simya

Çin Simyası

Hint Simyası

Simya ve Tamil Siddharlar

Antik Çağ Simyasının Rönesans İzdüşümleri

Rönesans Simyası

Splendor Solis

İksirler

İçsel Simya Gelenekleri

Simya İnisiyasyonun Üç Mücevheri

Spagiriks: Otların Titreşimlerini Yüceltmek

Pratik Bitki Simyası - Bölüm 1

Pratik Bitki Simyası - Bölüm 2

Pratik Bitki Simyası - Bölüm 3

Okültizm - Gizli İlimler

Beslenmenin Ezoterik Yönü ve Vejetaryenlik

Kişilik

İyi Bir Okült Öğrenci Nasıl Olunur?

Geleneksele Karşı Pop Okültizm

Kutsal Merkezler

Maji

Doğuda ve Batıda Maji

Kabala

Kadim İbranice ve Hintçe Arasında bir Bağ Var Mı?

Kabbala

Kabala İncelemesine Giriş

Kabala ve Hermetik Tradisyonu

Ölüm Ötesi Dönüşüm: Ka, Ba ve Kabala

Gizemli Kültler, Örgütler ve Cemiyetler

Gizem Kültleri 1 Böl 2

İsmailliler ve Templiyerler

İlluminati

Eseniler

İhvan-üs-safâ

Dürziler

Haşişiler

Hurufilik

Tapınakçılar

Tampliyelerin Öyküsü - 1

Tampliyelerin Öyküsü - 2

Tampliyelerin Öyküsü - 3

Tampliyelerin Öyküsü - 4

Tampliyelerin Öyküsü - 5

Gül-Haç Cemiyetinin İslami Menşei

Gül Haçlılar

Altın Şafak Cemiyeti

Vudu - Yeni Dünyanın Afrika kökenli Büyülü Dini

Şamanizm

Şamanizm

Moğol Şamanizmin Ana Hatları

Hz İbrahim Kimdi?

Gene Matlock'in Şaşırtıcı makalesi için resmi tıkayınız.

Hz. Musa ve Firavun'un Gerçek Hikayesi

Hasan Sabbah'ın Fedaileri Haşişiler Kimdi?

Haşişiler

İsmailliler ve Templiyerler

Haci Bektaş Veli Bir Batıni Dai'siydi Dr. İsmail Kaygusuz'un ilginç makalesi için resmi veya burayı tıklayınız.

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law!
Find our location

Leaping Laughter - O.T.O.
Love is the Law
Love under Will

About Leaping Laughter

Leaping Laughter Oasis is the local body of the Ordo Templi Orientis (O.T.O.) in the Valley Of Minneapolis MN. We are chartered to perform the Man of Earth initiations of the M.’.M.’.M.’., and we perform the Gnostic Mass of the Ecclesia Gnostica Catholica (EGC) three times a month.

In addition to those principal functions, we also hold regular workshops on ceremonial and other types of magic, book and movie discussions, and art shows with the participation of the local pagan community.

We also publish an occasional journal entitled Waves of Aethyr, containing insights, stories, and perspectives from local body members and the writings of Aleister Crowley.

Leaping Laughter's Mission

At Leaping Laughter, it is our mission to support the growth of the Individual and their advancement in Light, Wisdom, Understanding, Knowledge, and Power through Beauty, Courage, and Wit, on the Foundation of Universal Brotherhood, under the auspices of the philosophy known as Thelema (Will).

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

Browse Events

Leaping Laughter hosts a variety of events in support of our Mission, and our local, national, and international community of Thelemites. In addition, the Oasis offers space for classes, workshops, and events for the Twin Cities Pagan and Artistic communities. Contact the Secretary for more information if you are interested in presenting classes, events, or shows in our space. We take pride in offering an inclusive and open environment for both members and non-members to share their knowledge, experience, and culture to further the Work.

Event Calendar
FEATURED POST
LATEST POSTS
Thoughts on Resh

Thoughts on Resh
by Frater Nebukephheruraha/Phoenix Suasti Suvayas Image from LIBER NOVUS As I approach the east, my eyes adjust to the sunlight I remember that the light of…
Invocation to Neith
Invocation to Neith
By Sr. LalithaPosted 19/09/08 e.v.Sol in Virgo, Luna in Capricorn, Hour of Sol. Neith. Egyptian Goddess. Pictured with weaving shuttle over head. Image sourced from Ahmed…
My First Gnostic Mass
I don’t remember where or when I first heard about Aleister Crowley. The first book of his I read was his “Confessions”; I read as much…
Attend our
Upcoming Events
We'd like to meet you. Find out when we meet and what's going on at Leaping Laughter!
Calendar of Events

Facebook
Twitter
Email

More Networks

The Black Raven

Doctor Johannes Faust's Miracle and Magic Book or
The Black Raven or also called
The Threfold Coercion of Hell
Translated into English Language by Karl Hans Welz

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

All Rights Reserved
Copyright 1990 by Karl Hans Welz
This book may not be reproduced in whole or in part, by mimeograph or any other means, without prior permission in writing from the author.

Published 1993 by the Knights of Runes P.O. Box 2070, Decatur, GA 30031

Foreword

The book of Doctor Johannes Faust is one of the best known grimoires in the German realm. German magicians usually referred to it as "Doctor Faust's Coercion of Hell." They ascribe its origin to the Jesuits, perhaps a result of the style of the book.

Beginning magicians used this grimoire in the main for its talismans. For the person who knows how to read between the lines, this grimoire offers a lot more. It opens up the access to magical powers of an enormous potential, especially when the student has also access to the Faustian Tarot. This deck of cards is not a tarot deck in the strictest sense, but rather a representation of the energies that slumber deep within ourselves, ready to serve the person who has the courage to awaken them.

I admonish the reader to read between the lines and thus gain access to the magical powers that are inherent in this fascinating book of German sorcery.

I have written a commentary to the Coercion of Hell. In this commentary, I give you some insights in the times of the writing of this book. This brief analysis will explain why the original author had to write the grimoire in this form. In addition, I am giving you some hints of how to read between the lines so you can draw the maximum benefit from this fascinating work of German sorcery.

introductio

This is Doctor Johannes Faustis Miracul Art and Magic Book, or The Black Raven, or also named The Threefold Coercion of Hell. With this book I, Dr. Johannes Faust, have coerced all the spirits so that they had to bring to me whatever I desired: be it go ld, silver, treasures large and small, also the spring-root, and whatever else is available on Earth. All that did I get with this book. I was also capable to dispel the spirits after they had done what I asked them for.

A Warning!

Never read me aloud without a circle
Otherwise I am of great danger to you!
The spirit whom you cannot make to obey
Will attach himself to your skin.
You cannot dispel him
And he works on you very hard
So that he can connect with you totally.
Therefore set up my circle first
And prepare everything very well.
Do not forget the exact sigils of the spirit
Before you begin with the works.
Be sure that you have the symbol
Of the spirit whom you desire most.
If you summon with power
You will achieve big results
This is the way for you
To coerce the spirits
As I have done it myself.
They have to bring you Everything that you demand.

I, Doctor Johann Faust, am skilled in the Free Arts. From an early age on, I have read many books. During my studies, I ran across a book that contained many of these things concerning the summoning of spirits. At first I had my doubts, but I liked the idea of testing the practices that I have read of in the book, for I enjoyed the thought of the results that such practices would bring.

However, as soon as I began to practice, things happened exactly as the book has told: a very powerful spirit (ASTAROTH) stood in front of me. He demanded now from me to tell him why I had called him. Hurriedly I decided that he should be serviceable and helpful to me in many situations and desires that I had. As a condition, the spirit demanded that I had to make a treaty with him at first. In the beginning I had little inclination to do so. However, I had only a weak circle since my original thought was to only try things out a bit. For this reason I was in no position to resist and I had to follow that which the spirit asked from me. Soon we had drawn up an agreement that said that the spirit had to serve me for a set time and amount of years.

After this had happened, this spirit introduced Mochiel to me to him he commanded that he should serve me. I asked him (Mochiel) how fast he was, and he answered that he was as fast as the wind. My reply was that he will not serve me and that he should go back to the place where he had come from. Soon after that, Aniguel came. He replied to my question that he was as fast as a bird in the air. "You are still too slow, go away!" I answered. Immediately after this the third spirit stood in front of me. His name was Aziel. I asked him how fast he was. He answered that he was as fast as human thought. "Good for you," I replied, "I want to have you!" With these words, I accepted him. This spirit has served me a long time as has been written about extensively.

Caput Primum
Caput Secundum
Caput Tertium
Caput Quartum
Caput Quintum
Dr. Faust's Last Testament
You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

This is the Site of Karl Hans Welz, the Inventor of the Orgone Generator®, Orgonite® and Magick powered by Orgone Generators®

Magick is Technology, which is applied science of life force, plain and simple, and on this site you are going to find out why this is so, and what's even much more important: Magick is extremely easy to master, and this means that you certainly can be a master of this exciting powerful technology very soon:

a technology, which helps you to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires !!!
To download a free pdf of karl hans welz's magick of the future course or the alphabet of desire digital filter pack check out the Life Manifestations Stan Store

Catalog Chat with us email

Now - what do you think is magick? - is it spiritual? is it metaphysical? is it religion? is it rooted in faith? is it "higher knowledge?" Is it something, for which to master you need to be a life long slave of some secret lodge, sacred coven or other cult setup? ... or does it have to do with these very nice modern fairy tales of Harry Potter or the Lord of the Rings? Quite naturally, like in traditional fairy tales and mythologies as well as in those "modern" fairy tales, the very effective assumption persists that only a few "gifted" people are capable of performing this art of magick, while all others happily are following the rules of their enslavement by the society to which they belong: Caught for life within the mechanisms of socio-economic-sexual repression.

If you're located within the US click here to order by paypal

You can order a digital download of filter packs for $50.00 by clicking here

In fact, the basis of magick is a skill, which is as natural as walking, seeing, hearing and talking, and therefore almost all of us have this skill naturally - we were born with these skills, and, because of vested interests of ruthless folks in power, humans are systematically "educated out of it," and that happens at a very early age, of course! Consequently, this skill of magick is extremely easy to master, i.e., to re-acquire, in a few weeks rather than in many months, years or decades.

Advanced and effective magick then is technology, plain and simple, and this technology is based on the science - or physics - of life force, the energy of life - Chi, prana, orgone, od, mana, or whatever other label you want to use for this universal energy! As is the case with any technology, any person willing to do so can have access to it. In fact, it is extremely easy for you to set up magickal operations !!!

Click Here and you can get the evidence of what you just found out right now, and, what's still much more important, this is experience for you, plain and simple: direct experience, which is worth more than a thousand words !!!

Because magick is so easy to master and at the same time it has been used to control large portions of the population throughout history, there have been very strong vested interests by those in control: by people who shamelessly were and still are using it for their own purposes of dominance, and quite naturally they lie about magick, they label it evil, etc., and consequently we have been "educated out of this" and in many "cultures" the word itself has been vilified throughout the ages by control-freaks in power, and this vilification appears in almost all of these fairy-tales, which were hammered into us by way of forced-upon education. All of this quite naturally is the result of the power of folks and groups of people who have vested interests in keeping this knowledge away from the bulk of the population while using it extensively for their own purposes: purposes which are unethical most of the time ... or, as they attempt to make you believe quite often and routinely ...

"we are doing this for the greatest benefit of all human beings, you included ..., etBS, etBS, etBS ..." !!!

Result of this approach? .... See above, at the beginning of this web site ... !!!

I am certain that you want evidence right now, and YES, you can get this experience now !!!
Perform the free transfer test, and you can do this as well when putting a structural link as a wallpaper onto your smartphone. Simply go into www.chitec.us for a FREE TEST! - read some of the instructions, and you certainly will realize rapidly how easy it is for you to perform this exciting technology of magickal operations having your smartphone as the center of your magickal power: This is so, because the structural link, i.e. the wallpaper on your smartphone, provides you with the life force, which is the energy at the basis of your operations of magick !!!

Simply click here for the FREE TEST and for you this experience of results will be worth more than a thousand words !!!

... and there is something I added December 28, 2015

What is Magick?

Is it a collection of spiritual skills on a basis of one or more of the many quite different religious mythologies?

Or is it a potential beginning of or a gate to brand new technologies on a basis of a scientific understanding of life force and structural links, or can it even be a combination of both sometimes?

After all, collective placebo effects certainly can end up being useful objective realities. Many events in history are proof of this.

When talking about “magick” most people are thinking of it as something esoteric, spiritual, religious and the like, and they are unaware that, in fact, magick is technology, which is based on science: the science of energies in general and the science of life force and its interaction with other energies (such as EMF/space, time, gravity, etc.) in particular: on the "introductory end" the science of action at a distance and perception at a distance as well as many other technologies, which evolved from this approach. For more visit also www.magicofthefuture.com

In fact, in “olden times” thunder and lightening were also thought as being “spiritual” and miraculously produced by “gods of thunder” and so were other things, which later were recognized as very natural phenomena and explained by scientific approaches, and based on such scientific mappings, theories or approaches many new technologies did evolve, some of which we enjoy very much, and of which the people of the past who originally had started the scientific approach had not the slightest idea. In fact, such a type of scientific and technical evolution based on the science of life force happened almost immediately after I could explain scientifically magick and other functions that up to now were - and still are - explained by most people as “divine, spiritual, esoteric, new agey” and what not.

In fact, after having recognized the many phenomena and approaches of life force as applied science that uses natural energies, almost immediately amazing new methods could be developed. Of course this is something that the many popes of esoteric approaches do not like at all and they condemn it as “of the devil” and the like! After all, those folks make money based on their rigid spiritual explanations. The same things happened in the past at the beginning of a scientific understanding of electromagnetism and the like: think of thunder and lightening - and the understanding and technology of electricity came in part from this basis, as did later a lot of electric machineries, all the way to computers, space travel and more.

And now just imagine how far technologies can go as a result of understanding many of those “esoteric functions” of life force, such as, but not limited to, perception at a distance and action at a distance, and from there is just a small step to texting with no need of network or amplifiers, to gravity machines, to teleportals, not just for travelling by way of teleportals, but also to pull “free energy” from powerful sources such as the Sun or drawing minerals directly from asteroids, with no need to physically go there, ... and much much more! These were just a few rather primitive examples of what we can expect, and I am certain there’s stuff out there that I cannot even think about yet: similar as people who in the past started building electric and other power machinery based on scientific understanding could not even think about computers back then, about fun with computer games, about refrigerators, about nuclear energies, about TV and other methods based on this EMF knowledge: technologies and machinery used in our times, some of those already sort of antiquated.

I consider my scientific approach still primitive and I hope it will be obsolete some time: the sooner the better, because this mechanism of "obsoletizing" in fact is the engine of technological and scientific advances!

For first approaches, personal ones, being aware of all of this is sufficient.

Start with known methods and be immediately aware that it is technology. Then very soon you can proceed to much more advanced methods and technologies than many of the “eso-popes” or “spiritual leaders and guides” want you to know and believe in!

- Magick+Chi
  - Introduction
  - Magick+AAD
  - About Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Science + Magick
  - What is Magick?
  - Structural Links
  - Chi acts at any Distance
- Theory
  - Magick + Radionics
  - Target + Trend
  - Magick + Chi

  - More about Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Radionics = Magick
  - Power Magick
  - More Power Magick
- Uses
  - skills
    - artistic inspiration
    - magickal protection
    - people skills
    - intuition
    - intelligence
    - charisma
    - music
    - remote viewing
  - well-being
    - food
    - water
    - supplements
    - energy
  - sports and fitness
    - fitness training
    - weight control
    - sports performance
    - sports competition
  - animals, plants, environment
    - agriculture
    - plants
    - pets
    - animals
  - relations
    - love
    - children
    - friends
    - popularity
  - profession
    - profession
    - convincing speech
    - business
    - politics
    - team work
  - money
    - marketing
    - gambling
    - stock market
    - sales skills
    - money management

- Equipment
  - water optimizers
    - AO 1100
    - AO 2000
  - chi generators
    - JU 99 series
    - JU 1000
    - CEG 1000
    - LPOG 2400 DL
    - PFC 2000
    - LPOG 2400 HD
    - Performer
    - RAD 5
    - ATG 12
  - radionics
    - RAD 1000
    - RAD 2000
    - RAD 2400 HD
    - RAD 5
    - ATG 12
  - energy transfers
    - Transfer Couple
    - Transfer Coaster
    - Power Booster
    - Potency Booster
  - software
    - basic manifestation
    - super manifestation
    - astro dynamic
    - feng shui plus
    - manifestation ultimate PC+Mac
- Ordering
  - phone, fax
  - paypal
- Contacts
  - contact info
  - customer support
  - Online Showroom
  - email us
  - Online chat
- Broadcasts
- Free Courses
  - Magick of the Future
  - Classic Magick Courses
    - Classic Magick Course
    - Magick Course - Italiano
    - Magick Course Deutsch

        - Magick Course Espanol
    - Autogenic Training
    - Universal consciousness
    - Rune Magick
    - Rune Yoga
    - Rune Readings
    - Astrology Course
    - Free Astrology Software

Click below to join the FREE COURSES of YOUR CHOICE

- Magick Courses
    - Magic of the Future
    - Magick - English
        - Introduction
        - Lesson 1
        - Lesson 2
        - Lesson 3
        - Lesson 4
        - Lesson 5
        - Lesson 6
    - Magie - Deutsch
        - Einführung
        - Erste Lektion
        - Zweite Lektion
        - Dritte Lektion
        - Vierte Lektion
        - Fünfte Lektion
        - Sechste Lektion
    - Magia - Espanol
        - Introduccion
        - Lección 1
        - Lección 2
        - Lección 3
        - Lección 4
        - Lección 5
        - Lección 6
    - Magia - Italiano
        - Introduzione
        - Lezione 1
        - Lezione 2
        - Lezione 3
        - Lezione 4
        - Lezione 5
        - Lezione 6
    - Radionics = Magick

  - Power Magick
  - More Power Magick
- Autogenic Training
  - Introduction
  - Lessons
- Universal Consciousness
  - Introduction
  - Lesson 1
  - Lesson 2
  - Lesson 3
  - Lesson 4
  - Lesson 5
  - Lesson 6
- Rune Magick
  - Rune Magic
    - Rune FA
    - Rune UR
    - Rune THORN
    - Rune OS
    - Rune RIT
    - Rune KA
    - Rune HAGAL
    - Rune NOD
    - Rune IS
    - Rune AR
    - Rune SIG
    - Rune TYR
    - Rune BAR
    - Rune LAF
    - Rune MAN
    - Rune YR
    - Rune EH
    - Rune GIBOR
  - Rune Readings
    - Readings 1
    - Readings 2
    - Readings 3
    - Readings 4
    - Readings 5
    - Readings 6
  - Rune Yoga
    - rune yoga 1
    - rune yoga 2
    - rune yoga 3
    - rune yoga 4
    - rune yoga 5
    - rune yoga 6

        - rune yoga 7
        - rune yoga 8
        - rune yoga 9
        - Rune Postures
    - Rune Master Initiation
    - Rune Magic Positions
    - Gorsleben Book
    - Untitled Item
- Talisman Magick
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5
    - Lesson 6
- Tarot Spells
    - Introduction
    - Multi-Step-Setup
    - Keltic Cross Setup
    - Eldritch Wizardry
    - Italiano
    - Italiano 2
- Astrology Course
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5
    - Lesson 6
    - Lesson 7
- Free Astrology Software

Click below to select the info about magick, which you like to learn about:
catalog, broadcasts, online showroom, forum, customer support,
magic contacts
Introduction/Home
magick and structural links magick_facts: About life force technology
Understanding magick and AAD Life energy bridges any distance magick_facts:
Magick and radionics
Basic characteristics of Chi energy Magick Facts: About Magick and Radionics™
Power Magick™: How you can Use it!
Life energytech past and present magick facts: Importance of Trend and Target More about power magick
The scientific approach to magick magick facts: importance of life force Free

Transfer Test of Life Energy
important characteristics of magick magick_facts: More about life force Free Course, Books, Manuals
Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magick of the Future
Rune magick

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagick

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The links below lead you to many applications of this extraordinary new technology of magick, applications, which are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Ogone Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and software. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.

agriculture, plants, lawns break up electrosmog, DOR, gaming management pet care sports artistic inspiration business, office energy geopathic stress marketing politics supplements attachments charisma esp and psychic herbs meditation popularity living water attacks children family intelligence mind control profession weight control balance competition fitness intuition money relationships weight loss body building customers friendship lawsuits music skin care well-being brainwaves defense gambling love NLP speed-learning

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!

A Gigantic Step into the Future !!!

Wilhelm Reich and Franz Anton Mesmer 150 years before Reich invented accumulators of life force, which draw life force from their surroundings. Reich called life force orgone energy, and Mesmer used the word "animal magnetism" for life force.

In 1991, I invented the Orgone Generator®, or Chi Generator®, wich is a device, which generates life force rather than accumulating it, and this naturally was a first in human history! One year later, in 1992, I invented a new material that attracts and accumulates life force, which I called orgonite®, and which is exceedingly more effective than the Reichian alternating layers of organic and metallic material in orgone accumulators.

These inventions certainly marked the beginning of a new era in magickal technology as well as in human history, and this is so, because there is no technology of humankind, where this life force technology cannot make a significant improvement and advancement.

Therefore: WELCOME TO this exciting new technology, which can mean for you the difference between average results and TOTAL SUCCESS !!!

This web site delivers extremely powerful applications of a new method of magickal technology and science.

This certainly is exciting news for all who are practicing magick of any kind, including traditional methods (ceremonial magick, voodoo, shamanism, wicca, santeria, religion-based methods, etc.) as well as more recent methods that are inherently magickal, such as radionics, motivational techniques, self improvement, vision boards, "the secret," affirmations, "law of attraction," and Silva mind control.

You can also safely call this extremely powerful new technology your ultimate unfair advantage! "Unfair," because spiritual training, cult membership and intitation become unnecessary, as far as success of your magickal operations is concerned.

This new technology certainly is extraordinary, because it opens up for you a whole new world of powers for you, powers which will leave you entranced, enlightened, and empowered. You will actually be equipped with what is certainly the most powerful technology of effective "magickal" impact, i.e., impact of your Actions at a Distance !!!

For you, this can well be the first time that learning about a technology will not only be useful, it will be used. It will be a natural step in the right direction of the success that you were striving to achieve all along. In the following, you will find an amazingly powerful new technology to boost your magickal performance, or action at a distance, to the max. It is here that you can probe the deepest secrets, which make possible and maximize the success of your journey to the top.

I am going to lay out this exciting new technology for you so that you can gain immediate evidence, from where you can proceed step by step to an increasingly deeper grasp of its far reaching new magickal applications!

Here you can find an easy and very effective way to help you improve all your results for the future. It is specifically designed to provide you with powerful methods to enhance your performance in all areas of your life, especially those that you feel need to be strengthened. Whatever the line of your work or field of endeavor is, be it business, politics, high performance sports, education, volunteering, spiritual matters, or anything else, this highly effective magickal equipment from HSCTI is designed for a great many uses, while providing you with successful outcome whenever you use it appropriately. Now you certainly can take your destiny into the best possible hands: your own!

With your Chi Generator®, magick is easy, it is exciting, and you certainly can be laid back and relax while you expect assured success!

Magick for Everyone, Results for Everyone!!!
Click here and see the Catalog of Orgone Generators® and Accessories

Understanding Magick, which is Action at a Distance in time and space
Click Here to see my video to understand better the action at a distance

The purpose of Magick is to help you in all your activities to acquire the good things in life: power, wisdom, knowledge, success in business and personal relations, peace of mind, and many more.

I am going to show you here that the use of magick for your success is much easier than you ever have been conditioned in the past to think about and believe. It is an easy to understand technology, which is accessible to every person who has the will and the open mind to do so. Furthermore, I am going to show you that the technology of magick makes use of life force (chi energy, orgone, prana) and structural links (structural connections) to generate specific trends, i.e., to generate inclination, motivation and action towards the goals you have. You can generate such trends for yourself as well as for others. I am going to show you here how this works and how you can use this technology to put you on the road towards your personal success. See also my free course "Magick of the Future!"

Life Energy and Magick
Click Here to see my video about the importance of life force for magic

First let's explore a few basic facts concerning life energy and life energy technology

According to Wilhelm Reich, orgone energy (as he called life force) is a primordial cosmic energy. It is universally present and it can be demonstrated visually, thermically, electroscopically and by means of Geiger-Mueller counters. In the living organism: bio-energy, life energy, Chi energy, personal magnetism, prana. Most people can actually feel this energy without prior training. You can get the evidence of this in our free test: charge water and taste the difference, charge yourself and use the life force for more power of your affirmations, vision boards, magick, and any other method to bring your desires into manifestation.

As far as we can look back in history, humans have been using life force for many purposes. This use of life force was result of practical experience. In fact,

The use of Life Force is a Characteristic of All Living Beings!

It is an obvious fact that a basic characteristic of all living beings (and of life itself) is interaction with the environment. A set of signals (internal or external) pass through various levels of abstraction that eventually lead to some form of action. Typically, a wealth of perceptions are streamlined into fewer abstractions. In humans, this process is generalization. With evolution, the capability of sensory perception increased as did the complexity of abstracion processes and of generalizations.

Some form of life force "technology" can be observed in most animals. A good example are various species of moths and butterflies, which, according to some folks, "smell" the "scent" of a female even when it is miles away. At such huge distances a chemical scent would be thinned out to an extent that there are simply no longer any molecules of the original substance in the small air-samples surrounding the moth. Any high-school kid can calculate that there is virtually no molecule of that scent at a distance of a couple of miles; yet some "scientists of academia" and elsewhere still prattle about the moth "smelling" the other! Perhaps it would be good for those folks to go back to high school and take a course in elemental math! As you will find out soon, this type "ESP" can be explained with ease as a function based on the structural transfer characteristics of life force.
Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magic of the Future
Rune magic

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagic

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The following applications of this extraordinary new technology are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Chi Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and power radionics™ programs. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.

agriculture, plants, lawns
artistic inspiration attachments attacks balance break up business, office charisma
children competition
electrosmog, DOR,
energy
esp and psychic family fitness gaming geopathic stress herbs intelligence intuition management marketing meditation mind control
money pet care politics popularity
profession relationships
sports
supplements living water
weight control
weight loss

body building customers friendship lawsuits music skin care well-being brainwaves defense gambling love NLP speed-learning

Being at the basis of many of the first methods of interacting with an extended environment, as it is practiced by humans, life force naturally became part of humans' religious creeds and therefore also part of religion-based magick. This approach was very similar to the use of fire, the making of metals, and most natural phenomena, which humans back then simply could not explain otherwise. Consequently, the practical application of life force was linked closely to the religion of the culture where it was used. Moreover, whenever certain applications of life force such as magickal operations were successful, such success was mistakenly considered to be proof of the religious belief system of the practitioner, and whenever it did not work for whatever reason ever, the "gods" in control did not want it to work. Oddly enough, even in our otherwise enlightened times there are still traditions out there, whose truly faithful followers claim to be the only true guardians of life force and its many applications. Although they may claim differently, you will find out soon that many "academic" scientists and pop-scientists belong to that same category of humans, whenever you take the time to analyze logically the stuff that they utter. This is so, because most of them were incapable of removing their thinking from the religious ideologies that defined their interaction with the environment originally during their own experience and the many processes and methods of forced-upon education, or brainwashing, when they were kids.

Life Force Technologies of the Past

Click Here to see my video about life force technologies of the past

Human beings have acquired much of their knowledge of the universe and technology as a result of valid mapping (or theories) based on experience that they gained when handling energies that were invisible to their eyes. To handle energies that are not visible is an important characteristic of the human species. Obviously this characteristic is the result of the human capability to abstract. The practice of magick (a form of life force based technology, see the free course "magick of the future") with its theories (usually obscured in religious belief structures), formulas, and rituals is no doubt one of the oldest human ways of handling energy, which is invisible to the eye unless the skill of seeing it is acquired, and of having impact upon the environment and, quite naturally, also on other human beings.

It was this continuous probing into what is beyond the scope of everyday experience, which eventually has led humankind to modern technologies and to modern concepts of space-time (elecrtromagnetic energy - life force - time - gravity). For instance, the knowledge (and speculations) of the laws that govern electromagnetic energies is at the basis of practically all contemporary academic theories of the universe, from descriptions of majestic galaxies all the way to sub atomic physics. Visible light is but a small section of the large spectrum of electromagnetic vibrations. Most of this electromagnetic spectrum is invisible. Analysis of the concepts of visible light and the expansion of these concepts led to knowledge of the electromagnetic energy and its many applications in modern technologies: from power plants to computers and space craft. We can explain most of the phenomena of heat, acoustics, chemical reactions, etc., as being functions of electromagnetic energy.

As I mentioned already previously, there is another energy that humans have worked with for as long as they have roamed this planet. We cannot see it as easily as we can see visible light nor can we feel it as markedly as heat or electricity, yet humans could sense its presence very well and they have learned methods to generate and to direct it and even to see it already eons ago. From this knowledge they developed practices and technologies to help them deal with their inner and outer environments. This energy is life energy! It is everywhere around us just the same way as electromagnetic energy is all around us. In other words, we are living in an ocean of energy of both life force and electromagnetic waves.

Throughout history, life force has received many names. People of ancient India called it Prana. The practices of pranayama and yoga evolved from the knowledge of prana. The ancient Chinese called it Chi. The practices of Tai Chi and Chi Kung developed from this knowledge. The Polynesians called the mysterious life force Mana. They derived from it the practices of Kahuna.

Most religious practices contain elements of releasing and using life force for many purposes, such as dealing with environmental challenges, for healing, and to develop favorable outcomes of human endeavors. Very often, these methods are concealed in religious ceremonials. Naturally the representatives of those religions have a vested interest in keeping the explanations of this energy as being part of their religious belief structures and therefore they consistently oppose any scientific explanation of the methods in which life force is used the same way as they badmouth magick and prosecute people practicing it without it being in their specific religious "clothings." Such approach and the ignorance of their followers naturally guarantees much more financial support from true believers.

Practitioners of Tai Chi and Yoga generated life force within themselves. So did magicians (shamans, conjurers, priests, etc.) of various religious backgrounds. Other methods consisted in building up strong emotional forces in a group (think of those very powerful charismatic church meetings), walking and dancing in circles (also used by many religious groups) and animal sacrifice. The latter is an effective, yet very primitive and crude, form of releasing life force that is practiced by many religious groups. We know of more than 20 passages in the Bible in which the Good Lord tells his followers how to correctly sacrifice animals. In fact, if the animal ends up as a roast, and in fact this method of butchering is a lot more humane than the horrors that are practiced in your friendly neighborhood slaughterhouse, horrors which most people support by purchasing the meat coming from such houses of horror! I personally never could do animal sacrifice ... I simply was "blocked internally."

The Scientific Approach

Click Here to see my video about the scientific approach to life energy and it being the basis of Action at a Distance (AAD) - also known as "magick"

Practitioners in the West used many words for life energy: animal magnetism (Mesmer), Solar ether (Korschelt et al.), Od (Baron Karl von Reichenbach), orgone (Reich), psychic energy (magicians), eloptic energy (Dr. Galen Hieronymus), personal magnetism, and many, many more.

One of the first pioneers of a scientific approach to an understanding of life force was Franz Anton Mesmer, a physician from Stuttgart, Germany, who lived two centuries ago. He studied and practiced medicine in Vienna, the same city where Wilhelm Reich studied under Freud some 150 years later. Eventually Mesmer moved to Paris. He experimented with life force, which he called animal magnetism. In our days, his followers use the word "personal magnetism."

Franz Anton Mesmer´s scientific approach to and understanding of life force led him to the invention of an accumulator of life force!

Franz Anton Mesmer´s accumulator of animal magnetism was a wooden barrel that was filled with iron filings. His patients held on to iron rods that were immersed into the iron filings. Having studied in Vienna with Freud, and his studies included hypnotism, Wilhelm Reich certainly knew the work of Mesmer, of course, whose name appeared as one of the pioneers of hypnosis and liife force in practically all publications and books in German language concerning hypnotism!

More than a century ago, 1897, Korschelt invented a "Solar Ether Radiation Apparatus," which he used for healing purposes. It was in principle a life force accumulator. I have built and tested this rather large (6 ft long) Korschelt device and it worked well. It is used the same way as Wilhelm Reich's orgone shooter and it has very similar effects.

The more recent life force (orgone) accumulator that Wilhelm Reich has designed has alternating layers of organic and metallic matter -- usually wood, celotex, fibre glass or wool and steel wool. This is a significant improvement compared to Mesmer's and Korschelt's devices. Alternating layers increase the capability to accumulate orgone. Reich had people sit inside the accumulator while Mesmer used iron rods to direct the energy outward.

Orgonite® and Orgone Generators®

radionics energy transferI have developed a material that is extremely more effective in accumulating life force (orgone) than the Reichian layered arrangements, and I called it orgonite®. Before that, I have invented and built the first device in human history that actually generates orgone energy (life force), the Chi Generator® (Orgone Generator® or Prana Generator®). I also found out that which magicians and shamans knew all along: namely that life force (orgone) transfers at any distance instantaneously by way of near-identical structures (I called them "structural links"). The test of life force and its effects that you can perform is proof of this fact. Furthermore, in December 1996 I succeeded in sending signals accross the Atlantic from machine to machine (with no human sensor at all), using life force only. As I had expected, no amplifying device was needed for this operation. In fact, I have solved the problem of signal transfer machine-to-machine with life force as a carrier medium several years earlier, when I sent signals "locally" at a distance of a mere 20 miles.

As a natural consequence of the structural transfer capabilities of life force: If you want to energize your body with life energy, you need not to sit inside the large multi-layered contraption of an orgone box, nor need you hold on to iron rods (personally I would prefer that to sitting inside a box). In fact, all you need is a small structural link such as a transfer disk or a physical chi-card® or a chi-card® as wallpaper on your smartphone, which connects you with an orgone generator. With that disk on yourself, it does not matter at all if you are sitting in front of the Chi Generator®, if you are a few miles away, or if you are half around the globe: you get the life force in full power! The structural transfer characteristic of orgone (life force) is also the reason why you can direct life force mentally -- see instructions and practices in the course "Magic of the Future", and you can get direct evicence of this fact by following the instructions of our FREE TEST.

Most humans of our times are unaware of the existence of life force, let alone of the laws of life energy physics governing it. Many of the people who know it and use it, on the other hand, have been indoctrinated with very restrictive, religion-based, views and rules concerning life force.

Characteristics of Life Force

Click Here to see my video about characteristics of life energy

It is obvious by now that life force is a type of energy, as is electricity and time. This means also that, knowing the natural laws, which govern this energy, we can now determine or predict its effects. Furthermore, we can now explain in simple scientific terms why and how magick and all other methods of action at a distance (such as radionics) work. Naturally, this is the basis for many extensive and powerful technologies, such as magick, in which life force is used: technologies whose roots can be traced back to the remote past of human history and whose potential goes way beyond the narrow scope of the more traditional uses of life force, thanks to my invention of the generator of life force, the Orgone Generator®.

Scientists of all ages knew of life force. Recently, starting with Mesmer, they formulated some very basic natural laws that describe life force, chi, or orgone. They realized that there are considerable differences between life force and electromagnetic energy. In some way, both energies can be viewed as being opposite polarities of one and the same basic principle.

Of both forms of energy, human beings perceive only a small fraction with the apparatus of their senses. Both energies pulsate, and that's what these energies have in common.

Very important are the differences between the two energy forms. Energies that belong to the electromagnetic spectrum of light tend to achieve a balance when a higher potential gets in contact with a lower potential. For instance,whenever you bring a hot body in contact with a cold one, a heat exchange occurs until both bodies have the same temperature. Physicists call this process entropy. With Life force, the opposite is the case. When a body of high life force potential comes in contact with a body of lower potential, a process takes place, which we call negative entropy, or reversed entropy. In this process, the stronger potential is drawing energy from the weaker one until saturated, and it becomes stronger.

Still more pronounced is the difference of the space in which both energies act. As we all know, the electromagnetic energies diminish in intensity with the square of the distance from their source. They are totally part of the three-dimensional space of our visual and most kinetic perceptions, which, in fact, are defined by this characteristic of electromagnetic enenrgies. That's why we need amplifiers of considerable strength whenever we want to pick up radio waves from a very distant transmitter, which, in the light of the potentials of life force (bio-energy) physics is a rather clumsy and primitive approach. This principle is valid for the space time continuum of the physicist. People of all ages who used life energies knew of the power of "psychic" links, or identical structures. Once a person, who is working with life energies (such as a shaman, magician, or healer), has a psychic link to the target of his or her operation, he or she can bridge the physical space that separates him or her from the target, no matter how distant it is.

Therefore it is obvious by now that work with life force requires a new model of space-time. This model of space-time, which is based on life force, is essentially different from the EMF-based space-time that the physicist describes, yet it interacts with it. It is a hyper space in which identical or equivalent objects establish so-called warps, or direct contacts. The natural law of action of life energy is simple. It states that DISTANCE IS A RESULT OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCE.

The problem that creationalistically educated "traditional physicists" of the establishment (including most of the folks of the "orgone establishment," i.e., Reichian epigones) and of academia have with life energy lies exactly in these differences. Life energy is mainly generated and used by living beings. For hundreds of years, pranayama, chi gong, and other practices with life energies, stayed outside of so-called hard core science. This is so because up to now there were no machines available that measured or generated life energy. Academia prefers to ignore the fact that millions of people successfully used and use this energy and actually create it with some of the more traditional methods, assumed to be spiritual. Hyper spaces and warps are way beyond the narrow minded conceptions of a typical mentally dried-up academic scientist and big bunk theory creationist.

I have solved this problem. Not only did I develop new instruments that can measure life energies, but also the first instruments in human history that generate life energy: the famous CHI GENERATORS®. The first commercially available Chi Generator® was the EDGE Power Generator, or EPG 2000. The EDGE was a machine with truly amazing potential. You can use the Chi Generator® in any application that requires the generating of strong fields of life force.

THE BASIC PRINCIPLE OF "HYPER SPACE" OR LIFE FORCE INCLUDING MATHEMATICS AND TECHNOLOGIES: DISTANCE IS A FUNCTION OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCES. WHAT TYPE DIFFERENCE IS A CHARACTERISTIC OF THE ENERGY FORM.

the magickal orgone shooter

The CEG 1000
is an orgone generator®, built as a shooter, and as such it is ideal for any type of magickal work. For instance, you can point it at your magickal setup of magickal operations - "the magickal altar" as some call it. Boost the power of the CEG 1000 to the max, even to the extreme, by connecting it with two Chi Generators®! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - You can also video call us for a demo! In addition to its capability to project life force to persons, animals, etc., to which you point it, the CEG 1000 is also great to optimize water or food at a distance and charging food, beverages or water with magickal properties!

Magick for agriculture, plants, lawns

Magick to boost artistic inspiration

Get rid of unwanted attachments, demonic forces, spells

About magickal attacks

precision frequency orgone generator for magick

The PFC 2000
is an orgone generator® (Chi generator®), with which you can set the life force (chi energy, orgone) to precision frequencies of your choice. As you know, specific frequencies are at the basis of well-defined modes of interaction with the environment: from somnambulistic-hypnotic states, deep meditation, all the way to persistence, stamina, precision, aggression in sports, charisma, planetary energies, etc. Check out the frequency list in the manual, which you can find in www.akor.cc. The PFC 2000 is Middle of the Line Power, and it works great in combination with the CEG 1000 or the CEG 2400! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - Click here to order within the US

use Magick to achieve balance

brainwaves and Magick

break up bad relationships with the help of magick

Magick to enhance business, to generate a productive office atmosphere

Show more charisma, be outgoing with the help of radionics

How to help winning in competitions

magickally draw customers

defense against magickal attacks

Magick and Radionics have a CFP (Common Functional Principle), and this is "permanentization" of intent or trend energies
The difference is in the type structural link. The Magician uses physical structural links, such as incenses, symbols, hair and finger nails, while the radionics operator uses settings of the dials to establish linkage to trend energies or to targets of the operation. Precise frequency settings (PFC 2000 and 2400, Performer, RAD 5 and ATG 12 too can be understood "radionically." Click here and get additional info about the "magick of radionics" - You can also video call us for a demo!

Counteract electrosmog, DOR,

more energy with the help of magick

Magick to help develop esp and psychic skills

starter device for magickal radionics

The RAD 1000
is an great starter orgone generator® with built-in radionics capability. Click here and get additional info about this amazing startup orgone radionics machine Click here to order within the US-

The magick of friendship

A magickal approach to gambling

herbs, magick and orgone technology

magickal radionics heavy duty

The RAD 2400 HD
is the most popular orgone generator® with radionics capability. It is heavy duty. Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful chi boosted radionics machineClick here to order within the US

intelligence and intuition

How to use magick in lawsuits

Magick and love

ideal machine for power performance

The Performer
An HD orgone generator®, combining radionics, precision frequencies, affirmation input and a great selection of 12 pre-set frequencies for performance -
It is Super Heavy Duty, twice the power of the RAD 2400 HD! Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful machine to boost magickal performance on all levelsClick here to order within the US - You can also video call us for a demo!

The magick in marketing

Use magick to block mind control

Magick and money

rad 5 magick radionics machine

The RAD 5
Very popular top of the line orgone generator®, combining radionics and precision frequencies on five positions, which are ideal for very effective magickal work: Basic action, trend, trend in the environment, target and alternate target. Great for complex spell work as well as protection - and all simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the RAD 5 and its use for very powerful magickal work on all levels Click here to order within the US You can also video call us for a demo!

musical creativity and success with the help of magick

Magickal work in politics

popularity with the help of magick

magickal astrology machine

The ATG 12
Top of the line Device with 12 orgone generators® in the ring, ideal to set up any astrological trend energy that you desire. This is the top of the line "astrological greenhouse" in which astrological settings help decisively in achieving the desired outcome of your magickal operations. Also it's excellent for complex spell work on multiple targets as well as protection - and all this you can do simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the ATG 12 and its use for very powerful astro-magickal work on all levels - You can also video call us for a demo!

Help your profession and career

How to help relationships with magick

all about speed-learning

You can use magick in sports

boost supplements

living water

weight control

weight loss

well-being
Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog
Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells
Talisman Magick Course

Rune Ceremonials

Magick and Structural Links
Click Here to see my video

Magickal practice became possible as a result of the characteristic of life force to transfer at any EMF-defined distance. As you can find out in the course "Magick of the Future" (free course on the net), traditional magickal methods of every kind are technologies that require life force to function, and so do all methods related to it that evolved recently, such as treasure mapping, creative visualization, radionics, vision boards (same as the older "treasure mapping" from which it was derived and then promoted with a different label), etc. In other words, the practitioner who is aware of the basic function of life force (chi, orgone) and of its laws can harness it systematically and consciously in order to achieve the envisioned success faster and more reliably.

Therefore Life-Force-Boosted Magick is a technology that is based on exact science with precisely formulated principles such as intents, which are transferred into permanent "thought forms."

In the course "Magick of the Future" you can learn the principles of this science and you will find out that there is a common functioning principle (CFP) to all methods of action at a distance that we can label as "magickal," including the more recent ones, namely that all these methods are based on the use of Life Force (orgone, chi energy, prana, etc.) and Structural Links.

What are Structural Links?

Structural Links are established by objects (= structures) that are either identical (see the test below) or equivalent (such as magickal sigils, radionic rates, Reiki symbols, and other things representing abstractions) in nature. Identical or equivalent structures allow life force transfers in an EMF-defined universe (distance defined by EMF - Electro Magnetic Frequencies) from one point to another without significant loss of energy.

Yes, you did read correctly:

With the help of near-identical or equivalent structural links life force can be transferred at any distance without much loss of energy!

Yes!!! You can get the evidence if this By Now: Click Here and Test the Transfer of Life Force at any Distance, charge yourself, charge water and use it for your magick and other methods of manifestation, action at a distance, remote viewing, etc.! This is a FREE Test !!!

This exciting test most certainly will be a surprise for you!

Before you continue to gain a deeper understanding of this amazing new technology of Chi-Generator®-boosted Power Magick and its many uses, perform this experiment. This certainly will provide you with the evidence that you wanted !!! Feel free to contact us
on skype (Skype Link: chitechnology),
by chat, email or in the online showroom.

Life Force Bridges any Distance!
Click Here to see my video

The following test most certainly can be the greatest surprise in a lifetime, even when you are well versed in methods of magick, radionics, or similar methods of impact at a distance!

I am certain that you have heard of spells that follow people half around the globe ... usually resulting from some form of magick that they think they cannot escape, no matter how hard they try. Quite often the story goes that a skilled conjurer, shaman, or magician of their hometown had something in mind for them ... for good or for bad. The bad stories, of course, are a lot more popular "news" than all the good that such folks are performing.

How is such powerful work done?
In other words ...

You want to know how this powerful magick works...
You want to understand how it is possible that spells can follow people for decades, even if they are thousands of miles away...
You want to know it, because ...
You want the power to meet all your challenges, to solve all problems, and to be a total success in all matters!!!

Most importantly, now you can experience how our amazing technology can do it all for you! Now you can actually gain deep insights into the working of life force! You will find out that life force is the source of power of all radionics, ESP, and magickal work. Therefore, you are about to penetrate one of the most ancient of secrets ... something that people with vested interests (greed) wanted to keep a "secret" and capable people simply are "gifted" or they are capable because they had joined some cult! This seems very similar to claiming that your refrigertator can only work when you join some "coolnessology" cult. What follows now is the rare opportunity for you to have an eye-opening look into the workshop of the most powerful magicians, conjurers, and shamans.

Find out for yourself by now! Click here and perform the FREE, easy and truly amazing test !!! This easy-to-do test will certainly help you make decisions that can put you well on the way to positively change and greatly improve your life for the better !!!

As I said previously (later I am going to show you why), life force is the subtle energy, or psychic power, which is used in all known methods of magick, spiritual-religious work and miracles, treasure mapping, self-motivation, vision boards, affirmations, shamanic practice and any other psychic work, and, as you certainly know by now, there is a scientific explanation for all of these practices that work.

You can feel life force emanating from the printed diagram (some people even feel it off the screen!), because an identical diagram is in front of one of the Chi Generators® in our laboratories. That's extremely simple!!!

This experiment shows that you can use technology to harness and direct Life Force !!! It is technology, which is extremely easy to understand.

I suggest that you perform a few additional tests with life force: First, hold your hand above the chi card®, then above any other surface that is at least at a distance of 16 inches from the diagram. Notice the difference!

As is the case with all experiments of this kind, it is important that you perform it in a relaxed state of mind. If the main focus of your attention is tied up to other important or urgent situations, and especially if you are not relaxed, it may be a bit challenging to feel subtle energies ... similar as you cannot read easily when distracted otherwise.

Using this exciting new technology, the devices from HSCTI (Hyper Space Communications and Technologies International) generate and project life force (orgone) that you can harness for your overall success!

The Proof

This extraordinary test proves to you first hand that which sensitive and powerful persons of all ages (among them tai chi masters, reiki masters, yogis, shamans, conjurers, magicians, and priests performing spiritual work) knew all along: namely that life force (chi, prana, mana, etc... every culture and language has its own name for the same energy) transfers at any distance. Moreover, it does so without loss of energy. All that's needed is the right structural link (some professionals prefer to call it "psychic link") to establish contact! This fact makes their magick possible, even easy! In fact, it is so easy that everybody is now capable of working their magick!

This has been one of the reasons why many of these professionals decided to guard their powerful secrets like precious gems, making them available only to a few hand picked people! Under no circumstances did they want to lose their lucrative sources of income.

The Conclusion

You have just experienced one of the most guarded secrets of all ages, namely the transfer of life force ("magickal energy" or "psychic energy") at any distance!!! More importantly: you have just realized that many secrets of ancient cultures are technology, which is yours to use !!! You have just experienced that the effects of any type of magick or spiritual work, such as changing your life for the better, can be achieved by you easily with the help of our powerful technology!!!

By now it is obvious that this new technology can give everybody access to the power of these secrets because…

It is powerful technology in your hands … for lasting success and for positive permanent change !!!

magickal ritual Click Here to Continue (find out how magick works - magick facts)
Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog

Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells
Talisman Magick Course

Rune Ceremonials

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!
Yes!   You can make good money promoting this exciting new technology !!!

Catalog

Contact

© 1996, 2010, by Karl Hans Welz - click here for legal information, disclaimers and trademark information

This is the Site of Karl Hans Welz, the Inventor of the Orgone Generator®, Orgonite® and Magick powered by Orgone Generators®

Magick is Technology, which is applied science of life force, plain and simple, and on this site you are going to find out why this is so, and what's even much more important: Magick is extremely easy to master, and this means that you certainly can be a master of this exciting powerful technology very soon: a technology, which helps you to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires !!!
To download a free pdf of karl hans welz's magick of the future course or the alphabet of desire digital filter pack check out the Life Manifestations Stan Store

Catalog   Chat with us email

Now - what do you think is magick? - is it spiritual? is it metaphysical? is it religion? is it rooted in faith? is it "higher knowledge?"   Is it something, for which to master you need to be a life long slave of some secret lodge, sacred coven   or other cult setup? ... or does it have to do with these very nice modern fairy tales of Harry Potter or the Lord of the Rings?   Quite naturally, like in traditional fairy tales and mythologies as well as in those "modern" fairy tales, the very effective assumption persists that only a few "gifted" people are capable of performing this art of magick, while all others happily are following the rules of their enslavement by the society to which they belong: Caught for life within the mechanisms of socio-economic-sexual repression.

If you're located within the US click here to order by paypal

You can order a digital download of filter packs for $50.00 by clicking here
In fact, the basis of magick is a skill, which is as natural as walking, seeing, hearing and talking, and therefore almost all of us have this skill naturally - we were born with these skills, and, because of vested interests of ruthless folks in power, humans are systematically "educated out of it," and that happens at a very early age, of course!
Consequently, this skill of magick is extremely easy to master, i.e., to re-acquire, in a few weeks rather than in many months, years or decades.
Advanced and effective magick then is technology, plain and simple, and this technology is based on the science - or physics - of life force, the energy of life - Chi, prana, orgone, od, mana, or whatever other label you want to use for this universal energy!   As is the case with any technology, any person willing to do so can have access to it.   In fact, it is extremely easy for you to set up magickal operations !!!
Click Here and you can get the evidence of what you just found out right now, and, what's still much more important, this is experience for you, plain and simple: direct experience, which is worth more than a thousand words !!!
Because magick is so easy to master and at the same time it has been used to control large portions of the population throughout history, there have been very strong vested interests by those in control: by people who shamelessly were and still are using it for their own purposes of dominance, and quite naturally they lie about magick, they label it evil, etc., and consequently we have been "educated out of this" and in many "cultures" the word itself has been vilified throughout the ages by control-freaks in power, and this vilification appears in almost all of these fairy-tales, which were hammered into us by way of forced-upon education.   All of this quite naturally is the result of the power of folks and groups of people who have vested interests in keeping this knowledge away from the bulk of the population while using it extensively for their own purposes: purposes which are unethical most of the time ... or, as they attempt to make you believe quite often and routinely ...
"we are doing this for the greatest benefit of all human beings, you included ..., etBS, etBS, etBS ..." !!!
Result of this approach? .... See above, at the beginning of this web site ... !!!

I am certain that you want evidence right now, and YES, you can get this experience now !!!
Perform the free transfer test, and you can do this as well when putting a structural link as a wallpaper onto your smartphone.   Simply go into www.chitec.us for a FREE TEST! - read some of the instructions, and you certainly will realize rapidly how easy it is for you to perform this exciting technology of magickal operations having your smartphone as the center of your magickal power: This is so, because the structural link, i.e. the wallpaper on your smartphone, provides you with the life force, which is the energy at the basis of your operations of magick !!!

Simply click here for the FREE TEST and for you this experience of results will be worth more than a thousand words !!!

... and there is something I added December 28, 2015

What is Magick?

Is it a collection of spiritual skills on a basis of one or more of the many quite different religious mythologies?

Or is it a potential beginning of or a gate to brand new technologies on a basis of a scientific understanding of life force and structural links, or can it even be a combination of both sometimes?

After all, collective placebo effects certainly can end up being useful objective realities. Many events in history are proof of this.

When talking about “magick” most people are thinking of it as something esoteric, spiritual, religious and the like, and they are unaware that, in fact, magick is technology, which is based on science: the science of energies in general and the science of life force and its interaction with other energies (such as EMF/space, time, gravity, etc.) in particular: on the "introductory end" the science of action at a distance and perception at a distance as well as many other technologies, which evolved from this approach. For more visit also www.magicofthefuture.com

In fact, in “olden times” thunder and lightening were also thought as being “spiritual” and miraculously produced by “gods of thunder” and so were other things, which later were recognized as very natural phenomena and explained by scientific approaches, and based on such scientific mappings, theories or approaches many new technologies did evolve, some of which we enjoy very much, and of which the people of the past who originally had started the scientific approach had not the slightest idea. In fact, such a type of scientific and technical evolution based on the science of life force happened almost immediately after I could explain scientifically magick and other functions that up to now were - and still are - explained by most people as “divine, spiritual, esoteric, new agey” and what not.

In fact, after having recognized the many phenomena and approaches of life force as applied science that uses natural energies, almost immediately amazing new methods could be developed. Of course this is something that the many popes of esoteric approaches do not like at all and they condemn it as “of the devil” and the like! After all, those folks make money based on their rigid spiritual explanations. The same things happened in the past at the beginning of a scientific understanding of electromagnetism and the like: think of thunder and lightening - and the understanding and technology of electricity came in part from this basis, as did later a lot of electric machineries, all the way to computers, space travel and more.

And now just imagine how far technologies can go as a result of understanding many of those “esoteric functions” of life force, such as, but not limited to, perception at a distance and action at a distance, and from there is just a small step to texting with no need of network or amplifiers, to gravity machines, to teleportals, not just for travelling by way of teleportals, but also to pull “free energy” from powerful sources such as the Sun or drawing minerals directly from asteroids, with no need to physically go there, ... and much much more! These were just a few rather primitive examples of what we can expect, and I am certain there’s stuff out there that I cannot even think about yet: similar as people who in the past started building electric and other power machinery based on scientific understanding could not even think about computers back then, about fun with computer games, about refrigerators, about nuclear energies, about TV and other methods based on this EMF knowledge: technologies and machinery used in our times, some of those already sort of antiquated.

I consider my scientific approach still primitive and I hope it will be obsolete some time: the sooner the better, because this mechanism of "obsoletizing" in fact is the engine of technological and scientific advances!

For first approaches, personal ones, being aware of all of this is sufficient.

Start with known methods and be immediately aware that it is technology. Then very soon you can proceed to much more advanced methods and technologies than many of the “eso-popes” or “spiritual leaders and guides” want you to know and believe in!

- Magick+Chi
  - Introduction
  - Magick+AAD
  - About Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Science + Magick
  - What is Magick?
  - Structural Links
  - Chi acts at any Distance
- Theory
  - Magick + Radionics
  - Target + Trend
  - Magick + Chi
  - More about Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Radionics = Magick
  - Power Magick
  - More Power Magick
- Uses
  - skills
    - artistic inspiration
    - magickal protection
    - people skills
    - intuition
    - intelligence

    - charisma
    - music
    - remote viewing
  - well-being
    - food
    - water
    - supplements
    - energy
  - sports and fitness
    - fitness training
    - weight control
    - sports performance
    - sports competition
  - animals, plants, environment
    - agriculture
    - plants
    - pets
    - animals
  - relations
    - love
    - children
    - friends
    - popularity
  - profession
    - profession
    - convincing speech
    - business
    - politics
    - team work
  - money
    - marketing
    - gambling
    - stock market
    - sales skills
    - money management
- Equipment
  - water optimizers
    - AO 1100
    - AO 2000
  - chi generators
    - JU 99 series
    - JU 1000
    - CEG 1000
    - LPOG 2400 DL
    - PFC 2000
    - LPOG 2400 HD
    - Performer

- RAD 5
- ATG 12
- radionics
  - RAD 1000
  - RAD 2000
  - RAD 2400 HD
  - RAD 5
  - ATG 12
- energy transfers
  - Transfer Couple
  - Transfer Coaster
  - Power Booster
  - Potency Booster
- software
  - basic manifestation
  - super manifestation
  - astro dynamic
  - feng shui plus
  - manifestation ultimate PC+Mac
- Ordering
  - phone, fax
  - paypal
- Contacts
  - contact info
  - customer support
  - Online Showroom
  - email us
  - Online chat
- Broadcasts
- Free Courses
  - Magick of the Future
  - Classic Magick Courses
    - Classic Magick Course
    - Magick Course - Italiano
    - Magick Course Deutsch
    - Magick Course Espanol
  - Autogenic Training
  - Universal consciousness
  - Rune Magick
  - Rune Yoga
  - Rune Readings
  - Astrology Course
  - Free Astrology Software

Click below to join the FREE COURSES of YOUR CHOICE

- Magick Courses
    - Magic of the Future
    - Magick - English
        - Introduction
        - Lesson 1
        - Lesson 2
        - Lesson 3
        - Lesson 4
        - Lesson 5
        - Lesson 6
    - Magie - Deutsch
        - Einführung
        - Erste Lektion
        - Zweite Lektion
        - Dritte Lektion
        - Vierte Lektion
        - Fünfte Lektion
        - Sechste Lektion
    - Magia - Espanol
        - Introduccion
        - Lección 1
        - Lección 2
        - Lección 3
        - Lección 4
        - Lección 5
        - Lección 6
    - Magia - Italiano
        - Introduzione
        - Lezione 1
        - Lezione 2
        - Lezione 3
        - Lezione 4
        - Lezione 5
        - Lezione 6
    - Radionics = Magick
    - Power Magick
    - More Power Magick
- Autogenic Training
    - Introduction
    - Lessons
- Universal Consciousness
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5

  - Lesson 6
- Rune Magick
  - Rune Magic
    - Rune FA
    - Rune UR
    - Rune THORN
    - Rune OS
    - Rune RIT
    - Rune KA
    - Rune HAGAL
    - Rune NOD
    - Rune IS
    - Rune AR
    - Rune SIG
    - Rune TYR
    - Rune BAR
    - Rune LAF
    - Rune MAN
    - Rune YR
    - Rune EH
    - Rune GIBOR
  - Rune Readings
    - Readings 1
    - Readings 2
    - Readings 3
    - Readings 4
    - Readings 5
    - Readings 6
  - Rune Yoga
    - rune yoga 1
    - rune yoga 2
    - rune yoga 3
    - rune yoga 4
    - rune yoga 5
    - rune yoga 6
    - rune yoga 7
    - rune yoga 8
    - rune yoga 9
    - Rune Postures
  - Rune Master Initiation
  - Rune Magic Positions
  - Gorsleben Book
  - Untitled Item
- Talisman Magick
  - Introduction
  - Lesson 1
  - Lesson 2

        - Lesson 3
        - Lesson 4
        - Lesson 5
        - Lesson 6
    - Tarot Spells
        - Introduction
        - Multi-Step-Setup
        - Keltic Cross Setup
        - Eldritch Wizardry
        - Italiano
        - Italiano 2
    - Astrology Course
        - Introduction
        - Lesson 1
        - Lesson 2
        - Lesson 3
        - Lesson 4
        - Lesson 5
        - Lesson 6
        - Lesson 7
    - Free Astrology Software

Click below to select the info about magick, which you like to learn about:
catalog, broadcasts, online showroom, forum, customer support,
magic contacts
Introduction/Home
magick and structural links magick_facts: About life force technology
Understanding magick and AAD Life energy bridges any distance magick_facts: Magick and radionics
Basic characteristics of Chi energy Magick Facts: About Magick and Radionics™
Power Magick™: How you can Use it!
Life energytech past and present magick facts: Importance of Trend and Target More about power magick
The scientific approach to magick magick facts: importance of life force Free Transfer Test of Life Energy important characteristics of magick magick_facts: More about life force Free Course, Books, Manuals
Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magick of the Future
Rune magick

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagick

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The links below lead you to many applications of this extraordinary new technology of magick, applications, which are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Ogone Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and software. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.
agriculture, plants, lawns break up electrosmog, DOR, gaming management pet care sports artistic inspiration business, office energy geopathic stress marketing politics supplements attachments charisma esp and psychic herbs meditation popularity living water attacks children family intelligence mind control profession weight control balance competition fitness intuition money relationships weight loss body building customers friendship lawsuits music skin care well-being brainwaves defense gambling love NLP speed-learning

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!

A Gigantic Step into the Future !!!

Wilhelm Reich and Franz Anton Mesmer 150 years before Reich invented accumulators of life force, which draw life force from their surroundings. Reich called life force orgone energy, and Mesmer used the word "animal magnetism" for life force.

In 1991, I invented the Orgone Generator®, or Chi Generator®, wich is a device, which generates life force rather than accumulating it, and this naturally was a first in human history! One year later, in 1992, I invented a new material that attracts and accumulates life force, which I called orgonite®, and which is exceedingly more effective than the Reichian alternating layers of organic and metallic material in orgone accumulators.

These inventions certainly marked the beginning of a new era in magickal technology as well as in human history, and this is so, because there is no technology of humankind, where this life force technology cannot make a significant improvement and advancement.

Therefore: WELCOME TO this exciting new technology, which can mean for you the difference between average results and TOTAL SUCCESS !!!

This web site delivers extremely powerful applications of a new method of magickal technology and science.

This certainly is exciting news for all who are practicing magick of any kind, including traditional methods (ceremonial magick, voodoo, shamanism, wicca, santeria, religion-based methods, etc.) as well as more recent methods that are inherently magickal, such as radionics, motivational techniques, self improvement, vision boards, "the secret," affirmations, "law of attraction," and Silva mind control.

You can also safely call this extremely powerful new technology your ultimate unfair advantage! "Unfair," because spiritual training, cult membership and intitation become unnecessary, as far as success of your magickal operations is concerned.

This new technology certainly is extraordinary, because it opens up for you a whole new world of powers for you, powers which will leave you entranced, enlightened, and empowered. You will actually be equipped with what is certainly the most powerful technology of effective "magickal" impact, i.e., impact of your Actions at a Distance !!!

For you, this can well be the first time that learning about a technology will not only be useful, it will be used. It will be a natural step in the right direction of the success that you were striving to achieve all along. In the following, you will find an amazingly powerful new technology to boost your magickal performance, or action at a distance, to the max. It is here that you can probe the deepest secrets, which make possible and maximize the success of your journey to the top.

I am going to lay out this exciting new technology for you so that you can gain immediate evidence, from where you can proceed step by step to an increasingly deeper grasp of its far reaching new magickal applications!

Here you can find an easy and very effective way to help you improve all your results for the future. It is specifically designed to provide you with powerful methods to enhance your performance in all areas of your life, especially those that you feel need to be strengthened. Whatever the line of your work or field of endeavor is, be it business, politics, high performance sports, education, volunteering, spiritual matters, or anything else, this highly effective magickal equipment from HSCTI is designed for a great many uses, while providing you with successful outcome whenever you use it appropriately. Now you certainly can take your destiny into the best possible hands: your own!

With your Chi Generator®, magick is easy, it is exciting, and you certainly can be laid back and relax while you expect assured success!

Magick for Everyone, Results for Everyone!!!
Click here and see the Catalog of Orgone Generators® and Accessories

Understanding Magick, which is Action at a Distance in time and space
Click Here to see my video to understand better the action at a distance

The purpose of Magick is to help you in all your activities to acquire the good things in life: power, wisdom, knowledge, success in business and personal relations, peace of mind, and many more.

I am going to show you here that the use of magick for your success is much easier than you ever have been conditioned in the past to think about and believe. It is an easy to understand technology, which is accessible to every person who has the will and the open mind to do so. Furthermore, I am going to show you that the technology of magick makes use of life force (chi energy, orgone, prana) and structural links (structural connections) to generate specific trends, i.e., to generate inclination, motivation and action towards the goals you have. You can generate such trends for yourself as well as for others. I am going to show you here how this works and how you can use this technology to put you on the road towards your personal success. See also my free course "Magick of the Future!"

Life Energy and Magick
Click Here to see my video about the importance of life force for magic

First let's explore a few basic facts concerning life energy and life energy technology

According to Wilhelm Reich, orgone energy (as he called life force) is a primordial cosmic energy. It is universally present and it can be demonstrated visually, thermically, electroscopically and by means of Geiger-Mueller counters. In the living organism: bio-energy, life energy, Chi energy, personal magnetism, prana. Most people can actually feel this energy without prior training. You can get the evidence of this in our free test: charge water and taste the difference, charge yourself and use the life force for more power of your affirmations, vision boards, magick, and any other method to bring your desires into manifestation.

As far as we can look back in history, humans have been using life force for many purposes. This use of life force was result of practical experience. In fact,

The use of Life Force is a Characteristic of All Living Beings!

It is an obvious fact that a basic characteristic of all living beings (and of life itself) is interaction with the environment. A set of signals (internal or external) pass through various levels of abstraction that eventually lead to some form of action. Typically, a wealth of perceptions are streamlined into fewer abstractions. In humans, this process is generalization. With evolution, the capability of sensory perception increased as did the complexity of abstracion processes and of generalizations.

Some form of life force "technology" can be observed in most animals. A good example are various species of moths and butterflies, which, according to some folks, "smell" the "scent" of a female even when it is miles away. At such huge distances a chemical scent would be thinned out to an extent that there are simply no longer any molecules of the original substance in the small air-samples surrounding the moth.

Any high-school kid can calculate that there is virtually no molecule of that scent at a distance of a couple of miles; yet some "scientists of academia" and elsewhere still prattle about the moth "smelling" the other! Perhaps it would be good for those folks to go back to high school and take a course in elemental math! As you will find out soon, this type "ESP" can be explained with ease as a function based on the structural transfer characteristics of life force.

Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magic of the Future
Rune magic

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagic

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The following applications of this extraordinary new technology are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Chi Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and power radionics™ programs. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.

agriculture, plants, lawns
artistic inspiration attachments attacks balance body building brainwaves break up business, office charisma
children competition customers defense
electrosmog, DOR,
energy
esp and psychic family fitness friendship gambling gaming geopathic stress herbs intelligence intuition lawsuits love management marketing
meditation mind control money
music
NLP
pet care politics popularity
profession relationships skin care speed-learning
sports
supplements living water
weight control weight loss
well-being

Being at the basis of many of the first methods of interacting with an extended environment, as it is practiced by humans, life force naturally became part of humans' religious creeds and therefore also part of religion-based magick. This approach was very similar to the use of fire, the making of metals, and most natural phenomena, which humans back then simply could not explain otherwise. Consequently, the practical application of life force was linked closely to the religion of the culture where it was used. Moreover, whenever certain applications of life force such as magickal operations were successful, such success was mistakenly considered to be proof of the religious belief system of the practitioner, and whenever it did not work for whatever reason ever, the "gods" in control did not want it to work. Oddly enough, even in our otherwise enlightened times there are still traditions out there, whose truly faithful followers claim to be the only true guardians of life force and its many applications. Although they may claim differently, you will find out soon that many "academic" scientists and pop-scientists belong to that same category of humans, whenever you take the time to analyze logically the stuff that they utter. This is so, because most of them were incapable of removing their thinking from the religious ideologies that defined their interaction with the environment originally during their own experience and the many processes and methods of forced-upon education, or brainwashing, when they were kids.

Life Force Technologies of the Past

Click Here to see my video about life force technologies of the past

Human beings have acquired much of their knowledge of the universe and technology as a result of valid mapping (or theories) based on experience that they gained when handling energies that were invisible to their eyes. To handle energies that are not visible is an important characteristic of the human species. Obviously this characteristic is the result of the human capability to abstract. The practice of magick (a form of life force based technology, see the free course "magick of the future") with its theories (usually obscured in religious belief structures), formulas, and rituals is no doubt one of the oldest human ways of handling energy, which is invisible to the eye unless the skill of seeing it is acquired, and of having impact upon the environment and, quite naturally, also on other human beings.

It was this continuous probing into what is beyond the scope of everyday experience, which eventually has led humankind to modern technologies and to modern concepts of space-time (elecrtromagnetic energy - life force - time - gravity). For instance, the knowledge (and speculations) of the laws that govern electromagnetic energies is at the basis of practically all contemporary academic theories of the universe, from descriptions of majestic galaxies all the way to sub atomic physics. Visible light is but a small section of the large spectrum of electromagnetic vibrations. Most of this electromagnetic spectrum is invisible. Analysis of the concepts of visible light and the expansion of these concepts led to knowledge of the electromagnetic energy and its many applications in modern technologies: from power plants to computers and space craft. We can explain most of the phenomena of heat, acoustics, chemical reactions, etc., as being functions of electromagnetic energy.

As I mentioned already previously, there is another energy that humans have worked with for as long as they have roamed this planet. We cannot see it as easily as we can see visible light nor can we feel it as markedly as heat or electricity, yet humans could sense its presence very well and they have learned methods to generate and to direct it and even to see it already eons ago. From this knowledge they developed practices and technologies to help them deal with their inner and outer environments. This energy is life energy! It is everywhere around us just the same way as electromagnetic energy is all around us. In other words, we are living in an ocean of energy of both life force and electromagnetic waves.

Throughout history, life force has received many names. People of ancient India called it Prana. The practices of pranayama and yoga evolved from the knowledge of prana. The ancient Chinese called it Chi. The practices of Tai Chi and Chi Kung developed from this knowledge. The Polynesians called the mysterious life force Mana. They derived from it the practices of Kahuna.

Most religious practices contain elements of releasing and using life force for many purposes, such as dealing with environmental challenges, for healing, and to develop favorable outcomes of human endeavors. Very often, these methods are concealed in religious ceremonials. Naturally the representatives of those religions have a vested interest in keeping the explanations of this energy as being part of their religious belief structures and therefore they consistently oppose any scientific explanation of the methods in which life force is used the same way as they badmouth magick and prosecute people practicing it without it being in their specific religious "clothings." Such approach and the ignorance of their followers naturally guarantees much more financial support from true believers.

Practitioners of Tai Chi and Yoga generated life force within themselves. So did magicians (shamans, conjurers, priests, etc.) of various religious backgrounds. Other methods consisted in building up strong emotional forces in a group (think of those very powerful charismatic church meetings), walking and dancing in circles (also used by many religious groups) and animal sacrifice. The latter is an effective, yet very primitive and crude, form of releasing life force that is practiced by many religious groups. We know of more than 20 passages in the Bible in which the Good Lord tells his followers how to correctly sacrifice animals. In fact, if the animal ends up as a roast, and in fact this method of butchering is a lot more humane than the horrors that are practiced in your friendly neighborhood slaughterhouse, horrors which most people support by purchasing the meat coming from such houses of horror! I personally never could do animal sacrifice ... I simply was "blocked internally."

The Scientific Approach

Click Here to see my video about the scientific approach to life energy and it being the basis of Action at a Distance (AAD) - also known as "magick"

Practitioners in the West used many words for life energy: animal magnetism (Mesmer), Solar ether (Korschelt et al.), Od (Baron Karl von Reichenbach), orgone (Reich), psychic energy (magicians), eloptic energy (Dr. Galen Hieronymus), personal magnetism, and many, many more.

One of the first pioneers of a scientific approach to an understanding of life force was Franz Anton Mesmer, a physician from Stuttgart, Germany, who lived two centuries ago. He studied and practiced medicine in Vienna, the same city where Wilhelm Reich studied under Freud some 150 years later. Eventually Mesmer moved to Paris. He experimented with life force, which he called animal magnetism. In our days, his followers use the word "personal magnetism."

Franz Anton Mesmer´s scientific approach to and understanding of life force led him to the invention of an accumulator of life force!

Franz Anton Mesmer´s accumulator of animal magnetism was a wooden barrel that was filled with iron filings. His patients held on to iron rods that were immersed into the iron filings. Having studied in Vienna with Freud, and his studies included hypnotism, Wilhelm Reich certainly knew the work of Mesmer, of course, whose name appeared as one of the pioneers of hypnosis and liife force in practically all publications and books in German language concerning hypnotism!

More than a century ago, 1897, Korschelt invented a "Solar Ether Radiation Apparatus," which he used for healing purposes. It was in principle a life force accumulator. I have built and tested this rather large (6 ft long) Korschelt device and it worked well. It is used the same way as Wilhelm Reich's orgone shooter and it has very similar effects.

The more recent life force (orgone) accumulator that Wilhelm Reich has designed has alternating layers of organic and metallic matter -- usually wood, celotex, fibre glass or wool and steel wool. This is a significant improvement compared to Mesmer's and Korschelt's devices. Alternating layers increase the capability to accumulate orgone. Reich had people sit inside the accumulator while Mesmer used iron rods to direct the energy outward.

Orgonite® and Orgone Generators®

radionics energy transferI have developed a material that is extremely more effective in accumulating life force (orgone) than the Reichian layered arrangements, and I called it orgonite®. Before that, I have invented and built the first device in human history that actually generates orgone energy (life force), the Chi Generator® (Orgone Generator® or Prana Generator®). I also found out that which magicians and shamans knew all along: namely that life force (orgone) transfers at any distance instantaneously by way of near-identical structures (I called them "structural links"). The test of life force and its effects that you can perform is proof of this fact. Furthermore, in December 1996 I succeeded in sending signals accross the Atlantic from machine to machine (with no human sensor at all), using life force only. As I had expected, no amplifying device was needed for this operation. In fact, I have solved the problem of signal transfer machine-to-machine with life force as a carrier medium several years earlier, when I sent signals "locally" at a distance of a mere 20 miles.

As a natural consequence of the structural transfer capabilities of life force: If you want to energize your body with life energy, you need not to sit inside the large multi-layered contraption of an orgone box, nor need you hold on to iron rods (personally I would prefer that to sitting inside a box). In fact, all you need is a small structural link such as a transfer disk or a physical chi-card® or a chi-card® as wallpaper on your smartphone, which connects you with an orgone generator. With that disk on yourself, it does not matter at all if you are sitting in front of the Chi Generator®, if you are a few miles away, or if you are half around the globe: you get the life force in full power! The structural transfer characteristic of orgone (life force) is also the reason why you can direct life force mentally -- see instructions and practices in the course "Magic of the Future", and you can get direct evicence of this fact by following the instructions of our FREE TEST.

Most humans of our times are unaware of the existence of life force, let alone of the laws of life energy physics governing it. Many of the people who know it and use it, on the other hand, have been indoctrinated with very restrictive, religion-based, views and rules concerning life force.

Characteristics of Life Force
Click Here to see my video about characteristics of life energy

It is obvious by now that life force is a type of energy, as is electricity and time. This means also that, knowing the natural laws, which govern this energy, we can now determine or predict its effects. Furthermore, we can now explain in simple scientific terms why and how magick and all other methods of action at a distance (such as radionics) work. Naturally, this is the basis for many extensive and powerful technologies, such as magick, in which life force is used: technologies whose roots can be traced back to the remote past of human history and whose potential goes way beyond the narrow scope of the more traditional uses of life force, thanks to my invention of the generator of life force, the Orgone Generator®.

Scientists of all ages knew of life force. Recently, starting with Mesmer, they formulated some very basic natural laws that describe life force, chi, or orgone. They realized that there are considerable differences between life force and electromagnetic energy. In some way, both energies can be viewed as being opposite polarities of one and the same basic principle.

Of both forms of energy, human beings perceive only a small fraction with the apparatus of their senses. Both energies pulsate, and that's what these energies have in common.

Very important are the differences between the two energy forms. Energies that belong to the electromagnetic spectrum of light tend to achieve a balance when a higher potential gets in contact with a lower potential. For instance,whenever you bring a hot body in contact with a cold one, a heat exchange occurs until both bodies have the same temperature. Physicists call this process entropy. With Life force, the opposite is the case. When a body of high life force potential comes in contact with a body of lower potential, a process takes place, which we call negative entropy, or reversed entropy. In this process, the stronger potential is drawing energy from the weaker one until saturated, and it becomes stronger.

Still more pronounced is the difference of the space in which both energies act. As we all know, the electromagnetic energies diminish in intensity with the square of the distance from their source. They are totally part of the three-dimensional space of our visual and most kinetic perceptions, which, in fact, are defined by this characteristic of electromagnetic enenrgies. That's why we need amplifiers of considerable strength whenever we want to pick up radio waves from a very distant transmitter, which, in the light of the potentials of life force (bio-energy) physics is a rather clumsy and primitive approach. This principle is valid for the space time continuum of the physicist. People of all ages who used life energies knew of the power of "psychic" links, or identical structures. Once a person, who is working with life energies (such as a shaman, magician, or healer), has a psychic link to the target of his or her operation, he or she can bridge the physical space that separates him or her from the target, no matter how distant it is.

Therefore it is obvious by now that work with life force requires a new model of space-time. This model of space-time, which is based on life force, is essentially different from the EMF-based space-time that the physicist describes, yet it interacts with it. It is a hyper space in which identical or equivalent objects establish so-called warps, or direct contacts. The natural law of action of life energy is simple. It states that DISTANCE IS A RESULT OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCE.

The problem that creationalistically educated "traditional physicists" of the establishment (including most of the folks of the "orgone establishment," i.e., Reichian epigones) and of academia have with life energy lies exactly in these differences. Life energy is mainly generated and used by living beings. For hundreds of years, pranayama, chi gong, and other practices with life energies, stayed outside of so-called hard core science. This is so because up to now there were no machines available that measured or generated life energy. Academia prefers to ignore the fact that millions of people successfully used and use this energy and actually create it with some of the more traditional methods, assumed to be spiritual. Hyper spaces and warps are way beyond the narrow minded conceptions of a typical mentally dried-up academic scientist and big bunk theory creationist.

I have solved this problem. Not only did I develop new instruments that can measure life energies, but also the first instruments in human history that generate life energy: the famous CHI GENERATORS®. The first commercially available Chi Generator® was the EDGE Power Generator, or EPG 2000. The EDGE was a machine with truly amazing potential. You can use the Chi Generator® in any application that requires the generating of strong fields of life force.

THE BASIC PRINCIPLE OF "HYPER SPACE" OR LIFE FORCE INCLUDING MATHEMATICS AND TECHNOLOGIES: DISTANCE IS A FUNCTION OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCES. WHAT TYPE DIFFERENCE IS A CHARACTERISTIC OF THE ENERGY FORM.

the magickal orgone shooter

The CEG 1000
is an orgone generator®, built as a shooter, and as such it is ideal for any type of magickal work. For instance, you can point it at your magickal setup of magickal operations - "the magickal altar" as some call it. Boost the power of the CEG 1000 to the max, even to the extreme, by connecting it with two Chi Generators®! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - You can also video call us for a demo! In addition to its capability to project life force to persons, animals, etc., to which you point it, the CEG 1000 is also great to optimize water or food at a distance and charging food, beverages or water with magickal properties!

Magick for agriculture, plants, lawns

Magick to boost artistic inspiration

Get rid of unwanted attachments, demonic forces, spells

About magickal attacks

precision frequency orgone generator for magick

The PFC 2000
is an orgone generator® (Chi generator®), with which you can set the life force (chi energy, orgone) to precision frequencies of your choice. As you know, specific frequencies are at the basis of well-defined modes of interaction with the environment: from somnambulistic-hypnotic states, deep meditation, all the way to persistence, stamina, precision, aggression in sports, charisma, planetary energies, etc. Check out the frequency list in the manual, which you can find in www.akor.cc. The PFC 2000 is Middle of the Line Power, and it works great in combination with the CEG 1000 or the CEG 2400! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - Click here to order within the US

use Magick to achieve balance

brainwaves and Magick

break up bad relationships with the help of magick

Magick to enhance business, to generate a productive office atmosphere

Show more charisma, be outgoing with the help of radionics

How to help winning in competitions

magickally draw customers

defense against magickal attacks

Magick and Radionics have a CFP (Common Functional Principle), and this is "permanentization" of intent or trend energies
The difference is in the type structural link. The Magician uses physical structural links, such as incenses, symbols, hair and finger nails, while the radionics operator uses settings of the dials to establish linkage to trend energies or to targets of the operation. Precise frequency settings (PFC 2000 and 2400, Performer, RAD 5 and ATG 12 too can be understood "radionically." Click here and get additional info about the "magick of radionics" - You can also video call us for a demo!

Counteract electrosmog, DOR,

more energy with the help of magick

Magick to help develop esp and psychic skills

starter device for magickal radionics

The RAD 1000
is an great starter orgone generator® with built-in radionics capability. Click here and get additional info about this amazing startup orgone radionics machine Click here to order within the US-

The magick of friendship

A magickal approach to gambling

herbs, magick and orgone technology

magickal radionics heavy duty

The RAD 2400 HD
is the most popular orgone generator® with radionics capability. It is heavy duty. Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful chi boosted radionics machineClick here to order within the US

intelligence and intuition

How to use magick in lawsuits

Magick and love

ideal machine for power performance

The Performer
An HD orgone generator®, combining radionics, precision frequencies, affirmation input and a great selection of 12 pre-set frequencies for performance -
It is Super Heavy Duty, twice the power of the RAD 2400 HD! Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful machine to boost magickal performance on all levelsClick here to order within the US - You can also video call us for a demo!

The magick in marketing

Use magick to block mind control

Magick and money

rad 5 magick radionics machine

The RAD 5
Very popular top of the line orgone generator®, combining radionics and precision frequencies on five positions, which are ideal for very effective magickal work: Basic action, trend, trend in the environment, target and alternate target. Great for complex spell work as well as protection - and all simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the RAD 5 and its use for very powerful magickal work on all levels Click here to order within the US You can also video call us for a demo!

musical creativity and success with the help of magick

Magickal work in politics

popularity with the help of magick

magickal astrology machine

The ATG 12
Top of the line Device with 12 orgone generators® in the ring, ideal to set up any astrological trend energy that you desire. This is the top of the line "astrological greenhouse" in which astrological settings help decisively in achieving the desired outcome of your magickal operations. Also it's excellent for complex spell work on multiple targets as well as protection - and all this you can do simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the ATG 12 and its use for very powerful astro-magickal work on all levels - You can also video call us for a demo!

Help your profession and career

How to help relationships with magick

all about speed-learning

You can use magick in sports

boost supplements

living water

weight control

weight loss

well-being
Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog
Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells
Talisman Magick Course

Rune Ceremonials

Magick and Structural Links
Click Here to see my video

Magickal practice became possible as a result of the characteristic of life force to transfer at any EMF-defined distance. As you can find out in the course "Magick of the Future" (free course on the net), traditional magickal methods of every kind are technologies that require life force to function, and so do all methods related to it that evolved recently, such as treasure mapping, creative visualization, radionics, vision boards (same as the older "treasure mapping" from which it was derived and then promoted with a different label), etc. In other words, the practitioner who is aware of the basic function of life force (chi, orgone) and of its laws can harness it systematically and consciously in order to achieve the envisioned success faster and more reliably.

Therefore Life-Force-Boosted Magick is a technology that is based on exact science with precisely formulated principles such as intents, which are transferred into permanent "thought forms."

In the course "Magick of the Future" you can learn the principles of this science and you will find out that there is a common functioning principle (CFP) to all methods of action at a distance that we can label as "magickal," including the more recent ones, namely that all these methods are based on the use of Life Force (orgone, chi energy, prana, etc.) and Structural Links.

What are Structural Links?

Structural Links are established by objects (= structures) that are either identical (see the test below) or equivalent (such as magickal sigils, radionic rates, Reiki symbols, and other things representing abstractions) in nature. Identical or equivalent structures allow life force transfers in an EMF-defined universe (distance defined by EMF - Electro Magnetic Frequencies) from one point to another without significant loss of energy.

Yes, you did read correctly:

With the help of near-identical or equivalent structural links life force can be transferred at any distance without much loss of energy!

Yes!!! You can get the evidence if this By Now: Click Here and Test the Transfer of Life Force at any Distance, charge yourself, charge water and use it for your magick and other methods of manifestation, action at a distance, remote viewing, etc.! This is a FREE Test !!!

This exciting test most certainly will be a surprise for you!

Before you continue to gain a deeper understanding of this amazing new technology of Chi-Generator®-boosted Power Magick and its many uses, perform this experiment. This certainly will provide you with the evidence that you wanted !!! Feel free to contact us
on skype (Skype Link: chitechnology),
by chat, email or in the online showroom.

Life Force Bridges any Distance!
Click Here to see my video

The following test most certainly can be the greatest surprise in a lifetime, even when you are well versed in methods of magick, radionics, or similar methods of impact at a distance!

I am certain that you have heard of spells that follow people half around the globe ... usually resulting from some form of magick that they think they cannot escape, no matter how hard they try. Quite often the story goes that a skilled conjurer, shaman, or magician of their hometown had something in mind for them ... for good or for bad. The bad stories, of course, are a lot more popular "news" than all the good that such folks are performing.

How is such powerful work done?
In other words ...

> You want to know how this powerful magick works...
> You want to understand how it is possible that spells can follow people for decades, even if they are thousands of miles away...

You want to know it, because ...
You want the power to meet all your challenges, to solve all problems, and to be a total success in all matters!!!

Most importantly, now you can experience how our amazing technology can do it all for you! Now you can actually gain deep insights into the working of life force! You will find out that life force is the source of power of all radionics, ESP, and magickal work. Therefore, you are about to penetrate one of the most ancient of secrets ... something that people with vested interests (greed) wanted to keep a "secret" and capable people simply are "gifted" or they are capable because they had joined some cult! This seems very similar to claiming that your refrigertator can only work when you join some "coolnessology" cult. What follows now is the rare opportunity for you to have an eye-opening look into the workshop of the most powerful magicians, conjurers, and shamans.

Find out for yourself by now! Click here and perform the FREE, easy and truly amazing test !!! This easy-to-do test will certainly help you make decisions that can put you well on the way to positively change and greatly improve your life for the better !!!

As I said previously (later I am going to show you why), life force is the subtle energy, or psychic power, which is used in all known methods of magick, spiritual-religious work and miracles, treasure mapping, self-motivation, vision boards, affirmations, shamanic practice and any other psychic work, and, as you certainly know by now, there is a scientific explanation for all of these practices that work.

You can feel life force emanating from the printed diagram (some people even feel it off the screen!), because an identical diagram is in front of one of the Chi Generators® in our laboratories. That's extremely simple!!!

This experiment shows that you can use technology to harness and direct Life Force !!! It is technology, which is extremely easy to understand.

I suggest that you perform a few additional tests with life force: First, hold your hand above the chi card®, then above any other surface that is at least at a distance of 16 inches from the diagram. Notice the difference!

As is the case with all experiments of this kind, it is important that you perform it in a relaxed state of mind. If the main focus of your attention is tied up to other important or urgent situations, and especially if you are not relaxed, it may be a bit challenging to feel subtle energies ... similar as you cannot read easily when distracted otherwise.

Using this exciting new technology, the devices from HSCTI (Hyper Space Communications and Technologies International) generate and project life force (orgone) that you can harness for your overall success!

The Proof

This extraordinary test proves to you first hand that which sensitive and powerful persons of all ages (among them tai chi masters, reiki masters, yogis, shamans, conjurers, magicians, and priests performing spiritual work) knew all along: namely that life force (chi, prana, mana, etc... every culture and language has its own name for the same energy) transfers at any distance. Moreover, it does so without loss of energy. All that's needed is the right structural link (some professionals prefer to call it "psychic link") to establish contact! This fact makes their magick possible, even easy! In fact, it is so easy that everybody is now capable of working their magick!

This has been one of the reasons why many of these professionals decided to guard their powerful secrets like precious gems, making them available only to a few hand picked people! Under no circumstances did they want to lose their lucrative sources of income.

The Conclusion

You have just experienced one of the most guarded secrets of all ages, namely the transfer of life force ("magickal energy" or "psychic energy") at any distance!!! More importantly: you have just realized that many secrets of ancient cultures are technology, which is yours to use !!! You have just experienced that the effects of any type of magick or spiritual work, such as changing your life for the better, can be achieved by you easily with the help of our powerful technology!!!

By now it is obvious that this new technology can give everybody access to the power of these secrets because…

It is powerful technology in your hands … for lasting success and for positive permanent change !!!
magickal ritual Click Here to Continue (find out how magick works - magick facts)

Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog
Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells

Rune Ceremonials

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!
Yes!   You can make good money promoting this exciting new technology !!!

© 1996, 2010, by Karl Hans Welz - click here for legal information, disclaimers and trademark information

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

caput primum

With this I want to instruct you how you should act and force the spirits with strongest power so that they have to appear and come in front of your circle and give you everything that you want from them. At the beginning they refuse. You should keep summoning them. In most cases do they come when you call them for the third time.

If a spirit now appears and he does so as you requested, i.e., in a beautiful human shape, then it is best to ask him two or three questions so that you will not annoy him. If however the spirit does not come in human appearance, then you should torture him and you should not receive him.

The practitioner and his helpers should have received the absolution before the summoning and they should also have received the Holy Communion. In addition, they should be very skilled in prayer, otherwise the spirits will not obey them. Your faith in the success of the operation needs to be as strong as if it (the success of your summoning) had already happened.

In addition to this, you should consider diligently the day and hour such as Monday at 8 and at 3, Tuesday at 9, at 6, and at 12 midnight. Always work on these two days, when the Moon is full, then the spirits will have to bring everything that you demand and want. You should do the summoning at a secret place. This ensures that you, the operator, will not be blocked or prevented in your work.

You need to make the circle and everything else with care. You need also to follow all instructions so that you will not make any mistakes. You should also have the pure truth of how you should behave and you should give to the poor and to your suffering neighbors.

Keep all that which you have read in this book a secret and do not give it for free to anybody, otherwise you will not be happy. The fees that you receive from what you are doing you should pass on to others and you should help the poor and the persons who are suffering and the humble ones out of their difficulties. If you refuse to do so, you will have no luck nor a good star. Let this be a constant warning to you, because never again will you receive those sciences of this world.

Use everything correctly and in secret. Use it the right way, and reveal it to nobody who is not worthy, otherwise your neck shall be broken, and if you tell it to a man of glory and you do not give the money that you received for it to a suffering and poor man, keep this a secret. Be careful not to make any agreement with the spirits so that you will not suffer and experience that which is going to happen to me.

General Citation of All Spirits

Osola mica rama lamani
Volase cala maja mira salame
Viemisa molasola Rama Afasala
Mirahel Zorabeli Assaja

Caput Secundum

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

caput secundum

This chapter describes the making of the circulum.

First: You should trace the circulum with a sword that has nobody yet hurt. On one side of the sword, you should inscribe the following characters.

On the other side, you inscribe these characters below.

Second: You should trace the circle while you say the following words:

O Le Ja meni sete Mirari jael la mese mihi Jasala Ale Jona
Masa criel Finamiel-Siona
O la sariel Assa Salimeni Arael
fasa, maja, Paja, Lalemisa Jerobeliel
Majasa faliel mica sariel olomisa

Iale masa Hajariel

After you have done this, you make three crosses and you pray three Lord's prayers in the kneeling position.

Third: When you summon, you must put in front of you in the circle the following symbols that you should have traced in red color.

Caput Tertium

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

caput tertium

This chapter has to do with the seven Grand Dukes Whenever you intend to summon spirits, you need to put the seal of the spirit whom you want to call three steps in front of the circle so that you can show your intention. The following is the Seal of Aziel, who is the first of the grand dukes:

(Sun) They call me Aziel, and I am a ruler over all hidden treasures of the Earth. I have power to open all treasures and I give them to the persons to whom I like to give them. I also try shrewdly to cheat in whichever way I can. My planet is the Sun, and my paladin Carmielis is my servant. I am appearing in the shape of a bull, but I can also assume any other form. You ought to give me rulership over everything because I have many legions of spirits serving me. I am a Grand Duke. You need to coerce all my subordinates with force, which is the same way you have to coerce me, because I am a Grand Duke on Earth who has many things under his command. Therefore you need to summon me the right way, otherwise I will not appear before you. You should engrave my other character (= sigil) in gold. I will only tell you this other seal if you ask me to do so. I am as fast as human thought.

ARIEL'S SEAL

My name is Ariel, and I appear in the shape of a dog. I command everything above and below the Earth. Many legions are under my command, and I am a fast spirit: as fast as a roe deer. Some people will benefit from me. Others I will hurt. I will always be acting in the manner in which you will have summoned me. I am an obstinate spirit who will not follow the call of any person. Therefore you have summon me with power before I will appear. Many millions of spirits are under my command, and I am a ruler over the treasures of all gods. I am as fast as the wind.

MARBUEL'S SEAL

I am the spirit who is ready to serve. I appear in the shape of a ten year old boy. It is useful to summon me at any time, and I am as fast as an arrow.
MEPHISTOPHILIS'S SEAL

I am the grand master of many arts and of luck in general. You can learn things in an instant. You need to summon me four times. I have quite a selection of spirits under my command who are serving me. Whenever I command them to serve they do so fast.
BARBUEL'S SEAL

I am a water Lord over the seas and over all waters. I rule over everything that lives in water. I am fast and I may give everything provided that you summon me right. Then I shall appear and I may also please you.
AZIABEL'S SEAL

I am a great spirit who appears as a little child. I serve anybody provided that he or she summons me right. I am ruler over the affairs of law. Many spirits have to obey me. I also like to please everybody, and I can make honor, riches, status, and a lot of luck.
ANIFEL'S SEAL

I, Faust, asked once my Grand Duke Aziel how I could tie and coerce humans. He replied to me that he could mot tell me that, so I told him to write it down for me rather than to tell me in words. "Oh!" Said the spirit, "my Faust, I truly should not have made an agreement with you, my Faust! However, I am going to write it down right here so that you will know the answer: My Faust!
1. F. this is my coercion, when I have to say Jesus Christ is in 2.3.
V. the flesh comes
4. with the omnipotence of god, this is not to discover 5.
and when I should keep my promise to someone, then he needs to have me swear by the cross,
6. until I will give my sign
This is the sign as it stands here. imperium magnum infernalis
The Infernal Empire is as follows:

1. LUCIFER, the emperor
2. BELIAL, Viceroy
3. SATAN, Governor
4. BEELZEBUB, Governor
5. ASTAROTH, Governor
6. PLUTO, Governor

The following are the seven Grand Dukes of the Infernal Empire:

1. AZIEL
2. MEPHISTOPHILIS
3. MARBUEL
4. ARIEL
5. ANIGUEL
6. ANISEL
7. BARFAEL (Barbuel)

These are the Grand Ministers and secret Infernal Counsels

1. ABBADON
2. CHAMUS
3. MILEA
4. LAPASIS
5. MERAPIS

These are the Spiritus Familiares of the Infernal Empire

1. CHINICHAM
2. PIMPAM
3. MASA
4. LISSA
5. DROMDROM
6. LOMHA
7. PALASA
8. NAUFA
9. LIMA
10. PORA
11. SAYA
12. WUNSOLAY

Caput Quartum

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

caput quartum

This chapter contains the summoning and conjurations of the spirits.

Summoning of AZIEL

I, (say your name here), command thee, spirit (here you have to say the name of the spirit), that thou appearst instantly by the power of the word ADBDA and also by the power of the angel AMASALE, and by the power of the star GADALA which rises in the last degree of Capricorn, which I (your name) set up as a symbol of this. I call thee, spirit (name of the spirit) by Durashain, Maim, Lulim + (make a cross whenever the symbol + appears in the text) Menim + Senim + Zaim + Sulim +. I conjure thee spirit (name of spirit) by Hipim + Repim + Sepim + Gulum + Locsant + Dropep + Schamot +. I (your name), I (your name), I (your name) command, command, command, thee spirit (spirit name) by the power of the heavenly lord + who created heaven and earth and all which is on it, who commands the four winds, who rules over all beings, and whom everything which is alive and created has to obey, that thou, spirit (name of spirit) doest everything for me which I command thee to do, by the power of the following words Alaja + Rasamule + Moliel + Zynagamim + Io + affrisi + Misaniel +, that thou bringst me everything, that thou, spirit (name of spirit) do so now, in speed, your symbol with you in front of my circle. I (your name) call thee by the power of the four winds , by the power of the air, and by all beings created, that thou appearst before my circle right now and that thou doest that without trying to instill fear, in visible shape. I (your name) conjure thee by everything that is alive that thou comest, comest , comest, by the strength of all strengths, which had you overpowered and who commands everything. I conjure thee, air, that thou doest not keep the (name of spirit) from me, but that thou sendest him very soon. Oh Ia Valasaja + Salajami + Masei +, but that he gives me speech and answer in English language. Amen.

General Summoning of the Spirit

AZIEL

Calemi + Cadem + O spirit (name of spirit) Poramase Ia hemise + Coelum + et Firmamentum + Casami + Misarajaet + Xamara + Sadalachamim + Dusama + Popiniet + Lemisisaraet + Amen

If he does not come, speak this three times.

Particular Summon of the Grand Duke

ARIEL

I, (your name) summon thee, spirit (name) + come, come, very speedily +. Firmament, earth, air, and everything, that you will not hold back the spirit I command this to you by the great words and names Dala + Makasaim + Rusaloja + Munot + Phalaniet + I coerce you spirit (name) by the strongest coercion Roma + Sa + Ra + Familia + Rominase + come, come, come, immediately, come, come, come, Anasai + fa + fali + monitase + fata + Amen

Main Conjuration of the Grand Duke

ARIEL

Vota + misa + Lasafe + ma + Homina + Sara + Pada + Chagiel + Matachia + Mecha + Enazarael + O hevilame Ga + Hiebani + that thou sendest him before my circle, or else thine punishment shall be seven times as much on thee spirit (name of spirit) in hell, I Roma + sa + fu + Amiel + mien + suisa + Amen

Particular Summon of the Grand Duke

MARBUEL

I (your name) conjure thee Grand Duke (name) by the great ruler in the heaven and on earth, in the water and in the air, in the fire, on earth, in the hell, outside the hell, and by the word which there was at the beginning of the world, who has overwhelm ed you, Great Duke (name) during his victorious descent to hell, and who has stepped on you with his feet. I (your name) conjure thee Grand Duke (name) by all the leaves and grass and by everything that is called world, that you open for me all foundatio ns of the earth and that you bring it in the name and power of the one who has no end + all stones, spirits, and earth spirits, and bring them in front of my circle, and that you immediately do so as I command you according to my will, by + Amala Saim + f ara + lamim + Saumi + ma + Amen. Come, come, come.

General Summon of the Grand Duke

MARBUEL

Ma + Schaffot + Etanahoim + Masalami + Fasta + Apiramus + Misa + ETANOGANASA + Padaschia + I, (your name) call thee (spirit name) by Masa + Hipa + Sapa + Rama + Laja + Meffi + Amen

Main Summon of all spirits when they make noise

O Ma + Raieschia + Nisanatos + Mopsi + Laminasi + Coporasch + Monasha + Alolia + Mygyssa + Pompana + Nosis + Firmamenta + Samasa + Jameschia + Fonascha + Molami + Amen

Poraschalia +++ Minischa +++ Semisa +++

Speak this three times

Conjuration if the spirit refuses to transform himself

Mosa + O Naschi + Gajala + Pressi + Fafa + Hisca + Allismicos + Felschima + Potmas + Saal + Amesda + Proceses + Terra + Festus + Spica + Munisa + Soila + Desca + Elesiamini + Amen +++ Qui venit in nomine Domini O Kyrios + O Kyrie Eleison + Amen +++

Speak this three times

The greeting to all spirits

Palifasta + Firmis + Demecha + Haim +

Caput Quintum

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

caput quintum

This chapter has to do with the binding, loosing, flogging, and dismissing of the spirits. The following is for binding, when the spirit does not want to stay. Speak it three times.

Deus + Pata + binde + Jesus + Behalte + Deus + Spiritum + binde + durch + Kraft + Christi + Knuepfe + schliesse + the spirit (spirit name) Amen +++

Threefold loosening when the spirit refuses to answer

O Sa miha + Aseffonila + Ja + La + Mifflahi + Mehahinesi + Milonahireil

Flogging, to be spoken three times

When the spirit does not want to obey hit into the air with the switch, and hit also the spirit's seal. The switches that you use for the flogging of the spirits should be of the wood of juniper. Cut them on a Thursday in the new of the Moon early in the morning before sunrise in the hours of Mars and Venus. Cut the following words into the switches: "The seed of the woman should stomp the head of the serpent" Defi + Ministrahel + Jasa + Mifana + Hisanam

Conjuration to the flogging

Prescio + Mipot + Domisiac + Tufi + Maha + Huschia + Laemelisete + Hedera + Cade + Veleadis + Locisomnibus + Amesiamin + ARIROSH + Laedemische + Jehonale + Hisipo + Amen +++ Podarasche + Podarasche

Dismissal of all spirits

O spirit (name of spirit) + Portam Benedictam + Sic tecum quasia horas siece mila + Amen

When the spirit does not want to leave, then speak:

Benedictus + est qui omnia regnat + per omnia secula seculorum + in nomine domini +++ Amen +++

You can also summon the Grand Dukes and all other spirits with the citatio that you find in my last will.

Fumigation to summon an evil spirit

Take garlic, sulfur, pitch, Christ herb, Burzel herb (?), put this on coal, and when the smoke rises be careful that the spirit does not press you, and speak the following words: O Lama + Basulai + Monai + Mempis + Lorrate + Pacem +

Doctor Johannes Faust's Noble Secrets

These are Doctor Johannes Faust's noble secrets and sigils that serve to protect every operator and practitioner of the FREE ARTS against the spirits, and which may also be carried with oneself for other purposes for which they are useful. This everyone should keep well and with respect. You should keep such secrets well hidden so that you will not suffer great damage, bad luck, or death. This keep well in mind.

Make this seal on a Sunday morning before Sunrise in the hour of Mars. You have to engrave it in gold. If you carry it on you, it protects you against all spirits so that they cannot hurt you. It also protects you against all your enemies when the seal is in a pouch of red velvet and when you carry it on the right side of the clothing.

You need to make this symbol on a Friday in the hour of Venus and you have to wear it in front of your chest. When you have dealings with the spirits, then you are secure and free from all danger. You have to draw the symbol on Virgin parchment with the blood of a bat.

Make this seal on a Monday during the hour of Jupiter. It will free you from all evil spirits.

Make this seal in the Night of St. John (June 21st -- the translator) at midnight and on gold. If you bury this seal at a place where spirits are dwelling, they will leave rapidly and they will leave behind all their treasures.

This is a seal with which you can bind and coerce all infernal spirits when you show it to them during citations.

When you engrave this seal on silver and put it on a treasure, it will cause the treasure to rise and the treasure will be yours for certain and all spirits will leave the treasure. This is the most powerful seal that you will ever find.

This seal helps your emotions and also your body. If you carry it on you, nobody can harm your body. You will also win in everything that you begin. Everyone will be afraid of you. Engrave the seal in gold in the hour of the Sun on Sunday before Sunrise. With this seal, you can also make yourself invisible when you put it onto yourself in the hour of the Sun.

This seal is of use in all operations and it should never be left out, because it is the operator's defense and wall.

This serves against all spirits and evil beings. When you put it on a place they have to leave it. Engrave it on lead in the hour of Jupiter.

Make this seal in the hour of Mars and Venus on iron and copper, put it for nine days on a place where a treasure is buried, and all spirits will leave this place and you will find the metal covered with blood.

With these seals you can perform miracles. You are secure from all your enemies and nobody can harm you in any way. Fire and water are afraid of you and evil spirits have to leave. It is a powerful remedy against all diseases and you need no medicine. Nobody will deny you any request. Whatever you begin will come to a good outcome. All people have to love you and to fear you. You are fortunate in dealings with the clergy and in court. This is the most powerful seal that you possibly could find. You should engrave this seal on gold in the hour of the Sun.

This seal is to be engraved on an alloy that is composed of all seven metals. If you put it on a treasure that has been transformed, this seal will bring the treasure back into its true shape. You should make this seal in the hour of Mercury on a Wednesday.

I have bought these last four seals in Holland for the enormous price of 8000 Ducats. I found these seals to be good for any situation. They helped me especially in the digging of treasures. I have been able to do with them anything that I wanted.

Your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., can get spectacular results when you use a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)

Click Here for more details

Doctor Faust's
Last Testament

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

The following describes the most powerful main summoning and conjuration. With it you can bind all spirits, you can torture them, and you can make them to bring to you everything that you demand of them.

When it happened that my time and hour were soon to come, I decided to leave my testament to every operator, so that he would be able to coerce all spirits under his will and to bind them as well. I have done so with the coercions that follow in this book.

caput primum...
. . . has to do with my agreement. 1. Should you, Lucifer, bring me two tons of gold.

2. Should this gold

be valid everywhere, and all those to whom I give it should benefit from it. 3. Should this gold not be counterfeit nor should it be of material that may be rejected, nor should it disappear or turn into coal or into similar such things, but it should be of such metal which has been used by human beings and which is valid in all places and in all countries.

4. Should all treasures be open to me and it should never be necessary that I have to dig them up with my own hands, but you should bring them to where I want to have them without any effort from my part.

5. Should you hurt me neither on body nor on limbs. You should not attack my health. I should keep body and health in good health without any weakness until I will have finished my set time of life.

6. Should you not only carry me from one place to another with the speed of human thought, no matter how far the places are apart, but you should also give me knowledge of every local language so that I can speak it easily. After I have had my fun at such a place, you should me bring back to my previous place. You should do all this without any harm to me.

7. Should you provide me with a ring which I can use to be invisible and invincible whenever I put it onto my finger.

8. Should you teach me how to prepare the universal medicine, as well as you should show me and tell me the correct use of it, the powers, and the weights and potencies that I have to use when I give it to any person.

9. Should you promise and affirm to me that you will follow all the above points without fail. Should you, however, fail or delay in this, then you should have no peace from this book at any day, and you should not be left in peace any more and in all eternity.

caput secundum..

. . . has to do with the setting up of the circle

This main circle is much needed for all citations. With it, you are capable to bind the whole infernal army and to coerce and overpower it as well. This is so because this circle is so powerful that no spirit is capable to withstand it no matter how strong the spirit may be. The other three circles have already been described in previous chapters. On the place where you intend to erect the circle, you need to trace it with a sword with which no hunman being has been hurt. In the hour of Saturn, you trace a cross through it. Then you make the circle with a narrow piece of paper that you lay around the circle. After you have made the circle in such a way, you go into it walking backwards, and you stand on the star. Be sure to make everything in the right size so that you do not miss. Remember well that you need to speak loudly and clearly when you do the summoning.

caput tertium

Before you summon, it is good to read the gospel of St. John that begins with the words "In the beginning was the word . . ." and you read it up to the words ". . . full of grace and truth." Then you go on to the works. Be sure that you have the prescribed pentacles #20 and #21 with you as well as the four last ones (from the last chapter of the previous book). If you summon a treasure you need to have written in front of your cap the letters: I.N.R.I.

Here is the circle.

This Hazel Serpent is very useful in many of the free arts. You may find it beneath the filbert nut bush. When you find it, do not touch it with your hands. As you see the snake, take a stick of hazel wood and hit it. This is the way to kill the snake. Carry the head and skin with you. This way you will be safe from all enemies and you will always be victorious. You will also receive favors from persons in high positions.

Doctor Johann Faustis

Coat Ride

At first, lay a large red coat on the ground. In the middle of it you trace the following seal.

In the hand you hold the seal as shown below.

Then go onto the coat, walking backwards. You need to be sure to stand in the middle of the symbol, and do not step your feet outside this symbol, otherwise the trip will not be a happy one. When you are standing firmly, you begin with the summoning below and you tell where you want to ride. If you want to leave a room, be sure that the windows are open. If they are not, the spirit will not get out and pass through the walls. The consequence may be great disaster! Be sure that you hold the seal always tightly in your hand.

citatio

I call thee, spirit Aziel memomui and go with me to (name of the place), I am going to do with you what I want to have. Say this summon three times. After this, the coat will lift off, with you on it, and it will go where you asked it to go.

General Coercion of All Spirits

+ + +

Romubabal + Sualabob + Schobal + Samitasa + Mabul + Absumaba + Bethael + Culiel + Daniel + Faniel + Gabriel + Humigiel + Israel + Kafariel + Musiala + Musia + Sinaelienae linerasiel farami. I coerce you by the power of the mighty one who is everything in everything, I bind you with the power of the majesty of all majesties, with whom Hiob, Salomo, has forced the spirits into water, I bind and coerce also with the power of the depth of wisdom of all wisdoms, that you fulfill my will right now without resistance. Anami + Misalemi + + +

I conjure thee spirit (name of spirit) by the creator of the heaven and earth and the judge of the living and the dead, that thou, spirit (spirit name) appears to me hurriedly and that thou fulfillest what I want. Therefore I coerce thee and bind thee spirit (name of spirit) the strong lion from the tribe of Juda who destroys hell and who has taken the power and strength from the devils. I (your name) conjure thee spirit (spirit name) with the words of power Musim, Oseth, Sobsles, Saclagis, Aybulle, come, come, come, that from this hour on thou bringst me that treasure of 1000 ducats, money of valid denomination and which does not change, the way I like to have it. This I command thee spirit (name of spirit) by all the words of power in totality Ebelias, Lauthor, Iditasita, Hechiomelle, Alpha et Omega. + + +

This I command thee spirit again by the words of power: Jesus Christus has become flesh, with this I coerce you and bind you spirit (name of spirit) and I conjure you with the Lucifer and Beelzebub and all the leaders of the infernal army, and with whatever names you all might have. + + +

I, (your name) coerce thee spirit (name of spirit) and I conjure all you devils with the whole of the infernal army, in hell, on earth, in the airs, in the waters, in the ravines, beneath the heaven, in the fire, wherever you may be in all places on the earth, and none is exempt, that you command immediately the spirit (name of spirit) that he comes and beings me several thousand ducats and as much as I demand and that he brings this immediately, or else fire should fall on all of you, pain, pain, pain, shall lie on you until you send this spirit (name of spirit) to me so that he fulfills my demands. + + +

The great infernal empire, as many millions of spirits as it has, I conjure you by the blood that has been shed for the human race and with which we are redeemed, and I conjure all the way into the farthest darkness, I will continue to do so until you fulfill my will exactly and immediately now. O Lamisamaia, Herimicala, Masamimema, limarascha, Jupirachiel, Minefira, Hopi Alali Maialiel misa + fige + Riga.

caput quartum

After this the spirit will appear. Then speak to the spirit: + + + As thou havest appeared in a friendly manner after my summoning and as thou havest come without delay, so I tell thee spirit (name of spirit) thanks and praise for such faithful and willing service.

Dismissal

Now go on in peace. Go wherefrom you have come. Do so without any rumbling or noise, without hurting the circle and without hurting anybody. Go on in peace from this place, enjoy your right to freedom from now on. Go in peace by the power of Jesus Christ who alone gets praise and honor forever in all eternity, Amen.

Now bless your circle again and thank God. Do not misuse that which you have achieved.

My and our circle, we will open it again in the name of God so that no evil spirit could hurt us. This shall be so in the name of God.

You make this seal above on a Good Friday in the hour of Midnight on lead and copper. If you put it on a treasure, then the treasure gives itself so that you can get it. I have used this in Cologne with a large treasure, and I have done many other thing s with it.

This (seal on previous page) is the pillar that terrifies all spirits. O mementum Hyschakos, Schehalamis, Gabrieles, audi Michaelis, Hyschacos Colimny Kyrie Ochea Janvemi, Malamim Oparasat, Nemnomy, Omniny, Messaca, Aschariel, Mipasata, Owa, Tajiair, Kai , iam.

As Christ has descended to hell, holy words of opening, and no spirit could answer him to this.

With these words you can coerce the spirits, you can bind them and bring them to obedience.

You can achieve spectacular results of your work with grimoires, sigils, magick, etc., with a generator of life force (orgone generator, Welz Chi Generator)
Click Here for more details

...back...

This is the Site of Karl Hans Welz, the Inventor of the Orgone Generator®, Orgonite® and Magick powered by Orgone Generators®

Magick is Technology, which is applied science of life force, plain and simple, and on this site you are going to find out why this is so, and what's even much more important: Magick is extremely easy to master, and this means that you certainly can be a master of this exciting powerful technology very soon:
a technology, which helps you to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires !!!
To download a free pdf of karl hans welz's magick of the future course or the alphabet of desire digital filter pack check out the Life Manifestations Stan Store

Catalog Chat with us email

Now - what do you think is magick? - is it spiritual? is it metaphysical? is it religion? is it rooted in faith? is it "higher knowledge?" Is it something, for which to master you need to be a life long slave of some secret lodge, sacred coven or other cult setup? ... or does it have to do with these very nice modern fairy tales of Harry Potter or the Lord of the Rings? Quite naturally, like in traditional fairy tales and mythologies as well as in those "modern" fairy tales, the very effective assumption persists that only a few "gifted" people are capable of performing this art of magick, while all others happily are following the rules of their enslavement by the society to which they belong: Caught for life within the mechanisms of socio-economic-sexual repression.
If you're located within the US click here to order by paypal

You can order a digital download of filter packs for $50.00 by clicking here
In fact, the basis of magick is a skill, which is as natural as walking, seeing, hearing and talking, and therefore almost all of us have this skill naturally - we were born with these skills, and, because of vested interests of ruthless folks in power, humans are systematically "educated out of it," and that happens at a very early age, of course!
Consequently, this skill of magick is extremely easy to master, i.e., to re-acquire, in a few weeks rather than in many months, years or decades.
Advanced and effective magick then is technology, plain and simple, and this technology is based on the science - or physics - of life force, the energy of life - Chi, prana, orgone, od, mana, or whatever other label you want to use for this universal energy! As is the case with any technology, any person willing to do so can have access to it. In fact, it is extremely easy for you to set up magickal operations !!!
Click Here and you can get the evidence of what you just found out right now, and, what's still much more important, this is experience for you, plain and simple: direct experience, which is worth more than a thousand words !!!
Because magick is so easy to master and at the same time it has been used to control large portions of the population throughout history, there have been very strong vested interests by those in control: by people who shamelessly were and still are using it for their own purposes of dominance, and quite naturally they lie about magick, they label it evil, etc., and consequently we have been "educated out of this" and in many "cultures" the word itself has been vilified throughout the ages by control-freaks in power, and this vilification appears in almost all of these fairy-tales, which were hammered into us by way of forced-upon education. All of this quite naturally is the result of the power of folks and groups of people who have vested interests in keeping this knowledge away from the bulk of the population while using it extensively for their own purposes: purposes which are unethical most of the time ... or, as they attempt to make you believe quite often and routinely ...
"we are doing this for the greatest benefit of all human beings, you included ..., etBS, etBS, etBS ..." !!!
Result of this approach? .... See above, at the beginning of this web site ... !!!

I am certain that you want evidence right now, and YES, you can get this experience now !!!
Perform the free transfer test, and you can do this as well when putting a structural link as a wallpaper onto your smartphone. Simply go into www.chitec.us for a FREE TEST! - read some of the instructions, and you certainly will realize rapidly how easy it is for you to perform this exciting technology of magickal operations having your smartphone as the center of your magickal power: This is so, because the structural link, i.e. the wallpaper on your smartphone, provides you with the life force, which is the energy at the basis of your operations of magick !!!

Simply click here for the FREE TEST and for you this experience of results will be worth more than a thousand words !!!

... and there is something I added December 28, 2015

What is Magick?

Is it a collection of spiritual skills on a basis of one or more of the many quite different religious mythologies?

Or is it a potential beginning of or a gate to brand new technologies on a basis of a scientific understanding of life force and structural links, or can it even be a combination of both sometimes?

After all, collective placebo effects certainly can end up being useful objective realities. Many events in history are proof of this.

When talking about “magick” most people are thinking of it as something esoteric, spiritual, religious and the like, and they are unaware that, in fact, magick is technology, which is based on science: the science of energies in general and the science of life force and its interaction with other energies (such as EMF/space, time, gravity, etc.) in particular: on the "introductory end" the science of action at a distance and perception at a distance as well as many other technologies, which evolved from this approach. For more visit also www.magicofthefuture.com

In fact, in “olden times” thunder and lightening were also thought as being “spiritual” and miraculously produced by “gods of thunder” and so were other things, which later were recognized as very natural phenomena and explained by scientific approaches, and based on such scientific mappings, theories or approaches many new technologies did evolve, some of which we enjoy very much, and of which the people of the past who originally had started the scientific approach had not the slightest idea. In fact, such a type of scientific and technical evolution based on the science of life force happened almost immediately after I could explain scientifically magick and other functions that up to now were - and still are - explained by most people as “divine, spiritual, esoteric, new agey” and what not.

In fact, after having recognized the many phenomena and approaches of life force as applied science that uses natural energies, almost immediately amazing new methods could be developed. Of course this is something that the many popes of esoteric approaches do not like at all and they condemn it as “of the devil” and the like! After all, those folks make money based on their rigid spiritual explanations. The same things happened in the past at the beginning of a scientific understanding of electromagnetism and the like: think of thunder and lightening - and the understanding and technology of electricity came in part from this basis, as did later a lot of electric machineries, all the way to computers, space travel and more.

And now just imagine how far technologies can go as a result of understanding many of those “esoteric functions” of life force, such as, but not limited to, perception at a distance and action at a distance, and from there is just a small step to texting with no need of network or amplifiers, to gravity machines, to teleportals, not just for travelling by way of teleportals, but also to pull “free energy” from powerful sources such as the Sun or drawing minerals directly from asteroids, with no need to physically go there, ... and much much more! These were just a few rather primitive examples of what we can expect, and I am certain there’s stuff out there that I cannot even think about yet: similar as people who in the past started building electric and other power machinery based on scientific understanding could not even think about computers back then, about fun with computer games, about refrigerators, about nuclear energies, about TV and other methods based on this EMF knowledge: technologies and machinery used in our times, some of those already sort of antiquated.

I consider my scientific approach still primitive and I hope it will be obsolete some time: the sooner the better, because this mechanism of "obsoletizing" in fact is the engine of technological and scientific advances!

For first approaches, personal ones, being aware of all of this is sufficient.

Start with known methods and be immediately aware that it is technology. Then very soon you can proceed to much more advanced methods and technologies than many of the “eso-popes” or “spiritual leaders and guides” want you to know and believe in!

- Magick+Chi
  - Introduction
  - Magick+AAD
  - About Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Science + Magick
  - What is Magick?
  - Structural Links
  - Chi acts at any Distance
- Theory
  - Magick + Radionics
  - Target + Trend
  - Magick + Chi
  - More about Chi
  - Life Force Tech
  - Radionics = Magick
  - Power Magick
  - More Power Magick
- Uses

- skills
  - artistic inspiration
  - magickal protection
  - people skills
  - intuition
  - intelligence
  - charisma
  - music
  - remote viewing
- well-being
  - food
  - water
  - supplements
  - energy
- sports and fitness
  - fitness training
  - weight control
  - sports performance
  - sports competition
- animals, plants, environment
  - agriculture
  - plants
  - pets
  - animals
- relations
  - love
  - children
  - friends
  - popularity
- profession
  - profession
  - convincing speech
  - business
  - politics
  - team work
- money
  - marketing
  - gambling
  - stock market
  - sales skills
  - money management

Equipment
- water optimizers
  - AO 1100
  - AO 2000
- chi generators
  - JU 99 series

        - JU 1000
        - CEG 1000
        - LPOG 2400 DL
        - PFC 2000
        - LPOG 2400 HD
        - Performer
        - RAD 5
        - ATG 12
    - radionics
        - RAD 1000
        - RAD 2000
        - RAD 2400 HD
        - RAD 5
        - ATG 12
    - energy transfers
        - Transfer Couple
        - Transfer Coaster
        - Power Booster
        - Potency Booster
    - software
        - basic manifestation
        - super manifestation
        - astro dynamic
        - feng shui plus
        - manifestation ultimate PC+Mac
- Ordering
    - phone, fax
    - paypal
- Contacts
    - contact info
    - customer support
    - Online Showroom
    - email us
    - Online chat
- Broadcasts
- Free Courses
    - Magick of the Future
    - Classic Magick Courses
        - Classic Magick Course
        - Magick Course - Italiano
        - Magick Course Deutsch
        - Magick Course Espanol
    - Autogenic Training
    - Universal consciousness
    - Rune Magick
    - Rune Yoga
    - Rune Readings

- Astrology Course
- Free Astrology Software

Click below to join the FREE COURSES of YOUR CHOICE

- Magick Courses
  - Magic of the Future
  - Magick - English
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5
    - Lesson 6
  - Magie - Deutsch
    - Einführung
    - Erste Lektion
    - Zweite Lektion
    - Dritte Lektion
    - Vierte Lektion
    - Fünfte Lektion
    - Sechste Lektion
  - Magia - Espanol
    - Introduccion
    - Lección 1
    - Lección 2
    - Lección 3
    - Lección 4
    - Lección 5
    - Lección 6
  - Magia - Italiano
    - Introduzione
    - Lezione 1
    - Lezione 2
    - Lezione 3
    - Lezione 4
    - Lezione 5
    - Lezione 6
  - Radionics = Magick
  - Power Magick
  - More Power Magick
- Autogenic Training
  - Introduction
  - Lessons
- Universal Consciousness

  - Introduction
  - Lesson 1
  - Lesson 2
  - Lesson 3
  - Lesson 4
  - Lesson 5
  - Lesson 6
- Rune Magick
  - Rune Magic
    - Rune FA
    - Rune UR
    - Rune THORN
    - Rune OS
    - Rune RIT
    - Rune KA
    - Rune HAGAL
    - Rune NOD
    - Rune IS
    - Rune AR
    - Rune SIG
    - Rune TYR
    - Rune BAR
    - Rune LAF
    - Rune MAN
    - Rune YR
    - Rune EH
    - Rune GIBOR
  - Rune Readings
    - Readings 1
    - Readings 2
    - Readings 3
    - Readings 4
    - Readings 5
    - Readings 6
  - Rune Yoga
    - rune yoga 1
    - rune yoga 2
    - rune yoga 3
    - rune yoga 4
    - rune yoga 5
    - rune yoga 6
    - rune yoga 7
    - rune yoga 8
    - rune yoga 9
    - Rune Postures
  - Rune Master Initiation
  - Rune Magic Positions

    - Gorsleben Book
    - Untitled Item
- Talisman Magick
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5
    - Lesson 6
- Tarot Spells
    - Introduction
    - Multi-Step-Setup
    - Keltic Cross Setup
    - Eldritch Wizardry
    - Italiano
    - Italiano 2
- Astrology Course
    - Introduction
    - Lesson 1
    - Lesson 2
    - Lesson 3
    - Lesson 4
    - Lesson 5
    - Lesson 6
    - Lesson 7
- Free Astrology Software

Click below to select the info about magick, which you like to learn about:
catalog, broadcasts, online showroom, forum, customer support,
magic contacts
Introduction/Home
magick and structural links magick_facts: About life force technology
Understanding magick and AAD Life energy bridges any distance magick_facts:
Magick and radionics
Basic characteristics of Chi energy Magick Facts: About Magick and Radionics™
Power Magick™: How you can Use it!
Life energytech past and present magick facts: Importance of Trend and Target More about power magick
The scientific approach to magick magick facts: importance of life force Free
Transfer Test of Life Energy important characteristics of magick magick_facts: More about life force Free
Course, Books, Manuals
Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magick of the Future
Rune magick

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagick

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The links below lead you to many applications of this extraordinary new technology of magick, applications, which are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Ogone Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and software. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.

agriculture, plants, lawns break up electrosmog, DOR, gaming management pet care sports artistic inspiration business, office energy geopathic stress marketing politics supplements attachments charisma esp and psychic herbs meditation popularity living water attacks children family intelligence mind control profession weight control balance competition fitness intuition money relationships weight loss body building customers friendship lawsuits music skin care well-being brainwaves defense gambling love NLP speed-learning

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!

A Gigantic Step into the Future !!!

Wilhelm Reich and Franz Anton Mesmer 150 years before Reich invented accumulators of life force, which draw life force from their surroundings. Reich called life force orgone energy, and Mesmer used the word "animal magnetism" for life force.

In 1991, I invented the Orgone Generator®, or Chi Generator®, wich is a device, which generates life force rather than accumulating it, and this naturally was a first in human history! One year later, in 1992, I invented a new material that attracts and accumulates life force, which I called orgonite®, and which is exceedingly more effective than the Reichian alternating layers of organic and metallic material in orgone accumulators.

These inventions certainly marked the beginning of a new era in magickal technology as well as in human history, and this is so, because there is no technology of humankind, where this life force technology cannot make a significant improvement and advancement.

Therefore: WELCOME TO this exciting new technology, which can mean for you the difference between average results and TOTAL SUCCESS !!!

This web site delivers extremely powerful applications of a new method of magickal technology and science.

This certainly is exciting news for all who are practicing magick of any kind, including traditional methods (ceremonial magick, voodoo, shamanism, wicca, santeria, religion-based methods, etc.) as well as more recent methods that are inherently magickal, such as radionics, motivational techniques, self improvement, vision boards, "the secret," affirmations, "law of attraction," and Silva mind control.

You can also safely call this extremely powerful new technology your ultimate unfair advantage! "Unfair," because spiritual training, cult membership and intitation become unnecessary, as far as success of your magickal operations is concerned.

This new technology certainly is extraordinary, because it opens up for you a whole new world of powers for you, powers which will leave you entranced, enlightened, and empowered. You will actually be equipped with what is certainly the most powerful technology of effective "magickal" impact, i.e., impact of your Actions at a Distance !!!

For you, this can well be the first time that learning about a technology will not only be useful, it will be used. It will be a natural step in the right direction of the success that you were striving to achieve all along. In the following, you will find an amazingly powerful new technology to boost your magickal performance, or action at a distance, to the max. It is here that you can probe the deepest secrets, which make possible and maximize the success of your journey to the top.

I am going to lay out this exciting new technology for you so that you can gain immediate evidence, from where you can proceed step by step to an increasingly deeper grasp of its far reaching new magickal applications!

Here you can find an easy and very effective way to help you improve all your results for the future. It is specifically designed to provide you with powerful methods to enhance your performance in all areas of your life, especially those that you feel need to be strengthened. Whatever the line of your work or field of endeavor is, be it business, politics, high performance sports, education, volunteering, spiritual matters, or anything else, this highly effective magickal equipment from HSCTI is designed for a great many uses, while providing you with successful outcome whenever you use it appropriately. Now you certainly can take your destiny into the best possible hands: your own!

With your Chi Generator®, magick is easy, it is exciting, and you certainly can be laid back and relax while you expect assured success!

Magick for Everyone, Results for Everyone!!!
Click here and see the Catalog of Orgone Generators® and Accessories

Understanding Magick, which is Action at a Distance in time and space
Click Here to see my video to understand better the action at a distance

The purpose of Magick is to help you in all your activities to acquire the good things in life: power, wisdom, knowledge, success in business and personal relations, peace of mind, and many more.

I am going to show you here that the use of magick for your success is much easier than you ever have been conditioned in the past to think about and believe. It is an easy to understand technology, which is accessible to every person who has the will and the open mind to do so. Furthermore, I am going to show you that the technology of magick makes use of life force (chi energy, orgone, prana) and structural links (structural connections) to generate specific trends, i.e., to generate inclination, motivation and action towards the goals you have. You can generate such trends for yourself as well as for others. I am going to show you here how this works and how you can use this technology to put you on the road towards your personal success. See also my free course "Magick of the Future!"

Life Energy and Magick
Click Here to see my video about the importance of life force for magic

First let's explore a few basic facts concerning life energy and life energy technology

According to Wilhelm Reich, orgone energy (as he called life force) is a primordial cosmic energy. It is universally present and it can be demonstrated visually, thermically, electroscopically and by means of Geiger-Mueller counters. In the living organism: bio-energy, life energy, Chi energy, personal magnetism, prana. Most people can actually feel this energy without prior training. You can get the evidence of this in our free test: charge water and taste the difference, charge yourself and use the life force for more power of your affirmations, vision boards, magick, and any other method to bring your desires into manifestation.

As far as we can look back in history, humans have been using life force for many purposes. This use of life force was result of practical experience. In fact,

The use of Life Force is a Characteristic of All Living Beings!

It is an obvious fact that a basic characteristic of all living beings (and of life itself) is interaction with the environment. A set of signals (internal or external) pass through various levels of abstraction that eventually lead to some form of action. Typically, a wealth of perceptions are streamlined into fewer abstractions. In humans, this process is generalization. With evolution, the capability of sensory perception increased as did the complexity of abstracion processes and of generalizations.

Some form of life force "technology" can be observed in most animals. A good example are various species of moths and butterflies, which, according to some folks, "smell" the "scent" of a female even when it is miles away. At such huge distances a chemical scent would be thinned out to an extent that there are simply no longer any molecules of the original substance in the small air-samples surrounding the moth. Any high-school kid can calculate that there is virtually no molecule of that scent at a distance of a couple of miles; yet some "scientists of academia" and elsewhere still prattle about the moth "smelling" the other! Perhaps it would be good for those folks to go back to high school and take a course in elemental math! As you will find out soon, this type "ESP" can be explained with ease as a function based on the structural transfer characteristics of life force.
Advanced Magick Courses - they are all for FREE !!!
Magic of the Future
Rune magic

Astrology Course

Cosmic Consciousness
Autogenic Training
Tarot Spells

Talismanmagic

Modern Approach to Magickal Science

The following applications of this extraordinary new technology are based on personal experiences of many proud owners of Chi Generators®, orgone radionics™ devices and power radionics™ programs. Click below on the links of your choice for more information. Naturally, there are infinite many more uses, many of which you certainly will find and explore.
agriculture, plants, lawns break up electrosmog, DOR, gaming management pet care sports artistic inspiration business, office energy geopathic stress marketing politics supplements attachments charisma esp and psychic herbs meditation popularity living water attacks children family intelligence mind control profession weight control balance competition fitness intuition money relationships weight loss body building customers friendship lawsuits music skin care well-being brainwaves defense gambling love NLP speed-learning

Being at the basis of many of the first methods of interacting with an extended environment, as it is practiced by humans, life force naturally became part of humans' religious creeds and therefore also part of religion-based magick. This approach was very similar to the use of fire, the making of metals, and most natural phenomena, which humans back then simply could not explain otherwise. Consequently, the practical application of life force was linked closely to the religion of the culture where it was used. Moreover, whenever certain applications of life force such as magickal operations were successful, such success was mistakenly considered to be proof of the religious belief system of the practitioner, and whenever it did not work for whatever reason ever, the "gods" in control did not want it to work. Oddly enough, even in our otherwise enlightened times there are still traditions out there, whose truly faithful followers claim to be the only true guardians of life force and its many applications. Although they may claim differently, you will find out soon that many "academic" scientists and pop-scientists belong to that same category of humans, whenever you take the time to analyze logically the stuff that they utter. This is so, because most of them were incapable of removing their thinking from the religious ideologies that defined their interaction with the environment originally during their own experience and the many processes and methods of forced-upon education, or brainwashing, when they were kids.

Life Force Technologies of the Past

Click Here to see my video about life force technologies of the past

Human beings have acquired much of their knowledge of the universe and technology as a result of valid mapping (or theories) based on experience that they gained when handling energies that were invisible to their eyes. To handle energies that are not visible is an important characteristic of the human species. Obviously this characteristic is the result of the human capability to abstract. The practice of magick (a form of life force based technology, see the free course "magick of the future") with its theories (usually obscured in religious belief structures), formulas, and rituals is no doubt one of the oldest human ways of handling energy, which is invisible to the eye unless the skill of seeing it is acquired, and of having impact upon the environment and, quite naturally, also on other human beings.

It was this continuous probing into what is beyond the scope of everyday experience, which eventually has led humankind to modern technologies and to modern concepts of space-time (elecrtromagnetic energy - life force - time - gravity). For instance, the knowledge (and speculations) of the laws that govern electromagnetic energies is at the basis of practically all contemporary academic theories of the universe, from descriptions of majestic galaxies all the way to sub atomic physics. Visible light is but a small section of the large spectrum of electromagnetic vibrations. Most of this electromagnetic spectrum is invisible. Analysis of the concepts of visible light and the expansion of these concepts led to knowledge of the electromagnetic energy and its many applications in modern technologies: from power plants to computers and space craft. We can explain most of the phenomena of heat, acoustics, chemical reactions, etc., as being functions of electromagnetic energy.

As I mentioned already previously, there is another energy that humans have worked with for as long as they have roamed this planet. We cannot see it as easily as we can see visible light nor can we feel it as markedly as heat or electricity, yet humans could sense its presence very well and they have learned methods to generate and to direct it and even to see it already eons ago. From this knowledge they developed practices and technologies to help them deal with their inner and outer environments. This energy is life energy! It is everywhere around us just the same way as electromagnetic energy is all around us. In other words, we are living in an ocean of energy of both life force and electromagnetic waves.

Throughout history, life force has received many names. People of ancient India called it Prana. The practices of pranayama and yoga evolved from the knowledge of prana. The ancient Chinese called it Chi. The practices of Tai Chi and Chi Kung developed from this knowledge. The Polynesians called the mysterious life force Mana. They derived from it the practices of Kahuna.

Most religious practices contain elements of releasing and using life force for many purposes, such as dealing with environmental challenges, for healing, and to develop favorable outcomes of human endeavors. Very often, these methods are concealed in religious ceremonials. Naturally the representatives of those religions have a vested interest in keeping the explanations of this energy as being part of their religious belief structures and therefore they consistently oppose any scientific explanation of the methods in which life force is used the same way as they badmouth magick and prosecute people practicing it without it being in their specific religious "clothings." Such approach and the ignorance of their followers naturally guarantees much more financial support from true believers.

Practitioners of Tai Chi and Yoga generated life force within themselves. So did magicians (shamans, conjurers, priests, etc.) of various religious backgrounds. Other methods consisted in building up strong emotional forces in a group (think of those very powerful charismatic church meetings), walking and dancing in circles (also used by many religious groups) and animal sacrifice. The latter is an effective, yet very primitive and crude, form of releasing life force that is practiced by many religious groups. We know of more than 20 passages in the Bible in which the Good Lord tells his followers how to correctly sacrifice animals. In fact, if the animal ends up as a roast, and in fact this method of butchering is a lot more humane than the horrors that are practiced in your friendly neighborhood slaughterhouse, horrors which most people support by purchasing the meat coming from such houses of horror! I personally never could do animal sacrifice ... I simply was "blocked internally."

The Scientific Approach

Click Here to see my video about the scientific approach to life energy and it being the basis of Action at a Distance (AAD) - also known as "magick"

Practitioners in the West used many words for life energy: animal magnetism (Mesmer), Solar ether (Korschelt et al.), Od (Baron Karl von Reichenbach), orgone (Reich), psychic energy (magicians), eloptic energy (Dr. Galen Hieronymus), personal magnetism, and many, many more.

One of the first pioneers of a scientific approach to an understanding of life force was Franz Anton Mesmer, a physician from Stuttgart, Germany, who lived two centuries ago. He studied and practiced medicine in Vienna, the same city where Wilhelm Reich studied under Freud some 150 years later. Eventually Mesmer moved to Paris. He experimented with life force, which he called animal magnetism. In our days, his followers use the word "personal magnetism."

Franz Anton Mesmer´s scientific approach to and understanding of life force led him to the invention of an accumulator of life force!

Franz Anton Mesmer´s accumulator of animal magnetism was a wooden barrel that was filled with iron filings. His patients held on to iron rods that were immersed into the iron filings. Having studied in Vienna with Freud, and his studies included hypnotism, Wilhelm Reich certainly knew the work of Mesmer, of course, whose name appeared as one of the pioneers of hypnosis and liife force in practically all publications and books in German language concerning hypnotism!

More than a century ago, 1897, Korschelt invented a "Solar Ether Radiation Apparatus," which he used for healing purposes. It was in principle a life force accumulator. I have built and tested this rather large (6 ft long) Korschelt device and it worked well. It is used the same way as Wilhelm Reich's orgone shooter and it has very similar effects.

The more recent life force (orgone) accumulator that Wilhelm Reich has designed has alternating layers of organic and metallic matter -- usually wood, celotex, fibre glass or wool and steel wool. This is a significant improvement compared to Mesmer's and Korschelt's devices. Alternating layers increase the capability to accumulate orgone. Reich had people sit inside the accumulator while Mesmer used iron rods to direct the energy outward.

Orgonite® and Orgone Generators®

radionics energy transferI have developed a material that is extremely more effective in accumulating life force (orgone) than the Reichian layered arrangements, and I called it orgonite®. Before that, I have invented and built the first device in human history that actually generates orgone energy (life force), the Chi Generator® (Orgone Generator® or Prana Generator®). I also found out that which magicians and shamans knew all along: namely that life force (orgone) transfers at any distance instantaneously by way of near-identical structures (I called them "structural links"). The test of life force and its effects that you can perform is proof of this fact. Furthermore, in December 1996 I succeeded in sending signals accross the Atlantic from machine to machine (with no human sensor at all), using life force only. As I had expected, no amplifying device was needed for this operation. In fact, I have solved the problem of signal transfer machine-to-machine with life force as a carrier medium several years earlier, when I sent signals "locally" at a distance of a mere 20 miles.

As a natural consequence of the structural transfer capabilities of life force: If you want to energize your body with life energy, you need not to sit inside the large multi-layered contraption of an orgone box, nor need you hold on to iron rods (personally I would prefer that to sitting inside a box). In fact, all you need is a small structural link such as a transfer disk or a physical chi-card® or a chi-card® as wallpaper on your smartphone, which connects you with an orgone generator. With that disk on yourself, it does not matter at all if you are sitting in front of the Chi Generator®, if you are a few miles away, or if you are half around the globe: you get the life force in full power! The structural transfer characteristic of orgone (life force) is also the reason why you can direct life force mentally -- see instructions and practices in the course "Magic of the Future", and you can get direct evicence of this fact by following the instructions of our FREE TEST.

Most humans of our times are unaware of the existence of life force, let alone of the laws of life energy physics governing it. Many of the people who know it and use it, on the other hand, have been indoctrinated with very restrictive, religion-based, views and rules concerning life force.

Characteristics of Life Force

Click Here to see my video about characteristics of life energy

It is obvious by now that life force is a type of energy, as is electricity and time. This means also that, knowing the natural laws, which govern this energy, we can now determine or predict its effects. Furthermore, we can now explain in simple scientific terms why and how magick and all other methods of action at a distance (such as radionics) work. Naturally, this is the basis for many extensive and powerful technologies, such as magick, in which life force is used: technologies whose roots can be traced back to the remote past of human history and whose potential goes way beyond the narrow scope of the more traditional uses of life force, thanks to my invention of the generator of life force, the Orgone Generator®.

Scientists of all ages knew of life force. Recently, starting with Mesmer, they formulated some very basic natural laws that describe life force, chi, or orgone. They realized that there are considerable differences between life force and electromagnetic energy. In some way, both energies can be viewed as being opposite polarities of one and the same basic principle.

Of both forms of energy, human beings perceive only a small fraction with the apparatus of their senses. Both energies pulsate, and that's what these energies have in common.

Very important are the differences between the two energy forms. Energies that belong to the electromagnetic spectrum of light tend to achieve a balance when a higher potential gets in contact with a lower potential. For instance,whenever you bring a hot body in contact with a cold one, a heat exchange occurs until both bodies have the same temperature. Physicists call this process entropy. With Life force, the opposite is the case. When a body of high life force potential comes in contact with a body of lower potential, a process takes place, which we call negative entropy, or reversed entropy. In this process, the stronger potential is drawing energy from the weaker one until saturated, and it becomes stronger.

Still more pronounced is the difference of the space in which both energies act. As we all know, the electromagnetic energies diminish in intensity with the square of the distance from their source. They are totally part of the three-dimensional space of our visual and most kinetic perceptions, which, in fact, are defined by this characteristic of electromagnetic enenrgies. That's why we need amplifiers of considerable strength whenever we want to pick up radio waves from a very distant transmitter, which, in the light of the potentials of life force (bio-energy) physics is a rather clumsy and primitive approach. This principle is valid for the space time continuum of the physicist. People of all ages who used life energies knew of the power of "psychic" links, or identical structures. Once a person, who is working with life energies (such as a shaman, magician, or healer), has a psychic link to the target of his or her operation, he or she can bridge the physical space that separates him or her from the target, no matter how distant it is.

Therefore it is obvious by now that work with life force requires a new model of space-time. This model of space-time, which is based on life force, is essentially different from the EMF-based space-time that the physicist describes, yet it interacts with it. It is a hyper space in which identical or equivalent objects establish so-called warps, or direct contacts. The natural law of action of life energy is simple. It states that DISTANCE IS A RESULT OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCE.

The problem that creationalistically educated "traditional physicists" of the establishment (including most of the folks of the "orgone establishment," i.e., Reichian epigones) and of academia have with life energy lies exactly in these differences. Life energy is mainly generated and used by living beings. For hundreds of years, pranayama, chi gong, and other practices with life energies, stayed outside of so-called hard core science. This is so because up to now there were no machines available that measured or generated life energy. Academia prefers to ignore the fact that millions of people successfully used and use this energy and actually create it with some of the more traditional methods, assumed to be spiritual. Hyper spaces and warps are way beyond the narrow minded conceptions of a typical mentally dried-up academic scientist and big bunk theory creationist.

I have solved this problem. Not only did I develop new instruments that can measure life energies, but also the first instruments in human history that generate life energy: the famous CHI GENERATORS®. The first commercially available Chi Generator® was the EDGE Power Generator, or EPG 2000. The EDGE was a machine with truly amazing potential. You can use the Chi Generator® in any application that requires the generating of strong fields of life force.

THE BASIC PRINCIPLE OF "HYPER SPACE" OR LIFE FORCE INCLUDING MATHEMATICS AND TECHNOLOGIES: DISTANCE IS A FUNCTION OF STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCES. WHAT TYPE DIFFERENCE IS A CHARACTERISTIC OF THE ENERGY FORM.

the magickal orgone shooter

The CEG 1000
is an orgone generator®, built as a shooter, and as such it is ideal for any type of magickal work. For instance, you can point it at your magickal setup of magickal operations - "the magickal altar" as some call it. Boost the power of the CEG 1000 to the max, even to the extreme, by connecting it with two Chi Generators®! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - You can also video call us for a demo! In addition to its capability to project life force to persons, animals, etc., to which you point it, the CEG 1000 is also great to optimize water or food at a distance and charging food, beverages or water with magickal properties!

Magick for agriculture, plants, lawns

Magick to boost artistic inspiration

Get rid of unwanted attachments, demonic forces, spells

About magickal attacks

precision frequency orgone generator for magick

The PFC 2000
is an orgone generator® (Chi generator®), with which you can set the life force (chi energy, orgone) to precision frequencies of your choice. As you know, specific frequencies are at the basis of well-defined modes of interaction with the environment: from somnambulistic-hypnotic states, deep meditation, all the way to persistence, stamina, precision, aggression in sports, charisma, planetary energies, etc. Check out the frequency list in the manual, which you can find in www.akor.cc. The PFC 2000 is Middle of the Line Power, and it works great in combination with the CEG 1000 or the CEG 2400! Click here and get additional info about this amazing new machine - Click here to order within the US

use Magick to achieve balance

brainwaves and Magick

break up bad relationships with the help of magick

Magick to enhance business, to generate a productive office atmosphere

Show more charisma, be outgoing with the help of radionics

How to help winning in competitions

magickally draw customers

defense against magickal attacks

Magick and Radionics have a CFP (Common Functional Principle), and this is "permanentization" of intent or trend energies
The difference is in the type structural link. The Magician uses physical structural links, such as incenses, symbols, hair and finger nails, while the radionics operator uses settings of the dials to establish linkage to trend energies or to targets of the operation. Precise frequency settings (PFC 2000 and 2400, Performer, RAD 5 and ATG 12 too can be understood "radionically." Click here and get additional info about the "magick of radionics" - You can also video call us for a demo!

Counteract electrosmog, DOR,

more energy with the help of magick

Magick to help develop esp and psychic skills

starter device for magickal radionics

The RAD 1000
is an great starter orgone generator® with built-in radionics capability. Click here and get additional info about this amazing startup orgone radionics machine Click here to order within the US-

The magick of friendship

A magickal approach to gambling

herbs, magick and orgone technology

magickal radionics heavy duty

The RAD 2400 HD
is the most popular orgone generator® with radionics capability. It is heavy duty. Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful chi boosted radionics machineClick here to order within the US

intelligence and intuition

How to use magick in lawsuits

Magick and love

ideal machine for power performance

The Performer
An HD orgone generator®, combining radionics, precision frequencies, affirmation input and a great selection of 12 pre-set frequencies for performance -

It is Super Heavy Duty, twice the power of the RAD 2400 HD! Click here and get additional info about this extra powerful machine to boost magickal performance on all levelsClick here to order within the US - You can also video call us for a demo!

The magick in marketing

Use magick to block mind control

Magick and money

rad 5 magick radionics machine

The RAD 5
Very popular top of the line orgone generator®, combining radionics and precision frequencies on five positions, which are ideal for very effective magickal work: Basic action, trend, trend in the environment, target and alternate target. Great for complex spell work as well as protection - and all simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the RAD 5 and its use for very powerful magickal work on all levels Click here to order within the US You can also video call us for a demo!

musical creativity and success with the help of magick

Magickal work in politics

popularity with the help of magick

magickal astrology machine

The ATG 12
Top of the line Device with 12 orgone generators® in the ring, ideal to set up any astrological trend energy that you desire. This is the top of the line "astrological greenhouse" in which astrological settings help decisively in achieving the desired outcome of your magickal operations. Also it's excellent for complex spell work on multiple targets as well as protection - and all this you can do simultaneously. 2 audio inputs for affirmations. Click here and get additional info about the ATG 12 and its use for very powerful astro-magickal work on all levels - You can also video call us for a demo!

Help your profession and career

How to help relationships with magick

all about speed-learning

You can use magick in sports

boost supplements

living water

weight control

weight loss

well-being
Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog
Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells
Talisman Magick Course

Rune Ceremonials

Magick and Structural Links
Click Here to see my video

Magickal practice became possible as a result of the characteristic of life force to transfer at any EMF-defined distance. As you can find out in the course "Magick of the Future" (free course on the net), traditional magickal methods of every kind are technologies that require life force to function, and so do all methods related to it that evolved recently, such as treasure mapping, creative visualization, radionics, vision boards (same as the older "treasure mapping" from which it was derived and then promoted with a different label), etc. In other words, the practitioner who is aware of the basic function of life force (chi, orgone) and of its laws can harness it systematically and consciously in order to achieve the envisioned success faster and more reliably.

Therefore Life-Force-Boosted Magick is a technology that is based on exact science with precisely formulated principles such as intents, which are transferred into permanent "thought forms."

In the course "Magick of the Future" you can learn the principles of this science and you will find out that there is a common functioning principle (CFP) to all methods of action at a distance that we can label as "magickal," including the more recent ones, namely that all these methods are based on the use of Life Force (orgone, chi energy, prana, etc.) and Structural Links.

What are Structural Links?

Structural Links are established by objects (= structures) that are either identical (see the test below) or equivalent (such as magickal sigils, radionic rates, Reiki symbols, and other things representing abstractions) in nature. Identical or equivalent structures allow life force transfers in an EMF-defined universe (distance defined by EMF - Electro Magnetic Frequencies) from one point to another without significant loss of energy.

Yes, you did read correctly:

With the help of near-identical or equivalent structural links life force can be transferred at any distance without much loss of energy!

Yes!!! You can get the evidence if this By Now: Click Here and Test the Transfer of Life Force at any Distance, charge yourself, charge water and use it for your magick and other methods of manifestation, action at a distance, remote viewing, etc.! This is a FREE Test !!!

This exciting test most certainly will be a surprise for you!

Before you continue to gain a deeper understanding of this amazing new technology of Chi-Generator®-boosted Power Magick and its many uses, perform this experiment. This certainly will provide you with the evidence that you wanted !!! Feel free to contact us
on skype (Skype Link: chitechnology),
by chat, email or in the online showroom.

Life Force Bridges any Distance!
Click Here to see my video

The following test most certainly can be the greatest surprise in a lifetime, even when you are well versed in methods of magick, radionics, or similar methods of impact at a distance!

I am certain that you have heard of spells that follow people half around the globe ... usually resulting from some form of magick that they think they cannot escape, no matter how hard they try. Quite often the story goes that a skilled conjurer, shaman, or magician of their hometown had something in mind for them ... for good or for bad. The bad stories, of course, are a lot more popular "news" than all the good that such folks are performing.

How is such powerful work done?
In other words ...

You want to know how this powerful magick works...

You want to understand how it is possible that spells can follow people for decades, even if they are thousands of miles away...

You want to know it, because ...

You want the power to meet all your challenges, to solve all problems, and to be a total success in all matters!!!

Most importantly, now you can experience how our amazing technology can do it all for you! Now you can actually gain deep insights into the working of life force! You will find out that life force is the source of power of all radionics, ESP, and magickal work. Therefore, you are about to penetrate one of the most ancient of secrets ... something that people with vested interests (greed) wanted to keep a "secret" and capable people simply are "gifted" or they are capable because they had joined some cult! This seems very similar to claiming that your refrigertator can only work when you join some "coolnessology" cult. What follows now is the rare opportunity for you to have an eye-opening look into the workshop of the most powerful magicians, conjurers, and shamans.

Find out for yourself by now! Click here and perform the FREE, easy and truly amazing test !!! This easy-to-do test will certainly help you make decisions that can put you well on the way to positively change and greatly improve your life for the better !!!

As I said previously (later I am going to show you why), life force is the subtle energy, or psychic power, which is used in all known methods of magick, spiritual-religious work and miracles, treasure mapping, self-motivation, vision boards, affirmations, shamanic practice and any other psychic work, and, as you certainly know by now, there is a scientific explanation for all of these practices that work.

You can feel life force emanating from the printed diagram (some people even feel it off the screen!), because an identical diagram is in front of one of the Chi Generators® in our laboratories. That's extremely simple!!!

This experiment shows that you can use technology to harness and direct Life Force !!! It is technology, which is extremely easy to understand.

I suggest that you perform a few additional tests with life force: First, hold your hand above the chi card®, then above any other surface that is at least at a distance of 16 inches from the diagram. Notice the difference!

As is the case with all experiments of this kind, it is important that you perform it in a relaxed state of mind. If the main focus of your attention is tied up to other important or urgent situations, and especially if you are not relaxed, it may be a bit challenging to feel subtle energies ... similar as you cannot read easily when distracted otherwise.

Using this exciting new technology, the devices from HSCTI (Hyper Space Communications and Technologies International) generate and project life force (orgone) that you can harness for your overall success!

The Proof

This extraordinary test proves to you first hand that which sensitive and powerful persons of all ages (among them tai chi masters, reiki masters, yogis, shamans, conjurers, magicians, and priests performing spiritual work) knew all along: namely that life force (chi, prana, mana, etc... every culture and language has its own name for the same energy) transfers at any distance. Moreover, it does so without loss of energy. All that’s needed is the right structural link (some professionals prefer to call it “psychic link”) to establish contact! This fact makes their magick possible, even easy! In fact, it is so easy that everybody is now capable of working their magick!

This has been one of the reasons why many of these professionals decided to guard their powerful secrets like precious gems, making them available only to a few hand picked people! Under no circumstances did they want to lose their lucrative sources of income.

The Conclusion

You have just experienced one of the most guarded secrets of all ages, namely the transfer of life force (“magickal energy” or "psychic energy") at any distance!!! More importantly: you have just realized that many secrets of ancient cultures are technology, which is yours to use !!! You have just experienced that the effects of any type of magick or spiritual work, such as changing your life for the better, can be achieved by you easily with the help of our powerful technology!!!

By now it is obvious that this new technology can give everybody access to the power of these secrets because…

It is powerful technology in your hands … for lasting success and for positive permanent change !!!

magickal ritual Click Here to Continue (find out how magick works - magick facts)
Home
Astrology Course

Rune Magick Course
Orgone Generators®/Catalog
Autogenic Training Course

Rune Reading Course
Radionics
Cosmic Consciousness Course

Rune Yoga Course
Sports and Fitness
Magick of the Future Course

Rune Magick Book
Tarot Spells
Talisman Magick Course

Rune Ceremonials

Calculate Astrological Charts, Click Here to Download FREE Astrology Software for PC
One of the very best you can get, and it is for FREE !!!
Yes!   You can make good money promoting this exciting new technology !!!

Catalog

Contact

© 1996, 2010, by Karl Hans Welz - click here for legal information, disclaimers and trademark information

Documentary Videos on

Ancient Mysteries

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Egypt

John Anthony West Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 Part 6 Part 7 Part 8 Part 9 Part 10

John Anthony West's Egyptian History Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5

John Anthony West and Webster Tarpley, - Alan Steinfeld,

John Anthony West's BBC's The Age of the Sphinx

Graham Hancock, Robert Bauval, John Anthony West - The Mystery of the Sphinx Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5

Charlton Heston presents The Mystery of the Sphinx Part 1 Part 5

Omar Shariff presents The Mystery of the Great Pyramid Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 Part 6 Part 7

Stephen S. Mehler's Land Of Osiris - Egyptian Documentary

Joseph Campbell

Joseph_Campbell_-_The_Heros_Journey.

The Power of Myth- Joseph Campbell Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 Part 6

A Mythic Journey With Joseph Campbell Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Atlantis

BBC'S Atlantis Uncovered

Michael Tsarion The Destruction Of Atlantis - Was Atlantis A Center Of Advanced Civilization?

The Bermuda Triangle

Alan Landsbury The Bermuda Triangle

Bermuda Triangle Mystery Of Flight 19 Part 1 Part 2

The Bermuda Triangle

General

Laurence Gardner's Lost Secrets of the Sacred Ark(Ancient Technology Rediscovered) Part 1 Part 2

The Truth About the Ark of the Convenant

DIGGING FOR THE TRUTH

Bosnian Pyramids - International Validation

Chinese Pyramids

The World's Mysterious Places

Ancient Marvels Mysterious Pyramids

Thunderbolts of the Gods

India: The Lost Temples of India

Charlton Heston pressnts Mysterious Origins of Man - Forbidden Archeology

Digging for the Truth

Mysteries of the Sacred Universe

Alignments

The Heavens

Angkor Wat Cambodia

Scientific Verification of Vedic Knowledge

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Christopher Lee narrates: Strictly Supernatural, Tarot and Astrology

Cynthia Novak's Astrology and You Part 1 Part 2

Nostradamus: Nostradamus Nostradamus: His Life and Prophecies Prophecies of Nostradamus

A.R.E.'s Edgar Caye's Life Story Edgar Cayce: An American Prophet

The Great Cross & the End of Time

Secrets of the Mayan Calender Unveiled Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Full Feature Films

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Mythic: The Sword and the Dragon (1959) Colossus & the Amazon Queen (1960) Hercules (Steve Reeves) Devil of the Desert Against the Son of Hercules

Science Fiction: 20,000 Leagues under the Sea (Silent) Things to Come (1936) The Day the Earth Stood Still (1951 Unknown World (1951) Phantom from Space (1953) Killers From Space (1954) The Forbidden Planet (1956) They Came From Beyond Space (1957) Plan 9 From Outer Space (Ed Wood's "Worst Film Ever", 1958) The Time Machine (H.G Wells'1960) The Last Woman on Earth (1960) Star Trek: New Voyages - In Harm's Way - Special Edition (1960) Planet of the Vampires (1965) Voyage to the Prehistoric Planet (1965) Voyage to the Planet of Prehistoric Women The Last Man on Earth (Vincent Price) The Incredible Petrified World Solaris (1972)

Horror / Supernatural: The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari (1919)) Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde (1920) The Golem (How He Came Into the World, 1920) Nosferatu (1922) The Phantom of the Opera, (Lon Chaney, 1925) VAMPYR [1932] White Zombie (1932, Bela Lugosi) The Vampire Bat (1933) The Phantom Ship (1935, Bela Lugosi) The Mad Monster (1942) The Corpse Vanishes (Bela Lugosi; 1942) The Monster Maker (1944) Bluebeard (1944) Scared to Death (1947, Bela Lugosi) Bride of the Gorilla (Lon Chaney, Raymond Burr, 1951) House on Haunted Hill (1959, Vincent Price) Horror Hotel (Christopher Lee, 1960) The Terror (1963, Jack Nicholson, Boris Karloff) Night of the Living Dead (1968) Beyond Tomorrow The Demons of Ludlow

General: The Mark of Zorro (Douglas Fairbanks, 1920) The Last of the Mohicans (1920) The Beloved Rogue (1927) The Iron Mask (Douglas Fairbanks, 1929) Abraham Lincoln (1930) The Music Box(Laurel and Hardy, 1932) Any Old Port (laurel and Hardy, 1932) Bird of Paradise (1932) Towed_In_A_Hole_(Laurel and Hardy; 1932) Oliver Twist(1933) A Study in Scarlet (1933) The Man Who Knew Too Much (Hitchcock's, 1934) The Scarlet Pimpernel (1934) The Rise of Catherine the Great (Douglas Fairbanks, 1934) Modern Times (Charlie Chaplin, 1936) The Amazing Quest of Ernest Bliss (Cary Grant, 1936) Fire Over England (Lawrence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, 1937) King Solomon's Mines (Rider Haggard's 1937) Windjammer (1937) Algiers(1938) Alexander Nevsky (1938) Call of the Yukon (1938) Alexander Nevsky (1938) A Farewell to Arms /Ernest Hemingway's 1938) Mr. Smith Goes to Washington (1939) Gulliver's Travels (Animation, 1939 Made For Each Other (1939) Santa Fe Trail (1940) Little Men (1940) Meet John Doe (Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck, 1941) The Jungle Book (1942) Baby Face Morgan (1942) So's Your Aunt Emma (1942) Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon (Basil Rathbone 1943) The Outlaw (Jane Russell, Howard Hughes' 1943) Captain Kidd (Charles Laughton, 1945) Detour (1945) Scarlet Street (E.G. Robinson, Fritz Lang's 1945) Gangster's Den (1945) Dressed To Kill (Basil Rathbone as Sherlock Holmes, 1946) Sherlock Holmes - Woman in Green (Basil Rathbone) It's A Wonderful Life (James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, 1946) Angel on My Shoulder (Paul Muni, Claude Rains, Anne Baxter, 1946) My Favorite Brunette (Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Peter Lorre, 1947) The Inspector General (Danny Kaye, 1949) The Black Book AKA Reign of Terror (1949) The African Queen (1951) The Big Trees (Kirk Douglas, 1952) Mutiny (1952) Martin Luther (1953) The Fast & The Furious (Dorothy Malone, 1955) Fresh from Paris (1955) Swamp Women (1955) She Gods Of Shark Reef (1958) The White Warrior (Steve Reeves, 1959/1961) One-Eyed Jacks (Marlon Brando, Karl Maldon, 1961) Constantine and the Cross (1962) -- Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 His Girl Friday (Cary Grant, Rosalind Russell)

Links

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://video.google.com/

Documentary Videos on

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Seeds for a better world - Why go vegetarian

Intro to raw food (live food vegan/vegetarian) lifestyle

Supermarket Secrets Part Part 2

Brenda Davis: Seven Simple Steps to a Healthy Vegetarian Diet

Chocolate, Cheese, Meat, and Sugar -- Physically Addictive Foods

Vegetarian and meat-eating teenagers go head-to-head

Hot and Cold: Crucial Aspects of Herbalism

G. Edward Griffin - A World Without Cancer - The Story Of Vitamin B17

Hoxsey - How Healing Becomes A Crime. alt. cancer cure

Nutricide - Criminalizing Natural Health, Vitamins, and Herbs

We Become Silent - The Last Days Of Health Freedom

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

History

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Bancroft Centennial Symposium: Ancient Egypt and the Tebtunis Papyri

Babylon Mystery Nebucanezzar

Kingdom of David Part1 Part2

Persepolis Recreated

Bodrum_Ancient_Halicarnassus

Ancient Warriors - The Macedonians

Alexander the Great

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - Revolution

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - Caesar

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - Nero

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - Rebellion

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - The Fall of Rome

Ancient Rome: The Rise and Fall of an Empire - Constantine

Lost Civilizations - Byzantium

World War I Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Dixiland by Dino Fabrizio

Click to go to website

Music Clips

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

North American (U.S., Canada) Artists

Aerosmith Pink

Amos, Tori - China Crucify Sparks Sorta Fairytale God The Doughnut Song Glory Of the 80s 1000 Oceans Bliss Operator Raspberry Swirl

Aquilera, Christine - Hurt Ain-t-No-Other-Man Cruz

Badu, Erykha - Didn't Cha Know

Cale, J.J. - Crazy Mama Cloudy Day Cocaine Call Me The Breeze After Midnight (with Eric Clapton)

Cash, Johnny - Ring of Fire Walk The Line Hurt Redemption These Hands

Clark, Stanley - School Days

Cohen, Leonard: Suzanne Suzanne Who By Fire Hallelujah Take this Waltz One Thousand Kisses Deep The Sranger Dance Me To The End of Love First We Take Manhattan Closing Time The Guests The Gypsy's Wife Dance Me Chelsea Hotel Stranger Song The Future (live) In My Secret Life Memories Because Of

Croce, Jim - I'll Have To Say I Love You In A Song Operator Time in a Bottle Don't Mess Around With Jim Bad Bad Leroy Brown I've Got a Name: Photographs & Memories These Dreams

Crow, Sheryl Home All I Wanna Do Strong Enough If It Makes You Happy Always On Your Side (with Sting) The First Cut Is The Deepest Soak Up The Sun

Davis, Miles with Santana Burn

Doors - Live at Hollywood Bowl Light My Fire Break on Through (1967) The End (1975) People are Strange Rider on the Storm The Soft Parade Alabama Song Love Me Two Times LA Woman Roadhouse Blues Gloria Strange Days Not to Touch the Earth Spanish Caravan When The Music's Over Wild Child Blue Sunday Tell All The People Wishful Sinful Build Me a Woman Touch Me Back Door Man Hello I Love You Unknown soldier Love Her Madly The Severed Garden The Crystal Ship Sunset (Bird of Prey) Adagio

Dylan, Bob Hurricane Subterranean Homesick Blues

Dylan, Bob and Santana Blowin' in the Wind

Eagles with Eric Clapton: Hotel California

Ford, Tennessee Ernie 16 Tons
Garbage Bleed Like Me

Hooker, John Lee Tupelo Blues Hobo Blues I'm Leaving It Serves Me Right to Suffer Maudie

Hooker, Jon Lee and Santana The Healer
Jones, Nora -Come Away With Me That's The Way

Madonna Bedtime Story Love Profusion Frozen I'll Remember La Isla Bonita Vogue Like A Prayer Human Nature Take A Bow American Pie Don't Tell Me Justify My Love Rain

Manhattan Transfer - Gloria   Chanson d´Amour   Twilight Zone   Candy Cuéntame   Four Brothers   That Cat is High   Just Hang On   The Offbeat Of Avenues   Eso es el Amor   Embraceable You   Soul Food To Go   On a Little Street in Singapore   A World Apart

McKennitt, Loreen - The Mummers' Dance   The Bonny Swans   Arthas' Destiny Marrakesh Night Market   Desperado   Tango to Evora

Metallica   MTV Icon   Monsters Of_Rock_-_Moscow_91

Newman, Randy   Louisiana (1927)   Rednecks Live   Sail Away   Big Hat No Cattle   I Love L.A.   Falling In Love   Political Science   God's Song

Nine Inch Nails - La Mer   La Mer (video)

Pink - Trouble   Stupid Girl   Most Girls   Just Like a Pill   Don't Let Me Get Me Get The Party Started   God is a DJ   Who Knew   U and Ur Hand   Family Portrait   Paint Box   Respect   Nobody Knows   Janies Got a Gun

R.E.M. - Losing My Religion   Man On The Moon   Low   Everybody Hurts Find The River   Imitation Of Life   At My Most Beautiful   High Speed Train Daysleeper   Drive   Shiny Happy People   Orange Crush   The Sidewinder Sleeps Tonight   Fall On Me   One   Wolves, Lower   Nightswimming   All The Way To Reno   Bad Day   What s the Frequency Kenneth   The end of the world
Sade   Pearls   Kiss of Life

Santana Black Magic Woman   Europa   Oye Como Va   Samba Pa Ti   Soul Sacrifice (Woodstock 1969)

Santana and Jerry Garcia - Fire On The Mountain

Shannon. Del   Runaway   Searching   Little Town Flirt

Simon, Carly - Coming Around Again   You're So Vain   Let The River Run

Simon, Paul - American Tune   The Boy In The Bubble   Graceland   I Know What I Know   Call me Al   Obvious Child!   Diamonds on the Soles of Her Shoes!   Hearts and Bones   50 Ways To Leave Your Lover   Father and Daughter   Take Me To The Mardi Gras

Simon, Paul and Garfunkel, Art - The Sound of Silence   Old Friends

Smith, Patti - Because The Night   Rock'n'roll Nigger
SoundGarden Black Hole Sun

Springsteen, Bruce   Streets of Philadelphia   I'm On Fire   Dancing In The Dark Tougher Than The Rest   Secret Garden

Stefani, Gwen Southside Cool Candyland Danger Zone What You Waiting For

Taylor, James - Sweet Baby James Fire and Rain Carolina on My Mind Long Ago and Far Away Rainy Day Man Handy Man

Uriah Heep - The Wizard Gypsy July Morning Lady in Black Lady In Black Easy Living Sunrise Traveller in Time Stealin Rain Return To Fantasy Free Me Come Away Melinda Between Two Worlds Shelter From The Rain Sympathy All My Life Come Back To Me Wise Man (John Lawton) Think It Over

Vega, Suzanne - Luka Tom's Diner Tom's Diner (solo) Solitude Standing 99.9F Book and a Cover Book Of Dreams Marlene on the Wall Caramel Gypsy Calypso Cracking) Left of Center

Waits, Tom - Downtown Train Hold On Lie To Me Chocolate Jesus Temptation Jitterbug Boy Crossroads What's He Building Mr. Siegel

Zappa, Frank - I'm the Slime Cosmic Debris St Alphonso's Pancake Breakfast Zoot Allures Uncle Remus Bamboozled By Love Dinah-Moe Humm City Of Tiny Lites You are What You Is Inca Roads Alien Orifice Yo' Mamma Stevie's Spanking Montana Pound for a Brown Dummy Up Willie the Pimp (with Captain Beefhaeart) The Meek Shall Inherit Nothing He's So Gay Honey, Don't You Want A Man Like Me Suicide Conehead St. Etienne King Kong Camarillo Brillo Rollo Dog Breath Apostrophe Zappa on Crossfire - 1986

European (U.K. and Continental) Artists

10cc I'm Not in Love The Things We Do For Love Dreadlock Holiday Life is a Minestrone Art For Art's Sake I'm Mandy Fly Me Rubber Bullets The Dean And I Good Morning Judge

Adams, Bryan - All I Want Is You Everything I Do Lets Make a Night To Remember Have You Ever Really Loved A Woman Here I Am Somebody Open Road Heaven

Allan Parson's Project -The Raven Cask of Amontillado Eye In The Sky I Wouldn't Want To Be Like You

Arvanitaki, Eleftheria - Gia Ton Mation Sou To Hroma

Beatles A Day in the Life Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds Strawberry Fields Forever Yesterday While My Guitar Gently Weeps Eleanor Rigby

Beck, Jeff - Brush With The Blues Nadia Scatterbrain Lopsy Lu

Beck, Jeff and Santana - Super Boogie Part 1 Part 2

Bee Gees - How Deep Is Your Love

Bowie, David - Space Oddity

Clapton, Eric Layla (MTV Unplugged) Tears in Heaven (MTV Unplugged) Change The World After Midnight

Cream - Tales of Brave Ulysses Sunshine of your Love Crossroads I Feel Free Spoonful

Donovan Season Of The Witch

Electric Light Orchestra: Fire On High Twilight Strange Magic Ticket To The Moon Mr Blue Sky Hold on Tight Sweet Talkin' Woman

Enya - The Celts Book Of Days Amarantine Only if Caribbean Blue Only Time May Be it Storms in Africa May It Be Exile Sherpherd Moons Lothlorien piano It's In The Rain Sumiregusa Marble Halls (Live on TV show) Fallen Ambers On My Way Home I Want Tomorrow Anywhere Is View Of The Universe Titanic On Your Shore Long long journey Angels Na Leath Geal M'Oige

Fordham, Julia - Happy Ever After Love Moves in Mysterious Ways

Genesis - Stagnation Misunderstanding Illegal Alien Land Of Confusion

Godley and Creme - Cry

Hillage, Steve - Hurdy Gurdy Man Salmon Song It's All Too Much

Howe, Steve Mood for a Day

Jethro Tull - Heavy Horses

King Crimson The Court of the Crimson King The Construction of Light

Led Zeppelin Stairway to Heaven

Locomia (Spanish) - Rumba Samba Mambo

Manfred Mann's Earth Band Blinded By The Light Do Wah Diddy The Mighty Quinn Ha Ha, Said the Clown Fox on the Run 5 4 3 2 1

Massive Attack - Sly Live With Me Karmacoma Angel Teardrop Special Cases Butterfly Caught Protection Risingson Unfinished Sympathy Inertia Creeps Safe From Harm Daydreaming Black Milk Dissolved Girl Exchange Merlin False Flags

McLaughlin, John Mediterranean Concerto Cherokee

McLaughlin and Paco de Lucia Lotus Feet Spain Florianopolis (part 1) Florianopolis (part 2) Chiquito Frevo Rasgado

McLaughlin, Paco de Lucia and Laryy Curyell Guardian Angels Meeting of the Spirits

McLaughlin, Paco de Lucia and Al Di Meola Mediterranean

McLaughlin and Al Di Meola Tales of the Black Forest live

Pink Floyd: The Wall The Wall (version 2) One of These Days live Money Interstellar Overdrive Shine On You Crazy Diamond Comfortably Numb Pompei

Rolling Stones - Sympathy For The Devil Paint It Black Like A Rolling Stone Satisfaction Miss You Far Away Eyes Has Anybody Seen My Baby? Love Is Strong Terrifying Wild Horses Start Me Up Emotional Rescue She's So Cold Rocks Off Streets of love It´s Only Rock and Roll Worried About You Rough Justice We Love You Jumping Jack Flash Mixed Emotions Brown Sugar Loving Cup

Stansfiled, Lisa - All Around The World Change Never, Never Gonna Give You Up All Woman The Line People Hold On Let's Just Call It Love Live Together Real Thing Don't Explain This the Right Time Someday I2m Coming Back Time To Make You Mine You Can't Deny It If I Hadn't Got You Wicked Women

Stewart, Al Year of the Cat - Live On the Border Roads To Moscow

Stewart, Rod - Sailing Young Turks Maggie May Broken Arrow First Cut Is The Deepest Da Ya Think I'm Sexy

Tikaram, Tanita - Twist In My Sobriety Little Sister Leaving Town We Almost Got It Together Only the Ones We Love World Outside Your Window Cathedral Song You Make the Whole World Cry I Don't Wanna Lose at Love Good

Tradition I Might Be Crying Yodelling Song Stop Listening If I Ever

U2 - With Or Without You Beautiful Day The Saints are Coming Vertigo

Wakeman, Rick Merlin The Magician

Williams, Robbie Angels Feel Lovelight Make Me Pure Mr. Bojangles She's Madonna Sexed Up She's The One Tripping Radio

Yes Soon The Light Turn Of The Century

Latin / Afro-Latin
Cuban

Buena Vista Social Club - Chan Chan Chan Chan Y Tu Que Has Hecho El Cuarto de Tula Silencio Maria en la playa - Compay Segundo Casabe y Macho Mi linda Guajira Ahora me da Pena Amadito Valdes

Brazilian

Evora, Cesaria - Mar Azul Petit Pays Sodade Beijo Roubado

Gilberto, Bebel. Samba De Bancao

Gilberto, Astrud with Stan Getz - The Girl From Ipanema, Corcovado (Quiet Night of Quiet Stars)

Monte, Marisa Segue o Seco Bem Que Se Quis Amor I love You Diariamente Gentileza A Sua

Moreiro, Airto -Solo Percussion with Vocal

Powell de Aquiino, Baden - Samba Triste Tristeza Berimbau, Astronauta e Formosa Prelude in A minor Pout-Pourri

Regina, Elis - Romaria Me Deixas Louca O Bebado e o Equlibrista Onze Fitas Na Baixa do Sapateiro O bêbado e o Equilibrista É Com Esse Que Eu Vou Menino Atras da Porta O que foi feito devera Travessia

Toquinho e Vinícius - Samba de Orly

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

New Age, UFO and Parapsychology

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Parapsychology

Mind over Matter Experiments - Psychokinesis Telekinesis Paranormal Part 1 Part 2

Rupert Sheldrake's Morphic Fields BBC 1994 Paranormal Experiments done by Science

'The Extended Mind' Rupert-Sheldrake New 2005 Paranormal Experimental Evidence

LSD - The Wihtin Beyond

Reincarnation = Fact of Fiction?

One Step Beyond: The Night of April 14th (1959) Emergency Only (1959) Dead Ringer (1960)

Da Vinci Code

The Real Da Vinci Code

Da Vinci Code Decoded

The da Vinci Code: Fact or Fiction?

Religion

The Virus of Faith Part 1 Part 2

Exposing Deceptions Origins Modern Religions - Jordan Maxwell Part 1 Part 2

Huston Smith's World's Religions

Who's Afraid of Islam? Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

New Age

Deepak Chopra Way of the Wizard Explorations into Consciousness

Legend of Atlantis: Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5

The Cosmic Plan

Gods of the New Age (1984)

Sacred Mysteries Presents

The Miracle Healers Handbook from A Course In Miracles

Conspiracies and Mind Control

BBC's (Adam Curtis) The Power Of Nightmares Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

BBC's (Adam Curtis) The Century of Self Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4

Dark Secrets: Inside the Bohemina Grove The Order of Death

Secrets of the CIA

Tesla, Future Science and UFO's

Tesla - the missing secrets of Nikola Tesla

Tesla: Master of Lightning

Tesla, The Genius Who Lit The World

Equinox - It Runs on Water (Free Energy - 1995

The Free Energy Secrets of Cold Electricity

Free Energy: The Race to Zero Point

THE INVISIBLE MACHINE - ELECTROMAGNETIC WARFARE

Secret Weapons: Scalar Wave Weaponry

Nick Begich; Are You a Manchurian Candidate? Angels Don't Play this Haarp

Horizon - Most of our Universe is Missing (Dark Matter)

BBC's Time Travel

BBC's Immortality

The Roswell Incident

The Legacy of Colonel Philip J. Corso Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Compilation of UFO Video Footage and Testimony

UFO's: The Secret Evidence (Oct. 2005)

Area 51 - Real Alien Footage

Ancient Aliens

The Nephilim Return

Orgone Energy, Wilhelm Reich and UFOs

Cults and Ideologies

Nazis: The Occult Conspiracy Part 1 Part 2 Secrets of the Third Reich The Occult History of the Third Reich Adolf Hitler

Anton LaVey's Speak of the Devil

Scientology: "The shrinking world of Scientology

Human rights advocate Dr Robert Lifton discusses brainwashing cults

Beyond Human - Heaven's Gate Cult - Part 1 Part 2

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

Science

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Carl Sagan's Cosmos * Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 * Part 5 Part 6 Part 7 Part 8 Part 9 Part 10 * Part 11 Part 12 Part 13 (*removed by google)

BBC's Space Part 1 * Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 Part 6 (*removed)

Stephen Hawking's Universe Part 1- Seeing is Believing Part 2-Big Bang Part 3- Cosmic Alchemy Part 4- The Dark Side Part 5- Black Holes and Beyond Part 6- An Answer to Everything

The Elegant Universe: Part 1- Einstein's Dream (1/5) (2/5) (3/5) (4/5) (5/5)

Part 2- String's the Thing (1/5) (2/5) (3/5) (4/5) (5/5)

Part 3- Welcome to the 11th Dimension (1/5) (2/5) (3/5) (4/5) (5/5)

What We Still Don't Know Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Horizon - Most of our Universe is Missing

BBC Documentary - Horizon 2002 - Parallel Universes
Unlocking the Mystery of Life

Unveiling a Black Hole at the Center of the Milky Way

NASA Connect - Ancient Observatories: Timeless Knowledge

Edward O. Wilson - Sociobiology

Exploring Life Extension

Land of the Tiger

The Mystery of the Human Hobbit (Horizon 2005)

The Holographic Universe Beyond Matter

Thunderbolts of the Gods

Psychology

Carl Jung Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Carl Jung - Matter of Heart

The Primacy of Consciousness - Peter Russell

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

Secret Societies /

Esoteric Orders

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for views held in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Other

The Knights Templars

The Order of the Knights of Malta

Secret Mysteries of America's Beginning

Masonry - Behind Close Doors

The Ancient Mysteries and Modern Masonry

Occult history of America - The New Atlantis

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos of

Shamanism

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Terence McKenna's Seeking the Stone Part 1 Part 2

Live the Magic Rainmaking

Interview with a Lakota Indian

Fire on the Mountain: A Gathering of Shamans

Shamans of the Amazon - Ayahuasca documentary

Visionary Shamanism: Ritual Healing in Peruvian Huachuma Curanderismo

Jungle Trip AYAHUASCA

Enigma of a Sorceror (Claros Castenada)

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

The Occult

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Esoterism

Hermeticism and Gnosticism, Part 1 Part 2

The Spiritual Dimensions of Time Travel

Cracking the Gnostic Code

Trobriand Rebirth and the Fate of the Soul: An Old Debate Revisited

Scientific Verification of Vedic Knowledge

Manly P. Hall- Search for the Essential Meaning of Life

Cabala

Qabalah Lodge's The Qabalah Codex

Rav. Michael Laitman's Attaining the Upper Worlds Part 1, Part 2

Alchemy

Platonism and Alchemy

Astral Projection

Robert Bruce - New Energy Ways - Demonstration 6of6

Occult / Magic

Disinformation Part 1 Part 2

The Occult Experience

LBRP

The Middle Pillar Excercise

Analysis of the Key Word

Virtual Vault of the Adepti of the Golden Dawn

Invocation of Horus

Solo Druid Ritual

Aliester Crowley The Wickedest Man In The World Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

Aleister Crowley - Who Was The Beast 666

BBC's Aleister Crowley The Other Lock Ness Monster

The Craft Magick

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos On

Tibet

Home

Tibet: Tibet: Lost Civilization Tibet: Cry of the Snow Lion Tibet: Does History Matter?

The Tantra of Gyuto

The Tibetan Book of the Dead Part 1 Part 2

Tibetan_Book_of_the Dead_the_Way of_Lifei

Tibetan_Book_of_the_Dead__The_great_Liberation.avi

Sand Mandala Ceremony with the Tibetan Monks of Gaden Shartse Monastery

Tibetan Medicine Tibetan Medicine: Integration In Research and In The Clinic

Witness For The World: The Dalai Lama

A Tibetan Monk

Lama Karma Namgyal: Lama Dances

Himalayan Pilgrimage

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos on

Yoga and Chi Kung

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

QT Yoga Sun Salutation

Yoga Ramdev Part 1 Part 2

Yoga of Heart -- The Healing Power of Intimate Connection Introduction

Buddhism, Meditation, Yoga and Nirvana-Interview with Ven Dhammadipa

Discover the Spirit Within : Introduction to Raja Yoga Meditaion

Yoga for Emotional Health with Lisa Powers and Peter Van Houten MD

Yoga for Higher Awareness

Free Hatha Yoga Video Class - My Yoga Online TV DVD

Easy Ground Work Hatha Yoga Flow

Astanga-Animation 2006

Meditation Therapy for Health and Healing with Jyotish Novak

Increase Your Immunity and Vitality

Discovering Qigong

KungFu: Mantis Sword play

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Documentary Videos by the Theosophical Society

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Theosophy E-Books

Theosophy Library

Theosophy Links

Videos Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

The Mysterious Madame Blavatsky

Blavatsky's Tibet

Studies in the Key to Theosophy, Part 1

Studies in The Key to Theosophy, Part 2

The Theosophical Society in America: An Illustrated History

Mysticism and Religion

Death and Immortality

Perspectives on N. Sri Ram's Teachings

The Strength of Gentle Wisdom

Foundations of the Ageless Wisdom (part one)

Foundations of the Ageless Wisdom (part two)

The Divine Plan (part one)

The Divine Plan (part two)

Interrelations Between Planetary and Human Evolution

Globalization and Spirituality, Introduction

Globalization and Spirituality, Part 1

Globalization and Spirituality, Part 2

A Mind to Embrace the Universe

Moving Toward Wholeness

Cracking the Gnostic Code

Hermeticism and Gnosticism, Part 1

Hermeticism and Gnosticism, Part 2

Greek Religion and Philosophy through Neoplatonism, Part 1

Greek Religion and Philosophy through Neoplatonism, Part 2

The Spiritual Dimensions of Time Travel

The Yoga of Time Travel, Part 1

The Yoga of Time Travel, Part 2

The Spiritual Lessons of Chaos

Reincarnation — The Untrue Fact

The Structure & Function of the Chakras

The Seven Rays

The Ancient Mysteries and Modern Masonry

Female Buddhas in Tibetan Mysticism

Practical Tantric Buddhist Methods, Part 1

Vegetarianism and Spirituality

Harry Potter and the Mystic Quest

Aging & Dying, Part 1 by Ram Dass

Aging & Dying, Part 2 by Ram Dass

Aging & Dying, Part 3 by Ram Dass

Revelation, the Timeless Flash

The Still Point Between Good and Evil

Letters to a Dying Friend

I'm Dead! Now What? (Part 1 of 3)

"War and the Soul" by Ed Tick

Seek Out the Way

Shamanic Healing Techniques

Guideposts for Living: At the Feet of the Master (part one)

Guideposts for Living: At the Feet of the Master (part two)

A Mind to Embrace the Universe

Mystical Verses of a Mad Dalai Lama

A Guidepost for Living - At The Feet of the Masters (Part One)

A Guidepost for Living - At The Feet of the Masters (Part Two)

Documentary Videos of Manly P. Hall

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Passing the Lamp- The Life of Manly P. Hall

Victory of the Soul Over Circumstance

Search for the Essential Meaning of Life

Success is the Accomplishment of The Necessary

Love of Truth

The Twenty-First Century- A New Beginning

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Other Documentary Videos

Hermetics.org does not necessariily share nor is responsible for the views in the below videos

Home

Main Menu

Ancient Mysteries

Astrology, Diviniation and Prophesy

Full Length Films

Health, Diet and Natural Medecine

History

Music Clips

New Age, Conspiracies, Tesla, UFO's

Science, Psychology

Secret Societies, Chivalric and Esoteric Orders

Shamanism

The Occult, Esoterism, Cabala, Alchemy, Magic

Tibet

Yoga, Chi Kung, Eastern Methods

Theosophy

Manly P. Hall

Other

Mythology

Hawaiian - The Mo'olelo of Ko'ie'ie Fishpond

Maps of Meaning: Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Part 4 Part 5 Part 6 Part 7 Part 8 Part 9 Part 10 Part 11 Part 12 Part 13

Da Vinci Code

Da Vinci Code Decoded

The da Vinci Code: Fact or Fiction?

Religion

The Virus of Faith Part 1 Part 2

Huston Smith's World's Religions

Who's Afraid of Islam? Part 1 Part 2 Part 3

The Lost Gospels

Prof. Morton Smith - The Gnostic Gospels

Fantasy, Music & Dance

A Demonstration of Gurdjieff Sacred Dances

Gurdjieff Rebecca Lytle Memorial Scholarship Concert - Hymns

Kenneth Anger's Lucifer Rising Part 1 Part 2 Part 3 Inauguration of the Pleasure Dome Invocation of My Demon Brother

Wagner's The Ring of the Nibelung

Antonius Rex's Ritual Magic

Euterperocks' Crowley Mass Boleskine

666Deviant's Crossing the Styx

Cradel of Filth's Mr. Crowley Mr. Crowley

Astral Projection

Literature:

J.R.R. Tolkien: Father of Modern Fantasy Literature

Rabindranath Tagore (1861-1941)

Links

http://video.google.com/

http://www.youtube.com/

http://www.publicdomaintorrents.com/

Skip to content
Kheper
Kabbalah

Kabbalah
Table of Contents

1. Pre-Kabbalistic Development:

Sefer Yetzirah

essay: Numerology and Classification in Sefer Yezirah and in the Chinese Tradition
– by Prof. E.A.Tortchinov
2. Kabbalah within the Judaic Tradition

Historical Development

Basic Concepts

essay: Pardes:The Quest For Spiritual Paradise In Judaism lectures by Dr Moshe Idel

Sefer Zohar

Lurianic Kabbalah

The Sabbatean Tradition (Antinomian Kabbalah)

diagram: The Tree of Life according to the Ari
by Dr. Bryan Griffith Dobbs

Astrologia Theosophica article by Mazohir (Dovid ben Areyah) on Astrology, Hermetic mysticism, and Kabbalah.

The Problem of Exoteric and Esoteric in Juaism

The Book of Abramelin – translator’s thoughts – places this important mnedieval grimore within its original Jewish context.
3. Non-Judaic Kabbalah:

Christian Kabbalah

Hermetic Qabalah links and books

general links

Kabbalistic Books

advertisement

Tree of Life Five Metals Ring Ana Becoach ring

Kabbalah Jewelry and Jewish JewelryBy the Artist – David Weitzman

Menu

Donate
Login
Learn Authentic Kabbalah With Yedidah

Check out the new weekly group courses that Yedidah is offering:

The Oral Teachings of Rabbi Ashlag (Inner work)

Connection with the Soul – Rabbi Kalonymus Kalman Shapira
About
Learning with Yedidah: one- on- one and in small groups
Yedidah is happy to guide you through the intricacies of Kabbalah, to discover this incredible wisdom that can help you personally in your life, as it has helped me. You can learn with Yedidah one- on- one, and she will guide you to create your own relationship with this deepest wisdom. Or you can join a group class which gives you the vibrancy and challenge of learning together with others.
Read More
Learning with Yedidah Cohen Courses
Tapestry course

The Introduction to the Zohar is a fascinating exploration of ourselves. The Zohar itself is written in a specific language, which makes it hard for the ordinary person..

Shamati

The oral teachings of Rabbi Yehudah Leib Ashlag Yedidah helps English speakers have access to these beautiful spiritual on the inner service of God..
Petichah

Each one of us is a unique eternal soul placed in the complex package we call the human being. Just imagine if you were suddenly transported to a city you didn’t know..
Teshuvah

Our relationship with our true Self, with the Creator, is too precious, both to ourselves and to God, to allow us to stay estranged . During the year we have made mistakes ..
Yedidah is on Zoom, Youtube, all major podcasting channels

More than 50 talks available for you to listen, learn and enjoy. From ten minutes to an hour. They are categorized into three main sections:
Kabbalah in daily life;
The Study of Kabbalah;
The Meanings of the Festivals according to Kabbalah Participate in a live Zoom class with Yedidah every Thursday : 12:30 pm EST; 7:30pm Israel

Subscribe YouTube
Subscribe Zoom
Subscribe podcast
Recommendations
Play
Play
Play
Play
Play
Play
Play
Play
Publications
The Master of the Ladder

The Life and Teachings of Rabbi Yehudah Leib Ashlag by Rabbi Avraham Mordecai Gottleib□Translated …
Read More
A Tapestry for the Soul

The Introduction to the Zohar by Rabbi Yehudah Lev Ashlag.□Explained using excerpts collated from…
Read More
The Path of the Ladder

The Principles of the Service of God: according to the teaching of Rabbi Yehudah Lev Ashlag Elucidated by Rabbi…
Read More
jjjjjklkl
In the shadow of the Ladder

Introductions to Kabbalah by Rabbi Yehudah Lev Ashlag Translated from the Hebrew….
Read More
Frequently Asked Questions
What is Kabbalah?

The Kabbalah is the innermost aspect of Judaism. You can call it “the soul of Judaism” and it corresponds to our own soul. it is called the “hidden wisdom” becauseit deals with our intentions towards ourselves , each other and God. Our actions can be seen for the outside , but only we really know what we mean by them
Why is it important to learn Kabbalah?
Is there a part of the Kabbalah which is forbidden for us to study?
I am a young woman. Is it alright for me to learn Kabbalah? I thought I had to be over forty....
Is it permissible for me to learn the Kabbalah if I don't keep Torah and mitzvot?
Would you like to help bring forth his light by supporting Yedidah's work?
Donate Now
Subscribe & Get a Free eBook: The Paradox of Creation!

Our goal is to maintain high-standards of authenticity in the publication and teaching of the material of Rabbi Ashlag both in Hebrew and in English.
Useful Links

- Contact
- Registration
- Prices and Terms

More Links

- Podcasts
- Nehora School Audio
- Recorded Classes
- Parasha Poems

Our Products

- journey-to-tsfat
- Media
- Press Release

© 2024 Nehora Press By Choice, LLC. All rights reserved.
Facebook
Whatsapp

Donmeh West
Popular destinations

Discover Your Perfect Stay
London Hotels
London Hotels
Are you planning a trip to London and wondering where to stay? With so many options available, it can be overwhelming to decide where to book your accommodations. One of the top choices for travelers when visiting London is staying...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
York Hotels
York Hotels
There are 41 hotels and other accommodations in York city centre to choose from. We recommend Monkbridge House as the best hotel with a golf course, housekeeping service, valet parking, set 0.8 km from the city centre. Radisson Hotel, The...

Thomas Wood
2 months ago
Amsterdam Hotels
Amsterdam Hotels
When planning a trip to Amsterdam, one of the most important decisions you will have to make is where to stay. With countless options available including hotels, hostels, and vacation rentals, it can be overwhelming to choose the right accommodation...

Thomas Wood

1 year ago
Dubai Hotels
Dubai Hotels
Are you planning a trip to the mesmerizing city of Dubai? If so, you may be wondering where to stay during your visit. While there are various accommodation options available, nothing quite compares to the luxury and convenience of staying...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Sydney Hotels
Sydney Hotels
Sydney, the bustling capital of New South Wales, Australia, is a city that truly has something for everyone. With its iconic landmarks, beautiful beaches, vibrant dining scene, and rich cultural offerings, it's no wonder why so many travelers flock to...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Melbourne Hotels
Melbourne Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to MelbourneWhen it comes to planning a trip to Melbourne, visitors are often faced with a myriad of accommodation options, from charming hostels to luxurious vacation rentals. However, hotels remain the popular choice for...

Thomas Wood
11 months ago
BALI Hotels
BALI Hotels
Go here to see more central hotels.

Thomas Wood
5 months ago
Brighton Hotels
Brighton Hotels
Brighton is a charming coastal city located on the south coast of England, known for its beautiful beaches, vibrant culture, and lively atmosphere. Whether you are planning a relaxing beach getaway or looking to explore the city's many attractions, Brighton...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Las Vegas Hotels
Las Vegas Hotels
Las Vegas, known as the entertainment capital of the world, is a city that attracts millions of visitors each year. With its vibrant nightlife, world-class casinos, and luxurious resorts, it's no wonder why people from all over the globe flock...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Monte Carlo Hotels
Monte Carlo Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to Monte CarloWhen it comes to planning a trip to the luxurious enclave of Monte Carlo, the question of accommodation often comes to the forefront. With its stunning Mediterranean views, glamorous casinos, and a...

Thomas Wood
10 months ago
Edinburgh Hotels
Edinburgh Hotels

When planning your next trip to Edinburgh, the accommodation options may seem endless. From quaint bed and breakfasts to luxurious apartments, the choices can be overwhelming. However, one option that should not be overlooked is staying in a hotel. There...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Belfast Hotels
Belfast Hotels
Travelling to Belfast, the vibrant capital city of Northern Ireland, is an experience filled with rich history, breathtaking landscapes, and warm hospitality. When planning your trip to this exciting destination, one important decision to make is where to stay during...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Krakow Hotels
Krakow Hotels
Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 36 customers' reviews show the top places in Krakow city centre. We recommend Pollera as the best hotel with cots, a photocopy machine, 24-hour security service, set 0.3 km from the city centre. Other...

Thomas Wood
3 months ago
Playa Blanca (Lanzarote) Hotels
Playa Blanca (Lanzarote) Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to Playa Blanca (Lanzarote) When planning a getaway to Playa Blanca, Lanzarote, travelers are often faced with a myriad of accommodation options, from traditional hotels to private apartments. However, opting for hotels can significantly enhance your...

Thomas Wood
9 months ago
Rome Hotels
Rome Hotels
When planning a trip to Rome, one of the first decisions you'll have to make is where to stay. With so many accommodation options available, it can be overwhelming to choose the right one for your trip. While Airbnb rentals...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Paris Hotels
Paris Hotels
When planning a trip to the City of Love, one of the most crucial decisions to make is where to stay. With a plethora of options, it can be overwhelming to choose between hotels, vacation rentals, or hostels. However, there...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Sa Pa Hotels
Sa Pa Hotels
Sa Pa, nestled in the picturesque mountains of northwest Vietnam, is a popular destination for travelers seeking natural beauty and cultural experiences. One of the biggest decisions travelers need to make when planning their trip to Sa Pa is where...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Hurghada Hotels
Hurghada Hotels
When planning a trip to the beautiful city of Hurghada, Egypt, one of the first decisions to make is where to stay. With so many accommodation options available, from budget-friendly hostels to luxurious resorts, choosing the right place to rest...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Marrakesh Hotels
Marrakesh Hotels

Marrakesh is a vibrant and exotic destination that offers a unique and unforgettable travel experience. With its bustling souks, historic landmarks, and lively atmosphere, Marrakesh is a must-visit destination for any traveler looking to immerse themselves in a rich and...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Venice Hotels
Venice Hotels

When planning a trip to Venice, one of the most important decisions you'll have to make is where to stay. With so many accommodation options available, it can be tempting to explore alternative choices like vacation rentals or hostels. However,...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Oxford Hotels
Oxford Hotels

Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 10310 visitors' reviews show the top places in Oxford city centre. Providing cots, a special menu, cycling on site, Old Bank Hotel rated 8.6/10 is set a 5-minute walk from the city centre. Malmaison...

Thomas Wood
6 months ago
Tokyo Hotels
Tokyo Hotels
Tokyo, the bustling metropolis of Japan, is a city that is a melting pot of tradition and modernity. From ancient temples to high-tech skyscrapers, Tokyo offers a unique experience to travellers from all corners of the world. When planning a...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Bournemouth Hotels
Bournemouth Hotels
Planning a trip to Bournemouth? If you're considering where to stay during your visit, let us make the case for choosing hotels over other accommodation options. While Bournemouth offers a variety of lodging choices, hotels provide a level of comfort,...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Tagaytay City Hotels
Tagaytay City Hotels
There are 32 hotels and other accommodations in Tagaytay City city centre to choose from. Located 0.1 km from the city centre, Taal Vista Hotel offers an outdoor swimming pool, shuttle service, children's menu on site. Tagaytay Prime Residence -...

Thomas Wood
4 months ago
Durban Hotels
Durban Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to Durban When planning a trip to the vibrant city of Durban, South Africa, one of the first decisions you'll face is where to stay. With its stunning beaches, rich cultural heritage, and thrilling attractions, Durban...

Thomas Wood
6 months ago
Singapore Hotels
Singapore Hotels
Welcome to our blog post, where we aim to explore the reasons why choosing hotels is the best option when traveling to Singapore. As one of the most vibrant and diverse cities in the world, Singapore offers a plethora of...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Inverness Hotels
Inverness Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to Inverness When it comes to planning a trip to the enchanting city of Inverness, the choices are almost limitless—from picturesque landscapes to rich historical attractions. However, one decision stands out as pivotal to the overall...

Thomas Wood
9 months ago
Barcelona Hotels
Barcelona Hotels
Are you planning a trip to the beautiful city of Barcelona? If so, you may be wondering where to stay during your visit. While there are various options available, one of the most popular choices among travelers is to stay...

Thomas Wood

1 year ago
Sunny Beach Hotels
Sunny Beach Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to Sunny Beach When planning a getaway to the picturesque Sunny Beach on Bulgaria's Black Sea coast, travelers often find themselves immersed in a sea of accommodation options. Among these, hotels stand out as a premier...

Thomas Wood
7 months ago
Budapest Hotels
Budapest Hotels
When it comes to planning a trip to Budapest, choosing the right accommodation is key to ensuring a comfortable and enjoyable stay. While there are many options available, hotels remain a popular choice for travelers looking for convenience, amenities, and...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Gold Coast Hotels
Gold Coast Hotels
Are you planning a trip to the stunning Gold Coast in Australia? If so, one of the most important factors to consider when planning your vacation is where you will stay. While there are many accommodation options available in Gold...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Puerto De Mogan Hotels
Puerto De Mogan Hotels
There are 7 hotels and other accommodations in Puerto De Mogan city centre to choose from. We recommend Hotel Cordial Mogan Playa as the best hotel with a tennis court, an outdoor swimming pool, a gaming room, set 0.7 km...

Thomas Wood
2 months ago
Antalya Hotels
Antalya Hotels
Antalya, located on the southwest coast of Turkey, is a breathtaking destination known for its stunning beaches, rich history, and vibrant culture. When planning a trip to this spectacular city, one of the most important decisions you'll have to make...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Queenstown Hotels
Queenstown Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to QueenstownNestled between the breathtaking Southern Alps and the shimmering waters of Lake Wakatipu, Queenstown is renowned for its stunning scenery and myriad of adventure activities. From adrenaline-pumping bungee jumping to serene gondola rides,...

Thomas Wood
11 months ago
Ibiza Town Hotels
Ibiza Town Hotels
Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 12153 travellers' reviews show the top places in Ibiza Town city centre. One of the best hotels in Ibiza Town city centre is Hotel Royal Plaza rated 8.2/10 from 51US$ per night. Sud Ibiza...

Thomas Wood
6 months ago

Protaras Hotels
Protaras Hotels
Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 14 guests' reviews show the top places in Protaras city centre. We recommend Sunrise Beach Hotel as the best hotel with a tennis court, shuttle service, table tennis, set 0.1 km from the city...

Thomas Wood
2 months ago
Prague Hotels
Prague Hotels
Prague, the capital city of the Czech Republic, is a picturesque destination that offers a blend of history, culture, and modern attractions that are sure to captivate any traveler. With so much to see and do in this stunning city,...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Lisbon Hotels
Lisbon Hotels
There are 90 hotels and other accommodations in Lisbon city centre to choose from. One of the best hotels in Lisbon city centre is Rossio Garden Hotel rated 8.4/10 from 29US$ per night. Hotel Santa Justa with rating 8.2/10 and...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Istanbul Hotels
Istanbul Hotels
If you're planning a trip to Istanbul, the question of where to stay is probably at the forefront of your mind. With so many accommodation options available, from hostels and guesthouses to rental apartments and boutique hotels, it can be...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Ksamil Hotels
Ksamil Hotels
There are 118 hotels and other accommodations in Ksamil city centre to choose from. Located 0.1 km from the city centre, Nobbu Hotel offers airport shuttle service, bar, a free private car park on site. Il Mio, Feniks Hotel, Hotel...

Thomas Wood
1 month ago
Athens Hotels
Athens Hotels
Athens, the capital city of Greece, is a vibrant and historical destination that attracts travelers from all over the world each year. With its rich cultural heritage, ancient ruins, and delicious cuisine, there is no shortage of things to see...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Surfers Paradise Hotels
Surfers Paradise Hotels
There are 7 hotels and other accommodations in Surfers Paradise city centre to choose from. We recommend Mantra Towers Of Chevron as the best hotel with an outdoor swimming pool, an indoor swimming pool, a gaming room, set 0.2 km...

Thomas Wood
1 month ago
Brisbane Hotels
Brisbane Hotels
Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 4756 customers' reviews show the top places in Brisbane city centre. Tribeca Apartments rated 8.0/10 is the best hotel with cots, a gym, a swimming pool, located 15 minutes' walk from the city centre....

Thomas Wood
11 months ago
Toronto Hotels
Toronto Hotels
Planning a trip to Toronto and unsure about where to stay? When it comes to accommodation options, hotels are often a top choice for many travelers. From comfort and convenience to amenities and location, hotels offer a range of benefits...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Lincoln Hotels
Lincoln Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to LincolnTraveling to Lincoln offers a fantastic blend of history, culture, and stunning landscapes, making it an ideal destination for both leisure and adventure seekers. As you plan your visit to this charming city,...

Thomas Wood
10 months ago
Vienna Hotels
Vienna Hotels
Our donmeh-west.com travel data based on 23860 customers' reviews show the top places in Vienna city centre. Providing concierge service, a wellness centre, and foot massage on site, The Amauris - Relais & Chateaux rated 8.4/10 is set a 10-minute...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Leicester Hotels
Leicester Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to Leicester When exploring the vibrant city of Leicester, it's essential to find the perfect accommodation that enhances your travel experience. Amidst the historical landmarks, diverse culture, and bustling market squares, hotels offer a unique blend...

Thomas Wood
11 months ago
Bora Bora Hotels
Bora Bora Hotels
Bora Bora is one of the most beautiful and sought-after travel destinations in the world. Known for its crystal-clear turquoise waters, stunning sunsets, and overwater bungalows, it's no wonder why so many travelers dream of visiting this tropical paradise. When...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Newquay (Cornwall) Hotels
Newquay (Cornwall) Hotels
Are you planning a trip to the beautiful seaside town of Newquay in Cornwall, but aren't sure where to stay? In a place as stunning as Newquay, you'll want to choose accommodation that gives you the perfect base to explore...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Grindelwald Hotels
Grindelwald Hotels
There are 32 hotels and other accommodations in Grindelwald city centre to choose from. Located 0.8 km from the city centre, Boutique Hotel Glacier offers a spa lounge, a steam room, snow skiing on site. Other options to stay in...

Thomas Wood
3 months ago
Phuket Hotels
Phuket Hotels
Are you planning a trip to Phuket, Thailand? If so, you may be wondering where to stay during your visit. While there are various accommodation options available, hotels remain the most popular choice for travelers. In this blog post, we...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Sorrento Hotels
Sorrento Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to SorrentoWhen planning a getaway to the stunning Amalfi Coast, Sorrento stands out as a must-visit destination. With its breathtaking views of the Bay of Naples, charming narrow streets, and delectable cuisine, it’s no...

Thomas Wood
11 months ago
Manchester Hotels
Manchester Hotels
Manchester, a bustling city known for its rich industrial history, iconic music scene, and vibrant culture, is a top destination for travelers from all around the world. When planning a trip to this exciting city, one of the most important...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Liverpool Hotels
Liverpool Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to LiverpoolLiverpool, a vibrant city known for its rich maritime history, iconic music scene, and bustling cultural life, draws millions of visitors each year. From the historic Albert Dock to the contemporary Tate Liverpool,...

Thomas Wood
9 months ago
Cape Town Hotels
Cape Town Hotels
Cape Town is a city known for its breathtaking landscapes, rich history, and vibrant culture. It's no wonder that it's a top travel destination for people from all over the world. When planning a trip to Cape Town, one of...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Portsmouth Hotels
Portsmouth Hotels
There are 7 hotels and other accommodations in Portsmouth city centre to choose from. We recommend Royal Maritime Hotel as the best hotel with an indoor swimming pool, children's menu, a Jacuzzi, set 0.9 km from the city centre. Click...

Thomas Wood
3 months ago
Marbella Hotels
Marbella Hotels
Welcome to the beautiful coastal city of Marbella, nestled in the heart of the stunning Costa del Sol. If you're planning a trip to this Mediterranean paradise, you may be wondering where to stay during your visit. While there are...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Madrid Hotels
Madrid Hotels
Why choose hotels when travelling to MadridMadrid, the vibrant capital of Spain, is a city rich in history, culture, and countless attractions. It's no wonder that it's a popular destination for travelers from around the world. When planning a trip...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Milan Hotels
Milan Hotels
There are 39 hotels and other accommodations in Milan city centre to choose from. One of the best hotels in Milan city centre is Hotel Nuovo rated 8.2/10 from 61US$ per night. Hotel Ariston, Serendipity Rooms, and Antica Locanda Dei...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Albufeira Hotels
Albufeira Hotels
There are 25 hotels and other accommodations in Albufeira city centre to choose from. We recommend Rocamar Exclusive Hotel & Spa - Adults Only as the best hotel with an outdoor swimming pool, a Jacuzzi, a gaming room, set 0.7...

Thomas Wood
3 months ago
Florence Hotels

Florence Hotels
When planning a trip to Florence, Italy, one of the most important decisions you will make is where to stay. With countless accommodation options to choose from, ranging from budget hostels to luxury resorts, it can be overwhelming to decide...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Seville Hotels
Seville Hotels
When planning a trip to the beautiful city of Seville, one of the most important decisions you'll have to make is where to stay. With so many options available, from budget hostels to luxury resorts, it can be overwhelming to...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Perth Hotels
Perth Hotels
There are 4 hotels and other accommodations in Perth city centre to choose from. Providing cots, a free car park, a laundry room on site, City Waters rated 8.4/10 is set a 15-minute walk from the city centre. Click here...

Thomas Wood
6 months ago
Split Hotels
Split Hotels
When planning a trip to the beautiful city of Split, Croatia, one of the most important decisions you'll have to make is where to stay. With so many options available, from vacation rentals to hostels, it can be overwhelming to...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Chennai Hotels
Chennai Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to Chennai When planning a trip to Chennai, the bustling capital of Tamil Nadu, travelers are often confronted with an array of accommodation options. While the allure of cozy homestays and vacation rentals can be tempting,...

Thomas Wood
10 months ago
Bath Hotels
Bath Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Traveling to BathBath, a city steeped in history and adorned with stunning Georgian architecture, attracts visitors from all corners of the globe. With its picturesque streets, iconic Roman Baths, and vibrant cultural scene, Bath offers...

Thomas Wood
9 months ago
Salou Hotels
Salou Hotels

Thomas Wood
3 months ago
Tenby Hotels
Tenby Hotels
There are 20 hotels and other accommodations in Tenby city centre to choose from. Located 0.6 km from the city centre, The Dunes offers a golf course, a business centre, housekeeping on site. The Town Crier, Atlantic Hotel, Billycan are...

Thomas Wood
4 months ago
Berlin Hotels
Berlin Hotels
Welcome to our blog post on why choosing hotels when travelling to Berlin is the best decision you can make! Berlin, the vibrant capital city of Germany, is a hub of culture, history, and creativity. From its iconic landmarks such...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Glasgow Hotels
Glasgow Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to GlasgowGlasgow, the largest city in Scotland, is renowned for its rich history, vibrant culture, and stunning architecture. From the iconic Glasgow Cathedral to the bustling streets of Merchant City, there's no shortage of...

Thomas Wood
10 months ago
Vilamoura Hotels
Vilamoura Hotels
Travelling to Vilamoura is a dream come true for many vacationers looking to experience the beauty of the Algarve region in Portugal. With its stunning beaches, vibrant nightlife, and top-notch golf courses, Vilamoura has something for every type of traveler....

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Auckland Hotels
Auckland Hotels
When it comes to traveling to Auckland, New Zealand, there are a plethora of accommodation options available to visitors. From luxury resorts to budget-friendly hostels, the choice can seem overwhelming. However, one of the most popular and reliable options for...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Abu Dhabi Hotels
Abu Dhabi Hotels
We recommend One To One Ain Al Fayda Resort as the best hotel with an indoor swimming pool, bar, and restaurant, set 0.4 km from the city centre. To see more central hotels click here.

Thomas Wood
1 year ago
Ayodhya Hotels
Ayodhya Hotels
Why Choose Hotels When Travelling to AyodhyaAyodhya, a city steeped in history and spirituality, has long been a significant pilgrimage site for millions of visitors from India and around the world. Renowned as the birthplace of Lord Rama, it...

Thomas Wood
9 months ago
New Delhi Hotels
New Delhi Hotels
When travelling to a bustling city like New Delhi, finding the perfect accommodation is essential to ensure a comfortable and enjoyable trip. While there are plenty of accommodation options available, hotels remain a popular choice for many travelers. In this...

Thomas Wood
1 year ago

Posts navigation Previous
1
2
3
4
5
6
...
730
731
Next

Follow me:
Policy
Copyright
Terms and conditions
Contact Us

Copyright 2025 · All rights reserved

- Torah Portion
- Observance
- Study
- Services

Subscribe
Support Us

December 23, 2025 | 3 Tevet, 5786 | Torah Portion: Vayigash, Genesis 44:18-47:27 | Haftorah: Ezekiel 37:15-28

Torah Portion

This Week: Vayigash
TorahMedia Audio
Come Learn With Us

Join users worldwide searching for Jewish educational resources: Weekly Torah Portion, Jewish Holidays, Classic Jewish Texts, and Jewish Topics of Interest

Recent Additions

Torah Portion & Holidays

Other Articles
Articles on Vayigash and the Holidays

Haftorah Summary for Chanukah 2
Rabbi Aron Tendler (5777)
Level: Beginner
Yaakov's Descent to Egypt
Shlomo Katz (5764)
Level: Beginner
Kingship = Responsibility
Rabbi Yissocher Frand (5764)
Level: Intermediate

Growing in Exile
Shlomo Katz (5763)
Level: Beginner
From the Mouth of a "Turned Off" Student
Rabbi Yissocher Frand (5759)
Level: Beginner
The Spark that is the Key to Jewish Endurance
Mordechai Dixler (5782)
Level: Beginner

Parshas Vayeishev - Chanukah
Rabbi Dr. Meir Tamari (5763)
Level: Advanced
Parshas Vayigash - Daughters of a Different Kind
Rabbi Yitzchok Adlerstein (5772)
Level: Advanced
Analyzing The Imagery of A Familiar Chanukah Poem
Rabbi Yissocher Frand (5765)
Level: Intermediate

Subscribe to a Series
More Articles on the Torah Portion and the Holidays
Recent Questions

“Avinu Malkeinu” - “Our Father, Our King”
Determining Tribal Lineage
The Ten Commandments
Torah Given in Installments

- Naming a Torah Portion After Yitro
- How Long Were the Ten Plagues?
- Gid HaNasheh - The Sciatic Nerve and Chickens

Subscribe or Support Our Work
Subscribe
Support US
Torah From You

Submit your piece for review, and if approved we will publish it on our site as “Community Contributions.”
Submit an Article
Follow Us

Get in Touch

About Us
Contact Us
Services

Change Your Subscription
Cholim – Prayers for Those in Need Support Torah.org

Make a Donation
Dedicate an Article
Create a Memorial
Major Gift

Copyright © Torah.org – Project Genesis. All rights reserved.

Main Content couple
The Exclusive World of High-End Matchmaking Services

In modern relationships, the quest for love often involves navigating a sea of dating platforms and apps. However, professional matchmaking services offer an exclusive alternative for those seeking a more refined and personalized approach. This article delves into the sophisticated world of high-end matchmaking, exploring what sets it apart and why it's becoming increasingly popular […]
From The Blog
group meditation therapy
Psilocybin, a Breakthrough Therapy for Depression?

Depression is one of the most common and debilitating mental health conditions in the world, affecting millions of people every year. According to the World Health Organization, depression is the leading cause of disability worldwide and a significant contributor to the overall global burden of disease. Despite the availability of various treatments, such as antidepressants […]
woman smiling
4 Tips To Help You Get A Brighter And Straighter Smile

If you're unhappy with your smile, you're not alone. Many people feel self-conscious about their teeth and want a brighter, straighter smile. Fortunately, there are many things that you can do to improve your smile without spending a lot of money or undergoing surgery. This blog post will discuss four tips that can help you get […]
fitness
5 Tips To Follow When Working Out At The Gym

When you are new to the gym, it can be tough to know what you should and shouldn't do. There are so many machines and exercises that it can be hard to figure out where to start. Also, you don't want to be the person doing everything wrong and looking foolish. In this article, we […]
Healing
hemp cannabis
Advancements in Synthetic Cannabinoid Research: Potential and Challenges

Synthetic cannabinoids are a class of compounds that mimic the effects of natural cannabinoids, the active ingredients in cannabis. Synthetic cannabinoids have been developed for various purposes, including research, medicine, and recreation. However, synthetic cannabinoids are not without controversy, as they pose ethical, legal, and health challenges. The Revolutionary Potential of Synthetic Cannabinoids: A New […]
skin care
Top Tips That Can Help You Postpone Aging And Restore Your Youthful Appearance

Try not to smoke. Rest soundly. Exercise frequently. Avoid the sun. Load up on cell reinforcements. Eat natural food varieties. We know. We've heard everything previously. We know how to keep up with energetic skin… Or isn't that right? While you ought to avoid the sun and crunching on blueberries, there are a lot more […] baby

Tips For Helping Your Baby With Colic

While there’s nothing more peaceful than having a baby fall asleep on you, there’s nothing more stressful than trying to calm a baby that can’t be soothed. But for many parents with colicky babies, tend to get a lot more of the screaming than the cooing. Since every baby’s health and needs are different, just […]
Meditation
meditation
4 Ways Incense Will Dramatically Improve Your Meditation

Meditation can be something of an art form. To detach ourselves from our relentless thoughts we must be in an optimal state of peace and oneness. And in our hectic modern world, that isn’t always an easy feat. That’s where incense comes in. Four incredible mechanisms allow incense to improve meditation quality so you can […]
Aaravindha Himadra meditation
Aaravindha Himadra Explains the Beginners Path to Meditation

Meditation is a powerful and approachable practice that helps to center and align the body, mind, and spirit. Many people are hesitant to begin meditating because they feel pressure to turn off their thoughts. It’s fundamentally impossible to do that. Unfortunately, this misconception of the basic precepts of meditation has prevented many people from enjoying its benefits.
Brett Balick
Brett Balick and the Power of Music

Music has the unique power of helping people relieve stress. It touches the soul and brings out hidden emotions. When we listen to music, we have the power to change our mental landscape and to bring our minds to a healthier point of being.
Yoga
yoga description
Discover the Transformative Power of Yoga from Anywhere

Key Takeaways: To incorporate yoga into daily life, create a personalized yoga routine, find suitable yoga classes and instructors, and establish a dedicated yoga space at home. Having a dedicated space for your yoga practice can help you create a peaceful and focused environment, making it easier to maintain a regular practice. In today’s fast-paced world, finding the […] mindfulness
The Benefits of Yoga and Meditation to One’s Well-Being According to Lindsay Guion

As millions of Americans take up yoga and meditation, the popularity of these two hobbies continues to rise. Even institutions of higher education are now offering formal classes that teach some basic exercises from those categories. None of this comes as a surprise to folks who understand the ever-growing problems of working professionals. For instance, […]

Josiane Peluso yoga pilates
Josiane Peluso on the Health Benefits of Yoga and Pilates

Those looking for a fun activity that can help them fill some spare time while training their body should look into yoga and Pilates. Even though these two disciplines are amongst the most popular ones in the world, many people fail to realize just how useful they truly are. Some simply discredit them because they […]

Primary Sidebar
Recent Posts

- Discover the Transformative Power of Yoga from Anywhere
- The Exclusive World of High-End Matchmaking Services
- Psilocybin, a Breakthrough Therapy for Depression?
- Advancements in Synthetic Cannabinoid Research: Potential and Challenges
- 4 Tips To Help You Get A Brighter And Straighter Smile

Footer
Pages

- About Us
- Contact Us
- Home
- Privacy Policy

Tags
Agni Yoga Bhakti Yoga Cannabis Christianity Depression Diet Fitness Gardening green Hatha Yoga Integral Yoga Karma Yoga Kriya Yoga Kundalini Yoga Mantra Japa Mantra Yoga Massage Mental Health Nada Yoga Physical Health Pilates Plants Pranayamas Praying Qi Raja Yoga Religion Samskaras Sankirtan Yoga Sannyas Yoga Sapta Yoga Seven Chakras Shatkarmas Shiva Yoga Siddha Yoga Solar Plexus Chakra Spirituality Stress Sufi Sufism Svadhisthana Throat Chakra Yesod Yoga Asanas Yoga Nidra
Let’s Get In Touch

Servants of the Light
Teaching the Mystical Qabalah
Practical training in the western esoteric tradition

- Home
- About SOL
- Courses
- Knowledge
  - Introduction to Qabalah
  - The Tree of Life
  - Recommended Reading
  - Making a Robe
- News

Note that the behaviour of the "Subscribe to RSS News Feed" link above will depend on your browser settings. For best results, copy the link and paste it into your favourite RSS Feed reader.

Recent News and Messages

- Servants of the Light Midwinter Retreat Course Now Open: Hermitage of the Green Chapel
  December 4, 2025
  Step into the Hermitage of the Green ChapelA new guided journey into the heart of the Gawain and the Green Knight myth. As winter gathers …
- SOL Community Hub ☉ ☿ ☽ Connection, Resilience, Resources, Magical Creativity
  January 31, 2025
  Greetings on this Imboc Eve! I have created a new online space for SOL members and students: SOL Community Hub ☉ ☿ ☽ Connection, …
- In Loving Memory of Fran Keegan
  December 31, 2024
  The Servants of the Light School sends our deepest condolences to Steve, Fran's son, and all the family and friends of Fran Keegan, …

Home Widget 3
This is your third home widget box. To edit please go to Appearance > Widgets and choose 8th widget from the top in area 8 called Home Widget 3. Title is also manageable from widgets as well.

© 2025 Servants of the Light Ltd. All Rights Reserved.

1. The Work of the Chariot Trust

In the early 1970's, the Work of the Chariot Trust published a landmark series of translations of the primary Hebrew and Aramaic works of the Mystical Qabalah, many of which had never been rendered into English. Until that time, most books in English on the Qabalah were written either by scholars, who approached it from a pedagogical or historical angle, or by Hermetic/Practical Qabalists who framed it within an occult perspective. Over twenty-five thousand copies of the Trust's translations were distributed through metaphysical bookstores in the United States, Canada, and Europe, as well as, given away at no cost to thousands of students who attended a private seminar hosted by the Trust.

The Trust was rooted in the oral teachings of an accomplished mystic who is a genuine master of the Tree of Life, a real "Man of the Ayn." The emphasis of his teaching was to engage in practices that would lead each individual to their own experiential understanding, their own ascent of the Tree. After he was recruited by an ancient order of Mystical Qabalists, called "Ma'aseh Merkabah" (Work of the Chariot), to engage in work specifically intended to "water the mystical roots of the children of Abraham," he formed the religious trust through which to publish his original translations of primary qabalistic texts. He never put his name on any of the translations he published, nor took credit for his work.

The mentor of the Work of the Chariot, who is now retired from the world, held informal meetings in his home on Thursday nights for over two decades. His teaching displayed an encyclopedic knowledge of all mystical traditions, anchored in and corroborated by his own extensive direct experience. While he wholeheartedly shared his extensive knowledge and insights with thousands of people over a period of two decades, he never referred to himself as a teacher. In fact, he repeatedly said that "The Lord is the only teacher; the Lord is the only rabbi; the Lord is the only guru." As an accomplished physicist, he exhorted students to be mystical scientists: to test the hypotheses of the mystical worldviews, to engage in the meditation practices as if they were experiments, and to "collect data" on all that we experienced. He told us to regard our lives as our own mystical laboratories.

The next section of this site provides extensive background material on the Mystical Qabalah.

Next-Background   Home

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos

- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles

- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

King Jesus the Sun image

Was Jesus a God, man or myth?
The answer may surprise you.

Introduction

Around the world over the centuries, much has been written about religion, its meaning, its relevance and contribution to humanity. In the West particularly, sizable tomes have been composed speculating upon the nature and historical background of one of the main characters of Western religions, Jesus Christ. Many have tried to dig into the precious few clues as to Jesus's identity and come up with a biographical sketch that either bolsters faith or reveals a more human side of this godman to which we can all relate. Obviously, considering the time and energy spent on them, the subjects of Christianity and its legendary founder are very important to the Western mind and culture, and increasingly to the rest of the world as well.

The Controversy

Despite all of this literature continuously being cranked out and the significance of the issue, in the public at large there remains a serious lack of formal and broad education regarding religion and mythology, and most individuals are highly uninformed in this area. Concerning the issue of Christianity, for example, the majority of people are taught in most schools and churches that Jesus Christ was an actual historical figure and that the only controversy regarding him is that some people accept him as the Son of God and the Messiah, while others do not. However, whereas this is the raging debate most evident in this field today, it is not the most important. Shocking as it may seem to the general populace, the most enduring and profound controversy in this subject is whether or not a person named Jesus Christ ever really existed.

Although this debate may not be evident from publications readily found in popular bookstores, when one examines this issue closely, one will find a tremendous volume of literature that demonstrates, logically and intelligently, time and again that Jesus Christ is a mythological character along the same lines as the Greek, Roman, Egyptian, Sumerian, Phoenician, Indian or other godmen, who are all presently accepted as myths rather than historical figures. Delving deeply into this large body of work, one uncovers evidence that the Jesus character is based upon much older myths and heroes from around the globe. One discovers that this story is not, therefore, a historical representation of a Jewish rebel carpenter who had physical incarnation in the Levant 2,000 years ago. In other words, it has been demonstrated continually for centuries that this character, Jesus Christ, was invented and did not depict a real person who was either the "son of God" or was "evemeristically" made into a superhuman by enthusiastic followers.

History and Positions of the Debate

This controversy has existed from the very beginning, and the writings of the Church fathers themselves reveal that they were constantly forced by the Pagan intelligentsia to defend what the non-Christians and other Christians ("heretics") alike saw as a preposterous and fabricated yarn with absolutely no evidence of it ever having taken place in history.

As Rev. Dr. Robert Taylor says, "And from the apostolic age downwards, in a never interrupted succession, but never so strongly and emphatically as in the most primitive times, was the existence of Christ as a man most strenuously denied." According to these learned dissenters, the New Testament could rightly be called, "Gospel Fictions."

For the rest, please see Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ ebook.

Now available on Kindle, IPhone, IPod, IPad, Blackberry, etc.!

Origins of Christianity on Kindle

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!

Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion

- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine."
—David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Is the Shroud of Turin genuine? Or is it a forgery in a long line of 'pious frauds?' How was it made?

The Shroud of Turin in original and negative

The Shroud of Turin is a world-famous piece of cloth alleged to have been the burial garment of Jesus Christ. The shroud is held up by believers as evidence not only of Christ's existence but also of his divinity. But is the shroud real? Or is it a fake?

In this analysis, it should be kept in mind that the story of Jesus Christ in the New Testament and other Christian texts is demonstrably fictional, created in order to unify the Roman Empire under one state religion. In doing so, the Church forged hundreds of texts, which were constantly reworked, mutilated and interpolated over the centuries.
The Faithful Forgery Factory

In its quest to establish a religion to gain power and wealth, the Church forgery mill did not limit itself to mere writings but for centuries cranked out thousands of phony "relics" of its "Lord," "Apostles" and "Saints." Although true believers keep attempting to prove otherwise, through one implausible theory after another, the Shroud of Turin is counted among this group of frauds:

> There were at least 26 "authentic" burial shrouds scattered throughout the abbeys of Europe, of which the Shroud of Turin is just one.... The Shroud of Turin is one of the many relics manufactured for profit during the Middle Ages. Shortly after the Shroud emerged it was declared a fake by the bishop who discovered the artist. This is verified by recent scientific investigation which found paint in the image areas. The Shroud of Turin is also not consistent with Gospel accounts of Jesus' burial, which clearly refer to multiple cloths and a separate napkin over his face.

"The Shroud of Turin is one of the many relics manufactured for profit during the Middle Ages. Shortly after the Shroud emerged it was declared a fake by the bishop who discovered the artist."

In the literature, we find references to shrouds of Milan, Lodz, Nice, Aix-la-Chapelle and Besançon, among others. Concerning this issue of relic-forging, Dr. Gerald Larue remarks:

> Carbon-14 dating has demonstrated that the shroud is a 14th-century forgery and is one of many such deliberately created relics produced in the same period, all designed to attract pilgrims to specific shrines to enhance and increase the status and financial income of the local church.

Mythicist Barbara G. Walker, author of Man Made God, likewise comments on the holy relic mill:

> About the beginning of the 9th century, bones, teeth, hair, garments, and other relics of fictitious saints were conveniently "found" all over Europe and Asia and triumphantly installed in the reliquaries of every church, until all Catholic Europe was falling to its knees before what Calvin called its anthill of bones.... St. Luke was touted as one of the ancient world's most prolific artists, to judge from the numerous portraits of the Virgin, painted by him, that appeared in many churches. Some still remain, despite ample proof that all such portraits were actually painted during the Middle Ages.

'True Cross' relic in the Louvre (Photo: Kitty Mervine)And Dr. George A. Wells states:

> About 1200, Constantinople was so crammed with relics that one may speak of a veritable industry with its own factories. Blinzler (a Catholic New Testament scholar) lists, as examples: letters in Jesus' own hand, the gold brought to the baby Jesus by the wise men, the twelve baskets of bread collected after the miraculous feeding of the 5000, the throne of David, the trumpets of Jericho, the axe with which Noah made the Ark, and so on...

At one point, a number of churches claimed the one foreskin of Jesus, and there were enough splinters of the "True Cross" that Calvin said the amount of wood would make "a full load for a good ship." The list of absurdities and frauds goes on, and, as Pope Leo X was depicted as exclaiming, the Christ fable has been enormously profitable for the Church.

"A number of churches claimed the one foreskin of Jesus, and there were enough splinters of the 'True Cross' that Calvin said the amount of wood would make 'a full load for a good ship.'"

As we will see, the Shroud of Turin may be added safely to this lengthy list of "pious frauds" committed by believers and vested interests who wish to shore up their faith. It must be therefore asked why force, forgery and fraud were needed to spread the "good news" brought by a "historical son of God."

Carbon-14 Dating

Despite claims to the contrary, carbon-14 dating conducted in 1988 has proved the shroud cloth was created during the 13th or 14th centuries AD/CE. In the Shroud of Turin article on Wikipedia, we read:

> After years of discussion, the Holy See permitted radiocarbon dating on portions of a swatch taken from a corner of the shroud. Independent tests in 1988 at the University of Oxford, the University of Arizona, and the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology concluded with 95% confidence that the shroud material dated to 1260–1390 AD.... In 2008 former STURP member John Jackson rejected the possibility that the C14 sample may have been conducted on a medieval repair fragment, on the basis that the radiographs and transmitted light images taken by STURP in 1978 clearly show that the natural colour bandings present throughout the linen of the shroud propagate in an uninterrupted fashion through the region that would later provide the sample for radiocarbon dating. Jackson stated that this could not have been possible if the sampled area was a later addition.

"Independent tests in 1988 at the University of Oxford, the University of Arizona, and the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology concluded with 95% confidence that the shroud material dated to 1260–1390 AD."

Shroud of Turin, full length, sideways

'Carbon dating tests carried out in 1988 in Oxford, Zurich and Arizona suggested that the shroud was created some time between 1260 and 1390' (Daily Mail UK, 12/21/11)

Regarding believers' claims that the carbon-14 dating is flawed, the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Paranormal Claims (CSICOP) relates that the 13th-14th century date revealed by C-14 was verified by three different labs:

> DATING. The assertion that blood and pollen matching prove the Shroud of Turin dates to at least the eighth century is - based on the evidence - absurd. The shroud cloth was radiocarbon dated to circa 1260-1390 by three separate laboratories. The date is consistent with a fourteenth-century bishop's report to Pope Clement VII that an earlier bishop had discovered the forger and that he had confessed.

When it was asserted that the C-14 date was "distorted" by the possible use of a newer patch of cloth or the carbon from a fire in the 16th century that left several burn holes in the shroud, a test in 2008 confirmed the original C-14 dating of the 13th to 14th centuries by demonstrating that the piece of cloth previously used indeed was "representative of the whole."

The carbon-14 date of the 13th to 14th century coincides with the shroud's first appearance in the historical record, in the possession of a French knight in 1360. Thus, we are lacking a provenance for the shroud and can hardly make any scientific historical claim for its origin.
Blood on the Shroud?

Turin image with trickling bloodAlthough some claim the shroud impression contains human blood, that contention has never been proved by science, and the trickles of blood on the head appear to confirm that the image is a forgery, as the blood would have been matted in the hair, not running down the scalp.

As concerns the so-called blood purportedly on the shroud, CSICOP says:

> BLOOD. The Associated Press reported claims that the shroud bears type AB blood stains. Perhaps this erroneous information has its origin in other fake shrouds of Jesus, since the Shroud of Turin's stains are not only suspiciously red (unlike genuine blood that blackens with age) but they failed batteries of tests by internationally known forensic experts. The "blood" has been definitively proved to be composed of red ocher and vermilion tempera paint."

"The 'blood' has been definitively proved to be composed of red ocher and vermilion tempera paint."

There remains a debate among the faithful, however, as to the nature of the supposed paint or pigments and whether or not they are present on the shroud.

Pollen Proof?

The claims of pollen supposedly found on the shroud, allegedly indicating that the cloth was manufactured in the Middle East before the eighth century, have been discredited as "fraud" and "junk science." The person who originally claimed to have found the pollen on the shroud, Max Frei, has been accused of "sleight of hand" in reporting that pollen samples he took from living plants were subsequently found on the shroud. CSICOP basically determines that Max Frei's "find" is an out-and-out fraud:

> POLLENS: It was reported that pollens on the shroud proved it came from Palestine, but the source for the pollens was a freelance criminologist, Max Frei, who once pronounced the forged "Hitler Diaries" genuine. Frei's tape-lifted samples from the Shroud were controversial from the outset since similar samples taken by the Shroud of Turin Research Project in 1978 had comparatively few pollens. As it turned out, after Frei's tapes were examined following his death in 1983, they also had very few pollens - except for a particular one that bore a suspicious cluster on the "lead" (or end), rather than on the portion that had been applied to the shroud. (See Skeptical Inquirer magazine, Summer 1994 pp. 379-385.)

Wiki's Shroud subsection on "Flowers and pollen" reiterates this sordid tale:

> Skeptics have argued that the flower images are too faint for Danin's determination to be definite, that an independent review of the pollen strands showed that one strand out of the 26 provided contained significantly more pollen than the others, perhaps pointing to deliberate contamination. Skeptics also argue that Max Frei had previously been duped in his examination of the Hitler Diaries and that he may have also been duped in this case, or may have introduced the pollens himself. J. Beaulieau has stated that Frei was a self-taught amateur palynologist, was not properly trained, and that his sample was too small.

"Skeptics argue that Max Frei may have introduced the pollens himself."

Purported pollen allegedly found on the shroud of TurinResearcher Mark Thompson further comments about the pollen:

> One thing that is well known to botanists is that the range within which many wild plants grow contracts under pressure from agriculture, civilization, industry and climate changes, and can expand due to the inadvertent or deliberate transport of seeds in cargo along trade routes.
>
> These shroud researchers asserted (using a database that covered only Israel, it seems, along with other available reports of the plant's range, which I presume to be reliable for the sake of argument) that Z. dumosum grows only in Israel, Syria and the Sinai peninsula.
>
> What I was working on before the likely fraud by Max Frei was pointed out here, is that Z. dumosum may have grown throughout the Middle East along the Mediterranean coast clear up into Byzantium and Constantinople during the 8th century. Other species of Zygophyllaceae grow throughout that range, from Turkey and Greece even into India and clear around the Mediterranean into the Levant and Northern Africa (including the related notorious hallucinogenic Soma/Haoma candidate plant Peganum harmala).

So, the statement that "As Zygophyllum dumosum grows only in Israel, Jordan, and Sinai, its appearance helps to definitively limit the shroud's place of origin" seemed worth questioning, especially due to climate changes and population pressures in the region over the last 1100 years....

Another source of suspicion was that the odd appearance of vague flower images on the shroud are "explained" in one of these papers as due to "corona discharge." This was also quite far-fetched, since corona discharge is more related to Kirlian photography than the residue of pressed flowers. Unless one insists that the Shroud and any enfolded bouquets were struck by Divine Lightning or something -an entertaining notion worthy of Steven Spielberg I suppose, but hardly likely.

The conclusion here is that the pollen does not only grow in the "Holy Land" and that other arguments are metaphysical, not scientific.

In addition, where these researchers came up with the "eighth century" date one can only guess, but even if said date were correct, such would no more "prove" that the shroud was "authentic" in the sense that it was the "original burial cloth of Jesus," than does the spurious argument used by other apologists that the remains of a first century boat found in the Sea of Galilee provide evidence that Jesus existed. The latter argument runs thus: "Here is a boat from the first century A.D. found in the Sea of Galilee. Jesus and his disciples would have ridden in a boat like this." This line of argumentation is fallacious and unscientific.

Weave Too Complex

A fragment of a burial cloth from the first century AD/CE, found in JerusalemIn 2009, the discovery of a "Jesus-era" shroud in a tomb of a Jewish priest in Jerusalem demonstrated the primitive nature of weaving at that time and place. This fact was not lost on the researchers, who released statements to the press that this rare discovery essentially proved the Turin shroud to be a much later fabrication with a twill weave far too complex and intricate for the appropriate period.

In addition to this discrepancy in the weave, the burial cloth genuinely dating to the relevant era is composed of two pieces, whereas the Shroud of Turin is a single cloth. As MSNBC concludes: "If the remains in the Jerusalem tomb represent typical burial shrouds widely used at the time of Jesus, this casts strong doubt that the Turin Shroud originated from Jesus-era Jerusalem."

"The Jerusalem tomb burial shrouds cast strong doubt that the Turin Shroud originated from Jesus-era Jerusalem."

The Crucifixion as Old Testament Midrash

The argument that the shroud is "genuine" because it depicts a man apparently crucified with wounds through his wrists, rather than his palms, does not account for the fact that a skilled forger would know that the palm nails would not hold up the body's weight in a real crucifixion.

Moreover, if the correct procedure for a crucifixion is to hammer nails through the wrists, then the gospel account would be incorrect, as it evidently was cobbled together from the "Pierced One" of the Old Testament Psalm 22, along with the common Pre-Christian pagan motif of a figure in cruciform.

We read at Psalm 22:1, 16-19:

> ...My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?...

> Yea, dogs are round about me; a company of evildoers encircle me; they have pierced my hands and feet - I can count all my bones - they stare and gloat over me; they divide my garments among them, and for my raiment they cast lots....

"They have pierced my hands and feet."

Matthew 27:46: 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?' Ilus. Gustave DoreThe use of these Old Testament verses as midrash or scholarly interpretation to create the New Testament account explains both the casting of lots for Jesus's clothing (Mt 22:35) and his pitiful crying from the cross to his Father in heaven (Mt 27:46):

> And when they had crucified him, they divided his garments among them by casting lots...

> And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, la'ma sabach-tha'ni?" that is, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

The relevant Greek of Psalm 22:1 (LXX 21:1) about God's forsaking reads: ὁ θεὸς ὁ θεός μου πρόσχες μοι ἵνα τί ἐγκατέλιπές, while that of the NT verse of Matthew 27:46 is very similar: Θεέ μου θεέ μου ἱνατί με ἐγκατέλιπες. Mark 15:34 is even closer: ὁ θεός μου ὁ θεός μου εἰς τί ἐγκατέλιπές με.

The NT verses use the precise terminology for "cast lots" as the Greek OT or Septuagint: βάλλοντες κλῆρον (Mt 22:35; Mk 15:24) or ἔβαλον κλήρους (Lk 23:34) and ἔβαλον κλῆρον (Ps 22:18). Using the phrase ἔβαλον κλῆρον, John 19:24 specifically states that the casting of the lots for the garments was to "fulfil the scripture," referring to Psalm 22. In other words, the Old Testament was a midrashic blueprint for the creation of the NT account, a fact of which the NT writers were consciously aware.
Pierced Hands and Feet

John 19:37 echoes this awareness of the OT blueprints, in discussing the "piercing":

> And again another scripture says, "They shall look on him whom they have pierced." (Ps 22:17)

This passage in Psalm 22 refers specifically to the piercing of the hands and feet, a detail left out by the NT composers, perhaps because they knew that Roman crucifixion was not committed in this manner. The fact is, however, that the evangelists did not "correct" this crucifixion error by relating that, in the "real" crucifixion, Jesus's wrists were pierced.

Since it is evident that, rather than representing a historical account of an actual crucifixion, the NT account was cobbled together using Old Testament scriptures, one might suggest that the writers of the gospel tale also had in mind that, like the Pierced One of Psalm 22, the sufferer likewise would have his hands pierced, not his wrists. Hence, the shroud would not match the gospel depiction.

Krishna's foot is pierced by the arrow of hunter Jara, killing himAs concerns the ancient mythical motif of deities and heroes in cruciform or cross-shape, it should be noted that there are images of such figures with piercing of their feet, as in the story of the Indian god Krishna, who is killed by an arrow piercing his foot while sitting under a tree.

The crucifixion account in the New Testament also represents an archetype of the ancient sacred-king, scapegoat sacrifice ritual practiced many times in countless places for thousands of years. In consideration of these facts, there is little reason to assume that the NT account is historical. (See my book Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled for more on the subject of human sacrifice.)

How was the Shroud Made?

Over the centuries, the pious have frequently claimed that the shroud was made supernaturally and could not be reproduced. Such supporters often point to the photographic image of the shroud, which more closely resembles a person's skin tones and contrast, as "proof" of its mystical and godly origin.

However, the shroud's appearance has been reproduced faithfully enough without any divine intervention, such as a supernatural flash of light. This latter idea posits a burst of ultraviolet light/energy from Christ's flesh upon his resurrection, a notion refuted by the presence on the shroud of the beard and hair, unless they too possessed supernatural radiation.

In any event, a team of Italian scientists led by chemist Luigi Garlaschelli reproduced the shroud effect in 2009:

> "The result obtained clearly indicates that this could be done with the use of inexpensive materials and with a quite simple procedure."... [The] team used a linen woven with the same technique as the shroud and artificially aged by heating it in an oven and washing it with water. The cloth was then placed on a student, who wore a mask to reproduce the face, and rubbed with red ochre, a well known pigment at the time....

"The result obtained clearly indicates that this could be done with the use of inexpensive materials and with a quite simple procedure."

Shroud of Turin reproduced by Italian chemist Luigi Garlaschelli Blowing and Dusting Techniques

Another theory of how the shroud was produced seeks to explain the apparent negative impression as well as the lack of brush strokes, if it is an artist's creation. This technique requires a cadaver or, perhaps, sculpture, of an appropriate size, shape and attributes, such as wounds. Once the body is wrapped in a shroud, the artist blows the red ochre and other pigments along the cadaver's contours, thus producing the three-dimensional and apparent negative imagery.

In "Image Formation and the Shroud of Turin" (17), Drs. Emily A. Craig and Randall R. Bresee suggest that examples of this blowing technique may be found in the paleolithic artwork of the Lascaux caves, for instance, also devoid of brush strokes.

Lascaux cave image (Photo: Prof saxx)

The cave paintings of Lascaux, Altamira, Chauvet and other sites are so extraordinary and advanced for their time that one could easily propose a series of arguments for their "supernatural" and divine origin in the same manner as done with the Turin shroud. The fact that there are thousands of these amazing paintings, composed over a period of tens of thousands of years, is far more impressive than the manufacture of a single piece of cloth.

A type of "soft-brush" technique can be found in books from the relevant era that specifically address the painting of a dead man and wounds. In this regard, Craig and Bresee also remark:

> ...the 12th century work of Theophilus, De diversis artibus, and the 14th or 15th century work of Cennino d'Andrea Cennini, Il libro dell'arte, revealed step-by-step procedures for artists of that period. Cennini's handbook includes instruction for grinding pigment into powder, brushing charcoal with feathers, and burnishing an image onto cloth. His handbook contains chapters containing specific instructions on "how to paint a dead man" and "how to paint wounds."

Using this dusting technique, Craig and colleagues were able to produce the following images:

Reproduction of Shroud of Turin by Emily A. Craig and Randall R. Bresee

Craig, et al., conclude:

> These considerations indicate that the inspiration, knowledge and tools necessary for an artist to create the image on the Turin cloth were probably available during the 12th and 13th centuries, although the specific combinations of individual techniques we used in our dust drawing technique may not have been described. It is clearly possible that an artist created the image on the Turin cloth. Of course, radiocarbon dating also supports this hypothesis, because this analytical technique determined that the Turin cloth originated between 1260 and 1390 A.D.

"The inspiration, knowledge and tools necessary for an artist to create the image on the Turin cloth were probably available during the 12th and 13th centuries."

Craig and Bresee, aware that the cloth has been proved scientifically to date to the 13th century at the earliest, make the seemingly desperate suggestion that the shroud could still represent an "authentic" image of Christ transferred from an earlier "genuine" one. This sort of proposal in order not to offend religious sensilibities has, of course, continually muddied the field.

Artist rendering of a typical Jewis man of Jesus's timeTheories of who created the cloth include Leonardo da Vinci, whose face appears to match that of the shroud. It is also believed by many that Knights Templar leader Jacques de Molay (d. 1314) is the victim whose body was used to create an image that is apparently distorted as concerns normal proportions.

Others point out that the face on the shroud resembles a European, while the alleged historical Jesus would have been Semitic in features, much like the image to the right.

In the end, there remains little reason to suspect that the Shroud of Turin is anything but a late artifact created over a thousand years after Christ's alleged advent. Therefore, it does not serve as evidence of Jesus's purported divinity or existence as a historical figure.
Further Reading

Turin shroud too complex for Jesus's time
Shroud of Turin a fake?!
Italian group claims to debunk, reproduce Shroud of Turin
Unraveling the Shroud
Shroud of Turin (Rational Wiki)
Was Turin Shroud faked by Leonardo da Vinci?
Radiocarbon 14 dating of the Shroud of Turin
Image Formation and the Shroud of Turin

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!

Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?

- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago,

HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine."
—David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Myth of Noah's Ark
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Noah's ArkFor millennia, countless people have been taught that there was a real man named Noah who somehow piled two (Gen 6:19) - or seven (Gen 7:2), depending on which scripture in the "infallible Word of God" one reads - of every animal on the planet into an ark and with his family survived an enormous global flood. Obviously, to thinkers worldwide this story is logically to be considered an impossible fable, not history.

Over the centuries, many people have tried and failed to find evidence for this implausible tale, largely looking around a mountain in Turkey called Ararat. This quest began hundreds of years ago and pops up in the news periodically, including several times in the 20th and 21st centuries, such as with the Noah's Ark Ministries brouhaha of 2010. At that time, it was claimed that a "wooden structure" was found at about 13,000 feet up Mt. Ararat and had been carbon-dated to around 4,800 years ago, reflecting a "99.9% certainty" it was the "real" ark. Skeptics and Christian evangelists alike soon dissected that claim, as they had so many others in the past.

Mount Mt Ararat Arrat imageAs noted, ark-hunting is not a new phenomena. Well over a hundred years ago, The Dictionary of the Holy Bible stated in its entry regarding "Ararat": "It has been affirmed, that there are still remains of Noah's ark on the top of this mountain; but M. de Tournefort, who visited the spot, assures us that there was nothing like it..." The Dictionary (89) also tells us that there are many monasteries on the mountain, of which any wood or wooden structure may be a part.

In addition to this plethora of purported "real arks" raising our suspicions are a number of scientific reasons to doubt the reality of any such alleged discovery, including arguments against a global or even local flood and the subsequent dispersion of all human and animal life from Mt. Ararat.

Also, although many such "ark" relics have been located on Mt. Ararat in Turkey, it has been pointed out even by Christian conservatives that "Noah's Ark is not said to have rested on 'Mount Ararat,'" the Bible actually stating that the Ark came to land on the "mountains of Ararat." (Gen 8:4).

Viking Stone ArksIt should be noted further that it was a custom, in Scotland for one, to create stone "ships" on mounts in emulation possibly of the sea-burial customs of royalty or of a mythical motif revolving around astrotheology, such that any number of these "arks" may be discovered on Earth.

Another problem with the biblical tradition is that Noah, the man who supposedly built this big boat, was some 600 years old at the time! (Gen 7:6) Nor do we find any logic in the all-powerful God of the universe asking a frail old man to construct such a thing when He could simply have snapped his fingers and, rather than flooding the entire earth, made all the bad people disappear. Instead, the Lord slaughters millions of innocent animals! And then there's the nonsensical follow-up tale where Noah gets drunk and is seen naked by his son Ham, who rats him out to his brothers, an act that so infuriates the hungover patriarch that he curses Ham's son Canaan for all eternity (Gen 9:21-25), causing an enormous amount of racism and suffering based on a pernicision biblical fable.

Ancient flood and ark myths common

Rather than being a historical figure who was the progenitor of three races, Noah is a fictitious character found in the mythologies of a number of different cultures globally, as opposed to being limited to one area and its specific peoples. The Bible story represents a rehash of other myths, changed to revolve around these particular peoples.

Like other biblical tales, the myth of Noah is found in India, Egypt, Babylon, Sumer and other places. The fact is that there have been floods and deluge stories in many different parts of the world, including but not limited to the Middle East. In the Sumerian tale, which predated the biblical by thousands of years, the ark was built by Ziusudra; in Akkad, he was Atrakhasis, and in Babylon, Uta-Napisthim. The Greek Noah was called Deucalion, "who repopulated the earth after the waters subsided" and after the ark landed on Mt. Parnassos. The Armenian flood hero was called Xisuthros, "whose ark landed on Mt. Ararat." Noah's "history" can likewise be found in India, where there is a "tomb of Nuh" near the river Gagra in the district of Oude or Oudh, which may be related to Judea and Judah. The "ark-preserved" Indian Noah was also called "Menu."

Like Noah, the Sumero-Armenian Ziusudra/Xisuthros had three sons, including one named "Japetosthes," essentially the same as Noah's son Japheth, also related to Pra-japati or Jvapeti, son of the Indian Menu, whose other sons possessed virtually the same names as those of Noah, i.e., Shem and Ham. As Oxford University Hebrew professor George Henry Bateson Wright says in Was Israel ever in Egypt? (51):

> JAPHETH - Ewald...shows, with great probability, that this was a god of the north, as Ham was of the south, once again in imitation of Hindu mythology. Moreover, the fact, that in the Armenian legend, derived from "Assyrian or Babylonian documents," the three sons of Xisuthros, who corresponds to Noah, are Zervin, Titan, and Japetosthe, is very instructive, suggesting that the unknown foreign word was retained in its original form...

osiris ark"Coincidentally," it was said that the Egyptian god Osiris was shut up in his ark on the very same day that Noah was likewise so disposed, as I relate in Suns of God (90):

> When Osiris's enemies pursue him, he enters into his "boat" on precisely the same date recorded of "Noah's" entrance into his ark, Athyr 17th...long before the biblical tale was invented. Noah is not a Jewish "patriarch" but a sun god, and the tale of entering and exiting the Ark signifies the sun's death and resurrection. The story of the eight passengers in a boat is an astral myth, reflecting the solar system. These eight are equivalent to the Egyptian octet of gods, who sail the ocean in a ship.

Also of interest in this quest are the words attributed to the Babylonian priest Berossus, who described the Flood, giving it a much older date:

> The Babylonian Flood itself predates the biblical by about 33,000 years, which demonstrates that the two inundations do not reflect one "historical" flood. Nevertheless, the story of Xisuthras or Ziusudra, the Babylonian Flood king, matches the later biblical account of Noah in important details, a common develoipment with myths. Berossus is even recorded as stating that Ziusudra's ship landed "in the mountains of the Korduaians of Armenia," possibly the Kurdistans, located in the same area where ark-hunters have claimed to have found pieces of "Noah's ark." This story, however, is not historical, and the creation of stone "arks" or ships upon hills was more common than is realized. Moreover, the Noah tale can be found in Mexican mythology: The Mexican Noah is named Nata, while his wife is Nena. In the Indian mythology, in the reign of the "seventh Manu," Satyavrata, the "whole earth" is said to "have been destroyed by a flood, including all mankind, who had beome corrupt." The prince and seven rishis, along with their wives, survived by entering a "spacious vessel," "by command of Vishnu...accompanied by pairs of all animals. (Acharya, Suns of God, 43-44)

Rather than having happened on Earth - a cataclysmic event for which there is no solid, scientific evidence - the story of Noah's Ark actually takes place in the heavens, as Noah and his crew of seven represent the sun, moon, earth and five inner planets. Obviously, Noah's famous "ark," which misguided souls have sought upon the earth, is a motif found in other myths, representing the arc-shaped lower quarter of the moon.

Sources & Further Reading

Noah's Ark found? Not so fast
Latest Ark finding is a fake
Flood of claims for 'Noah's Ark'
Dictionary of the Bible
Wright, George Henry Bateson. Was Israel ever in Egypt? London: Williams & Norgate, 1895.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus

- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico

- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Jesus Christ is not the only god supposedly born of a virgin on December 25th. So too was Horus of Egypt.

suns of god acharya s cover imgIn my book Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled appears a discussion of the Egyptian solar deity Horus, who was said to have been born of a virgin on "December 25th" or the winter solstice. As an example of one writer making this claim, in The Story of Religious Controversy, Joseph McCabe, a Catholic priest for many years, writes:

> …Virginity in goddesses is a relative matter.
>
> Whatever we make of the original myth…Isis seems to have been originally a virgin (or, perhaps, sexless) goddess, and in the later period of Egyptian religion she was again considered a virgin goddess, demanding very strict abstinence from her devotees. It is at this period, apparently, that the birthday of Horus was annually celebrated, about December 25th, in the temples. As both Macrobius and the Christian writer [of the "Paschal Chronicle"] say, a figure of Horus as a baby was laid in a manger, in a scenic reconstruction of a stable, and a statue of Isis was placed beside it. Horus was, in a sense, the Savior of mankind. He was their avenger against the powers of darkness; he was the light of the world. His birth-festival was a real Christmas before Christ.

> "The birthday of Horus was annually celebrated, about December 25th."

Here we see the contention that Horus's mother, Isis, was a virgin and that the ancient Latin author Macrobius (5th cent. AD/CE) and the compilers of a text called the "Paschal Chronicle" refer to the annual Egyptian celebration of the birth of a baby "laid in a manger."

The Chronicon Paschale

As I explain in Suns of God, the Chronicon Paschale, or Paschal Chronicle, also known as the Chronicle of Alexandria, is a compilation begun in the third century and finalized in the 7th century AD/CE that seeks to establish a Christian chronology from "creation" to the year 628 CE, focusing on the date of Easter.

Equinox Solstice cross imageIn establishing Easter, the Christian authors naturally discussed astronomy/astrology, since such is the basis of the spring celebration, a pre-Christian festival founded upon the vernal equinox, or spring, when the "sun of God" is resurrected in full from his winter death. Hence, Easter is the resurrection of the sun.

Concerning the Paschal Chronicle, in The Origin of All Religious Worship (237), French mythicist scholar Charles Francois Dupuis (1742-1809), a professor at the Collège de France, states:

> …the author of the Chronicle of Alexandria…expresses himself in the following words: "The Egyptians have consecrated up to this day the child-birth of a virgin and the nativity of her son, who is exposed in a 'crib' to the adoration of the people. King Ptolemy, having asked the reason of this custom, he was answered that it was a mystery, taught by a respectable prophet to their fathers."

"The Egyptians have consecrated up to this day the child-birth of a virgin and the nativity of her son, who is exposed in a 'crib' to the adoration of the people."

Providing another translation of the pertinent passage, the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled cites the "most ancient chronicles of Alexandria," which "testify as follows":

> "To this day, Egypt has consecrated the pregnancy of a virgin, and the nativity of her son, whom they annually present in a cradle, to the adoration of the people; and when king Ptolemy, three hundred and fifty years before our Christian era, demanded of the priests the significance of this religious ceremony, they told him it was a mystery."

Following up on the numerous and consistent leads, in my book Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection, I include 120 pages on the subjects of the Egyptian virgin birth on the winter solstice, providing primary sources and the works of highly credentialed authorities from relevant fields. One original Greek manuscript of this passage in the Chronicon is as follows:

> Εως νυν Αιγυπτιοι θεοποιουσιν Παρθενου λοχον και ΒρεΦος εν Φατνη τιθεντες προσκυνουσιν. Και Πτολεμαιω τω Βασιλει την αιτιαν πυνθανομενω ελεγον, οτι παραδοτον εστι μυστηριον υπο οσιου Προφητου τοις πατρασιν ημων παραδοθεν.

Preceding this discussion, the Chronicon author(s) contends that the biblical prophet Jeremiah was in Egypt (seven) centuries before the common era, where he taught the doctrine of the virgin-born savior in a manger, thus explaining its presence in pre-Christian Egyptian religion. As we know, however, the virgin-mother motif precedes biblical doctrine and represents a very ancient religious and spiritual concept.
Macrobius (395–423 AD/CE)

Ambrosius Theodosius Macrobius (fl. 400 AD/CE)Confirming the contentions in the Chronicon, ancient Latin writer Macrobius (Saturnalia, I, XVIII:10) also reported on the annual Egyptian "Christmas" celebration, specifying the time as the winter solstice or "December 25th":

> …at the winter solstice the sun would seem to be a little child, like that which the Egyptians bring forth from a shrine on an appointed day, since the day is then at its shortest and the god is accordingly shown as a tiny infant.

Here we can see the precise meaning of the theme of the newborn sun at the winter solstice, a motif representing the lengthening of days after the darkest time of the year. Egyptologist Dr. Bojana Mojsov explains further the significance in Egypt: "The symbol of the savior-child was the eye of the sun newly born every year at the winter solstice."

"At the winter solstice, the sun would seem to be a little child, like that which the Egyptians bring forth from a shrine on an appointed day, since the day is then at its shortest."
Epiphanius (c. 310-403 AD/CE)

In Christ in Egypt appears a lengthy analysis of the works of early Church father Epiphanius, including his discussion of the Egyptian winter-solstice celebration, which in Panarion adversus Haereses (51, 22.4-11) he names as "Chronia" and "Cicellia." Intriguingly, Epiphanius's account is censored in the Migne Greek edition to remove the parts about the winter solstice reverence of a babe in a manger born to a virgin. With difficulty, I was able to find the original, uncensored Greek passage and reference it in Christ in Egypt (84ff).

Christ in EgyptEpiphanius discusses the Kikellia or winter-solstice festival as taking place in the large Egyptian city of Alexandria "at the so-called Virgin's shrine." Railing against "those who guilefully preside over the cult of idols" and who "in many places deceitfully celebrate a very great festival on the very night of the Epiphany" (51, 22.8), Epiphanius next describes this festival as follows (51, 22.9-10):

> First, at Alexandria, in the Coreum, as they call it; it is a very large temple, the shrine of Core. They stay up all night singing hymns to the idol with a flute accompaniment. And when they have concluded their nightlong vigil torchbearers descend into an underground shrine after cockcrow...and bring up a wooden image which is seated naked a litter. It has a sign of the cross inlaid with gold on its forehead, two other such signs, [one] on each hand, and two other signs, [one] actually [on each of] its two knees—altogether five signs with a gold impress. And they carry the image itself seven times round the innermost shrine with flutes, tambourines and hymns, hold a feast, and take it back down to its place underground. And when you ask them what this mystery means they reply that today at this hour Core—that is, the virgin—gave birth to Aeo.

> "This sacred image in Egypt constitutes the divine son of the holy virgin mother within Paganism."

Here we find a Pagan sacred icon with a cross on its forehead, like that made by Catholic priests on the heads of Christian worshippers. We also discover this sacred image constitutes the divine son of the holy virgin mother within Paganism! This Pagan virgin mother was styled Core or Kore, meaning "maiden," as another name for the Greek nature goddess Persephone, who descended each year into the underworld, to return at springtime, bringing life back with her.

The Virgin Birth at Petra

The Treasury at Petra, Jordan (Photo: Gary Jones at the English language Wikipedia [GFDL (http://www.gnu.org/copyleft/fdl.html) or CC-BY-SA-3.0 (http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/3.0/)], via Wikimedia Commons)This same event of the Pagan virgin goddess giving birth to the divine son was celebrated also by Arabs at the ancient site of Petra in Jordan, as likewise recounted by Epiphanius (51, 22.11):

> This also goes on in the city of Petra, in the idolatrous temple there. (Petra is the capital city of Arabia, the scriptural Edom.) They praise the virgin with hymns in the Arab language and call her Chaamu—that is, Core, or virgin—in Arabic. And the child who is born of her they call Dusares, that is, "only son of the Lord." And this is also done that night in the city of Elusa, as it is there in Petra, and in Alexandria.

Regarding Epiphanius's account, in a chapter entitled "The Virgin Birth," Joseph Campbell writes:

> We learn from the fourth-century saint and churchman Epiphanius (ca. 315-402), for example, of an annual festival observed in Alexandria on January 6, the date assigned to the Epiphany and (originally) the Nativity of Christ, and to his Baptism as well. The pagan occasion was in celebration of the birth of the year-god Aion to the virgin goddess Kore, a Hellenized transformation of Isis.

As I also discuss in Suns of God, Christ in Egypt and elsewhere, the date of January 6th was one of several winter-solstice festivals in antiquity, likewise celebrated by the Orthodox Church as Christ's "birthday." As we can see, the esteemed mythologist Campbell comprehended that this "Christmas" celebration predates Christianity and revolves around the virgin birth of the "year god." This "only son of the Lord" Aeo or Aion is also a "light god" and is identified with the Greek god Dionysus and other solar deities. Moreover, here we see the identification of this virgin with the goddess Isis, whose son is Horus. (For more information and citations, see Christ in Egypt.)

Plutarch (46-120 AD/CE)

Horus as the sun bursting forth from the lotus flower (Maspero's As concerns Horus in particular serving as the "light god," it should be noted that he was syncretized often with the sun god Ra as "Ra-Horakhty" or "Horus of the Two Horizons," representing the rising and setting sun. This "Horus the Child" was also known to the Greeks as Harpocrates. In this form, Horus thus is born daily, including and especially at the winter solstice.

"About the time of the winter solstice, Isis gave birth to Harpocrates, imperfect and premature."

In this regard, we learn from one of the most famous historians of the first century, Plutarch, that Horus the Child/Harpocrates was "born about the winter solstice, unfinished and infant-like..." (Isis and Osiris (65, 387C); Babbitt, 153) Plurarch's original Greek is as follows:

τίκτεσθαι δὲ τὸν Ἁρποκράτην περὶ τροπὰς χειμερινὰς ἀτελῆ καὶ νεαρὸν ἐν τοῖς προανθοῦσι καὶ προβλαστάνουσι

In this same passage, we learn further from Plutarch that the Egyptians "observe the festival of her child-birth after the vernal equinox." This mythical motif of the two births of Horus at these times of the winter solstice and vernal equinox makes sense when one considers that we are discussing nature and solar deities. The astrotheological meaning of these two solar "births" connotes the increasing light after the solstice and the final triumph of day over night at the vernal equinox, after which the days begin to become longer than the night.
Hieroglyphs

Other indications of the Egyptian observation of the winter solstice can be found in hieroglyphs, as I relate in Christ in Egypt (94): As Egyptologist Dr. Heinrich Brugsch explains, the Egyptians not only abundantly recorded and revered the time of the winter solstice, they also created a number of hieroglyphs to depict it, including and image of the goddess-sisters Isis and Nephthys with the solar disc floating above their hands over a lifegiving ankh - the looped Egyptian cross - as the sun's rays extend down to the cross symbol.

Budge, _An Egyptian Hieroglyphic Dictionary_, 351
Isis and Nephthys holding the baby sun
over the life-giving ankh, representing the winter solstice

This image of the sun between Isis and Nephthys, which is sometimes depicted without the ankh, is described in an inscription at Edfu regarding Ptolemy VII (fl. 145 BCE?) and applied to the winter solstice, translated as: "The sun coming out of the sky-ocean into the hands of the siblings Isis and Nephthys." This image very much looks like the sun being born, which is sensible, since, again, Horus the Child or Harpocrates, the morning sun, was born every day, including at the winter solstice.

"Horus the Child, the morning sun, was born every day, including at the winter solstice."

There are many other artifacts in Egypt that demonstrate Horus's association with the winter solstice, including his temples aligned to the rising sun at that time of the year. Indeed, the Horus/winter-solstice data is so extensive that I was compelled to include a 40-page chapter in Christ in Egypt entitled "Born on December 25th."

The Feast of Sokar

In the winter-solstice chapter in CIE also appears a discussion of the feast of the Egyptian god Sokar or Seker, syncretized with both Osiris and Horus, appearing as the newborn sun in the shape of a baby falcon or hawk, a solar symbol because the bird flies highest in the sky. Like Osiris, Sokar is considered a form of the sun god as he passes through the underworld, to be born as Horus at the dawn. As such, he is represented as a triune god Ptah-Sokar-Osiris, who is present at the birth of the baby Sokar during the winter solstice.

Egyptian god(s) Ptah-Osiris-Sokar approaches the baby sun god Sokar at the winter solstice

"In Egypt, the festival of the baby sun god Sokar occurs on 26 Khoiak, corresponding to December 22nd."

As I also state in Christ in Egypt, Sokar's festival occurs on 26 Khoiak, as related in the Calendar of Hathor at Dendera, corresponding at the turn of the common era to December 22nd. The longstanding ritual of Sokar being carried out of the temple on this day in an "ark" closely resembles the commentary by Epiphanius, the Paschal Chronicle and Macrobius concerning the Egyptians bringing forth the baby sun born of a virgin at the winter solstice.

This Egyptian "Christmas" celebration - again, styled by Epiphanius the "Kikellia" - has also been called the "Rites of Isis" and has been asserted elsewhere to begin a few days earlier than December 25th, such as the "true" solstice of the 21st or 22nd, corresponding to the Sokar festival.

The 3,400-Year-Old Reborn Sun

Sokar/Seker as the "reborn sun" was conceived at least 3,400 years ago, as related by famed astronomer Dr. Gerald Hawkins:

> In Kherouef’s tomb, circa 1400 B.C., it says, "The doors of the underworld are open, O Sokaris, sun in the sky. O reborn one, you are seen brilliant on the horizon and you give back Egypt her beauty each time the sky is pierced with rays..."

The god Sokar as a falcon in his birth sled or mangerRegarding the "feast of Sokar," Amanda-Alice Maravelia states, "The festival of Sokar was celebrated with considerable pomp, probably rivaling the festival of Opet; it was the continuity of the cult of the divine king connected with the resurrection of the god." Furthermore, it was claimed that Osiris died during the feast of Sokar, in other words, around the winter solstice.

"The festival was connected with the winter solstice, with the 'little sun,' as the Egyptians called it at that time."

Concerning this feast, John Gardner Wilkinson remarks:

> At the festival of the god his bark was borne in solemn procession round the walls of the temple of Sokaris.... The festival was connected with the winter solstice, with the "little sun," as the Egyptians called it at that time. In the Ptolemaic period it fell on the morning of the 26th of Khoiak (22nd December), while in earlier times it would seem to have been held in the evening....

Brugsch likewise discusses the fest of Sokar, which was held on the 26th of Koiak, equivalent to December 22nd in the Julian calendar and December 25th in the calendar of Eudoxus (410/408-355/347 BCE). In the temple of Dendera, Brugsch relates, we find a description of the 26th of Koiak—December 22nd also in the Alexandrian calendar—as representing the day of the winter solstice and of the "Rising of Osiris as the sun and moon."

"December 22nd (26 Koiak) represents the day of the winter solstice and of the 'Rising of Osiris as the sun and moon.'"

Moreover, like Horus, one of Sokar's major roles is that of the resurrected Osiris; hence, the baby sun as a hawk/falcon emerges at the winter solstice as the resurrected Osiris. Thus, we can state once more that the Egyptian sun god dies and is reborn at the winter solstice, precisely as we find in other cultures. (For more information on Sokar, as well as citations, see Christ in Egypt.)

Other Solstice Celebrations

The winter-solstice celebrations were so important that at times they exceeded the one or two days of the actual solstice in the Gregorian calendar, i.e., December 21st or 22nd. Solstice celebrations therefore do not necessarily fall on the traditional time of the solstice - "solstice" meaning "sun stands still" - but may occur up to several days before or after, such as is exemplified by the Roman celebration of Saturnalia, which began on the December 17th and ended on the 23rd.

As demonstrated in my 2010 Astrotheology Calendar, the entire month of December, along with a couple of weeks before and after, has been filled with winter celebrations of sun and light deities in cultures globally. In my calendar, I converted the dates of the Egyptian wandering calendar to when these festivities would have occurred in the year 1 AD/CE.

December from the 2010 Astrotheology Calendar - click to enlarge

As we can see, around the year 1 AD/CE the death and resurrection of Osiris were aligned in the wandering Egyptian calendar to the winter solstice, when the birth of Sokar also occurred. Both of these gods are syncretized with Horus.

"Around the year 1 AD/CE, the death and resurrection of Osiris were aligned to the winter solstice, as was the birth of Sokar, both of whom were identified with Horus."
The Sun Born of the Celestial Virgin

One of the meanings behind the virgin-born solar-deity myth is the pristine dawn birthing the new sun, while it was also said that the moon reflecting the sun's rays likewise gave birth to the solar entity. Another connotation is the constellation of Virgo, in Ptolemaic times identified with Isis: "According to [Pseudo-]Eratosthenes, the celestial Virgin was supposed to be Isis, that is, the symbol of the returning year."

In a text called The Katasterismoi or Catasterismi, "Pseudo-Eratosthenes" includes an essay on the constellation of Virgo called Παρθένος or "Parthenos," a Greek word usually rendered "virgin." According to this text, which dates to the 1st to 2nd centuries AD/CE but purports to be an epitome of the (lost) writings of the Greek astronomer Eratosthenes (276-194 BCE), Isis appears among other deities represented by this virginal figure:

> Hesiod in the Theogony says this figure is Dike, the daughter of Zeus [Dios] and Themis... Some say it is Demeter because of the sheaf of grain she holds, others say it is Isis, others Atagartis, others Tyche...and for that reason they represent her as headless.

This Greek word parthenos used to describe these various goddesses, including Isis, is the identical term by which Jesus's mother, Mary, is called decades to centuries later (Mt 1:23; Lk 1:27). Also like Isis, Mary too is called virgo, in Jerome's Latin Vulgate Bible. In antiquity, therefore, both in Egyptian hieroglyphs and in Greek texts, Isis is styled the "Great Virgin."

"The Greek word parthenos used to describe Isis as a 'virgin' is the identical term by which Jesus's mother, Mary, is called decades to centuries later."

Isis as the Great Virgin at the tomb of Set I (Botterweck) - click to enlarge

The virgin-mother motif predates Christianity by thousands of years and revolves around the Goddess parthenogenetically reproducing the universe. This motif of parthenogenesis was applied to Isis's very ancient alter ego, Neith, possibly 7,000 or more years ago. (For more information on the Egyptian virgin-mother goddess, see the chapter "The Virgin Isis-Mery" in Christ in Egypt.)

Explaining the astrotheological theme regarding Isis and her baby, Count Volney remarks:

> It is the sun which, under the name of Horus, was born, like your [Christian] God, at the winter solstice, in the arms of the celestial virgin, and who passed a childhood of obscurity, indigence, and want, answering to the season of cold and frost.

Regarding the astrotheological nature of the gospel story, including the virgin birth, the famous Christian theologian and saint Albertus Magnus, or Albert the Great, (1193?-1280) purportedly stated:

> "We know that the sign of the celestial Virgin did come to the horizon at the moment where we have fixed the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. All the mysteries of the incarnation of our Saviour Christ; and all the circumstances of his marvellous life, from his conception to his ascension, are to be traced out in the constellations, and are figured in the stars."

> "The sign of the celestial Virgin did come to the horizon at the moment where we have fixed the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Isis nursing HorusAs Albert the Great acknowledged, the virgin-birth motif is astrotheological, referring to the hour of midnight, December 25th, when the constellation of Virgo rises on the horizon. The Assumption of the Virgin, celebrated in Catholicism on August 15th, represents the summer sun's brightness blotting out Virgo. Mary's Nativity, celebrated on September 8th, occurs when the constellation is visible again. Such is what these "Christian" motifs and holidays represent, as has obviously been known by the more erudite of the Catholic clergy. Hence, the virgin who will conceive and bring forth is Virgo, and her son is the sun.

"The mythical motif of the sun god born at the winter solstice of a virgin precedes the common era by many centuries."

The mythical motif of the sun god born at the winter solstice of a virgin precedes the common era by many centuries. As demonstrated here, its presence in the myths of Sokar, a form of both Osiris and Horus, dates back over 3,000 years. The same motif was celebrated as applied to Aion, Horus and other virgin-born solar deities around the globe for millennia.
Further Reading

ISIS IS A VIRGIN MOTHER
HORUS IS A SUN GOD
The Three Kings and Star in the East
The Christmas Hoax: Jesus is NOT the Reason for the Season
Rebuttal to Chris Forbes
Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
The Virgin Dawn Goddess
Egyptian hieroglyphs showing Isis as the 'Great Virgin'
Dionysus: Born of a Virgin on December 25th
Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th

Mithra: Born of a Virgin on December 25th

Horus born of a virgin at the winter solstice

Isis the Great Virgin

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst

- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Mithra: The Pagan Christ

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Mithra with Sun and Moon

(The following article is adapted from a chapter in Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled, as well as excerpts from other articles, such as "The Origins of Christianity" and "The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook.")

"Both Mithras and Christ were described variously as 'the Way,' 'the Truth,' 'the Light,' 'the Life,' 'the Word,' 'the Son of God,' 'the Good Shepherd.' The Christian litany to Jesus could easily be an allegorical litany to the sun-god. Mithras is often represented as carrying a lamb on his shoulders, just as Jesus is. Midnight services were found in both religions. The virgin mother...was easily merged with the virgin mother Mary. Petra, the sacred rock of Mithraism, became Peter, the foundation of the Christian Church."

Gerald Berry, Religions of the World

"Mithra or Mitra is...worshipped as Itu (Mitra-Mitu-Itu) in every house of the Hindus in India. Itu (derivative of Mitu or Mitra) is considered as the Vegetation-deity. This Mithra or Mitra (Sun-God) is believed to be a Mediator between God and man, between the Sky and the Earth. It is said that Mithra or [the] Sun took birth in the Cave on December 25th. It is also the belief of the Christian world that Mithra or the Sun-God was born of [a] Virgin. He travelled far and wide. He has twelve satellites, which are taken as the Sun's disciples.... [The Sun's] great festivals are observed in the Winter Solstice and the Vernal Equinox—Christmas and Easter. His symbol is the Lamb...."

Swami Prajnanananda, Christ the Saviour and Christ Myth

Because of its evident relationship to Christianity, special attention needs to be paid to the Persian/Roman religion of Mithraism. The worship of the Indo-Persian god Mithra dates back centuries to millennia preceding the common era. The god is found as "Mitra" in the Indian Vedic religion, which is over 3,500 years old, by conservative estimates. When the Iranians separated from their Indian brethren, Mitra became known as "Mithra" or "Mihr," as he is also called in Persian.

Hittite and Mitanni kingdoms around 1400 BCEBy around 1500 BCE, Mitra worship had made it to the Near East, in the Indian kingdom of the Mitanni, who at that time occupied Assyria. Mitra worship, however, was known also by that time as far west as the Hittite kingdom, only a few hundred miles east of the Mediterranean, as is evidenced by the Hittite-Mitanni tablets found at Bogaz-Köy in what is now Turkey. The gods of the Mitanni included Mitra, Varuna and Indra, all found in the Vedic texts.

Mithra as Sun God

The Indian Mitra was essentially a solar deity, representing the "friendly" aspect of the sun. So too was the Persian derivative Mithra, who was a "benevolent god" and the bestower of health, wealth and food. Mithra also seems to have been looked upon as a sort of Prometheus, for the gift of fire. (Schironi, 104) His worship purified and freed the devotee from sin and disease. Eventually, Mithra became more militant, and he is best known as a warrior.

Mithra wearing a crown of sun rays; Taqwasân or Taq-e Bostan or Taq-i-Bustan, Sassanid Empire, Coronation of Ardeshir II, c. 4th cent. AD/CE (Photo: Phillipe Chavin)Like so many gods, Mithra was the light and power behind the sun. In Babylon, Mithra was identified with Shamash, the sun god, and he is also Bel, the Mesopotamian and Canaanite/ Phoenician solar deity, who is likewise Marduk, the Babylonian god who represented both the planet Jupiter and the sun. According to Pseudo-Clement of Rome's debate with Appion (Homily VI, ch. X), Mithra is also Apollo.

In time, the Persian Mithraism became infused with the more detailed astrotheology of the Babylonians and Chaldeans, and was notable for its astrology and magic; indeed, its priests or magi lent their very name to the word "magic." Included in this astrotheological development was the re-emphasis on Mithra's early Indian role as a sun god. As Francis Legge says in Forerunners and Rivals in Christianity:

The Vedic Mitra was originally the material sun itself, and the many hundreds of votive inscriptions left by the worshippers of Mithras to "the unconquered Sun Mithras," to the unconquered solar divinity (numen) Mithras, to the unconquered Sun-God (deus) Mithra, and allusions in them to priests (sacerdotes), worshippers (cultores), and temples (templum) of the same deity leave no doubt open that he was in Roman times a sun-god. (Legge, II, 240)

By the Roman legionnaires, Mithra—or Mithras, as he began to be known in the Greco-Roman world—was called "the divine Sun, the Unconquered Sun." He was said to be "Mighty in strength, mighty ruler, greatest king of gods! O Sun, lord of heaven and earth, God of Gods!" Mithra was also deemed "the mediator" between heaven and earth, a role often ascribed to the god of the sun.

An inscription by a "T. Flavius Hyginus" dating to around 80 to 100 AD/CE in Rome dedicates an altar to "Sol Invictus Mithras"—"The Unconquered Sun Mithra"—revealing the hybridization reflected in other artifacts and myths. Regarding this title, Dr. Richard L. Gordon, honorary professor of Religionsgeschichte der Antike at the University of Erfurt, Thuringen, remarks:

It is true that one...cult title...of Mithras was, or came to be, Deus Sol Invictus Mithras (but he could also be called... Deus Invictus Sol Mithras, Sol Invictus Mithras...

...Strabo, 15.3.13 (p. 732C), basing his information on a lost work, either by Posidonius (ca 135-51 BC) or by Apollodorus of Artemita (first decades of 1 cent. BC), states baldly that the Western Parthians "call the sun Mithra." The Roman cult seems to have taken this existing association and developed it in their own special way. (Gordon, "FAQ." (Emph. added.))

"Mithra is who the monuments proclaim him—the Unconquered Sun."

As concerns Mithra's identity, Mithraic scholar Dr. Roger Beck says:

Mithras...is the prime traveller, the principal actor...on the celestial stage which the tauctony [bull-slaying] defines.... He is who the monuments proclaim him—the Unconquered Sun. (Beck (2004), 274)

In an early image, Mithra is depicted as a sun disc in a chariot drawn by white horses, another solar motif that made it into the Jesus myth, in which Christ is to return on a white horse. (Rev 6:2; 19:11)

Persian sun god in quadriga sun chariot; Lundy, 177, after Lajard
Mithra in the Roman Empire

Subsequent to the military campaign of Alexander the Great in the fourth century BCE, Mithra became the "favorite deity" of Asia Minor. Christian writers Dr. Samuel Jackson and George W. Gilmore, editors of The New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge (VII, 420), remark:

It was probably at this period, 250-100 b.c., that the Mithraic system of ritual and doctrine took the form which it afterward retained. Here it came into contact with the mysteries, of which there were many varieties, among which the most notable were those of Cybele.

According to the Roman historian Plutarch (c. 46-120 AD/CE), Mithraism began to be absorbed by the Romans during Pompey's military campaign against Cilician pirates around 70 BCE. The religion eventually migrated from Asia Minor through the soldiers, many of whom had been citizens of the region, into Rome and the far reaches of the Empire. Syrian merchants brought Mithraism to the major cities, such as Alexandria, Rome and Carthage, while captives carried it to the countryside. By the third century AD/CE Mithraism and its mysteries permeated the Roman Empire and extended from India to Scotland, with abundant monuments in numerous countries amounting to over 420 Mithraic sites so far discovered.

"By the third century AD/CE Mithraism and its mysteries permeated the Roman Empire and extended from India to Scotland."

Mithra as Sol Invictus, the inscription reading From a number of discoveries, including pottery, inscriptions and temples, we know that Roman Mithraism gained a significant boost and much of its shape between 80 and 120 AD/CE, when the first artifacts of this particular cultus begin to be found at Rome. It reached a peak during the second and third centuries, before largely expiring at the end of the fourth/beginning of fifth centuries. Among its members during this period were emperors, politicians and businessmen. Indeed, before its usurpation by Christianity Mithraism enjoyed the patronage of some of the most important individuals in the Roman Empire. In the fifth century, the emperor Julian, having rejected his birth-religion of Christianity, adopted Mithraism and "introduced the practise of the worship at Constantinople."

(Schaff-Herzog, VII, 423)

Modern scholarship has gone back and forth as to how much of the original Indo-Persian Mitra-Mithra cultus affected Roman Mithraism, which demonstrates a distinct development but which nonetheless follows a pattern of this earlier solar mythos and ritual. The theory of "continuity" from the Iranian to Roman Mithraism developed famously by scholar Dr. Franz Cumont in the 20th century has been largely rejected by many scholars. Yet, Plutarch himself (Life of Pompey, 24) related that followers of Mithras "continue to the present time" the "secret rites" of the Cilician pirates, "having been first instituted by them." So too does the ancient writer Porphyry (234-c. 305 AD/CE) state that the Roman Mithraists themselves believed their religion had been founded by the Persian savior Zoroaster.

Statue of Tiridates I of Armenia; André, 1687; Parc et jardins du château de Versailles (Photo: Eupator)In discussing what may have been recounted by ancient writers asserted to have written many volumes about Mithraism, such as Eubulus of Palestine and "a certain Pallas," Gordon (Journal Mithraic Studies, v. 2, 150) remarks: "Certainly Zoroaster would have figured largely; and so would the Persians and the magi." It seems that the ancients themselves did not divorce the eastern roots of Mithraism, as exemplified also by the remarks of Dio Cassius, who related that in 66 AD/CE the king of Armenia, Tiridates, visited Rome. Cassius states that the dignitary worshipped Mithra; yet, he does not indicate any distinction between the Armenian's religion and Roman Mithraism.

It is apparent from their testimony that ancient sources perceived Mithraism as having a Persian origin; hence, it would seem that any true picture of the development of Roman Mithraism must include the latter's relationship to the earlier Persian cultus, as well as its Asia Minor and Armenian offshoots. Current scholarship is summarized thus by Dr. Beck (2004; 28):

> Since the 1970s, scholars of western Mithraism have generally agreed that Cumont's master narrative of east-west transfer is unsustainable; but...recent trends in the scholarship on Iranian religion, by modifying the picture of that religion prior to the birth of the western mysteries, now render a revised Cumontian scenario of east-west transfer and continuities once again viable.

In his massive anthology, Armenian and Iranian Studies, Dr. James R. Russell, professor of Armenian Studies at Harvard University, essentially proves that Roman Mithraism had its origins in not only Persian or Iranian Mithraism and Zoroastrianism but also in Armenian religion, dating back centuries before the common era.

The Many Faces of Mithra

Mainstream scholarship speaks of at least three Mithras: Mitra, the Vedic god; Mithra, the Persian deity; and Mithras, the Greco-Roman mysteries The Armenian Empire under Tigranes the Great, fl. 95 to 66 BCE; Aivazovskyicon. However, the Persian Mithra apparently developed differently in various places, such as in Armenia, where there appeared to be emphasis on characteristics not overtly present in Roman Mithraism but found as motifs within Christianity, including the Virgin Mother Goddess. This Armenian Mithraism is evidently a continuity of the Mithraism of Asia Minor and the Near East. This development of gods taking on different forms, shapes, colors, ethnicities and other attributes according to location, era and so on is not only quite common but also the norm. Thus, we have hundreds of gods and goddesses who are in many ways interchangeable but who have adopted various differences based on geographical and environmental factors.

Mithra and Christ

Over the centuries—in fact, from the earliest Christian times—Mithraism has been compared to Christianity, revealing numerous similarities between the two faiths' doctrines and traditions, including as concerns stories of their respective godmen. In developing this analysis, it should be kept in mind that elements from Roman, Armenian and Persian Mithraism are utilized, not as a whole ideology but as separate items that may have affected the creation of Christianity, whether directly through the mechanism of Mithraism or through another Pagan source within the Roman Empire and beyond. The evidence points to these motifs and elements being adopted into Christianity not as a whole from one source but singularly from many sources, including Mithraism.

"The evidence points to these motifs and elements being adopted into Christianity..."

Thus, the following list represents not a solidified mythos or narrative of one particular Mithra or form of the god as developed in one particular culture and era but, rather, a combination of them all for ease of reference as to any possible influences upon Christianity under the name of Mitra/Mithra/Mithras.

Mithra has the following in common with the Jesus character:

Mithra was born on December 25th of the virgin Anahita.

The babe was wrapped in swaddling clothes, placed in a manger and attended by shepherds.

He was considered a great traveling teacher and master.

He had 12 companions or "disciples."

He performed miracles.

As the "great bull of the Sun," Mithra sacrificed himself for world peace.

Mithra ascending to heaven in his solar cart, with sun symbolHe ascended to heaven.

Mithra was viewed as the Good Shepherd, the "Way, the Truth and the Light," the Redeemer, the Savior, the Messiah.

Mithra is omniscient, as he "hears all, sees all, knows all: none can deceive him."

He was identified with both the Lion and the Lamb.

His sacred day was Sunday, "the Lord's Day," hundreds of years before the appearance of Christ.

His religion had a eucharist or "Lord's Supper."
Mithra "sets his marks on the foreheads of his soldiers."
Mithraism emphasized baptism.

December 25th Birthday

The similarities between Mithraism and Christianity have included their chapels, the term "father" for priest, celibacy and, it is notoriously claimed, the December 25th birthdate. Over the centuries, apologists contending that Mithraism copied Christianity nevertheless have asserted that the December 25th birthdate was taken from Mithraism. As Sir Arthur Weigall says:

December 25th was really the date, not of the birth of Jesus, but of the sun-god Mithra. Horus, son of Isis, however, was in very early times identified with Ra, the Egyptian sun-god, and hence with Mithra...

Mithra's birthday on December 25th has been so widely claimed that the Catholic Encyclopedia ("Mithraism") remarks: "The 25 December was observed as his birthday, the natalis invicti, the rebirth of the winter-sun, unconquered by the rigours of the season."

Yet this contention of Mithra's birthday on December 25th or the winter solstice is disputed because there is no hard archaeological or literary evidence of the Roman Mithras specifically being named as having been born at that time. Says Dr. Alvar:

There is no evidence of any kind, not even a hint, from within the cult that this, or any other winter day, was important in the Mithraic calendar. (Alvar, 410)

In analyzing the evidence, we must keep in mind all the destruction that has taken place over the past 2,000 years—including that of many Mithraic remains and texts—as well as the fact that several of these germane parallels constituted mysteries that may or may not have been recorded in the first place or the meanings of which have been obscured.

Christ as Helios or Sol Invictus in his solar chariot; 3rd century AD/CE; Mausoleum, St. Peter's, RomeThe claim about the Roman Mithras's birth on "Christmas" is evidently based on the Calendar of Filocalus or Philocalian Calendar (c. 354 AD/CE), which mentions that December 25th represents the "Birthday of the Unconquered," understood to refer to the sun and taken to indicate Mithras as Sol Invictus. Whether it represents Mithras's birthday specifically or "merely" that of Emperor Aurelian's Sol Invictus, with whom Mithras has been identified, the Calendar also lists the day—the winter solstice birth of the sun—as that of natus Christus in Betleem Iudeae: "Birth of Christ in Bethlehem Judea."

Moreover, it would seem that there is more to this story, as Aurelian was the first to institute officially the winter solstice as the birthday of Sol Invictus (Dies Natalis Solis Invicti) in 274 AD/CE. (Halsberghe, 158) It is contended that Aurelian's move was in response to Mithras's popularity. (Restaud, 4) One would thus wonder why the emperor would be so motivated if Mithras had nothing whatsoever to do with the sun god's traditional birthday—a disconnect that would be unusual for any solar deity.

Regardless of whether or not the artifacts of the Roman Mithras's votaries reflect the attribution of the sun god's birthday to him specifically, many in the empire did identify the mysteries icon and Sol Invictus as one, evidenced by the inscriptions of "Sol Invictus Mithras" and the many images of Mithras and the sun together, representing two sides of the same coin or each other's alter ego. Hence, the placement of Mithras's birth on this feast day of the sun is understandable and, despite the lack of concrete evidence at this date, quite plausibly was recognized in this manner in antiquity in the Roman Empire.

Persian Winter Festivals

In addition, it is clear that the ancient peoples from whom Mithraism sprang, long before it was Romanized, were very much involved in winter festivals so common among many other cultures globally. In this regard, discussing the Iranian month of Asiyadaya, which corresponds to November/December, Mithraic scholar Dr. Mary Boyce remarks:

> ...it is at this time of year that the Zoroastrian festival of Sada takes place, which is not only probably pre-Zoroastrian in origin, but may even go back to proto-Indo-European times. For Sada is a great open-air festival, of a kind celebrated widely among the Indo-European peoples, with the intention of strengthening the heavenly fire, the sun, in its winter decline and feebleness. Sun and fire being of profound significance in the Old Iranian religion, this is a festival which one would expect the Medes and Persians to have brought with them into their new lands... Sada is not, however, a feast in honour of the god of Fire, Atar, but is rather for the general strengthening of the creation of fire against the onslaught of winter. (Boyce (1982), 24-25)

This ancient Persian winter festival therefore celebrates the strengthening of the "fire" or sun in the face its winter decline, just as virtually every winter-solstice festivity is intended to do. Yet, as Dr. Boyce says, this "Zoroastrian" winter celebration is likely pre-Zoroastrian and even proto-Indo-European, which means it dates back far into the hoary mists of time, possibly tens of thousands of years ago. And one would indeed expect the Medes and Persians to bring this festival with them into their new lands, including the Near East, where they would eventually encounter Romans, who could hardly have missed this common solar motif celebrated worldwide in numerous ways.

"The Mithraists believed that this night is the night of the birth of Mithra, Persian god of light and truth."

Yalda greetings from an Iranian site; Mithra wearing a Phrygian cap; www.cais-soas.com/News/2007/December2007/21-12.htmThe same may be said as concerns another Persian or Zoroastrian winter celebration called "Yalda," which is the festival of the Longest Night of the Year, taking place on December 20th or the day before the solstice:

> Yalda has a history as long as the Mithraism religion. The Mithraists believed that this night is the night of the birth of Mithra, Persian god of light and truth. At the morning of the longest night of the year the Mithra is born from a virgin mother....
>
> In Zoroastrian tradition, the winter solstice with the longest night of the year was an auspicious day, and included customs intended to protect people from misfortune.... The Eve of the Yalda has great significance in the Iranian calendar. It is the eve of the birth of Mithra, the Sun God, who symbolized light, goodness and strength on earth. Shab-e Yalda is a time of joy.
>
> Yalda is a Syriac word meaning birth. Mithra-worshippers used the term "yalda" specifically with reference to the birth of Mithra. As the longest night of the year, the Eve of Yalda (Shab-e Yalda) is also a turning point, after which the days grow longer. In ancient times it symbolized the triumph of the Sun God over the powers of darkness. ("Yalda," Wikipedia)

It is likely that this festival does indeed derive from remote antiquity, and it is evident that the ancient Persians were well aware of the winter solstice and its meaning as found in numerous other cultures: To wit, the annual "rebirth," "renewal" or "resurrection" of the sun.

"'Christmas' is the birth not of the 'son of God' but of the sun."

In the end the effect is the same: "Christmas" is the birth not of the "son of God" but of the sun. Indeed, there is much evidence—including many ancient monumental alignments—to demonstrate that this highly noticeable and cherished event of the winter solstice was celebrated beginning hundreds to thousands of years before the common era in numerous parts of the world. The observation was thus provably taken over by Christianity, not as biblical doctrine but as a later tradition in order to compete with the Pagan cults, a move we contend occurred with numerous other "Christian" motifs, including many that are in the New Testament.

Mithra the 'Rock-Born'

Mithra's genesis out of a rock, analogous to the birth in caves of a number of gods—including Jesus in the apocryphal, non-canonical texts— was followed by his adoration by shepherds, another motif that found its way into the later Christianity. Regarding the birth in caves likewise common to pre-Christian gods, and present in the early legends of Jesus, Weigall relates (50):

...the cave shown at Bethlehem as the birthplace of Jesus was actually a rock shrine in which the god Tammuz or Adonis was worshipped, as the early Christian father Jerome tells us; and its adoption as the scene of the birth of our Lord was one of those frequent instances of the taking over by Christians of a pagan sacred site. The propriety of this appropriation was increased by the fact that the worship of a god in a cave was commonplace in paganism: Apollo, Cybele, Demeter, Herakles, Hermes, Mithra and

Poseidon were all adored in caves; Hermes, the Greek Logos, being actually born of Maia in a cave, and Mithra being "rock-born."

Mithra, born from a rock holding a dagger and a torchAs the "rock-born," Mithras was called "Theos ek Petras," or the "God from the Rock." As Weigall also relates:

Indeed, it may be that the reason of the Vatican hill at Rome being regarded as sacred to Peter, the Christian "Rock," was that it was already sacred to Mithra, for Mithraic remains have been found there.

Mithras was "the rock," or Peter, and was also "double-faced," like Janus the keyholder, likewise a prototype for the "apostle" Peter. Hence, when Jesus is made to say (in the apparent interpolation at Matthew 16:12) that the keys of the kingdom of heaven are given to "Peter" and that the Church is to be built upon "Peter," as a representative of Rome, he is usurping the authority of Mithraism, which was precisely headquartered on what became Vatican Hill.

"Mithraic remains on Vatican Hill are found underneath the later Christian edifices, which proves the Mithra cult was there first."

By the time the Christian hierarchy prevailed in Rome, Mithra had already been a popular cult, with pope, bishops, etc., and its doctrines were well established and widespread, reflecting a certain antiquity. Mithraic remains on Vatican Hill are found underneath the later Christian edifices, a fact that proves the Mithra cult was there first. In fact, while Mithraic ruins are abundant throughout the Roman Empire, beginning in the late first century AD/CE, "The earliest church remains, found in Dura-Europos, date only from around 230 CE."
The Virgin Mother Anahita

Unlike various other rock- or cave-born gods, Mithra is not depicted in the Roman cultus as having been given birth by a mortal woman or a goddess; hence, it is claimed that he was not "born of a virgin." However, a number of writers over the centuries have asserted otherwise, including several modern Persian and Armenian scholars who are apparently reflecting an ancient tradition from Near Eastern Mithraism.

"The worship of Mithra and Anahita, the virgin mother of Mithra, was well-known in the Achaemenian period."

Sassanid king Khosrow flanked by Anahita and Ahura Mazda; 7th cent. AD/CE; Taq-e Bostan, Iran (Phillipe Chavin)For example, Dr. Badi Badiozamani says that a "person" named "Mehr" or Mithra was "born of a virgin named Nahid Anahita ('immaculate')" and that "the worship of Mithra and Anahita, the virgin mother of Mithra, was well-known in the Achaemenian period [558-330 BCE]..." (Badiozamani, 96) Philosophy professor Dr. Mohammed Ali Amir-Moezzi states: "Dans le mithraïsme, ainsi que le mazdéisme populaire, (A)Nāhīd, mère de Mithra/Mehr, est vierge"—"In Mithraism, as in popular Mazdaism, Anahid, the mother of Mithra, is a virgin." (Amir-Moezzi, 78-79) Comparing the rock birth with that of the virgin mother, Dr. Amir-Moezzi also says:

> ...il y a donc analogie entre le rocher, symbole d'incorruptibilité, qui donne naissance au dieu iranien et la mère de celui-ci, Anāhīd, éternellement vierge et jeune.
>
> (...so there is analogy between the rock, a symbol of incorruptibility, giving birth to the Iranian god and the mother of that (same) one, Anahid, eternally virgin and young.)

In Mithraic Iconography and Ideology (78), Dr. Leroy A. Campbell calls Anahita the "great goddess of virgin purity," and Religious History professor Dr. Claas J. Bleeker says, "In the Avestan religion she is the typical virgin." (Bleeker (1963), 100)

One modern writer ("Mithraism and Christianity") portrays the Mithra myth thus:

According to Persian mythology, Mithras was born of a virgin given the title "Mother of God."

The Parthian princes of Armenia were all priests of Mithras, and an entire district of this land was dedicated to the Virgin Mother Anahita. Many Mithraeums, or Mithraic temples, were built in Armenia, which remained one of the last strongholds of Mithraism. The largest near-eastern Mithraeum was built in western Persia at Kangavar, dedicated to "Anahita, the Immaculate Virgin Mother of the Lord Mithras."

Artemis the Huntress holding two animals (lions?), Francois Vase, 6th century BCE; LouvreAnahita, also known as "Anaitis"—whose very name means "Pure" and "Untainted" and who was equated in antiquity with the virgin goddess Artemis—is certainly an Indo-Iranian goddess of some antiquity, dating back at least to the first half of the first millennium prior to the common era and enjoying "widespread popularity" around Asia Minor. Indeed, Anahita has been called "the best known divinity of the Persians" in Asia Minor. (de Jong, 268)

Moreover, concerning Mithra Schaff-Herzog says, "The Achaemenidae worshiped him as making the great triad with Ahura and Anahita." Ostensibly, this "triad" was the same as God the Father, the Virgin and Jesus, which would tend to confirm the assertion that Anahita was Mithra's virgin mother. That Anahita was closely associated with Mithra at least five centuries before the common era is evident from the equation made by Herodotus (1.131) in naming "Mitra" as the Persian counterpart of the Near and Middle Eastern goddesses Alilat and Mylitta. (de Jong, 269-270)

Moreover, Mithra's prototype, the Indian Mitra, was likewise born of a female, Aditi, the "mother of the gods," the inviolable or virgin dawn. Hence, we would expect an earlier form of Mithra also to possess this virgin-mother motif, which seems to have been lost or deliberately severed in the all-male Roman Mithraism.

Well known to scholars, the pre-Christian divine birth and virgin mother motifs are documented in the archaeological and literary records, as verified by Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso in The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece and Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity.

For more information, see:

Mithra Born of a Virgin Mother
Mithra and the Twelve

Mithra surrounded by the Twelve anthropomorphized signs of the Zodiac; Mithraeum of San Clemente, 3rd century AD/CEThe theme of the teaching god and "the Twelve" is found within Mithraism, as Mithra is depicted as surrounded by the 12 zodiac signs on a number of monuments and in the writings of Porphyry (4.16), for one. These 12 signs are sometimes portrayed as humans and, as they have been in the case of numerous sun gods, could be called Mithra's 12 "companions" or "disciples."

Regarding the Twelve, John M. Robertson says:

On Mithraic monuments we find representations of twelve episodes, probably corresponding to the twelve labors in the stories of Heracles, Samson and other Sun-heroes, and probably also connected with initiation.

The comparison of this common motif with Jesus and the 12 has been made on many occasions, including in an extensive study entitled, "Mithras and Christ: some iconographical similarities," by Professor A. Deman in Mithraic Studies.
Early Church Fathers on Mithraism

Mithraism was so popular in the Roman Empire and so similar in important aspects to Christianity that several Church fathers were compelled to address it, disparagingly of course. These fathers included Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Julius Firmicus Maternus and Augustine, all of whom attributed these striking correspondences to the prescient devil. In other words, anticipating Christ, the devil set about to fool the Pagans by imitating the coming messiah. In reality, the testimony of these Church fathers confirms that these various motifs, characteristics, traditions and myths predated Christianity.

"Christianity took a leaf out of the devil's book when it fixed the birth of the Saviour on the twenty-fifth of December."

Concerning this "devil did it" argument, in The Worship of Nature Sir James G. Frazer remarks:

If the Mithraic mysteries were indeed a Satanic copy of a divine original, we are driven to conclude that Christianity took a leaf out of the devil's book when it fixed the birth of the Saviour on the twenty-fifth of December; for there can be no doubt that the day in question was celebrated as the birthday of the Sun by the heathen before the Church, by an afterthought, arbitrarily transferred the Nativity of its Founder from the sixth of January to the twenty-fifth of December.

Regarding the various similarities between Mithra and Christ, as well as the defenses of the Church fathers, the author of The Existence of Christ Disproved remarks:

Justin Martyr, Church FatherAugustine, Firmicus, Justin, Tertullian, and others, having perceived the exact resemblance between the religion of Christ and the religion of Mithra, did, with an impertinence only to be equalled by its outrageous absurdity, insist that the devil, jealous and malignant, induced the Persians to establish a religion the exact image of Christianity that was to be—for these worthy saints and sinners of the church could not deny that the worship of Mithra preceded that of Christ—so that, to get out of the ditch, they summoned the devil to their aid, and with the most astonishing assurance, thus accounted for the striking similarity between the Persian and the Christian religion, the worship of Mithra and the worship of Christ; a mode of getting rid of a difficulty that is at once so stupid and absurd, that it would be almost equally stupid and absurd seriously to refute it.

"It is good practice to steer clear of all information provided by Christian writers: they are not 'sources,' they are violent apologists."

In response to a question about Tertullian's discussion of the purported Mithraic forehead mark, Dr. Richard Gordon says:

> In general, in studying Mithras, and the other Greco-oriental mystery cults, it is good practice to steer clear of all information provided by Christian writers: they are not "sources," they are violent apologists, and one does best not to believe a word they say, however tempting it is to supplement our ignorance with such stuff. (Gordon, "FAQ")

He also cautions about speculation concerning Mithraism and states that "there is practically no limit to the fantasies of scholars," an interesting admission about the hallowed halls of academia.

Priority: Mithraism or Christianity?

It is obvious from the remarks of the Church fathers and from the literary and archaeological record that Mithraism in some form preceded Christianity by centuries. The fact is that there is no Christian archaeological evidence earlier than the earliest Roman Mithraic archaeological evidence and that the preponderance of evidence points to Christianity being formulated during the second century, not based on a "historical" personage of the early first century. As one important example, the canonical gospels as we have them do not show up clearly in the literary record until the end of the second century.

Mithra's pre-Christian roots are attested in the Vedic and Avestan texts, as well as by historians such as Herodotus (1.131) and Xenophon (Cyrop. viii. 5, 53 and c. iv. 24), among others. Nor is it likely that the Roman Mithras is not essentially the same as the Indian sun god Mitra and the Persian, Armenian and Phrygian Mithra in his major attributes, as well as some of his most pertinent rites.

Moreover, it is erroneously asserted that because Mithraism was a "mystery cult" it did not leave any written record. In reality, much evidence of Mithra worship has been destroyed, including not only monuments, iconography and other artifacts, but also numerous books by ancient authors. The existence of written evidence is indicated by the Egyptian cloth "manuscript" from the first century BCE called, "Mummy Funerary Inscription of the Priest of Mithras, Ornouphios, Son fo Artemis" or MS 247.

Egyptian Mithra inscription on cloth; 1st century BCE; The Schøyen Collection, www.schoyencollection.com/religionsExtinct2.html

As previously noted, two of the ancient writers on Mithraism are Pallas, and Eubulus, the latter of whom, according to Jerome (Against Jovinianus, 2.14; Schaff 397), "wrote the history of Mithras in many volumes." Discussing Eubulus and Pallas, Porphyry too related that there were "several elaborate treatises setting forth the religion of Mithra." The writings of the early Church fathers themselves provide much evidence as to what Mithraism was all about, as do the archaeological artifacts stretching from India to Scotland.

These many written volumes doubtlessly contained much interesting information that was damaging to Christianity, such as the important correspondences between the "lives" of Mithra and Jesus, as well as identical symbols such as the cross, and rites such as baptism and the eucharist. In fact, Mithraism was so similar to Christianity that it gave fits to the early Church fathers, as it does to this day to apologists, who attempt both to deny the similarities and yet to claim that these (non-existent) correspondences were plagiarized by Mithraism from Christianity.

"Regardless of attempts to make Mithraism the plagiarist of Christianity, the fact will remain that Mithraism was first."

Nevertheless, the god Mithra was revered for centuries prior to the Christian era, and the germane elements of Mithraism are known to have preceded Christianity by hundreds to thousands of years. Thus, regardless of attempts to make Mithraism the plagiarist of Christianity, the fact will remain that Mithraism was first, well established in the West decades before Christianity had any significant influence.

For more information and citations, see The Christ Conspiracy, Suns of God, "Origins of Christianity," "The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook" and The Christ Myth Anthology. See also the "Mithra: Pagan Christ" forum discussion.

Bibliography

"Chronography of 354," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Calendar_of_Filocalus
"Mithraic Mysteries," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mithraic_mysteries
"Mithraism," www.catholic.org/encyclopedia/view.php?id=8042
"Mithraism and Christianity," meta-religion.com/World_Religions/Ancient_religions/Mesopotamia/Mithraism/mithraism_and_christianity_i.htm
"Mithras in Comparison With Other Belief Systems," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mithras_in_Comparison_With_Other_Belief_Systems
"Mitra," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mitra
"Yalda," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Yalda

Alvar, Jaime, and R.L. Gordon. Romanising Oriental Gods: Myth, Salvation and Ethics in the Cults of Cybele, Isis and Mithras. Leiden/Boston: Brill, 2008.
Amir-Moezzi, Mohammed Ali. La religion discrète: croyances et pratiques spirituelles dans l'islam shi'ite. Paris: Libr. Philosophique Vrin, 2006.
Anonymous. The Existence of Christ Disproved. Private Printing by "A German Jew," 1840.
Badiozamani, Badi. Iran and America: Rekindling a Lost Love. California: East-West Understanding Press, 2005.
Beck, Roger. Beck on Mithraism. England/Vermont: Ashgate Pub., 2004.
Berry, Gerald. Religions of the World. New York: Barnes & Noble, 1955.
Bleeker, Claas J. The Sacred Bridge: Researches into the Nature and Structure of Religion. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1963.
Boyce, Mary. "Mithraism: Mithra Khsathrapati and his brother Ahura." www.iranchamber.com/religions/articles/mithra_khsathrapati_ahura.php
—A History of Zoroastrianism, II. Leiden/Köln: E.J. Brill, 1982.
Campbell, LeRoy A. Mithraic Iconography and Ideology. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1968.
de Jong, Albert. Traditions of the Magi: Zoroastrianism in Greek and Latin Literature. Leiden/New York: Brill, 1997.
Forbes, Bruce David. Christmas: A Candid History. Berkeley/London: University of California Press, 2007.
Frazer, James G. The Worship of Nature, I. London: Macmillan, 1926.
Gordon, Richard L. "FAQ." Electronic Journal of Mithraic Studies, www.hums.canterbury.ac.nz/clas/ejms/faq.htm
—"The date and significance of CIMRM 593 (British Museum, Townley Collection)." Journal of Mithraic Studies, II: 148-174). hums.canterbury.ac.nz/clas/ejms/out_of_print/JMSv2n2/ JMSv2n2Gordon.pdf
Halsberghe, Gaston H. The Cult of Sol Invictus. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1972.
Hinnells, John R., ed. Mithraic Studies: Proceedings of the First International Congress of Mithraic Studies. Manchester: Manchester University Press, 1975.
Kosso, Cynthia, and Anne Scott. The Nature and Function of Water, Baths, Bathing and Hygiene from Antiquity through the Renaissance. Leiden/Boston: Brill, 2009.
Lundy, John P. Monumental Christianity. New York: J.W. Bouton, 1876.
Molnar, Michael R. The Star of Bethlehem: The Legacy of the Magi. New Jersey: Rutgers University Press, 1999.
The New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia, VII. eds. Samuel M. Jackson and George William Gilmore. New York/London: Funk and Wagnalls Company, 1910.
Plutarch. "Life of Pompey." The Parallel Lives by Plutarch, V. Loeb, 1917; penelope.uchicago.edu/Thayer/E/Roman/Texts/Plutarch/Lives/ Pompey*.html#24
Porphyry. Selects Works of Porphyry. London: T. Rodd, 1823.
Prajnanananda, Swami. Christ the Saviour and Christ Myth. Calcutta: Ramakrishna Vedanta Math, 1984.
Restaud, Penne L. Christmas in America: A History. New York: Oxford Univ. Press, 1995.
Robert, Alexander, and James Donaldson, eds. Ante-Nicene Christian Library, XVIII: The Clementine Homilies. Edinburgh: T&T Clark, 1870.
Robertson, John M. Pagan Christs. Dorset, 1966.
Russell, James R. Armenian and Iranian Studies. Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 2004.

Schaff, Philip, and Henry Wace. A Select Library of Nicene and Post-Nicene Father of the Christian Church, VI. New York: The Christian Literature Company, 1893.
Schironi, Francesca, and Arthus S. Hunt. From Alexandria to Babylon: Near Eastern Languages and Hellenistic Erudition in the Oxyrhynchus Glossary. Berlin/New York: Walter de Gruyter, 2009.
Srinivasan, Doris. On the Cusp of an Era: Art in the Pre-Kusana World. Leiden/Boston: Brill, 2007.
Weigall, Arthur. The Paganism in Our Christianity. London: Thames & Hudson, 1923.

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology
TBK, SHP & FTN Mailing List ×

To receive cutting-edge messages about religion, mythology and history—
Enter your email address below:

Subscribe

And get a free ebook!

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Mogelijk gemaakt door Google TranslateTranslate

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Articles
Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
Rebuttal to Licona's "Refutation of The Christ Conspiracy"
Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter

Books

The Gospel According to Acharya S

Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Ebooks

Christ Myth Articles

Freethought Examiner

Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Australian historian Dr. Chris Forbes is a senior lecturer in Ancient History and deputy chairman of the Society for the Study of Early Christianity, as well as a member of the Society for Biblical Literature and of the Synod of the Diocese of Sydney. Dr. Forbes's criticisms of the first/religion part of the internet documentary "Zeitgeist" ("ZG1.1") have been widely circulated. However, Forbes is not an Egyptologist, classicist or mythologist, and his comments show a lack of knowledge in the relevant fields addressed in ZG1.1. In fact, Forbes makes several mistakes, and his remarks seem to be more reflective of his role as a devout Christian upholder of the faith, which from his credentials and curriculum vitae he clearly is. In the following article, I address Forbes's remarks point by point, demonstrating the numerous mistakes in roughly the order of the video above, as well as of his longer radio show, using also the summary of his claims on the "Zeitgeist: The Movie" page at Wikipedia. One reason for all the errors is that New Testament scholars and historians are not required to study the case for mythicism in their academic training; hence, they do not know this information.

Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection cover imageIn addition to providing a number of images for ZG1.1, I was a last-minute consultant thereon, and my books The Christ Conspiracy, Suns of God and Who Was Jesus? were sources used therein. I was not involved with the second and third parts of the original film or the second and third films. I am only interested here in presenting the facts about ancient mythology and religion that back up the first/religion part. In this quest, I have composed several articles as well as a nearly 600-page book, Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection and a 105-page ebook/PDF called "The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook," which alone rebuts the erroneous claims made by Forbes and others. Nevertheless, in order to underscore the factual nature of various claims in ZG1.1 and to demonstrate the fallaciousness of the mainstream contentions, I have written this additional long rebuttal.

It should be pointed out also that my books and writings provide thousands of pages carefully cited with primary sources and the works of credentialed authorities from a variety of fields, supplying the evidence that Forbes and others claim does not exist. In my response here, I cannot include all the evidence, as this article is already quite lengthy. I will thus provide many pertinent links along the way.
Forbes Claim No. 1: "Horus isn't a sun god.... He's the god of the sky. Ra is the sun god."

Forbes's comments continually reveal that he is not an Egyptologist and possesses cursory knowledge of Egyptian mythology. In fact, it appears he merely skimmed Wikipedia before making his responses. However, if he had read more closely even the Wiki article about Horus, he would have discovered that Horus most certainly is a sun god. What our critic fails to understand, apparently, is the vast profusion of sun gods or solar heroes in antiquity, with numerous gods and goddesses possessing solar attributes. He also appears not to know the basics of Egyptian mythology or even mythology in general, in not understanding that myths are very mutable and that numerous gods and goddesses are combined or syncretized with each other, with solar gods being interchangeable at times. This mythological fact is especially true with the Egyptian gods, including Ra, Osiris and Horus, who were often combined, a fact I demonstrate abundantly in Christ in Egypt.

Ra and Horus combined

(Budge, E.A. Wallis, An Egyptian Hieroglyphic Dictionary, cxiv)

Ra, as we know, is most certainly a sun god, but he is frequently combined with Horus, including as the sun of the horizon, "Ra-Horakhti." I have addressed this motif extensively in my book Christ in Egypt, as well as in my article "Horus is a Sun God." Following are some relevant excerpts.

"Horus was the power of kingship which was manifest in two natural phenomena: the sun, the most powerful force in nature; and the pharaoh, the most powerful force in human society."

Regarding Horus's solar nature, professor of Egyptology at Brown University Dr. James P. Allen states:

> Horus was the power of kingship. To the Egyptians this was as much a force of nature as those embodied in the other gods. It was manifest in two natural phenomena: the sun, the most powerful force in nature; and the pharaoh, the most powerful force in human society. Horus's role as the king of nature is probably the origin of his name: hrw seems to mean "the one above" or "the one far off"... This is apparently a reference to the sun, which is "above" and "far off" in the sky, like the falcon with which Horus is regularly associated... (Allen, 148)

Horus the Child or Harpocrates as the morning sunThis fact of Horus as a sun god was confirmed five centuries before the common era by the Greek historian Herodotus (2.144, 156), when he equated Osiris with the Greek god Dionysus and Horus with the Greek sun god Apollo: "In the Egyptian language, Apollo is Horus, Demeter is Isis, Artemis is Bubastis…." (Grene, 200)

In the first century BCE, the Greek historian Diodorus Siculus described Osiris as the sun, while his sister-wife, Isis, is the moon:

> Now when the ancient Egyptians, awestruck and wondering, turned their eyes to the heavens, they concluded that two gods, the sun and the moon, were primeval and eternal: they called the former Osiris, the latter Isis.... (Murphy, 14)

The ancient writer Porphyry (c. 235-c. 305 AD/CE) related (according to early Catholic Church father/historian Eusebius):

> But the fiery power of [the sun's] revolving and circling motion whereby he ripens the crops, is called Dionysus... And whereas he revolves round the cosmical seasons [Grk. horas] and is the maker of "times and tides," the sun is on this account called Horus. (Gifford, 123)

Again, there is much more on the subject of Horus as a sun god, a significant amount of which can be found in the nearly 40-page chapter in my book Christ in Egypt entitled "Horus, Sun of God."

Forbes Claim No. 2: "The son/sun of God—s-u-n/s-o-n—it's a perfectly good pun in English—well, it's a fairly bad pun in English, but it doesn't work in Egyptian, and it doesn't work in Greek, and it doesn't work in Latin."

This entire discussion is a strawman argument raised in order to knock it down easily. Nowhere does "Zeitgeist" claim that the English words "son" and "sun" are cognates and that this pun extends to antiquity. ZG1.1, I and many others over the centuries have merely used existing language in order to describe a real phenomenon, mythologically speaking. This son-sun pun obviously does not occur in the ancient Egyptian or any other non-Germanic language, and no one is making that absurd claim.

Jesus as the Sun throughout HistoryIn the meantime, we are hardly the first to utilize this son-sun pun in relation to Jesus Christ in particular, as its use has a long and venerable tradition that a scholar of history might wish to know about. As I say in my ebook Jesus as the Sun throughout History, this sun-son word play has been noted many times previously in history by a variety of individuals, including English priest and poet Robert Southwell in the 16th century and English poet Richard Crashaw in the 17th century. (Davies, 165) English poet and preacher John Donne (1572-1631) and Welsh poet and priest George Herbert (1593-1633) likewise engaged in the son/sun pun as applied to Christ. (Foxell, 8; Wilcox, 306) In discussing Donne, Dr. Arthur L. Clements, a professor at Binghamton University, remarks that the "Son-sun pun" is "familiar enough." (Clements, 71) Comparing Christ to the "day star," famous English poet John Milton (1608-1674) was aware of the "sun/son of God" analogy and "revel[ed] in the sun-son pun." (Miller, D.M., 32) In his book about English poet Andrew Marvell (1621-1678), Dr. Nigel Smith, a professor at Princeton University, comments that "Jesus was also thought to have been referred to in Mal. 4:2 (thereby involving a pun on Sun/Son of God)..." (Smith, N., 42) Puritan minister Edward Taylor (1642-1729) engaged in the same punning by describing Christ as "the onely [sic] begotten Sun that is in the bosom of the Father..." (Miller, D.G., 90)

"Famous English poet John Milton was aware of the 'sun/son of God' analogy and revelled in the sun-son pun."

Furthermore, in describing the actions of the Church fathers in adapting sun myths to Christianity, Thomas Ellwood Longshore declared in 1881, "They merely changed the visible 'Sun of God' for the invisible 'Son of God,' or for this personage they called the 'Son of God'..." (Longshore, 103) While addressing the Shakespearean character Petruccio's "arrogation of the son/sun pun" in "The Taming of the Shrew," Dr. Peter Holland, a professor of Shakespearean History at Notre Dame University, says that this play on words is "normally used to glorify Christ..." (Holland, 91) In An Introduction to English Grammar, Dr. Sidney Greenbaum, a professor of English at University College London, comments, "Religious poetry traditionally puns Sun with Son, Christ the son of God..." (Greenbaum, 182) Dr. Stephen C. Behrendt, a professor of English at the University of Nebraska, called the pun "longstanding." (Behrendt, 153) The sun-son play on words as applicable to Christ has also been deemed so "common" as to represent a "devotional pun." (See, e.g., Rowe, 252; Oberhaus, 79.)

Obviously, this "devotional pun" was widely recognized centuries ago by the English-speaking intelligentsia and educated elite; it is thus not a "fairly bad pun" and those who use it are in eloquent company. Therefore, shallow criticisms of the statement that the son of God is the sun of God represent illogical strawmen reflective of ignorance of these facts, and should be dismissed as such.

The Sun as the Son of God

Regardless of the son-sun pun in English, the concept of the sun being the Son of God is pre-Christian, as elucidated in numerous myths, such as the Greek and Egyptian, as well as by philosophers such as Socrates and Plato, a fact that should be known by an expert on Greek thought. As related in The Book of the Sun (1494) by Neoplatonic-Christian philosopher Marsillio Ficino concerning Socrates:

> Solar crossAccording to Plato [Republic, VI, 508c (Ferrari, 215)], he called the Sun not God himself, but the son of God. And I say not the first son of God, but a second, and moreover visible son. For the first son of God is not this visible Sun, but another far superior intellect, namely the first one which only the intellect can contemplate. Therefore Socrates, having been awak-ened by the celestial Sun, surmised a super celestial Sun, and he contemplated attentively its majesty, and inspired, would admire the incomprehensible bounty of the Father. (Voss, 211)

"According to Plato, Socrates called the Sun not God himself but the son of God..."

As Pico della Mirandola (163) says: "...when Plato in the Republic calls the sun the visible son of God, why may we not understand it as the image of the invisible Son?"
Forbes Claim No. 3: The Egyptian god Horus's mother, Isis, "wasn't a virgin, and there's no suggestion in the Egyptian sources that she was."

This criticism is easily refuted, and in this regard I have provided in my book Christ in Egypt some 50 pages of evidence showing that Isis was most certainly deemed the "Great Virgin" centuries before the common era. The pertinent parts of my lengthy analysis of this subject, which includes primary source evidence as well as the works of respected authorities in relevant fields, may be found in my article "Isis is a Virgin Mother." Following are but a few relevant excerpts and some additional material.

As stated by Egyptologist Dr. Reginald E. Witt, in Isis in the Ancient World:

> The Egyptian goddess who was equally "the Great Virgin" (hwnt) and "Mother of the God" was the object of the very same praise bestowed upon her successor [Mary, Virgin Mother of Jesus].

One of the inscriptions that call Isis the "Great Virgin" appears in the temple of Seti I at Abydos dating to the 13th century BCE.

Isis as the Great Virgin from the temple of Seti I at Abydos (click to enlarge)

"In a text in the Abydos Temple of Seti I, Isis herself declares: 'I am the great virgin.'"

As stated by professor of Old Testament and Catholic Theology at the University of Bonn Dr. G. Johannes Botterweck, in the Theological Dictionary of the Old Testament (2.338-9):

> ...The Pyramid Texts speak of "the great virgin" (hwn.t wr.t) three times (682c, 728a, 2002a...); she is anonymous, appears as the protectress of the king, and is explicitly called his mother once (809c). It is interesting that Isis is addressed as hwn.t in a sarcophagus oracle that deals with her mysterious pregnancy. In a text in the Abydos Temple of Seti I, Isis herself declares: "I am the great virgin."...

Also, there exists at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York an ancient Carnelian ring stone from the Imperial period (1st-2nd cents. AD/CE) that is an "adaptation" of a Greek artifact from the fourth century BCE. The ring stone possesses an image of the Greco-Egyptian hybrid god Serapis-Hades, with Isis standing before him holding an "ear of wheat and the sistrum." The Greek inscription reads:

The Lady Isis, Immaculate

The phrase is translated as "The Lady Isis, Immaculate," the latter word from the Greek verb agneuw, meaning "to be pure or chaste."

Serapis-Hades and 'The Lady Isis, Immaculate'; carnelian ring stone, Metropolitan Museum of Art; 1-2nd cents. AD/CE

There is much more to the subject of Isis's virginity, but it is clear that critics do not know this information and are therefore not experts.

In understanding this common ancient motif that was applied to many pre-Christian mothers, both mythical and historical, one would need to study the works of Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso as well, especially her fine book Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. The claim that the virgin-birth motif—called in scholarly circles "parthenogenesis"—was common in pre-Christian religion and mythology is a fact, and, again, Forbes reveals his lack of knowledge about this subject, as well as many others, as we shall see.
Forbes Claim No. 4: "It's pretty unlikely that the ancient Egyptian sources would say that Horus was born on December the 25th, because December is a Latin month, and their calendar is completely different."

This contention is one of the sillier ones that Forbes makes, as he disingenuously pretends not to understand that the phrase "December 25th" refers to the time of the winter solstice. The term "December" comes from the Latin word for "ten," decem, originally representing the 10th and final month of the Roman calendar. Obviously, the English figure of speech "December 25th" did not exist in the ancient Egyptian calendar but, again, simply refers to the winter solstice, which the ancients perceived as beginning on the day we currently call December 21st and ending at midnight on the 24th. The month of December in ancient Egyptian is called "Koiak" or "Khoiak," and the date of the winter solstice was 26 Koiak. In modern writing (or in a film), it would be very inconvenient to replace the English phrase with "26 Koiak" and to be compelled to explain constantly what that means. Hence, when we are writing in English, we use the phrase "December 25th."

"Obviously, the English figure of speech 'December 25th' did not exist in the ancient Egyptian calendar but simply refers to the winter solstice."

The claim that Horus was not born on December 25th or the winter solstice, however it was called in whatever language, reveals once again that the critic is largely ignorant of the subject matter and evidently has done merely a cursory scan of encyclopedia articles. The assertion of Horus born on "December 25th" is readily demonstrated by the words of ancient writers as well as by other artifacts and the writings of modern experts in the pertinent subjects. The Horus/winter-solstice data is so extensive that I was compelled to include a 40-page chapter in my book Christ in Egypt entitled "Born on December 25th." Following is the gist of my research.

Ptah-Osiris-Sokar approaching the baby Sokar on the winter solstice (adapted from Wilkinson's 'Manners and Customs of Ancient Egyptians')

Egyptian gods Ptah-Osiris-Sokar approach the baby sun god Sokar at the winter solstice

"In Egypt the festival of the baby sun god Sokar occurs on 26 Khoiak, corresponding to December 22nd."

As I state in my book The Astrotheology Calendar Guide, in Egypt the festival of the baby sun god Sokar occurs on 26 Khoiak, as related in the Calendar of Hathor at Dendera (Cauville, 25), corresponding at the turn of the common era to December 22nd. The longstanding ritual of Sokar being carried out of the temple on this day in an "ark" closely resembles the censored commentary by Church father Epiphanius (c. 310/320-403) concerning the Egyptians bringing forth the baby sun born of a virgin at the winter solstice. (See Murdock, CIE, 86ff)

As concerns the Egyptian god's birth at that time, we learn from one of the most famous historians of the first century, Plutarch (46-120 AD/CE), that Horus the Child—or "Harpocrates," as was his Greek name—was "born about the winter solstice, unfinished and infant-like..." (Plutarch, "Isis and Osiris" (65, 387C); Babbitt, 153)

"Ancient historian Plutarch related that Horus the Child was 'born about the winter solstice, unfinished and infant-like...'"

Three centuries after Plutarch, ancient Latin writer Macrobius (395–423 AD/CE) also reported on an annual Egyptian "Christmas" celebration (Saturnalia, I, XVIII:10):

> …at the winter solstice the sun would seem to be a little child, like that which the Egyptians bring forth from a shrine on an appointed day, since the day is then at its shortest and the god is accordingly shown as a tiny infant.[1]

As Egyptologist Dr. Bojana Mojsov (13) remarks: "The symbol of the savior-child was the eye of the sun newly born every year at the winter solstice."
Winter Solstice Hieroglyphs and Temple Alignments

Other indications of the Egyptian reverence of the winter solstice may be found in hieroglyphs. As Egyptologist Dr. Heinrich Brugsch explains, the Egyptians not only abundantly recorded and revered the time of the winter solstice, they also created a number of hieroglyphs to depict it. One such image mentioned by Egyptologist Dr. E.A. Wallis Budge turns out to be the goddess-sisters Isis and Nephthys with the solar disc floating above their hands over a lifegiving ankh—the looped Egyptian cross—as the sun's rays extend down to the cross symbol. This image of the sun between Isis and Nephthys, which is sometimes depicted without the ankh, is described in an inscription at Edfu regarding Ptolemy VII (fl. 145 bce?) and applied to the winter solstice, translated as: "The sun coming out of the sky-ocean into the hands of the siblings Isis and Nephthys." This image very much looks like the sun being born, which is sensible, since, indeed, Harpocrates, the morning sun, was born every day, including at the winter solstice. (See Murdock, CIE, 94, etc., for citations.)

Egyptian hieroglyph of 'winter solstice,' with Isis and Nephthys giving life to the baby sun

Isis and Nephthys holding the baby sun
over the life-giving ankh, representing the winter solstice
(Budge, An Egyptian Hieroglyphic Dictionary, 351)

"Harpocrates, the morning sun, was born every day, including at the winter solstice."

There are many other artifacts in Egypt that demonstrate Horus's association with the winter solstice, including his temples aligned to the rising sun at that time of the year. (See Murdock, CIE, 79-117)
Forbes Claim No. 5: "Horus wasn't crucified. Horus wasn't killed at all. Osiris was killed, betrayed and killed by his brother Set, who then cut up his body into very small pieces...."

In an earlier version of the video, Forbes made the mistake of confounding Osiris with Horus and claimed that it was Horus who had been cut into pieces and scattered around Egypt. This part was subsequently edited. As we have seen and will continue to see, however, many if not most of the rest of his comments should likewise have been edited.

When discussing the "crucifixions" of ancient gods, it should be noted that we are not necessarily saying these figures were tortured and killed by being thrown to the ground and nailed to wooden crosses, as found in the gospel story. The connotation of crucifixion as symbolizing a cross-shaped or cruciform pose, rather than the above-mentioned violent act, can be found in some of the earliest Christian comparative-religion commentaries, such as those of Church fathers Tertullian (c. 160-c. 200) and Minucius Felix (2nd-3rd cents.).

The ancient Greco-Roman god Ixion in cruciformIn his Apology (16), Tertullian remarks:

> We have shown before that your deities are derived from shapes modelled from the cross. But you also worship victories, for in your trophies the cross is the heart of the trophy. The camp religion of the Romans is all through a worship of the standards, a setting the standards above all gods. Well, as those images decking out the standards are ornaments of crosses. All those hangings of your standards and banners are robes of crosses. (Roberts, ANCL, 85)

"Your heathen gods in their origin have proceeded from this hated cross."

The place where Tertullian had "shown before" his contentions about the Pagan gods being cross-shaped was in his work Ad Nationes (12), in a lengthy treatise which includes the following remarks:

> ...The Heathens Themselves Made Much of Crosses in Sacred Things; Nay, Their Very Idols Were Formed on a Crucial [Crosslike] Frame.

> ...your gods in their origin have proceeded from this hated cross... if you simply place a man with his arms and hands outstretched, you will make the general outline of a cross.... (Roberts, ANF, III, 122)

> "Your victorious trophies not only imitate the appearance of a simple cross, but also that of a man affixed to it."

In his Octavius (29), Minucius echoes the same sentiment:

> Minucius Felix's 'Octavius'...The Egyptians certainly choose out a man for themselves whom they may worship... Crosses, moreover, we neither worship nor wish for. You, indeed, who consecrate gods of wood, adore wooden crosses perhaps as parts of your gods. For your very standards, as well as your banners, and flags of your camp, what else are they but crosses gilded and adorned? Your victorious trophies not only imitate the appearance of a simple cross, but also that of a man affixed to it. (Roberts, ANF, IV, 191)

In the same passage, Minucius states, "...crucis signum est, et cum homo porrectis manibus deum pura mente veneratur." (Felix, 66) To wit, "...the sign of the cross it is, also when a man stretching out his hands venerates God with a pure mind."

Justin MartyrIn his First Apology, Church father Justin Martyr (c. 150) writes:

> Chapter 21. Analogies to the history of Christ.

> And when we say also that the Word, who is the first-birth of God, was produced without sexual union, and that He, Jesus Christ, our Teacher, was crucified and died, and rose again, and ascended into heaven, we propound nothing different from what you believe regarding those whom you esteem sons of Jupiter... (Roberts, ANF, I, 170)

It is evident that the Church fathers did not perceive the configuration of Christ on the cross to be anything unusual. Indeed, they insisted that the Pagans likewise worshipped gods on crosses or in "crucial frame," as Tertullian styles it.

These ancient Christian writers themselves compared Christ's crucifixion to the Pagan hanging of men and gods on crosses or in cruciform, i.e., the shape of a cross. As serious scholars on a scientific quest, we must follow their lead and ask to whom they were referring, recognizing that the motif of a god, goddess or other germane figure on a cross or in cruciform was common long before Christ's alleged advent. Indeed, the case can be and has been made that Christ's crucifixion is simply an elaborate repetition of this common motif designed to usurp Pagan mythology.

Horus Crucified

In one of my forum threads, I include numerous images from antiquity of gods and others in cruciform: "Cruciforms/Gods on Crosses." One of these gods in cruciform was Horus, the evidences for which can be found in my book Christ in Egypt as well as in my online excerpt "Was Horus Crucified?"

Horus in the vault of heaven with his arms outstretched (image flipped in order to illustrate the point)

Horus in the vault of heaven with his arms outstretched

Horus as the hawk with his wings or arms outstretched reflects his role as the sun god "crossing over" the sky, as depicted in various hymns and Coffin Texts. As I say in Christ in Egypt (342), the significance of asserting the sun god to be "crucified" is not that his myth is imitated exactly in the gospel story but that he was a revered pre-Christian god "on a cross" and that this particular motif was adopted by those who created the Christian myth specifically because it was a popular and venerated theme.

In Christ in Egypt, I also include an extensive discussion of a mysterious Egypto-Gnostic character named Horos, essentially the same name as "Horus" in Greek, although the two words are spelled slightly differently, the former with an omega and the latter with an omicron. Nevertheless, there is reason to suppose that the Gnostic figure of Horos and the Egyptian god Horus are at root one and the same. The Gnostic Horos not only is associated with but also is identified as "Stauros"—the Cross—the same Greek word used in the gospels to describe what Jesus was purportedly crucified upon. Indeed, in Christian writings Jesus is "often assimilated" to Horos-Stauros. (Chisholm, 854)

Horus Killed and Raised from the Dead

As concerns the claim that Horus was not killed, not only was Horus killed, but he was also resurrected, as described in a pre-Christian text written by Diodorus Siculus (fl. 60-30 BCE). Recounting a myth in which Horus is drowned, Diodorus (Antiquities of Egypt, 1.25.6) describes the god's raising or resurrection by Isis, using the same term, anastasis, later employed to describe Jesus's resurrection:

> Isis also discovered the elixir of immortality, and when her son Horus fell victim to the plots of the Titans and was found dead beneath the waves, she not only raised him from the dead and restored his soul, but also gave him eternal life. (Diodorus/Murphy, 31; see also Murdock, CIE, 388.)

"Horus was found dead beneath the waves."

Horus raising Osiris from the Dead; Lundy, 'Monumental Christianity'

At this point, Forbes attempts to differentiate between Osiris's death and "resuscitation" and the death and resurrection of Jesus, by saying that Osiris's did not take place in "historical time" but in the "Egyptian equivalent of the dreamtime" and in "mythological time." This contention is only half true, in that Osiris does indeed end up as Lord of the Afterlife, much like Lord Jesus ruling over heaven. In reality, the risen Osiris also functions on the material plane in a variety of ways, and his heaven-based interaction with the world is little different from the role of Christ as Mediator. The similarities between the resurrections of Osiris and Jesus are in fact quite profound and not dismissable with a wave of a hand. For more information, please see the extensive section on the subject in my book Christ in Egypt entitled, "Spiritual or Bodily Resurrection?"

Forbes Claim No. 6: "There's no question for historians that Jesus actually lived... No serious ancient historian doubts that Jesus was a real person, really living in Galilee in the first century."

Not only are there quite serious historians, theologians and New Testament scholars of today who question whether or not the figure of Jesus Christ as depicted in the New Testament actually existed, but there have been many in the past as well, producing a large body of literature within a field called "mythicism." The "no serious scholar" comment is the same as the "no true Scotsman" fallacy. One of the very serious modern scholars is Dr. Robert M. Price, who has two PhDs and who specializes in the New Testament. When confronted with this "no serious scholar" fallacy, Dr. Price responded:

> As for this tiresome business about there being "no scholar" or "no serious scholar" who advocates the Christ Myth theory: Isn't it obvious that scholarly communities are defined by certain axioms in which grad students are trained, and that they will lose standing in those communities if they depart from those axioms? The existence of an historical Jesus is currently one of those. That should surprise no one, especially with the rightward lurch of the Society for Biblical Literature in recent years. It simply does not matter how many scholars hold a certain opinion. If one is interested in the question one must evaluate the issues and the evidence for oneself. (Private correspondence, reproduced here with permission)

So serious were mythicist scholars of the past that they had tremendous influence among many of the world's most important elite, such as Napoleon Bonaparte and Thomas Jefferson, both of whom questioned whether or not Jesus was a myth. As concerns "serious ancient historians," see my response to Claim No. 17, below.
Forbes Claim No. 7: "Gerald Massey—English poet and amateur Egyptologist, not an expert, not an academic, not actually an historian at all. G.A. Wells, ah, an academic, yes—professor of German literature...not a historian."

In his discussion of ZG1.1's sources, Forbes proves that he has not studied the literature and is not an expert himself in the relevant fields. Forbes himself is not an Egyptologist; therefore, by his own "logic" he should not be making any claims about Egyptian mythology, about which his knowledge has been shown to be lacking. Concerning Dr. George A. Wells, whose works are valuable but not entirely necessary to the field of Jesus mythicism, certainly he is as qualified to discuss ancient religion and mythology as is Forbes, since the subject is so clearly not an area of specialization for the latter, as demonstrated abundantly here. Indeed, Forbes makes much ado about Wells not being an "ancient historian," but, again, he himself is not an Egyptologist, so by this same credentialism, he should not be making statements concerning Horus, which statements, as we can see, are incorrect.

In reality, Forbes himself is not even an "amateur Egyptologist" and as such is even more "uncredentialed" than Gerald Massey, whose works were peer-reviewed by a number of credentialed authorities from the era, a fact that his critic obviously does not know, demonstrating that he himself is not an expert on the works of Gerald Massey. By his rationale, therefore, Forbes should not be making pronouncements as to Massey's work.
Gerald Massey

In my article "Who is Gerald Massey?," excerpted from Christ in Egypt, I relate that Massey could read several languages, including not only English but also French, Latin, Greek and evidently Hebrew and Egyptian to a certain degree. In his intensive and meticulous efforts, Massey studied the work of the best minds of the time—all towering figures within Egyptology, especially during Massey's era, when most of them were alive and some were familiar with his work. These celebrated authorities in Egyptology whose works Massey studied and utilized include:

Sir Dr. Budge; Dr. Brugsch-Bey; Jean-François Champollion; Dr. Eugene Lefébure; Dr. Karl Richard Lepsius; Sir Dr. Gaston Maspero; Dr. Henri Edouard Naville; Sir Dr. William Flinders Petrie; Dr. Thomas Joseph Pettigrew; Sir Renouf; le vicomte de Rougé; Dr. Samuel Sharpe; and Sir Dr. John Gardner Wilkinson, among many other scholars in a wide variety of fields.

As other examples, Massey also used the work of Sir Dr. J. Norman Lockyer, the physicist and royal English astronomer who was friends with Budge and knew Egypt well, along with that of Dr. Charles Piazzi Smyth, royal Scottish astronomer and professor of Astronomy at the University of Edinburgh. Massey further studied the work of Reverend Dr. Archibald Sayce, professor of Comparative Philology at Oxford, as well as that of famous mythologist Sir Dr. James George Frazer, although he did not agree with their conclusions. He likewise cited the work of Francois Lenormant, professor of Archaeology at the National Library of France, as well as that of comparative theologian and Oxford professor Dr. Max Müller, philosopher and Jesus biographer Dr. Ernest Renan, and Christian monuments expert Rev. Dr. John Patterson Lundy.

"Gerald Massey's work was peer-reviewed by several renowned scholars of the day, including Egyptologist Dr. Samuel Birch, Royal Astronomer Sir Dr. Norman Lockyer and Dr. Richard Pietschmann, a professor of Egyptology at the University of Göttingen."

Gerald MasseyGerald Massey was very influenced by the work of Dr. Samuel Birch (1813-1885), archaeologist, Egyptologist and Keeper of the Department of Oriental Antiquities in the British Museum. The creator of the first alphabetically arranged Egyptian dictionary, Dr. Birch also was the founder of the prestigious and influential Society of Biblical Archaeology, to which belonged many other notables in the fields of archaeology, Assyriology, Egyptology and so on. Much more about Massey's longterm personal relationship with Birch can be found at my article, "Who is Gerald Massey?" Massey was likewise personally friendly with Sir Lockyer (1836-1920), as well as Dr. Birch's protégé Assyriologist Dr. Theophilus Goldridge Pinches (1856-1934). Massey's work was peer-reviewed by several renowned scholars of the day, including Birch, Lockyer and Dr. Richard Pietschmann, a professor of Egyptology at the University of Göttingen.

In his scholarly works on Egypt, in addition to the available Egyptian sources, Gerald Massey utilized numerous other ancient texts, including Judeo-Christian writings such as the Bible, as well as those of early Church fathers such as Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, Hippolytus, Eusebius, Epiphanius and Jerome. Massey also cited non-Christian, Jewish and Gnostic writers such as Herodotus, Philo, Pausanias and Valentinus, along with writings such as the Talmud and the Hindu Puranas. Having taught himself to read not only English but also several other languages including Egyptian hieroglyphs as well as Sanskrit, providing an extensive comparison between these two languages, Massey scrutinized and interpreted the texts and monuments for himself, such as the Book of the Dead, as well as the famous zodiacs in the Temple of Dendera and the "Nativity Scene" at the Temple of Luxor.

The only reason Gerald Massey did not become a professional, degreed scholar is because he was born into extreme poverty and had to do hard, physical labor as a child, rather than attending school, which was not free to commoners in England at that time. Indeed, there was no public school system like we have today. Massey accomplished all of this scholarship without benefit of a formal education and should be afforded respect, even if one does not agree with his conclusions. Once again, we are faced with rabid credentialism and religious bias.

Forbes Claim No. 8: "[There's] not a single [serious historical work in the list of references]. What I found is a whole list of books claiming to be written by experts quoting other people claiming to be experts quoting...actually none of the ancient evidence at all."

As I have demonstrated in my books and articles, the information in ZG1.1 comes from primary sources and the works of highly credentialed authorities in relevant fields, to be repetitive. Forbes would have known that fact had he actually studied the literature cited, rather than simply scanning the authors to come up with an appeal to authority.
Primary Sources, Publications and Scholars Cited in The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook

Following is the list of primary sources and authorities used in my "ZEITGEIST Sourcebook" essentially to prove each of the contentions made in the film. It should be noted that this list does not include the multitude of other artifacts and writings from antiquity that may be found in my other works, including some 900 alone in Christ in Egypt. It should be further noted that I do research in a variety of languages, both modern and ancient, such as: Ancient and modern Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Sanskrit, Vedic, Persian, Egyptian, Coptic, French, Italian, Spanish, German and a smattering of other languages as the need arises.
Ancient artifacts and archaeological sites

Lascaux, Altamira and Trois Freres cave paintings
Tassili N'Aijer figures
Mohenjo-daro, Indus Valley site
Goseck, Germany
Thirteen Towers, Chankillo, Peru
Nabta Playa, Egypt
Karanovo Tablet
Dendera zodiac and other Egyptian artifacts
Brindisi disk
Greek pottery, paintings, mosaics, temples
Roman mosaics, paintings and statuary
Early Christian artifacts, etc.
Ancient Writings

Egyptian hymns, hieroglyphs, papyri and carvings
Pyramid Texts
Coffin Texts
Book of the Dead
Herodotus
Berossus
Diodorus
Porphyry
Eusebius
Pausanias
Bible
Pythagoras
Plato
Aristotle
Diodorus Siculus
Epiphanius

Hippolytus
Plutarch
Tertullian
Justin Martyr
Minucius Felix
Clement Alexandrinus
Tatian
Augustine
Arnobius
Julius Firmicus Maternus
Lactantius
Macrobius
Julian
Vedas
Mahabharata
Bhagavad Gita
Bhagavata Purana
Mahāvastu
Lalita Vistara
Vishnu Purana
Hesiod
Homer
Euripides
Proclus
Origen
Celsus
Philo
Josephus
Avesta
Pseudo-Eratosthenes
Venerable Bede
Cyprian
Ambrose
Hipparchus
Archelaus
Epic of Gilgamesh
Assyrian, Babylonia, Akkadian tablets
Dead Sea Scrolls
Tacitus

The information also comes from the best and most thorough, scholarly and modern sources wherever possible, with the result that many authorities cited possess credentials from respected institutes of higher learning, and their publishers are some of the most scholarly in English (and other languages), such as the following.
Academic Publishers

E.J. Brill

Peeters
Kegan Paul
Oxford University/Clarendon Press
Princeton University Press
Cambridge University Press
Cornell University Press
Yale University Press
University of Chicago Press
University of Pennsylvania Press
University of Wisconsin Press
Johns Hopkins Press
Harcourt, Brace & Co.
Macmillan & Co., etc.
Professional Scholars

Dr. Miranda J. Aldhouse-Green, a professor of Archaeology at Cardiff University
Dr. Lee I.A. Levine, a professor at the Jewish Theological Seminary
Dr. Edwin C. Krupp, director of the Griffith Observatory
Dr. Edmund S. Meltzer, American Egyptologist
Dr. James P. Allen, curator of Egyptian Art at the Metropolitan Museum of Art
Dr. Erik Hornung, professor emeritus of Egyptology at the University of Basel
Dr. Henri Frankfort, Dutch Egyptologist
Dr. Jan Assman, professor of Egyptology at the University of Konstanz
Dr. Badrya Serry, director of the Antiquities Museum at the Bibliotheca Alexandrina in Egypt
Dr. Bojana Mojsov, Egyptologist
Dr. Reginald E. Witt, Egyptologist and professor at the University of London
Dr. G. Johannes Botterweck, professor of Old Testament and Catholic Theology at the University of Bonn
Dr. Alfred Wiedermann, Egyptologist and professor of Oriental Languages at the University of Bonn
Dr. John Gwyn Griffiths, Welsh professor of Classics and Egyptology
Dr. Raymond O. Faulkner, English Egyptologist
Dr. Tryggve N.D. Mettinger, professor of Old Testament Studies at the University of Lund
Rev. Dr. Alfred Bertholet, a theologian and professor at the University of Göttingen
Dr. Herman te Velde, a chairman of the Department of Egyptology at the University of Groningen
Dr. Andrew T. Fear, professor of Classics and Ancient History at the University of Manchester
Dr. David Adams Leeming, professor emeritus of English and comparative literature at the University of Connecticut
Dr. Patricia A. Johnston, Brandeis University professor of Classical Studies
Dr. David John Tacey, professor at La Trobe University
Dr. Edwin F. Bryant, professor of Hinduism at Rutgers University
Dr. Hugo Rahner, Jesuit theologian, dean and president of Innsbruck University
Sir Dr. Edmund Ronald Leach, Cambridge professor and anthropologist

Dr. Donald White, professor emeritus of Classics at the University of Pennsylvania
Dr. Martin Schwartz, professor of Iranian Studies at the University of California
Rev. Dr. Harold R. Willoughby, professor of New Testament and Early Christian Literature at the University of Chicago
Dr. Mary Boyce, professor of Iranian Studies
Dr. Payam Nabarz, Iranian scholar
Dr. Marvin Meyers, a professor of Religious Studies at Chapman College
Dr. Theony Condos, professor at the American University of Armenia
Dr. Aviram Oshri, senior archaeologist with the Israeli Antiquities Authority
Dr. Chris Dolan, American astronomer
Rev. Dunbar T. Heath of the Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland
Dr. John L. Heilbron, professor of History at the University of California, Berkeley
Dr. K.A. Heinrich Kellner, a professor of Catholic Theology at the University of Bonn
Dr. David Ulansey, philosopher professor at California Institute of Integral Studies
Dr. Robert M. Schoch, geologist and professor at Boston University
Dr. Henricus Oort, Dutch theologian and professor of Hebrew Antiquities at the University of Leiden
Rev. Dr. J. Glen Taylor, an associate professor of Old Testament at the University of Toronto

As we can see, contrary to popular perception the contentions in ZG1.1 are well cited with primary sources and the works of respected authorities in relevant fields.

Continuing this rebuttal, the following part deals with Forbes's other claims in the longer radio interview by the same host. In the radio show, Forbes makes the same mistake in confounding Osiris with Horus, in a well-known myth about the god's death and scattered body parts that is only applicable to Osiris. No professional Egyptologist would make such a mistake once, let alone twice.
Forbes Claim No. 9: "Where's the evidence that the ancient Egyptians believed that Horus's birth was heralded by a star in the east? Look at the footnotes that come with the web presentation, and you'll find that there simply is no reference to any of the ancient Egyptian evidence."

No serious scholar stops his research by looking at a list of references on a website. He or she would need actually to read those resources and follow up on whatever further citation he or she might find, in a variety of languages preferably. At this point, Forbes again says, "Historians want to see the ancient evidence." But, do they really? After all these years of presenting it, I have to wonder about that claim, which is much like the rest of his here: Demonstrably false in the case of mythicism. Forbes himself—a serious historian—didn't even bother to inquire as to where this information was coming from and satisfied himself with merely scanning a list of references, rather than digging into the ancient evidence.

If our critic had looked more closely, he would have found plenty of evidence that the ancient Egyptians most certainly did perceive the births of both Osiris and Horus the Elder to have been heralded by the star Sirius, as well as by the three stars in the belt of Orion. As I relate in Christ in Egypt, in a chapter excerpted online entitled, "The Star in the East and the Three Kings," the coming of Osiris—the savior of Egypt—was associated with the "Star in the East" because the Egyptians recognized that the rising of Sirius with the sun, or "heliacally," occurred around the summer solstice, the time of the Nile flooding. Life along the Nile was highly dependent upon the inundation associated with the heliacal rising of Sirius, a flood deified as Osiris, who was said to be "born" at that time.

Sopdet goddess SiriusThus, this important association of Sirius—"Sothis" in the Greek and "Sepdet" or "Sopdet" in the Egyptian—with the life-giving Nile flood began some 5,000 to 6,000 years ago. Hence, the "Star in the East" heralded the birth of the Egyptian Messiah thousands of years before the Christian era. This annual birth of Osiris was also a resurrection, as the goddess Sopdet "woke him from the dead." (Frazer, AAO, 34-35)

"The star's rising was also seen as a harbinger of the sunrise and therefore associated with Horus in his solar aspect."

Regarding the role of Sirius/Sothis in Egyptian mythology, in The Ancient Egyptian Pyramid Texts, Egyptologist James Allen states:

> Sothis (spdt "Sharp"). The morning star, Sirius, seen by the Egyptians as a goddess. In Egypt the star disappears below the horizon once a year for a period of some seventy days; its reappearance in midsummer marked the beginning of the annual inundation and the Egyptian year. The star's rising was also seen as a harbinger of the sunrise and therefore associated with Horus in his solar aspect, occasionally specified as Horus in Sothis (hrw jmj spdt), Sothic Horus (hrw spdtj), or Sharp Horus (hrw spd).

In addition, Pyramid Text 593:1636b/M 206 states: "Horus the pointed has come forth from thee, in his name of 'Horus who was in Sothis.'" "Horus in Sothis," therefore, refers to when the sun rises with Sirius. Thus, in ancient texts we find the birth of Horus the sun associated with the star in the east.
Forbes Claim No. 10: Horus was not "adored by three kings"

The motif of the divine child being greeted by dignitaries at his birth dates back thousands of years, long before Jesus supposedly existed. Regardless of whether or not the figure is three, four, six, more or less, the point is that the birth of a divine child who is subsequently adored by dignitaries is not new or unique to Christianity. We know from texts and other artifacts that Egyptian religion, for one, possessed the motif of the savior and divine child being heralded by notable personages, numbering three or more, who can be and have been called "Three Kings." In the case of Osiris and the elder Horus being born around the summer solstice, these "Three Kings" are the stars in the Belt of the constellation of Orion, which points to the star Sirius at the horizon during the births of these gods at the summer flooding of the Nile.

Three stars in Orion's belt pointing to Sirius

Egyptian hieroglyph representing the three stars in the belt of Orion with the star Sirius

Hieroglyph for Orion or Sah with three-looped string and star
(Budge, Ancient Egyptian Hieroglyphic Dictionary, 638)

More about this astrotheological subject can be found in my article "The Star in the East and Three Kings."

Furthermore, in a number of ancient Egyptian nativity scenes we find the birth of the pharaoh - considered the living Horus—adored by several dignitaries, as represented at Luxor, for example. In Christ in Egypt, I discuss the Luxor scene, for both the female pharaoh Hatshepsut and the later pharaoh Amenhotep III, in detail over nearly 30 pages, an excerpt of which can be found in my article "The Nativity of Amenhotep III at Luxor."

Nativity Scene at Luxor

More about this motif can be found also in my "ZEITGEIST Sourcebook."

As already seen, the baby sun god Sokar, who was often identified with Horus, is depicted as being approached by the divine trinity at his birth on the winter solstice. (For more information, see Murdock, CIE, 107ff.)

In addition, there is a nativity scene of Dionysus in the Neapolitan Museum that shows the divine child surrounded by two groups of three, one of whom approaches the baby.

Baby Dionysus approached by three dignitaries

As we can see, the motif of the divine child approached by three or more notable personages is not original or unique to Christianity.
Forbes Claim No. 11: "Attis was not born of a virgin, not born on December 25th...crucified? No, there's simply no evidence for this."

Like so many others, this contention is false, as there does indeed exist sufficient evidence for these claims to be made.
Attis Born of a Virgin

In an article entitled, "Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days," I discuss the virginal status of the Great Goddess Cybele, also called "Nana," who is said in ancient mythology to be the mother of the Phrygo-Roman god Attis. In this regard, professor of Classics and Ancient History at the University of Manchester Dr. Andrew T. Fear states:

> Cybele was regarded as a virgin goddess and as such could be seen as a rival to the Virgin Mary... Cybele as the mother of the Gods, mater Deum, here again presented a starkly pagan parallel to the Christian Mother of God. (Lane, 40)

Dr. David Adams Leeming, professor emeritus of English and comparative literature at the University of Connecticut, is also explicit that Attis's mother was a virgin:

> Attis is the son of Cybele in her form as the virgin, Nana, who is impregnated by the divine force in the form of a pomegranate. (Leeming, 25)

Regarding Nana, in Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (111), Dr. Rigoglioso states:

> ...Another instance of spontaneous conception occurred when Nana, whose very name was one by which the Great Goddess was known, became pregnant simply by eating the tree's fruit...

Again, there is much more to this subject, but it is clear that a non-specialist such as our critic does not know these facts of the parthenogenetic goddesses of antiquity.

Attis Born on December 25th

As I also write in my article "Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th," the "December 25th" or winter-solstice birth of the sun god is a common theme in several cultures around the world over the past millennia, including the Egyptian, among others. Contrary to popular belief, these winter-solstice celebrations were not confined to one or two days of the month of December but extended throughout the month, as can be seen from the image from my Astrotheology Calendar below, which includes numerous winter-solstice celebrations from antiquity calculated for the year 1 AD/CE.

December winter-solstice celebration from the year 1 AD/CE to today (click to enlarge image)

As it is for the Perso-Roman god Mithra, the Egyptian god Horus and the Christian godman Jesus, the December 25th date has likewise been claimed for Attis's nativity as well. For example, Barbara G. Walker (77) writes:

> Attis's passion was celebrated on the 25th of March, exactly nine months before the solstitial festival of his birth, the 25th of December. The time of his death was also the time of his conception, or re-conception.

"Each year, Attis was born at the winter solstice."

In this same regard, Shirley Toulson (34) remarks:

> In the secret rites of this Great Mother the young god Attis figured as her acolyte and consort.... Each year he was born at the winter solstice, and each year as the days shortened, he died.

The reasoning behind this contention of the vegetative and solar god Attis's birth at the winter solstice is sound enough, in that it echoes natural cycles, with the god's death at the vernal equinox also representing the time when he is conceived again, to be born nine months later. The same natural pattern was contended of Jesus as well, with the Virgin Mary traditionally said to have conceived at the spring equinox and given birth at the winter solstice. Indeed, to this day the Feast of the Annunciation/Conception of Christ occurs on March 25th within Catholicism. (O'Gorman, 170)

Moreover, at times the young Attis was merged with Mithra, whose birthday was traditionally held on December 25th and with whom he shared the same Phrygian capped attire.

Attis wearing a Phrygian cap

Marble bust of Attis wearing Phrygian cap
2nd cent. AD/CE
(Paris)

Mithra wearing a Phrygian cap

Mithra in a Phrygian cap
2nd cent. AD/CE
Rome, Italy
(British Museum, London)

More on this subject can be found in my "ZEITGEIST Sourcebook."
Attis Crucified

Prometheus crucified, chained in the shape of a cross or in cruciformAs I further relate in my article "Attis: Born of a Virgin," the myths of Attis's death include him being killed by a boar or by castrating himself under a tree, as well as by being hung on a tree or "crucified." Indeed, he has been called the "castrated and crucified Attis." (Harari, 31) It should be recalled that the use of the term "crucified" as concerns gods like Horus and Attis does not connote that he or they were thrown to the ground and nailed to a cross, as we commonly think of crucifixion, based on the Christian tale. To reiterate, there have been plenty of ancient figures who appeared in cruciform, some of whose myths specifically have them punished or killed through crucifixion, such as the Greek god Prometheus.

"The god has been called the 'castrated and crucified Attis.'"

Moreover, Attis is said to have been "crucified" to a pine tree, while Christ too was related as being both crucified and hung on a tree (Acts 5:30; 10:39). As stated by La Trobe University professor Dr. David John Tacey (110):

> Especially significant for us is the fact that the Phrygian Attis was crucified upon the tree...

In antiquity, these two concepts were obviously similar enough to be interchangeable in understanding. As we can see, there is very good reason to raise up these issues in our studies of comparative religion and mythology.

Forbes Claim No. 12: "The idea that Krishna was born of a virgin is particularly silly because the Indian legends say that he was the eighth child of Princess Devaki. If she's had seven children already, I don't think she's a virgin."

Like the other claims regarding various gods' mothers not being virgins, this one is based on the lack of knowledge about the ancient concept of parthenogenesis. Again, myths are mutable, not set in stone, and it must be kept in mind that these are not "real people" but mythical figures; hence, neither their mothers nor purported fathers truly have genitalia. The virgin-mother status of several ancient Greek goddesses is well known, so it does not surprise us that the mothers of Attis, Dionysus, Krishna and others, however impregnated, have also been deemed "virgins."

Devaki nursing KrishnaI have already discussed extensively the perpetual virginity motif as possibly applicable to the Indian god Krishna's mother, Devaki, including in an entire chapter in my book Suns of God, published in 2004. In brief, it is claimed that Devaki could not to have been a virgin when she gave birth to Krishna because she already had given birth to seven other children. In the first place, based on the biblical scriptures at Matthew 12:46 and 13:55-56, the Virgin Mary also was traditionally said to have given birth to several children after Jesus; yet, she is considered a perpetual virgin. Moreover, we discover that in the ancient Indian text the Mahabharata several characters are claimed to be born of a virgin, including the sun god's offspring named Karna, whose mother, Kunti, is the aunt of Krishna's mother.

"In another myth, the newly married and apparently still virginal teenaged Devaki is impregnated after eating half a mango."

So too is the author of the Mahabharata himself—also called Krishna—deemed the son of a virgin. In another myth, the newly married and apparently still virginal teenaged Devaki is impregnated after eating half a mango. The bottom line is that pre-Christian Indian mythology most definitely possessed the virgin-birth motif and that it was evidently applied to Devaki, in an earlier birth story and possibly as concerns Krishna as well.

See also:
Was Krishna's Mother a Virgin?
Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
The Virgin-Born Son of the Sun God

Forbes Claim No. 13: Krishna was "resurrected? It's just not there."

Concerning Krishna's death and ascension, in The Oxford Companion to World Mythology (232), Dr. Leeming states:

> Just after the war, Krishna dies, as he had predicted he would, when, in a position of meditation, he is struck in the heel by a hunter's arrow. His apotheosis occurs when he ascends in death to the heavens and is greeted by the gods.

Regarding the resurrection/ascension, the Mahabharata (4) says that Krishna or "Keshava," as he is also traditionally called, immediately returns to life after being killed and speaks only to the hunter, forgiving him of his actions:

> …he [the hunter] touched the feet of [Krishna]. The high-souled one comforted him and then ascended up-wards, filling the entire welkin [sky/heaven] with splendour... [Krishna] reached his own inconceivable region.

Krishna crucifiedAlthough it is not specifically stated that Krishna "resurrects" upon his death—when he is killed under a tree—he does ascend into heaven, alive again, since he is considered to be the eternal God of the cosmos. Krishna's death is recounted in the Mahabharata and Vishnu Purana, both claiming he was killed by a hunter while sitting under a tree, the arrow penetrating his foot, much like Christ having a nail driven through his feet. In this regard, there have been found in India strange images of figures in cruciform with nail holes in their hands and feet, one of which was identified by an Indian priest as possibly the god Wittoba, who is an incarnation of Krishna.

The impression of a resurrection is evident from the depiction of Krishna comforting his killer just after death, before he has ascended into heaven. The point is that the god was once dead, but now he is alive again, whether in this world or the afterlife. This type of detail does not suffice to undermine the fact of the resurrection or raising up from death being a mythical motif in the first place, applicable to Christ as well as to many other gods and legendary figures. (For more information on the mythical motif of the resurrection, see Murdock, CIE, 402-420.)

Forbes Claim No. 14: "The god Dionysus, born of a virgin on December 25th? No evidence. It's just made up."

Once more, Forbes has not looked very hard for the evidence for these contentions regarding the Greek son of God, Dionysus. It is clear that he is not a mythologist, as he has not studied the subject of pre-Christian mythology in depth.

Dionysus Born of a Virgin

As I relate in my article "Dionysus: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Killed and Resurrected after Three Days," according to the most common tradition, Dionysus was the son of the god Zeus and the mortal woman Semele. In the Cretan version of the same story, which the pre-Christian Greek historian Diodorus Siculus relates, Dionysus was the son of Zeus and Persephone, the daughter of Demeter also called Kore, who is styled a "virgin goddess."

Hermes presenting the baby Dionysus to a goddess; Museum of NaplesIn another account, Jupiter/Zeus gives Dionysus's torn-up heart in a drink to Semele, who becomes pregnant with the "twice born" god this way, a miraculous or "virgin" birth. Indeed, mythologist Joseph Campbell explicitly calls Semele a "virgin":

> While the maiden goddess sat there, peacefully weaving a mantle on which there was to be a representation of the universe, her mother contrived that Zeus should learn of her presence; he approached her in the form of an immense snake. And the virgin conceived the ever-dying, ever-living god of bread and wine, Dionysus, who was born and nurtured in that cave, torn to death as a babe and resurrected... (Campbell, MG, 4.27)

"Dionysus, son of Zeus, is born of a mortal virgin, Semele."

This same direct appellation is used by Cambridge professor and anthropologist Sir Dr. Edmund Ronald Leach:

> Dionysus, son of Zeus, is born of a mortal virgin, Semele, who later became immortalized through the inter-vention of her divine son; Jesus, son of God, is born of a mortal virgin, Mary… such stories can be dupli-cated over and over again. (Hugh-Jones, 108)

Using the scholarly Greek term parthenos, meaning "virgin," in The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece (95) Rigoglioso concludes: "Semele was also likely a holy parthenos by virtue of the fact that she gave birth to Dionysus via her union with Zeus (Hesiod, Theogony 940)."

Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity by Marguerite RigogliosoThe fact that Dionysus's other mother, Persephone, is also associated with parthenogenesis—again, the scholarly term for "virgin birth"—lends credence to the notion that Dionysus was virgin-born. As related further by Rigoglioso in Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (111):

> Persephone's connection with the parthenogenetic pomegranate is attested in text and iconography. In speaking directly about the Eleusinian Mysteries, Clement of Alexandria (Exhortation to the Greeks 2:16) informs us that the pomegranate tree was believed to have sprung from the drops of the blood of Dionysus…

Dionysus Born on December 25th

As with Jesus, December 25th and January 6th are both traditional birth dates in the Dionysian myth and simply represent the period of the winter solstice. Indeed, the winter-solstice date of the Greek sun and wine god Dionysus was originally recognized in early January but was eventually placed on December 25th, as related by ancient Latin writer Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE). Regardless, the effect is the same: The winter sun god is born around this time, when the shortest day of the year begins to become longer.

"Macrobius transfers this feast to the day of the winter solstice, December 25."

The ancient Church father Epiphanius (4th cent.) discussed the birth of the god Aion, son of the Greek goddess Persephone or Kore ("Maiden"), at the time of the winter solstice. In this regard, Christian theologian Rev. Dr. Hugo G. Rahner (139-140) remarks:

> We know that Aion was at this time beginning to be regarded as identical with Helios and Helios with Dionysus...because [according to Macrobius] Dionysus was the symbol of the sun... He is made to appear small at the time of the winter solstice, when upon a certain day the Egyptians take him out of the crypt, because on this the shortest day of the year it is as though he were a little child.... Macrobius transfers [this feast] to the day of the winter solstice, December 25.

Dionysus is thus equivalent to Aion and was also said to have been born of Persephone, the virgin maiden. Joseph Campbell (MI, 34) confirms this "celebration of the birth of the year-god Aion to the virgin Goddess Kore," the latter of whom he calls "a Hellenized transformation of Isis," the Egyptian mother goddess who was likewise called the "Great Virgin" in inscriptions predating the Christian era by centuries. (See Murdock, CIE, 120-197.)

As we can see, no one has just "made up" anything, except, perhaps, those promulgating the Christ myth as "historical."
Forbes Claim No. 15: "Jesus was born on December 25th?... That's just the traditional celebration of Jesus's birthday. We actually don't have any idea at all what season Jesus was born in, let alone what day. About 350 A.D., the church in Rome started systematically setting up major Christian festivals. They chose to put the birth of Jesus on December 25th. They knew that wasn't his birthday.... It was related to the Saturnalia. It was related to the festival of Sol Invictus."

Firstly, it should be noted that for the past 1,700 years or more, the birth of Jesus Christ has been celebrated on December 25th by hundreds of millions of people worldwide. We would be delighted if more people were aware of the fact that we really have no idea when any purported historical Jesus was born and that this December 25th date has been "borrowed" from pre-Christian Paganism. It is precisely this fact of "borrowing" that we are demonstrating in our comparative religion and mythology studies, so highlighting this point serves to illustrate our thesis.

Sol Invictus emerging from the rocky mountains at dawn or on the winter solsticeAs stated in the Catholic Encyclopedia:

> The well-known solar feast...of Natalis Invicti, celebrated on 25 December, has a strong claim on the responsibility for our December date. For the history of the solar cult, its position in the Roman Empire, and syncretism with Mithraism.

The Catholic Encyclopedia also says:

> The 25 December was observed as his birthday, the natalis invicti, the rebirth of the winter-sun, unconquered by the rigours of the season.

Secondly, the fact that Forbes understands that the "December 25th" birthday was related to the Saturnalia and Sol Invictus indicates he is aware of its significance as a winter-solstice festival. In consideration of the strawman argument above wherein he disingenuously pretends not to understand the nomenclature of "December 25th" used to describe Horus's birthday, perhaps he should have been using a Latin phrase in this discussion, rather than the English one. It is obvious our critic is engaged in special pleading here, as well as throughout his analysis.

If the church "colonized" this festival as well as many others—as Forbes further claims here—presenting this supposed birthday as fact, what else did the church or creators of Christianity "colonize" in their quest to make Pagans who "shifted over more comfortable?" In other words, what else have Christian authorities lied about over the centuries—perhaps the very notion of Christ's historicity in the first place, having "colonized" from Pagan and Jewish religion virtually every part of the gospel story and early Christian tradition?
Forbes Claim No. 16: "Ancient historians are absolutely clear that the figure of Jesus is a genuine historical figure.... That he really lived is not seriously under doubt."

Which ancient historians would those be? A serious historian wants to know the ancient evidence. The biblical writers do not count in a scientific analysis, and the other purported references to Jesus in non-Christian sources such as Josephus, Pliny, Suetonius, Tacitus and others are not contemporaneous and serve as hearsay long after the purported facts. As demonstrated throughout this work and in volumes elsewhere, there certainly has been serious doubt as to whether or not Jesus truly walked the earth, including in antiquity, as is evidenced by the biblical verses 1 John 4:3 and 2 John 1:7, according to the Textus Receptus:

> Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God: And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that [spirit] of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the world. (1 Jo 4:2-3)

> For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist. (2 Jo 1:2)

"It is likely there were many other individuals questioning the historicity of the gospel tale, as it is little different from the multitudinous claims concerning other gods and goddesses around the Mediterranean of the time."

The "many deceivers" addressed here were called "Docetics," and their Gnostic-Christian belief that Jesus was not a "real person" but a phantom who did not appear in the flesh is called "Docetism," which dates to the second century or the earliest scientifically documented period of Christian history. It is likely there were many other individuals questioning the historicity of the gospel tale, as it is little different from the multitudinous claims concerning other gods and goddesses around the Mediterranean of the time. It is also likely that any such testimony was obliterated during the centuries of destruction that followed the ascension of Christianity.
Forbes Claim No. 17: "When you go from the footnotes of 'Zeitgeist' to the footnotes of these people, you still don't find any ancient evidence."

This entire lengthy article demonstrates that if you follow the footnotes of "these people," i.e., ZG1.1's sources, such as not only Gerald Massey and G.A. Wells but also me, you will find plenty of ancient evidence. Forbes simply did not look very hard, as is obvious from his claims, which reflect barely a cursory scan of the mythicist case.
Forbes Claim No. 18: "All three of those sources—they use the title "Christos"—think it's his name."

Here Forbes is addressing the contention that the much ballyhooed "proofs" of Christ's existence found in non-Christian sources such as Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus are not actually discussing "Jesus of Nazareth" but are using a common title of "Christos/Christus" or "Chrestos/Chrestus," the former meaning "anointed one" and the latter meaning "good" or "useful one." Regarding these three Roman writers using the title "Christos" (or "Chrestos"), Forbes claims that they "think it's his name." Is Forbes is claiming to know what these writers were thinking? Obviously, Pliny saying that they worshipped "Christos as a god" is not reflecting any knowledge of a "real man" who walked the earth in the century before. Forbes also makes the claim that "these writers are writing about a person they believe to be historical." Where is the evidence for such a claim? To use his phrase, it's not there at all. It's just made up. Without evidence, does Forbes know what these writers believed? What they thought?

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ UnveiledAn indepth analysis reveals that both titles were indeed utilized to describe several figures, mythical and historical, found in the Old Testament and elsewhere, and that none of these historians provide credible, scientific evidence that the gospel story really happened or that Jesus truly existed.
More on the subject of Pliny, et al., can be found in my books Suns of God and Who Was Jesus?, as well as my online excerpt "Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus: No Proof of Jesus." The following constitutes an excerpt from Who Was Jesus? (92-97).
Pliny the Younger

In a letter to the Emperor Trajan (c. 100 AD/CE), Pliny, who was governor of Bithynia at the time, asks for assistance in dealing with "Christiani" brought before him in his court, complaining that these Christiani sing hymns or chant verses "in honor of Christ as if to a god." If Pliny's letter is genuine, it would serve only to demonstrate that there were people termed "Christians" who were singing hymns to a god with the title of "Christos" around the beginning of the second century. Neither Pliny's letter nor the response by Trajan mention anything about this god having a life on Earth; nor do they ever call him "Jesus."

"Neither Pliny's letter nor the response by Trajan mention anything about this 'Christos' having a life on Earth; nor do they ever call him 'Jesus.'"

In reality, the epithet "Christos"—χριστος—is used 40 times in the Greek translation of the Old Testament, centuries before the Christian era, as applied to a variety of characters, including in several references to "the Lord's anointed."[2] Indeed, in 1 and 2 Samuel the first king of Israel, Saul, is repeatedly referred to as "Christos"—Christ—hundreds of years before Jesus was given the same title. By the end of 2 Samuel (23:1), it is David who is called "Christ." In 2 Chronicles 6:42, David's son Solomon becomes God's Christ, and at 2 Chronicles 22:7 it is Jehu who is the Lord's anointed. As can be seen, there have been many Christs.

From the foregoing facts, it can be asserted that Pliny provides no useful information either as to who Jesus was or even whether or not he existed.

Gaius Suetonius Tranquillus

Suetonius, from the Nuremberg ChronicleOther apologist "proofs" of the history of the gospel story occur in a couple of brief passages in the works of Roman historian and biographer Suetonius. In Suetonius's Life of Claudius (c. 113 AD/CE) appears the following passage:

> Iudaeos impulsore Chresto assidue tumultuantis Roma expulit.
>
> [Those] Jews impelled by Chrestos to assiduously cause tumult, [Claudius] expelled out of Rome.

The germane term here is "Chrestos," again a widely used epithet meaning "good," "virtuous," "useful" or "easy," as at Matthew 11:30. Contrary to the claims of Christian apologists, however, Chrestos is not equivalent to, or interchangeable with, Christos or Christ, meaning "anointed," although Christian writers and scribes did confusedly utilize both epithets. Nevertheless, numerous individuals, including both gods and mortals, were called "Chrestos" or "Chrestus" during this era, so it is uncertain that this brief remark even concerns Jesus of Nazareth in the first place, especially since Jesus was never said to have been at Rome.

"These brief mentions of 'Chrestos' and 'Christians' do not provide credible scientific evidence of the historicity of the gospel story."

In his Life of Nero (c. 110 AD/CE), Suetonius also mentions "Christians" as involved in a "new and mischievous superstition" and being punished by Nero. It seems odd that a movement over 80 years old would be considered "new," particularly since both Peter and Paul were said to have proselytized at Rome. Indeed, the book of Acts claims Paul was such a known rabble-rouser that he was arrested and hauled before Roman authorities, even appealing to Caesar himself! (Acts 26:32) Paul not only purportedly spent two years in prison in Rome, but it was there where he allegedly later experienced martyrdom in the arena "before a jeering crowd" during Nero's reign. Strangely, despite his noteworthy life Paul appears nowhere in the historical record. Moreover, this passage in Suetonius may have been another Christian interpolation, breaking the narrative in an unnatural manner. In any event, these brief mentions of "Chrestos" and "Christians" do not provide credible scientific evidence of the historicity of the gospel story.

Publius/Gaius Cornelius Tacitus

TacitusAlthough dated by scholars to between 107 and 116 AD/CE, the vaunted passage in Roman senator and historian Tacitus's Annals (15:44) does not appear in the literary record until the 14th century, while the earliest extant manuscript possessing book 15 dates only to the 11th century. Hence, the authenticity and value of the Annals remain dubious. The pertinent passage in the Annals—considered by some apologists as the best evidence outside of the gospels for Christ's historicity—goes as follows:

> Therefore, in order to abolish that rumor, Nero falsely accused and executed with the most exquisite punishments those people called Christians, who were infamous for their abominations. The originator of the name, Christ, was executed as a criminal by the procurator Pontius Pilate during the reign of Tiberius; and though repressed, this destructive superstition erupted again, not only through Judea, which was the origin of this evil, but also through the city of Rome, to which all that is horrible and shameful floods together and is celebrated. Therefore, first those were seized who admitted their faith, and then, using the information they provided, a vast multitude were convicted, not so much for the crime of burning the city, but for hatred of the human race. And perishing they were additionally made into sports: they were killed by dogs by having the hides of beasts attached to them, or they were nailed to crosses or set aflame, and, when the daylight passed away, they were used as nighttime lamps. Nero gave his own gardens for this spectacle and performed a Circus game, in the habit of a charioteer mixing with the plebs or driving about the race-course. Even though they were clearly guilty and merited being made the most recent example of the consequences of crime, people began to pity these sufferers, because they were consumed not for the public good but on account of the fierceness of one man.

In the Latin manuscript that is the basis of this particular translation, Tacitus refers to a "Christus," with an "i," but he claims the "class hated for their abominations" were called "Chrestians," with an "e," meaning "the good" or "the useful," etc., rather than "followers of Christ." However, the manuscript tradition of the Annals also reveals that the word "Christus" has been interchanged with "Chrestus," presenting yet another difficulty in discerning an original, and reflecting that the text has been altered.

"Tacitus's assertion that these Chrestians constituted a 'vast multitude' at Rome by Nero's time is incorrect."

Moreover, Tacitus's assertion that these Chrestians constituted a "vast multitude" at Rome by Nero's time (64 AD/CE) is incorrect, and, despite the repeated claim to the opposite, there is no other evidence of a massive Neronian persecution of Christians for setting the fire at Rome. Concerning this development, Drew University Professor of New Testament Darrell Doughty comments:

> …it is highly remarkable that no other ancient source associates Christians with the burning of Rome until Sulpicius Serverus in the late fourth century… The dramatic and fantastic description of the tortures suffered by the scapegoats resembles the executions portrayed in later legendary Acts of Christian Martyrs.

Who Was Jesus?Other arguments against the authenticity of this text include that it is written in different and rougher Latin than Tacitus's other, more well-known works. Furthermore, in all of Tacitus's other works, no mention is made of Christ, Christians or Christianity—how do we account for this fact, if there were already a "vast multitude" of Christians at Rome by the time of Nero, several decades earlier? And whom Nero supposedly had blamed for the infamous fire that almost destroyed Rome? And who were allegedly horribly persecuted—yet, not one other writer of the time or thereafter recorded these significant facts? (For further arguments against Tacitus as credible, scientific evidence for the gospel story, see my book Who Was Jesus?)

Forbes Claim No. 19: Josephus is a credible source because he mentions Jesus twice and only one of those citations is disputed by scholars.

Forbes refers, of course, to the infamous "Testimonium Flavianum" ("TF") as well as the lesser known "James passage" in the writings of Jewish historian Josephus. The TF has been analyzed for centuries, with a scholarly and theological consensus during the past few hundred years that it was a forgery in toto. Since that time, however, Christian apologists and others have worked their way back to the "partial interpolation" hypothesis as well as that the entire passage is "genuine." The arguments against the TF are well known and can be found in my books, including Suns of God and Who Was Jesus?, as well as in my article "The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled."

"The Testimonium Flavianum cannot be adduced with confidence as evidence."

As I relate in Who Was Jesus? (90-91) regarding Josephus, F.F. Bruce, one of the founders of the modern evangelical Christian movement, concludes (157):

> ...a paragraph about Jesus...was evidently modified and interpolated at an early stage in the course of transmission to suit Christian tastes. It cannot therefore be adduced with confidence as evidence. (Emph. added)

The James Passage

In the "James passage" in Josephus's Antiquities (XX, IX, 1) appears the phrase "James, brother of Jesus, who was called Christ." The contention that no scholars have dissected the James passage is not true, as a number of people have questioned whether or not the bulk or part of this phrase has been interpolated. This fact concerning past critics readily reveals itself when the extensive body of literature in the field of mythicism is studied.

"The contention that no scholars have dissected the James passage is not true, as a number of people have questioned whether or not it has been interpolated."

The same determination of "modification" and "interpolation" put forth by F.F. Bruce and others as concerns the Testimonium Flavianum has also been made by those arguing against the authenticity of the phrase "brother of Jesus, who was called Christ" or simply the latter clause, which unnaturally breaks the text and seems to be an interpolation or insert. The evidence against this latter phrase being genuine includes that early Church father Origen—who studied Josephus's works and used them to refute critics such as Celsus—specifically complained that the Jewish historian did not consider Jesus to be the Christ. This phrase "who was called Christ" may have been copied from the gospel of Matthew (1:16), possibly long after Josephus's time. Furthermore, the James in this passage has not been concretely identified with the James in the gospel story, as Josephus's James died some seven years prior to the death of the New Testament's "James the Just." (See Humphreys, "A Plethora of James.")

JosephusDespite the conclusions reached by Bruce and many others that Josephus "cannot be adduced with confidence as evidence," Catholic theologian John P. Meier insists that this debate about Josephus becomes critical to proving that Christ even existed. Hence, Christ's very existence hangs on the slender thread of the TF. Since this debate about Josephus has gone on long enough and will seemingly never end, let us for a moment assume that the Testimonium is genuine, in whole or in part. Even with such an assumption, the TF still does not constitute credible, scientific proof of the historicity of Jesus Christ, since it was not written by an eyewitness, nor is it based on any discernible documents of any authority. The TF reflects only a tradition or rumor of something that purportedly occurred 60 to 70 years earlier and made little to no impact upon anyone significant outside of immediate Christian circles. (See Who Was Jesus? for further citations.)
Forbes Claim No. 20: "The evidence is perfectly clear that Jesus was believed to be an actual human being right back in the first century AD. In fact, one of the biggest Christian heresies in the second century AD that the mainstream church rejected absolutely was that Jesus was a divine heavenly figure who only appeared to be a man. And that was branded a heresy and treated as rubbish, because the early churches clearly believed that Jesus was actually a real human being who was in some sense related to God... The idea that Constantine made this up, I'm sorry, this is just silly..."

In the first place, other than New Testament texts, there is no solid scientific evidence from the first century that indicates anyone other than a handful of Christians believed Jesus had truly walked the earth. The Pauline epistles—universally accepted as the earliest Christian texts—actually serve as evidence against a historical Jesus, as they contain little to no biographical material of scientific value. (See Doherty, The Jesus Puzzle and Jesus: Neither God Nor Man.) Also, there is no credible, scientific evidence that the canonical gospels as we have them appeared in the historical record before the last half of the second century. (See Murdock, "When Were the Gospels Written?")

Constantine the Great; bust from Capitoline Museum; photo: Jean-Christophe BENOISTSecondly, this commentary constitutes yet another strawman, since neither I nor Peter Joseph or any of his other sources to my knowledge has made the claim that Constantine created the Christ figure. Here is what Peter said in ZG1.1 about Constantine:

> The reality is, Jesus was the solar deity of the Gnostic Christian sect, and like all other Pagan gods, he was a mythical figure. It was the political establishment that sought to historize the Jesus figure for social control. By 325 A.D. in Rome, Emperor Constantine convened the Council of Nicea. It was during this meeting that the politically motivated Christian Doctrines were established and thus began a long history of Christian bloodshed and spiritual fraud. And for the next 1600 years, the Vatican maintained a political stranglehold on all of Europe, leading to such joyous periods as the Dark Ages, along with enlightening events such as the Crusades, and the Inquisition.

Joseph does not say when the "political establishment" sought to historicize the Christ figure. Scientific analysis shows that the historicization and Judaization of the solar hero occurred during the second century, indeed long before Constantine. Joseph is correct that during the Council of Nicea "politically motivated Christian Doctrines" were established. At that point, the Christ figure was already well represented in Christian tradition and doctrine as being "historical" and was now being used to create exclusivity and hegemony, leading to centuries of slaughter and cultural destruction. As we can see from the above anti-ZG claims full of errors and omissions, this cultural destruction and censorship continues, unabated, from the hallowed halls of academia.

Forbes also carries on about whether or not Constantine made Christianity compulsory, likewise a claim ZG1.1 did not make; nor have I said such a thing. However, Constantine's son Constantius II did issue a series of edicts that targeted Pagan religious practices and promoted Christianity, setting in motion the intolerance that led to a horrendous rampage which destroyed much of the Pagan world, including the last vestiges of the ancient Egyptian civilization during the fourth and fifth centuries.
Forbes Claim No. 21: "One of the things that really got up my nose as I watched the movie was that they showed a list of about 20 people who they claimed were historians writing in the first century who never mentioned Jesus, and the claim was that because not one of these people mentioned Jesus, clearly he couldn't have been a real historical figure."

Here Forbes assails the list from my book Who Was Jesus? of the various writers of antiquity alive during the purported advent of Jesus Christ but who never mentioned him, his movement or followers, saying that this list consists of "geographers, literature professors, poets, philosophers and writers on farming or gardening."

Exposing the fact that the writers of the first century—considered one of the best documented periods in history—never recorded the existence of Jesus Christ, Christians or Christianity is a vitally important exercise that should not "get up the nose" of any serious historian. Only a biased Christian historian interested in shoring up the faith at all costs would not want that shocking fact exposed. How many millions of Christians have never been told that there is no credible, scientific and independent evidence for the existence of Jesus Christ from the contemporary record of when he allegedly walked the earth?
Philo of Alexandria (20 BCE-50 AD/CE)

Philo Judaeus of AlexandriaIn addition, these writers of the time are not all "Roman" as claimed by Forbes, who omits that some of them, such as Philo Judaeus of Alexandria, a Jew who specifically wrote about religion, including and especially the Jewish faith, comparing it to Paganism. Philo's writings on the subject are extensive and were published before Christ allegedly began his ministry. A tremendous amount of Philo's thoughts appear to have been lifted wholesale and turned into Christian doctrine. Philo even describes the anthropomorphized "Word of God" in a way that fits Jesus to a "T"; yet he evidently had no idea whatsoever that during his very lifetime his Word supposedly had manifested miraculously in his Jewish homeland. (See Murdock, CIE, 466ff) It is simply egregious to omit this highly important source proving the lack of a contemporary record for Christ, Christians and Christianity and to wave one's hand in dismissal of the significance of pointing out this deficit in the writings of the time, regardless of their specialty.

Lucius Annaeus Seneca (c. 1 BCE-65 AD/CE)

The same analysis can be made concerning the Roman statesman and philosopher Seneca, whose philosophical musings appear to have been pilfered either by "St. Paul" or by his pseudepigraphical pretenders. If Christ had existed at any point near Seneca's lifetime, surely the philosopher would have mentioned him, particularly when there are so many points of contact between Seneca's and Paul's ideologies.

"If Christ truly had lived and had the impact claimed of him in the New Testament in some two dozen verses that he was famed far and wide, there is little reason why several of these authors would not write about him."

If Christ truly had lived and had the impact claimed of him in the New Testament in sometwo dozen passages asserting he was famed far and wide, there is little reason why several of these authors would not write about him. Surely this supposedly stunning development would find its way into the writings of "literature professors, poets and philosophers" of all people! This contention is actually helpful to the mythicist case, if such individuals took no notice of someone touted as widely famous for doing stunning miracles indicative of his divinity. As concerns geographers, they too might be interested in knowing that the God of the cosmos was supposedly wandering around in the tiny 90-mile area of Judea and Palestine—such a claim would be an interesting tourist point to make for any geographers. In reality, ancient geographers such as Strabo (63/64 BCE–c. 24 AD/CE) and Pausanias (2nd cent. AD/CE) frequently discussed the religion of the people of the areas about which they were writing, as any serious historian should know.

Expert in Agriculture and Religion

Marcus Terentius VarroWhen one considers that in antiquity writers often addressed multiple disciplines, it would not necessarily be surprising if experts on "farming and gardening" discussed such a purportedly important and allegedly widespread phenomenon, which Christian tradition claims spread like wildfire during the first and second centuries. In this regard, ancient Roman scholar and statesman Marcus Terentius Varro (116–27 BCE) wrote extensively about religion and agriculture; unfortunately, his works on religion were destroyed, leaving us to wonder why and whether or not they may have contained information damaging to Christian origins. Varro's book about agriculture, however, survives. So, here we have an important ancient scholar who wrote about both religion and "farming and gardening." Others would likely follow suit.

Even if we reduce the list down to just two people, Philo and Seneca, the question still remains as to why there exists no contemporary credible scientific evidence demonstrating the existence of Jesus Christ, who, again, is claimed in some two dozen biblical verses to have been famed far and wide? As Forbes himself remarks:

> There are plenty of writers whose manuscripts written in the period we're talking about still survive now...

All those manuscripts, yet not one of them contains anything about Jesus, even though he was supposedly widely famed!

Even if the historians and other writers of the day took no notice of Christ himself, they surely would have been aware of the events that allegedly accompanied his crucifixion, such as the sun going dark, earthquakes, and saints rising out of their graves and wandering the streets of Jerusalem, frightening the locals. (Mt 27:51-54; Mk 15:38; Lk 23:45) The Jerusalem temple veil was purportedly ripped apart, yet no Jew or Roman makes any mention of that destruction? There is no record of having to repair it? And if Jesus's death caused all this mayhem, why wouldn't someone report that fact, thus also recording Christ's purported existence? And what about the 500 supposed witnesses of Christ's resurrection (1 Cor 15:6)—would not someone among them have related or recorded the story him or herself?

Conclusion

Forbes's agenda becomes clear in his parting "advice" to those who are "enamored" by "Zeitgeist": "Can I be awfully blunt? Don't believe everything you see on Youtube." Ironically, our critic's video itself can be viewed on Youtube, and as we can see, we should not believe it for the most part.

Dr. Chris Forbes speaking on ZeitgeistForbes further says, in a condescending manner that implies none of us has done so:

> Yes, check references. Go looking for ancient evidence. If somebody claims something about Horus or Mithras or Dionysus, if they're only quoting another modern author, or in the case of Massey, someone writing in the 19th century, that's not good enough. What historians want to know is not do you quote historians. They want to know can you quote ancient evidence? And there's simply no ancient evidence that Horus or Mithras or Dionysus was born on the 25th of December, born of a virgin, crucified—the ancient stories simply don't say that about them, so the parallels with Jesus just collapse.

As can be seen from the voluminous information provided in this rebuttal, some of us have checked the references and looked for the ancient evidence for all these parallels—and we have found it. It is obvious from his comments, however, that Forbes himself did not check the references or go looking for the ancient evidence, because he apparently stopped at the list of citations on the ZG website, without bothering to dig further. It is clear from this response that we should not rely on the words of professional historians but should do the research ourselves, and I have provided pointers in every direction for the reader to do just that for him or herself.

At one point, the host of the radio and video programs goes on to admit that the study of the "historical Jesus" is a "voluminous industry," which just about says it all—an industry, upon which occupations and paychecks depend. As American writer and social critic Upton Sinclair says, "It is difficult to get a man to understand something, when his salary depends upon his not understanding it!"

Further Reading

The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ
ZEITGEIST, Part 1 & the Supportive Evidence

Bibliography

"Zeitgeist: The Movie," en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Zeitgeist:_The_Movie
Acharya S. The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold. Illinois: AUP, 1999.
—Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled. Illinois: AUP, 2004.
Allen, James P. The Ancient Egyptian Pyramid Texts. Atlanta: Society of Biblical Literature, 2005.
—Middle Egyptian: An Introduction to the Language and Culture of Hieroglyphs. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2010.
Babbitt, Frank Cole, tr. The Moralia. Whitefish, MT: Kessinger Pub., 2005.
Behrendt, Stephen C. The Moment of Explosion: Blake and the Illustration of Milton. University of Nebraska Press, 1983.
Botterweck, G. Johannes, et al., eds. Theological Dictionary of the Old Testament, v. 2. Grand Rapids: William B. Eerdsman, 1977.
Bruce, F.F. New Testament History. London: Oliphants, 1977.
Budge, E.A. Wallis. An Egyptian Hieroglyphic Dictionary, I. Whitefish, MT: Kessinger Publishing, 2003.
Campbell, Joseph. Masks of God: Creative Mythology. New York: Arkana, 1991.
—The Mythic Image. New Jersey: Princeton University Press, 1974.
Cauville, Sylvie. Dendara: Les fêtes d'Hathor. Peeters, 2002.
Chisholm, Hugh, ed. The Encyclopedia Britannica, v. 27. The Encyclopedia Britannica Company, 1911.
Clements, Arthur L. Poetry of Contemplation: John Donne, George Herbert, Henry Vaughan and the Modern Period. Albany, NY: State University of New York Press, 1990.
Davies, Gareth Alban. A Poet at Court: Antonio Hurtado de Mendoza, 1586-1644. Ofxford: The Dolphin Book Co., 1971.
Doherty, Earl. Jesus: Neither God Nor Man: The Case for the Mythical Jesus. Ottawa: Age of Reason Publications, 2009.
—The Jesus Puzzle. Ottawa: Canadian Humanist Publications, 1999.
Felix, Minucius. Octavius. ed. Gilles Quispel. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1973.
Ferrari, G.R.F., ed. Plato: The Republic. New York: Cambridge University Press, 2000.
Foxell, Nigel. A Sermon in Stone: John Donne and His Monument in St. Paul's Cathedral. London: Menard Press, 1978.
Frazer, James G. Adonis, Attis, Osiris: Studies in the History of Oriental Religion. London: Macmillan and Co., 1906.
Gifford, Edwin, tr. Eusebiou tou Pamphilou Euangelikes. Oxonii: H. Frowde, 1903.

Greenbaum, Sidney. An Introduction to English Grammar. Longmans, 1991.
Grene, David, tr. Herodotus: The History. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1987.
Harari, Josue V. Textual Strategies: Perspectives in Post-Structural Criticism. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1979.
Haardt, Robert. Gnosis: Character and Testimony. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1971.
Holland, Peter. Shakespeare Survey 60: Theatres for Shakespeare. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2007.
Hugh-Jones, Stephen, and James Alexander Laidlaw, eds. The Essential Edmund Leach, v. 1-2. Yale University Press, 2001.
Humphreys, Kenneth. "A Plethora of James." www.jesusneverexisted.com/james.html
Lane, Eugene N., ed. Cybele, Attis and Related Cults. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1996.
Leeming, David Adams. Mythology: The Voyage of the Hero. New York/Oxford University Press, 1998.
—The Oxford Companion to World Mythology. New York/Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2005.
Longshore, Thomas Ellwood. George Fox Interpreted; the Religion, Revelations, Motives and Mission of George Fox. Philadelphia, 1881.
Miller, David G. The Word Made Flesh: The Failure and Redemption of Metaphor in Edward Taylor's Christographia. Selinsgrove: Susquehanna University Press, 1995.
Miller, David M. John Milton: Poetry. Boston: Twayne Publishers, 1978.
Mojsov, Bojana. Osiris: Death and Afterlife of a God. London: Blackwell, 2005.
Murdock, D.M. "Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th," www.truthbeknown.com/attis.html
—"Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?" www.truthbeknown.com/washington-jefferson-mythicists.html
—"Dionysus: Born of a Virgin on December 25th," www.truthbeknown.com/dionysus.html
—"When Were the Gospels Written?" www.stellarhousepublishing.com/gospel-dates.html
—Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2009.
—Jesus as the Sun throughout History. www.stellarhousepublishing.com/jesusasthesun.html
—Who Was Jesus? Fingerprints of The Christ. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2007.
Murphy, Edwin, tr. The Antiquities of Egypt. New Brunswick: Transaction Publishers, 1990.
O'Gorman, Bob, et al., eds. The Complete Idiot's Guide to Understanding Catholicism. Indianapolis: Alpha, 2003.
Pico della Mirandola, Giovanni, et al. On the Dignity of Man. Indianapolis: Hackett Publishing, 1998.
Price, Robert M. Deconstructing Jesus. Amherst: Prometheus Books, 2000.
Rahner, Hugo G. Greek Myths and Christian Mystery. New York: Biblo and Tannen, 1971/1963.
Rigoglioso, Marguerite. The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2009.
—Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2010.
Roberts, Alexander, Ante-Nicene Christian Library, XI, T&T Clark, Edinburgh, 1869.

—Ante-Nicene Fathers, I, The Christian Literature Publishing Co., Buffalo, 1885.
—Ante-Nicene Fathers, III, Charles Scribner's Sons, NY, 1903.
—Ante-Nicene Fathers, IV, Charles Scribner's Sons, NY, 1926.
Rowe, Karen E., Saint and Singer: Edward Taylor’s Typology and the Poetics of Meditation, Cambridge University Press, 1986.
Sinclair, Upton. I, Candidate for Governor: And How I Got Licked. London: University of California Press, 1994.
Tacey, David John. Patrick White: Fiction, and the Unconscious. Melbourne/New York: Oxford University Press, 1988.
Toulson, Shirley. The Winter Solstice. London: Jill Norman & Hobhouse, 1981.
Voss, Angela. Marsillio Ficino (Western Esoteric Masters Series). North Atlantic Books, 2006.
Walker, Barbara G. The Woman's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets. HarperSanFrancisco, 1983.
Wilcox, Helen, ed. The English Poems of George Herbert. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2007.
Witt, Reginald E. Isis in the Ancient World. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins Univ. Press, 1997.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology
TBK, SHP & FTN MAILING LIST ×

To receive cutting-edge messages about religion, mythology and history—
Enter your email address below:

Subscribe

And get a free ebook!

CUBICWARE
Welcome to the Cubicware Network
This page is a placeholder for your domain.

Replace this file [index.html] with your own content.

If you have any questions contact the administrator.
http://cubicware.net

--

A few words from some of our sponsors

"At the center of your being you have the answer; you know who you are and you know what you want." -- Lao Tzu

"The whole secret of existence is to have no fear. Never fear what will become of you, depend on no one. Only the moment you reject all help are you freed." -- Siddhartha Gautama

"When you come to know yourselves, then you will become known, and you will realize that it is you who are the sons of the living Father." -- Jesus of Nazareth

"Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law." -- Aleister Crowley

"If you take the game of life seriously, if you take your nervous system seriously, if you take your sense organs seriously, if you take the energy process seriously, you must turn on, tune in, and drop out" -- Timothy Leary

"From now on, as of this moment, you can do whatever you want." - Rev. Willie at Slack Attack Devival, Dallas

Migration in process

BEC - World Leader in Chi Energy Life Force Technology
This is a site of Karl Hans Welz, the Inventor of the OrgoneGenerator®, (Chi generator®), Orgonite®, the Chi-Card® and orgone energy boosted manifestation technologies
- email

Chi energy = Life Force, and so is orgone, prana, mana, etc. - there are many words for this energy!
Now you can get a continuous supply of life force off your Smartphone: download a Chi-Card®, and make it the wallpaper, and this means more Energy for you wherever you are and therefore you will have more power for body and mind, more power for affirmations, vision boards, and any other method you use to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires, and this is for FREE !!!

You can follow us on Instagram @orgonetech
Or you can check out the Life Manifestations Digital store

orgone smartphoneorgone performerorgone shooter

Smartphone with chi card wallpaper - The Performer (top view) - The JU 99 with Power Booster

Imagine having the power to achieve the financial success and the independence that you always wanted, redball to get this exciting relationship you always were dreaming about, redball to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires, redball to project popularity and charisma and to succeed in positions of leadership, and naturally redball to gain full control of your destiny!

Yes! Using this exciting new technology of a Chi-Card® wallpaper on your smartphone, which is powered by an orgone generator®, you can do all of this with ease!
This orgone generator® can be either your own or it can be one in our labs!

What's most important: For one week you can have the activated wallpaper on your smartphone for FREE !!
Refer friends and you get an additional month for FREE for each referral, whenever a friend gets his/her own FREE wallpaper. The demo is extremely easy: Simply let others feel the energy off your smartphone or let them drink energized water, and you have also the opportunity to make some very good income:
Click below the links you like and find out more about your options !!!

join our forum

You certainly are familiar with redball affirmations, redball vision boards,
redball the law of attraction,
redball the "secret" ...
redball and many more methods to achieve success.

All of these operations towards your success and positive permanent change are easy, very easy to set up, and all these practices have one thing in common: their CFP - Common Functional Principle - no matter what their labels, their extensive descriptions and their "rules." In fact, this CFP - Common Functional Principle - is the actual scientific basis of all these methods, which makes them successful. I said scientific not "alternative, esoteric" or similar labels. Consequently, when you know of this CFP - Common Functional Principle, then any and all operations are easy for you to set up without you needing to follow any one of the many "how to's, rules," etc., which are described in most of those "secret success approaches, cult rules, etBS, etBS" and this is so, because all of this is naturally not based on such cult fairy tales. It is based on science: The science of life force. For more information about this, see www.magicofthefuture.com.

And consequently, this science-based approach can help you to perform your operations towards positive permanent change and success with ease and very soon you will notice that this is a lot easier than you think!
In fact, all of us have very easy access to these skills. This is so, because we naturally were born with these amazing skills, and the only problem is that lots of "vested interests" (i.e., interests to keep us in the position and state of mind to lovingly "serve" those in power) always had an interest in "educating us out" of these skills, which every human being has naturally when born. In fact, with the help of their fairy tales, those controlling outfits have been brainwashing us out of many of our birth rights!
Therefore, once you are aware of this your background and your birth rights, it is very easy for you to regain many of these your natural skills, and you can do this rapidly: Usually within a few weeks, at the most a couple of months, and definitely not years or decades, which quite a few esoteric outfits are trying to make you believe ... the typical cult approach, which is quite profitable for their "popes!"

And, what's even more exciting, it is for FREE:
How powerful the applied life force technology is, you can test this for FREE, and you can do this right now!
Just get the free one-week wallpaper on your smartphone or get a chi-card®.
This will be the evidence you always wanted, and it's absolutely for free, and this certainly can be your basis of a knowledge, which within a very short period of time can provide you with access to those "lost powersof attraction" and the knowledge of how you can regain these powers rapidly and how you can use them to positively and permanently change your destiny for the better and to help others in their quest for success.
I also invite you here to study the FREE courses, which I made available for everybody: Courses of Self-Improvement and Manifestation Techniques, which are fast and easy to master.

And yes, this is technology, plain and simple:
Technology, which can be a decisive help for you redball to be successful in all your operations redball it is technology, which is affordable for any person redball it is technology, the power of which you can test immediately right now and for FREE redball so that you have the evidence, which you always desired, i.e., evidence which you need to know and which can provide you with the ultimate and decisive confidence about achieving the success you always wanted.

redball redball redball And at the same time you can make good money already while you learn - and reacquire - your "lost skills!"

Click Here to learn why life force is the power that makes possible for you positive permanent change and manifestation of your intents and affirmations

Yes !!! You can achieve manifestation of Positive Permanent Change Now !!!
This is so, because now you can set up your Chi-Card® as a wallpaper on your smartphone, and consequently you can enjoy results wherever you are, whether you are in your home or thousands of miles away, and you can do so 24-7 !!! Especially when you have also the manifestation ultimate app installed (for android).
In fact, you can use this exciting new technology to work towards getting

Your deepest desires become reality by boosting redball Your affirmations, redball Your manifestation techniques,
redball Your vision boards = Your "treasuremaps", etc., with the help of beneficial Chi Energy, which radiates from the wallpaper Chi-Card®, which is empowered by a structural link to a Chi Generator®.

What's more important: By now it's extremely easy to boost your affirmations towards the results, which you desired deep down and dreamed about for a long time:

redball towards positive enjoyable relationships and great sex, redball friendships,
redball charisma,
redball towards energy,
redball success in profession and business,
redball a new car,
redball for a more enjoyable home,
redball enjoyable vacations,
and much more ... you name it!

Most important: Now you can test it for FREE, and this way you can get direct evidence of the power of Chi Energy immediately!
The most amazing thing about this Chi-Card® wallpaper on your Smartphone: it naturally counteracts the effects of electromagnetic pollution! This for sure is exciting news for you! Test it now!

Click here and connect to our Online Show-Room and Customer Support Center. We love to provide you with more info about how you can use your Chi-Card® Wallpaper on your smartphone and much more!
Click here to see our Catalog

In fact, all you need to do now is to set up your smartphone as a living center of beneficial Chi Energy, which is coming from the Chi Generator® to which the Chi-Card®-Wallpaper on your Smartphone is conntransferected: This beneficial Chi Energy is transferred to you either
(1) from your own Chi Generator® or
(2) from a Chi Generator® in our labs, and in both cases this transfer is done by way of your Chi-Card® Wallpaper setup:

Therefore, to get results is extremely easy for you: Simply set up your Chi-Card® as a Wallpaper on your Smartphone, and the resulting Chi Energy, which is transferred to you by way of the structural link (your Chi-Cards®), has multiple functions, all of which are great opportunities for you.

With the Chi-Card® as a wallpaper, your smartphone has the function of a powerful EMF protection shield by continuously counteracting the effects of EMF's (electromagnetic frequencies), whether they are radiating from your mobile phone or from any other source close by such as fluorescent lights, microwave ovens, etc.

Now Your Smartphone is supplying you with powerful and beneficial Chi energy wherever you are, for as long it has the Chi-Card® as a wallpaper,

Quite naturally, you can use your Smartphone now to achieve manifestation of your deepest desires by way of speaking affirmations into your smartphone or, providing you with additional precision, by running the manifestation app on your smartphone.

The energy, which your Smartphone provides now is also great for Sports, Fitness, Workouts, Body Building, Weight Loss, Yoga and any other type of physical training.

And something very important: The power of the Chi-Card® setup on your smart phone does lots of things, which no "sticker" or any other such contraption can do: Whenever you are in surroundings with negative energy output ("DOR" = deadly orgone energy) coming from phone towers, fluorescent lighting and the like, it counteracts these effects. In fact, it transforms DOR back into healthy orgone, or Chi energy, and much, much more !!!

With this setup, Life Force for Your Body and Mind coming from the Chi Generators® (yours or ours) will radiate from your smartphone continuously, and consequently you can enjoy powerful results of your affirmations, manifestation techniques or the setup of the manifestation ultimate app, no matter how far away you are from the Chi Generator®, which supplies this beneficial energy: whether you are just in another room in your home or on another continent, you can work with the same amout of Chi energy and power !!! Moreover, using one of our Manifestaiton Ultimate apps, you can define the mode of its action, i.e., your desires, right on your smartphone - again: any time and anywhere!

This is so, because the Chi Generators® are the cutting edge equipment that can be a significant help in your achieving success and positive permanent change wherever you want to do so. Moreover, connecting your smartphone to this energy is extremely easy, and, as I mentioned already, this energy on your smartphone also provides you with powerful EMF protection, i.e., this EMF shield counteracts and harmonizes any microwave and other frequencies that are radiating from the cellular phone or from anywhere else.

Click here and you can get the evidence right away, and, most importantly, you can get this your first energy boost,
EMF protection and affirmation boost, and all of this for free!

Get your FREE one-week chi-card® now !!!

Click Here for a FREE Chi-Card®!
This means exploring how you can maximize your power of working with Affirmations and Motivational Techniques boosted by the Chi Generator® so that you can achieve Maximum Success and Permanent Positive Change
There are numerous skills, which were thought to be psychic, miracles, shamanism or magic in the past.
In fact, by now you know that all these skills are powerful technology, which you can use with the same ease that it takes to watch TV, to use your telephone or to drive a car.
With this exciting test you can get the evidence that you always desired !!!

And again: Click here to see Your Options and Opportunities
- or Click Below:

(1) Your own Chi-Card® setup if you have a Chi Generator®: email us and get your Smartphone image for free or design your own - print it, put the image as wallpaper of your smartphone and put the printed image next to your own Chi Generator®. email us!

(2) Your Chi-Card® setup: Get your Smartphone Chi-Card® image for a monthly fee and put it as wallpaper on to your smartphone. This Chi-Card is powered by a Chi Generator® in our labs.

(3) Click Here to get Your Chi-Card® Promotional Setup: Get your Smartphone image for free for two weeks - set as wallpaper on to your smartphone. This Chi-Card® is powered by a Chi Generator® in our lab.

(4) Then you can help your friends, and for each person whom you help to get his/her two-week chi-card (also for free), your card gets an additional two weeks for free, i.e., your card will be connected for an additional two weeks for each person whom you help to join.

(5) Furthermore, you can receive very good money when promoting this technology as an affiliate or reseller! Click here for more info! You can join training sessions online and eventually you can broadcast your own web parties and you certainly can receive great rewards!

email us to join

or Click Here for Live Help Online - Chat
Click Here to see Videos about orgone energy sciences and technology and valuable information about orgone generators® (Chi generators®)
Orgone energy (Homepage)

Orgone energy and manifestation techniques
A brief history of orgone energy
Orgone water
Franz Anton Mesmer and Baron Karl von Reichenbach
How orgone technology can help you - I
Wilhelm Reich and orgone energy
How orgone technology can help you - II
My invention of the orgone generator®
Theory 1 - purposes of orgone technology
My invention of orgonite®
Theory 2 - action at a distance
Should I have patented the orgone generator® and orgonite®?
Theory 3 - about structural links
Basics about structural links
Theory 4 - about orgone energy
Deadly orgone and pulsating orgone
Theory 5 - orgone-based mappings
Structural links - diagrams
Theory 6 - common functional principles

Copyright© 1988, 2010, 2013 by Karl Hans Welz.
All rights reserved. No part of this web site may be reproduced in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the author. Address queries to Karl Hans Welz - HSCTI - email -
Disclaimers: The Orgone Generators®. Chi-Cards® and other items offered on this web site are not for healing of any kind: Click here for more info.

Easily overcome obstacles, create positive permanent change, and energize your quality of life with chi energy. Email and ask about adding affirmations directly to your card or write down your affirmations and carry it with your transfer test. Add this exciting powerful energy to your vision boards, affirmations, etc. If you request a 3 day chi energy transfer test, you'll receive it within 24 hours. You will receive the 24 hour transfer test by email instantly and you will be free to experience the power of a continuous supply of chi energy. Print the chi energy card you receive by email. Color or Black and white, Any size that feels comfortable to you. Relax and hold the palm of your hand over the card. You will feel a warmth, cool breeze, or tingling in the fingers. This is chi energy and it's transmitted to you from any distance. Now follow the instructions included on the experiment page and charge your water.

New Affirmation Chi Card. I've set up a new chi card offering for $9.99 a month. You can have an affirmation added to a chi card and add extra energy to your affirmations. Short affirmations work best. An example can be seen here:

If you're located within the US and would like to order an orgone generator or if you're looking for radionics software you can see the online catalog here

Click here to receive free course pdfs by email, receive a free download of a filter pack (trend cards) or to purchase trend cards, or the basic manifestation program at the life manifestation digital store magick emblem Request your 3 day transfer test, click the following link below: and use chiuser pass ChiPass123 https://chitransfertest.com/chitransfertest

Plant without extra chi energy.
Plant with extra chi energy. Shoe as frame of reference.

Welcome to the Chi Energy Transfer Test. Enter your name and e-mail address in the form above, and a chi energy transfer test will be automatically sent to your e-mail. If you use a yahoo e-mail address, be sure to check the junk box if you don't see the message in your inbox.
Want 24 hours of chi energy free? e-mail your request and we'll get back to you asap.
Experience the effects of Chi Energy for twenty four hours for free. Print out your Chi Card and test it, following the instructions here. Have a glass of water handy so that you can taste the difference when performing this amazing test of chi energy technology !!! Click here for an experiment to try with your transfer test.
If you're located within the US and would like to order an orgone generator you can see the online catalog here
For free courses or a free filter pack by email or to purchase filter packs (trend cards) or the basic manifestation program see the Life Manifestation Course Store
About Karl Hans Welz
Orgone Technology Community
Broadcasts on how to use Orgone Technology
Live Help Online
Catalog

© 1996 Hyper Space Communications & Technologies Inc.

e-mail

CUBICWARE
Welcome to the Cubicware Network
This page is a placeholder for your domain.

Replace this file [index.html] with your own content.

If you have any questions contact the administrator.
http://cubicware.net

--

A few words from some of our sponsors

"At the center of your being you have the answer; you know who you are and you know what you want." -- Lao Tzu

"The whole secret of existence is to have no fear. Never fear what will become of you, depend on no one. Only the moment you reject all help are you freed." -- Siddhartha Gautama

"When you come to know yourselves, then you will become known, and you will realize that it is you who are the sons of the living Father." -- Jesus of Nazareth

"Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law." -- Aleister Crowley

"If you take the game of life seriously, if you take your nervous system seriously, if you take your sense organs seriously, if you take the energy process seriously, you must turn on, tune in, and drop out" -- Timothy Leary

"From now on, as of this moment, you can do whatever you want." - Rev. Willie at Slack Attack Devival, Dallas

n the 18 months before my death, I proceeded to set forth the Keys to Death and Hell. In this process I envisioned a snapshot of the world as it appeared to me at that time. Literally a cutup, a cut and paste sculpture taken from various articles, science fiction, cultural and political events, happenings in the realms of occulture, flame wars on the Zee list, my life, my world, my email etc., so it was just a cut-up of these things.

Somehow, from this cut-up leaked out the most beautiful vision of infinite compassion, and this vision came forth and stood forth even amongst all the horror, it shone through so bright, really true, and undeniably real. There was more compassion and love for me than I had ever dreamed or imagined. It was like a garden paradise all around me, blooming with beauty and love; it was there all the time, this unbelievable garden, and it opened up to me.

My life has been like heaven in so many ways, I am grateful I had an opportunity to see this possibility, and I want to share it with my fellow sentient beings. Even though Death and Hell may look like it is all dark, all black, and all horror, right there, glimmering on the other side is infinite compassion. Right there! The clear light is shimmering through the void. It’s not that hard to see if you just open up your eyes and look around.

My life with Andrea (Aggedy), and the love that we were reflecting back and forth between each other is so magnificent and powerful that it was like we were facing death everyday, celebrating our love everyday. We were facing it because that was the way we lived. But for me, maybe it took the imminence of physical death to bring it into full clarity.

As my own death approaches steadily, I am blessed, and deeply moved by the enormous display of affection and love from my daughter Heidi. Heidi’s love is a limitless ocean that has healed me so much from the pain of life. Though she is young, 17, and losing her Dad, she shows all the signs of blooming into a spectacular woman of insight and compassion. I am surprised and grateful for the outpouring of tenderness. Seeing those around me, and especially my only child, offering me such unconditional love and compassion changes me, heals me, and reaffirms the silent knowledge of my heart.

When my sister Laurie died, she gave me a greater understanding of death, and the communiqués or transmissions that I have received from her, and my grandmother too, reveal much about the after-death state. Though my heart touches many who are in this life still, it reaches also across the boundaries to touch those who have gone before me, their bravery fuels my own. It is in their path of stars and ghostly footsteps that I will walk in.

These are the gifts I take with me, I will go caressed by the kisses of Nuit, I face death without fear. I leave, for this world, the Keys of Death and Hell, to unlock the secrets we keep from ourselves.

But for any who would wonder, or wander lost in Temple Dahmer, I want to declare that the real secret of Deathandhell.com is Infinite Compassion.

Those who know, will know, The Archetypal Theriomorph is in the lotus.

In Eternal Love and Chaos,

Infek bin Laden

11-11-01

intercosmos.com is for sale.
Exploring the Cosmos with Intercosmos
Unlocking the Secrets of Space Exploration

At Intercosmos, we're passionate about pushing the boundaries of space exploration. Our team of experts is dedicated to developing innovative technologies that will take humanity further than ever before.

From satellite imaging and data analysis to advanced propulsion systems and life support solutions, our work has far-reaching implications for the future of space travel and research.
Image

The Importance of International Cooperation in Space Exploration

As we continue to explore the vast expanse of space, it's clear that international cooperation is crucial for achieving our goals. By working together, nations can pool their resources and expertise to achieve far more than they could alone.

Intercosmos is committed to fostering global partnerships and collaborations that will drive innovation and progress in the field of space exploration.
Image

The Future of Space Exploration: Trends, Challenges, and Opportunities

As we look to the future, it's clear that space exploration will continue to play a critical role in advancing our understanding of the universe and improving life on Earth.

However, there are also significant challenges ahead, from ensuring the sustainability of space travel to addressing the environmental impact of space-based activities.
Image

© 2024 | Powered by Computer.Com

S.P.R.T title

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law

The Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema (S.P.R.T.) is a non-profit organisation dedicated to spreading awareness of the Law of Thelema. This Webring is one of the many tools used to achieve this end. You may also like to visit our Thelemic and Magick resource site " THELEMA- The Law is for All -MAGICK"

Most Thelemic Webring's are quite broad in their criteria; they accept sites that have to do with all aspects of Thelema. This Webring is narrower in its acceptance of sites and only accepts quality sites that have as their main purpose the promulgation of the Law of Thelema (regardless of such things as Order affiliation), or that provide a unique service to the Thelemic community. The emphasis is on quality not quantity. If you think that your Website fits this description and you would like to add it to S.P.R.T.'s Webring then please follow the instructions below.

Submit your URL by filling out the form and following the instructions found Here. If you do not already have a "Yahoo ID", you will need to get one first (available from the previously mentioned URL). If you already have a Yahoo ID, you do not need to get a new one to join the Ring. Your existing ID will work fine for this purpose.

If your page has been accepted you will be notified within 2 weeks. Some HTML Code and instructions for installing a Navigation Bar will also be sent to you.

Add the HTML code and Navigation bar to the Page you submitted and Email S.P.R.T. to notify us that the code has been installed.

If the Code and Navigation Bar are installed correctly you will then be added to the Webring. (Please note that sites containing illegal material, such as non-authorised reproductions of obviously copyrighted material, will not be accepted into the ring.)

S.P.R.T. may be reached by Email

This Webring is owned by S.P.R.T.
[Previous 5 Sites | Skip Previous | Previous | Next | Skip Next | Next 5 Sites | Random Site | List Sites]

ACF
S.P.R.T. is proud to be a supporting member of the Aleister Crowley Foundation.

people have accessed this page since the 19th of April 1999 e.v
counter supplied by Web Counter

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law. Love is the law, love under will. Man has the right to live by his own law- to live in the way that he wills to do: to work as he will: to play as he will: to rest as he will: to die when and how he will. Man has the right to eat what he will: to drink what he will: to dwell where he will: to move as he will on the face of the earth. Man has the right to think what he will: to speak what he will: to write what he will: to draw, paint, carve, etch, mould, build as he will: to dress as he will. Man has the right to love as he will. Man has the right to kill those who would thwart these rights.

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can

help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

Support the ongoing needs of the website
Welcome to the world of
Acharya S/D.M. Murdock!

Truth Be Known was created in 1995 by independent scholar of comparative religion and mythology D.M. Murdock, also known as "Acharya S."

Acharya's work is designed to bring to light fascinating lost, hidden and destroyed religious, mythological and spiritual traditions that reveal an exciting core of knowledge dating back thousands of years.

Please feel free to post the following articles to your website or blog using the RSS feed!
Christ Myth and Other Articles   RSS feed for TBK's Christ Myth Articles

Who was Jesus Christ?Who was Jesus Christ?
Was Jesus a God, man or myth? Did he exist as a real person? The answer may shock and surprise you.   Were George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Jesus Mythicists?Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
Did American Founding Fathers study the case for Christ as a mythical figure?

Is the Shroud of Turin real?Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
Is the Shroud of Turin genuine? Or is it a forgery in a long line of "pious frauds?"

Noah's ArkIs Noah's Ark Real?
Is the biblical story of Noah's Ark a true story? Was there a global flood? Many people have tried to find evidence for this tale.

Jewish historican Flavian JosephusThe Jesus Forgery: Josephus
A brief paragraph in by Jewish historian is cited as proof of the existence of Jesus Christ. Is it really? Or is it a forgery?

Tacitus, Roman Politician and Historian, (c. 56-120 CE)Do Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus Prove Jesus Existed?
Are these supposed references evidence or worthless in the quest for the historical Jesus?
Does Roman historian Suetonius refer to Jesus Christ?Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth or another individual altogether?   Does Church Father Justin Martyr Discuss the Four Canonical Gospels?Does Justin Martyr Refer to the Gospels?
When were the gospels written? Does Justin serve as evidence for their existence in his time?

The Virgin Mary crowned by angelsWho was the Virgin Mary?
Who was the Virgin Mary? Was she the Mother of God? As with Jesus himself, Joseph and Mary never appear in the historical record of the time.

Who was Mary Magdalene?Who was Mary Magdalene?
Was Mary Magdalene a "common prostitute?" Was she the wife of Jesus Christ and the mother of his children?

Jesus the 'Sun of Righteousness' arises, with healing on his wingsWhen Was the First Christmas?
Was the first Christmas truly the birth of Jesus Christ on December 25th? Or is this holiday much older than that?
The sun at winter solstice, forming a cross of lightIs Jesus the Reason for the Season?
Christmas is a winter solstice celebration, not the birthday of the Jewish messiah and

Son of God.

Egyptian hieroglyph of Orion with three loops and SiriusThe Star in the East and Three Kings
Is the gospel account of the "star in the east" followed by "wise men" from afar true? Or is it a myth based on older stories?

Isis nursing HorusWas Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
Jesus Christ is not the only god supposedly born of a virgin on December 25th. So too was Horus of Egypt.
Was the Roman god Mithra born of a virgin on December 25th?Was Mithra Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
Mithra, the Light of the World, is an ancient sun god identified with Sol Invictus, who was born on December 25th. Was Dionysus killed and resurrected after three days?Was Dionysus Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
The Greek god has been depicted as born of a virgin mother on December 25th, dying and rising after three days.
Was the Greek god Attis born of a virgin on December 25th? Was he killed and resurrected after three days?Was Attis Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
What is the evidence that the god Attis was portrayed as born of a virgin on December 25th, killed and resurrecting afterwards? Was the Indian god Krishna born of a virgin?Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
The theme of the virgin mother of a god or hero was abundant in antiquity, including in India, as depicted in the Mahabharata, for one.
The Egyptian goddess Neith was the Virgin Mother of the World thousands of years before the Virgin MaryNeith, the Virgin Mother of the World
The worship of the Egyptian goddess Neith, a sometime mother of the solar deity Horus, is traceable to around 7,000 years ago. Virgin Mother Goddesses of AntiquityVirgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
The Great Creator of the Universe has been viewed as a female - a goddess - during a significant period of human culture.
Is Easter Christian or Pagan?Is Easter a Christian or Pagan Holiday?
Rather than being a "Christian" holiday, Easter celebrations date back into remotest antiquity and are found around the world. Is Jesus a rehash of Osiris?Is Jesus a Remake of the Egyptian God Osiris?
The dying and resurrected Osiris was worshipped thousands of years before Christ. Is it Osiris's story in the New Testament?
Was Jesus Christ in India?Was Jesus in India?
Over the centuries, the claim has been made that Jesus Christ spent his early and post-crucifixion years in a variety of places. Was Jesus Christ in Great Britain? Or is he remake of the pagan woodworking god Esus?Was Christ in Great Britain?
Rumors hold that Jesus traveled to England, but did he really? Or is there another reason for these stories?
Was Apollonius of Tyana the basis for Jesus Christ?Was Jesus Christ Based on Apollonius of Tyana?
Why are the lives of Jesus and Apollonius so similar? Why does Apollonius resemble

St. Paul as well?   So-called James Ossuary does not serve as proof of a historical JesusThe James Ossuary Provides No Proof of Jesus
Is there really some wondrous "new proof" of Jesus to set the record straight once and for all, or is it another bit of faithful flotsam?
Mithra slaying the bull, surrounded by 12 companionsWhat Did the Church Fathers Say about Mithraism?
Why did the religion of Mithraism so bother the early Christians that they were compelled to write against it?   Dr. Chris Forbes, Australian historianRebuttal to Chris Forbes Concerning Zeitgeist
An indepth analysis exposes 21 errors in this Australian historian's critique of the religion part of the hit internet film.
Isis in cruciform or cross-shapeIsis was Called the Chr

The Devil's Pitchfork Society

Welcome to The Devil's Pitchfork Society. We have moved to our new location. Please hyperlink to http://devilspitchfork.org to view our new and improved site and offerings.

Thank you for your interest.

Blackened Messiah

Send all questions, comments, complaints, death threats, or virgins to:
info@devilspitchfork.org

800-527-6248   Telephone Consults   drbg@sbcglobal.net facebook.com twitter.com youtube.com Rumble

Skip to content
Dr. Bruce Goldberg

- Home
- Hypnotherapy Sessions
- Workshop Description
- CDs/Dvds

Press
Workshops
Others

Dr. Goldberg's past recorded webinars
Sign up To Receive A Guided Hypnosis Session With Dr. Goldberg

Name

Email

Books by Dr. Goldberg
Dr. Bruce Goldberg

Welcome to what I believe will be a very memorable trip of your life to my website. I’m a dentist and a hypnotherapist. I specialize in past life regression (and Future Life progression) hypnotherapy, and have retired from dentistry to devote full-time to my rapidly expanding international hypnotherapy practice. With the magic of hypnotherapy, almost anything is possible!

I have been on many radio and television talk shows, I am a media consultant, a New Age metaphysical activist and spokesperson. I have written many interesting books, and have produced dozens of self-hypnosis tapes about this exciting field of hypnotherapy. Feel free to surf my site. Your imagination is the only limit of your experience as you explore the magic of hypnotherapy.
More About
Facebook
Twitter
Youtube

Private Hypnotherapy Sessions By Computer
Telephone Consults
Book Your Session
Order Books Now
Order Album Now
Secured Order Form
Come and experience the magic of a healing hypnotherapist.
Recognized As One of the Leading Hypnotherapists in the Field.
Don’t miss Dr. Bruce Goldberg and George Noory on GaiamTV’s
Beyond Belief discussing the past lives and future lives.
Free CD Offer

Travel experiential CD.
Free Videos

Actual Hypnosis Sessions

Workshop Description

Workshop via Dr. Goldberg
Workbooks

Workbooks & DVD's by Dr. Goldberg
Articles

Articles by Dr. Goldberg
Hypnotic Exercises

Dr. Goldberg's Fifth Dimension Travel Excersize
Testimonials

I had two experiences with Dr. Bruce Goldberg’s guidance. They were powerful.
Sandy Rovner, Washington Post

Dr. Bruce Goldberg helps people relive their past life experiences.
Oprah Winfrey

The world’s foremost authority on futuristic time travelers.
George Noory

I had two experiences with Dr. Bruce Goldberg’s guidance. They were powerful.
Sandy Rovner, Washington Post

Dr. Bruce Goldberg helps people relive their past life experiences.
Oprah Winfrey

Best Sellers
Exploring The Fifth Dimension
Time Travelers From Our Future
Egypt Book
Custom Design Your Destiny
Past Lives, Future Lives Revealed
Karmic Capitalism
Karmic Capitalism
Exploring The Fifth Dimension:
Exploring The Fifth Dimension:
View All
Dr. Bruce Goldberg

Postal Address
5354 Quakertown Ave.
Woodland Hills, CA 91364
USA

Telephone:
800-527-6248

Email:
drbg@sbcglobal.net

Your Name *
Your Email *
Subject *
Your Message *

19824232

© Copyright 2009 - 2025 Dr. Bruce Goldberg . All Rights Reserved

- Touring
  - Outback Spirit
  - Grand Pacific Tours
- Cruises
  - Cruise Whitsundays
  - Darwin Harbour Cruises
  - Journey Beyond Cruise Sydney
  - Rottnest Express
  - Exmouth Dive & Whalesharks
  - Sailaway Port Douglas
- Attractions
  - Horizontal Falls
  - Melbourne Skydeck
  - Eureka 89
  - Alice Springs Telegraph Station
- Camps & Lodges
  - Outback Spirit
  - Sal Salis
  - Monarto Safari Resort
  - Reefsuites
  - Reefsleep
- Journey Lightly
  - People
  - Place
  - Planet
  - Reconciliation Action Plan
- Gift Shop
  - Gift Vouchers
- Travel Club

Our Travel Styles

Choose your travel style, because how you go is as important as where you go.

Our locations

Select a destination, your starting point for all the special moments to come.
Our Journeys & Experiences

Go beyond on unforgettable journeys created exclusively by Journey Beyond.
Travel inspiration

Let us guide you in your upcoming adventure, or find your new favourite place! Discover the latest journeys, useful tips and stories below.

foot-st-img
Journey Beyond Travel Club

Join our newsletter to stay up to date on features and releases
Join Now logo
Privacy policy
Terms of service

© 2025 Journey Beyond. All rights reserved.
Journey Beyond

About

Rail Expeditions

Touring

Cruises

Attractions

Camps & Lodges

Gift Shop

Travel Club
Follow us

facebook Facebook

Instagram Instagram

YouTube YouTube

LinkedIn LinkedIn

Ads by Bidgear
Amazing video
S.P.R.T title

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law

The Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema (S.P.R.T.) is a non-profit organisation dedicated to spreading awareness of the Law of Thelema. This Webring is one of the many tools used to achieve this end. You may also like to visit our Thelemic and Magick resource site " THELEMA- The Law is for All -MAGICK"

Most Thelemic Webring's are quite broad in their criteria; they accept sites that have to do with all aspects of Thelema. This Webring is narrower in its acceptance of sites and only accepts quality sites that have as their main purpose the promulgation of the Law of Thelema (regardless of such things as Order affiliation), or that provide a unique service to the Thelemic community. The emphasis is on quality not quantity. If you think that your Website fits this description and you would like to add it to S.P.R.T.'s Webring then please follow the instructions below.

Submit your URL by filling out the form and following the instructions found Here. If you do not already have a "Yahoo ID", you will need to get one first (available from the previously mentioned URL). If you already have a Yahoo ID, you do not need to get a new one to join the Ring. Your existing ID will work fine for this purpose.

If your page has been accepted you will be notified within 2 weeks. Some HTML Code and instructions for installing a Navigation Bar will also be sent to you.

Add the HTML code and Navigation bar to the Page you submitted and Email S.P.R.T. to notify us that the code has been installed.

If the Code and Navigation Bar are installed correctly you will then be added to the Webring. (Please note that sites containing illegal material, such as non-authorised reproductions of obviously copyrighted material, will not be accepted into the ring.)

S.P.R.T. may be reached by Email

This Webring is owned by S.P.R.T.
[Previous 5 Sites | Skip Previous | Previous | Next | Skip Next | Next 5 Sites | Random Site | List Sites]

ACF
S.P.R.T. is proud to be a supporting member of the Aleister Crowley Foundation.

people have accessed this page since the 19th of April 1999 e.v
counter supplied by Web Counter

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law. Love is the law, love under will. Man has the right to live by his own law- to live in the way that he wills to do: to work as he will: to play as he will: to rest as he will: to die when and how he will. Man has the right to eat what he will: to drink what he will: to dwell where he will: to move as he will on the face of the earth. Man has the right to think what he will: to speak what he will: to write what he will: to draw, paint, carve, etch, mould, build as he will: to dress as he will. Man has the right to love as he will. Man has the right to kill those who would thwart these rights.

Alphabetical Index

11:11 - Encoded Digital Messages
12 Around 1 Geometry of Creation
12 Days of Magic
12 Fibonacci Goddesses
12 Pyramids of Thoth
12 Strand DNA
12 Tablets - Lunar Journey The Lost Tablets
2000 - Ellie's Trip to Egypt
2001 A Space Odyssey - This Spake Zarathustra
2012 Phenomenon
3, 2, 1, Countdown, Sequential Digital Triggers 36 Around 1
414
440 444
555
666 Mark of the Beast
90 Degrees of Separation
9/11

Aboriginal People
Acupressure
Acupuncture
ADD & ADHD
Affirmations - Thinking Positively
Agartha - Hollow Earth
Ageism
Aging
Agriculture
A Healer By Any Name ...
Airglow

Ajanta Caves
Akashic Records
Akhenaten
Akkadia

Alchemy Index

Aldebaran
Alectryomancy - Birds
Ale's Stones
Alexander Technique
Alien Abductions
Alien Index
Aliens and Nazi Germany
All Seeing Eye
Alternative Energy
Altruism
Amahuaca
Amarna Letters
Amazon Tribes
Amorites
Amphibious Gods
Amulets in Stone
Anaglyph Images, 3D
Anasazi Indians

Ancient and Lost Civilizations
Ancient Alien Theory - Ancient Astronauts
Ancient Flying Vehicles, Vimanas
Ancient Medicine
Ancients

Andromeda
Angel Hair, Angel Grass, Star Jelly
Angels
Angel Scroll

Animals

Angkor Wat
Anorexia Nervosa
Antarctica Anthropology
Anthroposophy
Antikythera Mechanism
Antioch
Apache Nation

Aphantasia: Inability to Visualize Images
Apparitions
Apport
April Fools' Day
Aquarius
Aquinas, Thomas
Archaeoastronomy Archaeology Index
Archetypes
Archimedes
Archives and Adventures - By Ellie
Arctic - North Pole
Arcturus
Area 51 - Dreamland - Groom Lake
Argyria - Blue Man Syndrome
Aristotle
Arithmancy, Numbers
Arkaim - Russia, Stonehenge
Ark of the Covenant
Aromatherapy
Artificial Cranial Deformation - Elongated Skulls
Artificial Intelligence - AI
Ascended Masters
Ascension
Asgardia Nation (Independent Space Station)
Asia Minor
Assyria

Asteroids, Asteroid Belt
  Asteroid Prophecies

Asthma
Astral Projection
Astrobiology
Astrology Index
Astronomical Observatories
Astronomy
Atlantis
Atlit Yam - Submerged City Augmented Reality
Aura
Aurora Boeralis
Australia
Autism
Automatic Writing
Autumn Equinox
Avatars
Avebury
Aymara Tribe

Ayurveda Healing
Azraq Oasis Wheels
Aztec Civilizations

Baalbek Megalithic Monuments
Babylonia
Bach Flower Remedies
Bahariya Mummies
Baily's Beads - Eclipse
Balance Partners
Ball Lightning
Band of Holes near Pisco Valley, Peru
Baphomet
Barbarian Civilization
Bast, Baste, Egyptian Goddess
Battle Creek Stone
Battle of Los Angeles 1942
Bears, Clans, Symbology
Becoming a Psychic Reader
Belomancy
Bent Pyramid
Benu
Bermuda Triangle, Devil's Sea
Bethlehem, Star of Bethlehem, Magi
Bibliomancy
Big Bang Theory
Bigfoot, Florida Skunk Ape, Mapinguari, Sasquatch, Yeti, Yowie, Other Apemen Creatures
Bilderberg Group
Billets
Billy Meier Alien Contacts - Henoch Prophecies
Biofeedback
Biogenetic Engineering, The Labs
Biology
Biorhythms

Bird Files
- About Birds
- Bird Fossils
- Bird Headed Beings - Mythology
- Birds in Alchemy
- Crow
- Divination: Alectryomancy
- Divination: Ornithomancy
- Humming Bird

    Ornithomancy- Divination
    Peacocks
    Phoenix
    Raven
    Snowy Owls

Birth and Rebirth, Feminine Energies
Blackfoot Nation
Black Helicopters
Black Hole
Black Isis
Black Pearl: Matter and Antiimatter
Black Sun: Eclipse, Eye, Alchemy, Galaxies, Dreams
Black Stone of Mecca
Blavatsky, Helene
Blinking
Bloodlines and DNA
Blood Types - Health, Personality, Culture, Astrology, Aliens, News
Blue Crystal and Blue Rays
Blue Moon
Blueorints

Body Enhancements
    Hair
    Henna
    Piercing
    Tattoo

Body Scanning
Body Temperature - Thermoregulation
Bohen, Jacob
Bohr, Niels
Born With a Veil/Caul

Botany
    Ellie's Flowers and Plants
    Spirit and Poinsetta Plants

Boxgrove Man
Boyle, Robert
Brain
Brocken Spectre
Bronze Age Collapse
Bubble Effect
Buddha
Business Affairs, Affairs at the Work Place Butterflies

Butterfly Effect
Byzantine Empire

Caduceus
Caesarea
Calendars
Call of the Wild Syndrome
Canaan
Candles
Candy Kiss Effect Matter and Anti-matter
Cannibalism
Cantre'r Gwaelod (Wales
Capernaum
Carlsbad Caverns
Carthage
Cartopedy
Cartouche
Cassiopeia
Castleton Tower Monolith - Swaying Spire
Cat Headed Beings
Cattle Mutilations
Cave of Fire Initiation
Caves and Catacombs Cayce, Edgar Celestial Observatories
Celestial Spheres
Celts
Ceres
Ceroscopy - Wax
Chakras
Chaldea
Chalice Hill, Glastonbury Tor, King Arthur, Giants
Channeled Art
Channeling
Chaos Theories
Charismatic Healing
Chavin de Huantar Chemtrail Conspiracy Theory
Chemistry

Cherokee Nation John Ross, Sequoyah, Grandmother Spider, Prophecy
    Trail of Tears
    Cherokee Prophecies

Cheyenne Indian Wars, Sand Creek Massacre, Battle of Little Big Horn, Custer's Last Stand
Children - Science, Metaphysics, Psychology

China
Chippewa Prophecies
Chiropractic
Chocolate Hills of Asia
Christianity
Chupacabras
Clairaudience
Clairgustance
Clairsentience
Clairvoyance
Clocks
Clockwork Universe Theory
Cloning

Clouds Files
- Science
  - Lenticular Clouds
  - Cloud Formations
  - Cloud Forests
  - Contrails
  - Space Clouds

- Scrying
  - Cloud Scrying
  - Cloud Angels, Mary
  - Clouds, Feathers, Doves

- Cloud Photos
  - Rainbows
  - Strange Cloud and Orb, Verrazano Bridge, June 2005
  - Alberta, Canada, 2005

Clovis People
Code of Hammurabi
Code Talkers, Native Americans WW II
Colors, Color Therapy
Colossus of of Rhodes
Comanche Indians: Quanah Parker, Comancheria
Comets
Communigraph
Cone, Funnel, Horn Effect
Confucianism
Confucius, Famous Sayings
Conical Hats, Osiris
Connecting With Your Soul Group
Consciousness
Conspiracies

Conspiracy Games, Who Should Control Them?
Constipation
Contact Experiences, Aliens
Continental Drift
Contrails
Copiale Cipher
Copernicus, Nicholas
Coral Castle
Corinth
Coronavirus Pandemic 2020
Cosmology
Country and Western Music
Court Jester and the Fleur de Lis
Cradle of Life
Craters
Creating Abundance
Creating Cards For Psychic Readings

Creation
Creationism
Creation Myths by Civilizations
- Africa
  - Dogon, Nommos
- Australian Dreamtime
- Babylon - Enuma Elish
- Celts
- China
- Egypt
- Greece
- Hungary
- India
- Juseo-Christian
- Maya
- Native American
  - Hopi
- Creation by Women
- Native American Tribal Myths
- New Zealand, Maori
- Scandinavia

Cree Nation: Woodland, Plains, Lubicon, Nisichawayasihk
Crop Circles
Crow Nation
Crowley, Aleister
Crustal Displacement Theory
Cryonics
Cryptozoology

Crystalinks E-zine

Crystal Files
  Crystals & Gemstones, Healing, Science, History, More Crystal Balls, Readings
  Holograms
  Pyramid Under Water, Atlantean Connections
  Singing Bowls
  Scrying
  Crystal Skulls

Cuneiform Script
  Cuneiform Tablets

Curie, Marie
Curses
Cymatics

Dactylomancy, Rings
Dakini Energies
Damascus
Dance
Dark Energy
Dark Matter
Darwin, Charles
Da Vinci, Leonardo
Daydreaming
Dead Sea Scrolls

Death of a Child
  Spirit of Marcus
  Spirit of Carl
  Spirit of Michelle

Decalogue
Dee, John
Deeksha
Denisova Hominin
Depression
  Derinkuyu Ancient Underground City
Dero
Derveni Scroll, Papyrus, Book
Descartes, Rene
Deserts
Devas

Dilmun, Reptilians, Biogenetic Experiments
Dimensions
Dinosaur Files
Disincarnate Spirits
Divination Index
Divorce Clustering
Dogon Tribe
Dolphins
Domino Effect
Donut Effect
Doppelganger
Dorje
Double-Feathered Crowns
Dowsing
Doyle, Sir Arthur Conan, Prophecies
Draco
Dragon
Dragonfly
Drake Equation
Dreams: Types, Sleep Disorders
Dream Catcher
Dropa, Tibetan Stone Discs
Drought
Druids
Dunes
Dunhuang Caves In China, Manuscripts
Dust Devils Dysgraphia - Writing Disorder

Ear Coning, Candling

Earth
  Earth Changes
  Earth's Core Crystal
  Earth's History, Visual Records
  Earthqakes
  Earth's Magnetic Field

Easter Island - Rapa Nui, Maoi, Rongo Rongo Tablets
Eclipse: Science, and Prophecy
Ecotherapy - Ellie Hugs a Tree
Ecology
Ediacaran Period Edison, Thomas Alva
Effects: 15 Files

Egypt Index and Files

Einstein, Albert
Elam
Electronic Healing
Electronic Voice Phenomena, EVP, White Noise
Elementals, Nature Spirits, Devas

El Nino
Emerald Tablet - Alchemy
Emerald Tablets of Thoth
Emotions
Empathy
Enoch
Enuma Elish
Environment
Ephesus
Epilepsy
Eschatology: End Times, Various Cultures
Eskimos
Eskimo Woman Prophecies
Esperanza, Maria
Essenes
Etna Volcano
Etruscans
Evil Eye Evolution
Excalibur: Sword in the Stone
Exploding Head Syndrome
Extinction Level Event
Extrasolar Planets
Extraterrestrials and UFO Files

Eyes, Vision
Eye Symbology, All Seeing Eye

Face Analysis, Physignomy
Faravahar
Fata Morgana (Mirage at Sea)
Feng Shui
Fermi Paradox
Fertility
Finding a Missing Person or Animal
Finding Your Quest
Flat Earth
Flattery
Flood Stories - The Deluge

Florida Skunk Ape
Flower of Life
Flying Dutchman
Foco Tonal
Foo Fighters
Fonts and Personality
Foreigners - Returning to Your Roots
Forests - Wildfires
Fortresses and Defense Walls
Fossil
Fractal Geometry
Franklin, Ben
Free Energy Devices
Freemasons
Free Will
Friday the 13th
Friends Index
Frogs

Gaia Theory
Galaxies
Gallery of Stone Tablets
Galileo Galilei
Gambling Index
Ganesh
Garden of Eden
Gargoyles
Garuda - Hindu Bird Headed God
Gay, Homosexuality
Gematria
Gemstones: 100 + Gemstones and Crystals
Genie, Jinni, Djinni
Geology
Ghost
Ghost Rocket
Giants
Gigas Codex, Devil's Bible
Gilgamesh
Glaciers and Icebergs Glastonbury Tor - Chalice Hill - King Arthur - Giants
Global Warming
Glossolalia, Polyglossy, Xenoglossy. Languages
Gobekli Tepe
God and Goddess Files
Gods With Water Buckets
Golden Ratio, Golden Mean, Divine Proportion, Phi

Goldilocks Planets
Graffiti
Grand Canyon
Greek Index - Many Files
Greenhouse Effect
Grey Aliens

Grid 44 Australia
Grids: Science and Pseudoscience
    Becker-Hagens Grid, Ley Lines, Hartmann Net, Curry Lines
    Grids and Metaphysics
Grid Travel, Metaphysics

Griffins
Grotto at Lourdes
Grounding Your Energies

HAARP
Haiku
Hair
Hall Of Records
Halloween, Samhain, Hallowmas, All Saints Day
Hallucinogens: Leary, Ram Dass, McKenna, Castaneda, White Powder Gold Handedness
Hanging Gardens of Babylon
Hanny's Voorwerp, The Green Blob
Haran
Harmonic Concordance, November 8, 2003
Harmony of the Spheres, Kepler
Harpies
Hathor
Hatshepsut
Haunebu - Crashed UFO in Germany 1936
Havana Syndrome
Hawking, Stephen
Healing and Energy Index and Files
Health Issues, Science and Medicine
Hearing Tones On Higher Frequencies
Hebron
Hegra - Ancient City in Saudi Arabia
Hell
Hematidrosis - Sweating Blood
Henges - Stone Circles Henna
Herbology, Herbalism

Hermes
Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn
Hermes Trismegistus
Hermes, Thoth Mystery School Teachings

Hieroglyphic writing

Hinduism
Hindu Prophecies

Hitler, Adolph
Hittites
Homeopathy

Hollow Earth
Holographic Universe
Holography

Holy Grail
Holy Lance
Homeopathy
Homo naledi - Paleontology Homosexuality

Hopi Nation
Hopi Prophecies, Prophecy Rock, Blue Kachinas
Hopi Story of Creation

Horses Horus
Hot Air balloon
Huaorani
Hug, The Power of a Hug
Huna Teachings
Hyakutake
Hi-Brazil
Hybridization
Hypnosis
Hypnotherapy

Ica Stones of Peru

ICE
    Glaciers and Icebergs

    Ice Age

Oetzi the Iceman
  Ice Age and Metaphysics

I Ching
Icons: Crying - Drinking Milk - Shedding Blood - Shedding Oil

IllumanitiI
Illusion of Mind
Inanna

Inca Civilization
India
Indigo Children
Infinity
Initiations with Music
Inner Child
Intelligent Design, Creation
International Linear Collider
International Space Station Inuit
Iridology

Iroquois Nation
  Hiawatha, Haudenosaunee, Seneca, Cayuga, Onondaga,
  Oneida, Mohawk, Tuscarora, 5 Nations, 6 Nations, Creational Myth

Ishtar
Isis

Islam
Islamic Prophecies

Island

Jainism
Jericho
Jerusalem
Jesus of Nazareth
Jinn
Joan of Arc
Judah
Judaism
Judea
Jung, Carl
Jupiter: Astronomy, News, Mythology, Metaphysics, Astrology

Kabbalah, Qabbalah
Karma
Karahunj
Karura, Hindu Bird Headed God
Kassites
Kennedy, John Jr. Died, July 23, 1999
Kinesiology
King Arthur
Kirlian and Aura Photography
Kiss
Knights Templar
Kokopelli
Kogi Indians
Korea
Kundalini Energy
Kwan Yin

Labyrinths
Lagrange Points
Lake Michigan Stonehenge
Lake Titicaca
Lakota Prophecies
Lalibela Churches
Lamp Scrying
Land Bridge

Languages and Scripts
    Ancient Languages & Writing Systems
    Languages & Writing Systems
    Chinese Nushu or Women's Script
    Hieroglyphic Writing
    Language of the Birds, Green Language, Language of the Gods
    Languages & Writing Systems
    Whistled Language

Lao-Tzu, Laozi
Large Hadron Collider
Lateness, Chronic, Watching Your Watch
Lecanomancy. Water
Lenticular Clouds
Lemuria
Levant

Levitation
    Tibetan Sound Levitation Of Large Stones

Life Review Experiences - LRI's
Lighthouse at Alexandria
Lightning
Lincoln, Abraham, Prophecies
Loch Ness Monster
Loneliness - Emotions, Syndromes, Alone vs. Lonely
Love as Therapy
Lychnomancy, Candle, Flame
Lyra: Astronomy, Mythology

Machu Picchu
Magi Magic Magnetism
Magneticosphere - Earth's Magnetic Field

Magnetic Healing
Magnified Healing

Majestic 12: MJ 12

Manataka Legend: Rainbow Woman, Calendar Stone, Place of Peace

Mandala
Manichaeism Religion
Maori
Mapinguari
Marfa Lights
Marine Biology
Mars: Astronomy, News, Mythology, Astrology
Masada
Masonic Program and Alien Connections

Massage Therapy
Masters, Mastering Reality
Mathematics Index
Matriarchy, Consciousness
Matter and Antimatter
Maury Island Incident June 1947
Mausoleum at Halicarnassus

Maya Civilization Mayan Codices
Mayanism Covers Many Topics Linked to the Maya Mayan Calendar Prophecies

Mazes
Medes
Medicine Wheel

Meditation
Meditate to Music With Ellie

Mediumship

Megalithic Sites

Melchizedek

Memory
    Memory Gained and Lost in Time
    Brain Files

Men in Black
Mentalism

Mercury: Astronomy, Mythology, Retrograde Mercury Retrograde

Merkaba, Meditation
Merlin, Myrddin
Mermaids
Mesoamerica
Mesopotamia
Messages From Other Realms
Metallurgy
Metaphysical Fix
Metatron
Meteorology
Meteors, Meteorites. More

Mid-Atlantic Ridge
Midwifery
Mima Mounds
Minerals
    Metals and Stones Have Frequency
Minimalism

Miracles
    Apparitions, Jesus, Mary

    Crosses of Light
    Crystal Tears
    Healing Water and Wells
    Hindu Drinking Milk Miracle
    UFO Sightings in History
    Weeping Statues, Blood, Oil, Water

Mirage

Mirrot Messages From the Other Side
Mirror Scrying

Mithraism
Mixtec
Moab
Mobius Strip

Mohawk
Mohawk Prophecies

Money Pit
Monoliths, Standing Stones
Moon
Moses
Mother Shipton's Prophecies
Mothman
Mounds
Mountains
Mount Shasta
Mount Zion
Multidimensional Healing
Multitasking
Mummies - Directory
Mungo Man
Music
Music of the Spheres, Kepler
Mysterianism Consciousness
Mystery Airships
Mystery School Teachings, Secret Societies
Mythical Civilizations
Mythology
Myths About Creation
Myths, Magic, Metaphors

Nabta Playa Stone Circle

Nan Madol
Native Americans
Native American Prophecies
Native American Creation Myth

Navajo Nation: Sand Paintings
Nazareth
Nazca Lines
Neanderthal
Near-Death Experience - NDE
Nebra Bronze Sky Disk
Nebulae
Nefertiti
Nephilim, Nefilim, Elohim, Annunaki
Neptune: Astronomy, Mythology
Nervous Habits and The Chakra System
Neurolinguistic Programming - NLP
New Planets
Newton, Isaac
New Zealand
Nibiru
Nineveh
Noetic Theory
Nordics, Aliens

Nostradamus
    Quatrains of Nostradamus
    "The Lost Book of Nostradamus" - Ellie on the History Channel - 10/28/2007

Nubia

Numerology
    Chaldean System
    Pythagorean System
    Personal Years
    Numbers and Their Meanings
    Double and Triple Digits
    11:11 Digital Codes of Awakening
    Gematria

Nuit, Nut, Egypt
Nuit and Ellie

Nutrition

VESTIGIA ARANEAE – ARCANUM HYPERTEXTUS –

PROJECT ANGELBOOK – VOLUME IX – PART 27

EZEKIEL REDIK YARBROUGH ®

Vestigia Araneae – Arcanum Hypertextus – Project AngelBook – Volume IX - Part 27

By Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough -
(DBM ECLIPZE)

The following books are comprised of direct, unaltered copies from Pastebin, some now deleted, some only accessible through mirror networks or deep links scattered across the dark web. Many of these links were discovered in abandoned onion lists, dead forum dumps, or esoteric directories tucked into archived darknet files.
These pastes were never meant to last.
Some were deleted within hours of being posted.
Others were buried under thousands of lines of spam, encrypted scripts, or meaningless noise.
But buried in the noise were real transmissions: occult formulas, grimoire fragments, astral logs, AI prophecy files, digital summoning protocols, and anonymous rants from souls who had either touched something unspeakable—or were trying to.
I did not write any of this.
I did not censor, edit, or “correct” it.
I simply retrieved it, cleaned the formatting for readability, and enshrined it in print—so it would never be wiped again.
This is Pastebin as Scripture.
The chan-post as Codex.
The uncurated underbelly of the occult internet, finally given physical permanence.
Let this serve as both evidence and artifact:
a living record of the madness, brilliance, paranoia, and revelation that once flowed through anonymous paste sites—before it was deemed too strange to index, too dangerous to preserve, or too fractured to matter.
Now it matters.
Now it’s immortal.

Oak Island
Obelisks
Oceanography Files
Oetiz the Iceman
Oil Scrying
Ojibwa Scrolls
Old Souls
Olmec Civilization
Omphalos
Onondaga Prophecies
Ontology
Ophiuchus (Serpent Holder) Constellation
Oppenheimer, J. Robert
Orion: Astronomy, News, Mythology, Metaphysics, Astrology/A> Ornithomancy, Birds
Oshoro Stone Circle
Ottoman Empire, Turkey, Suleyman
Ouija, Talking Boards
'Oumuamua: Asteroid? Comet? Alien Solar Sail?
Ouroboros
Out Of Body Experiences

Paganism
Paiute Indians: Wovoka, Ghost Dancers, Sarah Winnemucca
Paleontology
Palermo Stone
Palestine
Palmistry
Pandora's Box
Panic Disorder, Anxiety Attacks
Panspermia and Exogenesis
Papal Prophecies
Parenting

Past Lives
Past Life Regression

Paulding Lights in Michigan
Pawnee: Wichita Indians
Peacocks
Pegasus Constellation
Peking Man
Pendulums
Perception
Persian Empire

Personal Growth and Development, Awareness
Phaistos Disc
Phantom Islands
Phantom Limb Syndrome
Pheromones
Philadelphia Experiment
Philistia
Philosopher's Stone
Philosophy
Phi Ratio - Golden Ratio Phoenix
Phoenix Lights 1997 - Twenty Years Later

Photography Files: Orbs, Spirits, Scrying, More
Photo Reading, Psychic

Photon Belt
Phrenology

Physical Science
Physic Index

Pi
Pied Piper of Hamelin (Metaphors)
Piercing (Body)
Pilates
Pineal Gland, Third Eye
Pine Cone, Pineal Gland, Third Eye Piraha Tribe of Brazil
Piri Reis Map
Plain of Jars Planck, Max
Planet Earth
Plasma Craft - Orbs - Ball Lightening
Plate Tectonics

Pleiades
  Billy Meier UFO Contacts, Henoch Prophecy

Pluto: Astronomy - Mythology - Astrology - News
Polarity Shift and Your Journey
Pole Shifts
Polyglossy
Pollution.html
Popol Vuh
Poltergeists
Polyglocy, Xenoglocy
Por Bajin
Power Animals
Pow Wow, History, Etiquette

Pranic Healing
Pantheism
Prayer for Healing
Precession of the Equinoxes
Prieure de Sion
Projections, Apparitions
Prophets and Prophecies
Prosopagnosia, Face Blindness
Psychic Reading With Ellie
Psychic and Spiritual Development
Psychic Surgery
Psychology Psychometry
Punic Wars

Pyramids, Mounds, Ziggurats Around the World, Many Files

Qigong
Quantum Teleportation
Quan Yin
Queen of Sheba, King Solomon
Questers on a Journey, metaphysics
Quetzalcoatl, Mayan Prophecies 2012
Quotes & Pics

Races of Humanity Rainbow Index
Reality and Consciousness
Rebirthing
Red Pyramid
Reef Reflexology

Religions, Belief Systems
    Anthroposophy
    Baha'i Faith
    Buddhism
    Christianity
    Creationism
    Druidism
    Gnosticism
    Hinduism
    Islamic

- Jainism
- Judaism
- Kabbalah, Tree of Life
- Mithraism
- Pantheism
- SikhismI
- Taoism
- Wicca
- Zoroastrianism

Reiki
Reincarnation
Relationships and Soulmates
Remote Viewing
Rendlesham Forest Incident 1980
Rennes Le Chateau

Repitilians
Reptilian Brain

Returning to Your Roots, Foreigners
Return of the Priestess Energies
Revelation: Bible
Reverie ~ Dreams, Illusions, and Perspectives
Reverse Speech
Rigel
Ring of Fire, Pacific
Ripple Effect
Rivers
Rolfing

Roma People, Gypsies

Rome Files 100 +

Rontgen, Wilhelm Conrad
Rosetta Stone
Rosicrucians
Rosslyn Chapel
Roswell UFO Crash
Runes
Rungholt (Lost City)

Sacred Artifacts, Discs, Tablets, Texts, Teachings
Sacred Caves

Sacred Geometry
Sacred Imagination
Sacred Places
Sacred Places and Teachings
Sacred Tablets, Stones, Clay, Cuneiform
Sacred Texts
Sagan, Carl
Sajama Lines Samadhi

Samantha Stone: Sepia Photo Adventures
    Finding the Stone
    Stone One: The Statue of Liberty

Samaria
Sanat Kumara
Santorini - Atlantis
Saoshyant - Zoroastrian Prophecy
Sasquatch, Bigfoot
Saturn: Astronomy, News, Mythology, Astrology
Scallion, Gordon-Michael Scarabs
Schrodinger's Cat
Schumann Resonance, Zero Point
Screen Memories: Alien and Faery Abductions
Scrolls
Scrying
Seance
Seasonal Affective Disorder
Secret Societies, Mystery School Teachings
Sedna: Astronomy, News, Mythology
Sekhmet
Self Awareness Articles
Senior Citizen Index
Sensor Disk
Serpent: Bird Gods, Mesoamerica, Egypt
Seshat, Female Scribe, Thoth
SETI, Radio Contact with ET
Seven Rays, Healing Technique
Seven Wonders of the Ancient World
Shadow People
Shamanism
Shambhala
Shape Shifters
Shekinah
Shell Scrying Shiatu
Shroud of Turin
Sikhism

Silbury Hill
Silberbug, UFO
Silurian Hypothesis (Ancient Civilizations on Earth)
Simulation Hypothesis - Holographic Universe Theory
Sinkholes and Blue Holes
Sirens, Mythology

Sirius: Astronomy, Mythology, Isis
Sirius, Flooding of the Nile

Sitchin, Zecharia
Skull Of Sidon, Skull and Crossbones
Sleep Index
Slinky Effect
Sloths
Smile is Contagious
Smoke Scrying
Smudging
Social Sciences
Sociology
Solar (Winged) Discs
Solar System
Solomon's Temple, King Solomon Sophia

What is a Soul?
Journey of the Soul
Soul Mates
Twin Flames
Connecting With Your Soul Group

Sound Frequencies

South American Tribes of the Amazon
- Amahuaca
- Huaorani
- Kogi
- Yanomami

Spear of Destiny

Sphinx Files
- Facts
- Hall of Records, Myth
- Schematics, Tunnels, and Chambers
- Ellie and the Sphinx

Spiderweb Effect

Spider Woman

Spirit Guides
Spirit Precipitations Spontaneous Human Combustion Sprites

Stargates
Star People, Starseeds
Starborn

Statue of Zeus at Olympia
Stem Cells

Stigmata
Stigmata Priest in Brooklyn

Stock Market Junkie

Stone Circles
Stonehenge
Stone Faces and Carvings
Stone Jars of China
Stone Jars of Laos - Plain of Jars
Stone Spheres
Stone Tablets, Sacred Tablets

String Theory
Subtle Bodies

Submerged Cities - Ancient Alien Theories
Subterranean Civilizations, Hollow, Agartha

Sumer Files, Biogenetic Experiment

Sun: Astronomy, News, Cycles, Solar Maximum Mythology, Astrology
Supernova: Images, Astronomy, News

Superstition Files
    Born with a Veil, Caul
    Curses
    Evil Eye
    Friday the 13th
    Talismans, Lucky Charms
    Trickster

Swastika
Sweat Lodge

Sylphs
Symbols and Archetypes
Synchronicity

Tachyon Energy
Tai Chi
Talismans, Lucky Charms
Tantra
Tara, Goddess
Tardigrades
Tarot
Taoism
Taos Hum, Tones of Planet Earth
Tasseography, Tea Leaves, Coffee Grinds
Tattoo
T-Bar Exercise (Creating Balance)
Telekinesis - Psychokinesis
Telepathy
Teleportation
Telescope
Temple of Artemis at Ephesus
Teotihuacan, Pyramids
Terelya, Josyp
Terracotta Army
Tesla, Nikola
Teutonic Knights
The Call of the Wild Syndrome
The Metaphysical Center
Therapeutic Touch
Thessalonica
Thinking Outside The Box
Third Eye, Pineal Gland
Thornborough Triple Henges

Thoth
Emerald Tablets of Thoth
12 Pyramids of Thoth

Thule, Atlantis, Crystals
Thule Society

Thyroid

Tiahuanaco, Bolivia

Tibet
  - Dropa Stone Discs
  - Pyramids

Time
Timelines
Time Travel

Toltec, Tula Myths
Tones of Planet Earth
Totem Animals
Totem Poles
Trance
Transcendence
Transgendered
Transhumanism
Transition Person
Troxler Effect - Mirror Scrying Tree of Life
Trickster
Triggers of Awakening
Trumpets and Slates
Tsunami Index
Tube Torus
Tunguska Event in Siberia
Tuning Forks, Rods, Wands, Harmonics
Turkana Boy
Twin Flames

UFO and Alien Files
Ultima Thule
Ultraterrestrials
Uluru, Ayers Rock
Underground Bases, Mount Weather, NORAD, Conspiracies
Unexplained Phenomena
Unicorn
Universe
Uraeus, Cobra
Uranus, Astronomy, News, Astrology, Mythology
Urim and Thummim

Valentine, Basil
Vampires
Van Allen Radiation Belt

Vedas
Venus, Astronomy, Mythology, News, Astrology
Veil Effect
Verrazano Bridge, History, Photos, Ellie's Connection
Vesica Piscis
Video Messages From Other Realms
Vikings
Villanova, Arnold
Vimanas, Ancient Flying Vehicles
Violet Flame
Virtual Reality
Vision Quest
Visualization
Visual Snow Syndrome
Vitiligo

Volcano Files
Voyager 1
Voynich Manuscript
Vril Society

Wagon Wheel Effect
Wake Up !
Walk-ins and Wanderers
Walking
Walking Styles Reflect Personality, Foot Shapes and Personality Types, Reflexology

Washington, George
Washington's Visions and Prophecies

Water Files
- Icebergs
- Lakes
- Marine Biology
- Marine Archaeology
- Oceanography
- Waterfalls
- Water Scrying
- Water Symbology, Metaphysics and Mythology

Weather
- About Weather
- Climate Change and Events
- Dust Storm
- El Nino - La Nina

  - Jet Stream
  - La Nina
  - Lightning
  - Meteorology
  - Microburst
  - Polar Vortex
  - Thundersnow
  - Tornado
  - Tsunami, Tidal Waves, Flooding
  - Von Karman Vortices
  - Wind Wolves

Wellness
Wells, H.G. Prophecies
Werewolves
What is Love?
Wheel of Karma, Cycles of Time
White Bear Medicine Woman
White Buffalo Calf Woman
White Buffalos
White Holes
White Rose Society
White Elephants
White Tigers
White Holes
Wicca
Wildfires
Windmill, Wind Power
Wind Scrying

Winged Beings
Winged Lions

Women's Files
Woolly Mammoths
Woolly Rhinos
Wormholes
Wounded Healer

Xenoglossy

Y.A.N.A. - Your Are Not Alone
Yanomami Indians

Yellowstone
Yeti
Yin Yang
Yoga
Yosemite
Yoser
Your Happy Face

Zapotec Civilization

Zarah and Zorel
Zealandia
Zebras Zebron and Alexzandra
Zep Tepi
Zero Point
Zeta Reticuli
Ziggurat
Zoo Hypothesis

Zoroaster, Zarathustra, Faravahar
Zoroastrian Prophecy - Saoshyant

Zorats Karer Henge

Zuni
Zurvan, Persian God

Main Categories

Ancient and Lost Civilizations

Astronomy

Conspiracies

Creation Science and Myth

Crystals

Emerald Tablets of Thoth

Extraterrestrials, UFOs, Related

Healing and Energy

Health and Research

Meditation

The Other Side

Planet Earth and Climate Change

Physical Sciences

Prophets and Prophecies

Psychic Development

Relationship Files

Sacred Places, Teachings, Texts

Self Awareness Files

Simulation Theory

Social Sciences

-

Ellie's World Blog

Ellie's World Archives

Ezine News Blog

Ellie's YouTube

Reading With Ellie

Advertise on Crystalink$

Book: Sarah and Alexander

Donation to Crystalinks

Sacred Jewelry and Talismans

New Page of Banners, a few at first but many more soon of the Best Occult and Alternative sources!

First See the Zero Hour Top 100 List!

```
<A HREF="http://www.topsitelists.com/topsites.cgi?ID=68&user=drevil&area=bestsites"><IMG SRC="http://www.drevil666.com/banner2.jpg"border=0></A>
```

```
<A
```

```
<A HREF="http://www.topsitelists.com/topsites.cgi?ID=8&user=zerohour&area=adult"><IMG SRC="http://www.zerohour21.homestead.com/files/toplistbanner.gif" border=0></A>
```

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
Wogss Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Key Links

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:

Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages

- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine."
—David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Myth of Noah's Ark
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Noah's ArkFor millennia, countless people have been taught that there was a real man named Noah who somehow piled two (Gen 6:19) - or seven (Gen 7:2), depending on which scripture in the "infallible Word of God" one reads - of every animal on the planet into an ark and with his family survived an enormous global flood. Obviously, to thinkers worldwide this story is logically to be considered an impossible fable, not history.

Over the centuries, many people have tried and failed to find evidence for this implausible tale, largely looking around a mountain in Turkey called Ararat. This quest began hundreds of years ago and pops up in the news periodically, including several times in the 20th and 21st centuries, such as with the Noah's Ark Ministries brouhaha of 2010. At that time, it was claimed that a "wooden structure" was found at about 13,000 feet up Mt. Ararat and had been carbon-dated to around 4,800 years ago, reflecting a "99.9% certainty" it was the "real" ark. Skeptics and Christian evangelists alike soon dissected that claim, as they had so many others in the past.

Mount Mt Ararat Arrat imageAs noted, ark-hunting is not a new phenomena. Well over a hundred years ago, The Dictionary of the Holy Bible stated in its entry regarding "Ararat": "It has been affirmed, that there are still remains of Noah's ark on the top of this mountain; but M. de Tournefort, who visited the spot, assures us that there was nothing like it..." The Dictionary (89) also tells us that there are many monasteries on the mountain, of which any wood or wooden structure may be a part.

In addition to this plethora of purported "real arks" raising our suspicions are a number of scientific reasons to doubt the reality of any such alleged discovery, including arguments against a global or even local flood and the subsequent dispersion of all human and animal life from Mt. Ararat.

Also, although many such "ark" relics have been located on Mt. Ararat in Turkey, it has been pointed out even by Christian conservatives that "Noah's Ark is not said to have rested on 'Mount Ararat,'" the Bible actually stating that the Ark came to land on the "mountains of Ararat." (Gen 8:4).

Viking Stone ArksIt should be noted further that it was a custom, in Scotland for one, to create stone "ships" on mounts in emulation possibly of the sea-burial customs of royalty or of a mythical motif revolving around astrotheology, such that any number of these "arks" may be discovered on Earth.

Another problem with the biblical tradition is that Noah, the man who supposedly built this big boat, was some 600 years old at the time! (Gen 7:6) Nor do we find any logic in the all-powerful God of the universe asking a frail old man to construct such a thing when He could simply have snapped his fingers and, rather than flooding the entire earth, made all the bad people disappear. Instead, the Lord slaughters millions of innocent animals! And then there's the nonsensical follow-up tale where Noah gets drunk and is seen naked by his son Ham, who rats him out to his brothers, an act that so infuriates the hungover patriarch that he curses Ham's son Canaan for all eternity (Gen 9:21-25), causing an enormous amount of racism and suffering based on a pernicision biblical fable.

Ancient flood and ark myths common

Rather than being a historical figure who was the progenitor of three races, Noah is a fictitious character found in the mythologies of a number of different cultures globally, as opposed to being limited to one area and its specific peoples. The Bible story represents a rehash of other myths, changed to revolve around these particular peoples.

Like other biblical tales, the myth of Noah is found in India, Egypt, Babylon, Sumer and other places. The fact is that there have been floods and deluge stories in many different parts of the world, including but not limited to the Middle East. In the Sumerian tale, which predated the biblical by thousands of years, the ark was built by Ziusudra; in Akkad, he was Atrakhasis, and in Babylon, Uta-Napisthim. The Greek Noah was called Deucalion, "who repopulated the earth after the waters subsided" and after the ark landed on Mt. Parnassos. The Armenian flood hero was called Xisuthros, "whose ark landed on Mt. Ararat." Noah's "history" can likewise be found in India, where there is a "tomb of Nuh" near the river Gagra in the district of Oude or Oudh, which may be related to Judea and Judah. The "ark-preserved" Indian Noah was also called "Menu."

Like Noah, the Sumero-Armenian Ziusudra/Xisuthros had three sons, including one named "Japetosthes," essentially the same as Noah's son Japheth, also related to Pra-japati or Jvapeti, son of the Indian Menu, whose other sons possessed virtually the same names as those of Noah, i.e., Shem and Ham. As Oxford University Hebrew professor George Henry Bateson Wright says in Was Israel ever in Egypt? (51):

> JAPHETH - Ewald...shows, with great probability, that this was a god of the north, as Ham was of the south, once again in imitation of Hindu mythology. Moreover, the fact, that in the Armenian legend, derived from "Assyrian or Babylonian documents," the three sons of Xisuthros, who corresponds to Noah, are Zervin, Titan, and Japetosthe, is very instructive, suggesting that the unknown foreign word was retained in its original form...

osiris ark"Coincidentally," it was said that the Egyptian god Osiris was shut up in his ark on the very same day that Noah was likewise so disposed, as I relate in Suns of God (90):

> When Osiris's enemies pursue him, he enters into his "boat" on precisely the same date recorded of "Noah's" entrance into his ark, Athyr 17th...long before the biblical tale was invented. Noah is not a Jewish "patriarch" but a sun god, and the tale of entering and exiting the Ark signifies the sun's death and resurrection. The story of the eight passengers in a boat is an astral myth, reflecting the solar system. These eight are equivalent to the Egyptian octet of gods, who sail the ocean in a ship.

Also of interest in this quest are the words attributed to the Babylonian priest Berossus, who described the Flood, giving it a much older date:

> The Babylonian Flood itself predates the biblical by about 33,000 years, which demonstrates that the two inundations do not reflect one "historical" flood. Nevertheless, the story of Xisuthras or Ziusudra, the Babylonian Flood king, matches the later biblical account of Noah in important details, a common develoipment with myths. Berossus is even recorded as stating that Ziusudra's ship landed "in the mountains of the Korduaians of Armenia," possibly the Kurdistans, located in the same area where ark-hunters have claimed to have found pieces of "Noah's ark." This story, however, is not historical, and the creation of stone "arks" or ships upon hills was more common than is realized. Moreover, the Noah tale can be found in Mexican mythology: The Mexican Noah is named Nata, while his wife is Nena. In the Indian mythology, in the reign of the "seventh Manu," Satyavrata, the "whole earth" is said to "have been destroyed by a flood, including all mankind, who had beome corrupt." The prince and seven rishis, along with their wives, survived by entering a "spacious vessel," "by command of Vishnu...accompanied by pairs of all animals. (Acharya, Suns of God, 43-44)

Rather than having happened on Earth - a cataclysmic event for which there is no solid, scientific evidence - the story of Noah's Ark actually takes place in the heavens, as Noah and his crew of seven represent the sun, moon, earth and five inner planets. Obviously, Noah's famous "ark," which misguided souls have sought upon the earth, is a motif found in other myths, representing the arc-shaped lower quarter of the moon.

Sources & Further Reading

Noah's Ark found? Not so fast
Latest Ark finding is a fake
Flood of claims for 'Noah's Ark'
Dictionary of the Bible
Wright, George Henry Bateson. Was Israel ever in Egypt? London: Williams & Norgate, 1895.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos

- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles

- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth, or is the famous Suetonian passage concerning "Chresto" about another individual altogether?

Suetonius, represented in the Nuremberg ChronicleOne of the few citations from antiquity proffered by Christian apologists and others to prove the purported historicity of the figure "Jesus Christ" is a sentence from the ancient Roman historian Gaius Suetonius Tranquillus's Lives of the Twelve Caesars (book 5, Life of Claudius 25.4). Published around 120 AD/CE, this passage is one of two in Suetonius's works held up as "evidence" of Jesus of Nazareth's existence as a "historical" personage, the second a sentence in that writer's Life of Nero 16.2 which supposedly discusses "Christians." Here I will examine the Claudius passage in terms of its value in this quest for the "historical Christ."

'Christ' or 'Chrest'?

In presenting this purported evidence from Suetonius's Claudius 25.4, Christian apologists typically cite an English translation, such as:

> As the Jews were making constant disturbances at the instigation of Chrestus (another spelling of Christus), he (Claudius) expelled them from Rome. (Josh McDowell, Evidence that Demands a Verdict (1979), 83)

The Christian-preferred Latin of this sentence is as follows:

> Iudaeos impulsore Christo assidue tumultuantis Roma expulit

However, it is now the scholarly consensus that the original Latin of this passage must have been the following:

> Iudaeos impulsore Chresto assidue tumultuantis Roma expulit

This latter version with the word Chrēsto, not Christo, is what our earliest extant manuscripts relate. Contrary to what Christian apologist Josh McDowell and other fundamentalists assert, and despite the fact that the two words are evidently related through the roots χρίω and χράω, "Chrēsto," the ablative of Chrestus, is not an "another spelling of Christ." These terms represent Latinizations of two different Greek words that sound quite similar: Chrēstos, sometimes a proper name, means "good," "righteous" or "useful"; while Christos denotes "anointed" or "messiah." Hence, although an earlier generation of scholars believed that this Suetonian passage reflected the uprisings of Jews against Christians in Rome, we are not certain at all that this purported "reference" in Suetonius has anything to do with Christ and Christians.

"We are not certain at all that this purported 'reference' in Suetonius has anything to do with Christ and Christians."

Scientific studies of Suetonius's extant works demonstrate that "Chresto" is the most common epithet in the manuscript tradition. As we will discover, Chresto or its Greek original, Chrestos, was commonly found in pre-Christian antiquity, and its presence in Suetonius most likely had nothing to do with any historical founder of Christianity called "Jesus the Christ." Rather, this commonly held title was one of the earliest applied to what is clearly a fictional composite of characters, real and mythical, styled "Jesus the Good."

In addition, the event in which Claudius expelled Jews from Rome is recorded elsewhere in other histories - without the "impulsore Chresto" claim - and seems to date to around 49, 52 or 53 AD/CE, an incident that apparently was unrelated to a historical Jesus of Nazareth and cannot serve as evidence for his historicity.

Chrestos in Pagan Antiquity

In reality, the term "Chrestos" or χρηστὸς has been used in association with a plethora of people and gods, beginning centuries before the common era. Chrestos and its plural chrestoi were utilized to describe deities, oracles, philosophers, priests, oligarchs, "valuable citizens," slaves, heroes, the deceased and others. Importantly, chrestos appears to have been the title of "perfected saints" in various mystery schools or brotherhoods, associated with oracular activity in particular.

This word χρηστός or chrestos appears in ancient Greek sources such as those of playwright Sophocles (497/6-406/5 BCE), who discusses ὁ χρηστὸς, "the good man," in Antigone (520). Also composed during the fifth century BCE and containing numerous instances of chrestos are playwright Euripides's works Heraclidae, Hecuba, Troiades and Iphigenia. Other ancient writers such as Herodotus, Sophocles, Aristophanes, Xenophon, Pseudo-Xenophon, Plato, Isocrates, Aeschines, Demosthenes, Plutarch and Appian likewise use this term chrestos or "good," sometimes quite often. In an anonymous tract discovered among the possessions of historian Xenophon (c. 430–354), the "Old Oligarch," modernly styled Pseudo-Xenophon (fl. c. 425), contrasts "the good man" (chrestos) with "the wicked man" (poneros), a common juxtaposition throughout classical antiquity that found its way into the New Testament as well (e.g., Lk 6:35).

Socrates the Chrestos

The fact that Plato (424/423-348/347 BCE) frequently mentions "the good" (χρηστὸς) when discussing various figures (e.g., Plat. Rep. 5.479a) serves as an indication of the word's importance among philosophers and religionists. This association is especially germane considering the exalted place afforded Plato among spiritual seekers for centuries into the common era, including many Christians and assorted "Neoplatonists." Indeed, Plato (Theaetetus 166.a.2) uses the word to describe famed philosopher Socrates: ὁ Σωκράτης ὁ χρηστός - "Socrates the Good."

"In the fifth century BCE, Plato referred to the famous Greek philosopher of Athens as 'Socrates the Chrest.'"

The term continued to be used throughout classical antiquity, into the common era. Indeed, the Greek historian Plutarch (c. 46-120 AD/CE), writing precisely at the time when the Christian effort begins to become noticeable, uses the word χρηστός chrestos numerous times, including to describe Alexander the Great (Alex. 30.3), illustrating the term's ongoing or increased currency at this time.

There are also many uses of the plural word χρηστοί or chrestoi in ancient writings, such as in Euripides, Aristophanes, Thucydides, Isocrates, Plato and numerous times in Xenophon. What we discover, then, is a slew of chrests in ancient, pre-Christian literature, including as concerns the biblical god, as we will see below. We also find repeated references to chrests in the writings of early Church fathers, such as Clement Alexandrinus (Strom. 2), Gregorius Nazianzenus, Athanasius, and especially Cyrillus Alexandrinus and Joannes Chrysostomus.

Chrestos in Religion and Spirituality

Chrestos heros in an inscription from Delphi, GreeceThe term χρηστός chrestos was utilized not only in secular situations but also within ancient religion, philosophy, spirituality and the all-important mysteries, which concerned life and death, including near-death experiences and afterlife traditions. "Chrestos" was one of the titles for the dead in tomb writings "of the Greeks in all ages, pre-Christian as well as post-Christian." Examples of these epithets can be studied in August Boeckh's Corpus Inscriptionum Graecarum. We read elsewhere that the epithet "Chrestos" appears commonly on the epitaphs of most citizens of Larissa, Greece, specifically in the form of chrestos heros , this latter term meaning "hero" and "demigod." The Greek word chrestos was popular also as an epithet or on epitaphs at various Egyptian funerary sites as at Alexandria and elsewhere.

Moreover, the oracular usages of these terms needs to be emphasized, in that chrestos and chrestoi were already utilized in conjunction with deity, religion, spirituality, mysticism and magic, long before the common era. This oracular convention also appears in the New Testament (e.g., Mt 2:12, 2:22; Lk 3:26; Acts 10:22; Heb 8:5, 11:7), in which the verb χρηματίζω chrematizo is employed as connoting "to warn of God." Strong's (G5537) defines chrematizo as "to be the mouthpiece of divine revelations, to promulgate the commands of God."

"The oracular usage of chrestos can be found in the New Testament, employed as connoting 'to warn of God.'"

As another example of the Pagan use of the word chrestos, in 2008 an evidently pre-Christian cup or bowl was found at Alexandria, Egypt, with the genitive form chrestou inscribed on it. This artifact could predate the common era by decades, part of the genre of magical bowls used for protection and incantation. Another artifact with significance in this analysis of the uses of chrestos in antiquity is the chi-rho symbol. Chrestos Bowl, discovered by Franck Goddio in 2008 Chi Rho symbol used for both 'christ' and 'chrest.'

Related articles:

- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament

The Gods Must Be Chrestoi

In addition, it is claimed that this title chrestos/chreste was conferred upon the Greek god and goddess Hades and Persephone, divinities of the underworld. "Chrestos" was also bestowed upon the "ubiquitous mystic" or Greek god Hermes, the "Psychopomp" or guide to the afterlife, also an important figure in underworld mythology and in mystery schools. So too is the title claimed of the Greek sun god Apollo, god of oracles. In the Saturnalia (3.4.8) of ancient Latin author Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE), we read that, "according to Cassius Hemina, the Gods of the Samothracian mysteries were styled Θεοὶ Χρηστοὶ [Theoi Chrestoi]." (Mitchell, 18)

Speaking further about Roman historian Lucius Cassius Hemina (fl. 146 BCE), Macrobius states that he also calls the Roman goddess Juno "khrêstê," which Macrobius names as an epithet of bona Iuno or "good Juno," thus identifying the Greek and Latin words with each other. In Latin, therefore, the comparable epithet conveyed upon divinities is Bonus - "Good" - and we find many deities honored with this epithet, including the deity Bona Dea or "Good Goddess."

After Greek became a popular language around the Mediterranean, and the Egyptian pantheon spread outside its native borders, a number of Egyptian "good" deities may also have been called chrestos/e, as we know was the case with the goddess Isis. The Egyptian "Houses of Goodness" may likewise have been labeled by this term when their name was rendered into Greek.

'Isis Chreste' in a Greek inscription

There is much more to this subject of the Pagan usage of the word chrestos and its related terms, enough for a significant monograph.
Related articles:

Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?

The Good Lord

Significantly, like the Pagans, Jews too employed the term Chrestos to describe their god: "Since the OT more readily associates majesty and condescension, it commonly uses chrêstós for God..." (Kittel, 1321) This fact gives us reason to suspect that Suetonius's Jews rabblerousing at Rome were in fact doing so in the name of their god, Yahweh the Chrestos, rather than at the instigation of a historical personage by the epithet of Chresto.

In the Greek Bible or Septuagint ("LXX"), a translation begun about 200 years before the common era, the word chrestos occurs in conjunction with "the Lord God," as a rendering of the Hebrew word טוב towb (Strong's H2896), meaning "good, pleasant, agreeable," as well as "good, rich, valuable in estimation." For example, at Jeremiah 33:11 (LXX 40:11), we read that "good [is] the Lord," χρηστὸς κύριος, literally "Chrest Lord." Psalm 106:1 (LXX 105:11) says:

> αλληλουια ἐξομολογεῖσθε τῷ κυρίῳ ὅτι χρηστός…
>
> Allelouia, give praise to the Lord that [he is] good…

The beginning of the next chapter (Ps 107:1; LXX 106:1) starts with the same invocation of the "Good Lord."

Thus, we find "the Lord God the Chrest" in the Greek OT/Septuagint, and the Lord is also chrestos at Psalm 25:8 (LXX 24:8). At Psalm 52:9 (LXX 51:11), God's name is chrestos, while at Psalm 69:16 (LXX 68:17), His mercy is chrestos.

God is likewise called ὁ χρηστός or "the Chrest" in the intertestamental Jewish text Maccabees II (1.24). In addition, we find chrestos in the important works of the Jewish philosopher Philo (20 BCE-50 AD/CE), in which God is likewise described using this adjective, meaning "good," "friendly" or "kind." One such usage in Philo occurs in De Mutatione Nominum ("On the Change of Names"), 44: , rendered by Yonge (362) as "the merciful God." The Jewish historian Josephus too uses the term with similar meanings as well. (Kittel, 1321)

New Testament Chrestos

We also find seven uses of the word chrestos in the New Testament: Mt 11:30; Lk 5:39, 6:35; Rom 2:4; 1 Cor 15:33; Eph 4:32; and 1 Pe 2:3. In this regard, Luke 6:35 also associates God with chrestos, demonstrating an ongoing tradition concerning the "Good Lord," beginning centuries before the common era and extending decades into it:

> ...καὶ ἔσεσθε υἱοὶ τοῦ ὑψίστου ὅτι αὐτὸς χρηστός ἐστιν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἀχαρίστους καὶ πονηρούς

> ...and you will be sons of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the selfish.

Here Luke uses another term from antiquity, πονηρούς or ponerous , "selfish," previously mentioned, as contrasted with chrestos in ancient pre-Christian Greek philosophy. Obviously, the term chrestos as used here in the NT verse comes from (Greek) Paganism, along with, we submit, much else.

The verse at Romans 2:4 uses two different forms of chrestos, both applied to God, the second instance of which refers to τὸ χρηστὸν τοῦ θεοῦ or the "chrest of God."

The epistle 1 Peter (2:3) - which does not emerge clearly in the literary record until the second century - also calls "the Lord" χρηστὸς or chrestos, in reference to God, not Jesus:

> ἐγεύσασθε ὅτι χρηστὸς ὁ κύριος

> you have tasted that good [is] the Lord

Essentially, this phrase reads "the Lord Chrest," apparently based on Psalm 34:8 (LXX 33:9):

> γεύσασθε καὶ ἴδετε ὅτι χρηστὸς ὁ κύριος...

> taste and see that good [is] the Lord

This passage was confounded in antiquity by Church fathers such as Clement of Alexandria (c. 150–c. 215), who depicted it as saying: "Taste and see that Christ is God" (Exhortation to the Heathens, 9). This fact demonstrates the Chrest-Christ confusion around the beginning of the third century.

The word appears at Ephesians 4:32 as well:

> γίνεσθε δὲ εἰς ἀλλήλους χρηστοί εὔσπλαγχνοι χαριζόμενοι ἑαυτοῖς καθὼς καὶ ὁ θεὸς ἐν Χριστῷ ἐχαρίσατο ὑμῖν

> Become to others chrestoi, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, as God in Christ forgave you.

It should be emphasized that the good/kind followers of "Christ" were called "chrests," a fact that might explain why "Christians" were also styled "Chrestians."

"Chrestos appears in the Bible, in verses about God in both the Old and New Testaments."

As we can see, the usage of "Chrestos" in conjunction with deity is pre-Christian, continuing well into the common era, within the Bible as well, in verses about God in both Old and New Testaments. Thus, again, no "historical" Chresto is necessary to explain the behavior of Suetonius's Jews.

The Divine Impeller?

Adding to this notion that the Jews at Rome could have been rabblerousing because of their god, the "Good Lord" Yahweh, in Suetonius the Latin word impulsore is the ablative form of impulsor and denotes not "instigation" but "instigator." This scenario would not require a historical personage named Chresto to be present or even the memory of a deceased messianic figure. The passage is translated better as, "Jews because of the instigator Chresto," where impulsor could also mean one who "impels" someone else to do something, a "persuader," "prompter," "enticer," "pusher," "inciter," "inducer," "abettor," "stimulator," "mover," "encourager," "enabler" and "consiliarus," this latter word used in the Vulgate of Isaiah 9:6, describing the "Mighty God" as "Counsellor."

In the first century BCE, Roman statesman and philosopher Marcus Tullius ("Tully") Cicero (On the Consular Provinces, 8) wrote that a certain political "storm" had been excited by "Caesar the impeller" (Caesare impulsore). Moreover, in the play Aulularia or The Pot of Gold (735) by Titus Maccius Plautus (c. 254-c. 184 BCE), we find the line: deus impulsor mihi fuit, which could be rendered, "A god was my impeller." Hence, we see that this term impulsor was associated with deity in the second to third centuries before the common era, as well as into it.

In this regard, in City of God (1.7.11), Church father Augustine (354-430) remarks of the Roman god Jupiter:

> They have called him Victor, Invictus, Opitulus, Impulsor, Stator...and other names which it were long to enumerate.

There is no record of Jews or anyone else being impelled by or worshipping "Jesus the Good" or a historical Chresto at Rome by this time, but there is plenty of evidence of Jews worshipping their god Yahweh as chrestos or chresto. Thus, the situation of Jews being "constantly tumultuous" because of the "impulsor" Yahweh "the Good" may have been akin to rabblerousing Muslims inspired by "Allah the Merciful." Again, no historical Chresto or "Chrest" is needed.

Conclusion

The bottom line is that the Suetonian sentence in question apparently used originally the word "Chresto." Combined with the facts that Christ was never related as having been at Rome, that the phrase "Jesus the Good" evidently does not make its appearance until the third or late second century at the earliest, and that the word chrestos was used to describe gods and many other figures in antiquity, doubt is cast upon the value of this passage as providing any evidence that "Jesus of Nazareth" was an actual historical figure.

Moreover, the fact that Suetonius called Chresto's followers "Judeans" or "Jews," rather than associating them with the "Christians" or, perhaps, "Chrestians " of his Nero passage, tends to negate the idea that the Roman historian is referring to a historical "Jesus Christ." The evidence points, rather, to another individual or, more likely, their tribal god, Yahweh the Good, as the "Chresto" of Suetonius's Jews.

"The Chrest under whose instigation the Jews at Rome constantly revolted could have been the god Yahweh, not a historical Jesus of Nazareth."

In summary, the "Chrest" under whose instigation at Rome the Jews were revolting could have been their Lord God, called "the Good" or chrestos in the Old Testament. No "historical Jesus of Nazareth" would be needed, and we may retire this purported Suetonian "proof" from Christian apologetics.
Bibliography

Boman, B. Jobjorn. Inpulsore Cherestro? Suetonius' Divus Claudius 25.4 in Sources and Manuscripts. Liber Annuus, vol. 61, pp. 355-376.
Boeckh, August. Corpus Inscriptionum Graecarum, vol. 3. Berlin: Deutsche Akademie der Wissenschaften, 1844/1853.
Bruce, F.F. "Christianity under Claudius." Bulletin of the John Rylands Library 44 (March 1962): 309-326.
Kittel, Gerhard, et al., eds. Theological Dictionary of the New Testament, vol. 1. Grand Rapids, MI: Wm. B. Eerdmans, 2003.
McDowell, Josh. Evidence that Demands a Verdict. Nashville, TN: Thomas Nelson Publishers, 1979.
McGlew, James F. Citizens on Stage: Comedy and Political Culture in the Athenian Democracy. University of Michigan Press, 2002.
Mitchell, J.B. Chrestos: A Religious Epithet. London: Williams and Norgate, 1880.
Philonis Alexandrini. Opera Quae Supersunt, vol. 3. ed. Paulus Wendland. Berlin: Georgii Reimeri, 1898.
Witt, Ronald E. Isis in the Ancient World. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins University Press, 1971.
Yonge, C.D. The Works of Philo. Hendrickson Publishers, 1993.
Further Reading

The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Cup?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament

Isis the Chrest and the Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
The First 'New Testament': Marcion of Pontus and the Gospel of the Lord
Christian Lindtner's Review of Hermann Detering's Falsche Zeugen: Ausserchristliche Jesuszeugnisse auf dem Prüfstand

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?

- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In

Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

When Was the First Christmas?
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Christ's Nativity; Bernardo Dadi, c. 1325-1350; National Gallery of Scotland, Edinburgh

For the past nearly 1,700 years, a significant portion of the Western world has celebrated the day of December 25th as the birth of the divine Son of God and Savior Jesus Christ. Thousands of images have been created, as well as songs, poems and other artistic endeavors, depicting the baby Jesus lying in a manger surrounded by ox and lamb, with the Virgin Mary, Joseph, angels and three Wise Men looking on in wonder at the luminous infant. This imagery, we are told, represents the very first Christmas, when the Lord of the Universe was born on this earth, on the 25th day of December in the year 1 AD/CE. But is this story true?

"O, how wonderfully acted Providence that on that day on which that Sun was born...Christ should be born."

The tradition of "Christmas" or December 25th as the birth of Jesus Christ, the main figure of the New Testament who is believed by nearly two billion Christians worldwide to have been God in the flesh come to save mankind from its sins, is traceable to the late second to third century AD/CE. During that time, the Church father Cyprian (d. 258) remarked (De pasch. Comp., xix): "O, how wonderfully acted Providence that on that day on which that Sun was born...Christ should be born." In other words, the Savior's birth was being observed at the winter soltice. What is seldom known, however, is that prior to that time, Christ's birth was placed on a variety of days, indicating its non-historicity:

> January 5th, January 6th, March 25th, March 28th, April 19th, April 20th, May 20th, August 21st, November 17th and November 19th.

Title page of the 'Chronography of 354'; MS c. 1620December 25th as Christ's birthday makes its way into a "calendar" or chronology created in 354 AD/CE called the Calendar of Filocalus or Philocalian Calendar. In addition to listing the 25th of December as the Natalis Invicti, which means "Birth of the Unconquered (Sun)," the Calendar also names the day as that of natus Christus in Betleem Iudeae: "Birth of Christ in Bethlehem Judea." Hence, we can see that people of the fourth century were clearly aware of the association, if not identification, of Christ with the sun, as they had been in Cyprian's time and earlier, since Jesus is claimed to be the "Sun of Righteousness" in the Old Testament book of Malachi (4:2).

"But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings."

Over the past few decades, many people have come to understand that "December 25th" represents not the birthday of a "historical" savior named Jesus Christ but the time of the winter solstice in the northern hemisphere, when the day begins to become longer than the night, and the sun is said to be "born again," "renewed" or "resurrected."
Numerous Winter-Solstice Celebrations Globally

Click to Enlarge!

By the time Jesus's birth was placed at the winter solstice there had been numerous solstitial celebrations of the coming "new sun" in a wide variety of places. Many winter-solstice festivals can be found listed in my 2010 Astrotheology Calendar, for the month of December. As I write there:

December is full of winter-solstice celebrations beginning in remotest antiquity. For example, the date of December 21st as the festival of the Japanese sun goddess Amaterasu represents her "coming out of the cave," a typical solar myth.

Likewise noteworthy is the festival of the Egyptian baby sun god Sokar occurring on 26 Khoiak, as related in the Calendar of Hathor at Dendera, corresponding at the turn of the common era to December 22nd. The longstanding ritual of Sokar being carried out of the temple on this day in an "ark" closely resembles the censored commentary by Church father Epiphanius (c. 310/320-403) concerning the Egyptians bringing forth the baby sun born of a virgin at the winter solstice.

Sokar the baby sun at the Winter Solstice approached by three dignitaries,
Ptah-Osiris-Sokar

The winter-solstice celebrations were so important that at times they exceeded the one or two days of the actual solstice in the Gregorian calendar, i.e., December 21st or 22nd. Solstice celebrations therefore do not necessarily fall on the traditional time of the solstice but may occur up to several days before or after, such as is exemplified by the Roman celebration of Saturnalia, which began on December 17th and ended on the 23rd.

Hence, a "winter solstice" birth as asserted for a number of gods would not necessarily be celebrated on those exact days or even on the more commonly accepted date of December 25th, which signifies the end of a three-day period of the solstice—meaning "sun stands still"—as perceived in ancient times. In this regard, the winter-solstice birthday of the Greek sun and wine god Dionysus was originally recognized in early January but was eventually placed on December 25th, as related by the ancient Latin writer Macrobius (4th cent. ad/ce). Regardless, the effect is the same: The winter sun god is born around this time, when the day begins to become longer than the night.

Nativity of Dionysus: Hermes presents the baby Dionysus to a goddess or mortal woman; two groups of three figures are in attendance on either side; bas relief from the Museum of Naples

In 275 ad/ce, December 25th was formalized by Emperor Aurelian as the birthday of Sol Invictus, the Invincible Sun, and it is claimed that Aurelian likewise combined the Greek festival of the sun god Helios, called the Helia, with Saturnalia as well to establish this solstice celebration. The highly important Mysteries of Osiris, which begin on the 14th of December and end with his resurrection on December 26th, follow a winter-solstice pattern similar to the Brumalia, Saturnalia and Christmas celebrations. The facts that this period comprises several festivities having to do with the passion, death and resurrection or rebirth of this prominent Egyptian sun god, and that the dates for these mysteries happened to correspond to the winter solstice when the wandering Egyptian Calendar was finally fixed, are extraordinary.

How Far Back Do Winter-Solstice Celebrations Go?

Newgrange Passage Tomb/Temple, Ireland; photo: ClemensfranzIn my 2011 Astrotheology Calendar, the month of December is illustrated by the "passage tomb" at Newgrange, Ireland, which is oriented to the sunrise on the winter solstice or around December 21st in the Gregorian calendar. This tomb—which has also been called a "temple" based on its evident importance—is guarded by a large boulder with spiral solar symbols and dates to around 3200 BCE. The winter-solstice sunrise at Newgrange sends a shaft of light down the cruciform corridor and chamber. This ceremony is believed to signify the "return to life" or resurrection from the death of winter. In this sacred site is thus a 5,000-year-old "cross of light" representing the resurrection to life or rebirth on "December 25th."

"In the sacred site at Newgrange is a 5,000-year-old 'cross of light' representing the resurrection to life and rebirth on 'December 25th.'"

There are many other archaeological sites globally that are astronomically aligned, particularly to the winter solstice, some even Goseck circle, Germany; yellow lines represent sunrise and sunset at the winter solstice; c. 7,000 years agoolder than Newgrange, such as the wooden circle or "henge" at Goseck, Germany, which may be 7,000 years old. The building of such astronomically aligned edifices, which are widely understood to be "temples" of a sort, indicates that the ancient astrotheological motif of the sun god's birth at the winter solstice is at least that old. Moreover, there is evidence that this solar observation is much older even than that.

The suggestion that the winter-solstice celebration by human beings in several parts of the world, particularly in the farther northern reaches of the northern hemisphere, dates back to Paleolithic times and was part of religious "mysteries" even then is indicated by a number of artifacts, including the painting known as "Sorcerer with the Antelope's Head" from Les Trois Freres caves in the French Pyrenees. As I write in Suns of God, these caves were occupied during the Magdalenian period, 10,000-16,000 years ago, although mythologist Robert Graves dates the paintings therein to "at least 20,000 B.C."

In Prehistoric Lunar Astronomy, Indian scholar S.B. Roy theorizes that these paintings are representative of secret deposits relating to the mysteries, remarking that they would "necessarily be performed at a particular auspicious moment," upon which their potency would depend. This auspicious moment would be dependent on the solar and lunar phases, as well as the seasons.

Sorcerer with Antelope's Head Les Trois Freres CaveAs I also relate in Suns of God, Roy further posits that the antelope-headed "sorcerer" was "a figure marking the onset of a season." The reasons for this assertion include that the "remote traditions" in the Rig Veda and in Vedic astronomy relate that the Stag's head represents the star L-Orionis and the winter solstice at the new moon, as well as the summer solstice at the full moon. Roy concludes that the sorcerer figure "marked the winter solstice," which was "a great day in the Ice Age of Europe." Based on the astronomy, the figure dates to 10,600 BCE.

Discussing the European Magdalenian cave-dwellers of around 10,000 years ago, Roy also asserts:

In Northern Europe and Asia, in latitudes of 60º and higher, where Slavonic languages now prevail, the winter was then long and dark. It was very cold. Everyone looked to the day of the winter solstice when the sun would turn North. The astronomers would know the date even though the sun itself was not visible. This was the great day, for the spring would now come.

Thus, the winter solstice was an important factor in human culture, particularly that of the cold, northern latitudes, at least 12,000 years ago.

"'Christmas' is thus an extremely ancient celebration, predating the Christian era by many millennia."

The winter solstice celebration that developed throughout much of the inhabited world has been handed down as "Christmas," i.e., December 25th, the birthday of the "sun of God." "Christmas" is thus an extremely ancient celebration, predating the Christian era by many millennia.

Have a Happy Solstice!
Bibliography

Acharya S. Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled. Illinois: AUP, 2004.
Egyptology Online Resources.
aegyptologie.online-resourcen.de/Date_Converter_for_Ancient_Egypt/Roman-Emperors

Halsberghe, Gaston H. The Cult of Sol Invictus. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1972.
Herbermann, Charles G., et al., eds. "Christmas." The Catholic Encyclopedia, vol. 3. New York: The Catholic Encyclopedia Inc., 1913.
Graves, Robert. The White Goddess. New York: Farrar, Strauss and Giroux, 1966.
Mettinger, Tryggve N.D. The Riddle of Resurrection: "Dying and Rising Gods" in the Ancient Near East. Stockholm: Almqvist & Wiksell Internat., 2001.
Murdock, D.M. Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2009.
Murdock, D.M., and N.W. Barker. The 2010 Astrotheology Calendar. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2009.
—The 2011 Astrotheology Calendar. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2010.
Roy, Shashanka Bhushan. Prehistory Lunar Astronomy. New Delhi: Institute of Chronology, 1976.
Further Reading

The Christmas Hoax: Jesus is NOT the 'Reason for the Season'
Born of a Virgin on December 25th: Horus, Sun God of Egypt
The Star in the East and Three Kings
Attis: Born on December 25th of a Virgin
Dionysus, Born on December 25th of a Virgin
When Was the First Christmas? (forum thread)
3 Kings/Orion's Belt & Solstice/Christmas (forum thread)
When Were John the Baptist and Jesus's Birthdays? (forum thread)

The 2011 Astrotheology Calendar cover link

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days

- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?

- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Christmas Hoax:
Jesus is NOT the "Reason for the Season"
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Jesus sun god in manger

What is the real "reason for the season?"

Excerpted from
Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

by Acharya S

The December 25th birthday of the sun god is a common motif globally, dating back at least 12,000 years as reflected in winter solstices artfully recorded in caves. "Nearly all nations," says Doane, commemorated the birth of the god Sol to the "Queen of Heaven" and "Celestial Virgin." The winter solstice was celebrated in countless places, including China and Persia, the latter regarding the solar Lord and Savior Mithra's birth. In Rome, a great festival called "Saturnalia" was celebrated from December 1st to the 23rd. The winter solstice festival in Egypt included the babe in a manger brought out of the sanctuary.

Roman god Sol InvictusRegarding the date of the "Christmas Feast," the Catholic Encyclopedia ("Christmas") remarks:

The well-known solar feast...of Natalis Invicti, celebrated on 25 December, has a strong claim on the responsibility for our December date....

The earliest rapprochement of the births of Christ and the sun is in Cypr., "De pasch. Comp.", xix, "...O, how wonderfully acted Providence that on that day on which that Sun was born...Christ should be born." In the fourth century, Chrysostom, "del Solst. Et Æquin." (II, p. 118, ed. 1588), says: "...But Our Lord, too, is born in the month of December...the eight before the calends of January [25 December]... But they call it the 'Birthday of the Unconquered'. Who indeed is so unconquered as Our Lord...? Or, if they say that it is the birthday of the Sun, He is the Sun of Justice." Already Tertullian (Apol., 16; cf. Ad. Nat., I, 13; Orig. c. Cels., VIII, 67, etc) had to assert that Sol was not the Christians' God; Augustine (Tract xxxiv, in Joan. In P. L., XXXV, 1652) denounces the heretical indentification of Christ with Sol. Pope Leo I (Serm. xxxvii in nat. dom., VII, 4; xxii, II, 6 in P. L., LIV, 218 and 198) bitterly reproves solar survivals--Christians, on the very doorstep of the Apostles' basilica, turn to adore the rising sun.

Ancient Greeks celebrated the birthday of Hercules and Dionysus on this date, as the ancient authority Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE) maintained. Even the Greek father god, Zeus, was supposedly born at the winter solstice. The "Christmas" festival was celebrated at Athens and was called "the Lenaea," during which time, apparently, "the death and rebirth of the harvest infant Dionysus were similarly dramatized." This Lenaea festival is depicted in an Aurignacian cave-painting in Spain, with a "young Dionysus with huge genitals," standing naked in the middle of "nine dancing women." The Aurignacian period extended from 34,000 to 23,000 years ago. In The White Goddess (399), mythologist Robert Graves states:

The most ancient surviving record of European religious practices is an Aurignacian cave-painting at Cogul in North-Eastern Spain of the Old Stone Age Lenaea. A young Dionysus with huge genitals stands un-armed, alone and exhausted in the middle of a crescent of nine dancing women, who face him. He is naked, except for what appear to be a pair of close-fitting boots laced at the knee; they are fully clothed and wear small cone-shaped hats. These wild women, differentiated by their figures and details of their dress, grow progressively older as one looks clock-wise around the crescent...

By using the term "Dionysus," Graves is not stating that it was written on the walls of the cave. He is using it to describe an archetype that is very ancient.

The Greco-Syrian sun god Adonis - the "Adonai" of the Bible - was also born on December 25th, a festival "spoken of by Tertullian, Jerome, and other Fathers of the Church, who inform us that the ceremonies took place in a cave, and that the cave in which they celebrated his mysteries in Bethlehem, was that in which Christ Jesus was born."

Nor is the winter solstice celebration a purely "Pagan" concept, as the Jews also observed it in reference to the birth of their god, Yahweh. The "Feast of Illumination," "Feast of Lights" or "feast of the Dedication," occurred in winter (John 10:22-23; Josephus's Antiquities XII, 7.7)[1] and represented the "ancient Hebrew Winter Solstice Feast." The reference in the gospel of John states:

"It was the feast of the Dedication at Jerusalem; it was winter..." (RSV)

The passage in Josephus's Antiquities (XII, 7.7) refers to the eight-day festival celebrated by the Jewish hero Judas Maccabeus (190 BCE-160 BCE), the "festival of the restoration off the sacrifices of the temple." This 8-day festival is called by Josephus simply "Lights," as in the "festival of Lights." Known as "Hannukah," this "feast of Lights" represents a "restoration" of the ancient temple sacrifices.

Regarding this Hannukah feast, in The White Goddess (469), Graves further says:

The rabbinical account is that this eight-day festival which begins on the twenty-fifth day of the month Kislev, was instituted by Judas Maccabeus and that it celebrates a miracle: at the Maccabean consecration of the Temple a small cruse of sacred oil was found, hidden by a former High Priest, which lasted for eight days. By this legend the authors of the Talmud hoped to conceal the antiquity of the feast, which was originally Jehovah's birthday as the Sun-god and had been celebrated at least as early as the time of Nehemiah (Maccabees, I, 18).

The citation in Graves concerning the antiquity of this feast should be 2 Maccabees 1:18, which states:

Since on the twenty-fifth day of Kislev we shall celebrate the purification of the temple, we thought it necessary to notify you, in order that you also may celebrate the feast of booths and the feast of the fire given when Nehemiah, who built the temple and the altar, offered sacrifices.

The biblical figure Nehemiah is reputed to have lived during the fifth century (fl. 430 BCE), and 25th of the month of Kislev (November/December) is indeed the time of the celebration called Hannukah/Chanukah. As 2 Maccabees recounts, during this earlier sacrifice by Nehemiah, the Persians to whom he had sent for the sacred fire had only given him a "thick liquid" (oil?). After the liquid was sprinkled on the wood, the sun - previously hidden by clouds - beamed brightly, causing a great fire to blaze up, "so that all marveled." At this point, the priests offered fervent prayers to the Lord God.

From the account in the biblical book of Ezekiel concerning the Temple priests holding secret rites - sacrilegious in Ezekiel's opinion - we know that there is an esoteric tradition within Judaism that is not made known to the masses. Graves is apparently suggesting that this esoteric tradition included the knowledge of Jehovah/Yahweh as a sun god - as asserted and demonstrated by numerous authorities and researchers - and that, as a sun god, he too was typically considered as born on the winter solstice. It would appear, therefore, that this "festival of Lights" and "feast of the dedication" was a winter-solstice celebration based on the solar aspect either of the old Israelite gods or elohim, as they are repeatedly termed in the Old Testament, or of the Jewish tribal god Yahweh. (These inferences make for further studies by interested parties. The solar attributes of the main Jewish god Yahweh are brought out in detail in The Christ Conspiracy and Suns of God.)

In addition, Indians for millennia have celebrated the winter solstice, as a cardinal point, the new year and, presumably, the birth of the sun god. In the Indian solstice celebration--a "great religious festival"--there is "rejoicing everywhere." As in the West, the Indians "decorate their houses with garlands, and make presents to friends and relatives," a "custom of very great antiquity." One way the Brahman priests of Orissa have celebrated the solstice is by carrying images of "the youthful Krishna to the houses of their disciples and their patrons, to whom they present some of the red powder and tar of roses, and receive presents of money and cloth in return." Thus, in India the winter solstice has been as much a major holiday as it was anywhere, which is to be expected in a land permeated with sun worship for millennia.

Regarding the Persian sun god Mithra and his sacrifice, in the 19th century respected Christian author Rev. J.P. Lundy remarked:

"For let it be borne in mind that it was precisely at the season of this sacrifice, near the beginning of the new year, that the birth of Mithra was celebrated over all Persia and the world, in temple-caves, on the night of the 24th of December, the night of light. Even the British Druids celebrated it, and called the next day, the 25th of December, Nollagh or Noel, the day of regeneration, celebrating it with great fires on tops of their mountains. In fact, all nations, as if by common consent, at the first moment after midnight of the 24th of December, celebrated the birth of the sun-god, type among the Gentiles of Christ, the Incarnate Son of God, as the Desire of all nations and the Saviour of the world."

Lundy was thus well aware of the sun gods, whom he deemed "types of Christ," indicating Christ's solar nature as well.

Concerning the winter solstice festival in Ireland, the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled relates:

"The Baal-fire feast, or meeting, was a great festival in Ireland, on the 25th of December, and midsummer eve. Baal, or Bel, was a name of the sun all over the east."

It is important to note that the "December 25th" birthdate only applies to the age and hemisphere in which the winter solstice falls on December 21-24. In other ages, the solstice month is different, changing with the precession of the equinoxes every 2150 years.

The December 25th birthdate is that of the sun, not a "real person," revealing its unoriginality within Christianity and the true nature of the Christian godman. "Christmas" was not incorporated into Christianity until 354 AD/CE. In reality, there is no evidence, no primary sources which show that "Jesus is the reason for the season."

Happy Solstice!

Excerpted from "Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled"

[1] This citation contained a typo that unfortunately ended up in the "Reason for the Season" video. As here, it should be Josephus's Antiquities, XII, 7.7, rather than book XIII.

Further Reading

When Was the First Christmas?
Born of a Virgin on December 25th: Horus, Sun God of Egypt
The Star in the East and Three Kings
Attis: Born on December 25th of a Virgin
Dionysus, Born on December 25th of a Virgin
When Was the First Christmas? (forum thread)
3 Kings/Orion's Belt & Solstice/Christmas (forum thread)
When Were John the Baptist and Jesus's Birthdays? (forum thread)

The REAL Reason for the Season - Interview with Infidel Guy

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos

- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles

- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Dionysus: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Killed and Resurrected after Three Days

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Disk with Dionysus and 11 signs of the zodiac; 4th cent. BCE; Brindisi, ItalyThe Greek god of wine, Dionysus or Bacchus, also called Iacchus, has been depicted as having been born of a virgin mother on December 25th; performing miracles such as changing water into wine; appearing surrounded by or one of 12 figures; bearing epithets such as "Father" and "Savior"; dying; resurrecting after three days; and ascending into heaven.

Dionysus shares the following attributes in common with the Christ character as found in the New Testament and Christian tradition.

- Dionysus was born of a virgin on "December 25th" or the winter solstice.
- He is the son of the heavenly Father.
- As the Holy Child, Bacchus was placed in a cradle/crib/manger "among beasts."
- Dionysus was a traveling teacher who performed miracles.
- He was the God of the Vine, and turned water into wine.
- Dionysus rode in a "triumphal procession" on an ass.
- He was a sacred king killed and eaten in an eucharistic ritual for fecundity and purification.
- The god traveled into the underworld to rescue his loved one, arising from the land of the dead after three days.
- Dionysus rose from the dead on March 25th and ascended into heaven.
- Bacchus was deemed "Father," "Liberator" and "Savior."

Dionysus was considered the "Only Begotten Son," "King of Kings," "God of Gods," "Sin Bearer," "Redeemer," "Anointed One" and the "Alpha and Omega."

He was identified with the Ram or Lamb.

His sacrificial title of "Dendrites" or "Young Man of the Tree" indicates he was hung on a tree or crucified.

"Early Christian art is rich with Dionysiac associations, whether in boisterous representations of agape feasting, in the miracle of water-into-wine at Cana, in wine and vine motifs alluding to the Eucharaist, and most markedly...in the use of Dionysiac facial traits for representations of Christ."

—Dr. Thomas F. Mathews, The Clash of the Gods, 45
Dionysus as the Sun

In studying religion and mythology, it is wise at to keep in mind that in the ancient world many gods were confounded and compounded, deliberately or otherwise. Some were even considered interchangeable, such as the Egyptian gods Osiris, Horus and Ra. In this regard, ancient Greek historian Plutarch (35, 364E) states, "Osiris is identical with Dionysus," the Greek son of God. Dionysus, also known as Bacchus or Iacchus, is likewise identified with the god Aion and referred to as "Zeus Sabazius" in other traditions. (Graves, R., 335) Hence, we would expect him to share at least some of all these gods' attributes, including being born of a virgin at the winter solstice (Aion), and dying and rising from the dead (Osiris).

"Bacchus, Apollo, the Sun, are one deity."

Moreover, in Seven Books Against the Heathen (3.33), early Christian writer Arnobius (284-305) remarks that the Pagans "maintain that Bacchus, Apollo, the Sun, are one deity" and "the sun is also Bacchus and Apollo." (Roberts, VI, 472-3) We would expect, therefore, Dionysus's attributes to reflect solar mythology as well.

Dionysus riding a quadriga chariot

Dionysus returns from India riding a quadriga chariot
Mosaic pavement, 3rd cent. ad/ce
Sousse, Tunisia
(Patrick Hunt)

Apollo riding in his sun chariot
December 25th/Winter Solstice

As with Jesus, December 25th and January 6th are both traditional birth dates in the Dionysian myth and simply represent the period of the winter solstice. Indeed, the winter-solstice date of the Greek sun and wine god Dionysus was originally recognized in early January but was eventually placed on December 25th, as related by ancient Latin writer Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE). Regardless, the effect is the same: The winter sun god is born around this time, when the shortest day of the year begins to become longer.

"Macrobius transfers this feast to the day of the winter solstice, December 25."

The ancient Church father Epiphanius (4th cent.) discussed the birth of the god Aion, son of the Greek goddess Persephone or Kore ("Maiden"), at the time of the winter solstice. In this regard, Christian theologian Rev. Dr. Hugh Rahner (139-140) remarks:

> We know that Aion was at this time beginning to be regarded as identical with Helios and Helios with Dionysus...because [according to Macrobius] Dionysus was the symbol of the sun... He is made to appear small at the time of the winter solstice, when upon a certain day the Egyptians take him out of the crypt, because on this the shortest day of the year it is as though he were a little child.... Macrobius transfers [this feast] to the day of the winter solstice, December 25.

Dionysus is thus equivalent to Aion and was also said to have been born of Persephone, the virgin maiden. Esteemed mythologist Joseph Campbell (MI, 34) confirms this "celebration of the birth of the year-god Aion to the virgin Goddess Kore," the latter of whom he calls "a Hellenized transformation of Isis," the Egyptian mother goddess who was likewise called the "Great Virgin" in inscriptions predating the Christian era by centuries.[1]

Virgin Birth

According to the most common tradition, Dionysus was the son of the god Zeus and the mortal woman Semele. In the Cretan version of the same story, which the pre-Christian Greek historian Diodorus Siculus follows, Dionysus was the son of Zeus and Persephone, the daughter of Demeter also called Kore, who is styled a "virgin goddess."

In the common myth about the birth of Dionysus/Bacchus, Semele is mysteriously impregnated by one of Zeus's bolts of lightning--an obvi-ous miraculous/virgin conception.

Semele, Zeus and the divine child Bacchus Semele immolated by the sky-god father-figure Zeus, who takes the divine child Bacchus (Bernard Salomon, Metamorphose figurée, 1557)

Concerning Dionysus's epithet "twice begotten," in the third century Church father Minucius Felix (Commodius, XII) remarked to his Pagan audience:

Ye yourselves say that Father Liber was assuredly twice begotten. First of all he was born in India of Proserphine [Persephone] and Jupiter [Zeus]... Again, restored from his death, in another womb Semele conceived him again of Jupiter... (Roberts, IV, 205)

"The virgin conceived the ever-dying, ever-living god of bread and wine, Dionysus."

In another account, Jupiter/Zeus gives Dionysus's torn-up heart in a drink to Semele, who becomes pregnant with the "twice born" god this way, again a miraculous or "virgin" birth. Indeed, Joseph Campbell explicitly calls Semele a "virgin":

While the maiden goddess sat there, peacefully weaving a mantle on which there was to be a representation of the universe, her mother contrived that Zeus should learn of her presence; he approached her in the form of an immense snake. And the virgin conceived the ever-dying, ever-living god of bread and wine, Dionysus, who was born and nurtured in that cave, torn to death as a babe and resurrected... (Campbell, MG, 4.27)

This same direct appellation is used by Cambridge professor and anthropologist Sir Dr. Edmund Ronald Leach:

Dionysus, son of Zeus, is born of a mortal virgin, Semele, who later became immortalized through the inter-vention of her divine son; Jesus, son of God, is born of a mortal virgin, Mary… such stories can be dupli-cated over and over again. (Hugh-Jones, 108)

Using the scholarly Greek term parthenos, meaning "virgin," in The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece (95) Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso concludes: "Semele was also likely a holy parthenos by virtue of the fact that she gave birth to Dionysus via her union with Zeus (Hesiod, Theogony 940)."

These learned individuals had reason to consider Dionysus's mother a virgin, as, again, he was also said to have been born of Persephone/Kore, whom, once more from Epiphanius, was herself deemed a "virgin," or parthenos. In this regard, professor emeritus of Classics at the University of Pennsylvania Dr. Donald White (183) says, "As a title 'Parthenos' was appropriate to both Demeter and Persephone..."

Persephone and Hades; Attic red-figured kylix, c. 440-430 BC.; Vulci, Italy (Photo: Marie-Lan Nguyen)The fact that Persephone is associated with parthenogenesis, the scholarly term for "virgin birth," lends credence to the notion that Dionysus was virgin-born. As related further by Rigoglioso in Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (111):

Persephone's connection with the parthenogenetic pomegranate is attested in text and iconography. In speaking directly about the Eleusinian Mysteries, Clement of Alexandria (Exhortation to the Greeks 2:16) informs us that the pomegranate tree was believed to have sprung from the drops of the blood of Dionysus…

Although Dionysus is depicted as being the product of a "rape" by Zeus, the story is little different from the impregnation of the Virgin Mary by Yahweh without her consent, especially in consideration of the identification of Dionysus's very blood with parthenogenesis. In this regard, Rigoglioso also states, "I contend that Persephone's eating of the pomegranate was the magical action that instigated her ability to conceive parthenogenetically."

Also, in the museum in Naples has been kept an ancient marble urn showing the birth/nativity of Dionysus, with two groups of three figures on either side of the god Mercury, who is holding the divine baby, and a female figure who is receiving him.[2]

This depiction resembles the gospel story of "wise men" or dignitaries, traditionally held to number three, approaching Joseph, the divine child and Mary.

Miracles

Dionysus holding a drinking cup, surrounded by grapes and vines. (Red-figure amphora by the Berlin Painter, c. 490-480 BCE; Vulci, Italy; Louvre, Paris)The miracles of Dionysus are legendary, as is his role as the god of wine, echoed in the later Christian story of Jesus multiplying the jars of wine at the wedding feast of Cana (Jn 2:1-9). Concerning this miracle, biblical scholar Dr. A.J. Mattill remarks:

This story is really the Christian counterpart to the pagan legends of Dionysus, the Greek god of wine, who at his annual festival in his temple of Elis filled three empty kettles with wine-no water needed! And on the fifth of January wine instead of water gushed from his temple at Andros. If we believe Jesus' miracle, why should we not believe Dionysus's? (Leedom, 125)

Dionysus's miracle of changing water to wine is recounted in pre-Christian times by Diodorus (Library of History, 3.66.3). As the god of the vine, Dionysus is depicted in ancient texts as traveling around teaching agriculture, as well as doing various other miracles, such as in Homer's The Iliad, dating to the 9th century BCE, and in The Bacchae of Euripides, the famous Greek playwright who lived around 480 to 406 BCE.

"Dionysus's blood is the wine of the sacrifice."

It is further interesting that the Communion as practiced today within Catholicism also had a place within the cult of Dionysus, as Campbell points out:

Dionysus-Bacchus-Zagreus-or, in the older, Sumero-Babylonian myths, Dumuzi-absu, Tammuz-...whose blood, in this chalice to be drunk, is the pagan prototype of the wine of the sacrifice of the Mass, which is transubstantiated by the words of consecration into the blood of the Son of the Virgin. (Campbell, MG, 4.23)

Epithets

In an Orphic hymn, Phanes-Dionysus is styled by the Greek title Protogonos or "first-born" of Zeus, also translated at times as "only-begotten son," although the term Monogenes would be more appropriately rendered as the latter. He is also called "Soter" or "Savior" in various inscriptions, including a bronze coin from the Thracian city of Maroneia dating to circa 400-350 BCE.[3] Like Jesus in his aspect as the Father, Dionysus is called Pater, or "father" in Greek.

"Dionysus is 'first-born,' 'Savior' and 'Father.'"

The title "King of Kings" and other epithets may reflect Dionysus's kinship with Osiris:

During the late 18th to early 19th dynasties (c. 1300 BCE), Osiris's epithets included, "the king of eternity, the lord of everlastingness, who traverseth millions of years in the duration of his life, the firstborn son of the womb of Nut, begotten of Seb, the prince of gods and men, the god of gods, the king of kings, the lord of lords, the prince of princes, the governor of the world whose existence is for everlasting." (Budge, liii)
Death/Resurrection

Dionysus's death and resurrection were famous in ancient times, so much so that Christian father Origen (c. 184-c. 254) felt the need to address them in his Contra Celsus (IV, XVI-XVII), comparing them unfavorably, of course, to those of Christ. By Origen's time, these Dionysian mysteries had already been celebrated for centuries. Dionysus/Bacchus's resurrection or revival after having been torn to pieces or otherwise killed earned him the epithet of "twice born."

'[S]cene in the underworld. Dionysos mounting a chariot is about to leave his mother, Semele, and ascend'
(Kerenyi, pl. 47)

Moreover, it was said that Dionysus/Bacchus "slept three nights with Proserpine [Persephone],"[4] evidently referring to the god's journey into the underworld to visit his mother. Like Jesus, the god is claimed also to have "ascended to heaven," such as by Church father Justin Martyr (First Apology, 21; Roberts I, 170). Note that Dionysus is depicted here as an adult, rising out of the underworld after death, with a horse-driven chariot so typical of a sun god. One major astrotheological meaning of this motif is the sun's entrance into and exit from the cave (womb) of the world at the winter solstice.

Hence, in Dionysus we have yet another solar hero, born of a virgin on "December 25th" or the winter solstice, performing miracles and receiving divine epithets, being killed, giving his blood as a sacrifice, resurrecting from the dead after three days in Hades/Hell, and ascending into heaven. These motifs have all been claimed of the gospel figure of Jesus Christ since antiquity and have to do not with the adventures of a "historical" Jewish savior but with the ubiquitous solar mythos and ritual.

[1] See Murdock, Christ in Egypt, 120-197.
[2] Carus, 49; Mangasarian, 74. For the illustration, Carus cites: "After Mus. Bord., I., 49, from Baumeister, Plate I., p. 448."
[3] Wright, 30. See also Adrados, 327.

[4] Classical Journal, 92.

Bibliography

For more information, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled, 95-103, etc. See also The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook.

Also available for your Kindle Reader, iPhone, iPod, iPad, Blackberry, Android, PC, Mac and other devices!

The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook on Kindle

Primary Sources, Publications and Scholars Cited in The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook

Did Moses Exist? The Myth of the Israelite Lawgiver

Dionysus the Savior

Moses or Dionysus?

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?

- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In

Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Dionysus: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Killed and Resurrected after Three Days

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Disk with Dionysus and 11 signs of the zodiac; 4th cent. BCE; Brindisi, ItalyThe Greek god of wine, Dionysus or Bacchus, also called Iacchus, has been depicted as having been born of a virgin mother on December 25th; performing miracles such as changing water into wine; appearing surrounded by or one of 12 figures; bearing epithets such as "Father" and "Savior"; dying; resurrecting after three days; and ascending into heaven.

Dionysus shares the following attributes in common with the Christ character as found in the New Testament and Christian tradition.

Dionysus was born of a virgin on "December 25th" or the winter solstice.
He is the son of the heavenly Father.
As the Holy Child, Bacchus was placed in a cradle/crib/manger "among beasts."
Dionysus was a traveling teacher who performed miracles.
He was the God of the Vine, and turned water into wine.
Dionysus rode in a "triumphal procession" on an ass.
He was a sacred king killed and eaten in an eucharistic ritual for fecundity and purification.
The god traveled into the underworld to rescue his loved one, arising from the land of the dead after three days.
Dionysus rose from the dead on March 25th and ascended into heaven.
Bacchus was deemed "Father," "Liberator" and "Savior."
Dionysus was considered the "Only Begotten Son," "King of Kings," "God of Gods," "Sin Bearer," "Redeemer," "Anointed One" and the "Alpha and Omega."
He was identified with the Ram or Lamb.
His sacrificial title of "Dendrites" or "Young Man of the Tree" indicates he was hung on a tree or crucified.

"Early Christian art is rich with Dionysiac associations, whether in boisterous representations of agape feasting, in the miracle of water-into-wine at Cana, in wine and vine motifs alluding to the Eucharaist, and most markedly...in the use of Dionysiac facial traits for representations of Christ."

—Dr. Thomas F. Mathews, The Clash of the Gods, 45
Dionysus as the Sun

In studying religion and mythology, it is wise at to keep in mind that in the ancient world many gods were confounded and compounded, deliberately or otherwise. Some were even considered interchangeable, such as the Egyptian gods Osiris, Horus and Ra. In this regard, ancient Greek historian Plutarch (35, 364E) states, "Osiris is identical with Dionysus," the Greek son of God. Dionysus, also known as Bacchus or Iacchus, is likewise identified with the god Aion and referred to as "Zeus Sabazius" in other traditions. (Graves, R., 335) Hence, we would expect him to share at least some of all these gods' attributes, including being born of a virgin at the winter solstice (Aion), and dying and rising from the dead (Osiris).

"Bacchus, Apollo, the Sun, are one deity."

Moreover, in Seven Books Against the Heathen (3.33), early Christian writer Arnobius (284-305) remarks that the Pagans "maintain that Bacchus, Apollo, the Sun, are one deity" and "the sun is also Bacchus and Apollo." (Roberts, VI, 472-3) We would expect, therefore, Dionysus's attributes to reflect solar mythology as well.

Dionysus riding a quadriga chariot

Dionysus returns from India riding a quadriga chariot
Mosaic pavement, 3rd cent. ad/ce
Sousse, Tunisia
(Patrick Hunt)

Apollo riding in his sun chariot
December 25th/Winter Solstice

As with Jesus, December 25th and January 6th are both traditional birth dates in the Dionysian myth and simply represent the period of the winter solstice. Indeed, the winter-solstice date of the Greek sun and wine god Dionysus was originally recognized in early January but was eventually placed on December 25th, as related by ancient Latin writer Macrobius (c. 400 AD/CE). Regardless, the effect is the same: The winter sun god is born around this time, when the shortest day of the year begins to become longer.

"Macrobius transfers this feast to the day of the winter solstice, December 25."

The ancient Church father Epiphanius (4th cent.) discussed the birth of the god Aion, son of the Greek goddess Persephone or Kore ("Maiden"), at the time of the winter solstice. In this regard, Christian theologian Rev. Dr. Hugh Rahner (139-140) remarks:

> We know that Aion was at this time beginning to be regarded as identical with Helios and Helios with Dionysus...because [according to Macrobius] Dionysus was the symbol of the sun... He is made to appear small at the time of the winter solstice, when upon a certain day the Egyptians take him out of the crypt, because on this the shortest day of the year it is as though he were a little child.... Macrobius transfers [this feast] to the day of the winter solstice, December 25.

Dionysus is thus equivalent to Aion and was also said to have been born of Persephone, the virgin maiden. Esteemed mythologist Joseph Campbell (MI, 34) confirms this "celebration of the birth of the year-god Aion to the virgin Goddess Kore," the latter of whom he calls "a Hellenized transformation of Isis," the Egyptian mother goddess who was likewise called the "Great Virgin" in inscriptions predating the Christian era by centuries.[1]

Virgin Birth

According to the most common tradition, Dionysus was the son of the god Zeus and the mortal woman Semele. In the Cretan version of the same story, which the pre-Christian Greek historian Diodorus Siculus follows, Dionysus was the son of Zeus and Persephone, the daughter of Demeter also called Kore, who is styled a "virgin goddess."

In the common myth about the birth of Dionysus/Bacchus, Semele is mysteriously impregnated by one of Zeus's bolts of lightning--an obvi-ous miraculous/virgin conception.

Semele, Zeus and the divine child Bacchus Semele immolated by the sky-god father-figure Zeus, who takes the divine child Bacchus (Bernard Salomon, Metamorphose figurée, 1557)

Concerning Dionysus's epithet "twice begotten," in the third century Church father Minucius Felix (Commodius, XII) remarked to his Pagan audience:

> Ye yourselves say that Father Liber was assuredly twice begotten. First of all he was born in India of Proserphine [Persephone] and Jupiter [Zeus]... Again, restored from his death, in another womb Semele conceived him again of Jupiter... (Roberts, IV, 205)

"The virgin conceived the ever-dying, ever-living god of bread and wine, Dionysus."

In another account, Jupiter/Zeus gives Dionysus's torn-up heart in a drink to Semele, who becomes pregnant with the "twice born" god this way, again a miraculous or "virgin" birth. Indeed, Joseph Campbell explicitly calls Semele a "virgin":

> While the maiden goddess sat there, peacefully weaving a mantle on which there was to be a representation of the universe, her mother contrived that Zeus should learn of her presence; he approached her in the form of an immense snake. And the virgin conceived the ever-dying, ever-living god of bread and wine, Dionysus, who was born and nurtured in that cave, torn to death as a babe and resurrected... (Campbell, MG, 4.27)

This same direct appellation is used by Cambridge professor and anthropologist Sir Dr. Edmund Ronald Leach:

Dionysus, son of Zeus, is born of a mortal virgin, Semele, who later became immortalized through the inter-vention of her divine son; Jesus, son of God, is born of a mortal virgin, Mary… such stories can be dupli-cated over and over again. (Hugh-Jones, 108)

Using the scholarly Greek term parthenos, meaning "virgin," in The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece (95) Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso concludes: "Semele was also likely a holy parthenos by virtue of the fact that she gave birth to Dionysus via her union with Zeus (Hesiod, Theogony 940)."

These learned individuals had reason to consider Dionysus's mother a virgin, as, again, he was also said to have been born of Persephone/Kore, whom, once more from Epiphanius, was herself deemed a "virgin," or parthenos. In this regard, professor emeritus of Classics at the University of Pennsylvania Dr. Donald White (183) says, "As a title 'Parthenos' was appropriate to both Demeter and Persephone..."

Persephone and Hades; Attic red-figured kylix, c. 440-430 BC.; Vulci, Italy (Photo: Marie-Lan Nguyen)The fact that Persephone is associated with parthenogenesis, the scholarly term for "virgin birth," lends credence to the notion that Dionysus was virgin-born. As related further by Rigoglioso in Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (111):

Persephone's connection with the parthenogenetic pomegranate is attested in text and iconography. In speaking directly about the Eleusinian Mysteries, Clement of Alexandria (Exhortation to the Greeks 2:16) informs us that the pomegranate tree was believed to have sprung from the drops of the blood of Dionysus…

Although Dionysus is depicted as being the product of a "rape" by Zeus, the story is little different from the impregnation of the Virgin Mary by Yahweh without her consent, especially in consideration of the identification of Dionysus's very blood with parthenogenesis. In this regard, Rigoglioso also states, "I contend that Persephone's eating of the pomegranate was the magical action that instigated her ability to conceive parthenogenetically."

Also, in the museum in Naples has been kept an ancient marble urn showing the birth/nativity of Dionysus, with two groups of three figures on either side of the god Mercury, who is holding the divine baby, and a female figure who is receiving him.[2]

This depiction resembles the gospel story of "wise men" or dignitaries, traditionally held to number three, approaching Joseph, the divine child and Mary.

Miracles

Dionysus holding a drinking cup, surrounded by grapes and vines. (Red-figure amphora by the Berlin Painter, c. 490-480 BCE; Vulci, Italy; Louvre, Paris)The miracles of

Dionysus are legendary, as is his role as the god of wine, echoed in the later Christian story of Jesus multiplying the jars of wine at the wedding feast of Cana (Jn 2:1-9). Concerning this miracle, biblical scholar Dr. A.J. Mattill remarks:

This story is really the Christian counterpart to the pagan legends of Dionysus, the Greek god of wine, who at his annual festival in his temple of Elis filled three empty kettles with wine-no water needed! And on the fifth of January wine instead of water gushed from his temple at Andros. If we believe Jesus' miracle, why should we not believe Dionysus's? (Leedom, 125)

Dionysus's miracle of changing water to wine is recounted in pre-Christian times by Diodorus (Library of History, 3.66.3). As the god of the vine, Dionysus is depicted in ancient texts as traveling around teaching agriculture, as well as doing various other miracles, such as in Homer's The Iliad, dating to the 9th century BCE, and in The Bacchae of Euripides, the famous Greek playwright who lived around 480 to 406 BCE.

"Dionysus's blood is the wine of the sacrifice."

It is further interesting that the Communion as practiced today within Catholicism also had a place within the cult of Dionysus, as Campbell points out:

Dionysus-Bacchus-Zagreus-or, in the older, Sumero-Babylonian myths, Dumuzi-absu, Tammuz-...whose blood, in this chalice to be drunk, is the pagan prototype of the wine of the sacrifice of the Mass, which is transubstantiated by the words of consecration into the blood of the Son of the Virgin. (Campbell, MG, 4.23)

Epithets

In an Orphic hymn, Phanes-Dionysus is styled by the Greek title Protogonos or "first-born" of Zeus, also translated at times as "only-begotten son," although the term Monogenes would be more appropriately rendered as the latter. He is also called "Soter" or "Savior" in various inscriptions, including a bronze coin from the Thracian city of Maroneia dating to circa 400-350 BCE.[3] Like Jesus in his aspect as the Father, Dionysus is called Pater, or "father" in Greek.

"Dionysus is 'first-born,' 'Savior' and 'Father.'"

The title "King of Kings" and other epithets may reflect Dionysus's kinship with Osiris: During the late 18th to early 19th dynasties (c. 1300 BCE), Osiris's epithets included, "the king of eternity, the lord of everlastingness, who traverseth millions of years in the duration of his life, the firstborn son of the womb of Nut, begotten of Seb, the prince of gods and men, the god of gods, the king of kings, the lord of lords, the prince of princes, the governor of the world whose existence is for everlasting." (Budge, liii)

Death/Resurrection

Dionysus's death and resurrection were famous in ancient times, so much so that Christian father Origen (c. 184-c. 254) felt the need to address them in his Contra Celsus (IV, XVI-XVII), comparing them unfavorably, of course, to those of Christ. By

Origen's time, these Dionysian mysteries had already been celebrated for centuries. Dionysus/Bacchus's resurrection or revival after having been torn to pieces or otherwise killed earned him the epithet of "twice born."

'[S]cene in the underworld. Dionysos mounting a chariot is about to leave his mother, Semele, and ascend'
(Kerenyi, pl. 47)

Moreover, it was said that Dionysus/Bacchus "slept three nights with Proserpine [Persephone],"[4] evidently referring to the god's journey into the underworld to visit his mother. Like Jesus, the god is claimed also to have "ascended to heaven," such as by Church father Justin Martyr (First Apology, 21; Roberts I, 170). Note that Dionysus is depicted here as an adult, rising out of the underworld after death, with a horse-driven chariot so typical of a sun god. One major astrotheological meaning of this motif is the sun's entrance into and exit from the cave (womb) of the world at the winter solstice.

Hence, in Dionysus we have yet another solar hero, born of a virgin on "December 25th" or the winter solstice, performing miracles and receiving divine epithets, being killed, giving his blood as a sacrifice, resurrecting from the dead after three days in Hades/Hell, and ascending into heaven. These motifs have all been claimed of the gospel figure of Jesus Christ since antiquity and have to do not with the adventures of a "historical" Jewish savior but with the ubiquitous solar mythos and ritual.

[1] See Murdock, Christ in Egypt, 120-197.

[2] Carus, 49; Mangasarian, 74. For the illustration, Carus cites: "After Mus. Bord., I., 49, from Baumeister, Plate I., p. 448."

[3] Wright, 30. See also Adrados, 327.

[4] Classical Journal, 92.

Bibliography

For more information, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled, 95-103, etc. See also The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook.

Also available for your Kindle Reader, iPhone, iPod, iPad, Blackberry, Android, PC, Mac and other devices!

The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook on Kindle

Primary Sources, Publications and Scholars Cited in The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook

Did Moses Exist? The Myth of the Israelite Lawgiver

Dionysus the Savior

Moses or Dionysus?

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?

- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine."
—David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

'A Roman wood and ivory throne found in the Villa of the Papyri, Herculaneum, showing Attis next to a sacred pine tree collecting a pine cone.' (Photo: Reuters/Archaeology Superintendent of Pompeii)

In many mythicist writings, the ancient Phrygo-Roman god Attis is depicted as having been born of a virgin mother on December 25th, being killed and resurrecting afterwards. Here we shall examine the evidence for these contentions, which parallel the gospel story and Christian tradition concerning Jesus Christ.

Attis was born on December 25th of the Virgin Nana.
He was a shepherd, as Christ was called the "Good Shepherd."
He was considered the "only begotten son," the Logos/Word and the savior slain for the salvation of mankind.
His cult had a sacrificial meal, at which, it is contended, his body as bread was eaten by his worshippers.
His priests were "eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven" (Mt 19:12).
Attis served as both the Divine Son and the Father.
On "Black Friday," he was "crucified" on a tree, from which his holy blood ran down to redeem the earth.
He descended into the underworld.
After three days, Attis was resurrected on March 25th (as tradition held of Jesus) as the "Most High God."

Providing a summary of the mythos and ritual of Attis, along with comparisons to Christian tradition, professor of Classics and Ancient History at the University of Manchester Dr. Andrew T. Fear states:

The youthful Attis after his murder was miraculously brought to life again three days after his demise. The celebration of this cycle of death and renewal was one of the major festivals of the metroac cult. Attis therefore represented a promise of reborn life and as such it is not surprising that we find representations of the so-called mourning Attis as a common tomb motif in the ancient world.

The parallel, albeit at a superficial level, between this myth and the account of the resurrection of Christ is clear. Moreover Attis as a shepherd occupies a favourite Christian image of Christ as the good shepherd. Further parallels also seem to have existed: the pine tree of Attis, for example, was seen as a parallel to the cross of Christ.

Beyond Attis himself, Cybele too offered a challenge to Christian divine nomenclature. Cybele was regarded as a virgin goddess and as such could be seen as a rival to the Virgin Mary... Cybele as the mother of the Gods, mater Deum, here again presented a starkly pagan parallel to the Christian Mother of God.

There was rivalry too in ritual. The climax of the celebration of Attis' resurrection, the Hilaria, fell on the 25th of March, the date that the early church had settled on as the day of Christ's death.... (Lane, 39-40)

As we can see, according to this scholar, Attis is killed, fixed to a tree, and resurrects after three days, while his mother is "regarded as a virgin goddess" comparable to the Virgin Mary.

These conclusions come from the writings of ancient Pagans, as well as the early Church fathers, including Justin Martyr, Clement of Alexandria, Hippolytus, Tatian, Tertullian, Augustine, Arnobius and Firmicus Maternus.
Born of the Virgin Nana

The Phrygian god Attis's mother was variously called Cybele and Nana. Like the Egyptian goddess Isis and the Christian figure Mary, Nana/Cybele is a perpetual virgin, despite her status as a mother. The scholarly term used to describe virgin birth is "parthenogenesis," while many goddesses are referred to as "Parthenos," the Greek word meaning "virgin." This term is applicable to the Phrygian goddess Cybele/Nana as well.

"Attis is the son of Cybele in her form as the virgin, Nana."

Medallion of Cybele in chariot, under the sun, moon and star; 2nd cent. BCE, Ai Khanoum, Afghanistan (Singh, 94)

The diverse names of Attis's mother and her manner of impregnation are explained by Dr. David Adams Leeming (25), professor emeritus of English and comparative literature at the University of Connecticut:

Attis is the son of Cybele in her form as the virgin, Nana, who is impregnated by the divine force in the form of a pomegranate.

Regarding Nana, in Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (111), Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso states:

...Another instance of spontaneous conception occurred when Nana, whose very name was one by which the Great Goddess was known, became pregnant simply by eating the tree's fruit...

December 25th

The "December 25th" or winter-solstice birth of the sun god is a common theme in several cultures around the world over the past millennia, including the Egyptian, among others. As it is for the Perso-Roman god Mithra, the Egyptian god Horus and the Christian godman Jesus, this date has likewise been claimed for Attis's nativity as well.

For example, Barbara G. Walker (77) writes:

Attis's passion was celebrated on the 25th of March, exactly nine months before the solstitial festival of his birth, the 25th of December. The time of his death was also the time of his conception, or re-conception.

"Each year, Attis was born at the winter solstice."

In this same regard, Shirley Toulson (34) remarks:

In the secret rites of this Great Mother the young god Attis figured as her acolyte and consort.... Each year he was born at the winter solstice, and each year as the days shortened, he died.

The reasoning behind this contention of the vegetative and solar god Attis's birth at the winter solstice is sound enough, in that it echoes natural cycles, with the god's death at the vernal equinox also representing the time when he is conceived again, to be born nine months later.

Moreover, at times the young Attis was merged with Mithra, whose birthday was traditionally held on December 25th and with whom he shared the same Phrygian capped attire.

Attis wearing a Phrygian cap

Marble bust of Attis wearing Phrygian cap
2nd cent. ad/ce
(Paris)

Mithra wearing a Phrygian cap

Mithra in a Phrygian cap
2nd cent. ad/ce
Rome, Italy
(British Museum, London)
Crucified

The myths of Attis's death include him being killed by a boar or by castrating himself under a tree, as well as being hung on a tree or "crucified." Indeed, he has been called the "castrated and crucified Attis." (Harari, 31) It should be noted that the use of the term "crucified" as concerns gods like Horus and Attis does not connote that he or they were thrown to the ground and nailed to a cross, as we commonly think of crucifixion, based on the Christian tale. In reality, there have been plenty of ancient figures who appeared in cruciform, some of whose myths specifically have them punished or killed through crucifixion, such as Prometheus.

"The god has been called the 'castrated and crucified Attis.'"

Moreover, Attis is said to have been "crucified" to a pine tree, while Christ too was related as being both crucified and hung on a tree (Acts5:30 ;10:39). As stated by La Trobe University professor Dr. David John Tacey (110):

Especially significant for us is the fact that the Phrygian Attis was crucified upon the tree...

In antiquity, these two concepts were obviously similar enough to be interchangeable in understanding.
Tomb/Three Days/Resurrected

We have already seen Dr. Fear's commentary that Attis was dead for three days and was resurrected, worth reiterating here:

"The youthful Attis after his murder was miraculously brought to life again three days after his demise."

Death of AttisThe death and resurrection in three days, the "Passion of Attis," is also related by Professor Merlin Stone (146):

Roman reports of the rituals of Cybele record that the son...was first tied to a tree and then buried. Three days later a light was said to appear in the burial tomb, whereupon Attis rose from the dead, bringing salvation with him in his rebirth.

Concerning the discovery of a throne at Herculaneum, Italy, buried in the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 AD/CE, archaeologist Dr. Mark Merrony remarks:

...Unusually, the throne is carved with scenes depicting the mystery cult of Attis, which spread to Rome from Turkey via Greece during the reign of Claudius (AD 41-54). Essentially, historical texts indicate that this cult was concerned with the life, death, and resurrection of the goddess, and involved several key stages enacted in March: the procession of the reed-bearers and flute-blowers; the entrance of the sacred pine tree; the burial of the effigy of Attis strapped to a stake; mourning, sacrifice, and bloodletting; and the resurrection of Attis. The best-preserved scene on the throne shows the deity collecting a pine cone next to a sacred pine tree.

There is a debate as to when the various elements were added to the Attis myth and ritual. Contrary to the current fad of dismissing all correspondences between Christianity and Paganism, the fact that Attis was at some point a "dying and rising god" is concluded by Dr. Tryggve Mettinger, a professor of Old Testament Studies at the University of Lund and author of The Riddle of the Resurrection, who relates: "Since the time of Damascius (6th cent. ad/ce), Attis seems to have been believed to die and return." (Mettinger, 159) By that point, we possess clear discussion in writing of Attis having been resurrected, but when exactly were these rites first celebrated and where? Attis worship is centuries older than Jesus worship and was popular in some parts of the Roman Empire before and well into the "Christian era."

In the case of Attis, we possess a significant account of his death and mourning in the writings of the Greek historian of the first century BCE, Diodorus Siculus (3.58.7), including the evidently annual ritual creation of his image by priests, indicative of his resurrection. Hence, these noteworthy aspects of the Attis myth are clearly pre-Christian. The reason these motifs are common in many places is because they revolve around nature worship, solar mythology and astrotheology.

Bibliography

Harari, Josue V. Textual Strategies: Perspectives in Post-Structural Criticism. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1979.
Lane, Eugene N., ed. Cybele, Attis and Related Cults. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1996.
Leeming, David Adams. Mythology: The Voyage of the Hero. New York/Oxford University Press, 1998.
Merrony, Mark. "An Ivory Throne for Herculaneum." minervamagazine.com/news.asp?min_issue=MAR_APR2008
Mettinger, Tryggve D. The Riddle of the Resurrection. Coronet, 2001.
Murdock, D.M. Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection. Seattle: Stellar House Publishing, 2009.
--"The Real ZEITGEIST Challenge." stellarhousepublishing.com/zeitgeist-challenge.html
Rigoglioso, Marguerite. Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2010.
Stone, Merlin. When God was a Woman. New York: Dorset Press, 1990.
Tacey, David John. Patrick White: Fiction, and the Unconscious. Melbourne/New York: Oxford University Press, 1988.
Toulson, Shirley. The Winter Solstice. London: Jill Norman & Hobhouse, 1981.
Vermaseren, Maarten Jozef. Cybele, Attis, and Related Cults: Essays in Memory of M. J. Vermaseren. Leiden/New York: E.J. Brill, 1996.
Walker, Barbara G. The Woman's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets. HarperSanFrancisco, 1983.

For more information, see The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook.

Also available for your Kindle Reader, iPhone, iPod, iPad, Blackberry, Android, PC, Mac and other devices!

The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook on Kindle
Primary Sources, Publications and Scholars Cited in The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!

Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion

- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

The following article is excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god cover image

"The goddesses have stories to tell. One such story—far too long ignored—is that, in their original, unadulterated form, they were parthenogenetic. The word parthenogenesis comes from the Greek parthenos, 'virgin' more or less, and gignesthai, 'to be born.' It means, essentially, to be born of a virgin—that is, without the participation of a male. For a goddess to be 'parthenogenetic' thus means that she stands as a primordial creatrix, who requires no male partner to produce the cosmos, earth, life, matter and even other gods out of her own essence. Plentiful evidence shows that in their earliest cults, before they were subsumed under patriarchal pantheons as the wives, sisters and daughters of male gods, various female deities of the ancient Mediterranean world were indeed considered self-generating, virgin creatrixes."

Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso, Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (1)

"Let our Christian readers bear in mind that the worship of the virgin and her child was common in the East, ages before the generally received account of Christ's appearance in the flesh."

Existence of Christ Disproved

"Crishna was born of a chaste virgin, called Devaki, who, on account of her purity, was selected to become the 'mother of God.'"

Doane, Bible Myths and Their Parallels in Other Religions

A recurring theme in ancient religion revolves around the manner of the sun god's birth, as well as the chastity of his mother. In a number of instances the sun god is perceived as being born of the inviolable dawn, the virgin moon or earth, or the constellation of Virgo. The virgin status of the mothers of pre-Christian gods and godmen has been asserted for centuries by numerous scholars of mythology and ancient religion. Nevertheless, because of the motif's similarity to a major Christian tenet, apologists attempt to debunk it by simply stating that these Pagan mothers were not virgins, for a variety of reasons, including their marital status, number of children and the manner of impregnation. Regardless, the virgin status of the ancient goddesses or mothers of gods remains, despite their manner of impregnation, because the fathers, like that of Jesus, are gods themselves, as opposed to mortals who physically penetrate the mothers. Also, the mothers are not "real people," but goddesses themselves, who therefore do not possess female genitalia. The Triple GoddessThus, despite being a mother, the goddess retains her virginity. In fact, the Virgin is one face of the Triple Goddess of ancient times, comprising the Maiden, Mother and Crone. Concerning the Triple Goddess, McLean says:

The more general archetype was often seen in mythology as threefold; thus, for example, Aphrodite was seen as Aphrodite the Virgin, Aphrodite the Wife, and Aphrodite the Whore. A similar triplicity is found in the figure of Isis as Sister, Wife and Widow of Osiris.

Regarding the Great Mother Goddess, whether called by the name Sophia, Ishtar or Isis, whose cult extended all over the Mediterranean and beyond, Legge says:

> Her most prominent characteristics show her to be a personification of the Earth, the mother of all living, ever bringing forth and ever a virgin

In The Once and Future Goddess, Gadon remarks:

> Many goddess were called virgin but this did not mean that chastity was considered a virtue in the pagan world. Some, like "Venus, Ishtar, Astarte, and Anath, the love goddesses of the Near East and classical mythology, are entitled virgin despite their lovers, who die and rise again for them each year."

Concerning the Goddess, Rev. James relates:

> Among the Sumerian and Babylonians she had been known as Inanna-Ishtar, while in Syria and Palestine she appeared as Asherah, Astarte and Anat, corresponding to Hera, Aphrodite and Artemis of the Greeks, representing the three main aspects of womanhood as wife and mother, as lover and mistress, and as a chaste and beautiful virgin full of youthful charm and vigour, often confused one with the other.

As one example of this confusion, in spite of this mythological theme of the triple goddess and her perpetual virginity, the virgin status of the Egyptian Madonna Isis is challenged because, according to one popular legend, she fecundated herself using Osiris's severed phallus. However, in another tradition Isis was miraculously impregnated "by a flash of lightning or by the rays of the moon." In The Golden Bough, Frazer tells another version in which Isis conceived Horus "while she fluttered in the form of a hawk over the corpse of her dead husband." In this story, Horus is born before Osiris is rent into pieces; hence, Isis does not use the dead god's phallus to impregnate herself. Frazer also says:

> The ritual of the nativity, as it appears to have been celebrated in Syria and Egypt, was remarkable. The celebrants retired into certain inner shrines, from which at midnight they issued with a loud cry, "The Virgin has brought forth! The light is waxing!" The Egyptians even represented the new-born sun by the image of an infant which on his birthday, the winter solstice, they brought forth and exhibited to his worshippers. No doubt the Virgin who thus conceived and bore a son on the twenty-fifth of December was the great Oriental goddess whom the Semites called the Heavenly Virgin or simply the Heavenly Goddess

Isis nursing Horus on Throne, Bronze Statue, Egyptian Late Period, 7th-6th cents. BCEThus, as is proper for goddesses, Isis retained her virginity, maintaining her epithets of "Immaculate Virgin" and the "uncontaminated goddess" regardless of her status also as "Mother of God" and "Magna Mater" or Great Mother. The same motif exists within Christianity, in which the Virgin Mother is essentially impregnated by the "holy ghost" but nonetheless remains a virgin. Isis is, in reality, the virgin or new moon, receiving or being impregnated by the light of the sun. In the mythos, the moon gives birth monthly and annually to the sun; hence, she is mother of many yet remains a virgin. Confirming Isis's rank as perpetual virgin, in The Story of Religious Controversy, Joseph McCabe, a Catholic priest for many years, writes:

> Virginity in goddesses is a relative matter.
>
> Whatever we make of the original myth Isis seems to have been originally a virgin (or, perhaps, sexless) goddess, and in the later period of Egyptian religion she was again considered a virgin goddess, demanding very strict abstinence from her devotees. It is at this period, apparently, that the birthday of Horus was annually celebrated, about December 25th, in the temples. As both Macrobius and the Christian writer [of the "Paschal Chronicle"] say, a figure of Horus as a baby was laid in a manger, in a scenic reconstruction of a stable, and a statue of Isis was placed beside it. Horus was, in a sense, the Savior of mankind. He was their avenger against the powers of darkness; he was the light of the world. His birth-festival was a real Christmas before Christ.

The Chronicon Paschale, or Paschal Chronicle, is a compilation finalized in the 7th century ce that seeks to establish a Christian chronology from "creation" to the year 628 ce, focusing on the date of Easter. In establishing Easter, the Christian authors naturally discussed astronomy/astrology, since such is the basis of the celebration of Easter, a pre-Christian festival founded upon the vernal equinox, or spring, when the "sun of God" is resurrected in full from his winter death. The vernal equinox during the current Ages of Pisces has fallen in March, specifically beginning on March 21st, lasting three days, when the sun overcomes the darkness, and the days begin to become longer than the night. In the solar mythos, the sun god starts his growth towards "manhood," when he is the strongest, at the summer solstice. Hence, Easter is the resurrection of the sun. As does Macrobius, the Paschal Chronicle relates that the sun (Horus) was presented every year at winter solstice (c. 12/25), as a babe born in a manger.

Ptah, Sokar, Osiris approach the baby Sokar in his ark or manger, brought out at the winter solstice, c. 3rd cent. BCE

Concerning the Paschal Chronicle, Dupuis relates:

> "the author of the Chronicle of Alexandria expresses himself in the following words: 'The Egyptians have consecrated up to this day the child-birth of a virgin and the nativity of her son, who is exposed in a "crib" to the adoration of the people'"

Another important source who cites the Paschal Chronicle and mentions Isis's virginity is James Bonwick in Egyptian Belief and Modern Thought:

> In an ancient Christian work, called the "Chronicle of Alexandria," occurs the following: "Watch how Egypt has consecrated the childbirth of a virgin, and the birth of her son, who was exposed in a crib to the adoration of her people"

CMU cites the "most ancient chronicles of Alexandria, which "testify as follows":

> "To this day, Egypt has consecrated the pregnancy of a virgin, and the nativity of her son, whom they annually present in a cradle, to the adoration of the people; and when king Ptolemy, three hundred and fifty years before our Christian era, demanded of the priests the significance of this religious ceremony, they told him it was a mystery."

CMU further states, "According to Eratosthenes [276-194 bce], the celestial Virgin was supposed to be Isis, that is, the symbol of the returning year."

Interestingly, all sources cited herein relate a different translation of the Chronicle, which would indicate that they used the original Latin text and that it contained the word "virgin."

Regarding Isis's baby, Count Volney remarks:

> It is the sun which, under the name of Horus, was born, like your [Christian] God, at the winter solstice, in the arms of the celestial virgin, and who passed a childhood of obscurity, indigence, and want, answering to the season of cold and frost.

The virginity of Isis was quite clearly a tenet held by her devotees. By Budge's assessment, Isis is also "the deity of the dawn," which, as we will see, would make her "inviolable" and "eternal," i.e., a perpetual virgin.

Isis suckling Horus, Mary suckling JesusThe worship of the Virgin Isis was eventually turned into that of the Virgin Mary. As Legge says:

> The worship of the Virgin as the Theotokos or Mother of God which was introduced into the Catholic Church about the time of the destruction of the Serapeum, enabled the devotees of Isis to continue unchecked their worship of the mother goddess by merely changing the name of the object of their adoration, and Prof. Drexler gives a long list of the statues of Isis which thereafter were used, sometimes with unaltered attributes, as those of the Virgin Mary.

Concerning this usurpation, which simply constituted the changing of the goddess from one ethnicity to another, apologist Sir Weigall remarks:

> while the story of the death and resurrection of Osiris may have influenced the thought of the earliest Christians in regard to the death and resurrection of our Lord, there can be no doubt that the myths of Isis had a direct bearing upon the elevation of Mary, the mother of Jesus, to her celestial position in the Roman Catholic theology In her aspect as the mother of Horus, Isis was represented in tens of thousands of statuettes and paintings, holding the divine child in her arms; and when Christianity triumphed these paintings and figures became those of the Madonna and Child without any break in continuity: no archaeologist, in fact, can now tell whether some of these objects represent the one or the other.

As noted, the tri-fold nature of the Goddess in general reflects, or is reflected in, the moon. In Greek mythology, the "triple moon" is represented by Selene; other goddesses also are lunar, such as Artemis, who was the "virgin" moon, and Hera, Zeus's wife and mother of several Hera suckling Herakles/Hercules, who drinks of the milk of eternal lifechildren. Hera, however, despite being portrayed as having relations with Zeus, remains a virgin, or, rather, becomes a "born-again virgin," by virtue of ritualistic bathing. As McLean says:

> Hera's three facets link her to the three Seasons and the three phases of the Moon. In her earliest appearance in myth she is associated with the cow, showing her connection with fecundity and birth, especially associated by the Greeks with this animal. She renewed her virginity each year by bathing in the stream Canathos near Argos, a place especially sacred to her.

Like Hera, Artemis too renews her virginity annually by bathing nude in a "sacred fountain." Even a promiscuous male god such as Zeus was both "Father" and "Eternal Virgin."

In reality, the virgin-mother motif is common enough in pre-Christian cultures to demonstrate its unoriginality in Christianity. In Pagan and Christian Creeds, Carpenter recites a long list of virgin mothers:

> Zeus, Father of the gods, visited Semele in the form of a thunderstorm; and she gave birth to the great saviour and deliverer Dionysus. Zeus, again, impregnated Danae in a shower of gold; and the child was Perseus Devaki, the radiant Virgin of the Hindu mythology, became the wife of the god Vishnu and bore Krishna, the beloved hero and prototype of Christ. With regard to Buddha, St. Jerome says "It is handed down among the Gymnosophists of India that Buddha, the founder of their system, was brought forth by a Virgin from her side." The Egyptian Isis, with the child Horus on her knee, was honored centuries before the Christian era, and worshipped under the names of "Our Lady," "Queen of Heaven," "Star of the Sea," "Mother of God," and so forth. Before her, Neith, the Virgin of the World, whose figure bends from the sky over the earthly plains and the children of men, was acclaimed as mother of the great god Osiris. The saviour Mithra, too, was born of a Virgin, as we have had occasion to notice before; and on Mithraist monuments the mother suckling her child is not an uncommon figure.
>
> The old Teutonic goddess Hertha (the Earth) was a Virgin, but was impregnated by the heavenly Spirit (the Sky); and her image with a child in her arms was to be seen in the sacred groves of Germany. The Scandinavian Frigga, in much the same way, being caught in the embraces of Odin, the All-father, conceived and bore a son, the blessed Balder, healer and saviour of mankind. Quetzalcoatl, the (crucified) saviour of the Aztecs, was the son of Chimalman, the Virgin Queen of Heaven. Even the Chinese had a mother-goddess and virgin with child in her arms; and the ancient Etruscans the same

Black Madonna and Child from the Cathedral of Santa Eulalia, Barcelona, SpainCarpenter also mentions the black virgin mothers found all over the Mediterranean and especially in Italian churches, representing not only Isis but also Mary, having been refigured or "baptized anew" as the "Jewish" Mother of God.

As stated, the theme of the virgin-born god can be found in the Americas as well, including in the story of Quetzalcoatl, but also in Brazil, among the Manicacas. It can likewise be found in India, where natives have revered for eons "Devi" or "Maha-Devi," "The One Great Goddess," in whose name temples have been built. Doane relates that a researcher named Gonzales found an Indian temple dedicated to the "Pariturae Virginisthe Virgin about to bring forth."

This "Devi" is apparently the same as Krishna's mother, Devaki, and, as was the case with these many ancient gods, Krishna has also been considered to have been "born of a virgin." Indeed, Carpenter repeats the assertion, also made by Rev. Cox, that Krishna's father was Vishnu, not the mortal Basudev, a sensible notion in light of Krishna's status as a sun god and incarnation of Vishnu. Regarding Krishna, Doane also states:

> According to the religion of the Hindoos, Crishnawas the Son of God, and the Holy Virgin Devaki

The ex-priest McCabe also reports Krishna's mother as a virgin, with Vishnu as his father:

> Devaki Nursing KrishnaThus one of the familiar religious emblems of India was the statue of the virgin mother (as the Hindus repute her) Devaki and her divine son Krishna, an incarnation of the great god Vishnu. Christian writers have held that this model was borrowed from Christianity, butthe Hindus had far earlier been in communication with Egypt and were more likely to borrow the model of Isis and Horus. One does not see why they should borrow any model. In nearly all religions with a divine mother and son a very popular image was that of the divine infant at his mother's breast or in her arms.

None of these writers originated this contention, as, moving back in time, we find reference to Devaki's virgin status in the writings of the esteemed Christian authority Sir William Jones from 1784:

> "The Indian incarnate God Chrishna, the Hindoos believe, had a virgin mother of the royal race, who was sought to be destroyed in his infancy about nine hundred years before Christ. It appears that he passed his life in working miracles, and preaching, and was so humble as to wash his friends' feet; at length, dying, but rising from the dead, he ascended into heaven in the presence of a multitude."...

The Virgin Goddess

The virgin goddess motif is prevalent in the ancient world because it is astrotheological, representing not only the moon but also the earth, Venus, Virgo and the dawn. As the Roman poet Virgil described or "prophesied" in his Eclogues in 37 bce, the "return of the virgin," i.e., Virgo would, along with other astrotheological events, bring about "a new breed of men sent down from heaven," as well as the birth of a boy "in whomthe golden race [shall] arise."

The virgin-born "golden boy" is the sun. As Hackwood states:

> Virgin Mary in front of the sun, standing on the moon, from a Medieval illuminated Latin manuscriptThe Virgin Mary is called not only the Mother of God, but the Queen of Heaven. This connects her directly with astronomic lore. The ornamentation of many continental churches often includes a representation of the Sun and Moon "in conjunction," the Moon being therein emblematical of the Virgin and Child.
>
> As the Moon is the symbol of Mary, Queen of Heaven, so also a bright Star sometimes symbolizes him whose star was seen over Jerusalem by the Wise Men from the East.

Regarding the astrotheological nature of the gospel story, including the virgin birth/immaculate conception, the famous Christian theologian and saint Albertus Magnus, or Albert the Great, (1193?-1280) admitted:

> "We know that the sign of the celestial Virgin did come to the horizon at the moment where we have fixed the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. All the mysteries of the incarnation of our Saviour Christ; and all the circumstances of his marvellous life, from his conception to his ascension, are to be traced out in the constellations, and are figured in the stars."

...As Albert the Great acknowledged, the virgin-birth motif is astrotheological, referring to the hour of midnight, December 25th, when the constellation of Virgo rises on the horizon. The Assumption of the Virgin, celebrated in Catholicism on August 15th, represents the summer sun's brightness blotting out Virgo. Mary's Nativity, celebrated on September 8th, occurs when the constellation is visible again. Such is what these "Christian" motifs and holidays represent, as has obviously been known by the more erudite of the Catholic clergy. Hence, the virgin who will conceive and bring forth is Virgo, and her son is the sun....

Hellenistic Mother and Child, Boeotia 450-440 BCE. London, British Museum. Photo: Ann Raia, 2006.In vain do apologists attempt to debunk the virgin status of Krishna's mother, because, even if she were not considered as such although she certainly was the other virgin birth stories preceding Christianity are abundant enough to demonstrate that this important aspect of Christian doctrine is of Pagan origin. In addition to the virgin-born deities and heroes already named were a number of others, which is to be expected since we know the astrotheological meaning behind the motif, as it applies to the sun god, who was worshipped all over the world by a wide variety of names and epithets. Concerning these miraculous births, Dr. Inman comments:

> Jupiter had Bacchus and Minerva without Juno's aid, and Juno retaliated by bearing Ares without conversation with her consort. We deride these tales, and yet think, that because we laugh at a hundred such we will be pardoned for believing one.

Again, the Christian virgin birth is no more historical or believable than that of these numerous other gods. Moreover, as Robertson says, "The idea of a Virgin-Mother-Goddess is practically universal." The list of Pagan virgin mothers includes the following:

AAncient Babylonian Mother and Childlcmene, mother of Hercules who gave birth on December 25th
Alitta, Babylonian Madonna and Child
Anat, Syrian wife of "the earlier Supreme God El," called "Virgin Goddess"
Cavillaca, Peruvian huaca (divine spirit) impregnated by the "son of the sun god" through eating his semen in the shape of a fruit
Chimalman, mother of Kukulcan
Chinese mother of Foe (Buddha)
Coatlicue, mother of the Mexican god Huitzilopochtli
Cybele, "Queen of Heaven and Mother of God"
Danae, mother of Perseus
Demeter/Ceres, "Holy Virgin" mother of Persephone/Kore and Dionysus
Devaki, mother of Krishna
Frigga, mother of the Scandinavian god Balder
Hera, mother of Zeus's children
Hertha, Teutonic goddess
Isis, who gave birth to Horus on December 25th
Juno, mother of Mars/Ares, called "Matrona" and "Virginalis," the Mother and Virgin
Mandana, mother of Cyrus/Koresh
Maya, mother of Buddha
Mother of Lao-kiun, "Chinese philosopher and teacher, born in 604 B.C."
Mother of the Indian solar god Rudra
Nana, mother of Attis
Neith, mother of Osiris, who was "worshipped as the Holy Virgin, the Great Mother, yet an Immaculate Virgin."
Nutria, mother of an Etruscan Son of God
Ostara, the German goddess
Rohini, mother of Indian "son of God"
Semele, mother of Dionysus/Bacchus, who was born on December 25th
Shin-Moo, Chinese Holy Mother
Siamese mother of Somonocodom (Buddha)
Sochiquetzal, mother of Quetzalcoatl
Vari, Polynesian "First Mother," who created her children "by plucking pieces out of her sides."
Venus, the "Virgo Coelestis" depicted as carrying a child

Obviously, the correspondences between Christianity and Paganism, including between the Christ and Krishna myths, are dramatic and not "non-existent," as some have attempted to contend. The debate then becomes whether or not the Christ fable was plagiarized from the Krishna myth, vice versa, or both come from a common root. In this regard, it should be kept in mind that there was plenty of commerce, materially and religiously, between India and Rome during the first centuries surrounding the beginning of the Christian era.

Since it is possible to show that most of the salient comparisons can be found in pre-Christian Pagan mythology, dating back millennia and existing independent of the Krishna story, the point becomes moot as to whether or not Christianity took its godman and tenets from Hinduism, as it already had many other antecedents to draw from. In reality, the virgin-birth motif is primitive and prehistoric, relating back to ages and cultures in which impregnation was considered mysterious and magical.

For more information, including citations, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled.

Also by Acharya S:

Was Krishna's Mother a Virgin?
The ZEITGEIST Sourcebook
Further Reading

Rigoglioso, Marguerite. Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. New York: Palgrave MacMillan, 2010.
-The Cult of Divine Birth in Ancient Greece. New York: Palgrave MacMillan, 2009.

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos

- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles

- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Neith, Virgin Mother of the World

Neith-Isis, Virgin Mother Goddess of Egypt, with shuttle on her head; 'A Handbook for Travellers in Lower and Upper Egypt.' London: John Murray, 1888; p. 082a

The worship of the Egyptian goddess Neith, a sometime mother of the solar deity Horus, is traceable to around 7,000 years ago, according to Dr. Wim van Binsbergen, chairman of the Foundations of Intercultural Philosophy at Erasmus University, who calls her an example of "female parthenogenetic cosmogenesis." (van Binsbergen, 35)

"Neith never engaged in any kind of sexual union; that is, she was eternally a virgin. Yet, as the primordial Being, she was also generative. Thus, in Neith we have one of the earliest appearances of the archetype of the Virgin Mother, the Holy Parthenos, in her original, unadulterated form."

Regarding the very ancient Neith and her parthenogenetic capacity, in her book Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso remarks:

> ...Neith was unequivocally portrayed as an autogenetic/ parthenogenetic creatrix in the inscriptions of the middle and late periods in Egypt, a depiction that may have characterized the goddess in her earliest cult as well. She specifically was both creator and "virgin," a being whose peplos, or dress, no one had lifted. As one of the oldest deities of Egypt, who most likely was worshipped throughout ancient Libya, she thus represents one of the earliest appearances of the archetype of the Virgin Mother > goddess in the ancient Mediterranean world. (23)

>
> It is important in discussing Neith as autogene, or self-created Virgin Mother...first to establish her preeminence in the Egyptian pantheon. Neith...was one of the oldest of all Egyptian deities and one of the most important divinities during the early historic period. There is strong evidence that her worship was widespread in predynastic times... She is first documented iconographically in the last phase of the predynastic period (c. fourth millennium B.C.E.)... (26)
>
> As a divinity of the First Principle, Neith was an autogenetic goddess who, in the ultimate mystery, created herself out of her own being. Budge notes...that an inscription on a statue of Utchat-Heru, a high priest of Neith, relates that she "was the first to give birth to anything, and that she had done so when nothing else had been born, and that she had herself never been born." We see her autogenetic aspect echoed in both Egyptian and Greek texts. Plutarch...refers to an inscription on her statue in Sais...: "I am everything that has been, and that is, and that shall be, and no one has ever lifted my garment (peplos)."... That in the above-noted Saitic inscription Neith's "garment" remained perpetually "unlifted" is also a sexual reference... The inscription therefore communicates that Neith never engaged in any kind of sexual union; that is, she was eternally a virgin. Yet, as the primordial Being, she was also generative. Thus, in Neith we have one of the earliest appearances of the archetype of the Virgin Mother, the Holy Parthenos, in her original, unadulterated form. (29-30)

Respected Egyptologist Dr. Claus Bleeker concurs with this assessment regarding Neith, remarking in The Rainbow: A Collection of Studies in the Science of Religion (139-140):

> It appears that the connection between Neith and the primeval cow has several impolications. Neith is not only a primeval deity but also a goddess of the universe. An echo of the conviction that she exercises the latter function can be heard in the inscription on her statue in Sais, as it is quoted by Plutarch: ["The present and the future and the past, I am. My undergarment no one has uncovered. The fruit I brought forth, the sun came into being."] Her quality as primeval deity is indicated in the explanation of her name which Plutarch offers, i.e.... "I came (into existence) out of myself."... It is confirmed by a line in the myth of creation at Esna, which reads: "apparue d'elle-même" ["appeared from herself"].
>
> The idea that Neith is a goddess who produces life out of herself is also expressed in the notion that she is androgynous.... She has no partner beside her. In Esna she is accompanied by two sons. She is the virgin goddess who procreates children without male assistance.
>
> It is therefore not surprising that she is considered as a creator. (Emph. added)

It should be recalled that Neith is identified in antiquity with both the Greek goddess Athena, who is likewise a parthenogenetic creatrix or virgin mother, as well as Isis, about whom the same can be and is said. Among others, Isis is identified with the constellation of Virgo, the Virgin, likewise in antiquity. There are many such manifestations of the virgin mother, long before Christianity was ever conceived.

Sources

Bleeker, Claus J. The Rainbow: A Collection of Studies in the Science of Religion. Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1975.
Rigoglioso, Marguerite. Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. New York: Palgrave MacMillan, 2010.
van Binsbergen, Wim M.J. "Skulls and tears: Identifying and analysing an African fantasy space extending over 5000 kilometres and across 5000 years" (1998), www.shikanda.net/ancient_models/fantasy_space_2006_expanded.pdf

Further Reading

ISIS IS A VIRGIN MOTHER!!!
Who is the Virgin Mary?
Who is Mary Magdalene?
Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
Was Krishna's Mother a Virgin?
The Virgin-Born Son of the Sun God

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?

- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society

- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter

Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
by Marguerite Rigoglioso, PhD
Reviewed by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity by Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso cover image & link

> "The lack of commentary on the tremendous female power embedded in some of our oldest religious stories has rendered virgin motherhood essentially invisible from the start...
>
> ...a Virgin Mother [is one] who produced life from within herself without a male consort."
>
> Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso, Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity (15, 51)

Whatever one takes away from Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity by Dr. Marguerite Rigoglioso, the book certainly is a tour de force. Phrases like "parthenogenetic creator deity" and "virgin creatrix" readily convey the concept of a virgin mother from remotest times, like a splash of cold water waking up our long dormant female spiritual traditions. There can be no doubt that the virgin-mother concept did not originate with Christianity and that, in my opinion, the idea of the Virgin Mary as a historical personage appears unsupportable from this and much more evidence.

Suddenly, it all makes sense: Of course, the Great Creator of the Universe has been viewed as a female--a goddess--during a significant period of human culture. Evidence in many places points to this idea of a self-generative--essentially virginal--female creator preceding the development of a male counterpart. For, if God the Father or Yahweh is the creator, yet he has no consort, according to Christian tradition, and is basically asexual, then he too is virginal. Like Isis and so many others, God the Father is the Great Virgin. Nevertheless, like them he too begets. He is the Virgin Father--a concept applied to the Greek god Zeus as well, despite how many times he is said to procreate, since he is called in antiquity "parthenos" or virgin. As mythologist Robert Graves says, "Thus the Orphic hymn celebrates Zeus as both Father and Eternal Virgin." (Graves, 361) Rigoglioso also discusses Zeus as virgin creator, as in Orphic fragment 167:

> Zeus's parthenogenetic capacity is expressed here in the idea that all existence was "created anew" in the moment of his ingesting of the older god [Phanes]. (Rigoglioso 2010, 46)

Cult of the Divine Birth by Marguerite RigogliosoThe role of Greek influence in much important religious thought is also highlighted in Dr. Rigoglioso's earlier work, The Cult of the Divine Births in Ancient Greece, which she frequently cites in her quest to show the omnipresent divine Virgin Mother Goddess in pre-Christian religion and mythology, dating back several thousand years. In any event, the various concepts predate their origin in Greece and can be found in numerous other places in antiquity, such as Asia Minor and Egypt.

As Rigoglioso thoroughly demonstrates in Virgin Mother Goddesses, ancient parthenogenetic female creators include:

Chaos, Nyx and Ge/Gaia
Athena/Neith/Metis
Artemis
Hera
Demeter and Persephone/Kore
Gnostic Sophia (essay by Angeleen Campra)

Space does not permit me to recount all the remarkable evidence and insights Rigoglioso provides; suffice it to say that my copy of Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity is full of plastic sticky tabs marking what seems to be every other paragraph.
Neith the Egyptian Prime Mover

While reading about the Egyptian virgin-mother goddess Neith, I was struck once more with how spiritually and religiously sophisticated were the Egyptians. Their high culture as revealed in their social structure and architecture is also expressed in their religion, mythology and spirituality. In many ways, in the Egyptian culture we are looking at an advanced level of civilization seldom reached since then.

Regarding Neith, Rigoglioso relates:

> As a divinity of the First Principle, Neith was an autogenetic [self-begetting] goddess who, in the ultimate mystery, created herself out of her own being. ...an inscription on a statue of Utchat-Heru, a high priest of Neith, relates that she "was the first to give birth to anything, and that she had done so when nothing else had been born, and that she had herself never been born." (Rigoglioso 2010, 29)

Neith, Virgin Goddess, Form of IsisAfter studying the attributes of Neith as a 7,000-year-old Virgin Mother, the parthenogenetic or virgin-birth capacity of other ancient goddesses becomes so blatantly obvious and cosmologically sound that discussions of whether or not a figure was "really a virgin" seem absurd. As does nitpicking a certain term, as to whether or not it might mean "virgin" or just a "maiden" who is fertile. The bottom line is that we are discussing a cosmological ideal, not real women who possess body parts.

The idea of the self-generating creator is logically female, based on observing nature--that is the virgin-mother concept in a nutshell, and the childish and unsophisticated fairytales placing this entity on Earth as a "real person" pale by comparison. These myths are, in fact, foolish when taken literally. As literal "facts," they are also degrading to women's sexuality, as opposed to the empowerment provided by the concept of the cosmic, formless and transcendent Virgin Mother.

Hera and Heracles

Although I have been studying Greek religion and mythology for decades, including in college and post-graduate studies in Greece itself, I was nonetheless intrigued to review the evidence concerning not only the antiquity of the pre-Olympian goddess Hera as a virgin mother but also her primacy over the male gods, who appear to be later interlopers and usurpers. (Rigoglioso 2010, 69ff)

Indeed, the struggle reflected in the mythology between Hera and Zeus, or the goddess and the god, in ancient Greece appears to have begun around 1,000 BCE and may have lasted some 300 or so years, before the Olympians finally ascended to the throne. As Rigoglioso remarks:

> Before the Greeks as we know them existed, a series of invaders from the east and northeast successively overran the Greek peninsula throughout the second-millennium B.C.E. Such invasions culiminated with the Indo-European Dorians, who entered Greece about 1100 B.C.E. and brough what became the language of Greece. They also brought a patriarchal social structure and religion. (Rigoglioso 2010, 11)

Marguerite further states:

> Strong indicators that Hera was originally conceived as a parthenogenetic goddess can be found in association with her cult on the island of Samos, located off the coast of ancient Anatolia (Turkey). On Samos, one of the primary and earliest seats of her worship, she was known as Hera Parthenia, "Hera the Virgin"... Such a title was apparently not uncommon in association with this goddess... (Rigoglioso 2010, 69)

Renewing her virginity annually in a river, Hera was nonetheless the mother who gave birth parthenogenetically to the Greek god of the forge, Hephaistos.

Hephaistos, Dionysus and Hera (Toledo Museum of Art, Toledo, Ohio; www.theoi.com/Gallery/K7.1B.html)

While Rigoglioso depicts the Greek hero and demigod Heracles (Hercules) as an antagonist to parthenogenesis, I would have liked to have seen a discussion of his own alleged virgin birth both from the mortal woman Alcmene and from Hera herself, as suggested by an older version of the myth that likewise reflects male domination of the matrilineal hierarchy. Speaking of Hera, Dr. Jane Ellen Harrison says, "Her first husband, or rather consort, was Herakles." (Harrison, 491; see also Jung, 539) In this scenario, Hera and Heracles take on the typical role as found around the Near East and Asia Minor: The virgin-mother goddess and her consort-son. The later myth of Zeus raping Alcmene, virgin daughter of Amphitryon, appears to have been serve as yet another instance of the violent usurpation of the virgin-mother goddess motif by the invasion of patriarchal religion.

Also, whereas Rigoglioso (92ff) sees in Heracles's labors the same male-dominant Olympians' overthrow of the goddess, the 12 tasks clearly possess astronomical or astrotheological meanings; yet, her thesis could help explain why these astrotheological events, rather than being joyous events as is found in other myths, are labors in this particular one. It is precisely these sort of factors that shape universal myths and make them culturally unique.

Inviolable Wisdom

Sophia (Celsus Library, Ephesus, Turkey; Photo: RadomilThe concluding chapter, "The Gnostic Sophia: Divine Generative Virgin" by Dr. Angeleen Campra, ties the subject together nicely by providing a bridge between Paganism and Judeo-Christian tradition, as it shows precisely how this ages-old concept of the divine feminine as primordial creator was demoted, at precisely the same time when Christianity was being formed, with its subordinate female figure of the Virgin Mary. Says Campra:

> Sophia rose out of a patriarchal worldview, but I argue that both iterations--Hochma/Sophia of the Wisdom literature of the fifth to first centuries B.C.E. and Sophia of the Valentinian Gnostic myth of the first centuries C.E.--reveal the attributes of the more ancient Virgin Mother deities from the areas neighboring West Asia. (Rigoglioso 2010, 193)

Campra's extensive survey clearly reveals that parthenogenesis was part of the enigmatic Gnostic doctrine, which brings this extremely ancient concept right down to and into the Christian era, with its evident remake of the Virgin Mother Goddess in Mary, whom I and many others contend is a mythical not historical figure, largely based on this widespread and ancient goddess concept.

The Great Matriarchy v. Patriarchy Debate

Rigoglioso's important study goes a long way in resurrecting the works of Marija Gimbutas, Riane Eisler and Merlin Stone in the "Great Matriarchy v. Patriarchy Debate," in which their thesis of Goddess or female primacy has been assailed and claimed to be "discredited," replaced with more oblique terminology describing "partnership" versus "dominator" cultures. Indeed, in this regard Marguerite has come out in support of this earlier research (Rigoglioso 2002) and says in VMGA (9):

> Critics of the theory that a matriarchal phase of human history preceded patriarchy will no doubt deride the fact that I am even considering such a concept as basis for this book. Haven't we thoroughly trounced the notion and shown it to be archaeologically and anthropologically untenable or unprovable, after all? Haven't we shown, in fact that matriarchies never existed?
>
> I would argue, no.

Concerning Gimbutas in specific, Rigoglioso also remarks:

> Although controversy surrounds Gimbutas's methods and conclusions..., the viewpoint I adopt is in accord with those of archaeologists and other scholars who are verifying and expanding on various aspects of Gimbutas's theories... I believe that, because prominent classics scholars...independently held to similar theoretical views, the assumption of an early matriarchal substratum in Greece, upon which my analysis is based, is built on firm, if not conclusive, footing. (Rigoglioso 2010, 210-11)

Riglioso even suggests that the derision of the opposition to the matriarchal thesis represents "women-on-women violence." (Rigoglioso 2002) In the same essay, Marguerite also says of this academic debate, in which the goddess movement has been assailed:

> So the attack has been particularly virulent--involving the even more vicious tactic of professional discrediting when scorn alone won't do--because we pose a threat to the reigning paradigm.

In the end, Rigoglioso's work also clearly shows the Goddess primacy being overthrown by the male gods and patriarchy, demonstrated through myths and religious, historical and cultural developments over the centuries.

The Root of Female Oppression

It is not simply the solid evidence Rigoglioso puts together so abundantly Patriarchy v. Matriarchythat delights, it is also her very thesis itself that is enticing and refreshing. I thoroughly enjoyed her conclusions, albeit they reflect a tragedy, a violent usurpation riddled with sexism and misogyny that have led to incalculable suffering worldwide over the past three millennia or so. Yet, I was relieved to see this sensible explanation for female oppression within religion and mythology coming to light, as I always am when I read the writings of other writers such as Barbara G. Walker. Indeed, Walker's fantastic work on women's spirituality is beautifully complemented by Rigoglioso's undertaking. These endeavors go far in restoring dignity and respect to the female aspect of creation, so badly derogated, abused, oppressed and enslaved by the patriarchal Abrahamic and other religions the past several thousand years.

Drawbacks and Omissions

The only serious criticism I have of the book is its price, which is unfortunately that of an academic press and too great for the average reader, who will thus miss out on all the fascinating and important information. As a publisher, I know I could make this tome for far less and with many images to boot! Fortunately, it is likely that the book will become available in paperback, as is the case with Rigoglioso's previous work The Cult of Divine Birth.

Moreover, for the average reader this book may seem dense and, at times, tedious, as well as challenging because of the academic style of citation that includes the author, year and page number parenthetically in the text, rather than as footnotes or endnotes. Non-scholars may find the style initially distracting or intimidating, but they may also get used to it in their quest to pull out all the gems, which are plentiful.

At certain points, I felt as if the author was overreaching in her conclusions, but such is always the case when one is seriously attempting to prove a controversial thesis with as much evidence as is possible--and it is my studied opinion that Rigliogoso has proved her main thesis of the widespread presence of the virgin-mother goddess concept in antiquity, as well as this mythological motif's overthrow by the male-dominated cultus.

Artemis of EphesusIn addition, as a scholar and enthusiast of the astrotheological meaning of much religious doctrine and many mythical motifs, I would like to have seen more of a discussion of the virgin birth theme as reflecting characteristics of celestial bodies or events, as well as their interaction with the earth and its inhabitants. In this regard, in ancient myths we find a theme of the virgin and inviolable dawn goddess giving birth to the new, morning sun. Likewise, many parthenogenetic goddesses are equated with the earth, moon, Venus and Virgo. In this regard, I was interested in various brief references by Rigoglioso to the moon as it related to certain goddesses, such as the African Nyame (42) and the Greek Artemis (57, 211).

Importantly, Marguerite and I differ substantially in our conclusions as to what this evidence means in the overall scheme of things. While she avers that the Virgin Mary was a real person, I evince in my numerous books and articles that these various characters, including the Christian figures, represent mythical motifs reflective of ancient nature worship, solar mythology and astrotheology. In this regard, I am of the opinion that VMGA is one of the great works to be used in proving the mythicist position: To wit, while many of the ancients did indeed perceive certain figures such as Hercules or Osiris to have been "real people" who "walked the earth" in remote times - a notion explored most famously by the Greek philosopher Euhemerus (c. 330-260 BCE) - these characters were in fact anthropomorphizations of very ancient, cosmic ideals and concepts. As ancient writers attest and as we know from such simple notions as the days of the week, many of our most important gods and goddesses are unquestionably astrotheological in nature, including the sun and moon gods and goddesses, as well as the various iterations of the planets and constellations. In other words, the personifications of the celestial bodies are clearly not real people, whether or not divine.

Moreover, in the chapter on Demeter and Persephone, whom she demonstrates were "originally conceived as Virgin Mothers" (100), Rigoglioso goes into a lengthy discussion of the rape of the virgin goddess and the ritual use of a phallus by initiates into the Eleusinian Mysteries, both male and female. This section is important for historical purposes, but it may make some readers uncomfortable in its frankness and graphic depictions.

Conclusion

From her style and thoroughness, Dr. Rigoglioso is clearly a first-rate scholar. Yet, some of her thesis will undoubtedly be uncomfortable for many, and if she had composed this work a century ago based on those conclusions she may have been deemed "third rate" by the Catholic Encyclopedia, for example, which disparages with just such a moniker scholars of an earlier era who came to the same deductions. Obviously, these facts are threatening to Christian dogma, showing that the virgin birth is unoriginal and firmly rooted in mythology, not history.

As a passionate scholar of mythical motifs such as the virgin birth, which I have been discussing for nearly 20 years, including in my earliest published book The Christ Conspiracy in 1999, I can only wish and hope for other professional scholars like Rigoglioso to tackle all the other common mythical motifs in the same rigorous and unbiased manner. Another such effort that comes to mind is The Riddle of the Resurrection by Dr. Tryggve N.D. Mettinger, which basically proves that the motif of a god or goddess resurrecting from the dead is present in the religion and mythology of several pre-Christian cultures, as we would logically expect it to be.

Although it is a scholarly work that may be difficult for some to tackle, Virgin Mother Goddesses readily proves Rigoglioso's major points, including and especially the existence in the human psyche, religion and mythology extending back millennia of the concept of a self-generating or parthenogenetic female divine creator. Regardless of the author and my different opinions as to its overall significance, I feel that Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity is an indispensable resource for scholars and students of comparative religion and mythology, as well as women's spirituality and goddess studies, and I personally will be using it for years to come.

Bibliography

Graves, Robert. The White Goddess. New York: Farrar, Strauss and Giroux, 1966.
Harrison, Jane Ellen. Epilegomena to the Study of Greek Religion. Kessinger, 2003.
Jung, Carl Gustav. Psychology of the Unconscious. New York: Moffat, Yard and Co., 1916.
Rigoglioso, Marguerite. "Women's Spirituality Scholars Speak Out: A Report on the 7th Annual Gender & Archeology Conference at Sonoma State." belili.org/marija/rigoglioso.html, 2002.
--The Cult of the Divine Birth in Ancient Greece. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2009.
--Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2010.

For more information, see Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles

- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World

- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Listen to God Discussion on Blog Talk Radio
suns of god cover image

The following article is excerpted from:
Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

Contrary to popular belief, Easter does not represent the "historical" crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ. In reality, the gospel tale reflects the annual "crossification" of the sun through the vernal equinox (Spring), at which time the sun is "resurrected," as the day begins to become longer than the night.

Rather than being a "Christian" holiday, Easter celebrations date back into remotest antiquity and are found around the world, as the blossoming of spring did not escape the notice of the ancients, who revered this life-renewing time of the year, when winter had passed and the sun was "born again." The "Pagan" Easter is also the Passover, and Jesus Christ represents not only the sun but also the Passover Lamb ritually sacrificed every year by a number of cultures, including the Egyptians, possibly as early as 4,000 years ago and continuing to this day in some places.
Easter Around the World

'The goddess Ēostre/*Ostara flies through the heavens surrounded by Roman-inspired putti, beams of light, and animals. Germanic peoples look up at the goddess from the realm below.' Easter is "Pessach" in Hebrew, "Pascha" in Greek, "Pachons" in Latin and "Pa-Khonsu" in Egyptian, "Khonsu" being an epithet for the sun god Horus. In Anglo-Saxon, Easter or Eostre is goddess of the dawn, corresponding to Ishtar, Astarte, Astoreth and Isis. The word "Easter" shares the same root with "east" and "eastern," the direction of the rising sun.

"The Phrygian sun and fertility god Attis was annually hung on a tree, dying and rising on March 24th and 25th, an 'Easter celebration' that occurred at Rome as well."

The principal Mexican solar festival was held at the vernal equinox, i.e., Easter, when sacrifices were made to sustain the sun. In India, the vernal equinox festival is called "Holi" and is especially sacred to the god Krishna. The Phrygian sun and fertility god Attis was annually hung on a tree, dying and rising on March 24th and 25th, an "Easter celebration" that occurred at Rome as well. The March dates were later applied to the Passion and Resurrection of Christ: "Thus," says Sir Frazer, "the tradition which placed the death of Christ on the twenty-fifth of March was ancient and deeply rooted. It is all the more remarkable because astronomical considerations prove that it can have had no historical foundation…." This "coincidence" between the deaths and resurrections of Christ and the older Attis was not lost on early Christians, whom it distressed and caused to use the "devil got there first" excuse for the motif's presence in pre-Christian paganism.

The rites of the "crucified Adonis," another dying and rising savior god, were also celebrated in Syria at Easter time. As Frazer states:

> "When we reflect how often the Church has skillfully contrived to plant the seeds of the new faith on the old stock of paganism, we may surmise that the Easter celebration of the dead and risen Christ was grafted upon a similar celebration of the dead and risen Adonis, which, as we have seen reason to believe, was celebrated in Syria at the same season."

The salvific death and resurrection at Easter of the god, the initiation as remover of sin, and the notion of becoming "born again," are all ages-old Pagan motifs or mysteries rehashed in the later Christianity. The all-important death-and-resurrection motif is exemplified in the "Parisian magical papyrus," a Pagan text ostensibly unaffected by Christianity:

> "Lord, being born again I perish in that I am being exalted, and having been exalted I die; from a life-giving birth being born into death I was thus freed and go the way which Thou has founded, as Thou hast ordained and hast made the mystery."

Easter's Roving Date is Astrotheological

CrossificationIn the gospel tale, there are two dates for the crucifixion: the 14th and the 15th of the month of Nisan, and within Christianity the date for Easter was debated for centuries. There continue to be two dates for Easter: the Western Catholic and Eastern Orthodox, thus demonstrating that this holiday is not the historical date of the actual crucifixion of a particular man. The dates are, in fact, astronomical, astrological and astrotheological.

In explaining this roving date, one "distinguished churchman," as Catholic Church historian Eusebius called him, Anatolius, revealed the meaning of Easter and of Christ, as well as the fact that astrology was a known and respected science used in Christianity. Said Anatolius:

> "On this day [March 22] the sun is found not only to have reached the first sign of the Zodiac, but to be already passing through the fourth day within it. This sign is generally known as the first of the twelve, the equinoctial sign, the beginning of months, head of the cycle, and start of the planetary course.... Aristobolus adds that it is necessary at the Passover Festival that not only the sun but the moon as well should be passing through an equinoctial sign. There are two of these signs, one in spring, one in autumn, diametrically opposed to each other...."

In establishing the "Paschal festival," Church father Anatolius thus based his calculations on the positions of the sun and moon during the vernal equinox.

Christ as the Solar Hero

Jesus as the Sun God throughout HistoryThe need to time the Easter celebration - or resurrection - to coincide with the vernal equinox demonstrates that "Christ" is not an historical personage but the sun. This fact of Easter being the resurrection of the Sun has been well known for centuries, just as "the Savior's" birth at the winter solstice has been recognized as another solar motif. Another obvious clue as to Christ's nature is the fact that the "Lord's Day" is Sunday.

"Christ is the Sun of Righteousness, with 'divine beams.'"

Concerning Easter, in his "Letter I. for 329" Bishop of Alexandria Athanasius (c. 293-373) remarks, "Again, 'the Sun of Righteousness,' causing His divine beams to rise upon us, proclaims beforehand the time of the feast, in which, obeying Him, we ought to celebrate it…" Christ is thus the Sun of Righteousness, with "divine beams."

The Paschal Chronicle

The Easter calculations were recomputed in the seventh century by the Christian author(s) of the Paschal Chronicle or Alexandria Chronicle, which seeks to establish a Christian chronology from "creation" to the year 628. The Paschal Chronicle determines the proper date for Easter as March 21st and the date of Christ's resurrection as March 25th (or, midnight, March 24, three days after the beginning of the equinox). In his various calculations, the Chronicle author discusses solar and lunar cycles, including the 19-year lunar cycle, by which he reckons the crucifixion and resurrection, concluding: "This is consistent with the prior determinations of reputable men in the calculation of the heavenly bodies." To wit, Christ's death and resurrection are based on astrotheology.

The Chronicle author further confirms that Christianity is a continuation of the ancient "Pagan" astrotheological religion when he states that the "Annunciation of our Lady," i.e., the conception of Christ by the Virgin Mary, likewise occurred on March 25th, the vernal equinox, exactly nine months prior to the December 25th birthdate, the annual rebirth of the sun.

For more information, including citations, see Suns of God.

See also:

Easter: The Resurrection of Spring
Easter or Ishtar - What's the truth?
Moses, the Promised Land and Easter

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:

Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal

- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Osiris The Lord: Out of Egypt

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god cover image

"In the ancient world there was a very widespread belief in the sufferings and deaths of gods as being beneficial to man. Adonis, Attis, Dionysos, Herakles, Mithra, Osiris, and other deities, were all saviour-gods whose deaths were regarded as sacrifices made on behalf of mankind; and it is to be noticed that in almost every case there is clear evidence that the god sacrificed himself to himself."

Sir Arthur Weigall, The Paganism in Our Christianity

"Osiris...was successively god of the Nile, a life-giver, a sun-god, god of justice and love, and finally a resurrected god who ruled in the afterlife.... The most popular legend about Osiris is one of a resurrected god. He was killed by Set, the god of darkness... Osiris was then resurrected and went to live on high. Osiris became the first of a long line of resurrected deities—Tammuz, Mithras, Balder, Christ. Every spring the life of Osiris was re-enacted at Abydos in a stirring passion play, dating back to the eighteenth or nineteenth century before Christ. This play is the earliest record in history of drama."

Gerald L. Berry, Religions of the World

"Osiris or the sun was now worshipped throughout the whole world, though under different names. He was the Mithra of the Persians, the Brahma of India, the Baal or Adonis of the Phoenicians, the Apollo of the Greeks, the Odin Of Scandinavia, the Hu of the Britons, and the Baiwe of the Laplanders."

W. Winwood Reade, The Veil of Isis; Or, Mysteries of the Druids

Over the millennia, the great God Sun has been revered and worshipped around the globe, taking on many manifestations, depending on the solar aspect, as well as the ethnicity, race and other cultural factor of its devotees. In this regard, there have been numerous sun gods, with a variety of names and exploits. Despite the obliteration over the ages, there remains a significant amount of information regarding these gods; hence, we will address only the most salient to our present quest, as concisely as possible.

Osiris, God Sun

The Egyptian pantheon is highly important because Egyptian culture reached tremendous peaks and its influence has been found in much of the world over a period of centuries and millennia. Although it is perceived as a riotous "polytheism," the Egyptian religion was, like that of many cultures, polytheistic, pantheistic, monotheistic and henotheistic at once. In fact, it would be more accurate to refer to Egyptian cultures and religions, as these varied more or less widely over the thousands of years. As concerns Egypt's monotheism, famed Egyptologist E. Wallis Budge related that a number of Egyptologists of his time "have come to the opinion that the dwellers in the Nile valley, from the earliest times, knew and worshipped one God, nameless, incomprehensible, and eternal."

Polytheism and monotheism were "co-existent" in Egypt, flourishing "side by side" already in the 5th dynasty (25th century bce), long before Akhenaton (14th century) and the Mosaic "discovery" of the "one god." Concerning the nature of the Egyptian religion, Budge also says:

From a number of passages drawn from texts of all periods it is clear that the form in which God made himself manifest to man upon the earth was the sun, which the Egyptians called Ra and that all other gods and goddesses were forms of him.

Egyptian sun god Ra in his solar boat, c. 1200 BCEAlthough Ra is the "chief" sun god, in the Egyptian pantheon sun gods "come before us in wild confusion," and numerous others possess solar attributes. In the "British Museum Papyrus" of the Egyptian Book of the Dead, parts of which may date to 7,000 years ago, the God Sun Ra is called, "the lord of heaven, the lord of earth, the king of righteousness, the lord of eternity, the prince of everlasting, ruler of gods all, god of life, maker of eternity, creator of heaven." The bulk of these epithets were later used to describe the Christian solar logos, Jesus. That the rest of the Egyptian pantheon were all forms of Ra or the sun means that they shared at least some of these divine attributes as well. A number of these gods were "sons of Ra," regarding whom Kuhn states: "In Egyptian scriptures the twelve sons of Ra (the twelve sons of Jacob, and the twelve tribes of Israel) were called the 'twelve saviors of the treasure of light.'"

One of the solar Ra's sons and remakes was the savior Osiris, who, along with his lunar wife, Isis, became two of the most popular gods ever to be conceived by the human mind. Worshipped in one form or another over a period of millennia, Osiris and Isis were widely esteemed in the ancient world, and entire cultures were established around them, including a huge amount of art and literature, as well as massive and magnificent edifices and sanctuaries, etc. Like today's supposed apparitions of "Jesus" and the "Virgin Mary," ancient gods such as Osiris and Isis often appeared to their numerous followers, centuries and millennia prior to the Christian era.

Osiris is thus a very old god, whose worship dated to thousands of years before the common era and who was one of the most powerful gods ever devised. As time went on, he took on the attributes of countless other gods and became the "king of kings" and "lord of lords," as he was called in the Egyptian texts. During the late 18th to early 19th dynasties (c. 1300 bce), Osiris's epithets included, "the king of eternity, the lord of everlastingness, who traverseth millions of years in the duration of his life, the firstborn son of the womb of Nut, begotten of Seb, the prince of gods and men, the god of gods, the king of kings, the lord of lords, the prince of princes, the governor of the world whose existence is for everlasting." At Osiris's birth a voice proclaimed, "The ruler of all the earth is born." As can be seen, this exalted, divine status is entirely unoriginal with the Christian savior, as it long pre-dates Christ's purported advent.

Osiris as Creator

On a stela dating from the 18th Dynasty (1570-1070 bce) appears a hymn to Osiris that, per Christian Egyptologist Budge's translation, reads in part:

Thou hast made this earth by thy hand, and the waters thereof, and the wind thereof, the herb thereof, all the cattle thereof, all the winged fowl thereof, all the fish thereof, all the creeping things thereof, and all the four-footed beasts thereof.

The similarities between this passage as translated and the biblical creation account written centuries later are striking. In Genesis (1:24), "God" creates the earth and says:

> Let the earth bring forth living creatures according to their kinds; cattle and creeping things and beasts of the earth according to their kinds.

The Carpentras Inscription in Phoenician, which says, in part: 'Blessed be Ta-Bai, daughter of Ta-Hapi, Priest of Osiris Eloh... Justified before Osiris...'

It is clear that Osiris was the Most High God of Creation, equivalent to Yahweh. Indeed, a Phoenician inscription invokes "Osiris Eloh," Eloh being "the name used by the Ten Tribes of Israel for the Elohim of Two Tribes." The Hebrew "Elohim," a plural term, is used over 2600 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, translated most often as "God" in the singular.

It is not surprising that Genesis and other biblical texts, concepts and stories are largely Egyptian in origin, especially since Israel and Egypt are in such proximity. The historical, literary and archaeological evidence of the influence of Egypt on the Levant is abundant and includes the presence of Osiris in Israel. In an article in the Biblical Archaeology Review (5-6/00) entitled, "What's an Egyptian Temple Doing in Jerusalem?" Gabriel Barkay states:

> The name of Osiris appears on an inscribed stele fragment of reddish Nubia sandstone discovered at Hazor in northern Israel and on stelae found at Deir el-Balah, in the Gaza Strip. It seems that this Egyptian deity was especially popular in Canaan, when it was under Egyptian domination.

Artifacts and historical records prove Egyptian presence and influence in the Levant, prior to the rise of the Hebrew/Israelite/Jewish people, and it is apparent that the Canaanite and Israelite peoples were infused with the Osiris myth, which thus affected their own religions, including the Judaic offshoot, Christianity. Like Jesus, Osiris was once believed to have incarnated as a human savior who died and was resurrected for the good of mankind:

> Osiris has a human development. He is God in heaven and hell, but once appeared as man on earth.
>
> He is one of the Saviours or Deliverers of Humanity, to be found in almost all lands. As such, he is born into the world. He came, as a benefactor, to relieve man of trouble, to supply his wants. In his efforts to do good, he encounters evil. He is killed. Osiris is buried. His tomb was the object of pilgrimage for thousands of years. But he did not rest in his grave. At the end of three days, or forty, he rose again, and ascended of heaven.

Diodorus Siculus

Diodorus Siculus's 'Antiquities of Egypt,' translated by Edwin MurphyIn addition to the numerous Egyptian texts and the writings of Herodotus and Plutarch, one ancient source for information regarding Osiris and other Egyptian gods is Diodorus Siculus (c. 90-21 bce), a contemporary of Julius Caesar and a Greek citizen of Sicily. Less than half of the 40 books he wrote still exist, with the others either allowed to perish or deliberately destroyed in the centuries of book-burning and general vandalism and mayhem committed by the Catholic Church and others. In his book The Antiquities of Egypt, Siculus first declares that Osiris is the sun and Isis the moon:

"Now when the ancient Egyptians, awestruck and wondering, turned their eyes to the heavens, they concluded that two gods, the sun and the moon, were primeval and eternal; and they called the former Osiris, the latter Isis."

Siculus also relates, "Some of the early Greek mythologists call Osiris 'Dionysos,'" who, per the poet Eumolpos, shines like a star, "eyes aflame with rays." Thus, Osiris is not only the "Sun-God of Amenti, the region of the dead" but also "the Egyptian Bacchus" or Dionysus, the notorious Greek/Thracian god of the vine. Diodorus furthers states that, like Dionysus, Osiris is a "son of Zeus" who was raised at "Nysa, in Arabia Felix, not far from Egypt."

In telling the Osiris myth, Diodorus paradoxically lapses into the evemerist perspective that Osiris was a "real person" who walked the earth, did marvelous things, and then attained to immortality after death, again as was later said of Christ, Osiris's "Jewish" counterpart. As a mortal, Osiris "conquered" India, where he "founded many cities," including another Nysa, where he planted ivy. Osiris "left in that country many other indications of his presence, by which the latter-day Indians were persuaded to claim the god and assert that he was born in India." Rather than representing the travels of a "real man," the tale records the worship of Osiris making its way to India and elsewhere in a remote age.

Ancient Chaldean priests observing the skies

The spread of the Egyptian culture included a purported migration to Mesopotamia, with the Egyptian priesthood supposedly becoming the famous "Chaldeans." Diodorus Siculus relates the Egyptians as maintaining that "a large number" of their colonies went "into the civilized world," with "Belus" taking his colonists to Babylon, where he "appointed priests [Chaldeans] who were exempt from taxes and free of all civic obligations, just like those of Egypt." Another colony went with Danaus to Argos, "nearly the oldest city in Greece." Diodorus also writes that the Egyptians claimed the Athenians and the Colchians of Pontus as their own, and that "the Jews lying between Syria and Arabia, were also settled by certain expatriates from Egypt." This latter assertion explains why the male children of these ethnicities are circumcised, as circumcision is "age-old custom imported from Egypt."

Diodorus continues his travelogue, stating that Osiris "ranged over the entire inhabited world," bringing with him culture and the vine, as well as beer. Osiris then returned to Egypt, loaded with gifts from "every country," and was deified after his death. Diodorus also describes the origin of certain rituals, e.g., the focus on wine and not cutting one's hair practiced by a widespread brotherhood that in Palestine would become known as Nazarites or Nazarenes, major players in the creation of Christianity.

Solar Attributes

In spite of the rampant evemerism regarding the Osirian earth-wandering legend, Osiris is essentially the sun, regularly identified as such in the Egyptian Bible, the Book of the Dead. In addition to those numerous texts, the hymn to Osiris from the stela previously cited continues thus:

> O thou son of Nut, the whole world is gratified when thou ascendest thy father's throne like Ra. Thou shinest in the horizon, thou sendest forth thy light into the darkness, thou makest the darkness light with thy double plume, and thou floodest the world with light like the Disk at break of day.

Osiris as the Djed Pillar holding the Disc of the Sun God Ra, surrounded by Isis and Nephthys, Egyptian Book of the Dead, Ani PapyrusOsiris's solar nature is laid plain, by those who both worshipped and created him. Like that of other nations, including India, Egyptian mythology is complex, and Osiris also represents the light in the sun and moon. As Osiris took on the attributes of other gods, he eventually became the god of the afterlife, which is also a solar attribute. As Budge says, "The deceased is always identified with Osiris, or the sun which has set, the judge and god of the dead." Like the sun, the newly dead must pass through the Hall of Judgment (nighttime) before proceeding "to the east to begin a new existence."

In the same hymn above, Osiris's "sister" Isis is described in lunar terms, and Isis and Osiris's child, Horus, is said to have "waxed strong in the house of Seb." Seb is Osiris's earthly "father"; yet, it is clear that Horus—who is not only the son but also the father of Osiris, who is thus the "father and son of Horus"—is likewise a "son of Seb" in the same way that Jesus is the "son of David." Seb is also known as "Geb," and "Horus the Elder was believed to be the son of Geb and Nut." In addition, Seb is "Io-sef," or Joseph; hence, like Jesus, Horus is the "son of Joseph."

Osiris's "once-and-future son," Horus, represents the solar orb renewed at the winter solstice. On her temple at Sais, Horus's mother, Isis, is depicted as saying, "The fruit that I have brought forth is the Sun." The major solar roles include the sun as a child when rising and as an old man when setting. The sun is also a child at the winter solstice ("Christmas"), a youth at the vernal equinox or spring, a bearded man in his strength at the summer solstice, and an old man at the autumnal equinox. Concerning Horus, or the renewed solar incarnation, Olcott says:

> In the Sun-God Horus we see the dawn personified, and the triumphant conqueror of the shades of darkness and the demons of the underworld emerges in the glorious light of victory each morning. He was figured as the eldest son of Osiris, a strong and vigorous youth, who avenged his father by waging a successful war against the monster who had swallowed him up.
>
> Horus is depicted in the inscriptions as sailing forth from the underworld up the eastern sky at dawn, piercing the great python, born of night, as he advances.

Battling the Prince of Darkness

Egyptian god Set or SethLike Jesus, Ra, Osiris and Horus all battle with Satan, i.e., Apep, Set or Typhon, as is typical of the God Sun, whose enemy is the "serpent" of night and darkness, the sun-devouring monster present in "nearly every mythology." In the Egyptian mythology, as in the Christian, Apep/Set is "thrown from his high estate" to become a devil. In addition, one of the several appellations of Horus was "Jaoai, which is also "Iaoai," essentially the same as "Iao," the Egyptian epithet adopted by Jews that became equated with "Yahweh." Also, one of Ra's daughters is named "Iousaas," which is intriguingly similar to "Joshua" and "Jesus" or Iasios, as was one form of the name in Greek.

The story of Osiris's death and resurrection has been the source of much discussion, especially since it is so similar to the Christian myth but pre-dates the latter by millennia. In the various Osirian legends, the "great python," Osiris's "brother and rival," Typhon or Set/Sata, swallows Osiris up, or in Plutarch's version, throws Osiris's body into the Nile. Osiris's renewed incarnation/son, Horus, kills Set or Sata, the night sky, darkness, desolation and fertility-destroying pestilence. The destruction of the god by the "Prince of darkness," represents the overthrow of the sun and its light reflected in the moon. The dismemberment of Osiris into 14 pieces represents the 14 days of the month when the moon is waning and the sun's light in it is "dying." Osiris's passion was said to take place on the 17th day of the month of Hathor, "when Osiris was in the twenty-eighth year either of his reign or of his age," the number 28 representing the days in the lunar month. Osiris's body parts were said to have been retrieved and buried in separate sacred sites by Isis. As is common in priestcraft, there were many tombs of Osiris in Egypt and Arabia, a development that reflects the mythical nature of Osiris, not that he was a "real person" interred in all these places.

The Passion of Osiris

The Passion and Resurrection of Osiris have been major mythical motifs that made their way into Christianity: "That the Passion as it was distinctly called and Resurrection of Osiris were yearly and openly celebrated by the worshippers of the Alexandrian gods with alternate demonstrations of grief and joy, the classical poets have put beyond doubt." The closeness to the much later Christ myth is unmistakable, as "Osiris was to his worshippers 'the god-man, the first of those who rose from the dead,' [whose] death and resurrection were therefore supposed to be in some way beneficial to mankind." Concerning this ancient, pre-Christian ritual, Budge relates:

> ...we find that the doctrine of eternal life and of the resurrection of a glorified or transformed body, based upon the ancient story of the resurrection of Osiris after a cruel death and horrible mutilation, inflicted by the powers of evil, was the same in all periods [of Egyptian history], and that the legends of the most ancient times were accepted without material alteration or addition in the texts of the later dynasties.
>
> ...everywhere, and in texts of all periods, the life, sufferings, death and resurrection of Osiris are accepted as facts universally admitted.

Horus raising Osiris from the Dead

Thus, the Passion and Resurrection of Christ are archetypical, not actual, representing a common religious and mythical motif, not the death and resurrection of a "real person." The archetypical death and resurrection of the god provide a spiritual example for his followers: "Osiris was regarded as the principal cause of human resurrection, and he was capable of giving life after death because he had attained to it. He was entitled 'Eternity and Everlastingness,' and he it was who made men and women born again." This mystery of the resurrection is depicted in thousands of tombs in the Nile valley: "Osiris died and rose again from the dead, so all men hoped to arise like him from death to life eternal." These important religious and spiritual concepts were popular in Egypt "from very early times," long before the purported advent of Christ. Also, when the god was reborn, "a loud voice was heard throughout all the world saying, 'The lord of all earth is born!'" Indeed, "it is astonishing to find that, at least, five thousand years ago men trusted an Osiris as a risen Saviour, and confidently hoped to rise, as he arose, from the grave."

The Empty Tomb, Blood as Wine, Good Friday

In his mockery of Pagans, Christian writer Minucius Felix (3rd cent.) revealed that the Egyptians, and afterwards the Romans, beheld an empty tomb of Osiris or Serapis, another motif found in the later Christian myth. In addition to being placed in a tomb, Osiris was also covered in a shroud, relics of which were exhibited by unscrupulous priests long before the Christian era, a tradition continued with the two dozen or so bogus shrouds possessed by medieval churches including the infamous "Shroud of Turin" much ballyhooed to this day.

Another Egyptian tradition adopted by Christianity is the notion of the blood of the god being represented by wine, as described in a magic papyrus in the British Museum addressed to "Asklepios of Memphis." It is noteworthy that the heart of fine viniculture in Egypt was Mareotis, the Therapeutan cult center outside of Alexandria, the crucible of Christianity, which plagiarizes the water-to-wine motif and emphasizes Jesus's role as a winebibber.

As do Christians today, the millions of followers of Osiris were quite certain that, even though he was the Omnipotent Lord of Lord and King of Kings, he had at some point walked the earth. As Bonwick relates:

> ...he was a person who had lived and died. They had no manner of doubt about it. Did they not know his birthplace? Did they not celebrate his birth by the most elaborate ceremonies, with cradle, lights, etc.? Did they not hold his tomb at Abydos? Did they not annually celebrate at the Holy Sepulchre his resurrection? Did they not commemorate his death by the Eucharist, eating the Sacred Cake, after it had been consecrated by the priests, and become veritable flesh of his flesh?

Providing further evidence of Osiris's pre-Christian role as a dying and rising savior god, several early Church fathers, including Athanasius, Augustine, Theophilus, Athenagoras, Minucius Felix, Lactantius and Firmicus, discussed the Egyptian god's death as mourned "every good Friday."

Osiris surrounded by Twelve Stars and Circles (Hornung, 'The Valley of the Kings,' 94)The death and resurrection of the sun god have astrotheological meaning, signifying the waxing and waning of the moon, which reflects the sun's light, as well as the daily rising and setting of the sun and the annual shortening and lengthening of the day. As part of his astrotheological journey, Osiris "traverses the twelve sections of the Duat," and, as the sun god, Osiris has twelve companions—the Signs of the Zodiac." Thus, in the myth of Osiris is the great teaching god with the twelve disciples who dies and resurrects, millennia before the Christian era. The evidence abundantly points to Jesus Christ as a nearly identical, mythical remake of the highly popular Osiris, whose story was known by millions of pilgrims for thousands of years in precisely the same areas in which the Christian myth arose.

For more information, including citations for the above excerpt, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled. See also Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata

- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness

Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Jesus the Druid:
Was Christ in Great Britain?

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Glastonbury Abbey imageAnother nation in which the native sun god was overthrown by the Jewish Son of God was Great Britain, where the ancient Druidism was likewise appropriated by the later Christianity. While the "Jesus in India" theory asserts the Jewish sage spent his entire early years there, the British tale of Jesus has him travel in his youth to Glastonbury in order to learn from the Druids.

The story goes that many of the tin miners in Britain at the time of Jesus's alleged advent were Jewish, which is sensible since British tin-mining was evidently highly valued by the Jews' Phoenician predecessors and cousins. One such miner was purportedly Jesus's "uncle" Joseph of Arimathea, who, along with Jesus, allegedly founded the first Christian church at Glastonbury. Certainly there were Jews in England at the time of Jesus's supposed existence, as there were diffused throughout much of the world. However, the fact that Glastonbury was a "great Pagan sanctuary" in pre-Christian times makes this story suspicious as mythmaking and propaganda.

Among other things, Glastonbury was purportedly the seat of the "Holy Grail" or sacred chalice, a pre-Christian concept, and has been equated with the mythical pagan paradise Avalon. Legend holds that St. Patrick died in Glastonbury around 472 CE. However, since it appears that "St. Patrick" may be an ancient Irish god turned into a Christian saint, it would seem that this apocryphal story represents an approximation of when Christianity really began to circulate in England, "killing" the pagan gods.

King Arthur Knights of the Round Table imageThe Glastonbury legends further hold that King Arthur and Queen Guinevere were likewise buried there, and that Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table were descended from Joseph of Arimathea. These tales appear to have been created in order to give Arthur Jewish ancestry and a divine pedigree as a descendant of King David, bestowing upon the British kings the divine right to rule as "true Israelites." Indeed, one of the Jesus-in-Britain proponents, devout Christian/British Israelite E. Raymond Capt, writes about the presence of both Jesus and Paul in Britain, and discusses the "remarkable prediction of Britain's glorious inheritance." Thus, the legend serves to establish British supremacy, as Great Britain is destined to inherit the biblical promise of God's kingdom on Earth to the descendants of the "Lost Tribes," the true sheep of Israel.

Virgin Mary Buried in England?

Adding to this notion, it was asserted that Mary's mother, Ann, lived in Glastonbury, and that Mary herself was buried there. After Christ's death, the story goes, Joseph was accompanied by Mary, the risen Lazarus and his sisters, Mary Magdalene and a number of other "saints." Unluckily for the Mary-in-Britain fable, other legends place her burial in Kashmir, as noted, and in Bethlehem, Ephesus and Gethsemane. Naturally, logic would dictate that, were Mary a real person, she would not be buried in more than one place. The reason why "Mary" appears all over is that she is the ubiquitous ancient Goddess turned into a Jewish maiden.

Concerning the British gods, Capt states that the Druidic trinity was composed of three "Beli" (cf. the Semitic Baal, Bal or Bel). Interestingly, "Yesu" (also "Hesus") was the name of the Druid "coming Saviour of the future." (Capt, 9, 10) Capt then naively remarks, "Druidism thus anticipated Christianity and pointed to the coming Saviour under the very name by which Christ was called." In reality, Christianity copied and incorporated countless elements of numerous religions within the Roman Empire and beyond. Moreover, per the Catholic missionary Huc, who traversed India, Tibet and other parts of Asia, "Yesu" was also a name of the expected avatar of the Hindu god Vishnu, of which Krishna was an avatar.

Hesus the Carpenter God

Hesus Esus Druid god imageThe Druidic inhabitants of "Glastonbury Lake Village" were highly skilled woodworkers and carpenters; hence, their god was a woodworker and carpenter named Yesu/Esus/Hesus, long prior the Christian era. When one understands the brotherhood and its priestcraft, it is not surprising that Jews who purportedly lived in the very heart of Druidism--the fabled Avalon itself--and who would know about the future Druid savior and other doctrines, would return from Palestine with tales that "the" Messiah by that very name had been born in Judea.

In addition, the first "church" at Glastonbury was supposedly "circular…with the twelve huts of the other disciples forming a circle around it." (Capt, 42) Many Pagan temples had a similar astrological blueprint, i.e., the circle of the Zodiac, and it is clear that Glastonbury's sanctuary was appropriated by the mythical Christ and fictive Twelve, as the original Druid "church" was likely founded in the name of their patron carpenter god, Yesu/Hesus, long prior to the alleged advent of the Jewish savior. Indeed, Christianity is but a Judaized rehash of Paganism, with the astrotheological pagan gods turned into the Jewish Son of God, his disciples and a slew of saints. Ergo the tales of Glastonbury and elsewhere.

The reason for all this apparent chicanery can be summed up by Capt's words: "There can be no doubt that the Glastonbury Abbey is the oldest, continuous Christian foundation in the world." As we have seen, and would continue to see in The Christ Conspiracy, Suns of God and other books, this claim of primacy is commonplace and has at its foundation not the "historical truth" but a powerful political and economic agenda. In actuality, scholars have repeatedly discredited these traditions regarding Jesus and Joseph in Glastonbury as having been devised in the 12th century by monks trying to entice pilgrims and their tourist money. (Capt, 107)

This myth was apparently created in order to establish the supremacy of the church at Glastonbury, as well as explain why Jesus and his purported teachings were so similar to the god(s) and doctrines of the Druids. The Druids in turn supposedly received their instruction from Pythagoras, who himself had traveled to India. Since the Druidic and Vedic priesthoods, language and culture are one at root, separating perhaps three millennia prior to the Christian era (Ellis), it does not surprise us that "Jesus" legends are found in both India and Britain. In fact, such a godman and doctrines already existed in Britain for centuries, if not millennia, prior to the Christian era. By having "Jesus" and/or Paul establish a church in what is "the center of the Druidic faith in Britain," the Jewish/Israelite version of the tale thus usurped the native religion. Also, Druidism was a thorn in the side of the Romans, who could not totally rule Britain so long as it existed; hence, it would benefit the eventual Roman Church to have their supposed founder personally consecrate Britain.

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since

1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha

- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique

- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Apollonius, Jesus and Paul: Men or Myths?

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

Over the centuries, not a few people have noticed a resemblance between the lives of the ancient sage Apollonius of Tyana and the Christian savior Jesus Christ, a comparison most notably brought to light by the "very important Roman official" Sossianus Hierocles in the fourth century. Apollonius was said to have lived in the first century, precisely at the time of Jesus's advent, although the former supposedly lived to be around 100 years old, while the latter allegedly died several decades earlier.

It is claimed that hundreds of statues of Apollonius were erected during the first centuries of the Christian era, with his fame as a "divine man" widespread around the Mediterranean. Numerous events in Apollonius's life, as provided to us principally from a biography created around 210 by Philostratus, commissioned by the empress Julia Domna, peculiarly parallel those of Christ. It is difficult to determine what, if any, of Philostratus's Life of Apollonius constitutes history, although there appears to be confirmation at least of Apollonius's existence. In fact, from the odd coincidences between his life and that of Jesus, it has been suggested by not a few people that Jesus Christ is a fictional character based in large part on Apollonius of Tyana, although Christians beginning in early times cast the accusation of plagiarism in the opposite direction.

In addition to this possible development are striking correlations between the lives of Apollonius and the apostle Paul, who, like Jesus, strangely finds no place in contemporary history, despite claims to his having made quite a ruckus in a populated and well documented part of the world. It appears that the stories of both Jesus and Paul were in part fabricated from that of Apollonius. The opposite is also possible, although, in this author's studied opinion, unlikely. It also may be that both Apollonius and Jesus were historical figures who did and said everything they are reported to have done and said, in which case we would be dishonest in accepting one without the other, both representing "God on Earth."

The following table outlines germane events and characteristics in the lives of the three men, as recorded in various sources, particularly the Life of Apollonius and the Bible. It should be noted that just as the Bible does not acknowledge "Apollonius of Tyana," nor does Apollonius's biography mention Christ, Paul, Christians or Christianity. (The events herein are not necessarily in chronological order; nor is the list complete. A fuller treatment of this important subject would require an entire volume.)

Apollonius
Apollonius of Tyana

Jesus
Jesus Christ

Paul
Apostle Paul
Born 4 BCE   Born 4 BCE   Born c. 2 CE?
Birth miraculously announced by a supernatural being   Birth miraculously announced by a supernatural being
Was the son of a god and a mortal woman   Was the son of a god and a mortal woman.
Raised in Tarsus   Raised in Tarsus
Religiously precocious as a child   Religiously precocious as a child   Religiously precocious as a child
Asserted to be a native speaker of Aramaic   Asserted to be a native speaker of Aramaic   Claimed to be a speaker of Hebrew
Associated with wise men or magi   Associated with wise men or magi
Had a disciple named Damis from Asia Minor   Had a disciple named Thomas; blessed a robber on the cross named Demas   Had a disciple named Demas from Asia Minor
Had an associate named Titus   Had an associate named Titus
Associated with a Demetrius   Associated with a Demetrius
Associated with a Stephanus   Associated with a Stephanus
Influenced by Plato   Reflected Platonism   Influenced by Philo/Plato
Renounced wealth   Denounced wealth   Embraced poverty
Followed abstinence and asceticism   Followed abstinence and asceticism

Followed abstinence and asceticism
Wore long hair and robes Wore long hair and robes Wore long hair and robes
Discussed eunuchs for the kingdom of Babylon Discussed eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven
Was unmarried and childless Was unmarried and childless Was unmarried and childless
Was anointed with oil Was anointed with oil
Went to Jerusalem Went to Jerusalem Went to Jerusalem
Spent much time at Antioch Spent much time at Antioch
Made missionary journeys around Mediterranean Made missionary journeys around Mediterranean
Traveled to the East for three years, where he was taught by sages
Traveled to the East for three years, where he was taught by Jesus
Wrote epistles instructing followers in spirituality Wrote epistles instructing followers in spirituality
Spoke in metaphors Spoke in parables
Fought wild beasts at Ephesus Fought "wild beasts" at Ephesus
Saw and predicted the future Saw and predicted the future
Performed miracles Performed miracles Performed miracles
Healed the sick Healed the sick Healed the sick
Cast out evil spirits Drove out demons Cast out demons
Raised the daughter of a Roman official from the dead Raised the daughter of a Jewish official from the dead
Famed far and wide Famed far and wide Well known in Christian communities around the Mediterranean
Religious reformer Religious reformer Religious reformer
Spoke authoritatively to temple priests Spoke authoritatively to temple priests Spoke authoritatively to temple priests
Spoke as a "law-giver" Spoke as a "law-giver"
Founded a religious community at Corinth Founded a religious community at Corinth
Was on a mission to bring Greek culture to the "barbarians" Was on a mission to bring Jewish culture to the "nations"
Converted "unrefined" people to himself Converted "unsaved" people to himself
Believed to be a "savior" from heaven Believed to be a "savior" from heaven
Worshipped as a god Worshipped as a god Mistaken for a god
Accused of being a magician Accused of being a magician
Had his life threatened Had his life threatened Had his life threatened
Brought before a king, whose righteousness he challenged Brought before a king, whose righteousness he challenged
Was accused of killing a boy Was accused of killing a boy (Infancy Gospel of Thomas)
Condemned by Roman emperor Condemned by Roman authorities Condemned by Roman emperor Imprisoned at Rome Imprisoned at Jerusalem Imprisoned at Jerusalem and Rome
Miraculously escaped prison Miraculously escaped prison

Was shipwrecked	Was shipwrecked
Descended into the underworld	Descended into the underworld
Was assumed into heaven	Ascended into heaven
Appeared posthumously to a detractor as a brilliant light	Appeared posthumously to a detractor as a brilliant light
Said to be in two places at once	Said to be in many places at once
Had his image revered in temples	Had his image revered in churches

As can be seen, there are many important details that correspond between the lives of all three men. In some ways, of course, one or the other of the godmen was superior in his capacities, such as the claim about Apollonius being able to speak and understand "all languages" without having studied or learned them.

In an interesting development, Apollonius and Paul's journeys took a very similar route, though generally in reverse of each other. In fact, it has been calculated that Paul and Apollonius were at both Ephesus and Rome at precisely the same time. It would be very odd if two such similar and powerful men, preaching to religious communities in these places, were unknown to each other. Unless, of course, they were each other. Oddly enough, the book of Acts mentions an "Apollos" at Ephesus with Paul, the name "Apollos" being an abbreviation of "Apollonius." In any event, encompassing various brotherhood and mystery school sites, the route taken by both Apollonius and Paul was also more or less that of Orpheus, a mythical proselytizer of the religion of Dionysus, whose epithet was said to have been IES, centuries before the Christian era. Many others doubtlessly also made this pilgrimage to these pre-Christian sacred sites and mystery schools over the centuries.

Paul's Journeys

Paul's Journeys

Apollonius's Journeys

Apollonius's Journeys

Not only are the journeys of Paul and Apollonius very similar, their names are as well. While Paul is "Paulos" in Greek, Thayer's Lexicon states that "Apollos" is, according to some ancient authorities, contracted from "Apollonios." Interestingly, "Apollos" is mentioned in five places in Paul's 1st Epistle to the Corinthians, in such a way - juxtapositioned with the names of Paul, "Cephas" and Christ; Paul and Christ; or Paul alone - as to attribute great significance to him. It has further been asserted that this contraction of the name Apollonius, Apollos, was found uncontracted in the Codex Bezae of the New Testament.

Moreover, the name "Apollonius," it has been evinced, was also abbreviated in ancient times as "Pol," but this writer has not been able to confirm that claim. It has further been asserted that the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews was not "Paulos" but "Apollos," an interesting claim in consideration of the fact that Hebrews is written in "Hebraistic Greek" and that Apollonius was said to be a native speaker of the Hebraistic language of Aramaic. Oddly, Hebrews was one of the three epistles that were missing in the first New Testament compiled by Marcion. Furthermore, there are various "Pauline" writings that appeared after the alleged death of Paul, during the period when Apollonius was said to be still alive.

If the story of Apollonius was as well known in more or less detail as presented by Philostratus in the century proceeding that writer, i.e., the second century, with aristocracy admiring Apollonius to the point of worship, the gospel tale must be regarded as an obvious attempt at competition. In this scenario, fervent monotheists who believed it was their destiny to achieve religious hegemony set about to outdo the Capadoccian sage and, via their own usurping godman, prove themselves the spiritual leaders of mankind.

Sources:

Philostratus, Life of Apollonius, Conybeare
The Bible, RSV and others
Bernard, Dr. Raymond, Apollonius the Nazarene, Health Research
"Apollonius of Tyana," www.livius.org/ap-ark/apollonius/apollonius01.html
Waite, Charles, History of the Christian Religion to the Year Two Hundred Smith, William, "Apollonius Tyanaeus," A Dictionary of Greek and Roman Biography and Mythology, www.apollonius.net/tyanaeus.html
"Is Apollonius of Tyana - Paul of Tarsus?"

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since

1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha

- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique

- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

(NB: This article was published in a three-part series in the magazine Secular Nation, at the suggestion of Dr. Robert Price, who called the series "fine articles." Secular Nation had never published a three-part article before.)

James Ossuray Bone Box Brother of JesusIn the week of October 21, 2002, headlines around the world screamed that evidence of Jesus Christ had been found in the form of an ossuary, or bone-box, supposedly once containing the bones of "James, son of Joseph, brother of Jesus," as was inscribed on the box in Aramaic. The original scholar who reported this spectacular find, the Sorbonne's biblical expert Andre Lemaire, "born a Catholic," concluded it was "very probable" that the inscription referred to Jesus of Nazareth, i.e., Jesus Christ. The ossuary, therefore, would supposedly be that of the biblical "James the Just," who is referred to as Jesus's "brother" at Matthew 13:55 and Galatians 1:19. Naturally, Christian apologists and fanatics rubbed their hands together, and gleefully and smugly bombarded nonbelievers with the news via email. But was there really some wondrous "new proof" of Jesus that would set the record straight once and for all, or was it all another bit of faithful flotsam?

In actuality, it seems to be time once again for the world's religious handlers to pull out another holy relic in order to bolster up the flagging faith. Such shenanigans have been behind the incessant news releases regarding the Shroud of Turin (a more bogus relic there never was), the recent "depiction" of what Jesus would have looked like (a Neanderthal), and the never-ending slew of books concerning the "real Jesus," who invariably resembles the authors of said books. To those who have been around a while and have developed a jaundiced eye, this latest "find" is yet more of the same "evidence."

The original Biblical Archaeology Review article that scooped this story was blatant and injudicious in its pronouncements, flatly stating that "This container [ossuary] provides the only New Testament-era mention of the central figure of Christianity and is the first-ever archaeological discovery to corroborate Biblical references to Jesus."

Hillary Mayell, writing for the National Geographic (10/21/02), said, "Researchers may have uncovered the first archaeological evidence that refers to Jesus as an actual person and identifies James, the first leader of the Christian church, as his brother."

The article on MSNBC's website regarding the ossuary stated, "No physical artifact from the first century related to him has been discovered and verified."

CNN's Jeordan Legon, in an article entitled, "Scholars: Oldest Evidence of Jesus?" writes, "While most scholars agree that Jesus existed, no physical evidence from the first century has ever been conclusively tied with his life."

Newsweek's Kenneth Woodward opens his article, "A Clue to Jesus?" (11/4/02) by stating:

"Although Jesus of Nazareth is a universally recognized figure, no one has ever found any evidence for his existence apart from texts."

Rossella Lorenzi's article in Discovery News is entitled "First Proof of Jesus Found?" This title allows for a couple of interpretations, including that the bone box is the earliest evidence yet discovered. However, in the initial sentence Lorenzi says, "The first archaeological evidence of Jesus' existence has come to light...," and she repeats that "the new find would be the first archaeological discovery to corroborate Biblical references to Jesus," indicating the proper interpretation of the headline to be that there was no prior evidence.

Moreover, Dan Rahimi, the "director of collections" for the museum where it is being housed, stated, "A lot of people accept the reality of Jesus as a historical figure but don't accept him as Christ, and to use the words 'before Christ' is really quite ethnocentric of European Christians..." The article reporting this comment also relates, "Even the date of Jesus' own birth has been disputed for centuries, with many scholars asserting it took place between 4 and 7 B.C., in the autumn months."

On their face value, such headlines and comments imply that there has never been any other proof of Jesus ever found. Such an assertion is quite astounding, considering that Jesus Christ was supposedly a man who shook up the world and purportedly has been supernaturally in charge of the cosmos for the past 2,000 years! What these remarks regarding the "only New Testament-era mention," "first-ever archaeological discovery," "first archaeological evidence," "oldest evidence," and "first proof" reflect is that there has previously been no direct evidence that Jesus Christ ever existed. Moreover, the comment that "a lot of people accept the reality of Jesus as a historical figure" implies that many people recognize this dearth of evidence and do not accept him as "historical figure." In addition, the admission that Jesus's birth date is basically unknown further undermines his "historical reality."

Ossuaries Not Uncommon

Sending thrills through the Christian community, Lemaire dated the ossuary and inscription to 63 CE, which places it squarely in the time of active Christian church-building. Although the faithful believe that this astonishing pronouncement was rooted in science, Lemaire's precise dating is based on the a priori assumption that the find is indeed the bone-box of James the Just, the disciple whose death is assigned by Christians to the year 62 CE. Nevertheless, it is not the case that the ossuary contains an inscribed date or is conclusively dated by other means to exactly 63 CE and must therefore represent the burial box of James the Just. In other words, the dating is based on circular reasoning: Since James died in 62 CE, and since this is apparently his ossuary, it must date to 63 CE, when his bones would have been placed in it. There is no proof, however, that James died in that year or that this is his ossuary. Yet, triumphant apologists will falsely claim that this ossuary has conclusively been proved to be that of James and to date to exactly the right time! As is well known to those who have scientifically investigated so many previous Christian claims, apologists constantly use this type of flawed logic. To repeat, even though news reports make it seem the box itself contains this very date, in reality the dating of 63 CE attached to this particular ossuary is based on the tradition of James's death, not because the box possesses a dated inscription or there is some other precise dating method.

According to CNN, the "Israeli government's geological survey test" concluded that "the object is more than 19 centuries old," but the author cites BAR as the source, and this particular statement does not appear on the BAR website article. Jewsweek.com's Debra Berman reports, "The Geological Survey of Israel conducted electron-microscope tests on the box that proved the inscription was not added at a later date; no traces of modern elements were found." Apparently, however, this claim is erroneous, as another Jewsweek writer, Rochelle Altman, debunks the last part of the inscription. Hence, such "scientific" tests are questionable; even if the entire inscription were genuine, electron-microscope dating could not pinpoint the exact year. Even carbon-dating, which is used to date organic remains, not stone, has an error factor of + or -150 years. Hence, this limestone box, which is nevertheless apparently fairly old, based on the fact that it cracked severely during transport, could date from another century altogether, particularly the two to three following Jesus's purported advent. Supposedly also the box was heavily damaged specifically by a crack in the inscription. The ossuary's handlers have been surprisingly careless, especially considering how priceless would be this artifact, were it and/or its inscription genuine.

In "First Proof of Jesus Found?," Lorenzi uses another tactic that is convincing at first glance: She states that during the first century these ossuaries were used in "the second of a two-stage burial process, when bones of the deceased were transferred from burial caves." By saying "In the first century," the writer is implying that such a use is unique to that century, thus giving the find even more credibility as deriving from the correct era.

Although these enthusiastic newsbites make it seem otherwise, the James ossuary is not unusual, nor is it necessarily dated to the convenient year of 63 CE. In giving his contrived date a professional flourish, Lemaire also claimed the box must date from the first century because it fits in with when "Jews" used ossuaries, between 20 BCE and 70 CE. While it may be argued that "Jews," i.e., members of the tribe of Judah and territory of Judea, used ossuaries "only" between those dates, it is quite clear that their predecessors, Canaanites, Israelites and Hebrews, utilized them for centuries prior to that. The site of Hederah in northern Israel, for example, yielded numerous fragments and complete ossuaries, some of which were in the exact square shape as that of James's. There were other shapes as well, including one that resembled a house, with a peaked roof. These finds were dated by their discoverer, E.L. Sukenik of the Hebrew University, to the fourth millennium BCE. (Encyclopedia of Archaeological Excavations in the Holy Land, II, 496.) Sukenik concluded that these house-shaped vessels were akin to the "soul-houses" of the Egyptians and "house urns" of the Europeans. Finds at other sites that confirm these dates include those at Azor, Bene-Berek and Tel Aviv. (EAEHL, II, 496.) As we can see, this type of vessel is not uncommon and does not necessarily date to the first centuries BCE-CE.

In actuality, the use of ossuaries even in the Palestine/Judea area dates back to at least the Second Temple Period and continued for several centuries into the Common Era. In other words, even "Jews" used ossuaries well beyond the fall of the Temple, i.e., 70 CE. Based on findings from the Jerusalem necropolis of the Second Temple Period (6th cent. BCE-70 CE), the editor of the Encyclopedia of Archaeological Excavations of the Holy Land, Michael Avi-Yonah, says, "The custom of re-internment of the bones (in ossuaries) was widespread among Jews at the end of the Second Temple Period and for several centuries afterwards. Numerous laws in the Mishnah and Talmud deal with the modes of burial and the form and size of tombs." (Emphasis added.) These burials refer specifically to ossuaries, which were used once the flesh had decayed, leaving the bones alone. (EAEHL, II, 628.) Obviously, the ossuary-burial did not end in 70 CE, so Lemaire's terminus a quem is erroneous, as is his terminus a quo. Hence, this ossuary and its inscription could date from any of several centuries, including the Constantinian era, when bogus relics and forged texts were all the rage. As can be seen, ossuaries in Jerusalem were fairly common as well, so that, if the James ossuary is bogus, its creator would have plenty of examples upon which to draw.

Furthermore, as Avi-Yonah states regarding the numerous bone-boxes found in the Tombs at Dominus Flevit, which contained "122 ossuaries of the usual type [square]," common names included Jeshua or Yeshua (Jesus) and Maria (Mary). (EAEHL, II, 636.) In one of the surviving family tombs in Jerusalem are 18 ossuaries with Greek inscriptions, one of which contains the names "Joseph" (twice) and "Maria." (EAEHL, II, 635.) By the typical media and religious standards this tomb should have been exalted as that of Jesus's family.

In another example, in the "Tomb Cave in the Talpiot Quarter, discovered in 1945," are found large charcoal crosses on one of the ossuaries, while "two other ossuaries had Greek inscriptions reading IhsouV iou. IhsouV alwq," a phrase that contains the name Jesus twice. "The excavator interpreted the crosses and the inscriptions as expressions of sorrow at the crucifixion of Jesus, an interpretation not accepted by other scholars." The tomb itself dates to the beginning of the first century and demonstrates the commonality of the name Jesus before the purported time of the Christian messiah. (EAEHL, II, 635.) If this Jesus tomb had dated to a few decades later, no doubt the media and faithful would have had a field day in presenting it as the tomb of Jesus of Nazareth, thus "proving" the biblical fable, although these two tombs mentioned herein would certainly infuriate the keepers and believers in the "Holy Sepulchre," yet another profitable tourist attraction. It would be surprising that no such incautious and mirthful rush to judgment has occurred concerning this particular Jesus tomb. In reality, at least one sloppy sensationalist author has claimed this tomb to be that of "Jesus of Nazareth," asserting that the tomb also contained the ossuaries of not only a Jesus, but also a Joseph, two Marys and a Jude. The excavation report, however, does not mention these other burials, leaving the question as to whether or not this particular author is prone to fiction, as is suggested by his other writings as well. As is evident, looks can be deceiving, such that caution should be utilized in regard to artifacts.

In Jerusalem there is even a "Tomb of Jason," complete with an ossuary and a scratched image of a warship, which could lead to the conclusion that this is the tomb of the Jason of Greek mythology. "On the walls of the porch are charcoal drawings of ships, a Greek inscription, and several Aramaic inscriptions, the longest of which consists of three lines lamenting Jason, the deceased." (EAEHL, II, 630) Using coins and pottery, the tomb is dated to having been used between the Hasmonean (2nd-1st cent. BCE) and the Herodian eras (37 BCE-70 CE). Although it is evidently the tomb of a real person of that era, true believers in the demigod Jason of Argonaut fame could attempt in the same manner as Christians to "prove" the existence of Jason and his Argonauts, such as Hercules, as "real people."

The name or epithet "Jason," meaning "healer" was commonly utilized in describing "Pagan" gods such as Asklepios, whose cult extended far and wide in the ancient Mediterranean world. As stated by Bronsen Wickkiser, fellow of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Asklepios was "known as a healer since Homer," and his cult spread rapidly at the "beginning of the late fifth century B.C." "So popular was he," says Wickkiser, "that his sanctuaries spanned the ancient world, from Hispania in the west to Ecbatana in the east." Hence, we have for several centuries prior to the Christian era a healing god--called "Iasios," "Iesios," i.e., Jason or Jesus--whose sanctuaries were widespread around the Mediterranean. A healer associated with these gods might be called a "brother of Jason" or a "brother of Jesus," long before the Christian era. Indeed, all roads point to Christianity as an expose of the secret Pagan rituals that concerned a healing god with long curly hair who rose from the dead, etc. This particular designation of the "brother of Jesus" has been one of four that have been bandied about since early times. The news reports regarding the James ossuary mention only three: 1. James was Jesus's blood brother, born of the Virgin Mary; 2. James was one of Josephs's children by another marriage; or 3. James was Jesus's "cousin." These reports ignore what is likely the most appropriate, i.e., that "James" was a member of a brotherhood such as the Nazarites or Nazarenes.

As Frank Zindler points out, the "brother of Yeshua" (Joshua/Jesus) could also be translated "the brother of the Savior," which would indicate a title of someone involved in a specific society or cult, rather than a familial bloodline. The fact that James is cited in this inscription as the "son of Joseph, brother of Jesus" creates suspicion since it is by no means agreed within all the Christian sects that Jesus had any blood brothers, despite the assertions in the New Testament. The wording on the James ossuary, if it is to be interpreted as referring to a blood brother born of Mary, would indicate that of the many sects one particular was involved in its apparent forgery. A Protestant minister at the Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky, Ben Witherington III, argues that the phrase "brother of Jesus" refers to a blood brother, giving etymological reasons for his assumption. However, in an article from Believenet.net and reproduced by ABCNEWS.com, Witherington ironically uses a passage from Acts 15:13-21, in which James is made to address a group of men using the word "Brethren." The word in the original Greek for "brethren," i.e., brothers, is adelphoi, which is the plural of the word, adelphos, used to describe James at Galatians 1 and elsewhere. Witherington argues that this word adelphos, as in Philadelphia, "City of Brotherly Love," probably refers to blood brothers. Yet, in the passage at Acts, James is clearly not referring to blood brothers but to "brothers" in the sense of the word as used by the clergy and members of other brotherhoods and fraternities into modern times. The proper usage concerning James is in reality the fourth interpretation, which is that to be called a "brother" means you are a member of a male-based society, church, organization, secret or otherwise. In another instance, Witherington points out the phrase in 1 Cor. 15:3-9, which discusses "500 brethren." Now, if that refers to Jesus's blood family, he certainly had many brothers! It is quite clear that the phrase "500 brothers" refers to members of the community, not a family, so why has this meaning been ignored constantly over the centuries? Matthew 13:55-56 also mentions Jesus's "sisters," but this phrase too is usually ignored. As we know, such Christian communities as the Quakers refer to their female members as "sisters," while their male members are "brothers."

Unbeknownst to the masses, tombs of gods are common around the world and are part of well-established priestcraft. The mention of a character on such a tomb or ossuary does not prove that the person really existed. No doubt many Indians, for example, have recorded the names of their various gods on their own epitaphs--by this "logic," all these gods would have to have existed as "historical characters." Certainly in ancient Egypt Osiris and Isis were included in all solemn events, especially burials, and Osiris's numerous tombs may be found all over Egypt--they therefore must have been real people!

Aramaic for an Orthodox Jew?

A scan of the ossuaries dating from the Herodian period reveals that many, if not most, were inscribed in Hebrew and Greek, not Aramaic. It would seem unusual for an orthodox Jew such as James, as he has been shown to have been by Robert Eisenman, et al., to have his epitaph written in Aramaic, which is Syriac, the language of the northern kingdom, as opposed to Hebrew, which was that of Judea and of "true" Jews. Educated Jews may have settled on Greek, but possibly not Aramaic. The Aramaic inscriptions on the "Jewish" ossuaries seem to be mainly warnings, advising "Do not open it." It is possible that inscriptions written in Aramaic were designed for the common people, the speakers of the vulgar lingua franca, rather than for the elite, for whom the Greek and Hebrew inscriptions were written. Having this identification written in Aramaic might also be a bit suspicious, even though there were some ossuaries in family tombs with Aramaic writing. Yet, again, for an orthodox Jew? It is possible that a forger supposed, as have millions of Christians, that historical Jesus spoke Aramaic, as would his purported sibling, James; therefore, in order for the inscription to appear "authentic," according to Christian tradition, it should be written in Aramaic.

James Ossuary Bone Box writingBAR reports that, according to Lemaire, the cursive style of Aramaic in which the inscription appears occurred only from 10-70 CE. Lorenzi also writes that the inscription's cursive Aramaic "would date the ossuary to the last decades of 70 A.D." This latter statement is meaningless, as it is undoubtedly a typo. In any case, it should be noted that epigraphy is an inexact science and that clever forgers have been able to replicate just about any style imaginable. That the style "fits perfectly" with the writing of the era, as stated by Lemaire and Catholic University's Joseph Fitzmyer, proves little, since, again, forgers are often well skilled in reproducing styles. In the end, Fitzmyer honestly concluded that nobody can show that the box's "Jesus" is really Jesus of Nazareth.

The study of such ossuaries reveals that, as is claimed by Lemaire, et al., it is true that the inscriptions usually ran something like: "Judah son of Johanan, son of Jethra," rather than including a brother's name. This fact concerning the James ossuary would actually cast doubt as to its genuineness; indeed, it seems contrived in order to prove a point., i.e., the existence of Jesus. Indeed, in an article "Ossuary was genuine, inscription was faked," for Jewsweek magazine, "expert on scripts and historian of writing systems" Rochelle I. Altman has pronounced the ossuary genuine, as well as the first part of the inscription. However, the last part, "brother of Jesus" is unquestionably a sloppy fake. Says she:

> The bone-box is original; the first inscription, which is in Aramaic, "Jacob son of Joseph," is authentic. The second half of the inscription, "brother of Jesus," is a poorly executed fake and a later addition. This report has already been distributed on at least two scholarly lists.

Altman also notes that the phrase is certainly not written in Aramaic and "You have to be blind as a bat not to see that the second part is a fraud." Altman is no naysaying slouch: She has "a great deal of experience at spotting ancient frauds and forgeries." As such an expert, Altman was able to determine that the James ossuary inscription was clearly written by two different people. The inscriber of the first part was a member of the family and "fully literate," says she, while the "person who wrote the second part...may have been literate, but it is doubtful that he was literate in Aramaic or Hebrew." Also, Altman points out that the original excised frame around the first part of the inscription had to be removed to fit the last, faked part, i.e., "brother of Jesus." Even to the untrained eye, it is obvious that the latter part of the inscription, i.e., "Brother of Jesus," was written by a different, less skillful hand than the first part.

According to the Ottawa Citizen, another expert, Eric Meyers, professor of Judaic studies at Duke University, also has a "bad feeling" that the inscription is a forgery, noting that its owner is being investigated by authorities for theft of "an object now worth between $1-million and $2-million dollars if its authenticity holds up under scrutiny." Meyers relates Altman's conclusion that "the brother of Jesus" part of the inscription is in a different hand from the rest and dates to centuries later. Obviously, such a potential payoff would provide--and has provided--motive for fraud.

The James ossuary is suspicious not only for the lack of its provenance, a development frequently indicating a forgery, but also for the tidiness of its inscription, which seems to have been written not by an early "innocent" Christian but by a propagandist such as those who created so many bogus relics over the centuries. Unfortunately, the news reports, which include conclusions that the ossuary is "genuine," never mention the countless forgeries and fraudulent Christian artifacts of centuries past, a fact that would surely provoke caution in more prudent observers.

Too Many Jesuses

Although the reports claimed that the odds of the combination of the three names James, Joseph and Jesus appearing together on an ossuary are "very slim," even Lemaire admits that there could have been about "20 Jameses in Jerusalem during that era [who] would have had a father named Joseph and a brother named Jesus." (MSNBC) Zindler also remarks that there were many individuals in Judea and Palestine by the names of James, Joseph and Jesus, such that, even if "the brother of Jesus" part of the inscription were genuine, the odds of having these particular relationships are far greater than what has been designated by believing scholars such as Lemaire. Indeed, we have already seen examples of such names on various tombs and ossuaries from the "Holy Land."

The believing argument runs that, because it is unusual to include the name of a brother in one's epitaph, this brother must have been a "well-known figure." There are, in fact, "too many Jesuses" of renown, as Harold Leidner shows in his book The Fabrication of the Christ Myth. These Jesuses, as found in the works of the Jewish historian Josephus and in biblical texts, include the following (list quoted from Leidner, 19-20):

> Jesus son of Naue
> Jesus son of Saul
> Jesus, high priest, son of Phineas
> Jesus son of the high priest Jozadak
> Jesus son of Joiada
> Jesus, high priest, son of Simon
> Jesus, high priest, son of Phabes
> Jesus, high priest, son of See
> Jesus the Christ

Jesus son of Damnaeus, became high priest
Jesus son of Gamaliel, became high priest
Jesus son of Sapphas
Jesus, chief priest, probably to be identified with 10 or 11
Jesus son of Gamalas, high priest
Jesus, brigand chief on borderland of Ptolemais
Jesus son of Sapphias
Jesus brother of Chares
Jesus a Galilean, perhaps to be identified with 15
Jesus in ambuscade, perhaps to be identified with 16
Jesus, priest, son of Thebuthi
Jesus, son of Ananias, rude peasant, prophesies the fall of Jerusalem.

Among these many Jesuses is Jesus, son of Naue, also known as Joshua, son of Nun, the Old Testament messianic figure who supposedly led the Israelites into the Promised Land after Moses failed to do so. It has been demonstrated over the past couple of centuries, and confirmed by the Dead Sea Scrolls, that there was a sort of "Joshua" cult long before the Christian era, revolving around this important Israelite "hero." Apparently, however, "Joshua" or Yeshua ("Savior") was an ancient Canaanite god usurped by the followers of the volcano god Yahweh. In any case, Joshua's position in the Old Testament is one of high estimation: He is the heir to Moses as God's spokesman and will on earth. Joshua is essentially the messiah, and it would seem that members of the northern kingdom, such as those Israelites who eventually became called "Samaritans," virtually worshipped him. Interestingly, the name Joshua or Yeshua is rendered in the the Greek Old Testament, the Septuagint, as JESUS. Hence, a reader of that all-important text would see the name Jesus a couple of hundred times for centuries prior to the Christian era. To repeat, while the articles regarding the James ossuary state that there are only three lines of thought concerning the phrase "brother of Jesus," i.e., James was a blood brother, a stepbrother or a cousin, a more likely explanation is that he was a member of a secret Joshua/Jesus society, i.e., a "brother in the Lord," a phrase commonly used to this day, to describe not blood brothers but members of the Church.
Did Jesus Exist?

The Christ Conspiracy"That Jesus existed is not doubted by scholars," writes Associated Press's Richard Ostling, an assertion that is entirely incorrect. The existence of Jesus Christ, the wonderworker and son of God depicted in the New Testament, has been doubted by the scholarly and sensible since the earliest days of Christianity. This skepticism has not waned to this day, and many current scholars, including mythologists, in whose field of study this subject truly falls, are quite certain that Christ is a mythical character based on the numerous gods and heroes of the ancient world. The doubt--arrived at through extensive and exhaustive research--is evident in Ostling's very statement itself: Why, if no scholar doubts Jesus's existence, need it be reiterated? Guy Gugliotta's remark in the Washington Post is more honest: "Scholars almost universally believe Jesus existed..." The "almost" is a key word here, in that, again, there are a number of scholars who simply do not believe Jesus existed, a conclusion based on intense study untainted by blind belief. And again, why is it necessary for Gugliotta to make such a statement, unless there exists such a doubt?

CNN's Legon feels compelled to write that "...most scholars agree that Jesus existed," while stating that there is no evidence for such a belief! Hence, these scholars who believe in a "historical Jesus" do so without any reason or evidence whatsoever, except that they have been told he did and have seemingly fearfully followed consensus.

Although Ostling claims that "no scholar" doubts the existence of Jesus, Lorenzi quotes one such notable scholar, Robert Eisenman, one of the world's most knowledgeable experts on "James, the Brother of Jesus." Eisenman states categorically that he believes the James "artifact" is a forgery. His reasoning is as follows: "...the line of custody is insecure, and the inscription is too perfect. They would never have written 'brother of Jesus' in the first century." Eisenman also called the existence of Jesus "a very shaky thing" and said that the ossuary find was "too pat." (Zindler)

Hillary Mayell writes, "...historians don't doubt the existence of either James or Jesus; both are mentioned frequently in early historical records." This statement is extremely misleading. In reality, numerous scholars, historians and archaeologists over the centuries have doubted the existence of both James and Jesus, with good reason, since the two characters certainly are not "frequently mentioned in early historical records." The only place Jesus can be found is in the New Testament, despite claims regarding the forged passages in Josephus or the dubious and/or possibly forged statements of Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus--these four are the only out of dozens of historians of the first to early second centuries to make any mention that could be remotely construed as referring to Jesus. James is also found mainly if not exclusively in the New Testament, although Robert Eisenman's voluminous work may demonstrate whence the New Testament writers derived their fictionalized James the Just character. The other "early historical records" are merely the polemical writings of the church fathers of the second century and on. Nothing whatsoever exists from the actual era of either Jesus or James.

In attempting to establish the ossuary inscription as "authentic," reporters have faithfully reproduced the "James" passage from Josephus's Antiquities (XX, iv, 1), in which Josephus is made to write that James was "the brother of Jesus the so-called Christ" or other translation. For various reasons, this latter "Christ" clause, along with the more infamous "Testimonium Flavianum," has been shown to be a forgery. The Josephan James passage is as follows:

> …when, therefore, Ananus was of this disposition, he thought he had now a proper opportunity. Festus was dead, and Albinus was but upon the road; so he assembled the Sanhedrim of judges and brought before them the brother of Jesus, who was called Christ, whose name was James, and some others; and when he had formed an accusation against them as breakers of the law, he delivered them to be stoned.

Critics such as Gordon Rylands, author of The Beginnings of Gnostic Christianity, argue that the "who was called Christ" clause is an interpolation. Rylands suggests that "the brother of Jesus" is an original identifying clause by Josephus and that the Jesus referred to is likely the Jesus made high priest after Ananus, mentioned in proximity to this Josephan James. (Rylands, 266fn.) In The Christ: a critical review and analysis of the evidences of his existence, John Remsburg agrees that "who was called Christ" is an interpolation, and quotes numerous Christian authorities who likewise reject it as such. Also, Remsburg states that Christian tradition places James the Just's death at 69 CE, not 63. Remsburg further asserts that this Josephan James is not the Christian James at all. In any event, the James passage in Josephus certainly does not verify the gospel story in any way, shape or form. As Arthur Drews relates in The Christ Myth, "eminent theologians such as Credner, Schrer, etc." evinced this Christ clause a forgery, but Drews also points out that even if it were genuine it does not prove a historical Jesus. (230-231.) The same can be said of the inscription on the ossuary in question.

Rush to Judgment

Linguist Frank Zindler, who does not believe in a "historical Jesus," writes that the conclusion that the James ossuary represents "proof" of such a Jesus is a "rush to judgment." Zindler argues that the bone-box "may have nothing to do with the alleged Christian messiah." Zindler also says, "The history of the ossuary box and how it was discovered is a pale imitation of 'The Maltese Falcon' or an Indiana Jones saga." He further reports that "there are already indications, though, that many scholars are skeptical that the artifact is authentic." And, Zindler continues to reason that even if the bone-box showed a "historical Jesus" it certainly does not provide evidence that he was divine or did miracles. In other words, even if genuine the inscription does not prove the existence of the New Testament Jesus Christ. Another factor that makes the find suspicious is that it was never given proper peer review, with examination of the ossuary and its inscription by a variety of experts, before being released with great fanfare to the media. Zindler also points out that, in consideration of the plethora of hoaxes and forgeries dating from the early centuries of the Christian era, one may rightly assume that this "find" would likewise be spurious. He concludes, "The burial box may well turn out to be just the latest in a long line of hoaxes and other questionable evidence. There is still no good, credible proof that Jesus or even his disciples really existed as men of flesh and blood."

Despite the hoopla, it remains to be seen if the ossuary and its inscription in toto are "genuine," although mythologists know that there is no chance of such a development. The Church forgery mill is notorious for cranking out thousands of fakes over the centuries, from saints' bones (relics) to Veronica's kerchief to at least 20 Shrouds to enough pieces of the "true Cross" to build a large ship. Members of the priestcraft even tried to pass off several shriveled foreskins as the one holy one of Christ. The list is endless and includes countless "documents," including ridiculous correspondence between the Lord Jesus and King Agbarus, letters from the Virgin Mary, the Lentulus forgery, and hundreds of others. The James ossuary, the provenance of which is conveniently unknown, may very well prove to be yet another of these bogus artifacts. As Lorenzi says, "Nothing is known of its history prior to the current ownership..." This assertion would remain true even if the limestone did indeed come from the "Holy Land." Forgers are at times very clever, as we have seen in modern times. The patina of the writing may suggest that it was inscribed many centuries ago, perhaps at the time when the ossuary was carved; however, that does not mean that it dates to the first century CE. Again, that date is ascribed circularly because, if James died around 62-63, then his ossuary must be from that time. To repeat, despite the claims regarding the Israeli government's geological survey tests, the James ossuary could well be from the era of great Church forgery following the "conversion" of Constantine.

Such spectacular finds as the James ossuary frequently cement their discoverer in history, which certainly qualifies as motive for fervently presenting dubious or even clearly bogus "artifacts" as authentic, as does the million-dollar price tag. Time and again, overzealous scholars and pseudoscholars have popped up with sensational finds, such as "The Hitler Diaries," only to have them revealed as forgeries. The suspicion regarding this ossuary leads one to such unfavorable conclusions.

Jesus's Sandals Found!Illustrating the depths stooped to over the years when faith outweighs reason, a cover story for that bastion of journalistic accuracy, the Weekly World News (11/5/02), claims "JESUS' SANDALS FOUND! STEP IN THESE SHOES & FEEL HIS MIRACLE HEALING POWER," complete with a picture of ratty old leather sandals. Inside, it is explained that the sandals were found by "an intrepid Vatican treasure hunter!" The article's author, Vincenzo Sardi, relates, "Hundreds of devout pilgrims are flocking to see the holy relics..." According to Sardi, the astounding discovery has been making headlines all over Italy, and the faithful are receiving miraculous healing powers merely by standing on the newspaper photos of the sandals! The Weekly World News' expert is a "Vatican-affiliated archaeologist," Dr. Roberto Savici, who declared, "There is no question that these sandals, once worn by Our Lord, have some kind of extraordinary aura." Says Sardi, "Dr. Savici is 100 percent sure that the sandals, which have been scientifically dated to the early part of the First Century A.D., are the genuine article." Savici says, "We compared tread marks on the bottom of the sandals to the only known footprints of Jesus, on a rock near the Sea of Galilee--it was a perfect match." The method used to "scientifically date" these sandals seems to be the same as that which was used with the James ossuary. Although, thousands of readers doubtlessly will believe that such a method exists, in reality it does not. The claim regarding the matching of the treads with those found on a rock is a nice touch for the extremely gullible. In actuality, these "footprints" of the gods or demigods, such as Buddha, exist all over the world and are priestcraft artifacts.

Savici further claims the sandals, stripped from Jesus by the Romans during his crucifixion, have been in the possession of a "Venetian family" for generations, to be discovered by "the expert" after "11 years of detective work." While even believing Christians may find this article laughable, what makes it any less credible than the stories released by the mainstream press? The expert archaeologist Savici is presented as having "Vatican-affiliated" credentials, which surely gives him as much credibility as Lemaire, if not more. So important are Savici and his find that the Pope Himself has requested the sandals be brought to Rome, "to the vault where they'll join the Holy Robe and all the other Christ relics." Now, if we can't believe the Pope, who can we believe?! Even the Holy Robe is there, "in the vault," with "other Christ relics!" Surely these must all be authentic; yet, why haven't all these finds been shouted the world over, like the so-called James ossuary? Could it be because they are bogus? Why, that would make liars of the Pope, God's Holy Emissary on earth, and his cronies! If we admit that these "relics" are phonies, then we may also be suspicious of the James ossuary, which could be fake, or at the most, useless in establishing a "historical Jesus."

The Jewish collector who possessed the ossuary, Lemaire claims, did not recognize its value because to him, "Jesus was known as the son of God, so he had no brother," an unusual attitude for a Jew. The antique dealer who sold the box to the anonymous collector for $500-700, per CNN, also apparently had no clue as to its value, which is difficult to believe. This person could not have been much of an antiques dealer, or perhaps he knew it was bogus. One would think that the dealer would have tried to sell it to the Vatican, had he believed it was a genuine artifact. There is a precedent for such ignorant behavior, however: In the 1950s, some of the Dead Sea Scrolls were advertised in a New York newspaper for a paltry sum. Nevertheless, such a lax attitude does not instill confidence in the dealer, provenance or the artifact itself.

In any event, the inscription on the James ossuary will leave Orthodox and Catholic Christians with a bad taste in their mouths, since Jesus was supposedly the only child of the Virgin Mary. Protestants believe that Jesus had siblings, but that Mary was a virgin when she gave birth to her first-born, Jesus. A forger, therefore, would most likely be of the Protestant mentality. Yet, this suggestion does not assert that the ossuary was not forged until after the Protestant Reformation; it is possible that earlier Christians of the same doctrine (such as some of the early Church fathers) may have been the culprits. Or, some recent scalawag has taken an ancient ossuary belonging to Jacob ben Josef and very poorly scratched in "brother of Jesus" at the end.

The facts surrounding the appearance of the ossuary, the pronouncements concerning the inscription by doubting experts, its unknown provenance, etc., cast doubt onto its authenticity and value as an artifact proving anything from the era of Jesus's advent. In reality, the conclusion that the ossuary is the "first proof" or "earliest evidence" or "only evidence" of Jesus dating to his purported era is a startling admission that there is, after 2,000 years, no unquestionable evidence of Jesus Christ's existence. Whenever some "artifact" or "evidence" of this sort appears, it is wise to express amazement that it has taken 2,000 years to find proof of Jesus, a demigod who supposedly shook up the world. Especially since he, as God Almighty, has purportedly been supernaturally in charge of everything. Since Jesus is claimed to be omnipotent, one would think that he would be able to prove himself and his existence on earth many times over. Yet, such is not the case, as this pitiful box, with its inconclusive inscription, is the only "proof" we have after two millennia. It's just not to be--it would not be smart to hold one's breath. The proof of a fictional character having lived on earth will simply never appear.

Sources:

Evidence of Jesus Written in Stone: Ossuary of Jesus' Brother Backs Up Biblical Accounts - Biblical Archaeology Review
Proof of Jesus: Burial Artifact May Be the Oldest Evidence of Christ by Richard N. Ostling

Burial Box May Be That of Jesus's Brother, Expert Says by Hillary Mayell, National Geographic News
First Proof of Jesus Fraud? by Rossella Lorenzi, Discovery News
Scholars: Oldest Evidence of Jesus? by Jeordan Legon, CNN
"Inscription May be Earliest Reference to Jesus" by Guy Gugliotta, Washington Post Archaeological evidence of Jesus? - MSNBC
Important Evidence: Bible Expert Explains Meaning of the James Inscription Find by Ben Witherington III
PROOF OF THE HISTORICAL JESUS, OR RUSH TO JUDGMENT? by Frank Zindler
Encyclopedia of Archaeological Excavations in the Holy Land, vol. II, Michael Avi-Yonah, Ed., Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, NJ, 1976.
The Fabrication of the Christ Myth by Harold Leidner
The Beginnings of Gnostic Christianity by Gordon L. Rylands, Watts & Co., London, 1940.
The Christ: a critical review and analysis of the evidences of his existence by John E. Remsburg.
The Christ Myth by Arthur Drews, Prometheus, Amherst, NY, 1998.
"Tracing the Spread of the Asklepios-Cult" by Bronsen Wickkiser, koue, Newsletter of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. Summer 2002, No. 48.
Jesus' Sandals Found! by Vicenzo Sardi, Weekly World News, 11/5/02.
Ossuary was genuine, inscription was faked by Rochelle I. Altman, Jewsweek.
'Jesus box' museum goes PC by dumping B.C.
Expert has a 'bad feeling' about ossuary by Bob Harvey of the Ottawa Citizen.
Forgers 'tried to rewrite biblical history' from the Guardian, 12/31/04
Dealers accused of unholy fraud in Israel from the Herald Sun, 12/31/04
Israeli dealers accused of antiquity fraud by Eric Silver, 12/30/04

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days

- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?

- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Early Church Fathers on Mithraism: The Devil Got There First

by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Why did the religion of Mithraism so bother the early Christians that they were compelled to write against it?

Mithrasrelief von Neuenheim, 2. Jhrdt . Badisches Landesmuseum Karlsruhe (Photo: Thomas Ihle at de.wikipedia)
Mithra slays the bull, surrounded by other scenes from his life.

The early fathers of the Christian church discussed Mithraism's similarities to Christianity, unfavorably and with the intent to make it appear as if the prescient devil "aped" the coming Christ, based on interpretations of so-called "messianic prophecies" in the Old Testament. In other words, they essentially admitted that these similarities, parallels and correspondences between the religion and biography of the Perso-Roman god Mithra and the Jewish messiah Jesus existed before Christ supposedly lived, and that the Christian savior and religion were therefore unoriginal and not unique.

'Distorted from Prophecies'

Mithraism was so popular in the Roman Empire and so similar in important aspects to Christianity that several Church fathers were compelled to address it, disparagingly of course. For example, in his Dialogue with Trypho, patristic writer Justin Martyr (100-c. 165) acknowledged the mysteries of Mithra and claimed in chapter 70 that they were "distorted from the prophecies of Daniel and Isaiah":

And when those who record the mysteries of Mithras say that he was begotten of a rock, and call the place where those who believe in him are initiated a cave, do I not perceive here that the utterance of Daniel, that a stone without hands was cut out of a great mountain, has been imitated by them, and that they have attempted likewise to imitate the whole of Isaiah's words? (Roberts (1870), 2.186)

Justin MartyrJustin does not maintain that the Mithraic mysteries were copied from Christianity; his appeal to "prophecies" purportedly written centuries before is a tacit admission that Roman Mithraism, with rites already developed and known by his time, preceded Christianity. Martyr's suggestion also implies that the Mithraists knew the Jewish scriptures, which is improbable, unless those who created Mithraic rituals were Jews.

Even in the time of the emperor Vespasian, it was difficult, if not impossible, for a non-Jew (goy) to get his hands on the scriptures. In fact, it is alleged that one of the reasons for the befriending of the Jewish general and historian Josephus, as well as for the destruction of Jerusalem, was the emperor's desire to procure copies of the Jewish holy books or Torah. In the Talmud (Sanhedrin 59a), it is debated whether or not a goy who reads the Torah should be put to death. In any event, Martyr is clearly indicating that various Mithraic rituals preceded Christianity, in his attempted explanation that their existence was the result of "prophecies."

The Mithraic Eucharist

As regards the Eucharist in specific, Justin says in his First Apology (66):

And this food is called among us Eucharistia, of which no one is allowed to partake but the man who believes that the things which we teach are true, and who has been washed with the washing that is for the remission of sins, and unto regeneration, and who is so living as Christ has enjoined. For not as common bread and common drink do we receive these; but in like manner as Jesus Christ our Saviour, having been made flesh by the Word of God, had both flesh and blood for our salvation, so likewise have we been taught that the food which is blessed by the prayer of His word, and from which our blood and flesh by transmutation are nourished, is the flesh and blood of that Jesus who was made flesh. For the apostles, in the memoirs composed by them, which are called Gospels, have thus delivered unto us what was enjoined upon them; that Jesus took bread, and when He had given thanks, said, "This do ye in remembrance of Me, this is My body"; and that, after the same manner, having taken the cup and given thanks, He said, "This is My blood"; and gave it to them alone. Which the wicked devils have imitated in the mysteries of Mithras, commanding the same thing to be done. For, that bread and a cup of water are placed with certain incantations in the mystic rites of one who is being initiated, you either know or can learn. (Roberts (1885), 1.185)

As discussed elsewhere, the phrase "which are called Gospels" is evidently an interpolation, as it not only is extraneous and gratuitous to the subject matter of the rest of the paragraph but is also the only time the term "Gospels" is found in Justin's works. Furthermore, the quotes Justin cites from the "memoirs," which are ostensibly a single text called the "Memoirs of the Apostles" also discussed elsewhere, differ from any found in the canonical gospels. (In-depth analysis is provided in Supernatural Religion by Walter Cassels.)

In any case, Martyr implies here that this Mithraic sacrament preceded Christianity and was not copied from the latter, since the "devil did it" argument is generally, if not always, used to explain away the similarities between Christianity and pre-Christian Paganism. If human beings had merely copied Christian rites and myths, why would Martyr not say so but instead irrationally ascribe the deed to a supernatural agency, thus putting himself at risk for incredulity and ridicule for what is now nearly two thousand years?

In his discussion of the Eucharist, Justin also relates that the Mithraic mysteries involve bread and water, like the Christian communion, attributing its presence in Mithraism to "evil spirits":

...And this very solemnity, too, the evil spirits have introduced into the "Mysteries of Mithra"; for you do or may know that when anyone is initiated into this religion, bread and a cup of water, with a certain form of words, are made use of in the sacrifice. (Taylor, lxiii)

It should also be noted that within the Egyptian religion, dating back some 3,000 years before Christ's alleged advent, the partaking in the sacred meal of bread and beer was germane to the salvational afterlife of the religious devotee. Such sacred meals could also be found in other pre-Christian cultures as well.
Mithraism and Baptism, Resurrection, etc.

Church father TertullianAdditionally, in his book The Prescription Against Heretics, Church father Tertullian (c. 160-c. 225) acknowledges the similarities between Mithraism and Christianity, in their use of baptism, a mark upon the forehead, the resurrection, the crown, etc. Like Martyr, of course, he blames these similarities on the devil, rather than admitting that Christianity took them from Mithraism:

Chapter XL.-No Difference in the Spirit of Idolatry and of Heresy. In the Rites of Idolatry, Satan Imitated and Distorted the Divine Institutions of the Older Scriptures. The Christian Scriptures Corrupted by Him in the Perversions of the Various Heretics.

The question will arise, By whom is to be interpreted the sense of the passages which make for heresies? By the devil, of course, to whom pertain those wiles which pervert the truth, and who, by the mystic rites of his idols, vies even with the essential portions of the sacraments of God. He, too, baptizes somethat is, his own believers and faithful followers; he promises the putting away of sins by a layer (of his own); and if my memory still serves me, Mithra there, (in the kingdom of Satan) sets his marks on the foreheads of his soldiers; celebrates also the oblation of bread, and introduces an image of a resurrection, and before a sword wreathes a crown. What also must we say to (Satan's) limiting his chief priest to a single marriage? He, too, has his virgins; he, too, has his proficients in continence. Suppose now we revolve in our minds the superstitions of Numa Pompilius, and consider his priestly offices and badges and privileges, his sacrificial services, too, and the instruments and vessels of the sacrifices themselves, and the curious rites of his expiations and vows: is it not clear to us that the devil imitated the well-known moroseness of the Jewish law? Since, therefore he has sown such emulation in his great aim of expressing, in the concerns of his idolatry, those very things of which consists the administration of Christ's sacraments, it follows, of course, that the same being, possessing still the same genius, both set his heart upon, and succeeded in, adapting to his profane and rival creed the very documents of divine things and of the Christian saints... (Roberts (1870), 15.48)

"Mithra there...sets his marks on the foreheads of his soldiers; celebrates also the oblation of bread, and introduces an image of a resurrection..."

Numa Pompilius, legendary king of RomeHere Tertullian is acknowledging the resemblances between Mithraism, Paganism in general, and Christianity, using as an example some rites also similar that date back to the purported time of the legendary Roman king Numa Pompilius (753-673 BCE), nearly eight centuries before the common era.

One Latin edition of Tertullian's "Mithra" remarks is as follows:

Tingit et ipse quosdam utique credentes et fideles suos; expositionem delictorum de lauacro repromittit, et si adhuc memini Mithrae, signat illic in frontibus milites suos. Celebrat et panis oblationem et imaginem resurrectionis inducit et sub gladio redimit coronam.

The argument that this Mithraic commentary is a "gloss" may be a Christian apology, rather than scientific analysis.

Moreover, the Church father claims that these similarities were in imitation of the Jewish law, that Satan had "imitated and distorted the Divine Institutions" of the "Older Scriptures" or Torah. As stated, non-Jews could not readily know such things; hence, it must have been the apparently omnipresent, omniscient and omnipotent devil, who is constantly getting the better of God!

In On Baptism (5), Tertullian describes baptism in the Roman Empire, but insists that it too is diabolical:

"Well, but the nations, who are strangers to all understanding of spiritual powers, ascribe to their idols the imbuing of waters with the self-same efficacy." (So they do) but they cheat themselves with waters which are widowed. For washing is the channel through which they are initiated into some sacred ritesof some notorious Isis or Mithras. The gods themselves likewise they honour by washings. Moreover, by carrying water > around, and sprinkling it, they everywhere expiate country-seats, houses, temples, and whole cities: at all events, at the Apollinarian and Eleusinian games they are baptized; and they presume that the effect of their doing that is their regeneration and the remission of the penalties due to their perjuries. Among the ancients, again, whoever had defiled himself with murder, was wont to go in quest of purifying waters. Therefore, if the mere nature of water, in that it is the appropriate material for washing away, leads men to flatter themselves with a belief in omens of purification, how much more truly will waters render that service through the authority of God, by whom all their nature has been constituted! If men think that water is endued with a medicinal virtue by religion, what religion is more effectual than that of the living God? Which fact being acknowledged, we recognise here also the zeal of the devil rivalling the things of God, while we find him, too, practising baptism in his subjects. (Roberts (1887), 3.671)

Obviously, this baptism, so extensively carried out, was the order of the day long before Christianity had any influence. Indeed, baptism is a pre-Christian rite, found from India to Egypt, dating back thousands of years. How, then, did Mithraism take it from Christianity?

Religious Mark on the Forehead

Another one of these devilish nuisances to Christian apologists is the Mithraic mark upon the forehead, a rite similar to that within Catholicism. In The Chaplet (De Corona), Tertullian comments on the "mimicry of martyrdom," as well as the crown and the mark of Mithraism, and says:

> Let us take note of the devices of the devil, who is wont to ape some of God's things with no other design than, by the faithfulness of his servants, to put us to shame, and to condemn us. (Roberts (1887), 3.103)

The mark on the forehead as a sign of religious respect is well known to have been used in India for millennia. Even the Bible records the Jewish prophet Ezekiel (9:4) as marking the foreheads of the "righteous":

> And the Lord said to him, "Go through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark upon the foreheads of the men who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it."

Concerning this Jewish mark, ancient Christian monuments expert Rev. Dr. John P. Lundy states (128):

> The cross was marked on the foreheads of the men of Jerusalem that were to be spared from destruction, in Ezekiel's time, for it was tau [T]; (9:4-6) it was stamped on valuable documents, coins, and on the necks of camels and thighs of horses; it was woven into garments; and in various other ways it was used before the Christian era as a symbol of ownership, of safety and of solemn compact.

Phoenician alphabet, c. 1050 BCEThe word for "mark" in Hebrew is תו or tav, reflecting the τ or tau of the Greeks. Both the Greek and Hebrew letters are derived from the Phoenician alphabet, in which the letter "t" is an "x."

Concerning the Jewish mark, the Catholic Encyclopedia ("Cross," 4.519) relates:

Thus the Greek letter (tau or thau) appears in Ezechiel (ix, 4), according to St. Jerome and other Fathers, as a solemn symbol of the Cross of Christ--"Mark Thau upon the foreheads of the men that sigh." The only other symbol of crucifixion indicated in the Old Testament is the brazen serpent in the Book of Numbers (xxi, 8-9). Christ Himself thus interpreted the passage: "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of man be lifted up" (John, iii, 14). The Psalmist predicts the piercing of the hands and the feet (Ps. xxi. 17).

Nevertheless, despite its presence in Judaism, in an article entitled "The Cult of Sol Invictus," a Protestant Christian website protests that the sign of the cross itself is Satanic, representing a Mithraic ritual that has erroneously found its way into Christianity:

After baptism into the Mysteries of Mithra, the initiate was marked on the forehead. The sign of the cross formed by the elliptic and the celestial equator was one of the signs of Mithra.

There is no Biblical support for the inclusion of Mithraic ritual, which is the worship of Satan, in the worship of the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the Creator of heaven and earth. It is a Satanic scheme to disguise the transgression of Gods laws under the title of "Christianity."

While the writer wishes to denigrate all religions other than an imagined "pure Christianity," he nonetheless clearly contends that Christianity, or Catholicism in specific, took from Mithraism, and not vice versa. Obviously, the cross would not have been copied by Paganism from Christianity, as it is an ancient sacred symbol that pre-dates the Christian era by centuries and millennia. In fact, the cross was the "universal symbol of life and immortality," as well as of the sun god, entirely appropriate for Mithra.

OrigenIn Contra Celsum (6.22), Church father Origen (184/185-253/254) quotes Celsus as relating the Mithraic mysteries, which included the soul's movements through the seven heavenly spheres. This celestial soul-cleansing "ladder" begins with the leaden Saturn and ends with the golden sun. The Persian theology, says Origen, also includes "musical realms." From Origen's condemnation of Celsus, it is evident that Celsus compared Mithraism with Judaism and Christianity, apparently accusing the latter two of copying the Persian religion. In book VI, Origen says:

For the mysteries of Mithras do not appear to be more famous among the Greeks than those of Eleusis, or than those in Aegina, where individuals are initiated in the rites of Hecate. But if he [Celsus] must introduce barbarian mysteries with their explanation, why not rather those of the Egyptians, which are highly regarded by many, or those of the Cappadocians regarding the Comanian Diana, or those of the Thracians, or even those of the Romans themselves, who initiate the noblest members of their senate? But if he deemed it inappropriate to institute a comparison with any of these, because they furnished no aid in the way of accusing Jews or Christians, why did it not also appear to him inappropriate to adduce the instance of the mysteries of Mithras? (Roberts (1885), 4.583)

Ironically, the prolific and highly influential Origen--considered one of the best educated of the early apologists--was later himself condemned as a "heretic"; yet, the church continued to use his writings to gain converts.

Another early Christian author who writes about the analogous elements found in both Paganism and Christianity, and attributes these resemblances to the devil, was Julius Firmicus Maternus (4th cent.). It is apparent from Firmicus's contentions in De Errore profanarum religionum (4) that he believed the mysteries to have been prefigured by the devil. In other words, they anticipated Christianity.

The bottom line is that Mithraism in one form or another existed for centuries prior to the common era and thus predated Christianity. The contention that many of the "biographical" details assigned to Jesus Christ in the New Testament represented attributes of older gods such as Mithra is verified by the protestations of the early Christian fathers that the "devil" anticipated the advent of Jesus Christ, as purportedly predicted in the Jewish scriptures, and caused the Pagans to mimic this Jewish messiah in their gods and goddesses.

Bibliography

"The Cult of Sol Invictus." www.sabbathcovenant.com/doctrine/cult_of_sol_invictus.htm
Roberts, Alexander, et al. eds. Ante-Nicene Christian Library, vols. 2 & 15. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1870.
--Ante-Nicene Fathers, vols. 1 & 4. Buffalo: The Christian Literature Publishing Company, 1885.
--Ante-Nicene Fathers, vol. 3. Buffalo: The Christian Literature Publishing Company, 1887.
Lundy, John P. Monumental Christianity. New York: J.W. Bouton, 1876.
Taylor, J. The True Doctrine of the Holy Eucharist. London: Longman, Brown, Green & Longmans, 1855.

Further Reading

Mithra: The Pagan Christ
Was Mithra's Mother a Virgin?

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Powered by Google Google ÜbersetzerGoogle Übersetzer

Acharya S on DVD!

Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion

- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

mmg160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

Isis the Chrēst
by D.M. Murdock/Acharya S

Is Jesus Christ truly a unique, divine revelation? Or is he one of many "Christs" and "Chrēsts" in antiquity? As "Jesus the Good" was called "Chrēstos," so too was the Egyptian goddess Isis.

The chi-rho or 'chrestomathy' mark was used to designate something 'good' or 'useful,' until it was taken over by Christianity and changed to represent 'christos' or 'anointed.'

In several instances in ancient times, the figure of "Jesus the Christ" is also called "Jesus the Chrēst" or "Jesus the Good," these two epithets, "Christos" and "Chrēstos," closely resembling each other and often confused by early Church fathers and others. As was the case with the title of Χριστός Christos, meaning "anointed," being held by various gods and other figures in the ancient world, so too was the epithet χρηστός Chrestos/Chrestus attached to several individuals, divine and otherwise. This fact that epithets traditionally associated with Jesus in reality were possessed by many others in antiquity is important to understand, as it demonstrates once again that the Christ character is neither unique nor representative of genuine divine revelation.

The Good God/dess

In Egypt for example, we find the common phrase neter nefer or "Good God," an epithet applied to Osiris as well as to the pharaohs, these latter of whom were considered divinities on Earth, incarnations of the god Horus. It is contended that, after the Greek-speaking Ptolemies began ruling Egypt or even before, with the introduction of Greek mysteries, Osiris and other Egyptian gods and goddesses were called chrestos.

In this regard, in Boeckh Corp. Inscr. (2:245, n. 2300) appears an inscription found on the Greek island of Delos that reads ΙΣΙΔΙ ΧΡΗΣΤΗ or "Isis Chreste":

Interestingly, Delos had a Therapeutan community, while Isis evidently was worshipped by the Judeo-Buddhist Therapeuts at Alexandria. (See my book Christ in Egypt, 440, 456.)

Along the same lines, in The Foreigner: A Search for the First-Century Jesus (77), Desmond Stewart says:

> Chrestus (or in its Greek original, chrêstos) means gentle, kindly, good; it is, curiously, the equivalent of the common pharaonic title of Osiris, Un-nefer.

This epithet "Un-Nefer" or "Onnofri," etc., possesses the same basic meaning as chrestos; therefore, any Egyptian texts calling Osiris "Un-Nefer" when translated into Greek may have used the word chrestos.

Osiris the KRST

Christ in EgyptIt is significant that in Egyptian language the word for "tomb," "funeral," "dead body" or "mummy" is pronounced "krst" or "karest," similar to chrest and christ, especially when one considers that the initial hieroglyph for this word (N29) possesses a χ or chi sound. The last glyph in this word is the determinative Mummy determinative, Gardiner's A53 (A53), the standing mummy, which represents Osiris risen. (For more information, see my book Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection, 313-318)

This suggestion of Osiris as chrestos is given further support by the interesting discussion in a purported letter by Emperor Hadrian in which he claims that the Egyptian hybrid god Serapis ("Ausar-Apis") was worshipped by the "Chrestians."

In Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus (52), Dr. Arthur Drews presents this Hadrian-Servius letter as stating in part:

> Those who worship Serapis are the Chrestians, and those who call themselves priests of Chrestus are devoted to Serapis. There is not a high-priest of the Jews, a Samaritan, or a priest of Chrestus who is not a mathematician, soothsayer, or quack. Even the patriarch, when he goes to Egypt, is compelled by some to worship Serapis, by others to worship Chrestus.

The Greek word chrestos was popular as an epithet or on epitaphs at various Egyptian funerary sites as at Alexandria and elsewhere. This fact too suggests that the Lord of the Underworld and Afterlife, Osiris, the Good God, like his wife, Isis Chreste, may have been likewise deemed Chrestos.

The Egyptian Houses of Goodness

The popular Egyptian term nfr or nefer, meaning "pleasant," "beautiful," "good," "excellent" and "gracious," comparable to chrestos, is designated by the hieroglyph of a cross (trachea) with a heart at the bottom (F35). Interestingly, this fascinating symbol, which looks like the sacred heart of Jesus, appears over Egyptian "Houses of Goodness" or "Houses of Chrest," so to speak, that resemble churches.

Further Reading

Sacred Heart of Jesus

Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection
Is Suetonius's Chresto a Reference to Jesus?
The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
Chrestos Magical Bowl?
Chrestes as Oracle and Chrematizo in the New Testament
Apollo, Son of God and the Chrest?
Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
Christos or Chrestos?
Egyptian Houses of Goodness
Does Josephus prove a historical Jesus?
The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
Franck Goddio Society Chrestos Bowl Report
Earliest Reference Describes Christ as 'Magician'
Catalogue of Chrest
Christian Lindtner's Review of Hermann Detering's Falsche Zeugen: Ausserchristliche Jesuszeugnisse auf dem Prüfstand

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

Lost Your Soul? Now Get It Back!

Abandon Hate & Fear, All Ye Who Enter Here

Do Thy Will!

Awakening the Future, Transcending Armageddon, Transcending Homo Sapiens!

Welcome to the WOGSS "Daemonolatriea" Web-pages! These pages are continually added to with new Magickal Ontology, Subversive Theology, Cultural Warfare Plans, Priestly Powers & Duties, Ceremonial Rites, Daemonic Whoreship, Guerilla Theology, Spiritual Self-Initiation Programs, Occult Art, the Law of Thelema, Amazing Links to the cutting edge of Scientific Discovery & Arcane Philosophy, and much more!
Check out the following informative pages of WOGSS Occult Teachings, or Read On this page to get a general overview if this is your first time. (We promise to be gentle)

Now see the Daemonolatriea Itself for the first time online! (it takes some time to load but it's worth it - take a break and then come back and See)

Open Letter to Allies (broader Introduction)
WOGSS Terms, Plans & Instructions (save the World, Save Yourself)
WOGSS Theology & Occult Rituals (Adoration of Babalon, Luciferic Ascension, Hymn To Lucifer)
the Daemonolatriea (Ideas, Contents & Ordering)
Occult Art
Wild Writings (New Questions Christians Can't Answer - Proof Lazarus was Osiris. And New Quotations. Also: Alliterative Artillery)
Key Links (Many New Links as of 3-23-02!)
New Rituals Liber Resh 2, Expanded Adorations of the Sun! Also related Qabalistic Tables. And see new very effective "First Principles" List!
Dualities Unified: New Valuable information on the Reconciliation of Opposites on All Planes, the most important Work of any Magician! Includes List of 321+ Syzigies:

Polarities/Dualities/Antinomies in the realms of the Universal, Spiritual, Psychological, & Social Dimentions of Being.

New Lists of Key Occult Concepts: The Great Work, The Eschaton (End of the World), & the Holy Guardian Angel. Also Useful Magickal Formulas, & Occult Priestcraft for Self &Others!

New Page of Banners of the Best Occult & Alternative Sources!

All data by: WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists. All Questions, Comments, Orders, etc. to: Rev. Adtrian Cain, 1032 Irving St. PMB #906, SAN FRANCISCO, CA, 94122, USA New E-mail: jeff-free@cosmiverse.com

The Rev. Adtrian Cain is A Magical Persona of Godfrey H. Slayne (JHS) an Independent Thelemic Priest & Magician, above all other qualities, who is always searching for, & finding, new belief systems to explore & synthesize with his understanding of his True Will in the World according to the Law of Thelema: Do what thou wilt. He has formulated WOGSS to express his current feelings in this area, to incite insight & discussion, & to encourage all to devote themselves to the Only thing that matters: the revealing of their True Will & Self behind the false ego of petty desires, capricious whims, feeble fears, & the forced role-playing of modern society!

WOGSS is: A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan: An Independent, non-dogmatic, non-local, Scientific/Religious Order of: "Anarcho-Gnostic, Thelemic, Discordian, Draconian, Scientists". We have no regular "membership", & no "representatives", whoever claims to be of us is lying. However Any who explore the Unknown with open minds, with the goal of Knowing & Becoming their True Selves, & tells us about it, can be Allies of WOGSS, or "Polywogss", if they so will.

Our Spiritual Aim is Union with the True Self within, knowledge of the True Will of ones being, & then, Devotion to the Great Goddess, the Mystery of Mystery, the infinite Unknown in Everything. Our Method is the Scientific application of the Law of Thelema: "Do what thou wilt", in the post-modern Deconstructed World of accelerating Chaos, Terror, &Wonder.

Here you will find Practical Actions to Illuminate & Liberate yourself & others from the restrictions of both False Religion and False Materialism, putting Your Soul back in Your Own Hands! But more then that our Work is to work for the Revolution that is occurring all around us right now! It hardly takes Prophetic Revelations to predict the Immanence of Humankinds Next Step!

Specifically, we expect a stunning series of R-Evolutions in the nature of Knowledge, Consciousness, Society, & Human Life itself, due to a convergence of wildly different scientific discoveries in the realms of genetic engineering, bio-chemistry alteration, neurological manipulation, psychotronics, multiplying computing power, robotics, micro-engineering (nano-technology), Artificial Intelligence, & nuclear-&-astro-physics, among many others. These factors as well as countless individual Spiritual breakthroughs, (as well as ecological collapse, fundamentalist terrorist attacks, & unstoppable super-viruses) will soon sweep away our ideas of Human "civilization" as surly as our species swept away, and assimilated, the pre-existing Neanderthal cultures, or they the earlier primate ape societies from which we came, and so on, over and over again.

Though it brings unimaginable chaos and upheaval we eagerly await the New Life, the Higher Beings we must become, and will become if we can Willfully Realize our True Selves, & open our minds to embrace the seemingly terrifying possibilities of the limitless Unknown in our Immediate Future!

Or did you think evolution was finished with our pathetic ape asses?

We work to prepare for the Future, to Awaken as many as possible to work also to Liberate Humankind from the mental limitations and religious restrictions of the past. Our preference is to present, within the context of the Law of Thelema, new forms of Worship, & Experience of what is commonly called the "Darkside", the Left Hand Path, the rejected realm of the feared, forbidden, & above all feminine aspects of Divinity. These include all things characteristic of the Stellar, Lunar & Terrestrial Archetypes (Star, Moon & Earth Goddesses), Undifferentiated Wholeness, Deep Oceans of Water & of Space, the Night, the Unknown, the Underworld, Initiation, Cycles of Ancient & Future Time, Primal Chaos, Old Wilderness, Oozing Rain Forests, Deadly Deserts, Birthing & Planting as well as Dieing & Harvesting, the Physical Body itself, (Hedonism & Mortality) & the hidden (Occult) & suppressed (Heretical) Ideas, Images, and Practices of the Worlds many Indigenous Ancient (& Future) Spiritual Alternatives to the Lying patriarchal monotheism of Judeo-Christian-Muslim "authorities"! (see Dualities Unified List)
We say "To the Angel through the Goddess, to the Goddess through the Angel", as the Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon, Union with your True Self & Will (not just exalting the many petty desires & fears of the merely human self & will, as in modern "American" Satanism) is the First Necessary Task for the successful Evolution of Humankind, as well as its' survival! These two elements intertwine, the Goddess Without, the Angel Within, in our personal Theology, which is based above all on the Holy Books of Thelema and The Book of the Law. Our Work, again, is to scientifically understand, purify, balance, consecrate & Initiate the lower ego or self (the Pentagram), & then Unite it by "Love under Will" with its True Source and Will (the Hexagram, God, the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon, Yourself in the Future, etc.), and then devote All of our True Self to the further Love & Union with the Great Goddess, NUIT, the Absolute within & beyond being, so that every act is a step on the eternal "Pathless Path" of the Great Work!

To better prepare your mind for the Expansion & Acceleration of Life and Consciousness, & subliminally promote the Union of Opposites on every plane, we also offer a Post-modern Necronomicon, our printed Occult-Art-&-Thought-Collage Zine/Grimiore, the Daemonolatriea! the "Book of Daemonic Whoreship" or of Union with your Daemon/Angel/True Self. It is Your Direct source for the ideas & images of WOGSS' Spiritual Warfare & Sacred-Science Experiments with the Feared, Forbidden, & Feminine Sides of Occult lore & Magickal (Un)Belief!
WOGSS transmits Occult Rebellion through Electronic, Printed, Audio & Psychick Media Worldwide & Beyond... Open the Doors & Enter the Dangerous, Daemonic realms of the Unknown! Come & See (And Use!) for Yourself the bizarre Mysteries beyond good and evil, openly displayed on this Site, & more fully in our printed Grimiore/Zines the surrealistic Daemonolatriea Journals!

If you Desire to Know more that cannot be shown here, feel free to contact us by E-Mail or snail mail to Ask Questions, or to order the Daemonolatriea Occult Art Grimiores/Zines; or just send any Trade of Chaos, Clip-Art, News clippings, Key Thoughts, Secret Codes, Scientific Breakthroughs, Icons, Idols, Images, Illustrations, Gods & Goddesses, Beasts, Freaks, Monsters, Demons, Devils, Lies, Alien Sightings, Magick Symbols, Marks of the Beast, Visions & Voices, Paradigms, Prophecies, Points of View, Teachings, Transmissions, Transcendence, Supernatural Events, Manifestoes of Rebellion, Satanick Offerings, Insights, Games, Jokes, Lucid Dreams, Forbidden Knowledge, & Any & All Occulture, Ideas, Insights, & Information, and Contact Addresses, and we will respond with much of the same!

(Now, for our many P.O.V.'s Go Down Philosophies' Pit with some 111 Basic Magickal Axioms & Assertions).

Do What Thou Wilt (93) shall be the whole of the Law!

There is No division between the Spirit and the Flesh.

There is No division between the Light and the Dark.

Becoming Lightning the Dog threw back the Veil.

The Overman shall be The Meaning of the Earth.

Every number is Infinite, there is no difference.

The Gods of the Old are the Devils of the New.

The Devils of the Old are the Gods of the New.

There is no law beyond : Do What Thou Wilt.

The Whole is more then the sum of Its parts.

Every Point is the Center of the Universe.

Become the Beast, Whoreship the Whore!

Raise not Up what you can put not Down.

Truth to the Higher is a Lie to the Lower.

Nothing is true, Everything is permitted.

Infinite Tolerance save for Intolerance.

Every Man & Every Woman is a Star.

Every Individual Manifests the Whole.

The Whole Conceals every Individual.

Thou hast no right but to do thy will.

The Kingdom of God is Within You.

Identification Damns Individuality.

All Things Fornicate All The Time.

Philology Recapitulates Ontology.

There are no Innocent Bystanders.

Nothing neither is nor is not True.

Paradox is the Question of Chaos.

Imagine Your Dreams as Reality.

You can't free a fish from Water.

The Word of the Law is Thelema.

Love is the law, love under will.

The Key of Joy is Disobedience.

Truth is a Three Edged Sword.

The word of Sin is Restriction.

All Symbols Refer to Yourself.

There is No God but Yourself.

The Sum of All Minds is One.

The Map is not the Territory.

The Frontline is Everywhere.

Illumination or Elimination.

Complacency is Complicity.

You are It, but It is not you.

Become Everyone You Are.

Christianity Equals Death.

Immanentize the Eschaton.

Hail Draconia! Be Lucifer!

To Question is the Answer.

The Way In is the Way Out.

The Dreamer must Awake!

Don't Confuse the Planes.

Individuality is Rebellion.

Unite with your True Self.

You are Your Own Truth.

You are the Hidden God.

Change Equals Stability.

Evolution or Extinction.

One World, One Person.

Embrace Your Shadow.

Read between the Lies.

Wake Up in the Dream.

Strength Through Joy.

The Going is the Goal.

Existence is Pure Joy.

This is Not a Website.

Creation Never Ends.

Chaos is Paradoxical.

Paradox is Chaotic.

As Above, So Below.

Rise Up and Awake!

Fear Not Any At All.

One World or None!

There is no Religion.

No God is One God.

Endure & Conquer.

Seeing is Deceiving.

Everything is Verb.

Change is Stability.

Everything is Fire.

Set Yourself Free.

Follow Your Bliss.

Rise Up & Awake!

You are the Alien.

Know Thy Selves.

Today is the Day!

Truth is Invisible.

Question Reality.

Awaken Yourself.

You are the Law.

You are the Art.

Gnosis is Power.

Devil May Care.

Seize the Light.

Ordo Ab Chao.

Choose Choice.

Be thou Hadit.

Thou art that.

Defy the Lie!

Do Thy Will.

We Are One.

Question it!

All is in All.

A is Not A.

Be Lucid!

I am You.

Get Set!

Beware.

Exceed!

Doubt?

0=2.

GO!

Be!

?!

I!

!

Hit Counter

New Solar Ritual as of 02-02-02!
and related
Qabalistic Tables of Correspondences,
followed by useful First Principles of Self Transformation!

Liber Resh vel Helios - 2: Expanded Adorations of the Sun.

Initial Adoration:

Dawn, to East, Golden Light, Give Sign of Air.
Recite: "Hail unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Rising, even unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Strength, who travelest over the Heavens in Thy Bark at the Dawn-hour of the Sun! Tahuti standeth in His Splendor at the Prow, and Ra-Hoor abideth in His Glory at the Helm! Hail unto Thee from the abodes of the Midnight Sun of Khephra!"

Noon, to South, Fire-Light, Give Sign of Fire. Recite as above but with : "Ahathoor, Triumphing, Beauty, Noon-hour, from the abodes of the Rising Sun of Ra!"

Sunset, to West, Sky-Blue Light, Give Sign of Water. "Atum, Descending, Joy, Setting, from the abodes of the Noon-day Sun of Ahathoor!"

Midnight, to North, Earth-Green or Black Light, Give Sign of Earth. "Khephra, Hiding, Silence, Midnight-hour, from the abodes of the Setting Sun of Atum!"

Give and Hold Elemental Sign through initial Adoration, while assuming the God-form of the Sun in that Quarter (i.e., as if the You & the God had the same form, a Human with the Head of a Hawk, Cow, Man, and Beetle respectively, & were both giving that Sign in Adoration of THAT which is beyond both), until giving Signs of the Enterer and Silence (with Names of Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Paar-Kraat) and assuming those God-forms, right after initial Adoration. Continue with rest of Adoration in your own Charged Body of Light.

Recite "Strike, strike the Master Chord; Draw, draw the Flaming Sword; Crowned Child and Conquering Lord, Horus, Avenger!" (Ring Bell & Draw Sword. Can draw Circle over head with "Crowned Child", Line down to Yesod (9) (and projected to Malkuth (10)) with "Conquering Lord", back up to Tipharet (6) with "Horus" and up/out to Infinity while giving Sign of Apophis & Typhon ("X" Sign) with "Avenger". Thus extended upward continue with 1st of the 6 Adorations below. (Or one can then return with Sign of Silence & "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", for very fast "Thelemic Cross" anytime or use another Thelemic Cross with nearly the same form but with a different recitation and beginning which follows at the 6th Solar Adoration. (and see "Liber V vel Reguli")).

Recite all 6 Solar Adoration verses (in bold) from Obverse of Stele of Revealing, with Visualizations, (in smaller print) and Rousing of the Citadels (of the Middle Pillar) with the respective Element, with the resulting Charging of the Body of Light or whole Aura as a Star or Sun, by Light Radiated from the Filament or Axis of the Middle Pillar. The Ritual thus circulates the Solar Light down to the material Universe, the physical body, and the whole sphere of the individuals life, as follows:

Active Spirit centering on Brilliant White Kether-Point (1) at Crown of Head. (See an Infinite
"Above, the gemmed azure is The naked splendor of Nuit; Circle spiral in on Brilliant Point just above
She bends in ecstasy to kiss the secret ardors of Hadit. head. Point becomes Winged Globe
The winged globe, the starry blue, Are mine, O Ankh-af-na-Khonsu! among Infinite Stars)

Air Element as Bright Yellow Diamond-Prism at Daath (11) at Throat. (Dawn. Ego-Mind. See link
"I am the Lord of Thebes, and I The inspired forth-speaker of Mentu; between Supernals
For me unveils the veiled sky, The self-slain Ankh-af-na-Khonsu Above, and Tipharet
Whose words are truth. I invoke, I greet Thy presence, O Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" Below)

Fire Element as Rose-Gold Sun-Heart at Tipharet (6) at Solar Plexis. (Noon. Heart-center. Kether
"Unity uttermost showed! I adore the might of Thy breath, expressed in Tipharet as Center of Supreme and terrible God. Who makest the gods and death whole system & "Center stage"
To tremble before Thee:-- I, I adore Thee!" for Adoration Of Holy Guardian Angel)

Water Element as Indigo-Violet Orb at Yesod (9) at Genitals. (Sunset. Seat of Power (Id).

"Appear on the throne of Ra! Open the ways of the Khu! Follow progression up from 9 to Lighten the ways of the Ka! The ways of the Khabs run through 6 to 11 to 1, then reflected
To stir me or still me! Aum! Let it fill me!" or connected back down the Total M.P. to 10 at "Aum")

Earth Element as if you were standing on Horizontal Equal Armed Cross of Yellow, Blue, Black, & Red, (in E, W, N, & S arms) centered on Brilliant Polychromatic Orb At feet (10).
"The Light is mine; its rays consume Me: I have made a secret door (Midnight. Body.
Into the House of Ra and Tum, of Khephra and of Ahathoor. Final link to This World. Draw
I am thy Theban, O Mentu, The prophet Ankh-af-na-Khonsu!" Cross from E to W & N to S)

Passive Spirit Energizing Middle Pillar & Shining Out to Aura defined by "Infinite" Circle drawn by hand over head.
"By Bes-na-Maut my breast I beat; By wise Ta-Nech I weave my spell (Beat breast to
Show Thy star-splendor, O Nuit! Bid me within Thine House to dwell, affirm M.P.. Weave Spell. Use
O winged snake of light, Hadit! Abide with me, Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" "Fig" sign to draw Circle of Light over head with "Nuit" and Line of Light down to 9 (and projected down to10) with "Hadit". Then project Light back up to Heart with "Ra", then up to "X" Sign with "Hoor" and hold while projecting Outward to the Infinite with "Khuit!". Return Body of Light to physical body by giving Sign of Silence with the Name "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", thus doing a Thelemic Cross again at the end as at the beginning (just prior to the 6 Solar Adorations)).

Lastly to seal the Current of Solar Light (666) recite:
"The Letters are Five, the Letters are Six, Eleven are the Letters: Abrahadabra!"

Notes:

The appropriate Pentagram and/or the Solar Unicursal Hexagram may be added prior to Initial Adoration before giving (and holding) Elemental Sign. Also the Pentagrams for each Element may be drawn or projected at beginning of the respective Adorations from the Stele as one Rouses the Citadels of the Middle Pillar, from Active Spirit at Kether, to Air at Daath, to Fire at Tipharet, to Water at Yesod, to Earth at Malkuth, and to Passive Spirit as the whole Aura/Body of Light.

Also the "A Ka Dua.." Adoration may be added after "Unity uttermost showed..." as a second, deeper, Adoration at Tipharet to reflect "the Sun behind the Sun", and to make the total Adorations Seven instead of (actually "as well as") Six to reflect the Goddess through and above the Suns.

Also a last Adoration may be added just before "The Letters are 5...", as from the Gnostic Mass: "Thou who art I beyond all I am...", or the credo from Liber Reguli: "I also am a Star in Space, unique and Self-existent...", or any that Adores the Holy Guardian Angel as ones True Self.

The order of Active and Passive Spirit may be reversed if desired, but the order of the Elements used here is that of the apparent cycle of the Sun through Day & Night, and of the Ritual Circle when moving Deosil, clockwise, and of the Chakras from Daath to Malkuth (all below the Abyss), and (with Spirit first and last) of the 6 verses of the Solar Adorations from the Stele of Revealing, and of the first 6 "steps" of the OTO, Minerval to Perfect Initiate, and so gives the correct order of the Elements from the Thelemic Point of View, replacing the usual "IHVH" order of Fire, Water, Air, Earth, when Worshiping Our Lord in the Macrocosm, the Sun. It shows a continuous Cycle rather then a linear sequence. The Whole is to be assimilated by Meditation following the Ritual.

Solar (Microcosmic, Terrestrial, Winds) Cycle Correspondences (w/ Pre & Post)

(0.)	1.	2.	3.	4.	(5.)
(Spirit)	Air	Fire	Water	Earth	(Spirit+Experience)
(Pre-being)	Dawn	Noon	Sunset	Midnight	(Post-being)
(None)	Spring	Summer	Fall	Winter	(All at Once)
(None)	1st Q.	Full Moon	3rd Q.	Dark Moon	(All at Once)
(Beforelife)	Birth	Life	Death	Afterlife	(Withdrawn from Cycle)
(Baseline)	Tension	Charge	Discharge	Relaxation	(Baseline)
(Above)	East	South	West	North	(Below)
(Ptah)	Ra-Hawk	Ahathor-Cow	Atum-Man	Kephra-Beetle	(Set)
(Amoun)	Shu	Heru	Isis	Set	(Nephthys)
(Nuit)	Hadit	Therion	Babalon	Nuit	(Hadit)
(Pre-Tarot)	Fool	Aeon	Hanged Man	Universe	(All Tarot Cards)
(Superconscious)	Inspiration	Lucidity	Ecstasy	Thought	(Subconsciousness)
(True Self)	Eye	Heart	Genitals	Feet	(Whole Body)
(Star)	Mind	Soul	Flesh	World	(Star+Experience)
(Kether)	Daath	Tiphareth	Yesod	Malkuth	(Whole Structure)

INITIATION:

(Pre Incarn)	Man at First	Seed/Bindu	Babe Growing	Mature Adult	(New Man)
( )	Mere-hum	Virgin	Babe	Beast	(Initiate)
( )	-	Hermes	Dionysus	Pan	-
( )	Heirophant-V	Hermit-I	Fool- A	Devil-O	(Heirophant-V)
(Minerval-0)	Initiation-I	Consecration-II	Devotion-III	Exaltation-IV	(Perfection-P.I.)
("Above the...)	"I am the...	"Unity utter...	"Appear on...	"The Light is...	("By Bes-na-Maut...)

For practical Tools to help you help yourself try the following!

First Principles

. Be Lucid, Seek Gnosis, Know Thyself, Thou Art That.

0. Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

00. Lift up Thyself. Love is the law, love under will.

000. In Nomine Babalon: It's all-right here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

1. By Myself, I choose the Meaning I desire, and make it True.

2. I will remember my Kingship, Godhood, Star-self: "Be Thou Hadit"

3. I give Myself the Right/ Permission, to determine my Reality & my World however I Will.

4. I don't need to remember/feel "that" right now, if not assisting my Will.

5. Disconnect from worries: Find one thing you can do to deal practically with Adversity (in the Greater Context of Ability) while consciously relaxing.

6. Be on the physical Now when stressed or anxious, not in past trauma or future worries.

7. Realize: Experience unfolds the way you respond to it,, & that the Meaning of things is in our attitude towards them.

8. Turn into the skid, feel your feelings, own your experiences, try to choose to be your real self.

9. Know that every mood/reality tunnel changes in time to another. Suffering passes, joys return.

10. What you think, your body believes, and will make you feel. Think Strength.

11. Prophecies of Success are also self-fulfilling; reject self-defeating statements, use affirmations & internal mental self-praise all day long.

12. Always do at least one more past when you want to stop, push past all limits, do 11 rather then 10 of anything, 23 rather then 20, 56 rather then 50, 111 rather then 100, etc.

13. Remember "in the Greater Context of" to resolve any apparent conflict/paradox at a higher linguistic meta-level, i.e. "Anger in the Greater Context of Acceptance", "Suffering in the Greater Context of Ecstacy", "Lies in the Greater Context of Truth", etc.

14. Let the Ritual (the Whole of Life) be ever unto Nuit. Aspire always to the absolute.

15. "By waking up in my Dreams I Inspire Revelation & Inform my Dreambody of Its True Intentions." "I see my hands in my Dreams, I Know I am Lucid Dreaming."

16. Invoke Often: First & Last Thelemic Godforms, Resh, Qoph, Babalon Adoration, Purification & Consecration, Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, Rousing of the Citadels/Middle Pillar Ritual, Mass of the Phoenix, Gnostic Mass, other Eucharists, etc.

17. Use deep steady breath, pranayama meditation, for emotional Tranquility.

18. Remember all ye that existence is pure joy; that all the sorrows are but as shadows; they pass and are done; but there is that which remains.

19. Fear not at all. Fear neither men nor gods nor Fates nor anything. Money fear not, nor laughter of the folk folly; nor any other power in heaven or upon the earth or under the earth. Nu is your refuge as Hadit your light, and I am the strength, force, vigor, of your arms.

20. Endure and Conquer.

Syzygys: False Dichotomies, or, Dualities Unified.

Compare & Contrast Symmetrical Relationships of Interpenetrating Complementary Opposites.

Intro:
Truth is a Three Edged Sword. It is the Dynamic Tension between "opposites" that creates the energy that powers Creative Change and Evolution. Opposites are always intrinsically related and progress to a Higher Synthesis. Crowley called it the "None - Two Orgiastic Dynamism". One must Transcend the Polarization of Ideas, even as they are grasped dualistically, and fight Dualistic Absolutism, also known as Binary Fascism, which is the tendency to insist on the (false) ultimate separation of "opposing" Points of View, Philosophies, Countries, Races or whatever. Do not regard either one side of any Duality as "good" or "evil" except in a limited (local) way, despite the Values given near the end of the list where I clearly favor the "Left" (Column & Philosophically).

Every Idea contains its own Opposite. Nothing is True save by the Contradiction contained within Itself. Below the Abyss contradiction is division, Above the Abyss contradiction is Unity. Correct every idea by implying the contradictory contained therein. Behold all opposites as necessary complements. Unite all apparent opposites in a Transcendent (Higher) Synthesis. Use the Dynamic Tension between Contraries to propel yourself beyond yourself. "Any idea not so equilibrated with its opposite is below the Abyss, is unbalanced and contains in itself an unmitigated duality or falsehood, & is to that extent qliphotic & dangerous." (Aleister Crowley)

"Every number is infinite; there is no difference." "Make no difference between any one thing and any other thing," "...if ye confound the space-marks, saying: They are one; or saying, They are many; ...then expect the direful judgments of Ra Hoor Khuit!" (The Book of the Law).

Don’t confuse the linguistic meta-levels. Deny false dichotomies (binary fascism, dualistic absolutism) by Uniting all opposites. Let every idea go forth as a triangle on the base of two opposites, making an apex transcending their contradiction in a higher harmony.

There is no Division between the Light & the Dark, Higher & Lower, Inner & Outer, etc.

Kether is in Malkuth and Malkuth is in Kether, after another manner. As Above, so below. (Principle of Fractile Symmetry, or Parallelism across all scales of Being.)

Ask: "when does "A" appear to be "B" ?", for any duality.

Remember: "in the Greater Context of" to resolve any apparent conflict/paradox at a higher linguistic meta-level, i.e. "Order in the Greater Context of Chaos", "Suffering in the Greater Context of Ecstasy", "Lies in the Greater Context of Truth", etc.

Keep in mind the following concepts: Nothing is "mutually exclusive", A is not A. Syncrisis: Combination of Opposites. Conjunction of Correspondents, Rhythmic Juxtaposition, Continuum of Contraries, Dualistic Symmetry, etc.

Some Contrary Principles or Antitheses may be "opposed" only on certain scales of meaning, in specific contexts, or along certain continuum, & may be found on the other Column, or opposite other Principles, in different contexts. Items are generally arranged vertically within categories according to similarity of concept in order to make the reasoning more apparent by comparison with nearby Pairs.

Finally, I have chosen Pairs which seemed the most significant to me according to the Deeper rather then the Shallower significance when appropriate, and so to be consistent with my own overall Understanding of the Multiverse at this time.
Abrahadabra!

(Movement is phenomenologically from Left to Right, then Back from Right to Left ">". From Pre-Being (Chaos) to Being & back to Post-Being (UnderWorld), so that in one sense the Left Column is Both First & Last, Higher & Lower, with the Right Column the "Middle". This is a subtle point but need not trouble the ordinary Transcendental Researcher).

Column 0	Column 1
Primary Polar Pairs
TAO	TAO
TAO	Teh
TAO	Yin/Yang
Teh	Yin/Yang
Yin	Yang
Inner	Outer
Negative	Positive
Receptive	Active
Contraction	Expansion
Absorption	Projection
Female (),O	Male I,1
Dark/Night	Light/Day
Zero/Nothing	Two/Everything
Non-Being	Being
Being	Becoming
Boundless	Bounded
Left Side	Right Side
Off	On

Passive	Active
Matter	Energy
Unistic	Dualistic
Unity	Polarity
Simple	Complex
Chaos	Order
Unconditioned	Conditioned
Inconceivable	Conceivable
Infinite	Finite
Universal	Individual
Transcendent	Immanent
Non-Local	Local
Everywhere	One Place
Eternity	History
Timelessness	In Time
Simultaneous	Sequential
Holistic	Linear
Wholes	Parts
Diffuse	Focal
Macrocosm	Microcosm
Other World	This World
Past	Future
Space	Time
Matter	Motion
Enter	Exit
Reception	Expression
Essence	Existence
Other	Self
Object	Subject
Quality	Quantity

Initiated Religion & Occulture:

Involution	Evolution
Nemesis	Apotheosis
Meditational	Ceremonial
Mystical	Magickal
Mystery	Mundanity
Secret	Revealed
Unknown	Known
Sacred	Profane
Esoteric	Exoteric
Spiritual	Secular
Spirituality	Religion
Religion	Science
Transcendent	Grounded
Gnosis	Knowledge
Sunyata/Void	Maya/Illusion

Pleroma	Monad
Ain Soph (Nothing)	Kether (Big Bang)
Binah	Chokmah
Yesod (Foundation)	Tiphareth (Sun-Heart)
Malkuth (Universe)	Kether (Center)
Light	Sight
Khu (Light Body)	Khabs (Star Soul)
Triangle	Eye in the...)
Egg	Serpent
Goddess	Horned God
Maiden/Mother	Mate/Child
& Crone to God	& Father to Goddess
Circumference	Center
Nowhere	Everywhere
Infinite Circle	Omnipresent Point
Extension/Potentiality	Motion/Position
Infinite Expansion	Infinite Contraction
Nuit	Hadit
Anu	Adad
Isis (Sirius)	Osiris (Orion)
Ishtar	Tammuz
Anat	Baal
Nuit	Set-Horus
Hoor-Paar-Kraat	Ra-Hoor-Khuit
Set (Night Devil)	Horus (Sun God)
Aiwass - 418	Aiwaz - 93
Nox	Lux
Stellar	Solar
Draconia	Shaitan
Babalon 156 (Lunar)	The Beast 666 (Solar)
Universal Impersonal Life	The God-Animal
Whore	Trickster
Flesh/Body	Spirit/Soul
Sphinx	Pyramid
Mother Religion	Father Religion
Polytheistic	Monotheistic
Stars/Moon/Earth	Sky/Sun/Heaven
Ocean/Space	Mountain/Planet
Many Stars	One Sun
Choice/Doubt	Dogma/Belief
Question	Answer
Heresy	Orthodoxy
Ecumenical	Fundamentalist
Fusion	Fission
Union	Division
Combination	Separation
Synthesis	Analysis

Destruction	Creation
Coagula	Solve
Sex (Union)	Birth (Projection)
Rebirth (Cycles)	Death (Start-Stop)
Birth (Fertility)	Life (Conflict)
Death (Union)	Life (Isolation)
Love	Will
Perception	Will
Inward	Outward
Water-Love-Wine- To Keep Silent	Fire-Light-Blood- To Dare
Earth-Life-Bread- To Will	Air-Liberty-Rose- To Know

Other General Correspondences:

Absorbing	Penetrating
Constriction	Expanding
Dark Matter	Dark Energy
Gravity	Anti-Gravity
Black Hole	White Hole (Quasar)
Subtract	Add
Multiply	Divide
Exponential	Additive
Context	Facts
Both/And	Either/Or
Generality	Particularity
Depth	Surface
Ground	Figure
Background	Foreground
Behind	Before
Back	Front
Hole	Hill
Under	Over
Depth	Height
Averse	Aright
Reverse	Obverse
Horizontal	Vertical
Habit/Inertia	Novelty/Change
Position	Momentum
Wave	Particle
Rest	Movement
Silence	Speech
Peace	Power
Melody	Rhythm
Harmony	Note/Tone

Philosophical Concepts, Methods, Beliefs:

Epicureanism	Stoicism
Rationalist	Empiricist
Existentialist	Positivist
Experiential	Conceptual
Dionysian	Apollonian
Sensuous	Intellectual
Romantic	Classicist
Bohemian	Philistine
Nominalist	Realist
Idealist	Realist
Mystic	Materialist
Dialectical	Empirical
Gestalt	Analytic
Symbolic	Actual
Metaphorical	Literal
Objective	Subjective
Zeitgeist	Event
Free	Directed
Random	Controlled
Freewill/Choice	Predetermination/Fate
Synchronistic	Causal
Relativistic/Einsteinian	Materialistic/Newtonian
Curved Space	Flat Space
Holism	Atomism
Analog	Digital
Potential	Actual
Tacit	Explicit
Latent	Overt

Psychological Components - Nouns:

Anima	Animus
Understanding	Wisdom
Perception	Will
Insight	Outlook
Memory	Cognition
Creativity	Practicality
Imagination	Reason
Intuition	Reason
Subconscious	Conscious
Superconsciousness	Normal Consciousness
Collective Unconscious	Personal Subconscious
Objective Awareness	Subjective Awareness
Eros	Thanatos
Libido	Superego
Desire	Fear
Oral Stage (Infant)	Anal Stage (Toddler)
Latent Stage (Child)	Genital Stage (Adult)

Expectation	Actuality
Pleasure Orientation	Performance Orientation
Pleasure Principle	Reality Principle
Id	Ego
Being	Identity
True/Inner Self	False/ Outer Self
Shadow	Persona
Body	Mind
Sensation	Thought
Bio-gram	Logo-gram
Behavioral	Semantic
Lotus	Robot
Eidetic	Discursive
Integral Mind	Rational Mind
Intuitive Awareness	Rational Awareness
Synthetic Thought	Reductive Thought
Lateral Thought	Vertical Thought
Spatial Awareness	Linear Awareness
Non-Verbal	Verbal
Nemesis	Hubris
Flight Response	Fight Response

Psychological Functions - Verbs/Adverbs:

Synthesizing	Analyzing
Feeling	Thinking
Mythic Thinking	Positivist Thinking
Lateral Thinking	Vertical Thinking
Divergent Thinking	Convergent Thinking
Reflective Thinking	Active Thinking
Free Association	Logical Progression
Induction	Deduction
Contemplation	Action
Dependence	Autonomy
Relaxation	Tension
Inertia	Activity
Feeling	Doing
Love	Lust
Neo-phobia	Neo-philia
Objectivity	Subjectivity
Self-Transcending	Self-Asserting
Self-Negation	Self-Assertion
Withdrawal	Participation
Primary Function	Secondary Function
Cyclothymic	Schizoid
Inner Directed (Willed) Behavior	Outer Directed (Reactive) Behavior

Other Psychological Pairs:

Old (Inner) Brainstem	New (Outer) Neocortex
Hind Brain	Fore Brain
Right Brain:	Left Brain:
Intuition	Intellect
Intuitive	Logical
Imaginative	Deductive
Appositional	Propositional
Spiritual Holism	Scientific Atomism
Internal Relations	External Facts
Doubt	Conviction
Abstract	Concrete
Abstracting	Realizing
Poetic	Descriptive
Metaphorical	Literal
Mythological	Rational
Relational	Analytic
Experience	Argument
Sensuous	Intellectual
Net (Convergent)	Tree (Divergent)
Map	Territory
Territory	Map
Meta-Level	Object-Level
System	Environment
Existential	Differential
Spatial	Serial
Gestalt Intuition	Inferential Intuition
Correlates	Relation
Autistic	Realistic
Ampliative	Explicative
Tacit	Explicit
Compositional	Reductionist
Reculer	Sauter
Theoria	Praxis
Nature	Nurture

Political/Social Qualities & Conditions:

Hunter/Gatherer	Agricultural/Settled
Rural	Urban
Heterarchical	Hierarchical
Egalitarian	Elitist
Altruism	Egotism
Equality	Stratification
Dissent	Authority
Rebellion	Obedience
Defiance	Acceptance
Liberty	Conformity

Subversion	Patriotism
Progressive	Reactionary
Liberal	Conservative
Idealistic	Realistic
Arts	Sciences
Community	Agency
Sexuality	Aggression
Synergetic	Antagonistic
Dependence	Autonomy
Collective	Personal
Society	Self
Solidarity	Solitary
Being Values:	Ego Values:
Intuition	Intellect
Feeling	Reason
Reality	Morality
Differentiation	Differences
Pacifism	Militarism
Cooperation	Competition
Win/Win	Win/Lose
Permissive	Restrictive
Democratic	Authoritarian
Spontaneous	Inhibited
Hedonistic	Asceticism
Passion Encouraged	Discipline Encouraged
Dissent Valued	Loyalty Valued
Socialist Ideals	Individualist Ideals
Differences Minimized	Differences Maximized
Death Accepted/Celebrated	Death Feared/Repressed
Liberation	Oppression
Expression	Repression
Empowerment	Domination
Integration	Segregation
Inclusion	Exclusion
Unitism	Separatism

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, instructions
WOGSS Theology & rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & ordering
Wild Writings

Key Links

Lost Your Soul? Now Get It Back!

Abandon Hate & Fear, All Ye Who Enter Here

Do Thy Will!

Awakening the Future, Transcending Armageddon, Transcending Homo Sapiens!

Welcome to the WOGSS "Daemonolatriea" Web-pages! These pages are continually added to with new Magickal Ontology, Subversive Theology, Cultural Warfare Plans, Priestly Powers & Duties, Ceremonial Rites, Daemonic Whoreship, Guerilla Theology, Spiritual Self-Initiation Programs, Occult Art, the Law of Thelema, Amazing Links to the cutting edge of Scientific Discovery & Arcane Philosophy, and much more!
Check out the following informative pages of WOGSS Occult Teachings, or Read On this page to get a general overview if this is your first time. (We promise to be gentle)

Now see the Daemonolatriea Itself for the first time online! (it takes some time to load but it's worth it - take a break and then come back and See)

Open Letter to Allies (broader Introduction)
WOGSS Terms, Plans & Instructions (save the World, Save Yourself)
WOGSS Theology & Occult Rituals (Adoration of Babalon, Luciferic Ascension, Hymn To Lucifer)
the Daemonolatriea (Ideas, Contents & Ordering)
Occult Art
Wild Writings (New Questions Christians Can't Answer - Proof Lazarus was Osiris. And New Quotations. Also: Alliterative Artillery)
Key Links (Many New Links as of 3-23-02!)
New Rituals Liber Resh 2, Expanded Adorations of the Sun! Also related Qabalistic Tables. And see new very effective "First Principles" List!
Dualities Unified: New Valuable information on the Reconciliation of Opposites on All Planes, the most important Work of any Magician! Includes List of 321+ Syzigies: Polarities/Dualities/Antinomies in the realms of the Universal, Spiritual, Psychological, & Social Dimentions of Being.
New Lists of Key Occult Concepts: The Great Work, The Eschaton (End of the World), & the Holy Guardian Angel. Also Useful Magickal Formulas, & Occult Priestcraft for Self &Others!
New Page of Banners of the Best Occult & Alternative Sources!

All data by: WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists. All Questions, Comments, Orders, etc. to: Rev. Adtrian Cain, 1032 Irving St. PMB #906, SAN FRANCISCO, CA, 94122, USA New E-mail: jeff-free@cosmiverse.com

The Rev. Adtrian Cain is A Magical Persona of Godfrey H. Slayne (JHS) an Independent Thelemic Priest & Magician, above all other qualities, who is always searching for, & finding, new belief systems to explore & synthesize with his understanding of his True Will in the World according to the Law of Thelema: Do what thou wilt. He has formulated WOGSS to express his current feelings in this area, to incite insight & discussion, & to encourage all to devote themselves to the Only thing that matters: the revealing of their True Will & Self behind the false ego of petty desires, capricious whims, feeble fears, & the forced role-playing of modern society!
WOGSS is: A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan: An Independent, non-dogmatic, non-local, Scientific/Religious Order of: "Anarcho-Gnostic, Thelemic, Discordian, Draconian, Scientists". We have no regular "membership", & no "representatives", whoever claims to be of us is lying. However Any who explore the Unknown with open minds, with the goal of Knowing & Becoming their True Selves, & tells us about it, can be Allies of WOGSS, or "Polywogss", if they so will.
Our Spiritual Aim is Union with the True Self within, knowledge of the True Will of ones being, & then, Devotion to the Great Goddess, the Mystery of Mystery, the infinite Unknown in Everything. Our Method is the Scientific application of the Law of Thelema: "Do what thou wilt", in the post-modern Deconstructed World of accelerating Chaos, Terror, &Wonder.

Here you will find Practical Actions to Illuminate & Liberate yourself & others from the restrictions of both False Religion and False Materialism, putting Your Soul back in Your Own Hands! But more then that our Work is to work for the Revolution that is occurring all around us right now! It hardly takes Prophetic Revelations to predict the Immanence of Humankinds Next Step!
Specifically, we expect a stunning series of R-Evolutions in the nature of Knowledge, Consciousness, Society, & Human Life itself, due to a convergence of wildly different scientific discoveries in the realms of genetic engineering, bio-chemistry alteration, neurological manipulation, psychotronics, multiplying computing power, robotics, micro-engineering (nano-technology), Artificial Intelligence, & nuclear-&-astro-physics, among many others. These factors as well as countless individual Spiritual breakthroughs, (as well as ecological collapse, fundamentalist terrorist attacks, & unstoppable super-viruses) will soon sweep away our ideas of Human "civilization" as surly as our species swept away, and assimilated, the pre-existing Neanderthal cultures, or they the earlier primate ape societies from which we came, and so on, over and over again.
Though it brings unimaginable chaos and upheaval we eagerly await the New Life, the Higher Beings we must become, and will become if we can Willfully Realize our True Selves, & open our minds to embrace the seemingly terrifying possibilities of the limitless Unknown in our Immediate Future!

Or did you think evolution was finished with our pathetic ape asses?

We work to prepare for the Future, to Awaken as many as possible to work also to Liberate Humankind from the mental limitations and religious restrictions of the past. Our preference is to present, within the context of the Law of Thelema, new forms of Worship, & Experience of what is commonly called the "Darkside", the Left Hand Path, the rejected realm of the feared, forbidden, & above all feminine aspects of Divinity. These include all things characteristic of the Stellar, Lunar & Terrestrial Archetypes (Star, Moon & Earth Goddesses), Undifferentiated Wholeness, Deep Oceans of Water & of Space, the Night, the Unknown, the Underworld, Initiation, Cycles of Ancient & Future Time, Primal Chaos, Old Wilderness, Oozing Rain Forests, Deadly Deserts, Birthing & Planting as well as Dieing & Harvesting, the Physical Body itself, (Hedonism & Mortality) & the hidden (Occult) & suppressed (Heretical) Ideas, Images, and Practices of the Worlds many Indigenous Ancient (& Future) Spiritual Alternatives to the Lying patriarchal monotheism of Judeo-Christian-Muslim "authorities"! (see Dualities Unified List)

We say "To the Angel through the Goddess, to the Goddess through the Angel", as the Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon, Union with your True Self & Will (not just exalting the many petty desires & fears of the merely human self & will, as in modern "American" Satanism) is the First Necessary Task for the successful Evolution of Humankind, as well as its' survival! These two elements intertwine, the Goddess Without, the Angel Within, in our personal Theology, which is based above all on the Holy Books of Thelema and The Book of the Law. Our Work, again, is to scientifically understand, purify, balance, consecrate & Initiate the lower ego or self (the Pentagram), & then Unite it by "Love under Will" with its True Source and Will (the Hexagram, God, the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon, Yourself in the Future, etc.), and then devote All of our True Self to the further Love & Union with the Great Goddess, NUIT, the Absolute within & beyond being, so that every act is a step on the eternal "Pathless Path" of the Great Work!

To better prepare your mind for the Expansion & Acceleration of Life and Consciousness, & subliminally promote the Union of Opposites on every plane, we also offer a Post-modern Necronomicon, our printed Occult-Art-&-Thought-Collage Zine/Grimiore, the Daemonolatriea! the "Book of Daemonic Whoreship" or of Union with your Daemon/Angel/True Self. It is Your Direct source for the ideas & images of WOGSS' Spiritual Warfare & Sacred-Science Experiments with the Feared, Forbidden, & Feminine Sides of Occult lore & Magickal (Un)Belief!
WOGSS transmits Occult Rebellion through Electronic, Printed, Audio & Psychick Media Worldwide & Beyond... Open the Doors & Enter the Dangerous, Daemonic realms of the Unknown! Come & See (And Use!) for Yourself the bizarre Mysteries beyond good and evil, openly displayed on this Site, & more fully in our printed Grimiore/Zines the surrealistic Daemonolatriea Journals!

If you Desire to Know more that cannot be shown here, feel free to contact us by E-Mail or snail mail to Ask Questions, or to order the Daemonolatriea Occult Art Grimiores/Zines; or just send any Trade of Chaos, Clip-Art, News clippings, Key Thoughts, Secret Codes, Scientific Breakthroughs, Icons, Idols, Images, Illustrations, Gods & Goddesses, Beasts, Freaks, Monsters, Demons, Devils, Lies, Alien Sightings, Magick Symbols, Marks of the Beast, Visions & Voices, Paradigms, Prophecies, Points of View, Teachings, Transmissions, Transcendence, Supernatural Events, Manifestoes of Rebellion, Satanick Offerings, Insights, Games, Jokes, Lucid Dreams, Forbidden Knowledge, & Any & All Occulture, Ideas, Insights, & Information, and Contact Addresses, and we will respond with much of the same!

(Now, for our many P.O.V.'s Go Down Philosophies' Pit with some 111 Basic Magickal Axioms & Assertions).

Do What Thou Wilt (93) shall be the whole of the Law!

There is No division between the Spirit and the Flesh.

There is No division between the Light and the Dark.

Becoming Lightning the Dog threw back the Veil.

The Overman shall be The Meaning of the Earth.

Every number is Infinite, there is no difference.

The Gods of the Old are the Devils of the New.

The Devils of the Old are the Gods of the New.

There is no law beyond : Do What Thou Wilt.

The Whole is more then the sum of Its parts.

Every Point is the Center of the Universe.

Become the Beast, Whoreship the Whore!

Raise not Up what you can put not Down.

Truth to the Higher is a Lie to the Lower.

Nothing is true, Everything is permitted.

Infinite Tolerance save for Intolerance.

Every Man & Every Woman is a Star.

Every Individual Manifests the Whole.

The Whole Conceals every Individual.

Thou hast no right but to do thy will.

The Kingdom of God is Within You.

Identification Damns Individuality.

All Things Fornicate All The Time.

Philology Recapitulates Ontology.

There are no Innocent Bystanders.

Nothing neither is nor is not True.

Paradox is the Question of Chaos.

Imagine Your Dreams as Reality.

You can't free a fish from Water.

The Word of the Law is Thelema.

Love is the law, love under will.

The Key of Joy is Disobedience.

Truth is a Three Edged Sword.

The word of Sin is Restriction.

All Symbols Refer to Yourself.

There is No God but Yourself.

The Sum of All Minds is One.

The Map is not the Territory.

The Frontline is Everywhere.

Illumination or Elimination.

Complacency is Complicity.

You are It, but It is not you.

Become Everyone You Are.

Christianity Equals Death.

Immanentize the Eschaton.

Hail Draconia! Be Lucifer!

To Question is the Answer.

The Way In is the Way Out.

The Dreamer must Awake!

Don't Confuse the Planes.

Individuality is Rebellion.

Unite with your True Self.

You are Your Own Truth.

You are the Hidden God.

Change Equals Stability.

Evolution or Extinction.

One World, One Person.

Embrace Your Shadow.

Read between the Lies.

Wake Up in the Dream.

Strength Through Joy.

The Going is the Goal.

Existence is Pure Joy.

This is Not a Website.

Creation Never Ends.

Chaos is Paradoxical.

Paradox is Chaotic.

As Above, So Below.

Rise Up and Awake!

Fear Not Any At All.

One World or None!

There is no Religion.

No God is One God.

Endure & Conquer.

Seeing is Deceiving.

Everything is Verb.

Change is Stability.

Everything is Fire.

Set Yourself Free.

Follow Your Bliss.

Rise Up & Awake!

You are the Alien.

Know Thy Selves.

Today is the Day!

Truth is Invisible.

Question Reality.

Awaken Yourself.

You are the Law.

You are the Art.

Gnosis is Power.

Devil May Care.

Seize the Light.

Ordo Ab Chao.

Choose Choice.

Be thou Hadit.

Thou art that.

Defy the Lie!

Do Thy Will.

We Are One.

Question it!

All is in All.

A is Not A.

Be Lucid!

I am You.

Get Set!

Beware.

Exceed!

Doubt?

0=2.

GO!

Be!

?!

I!

!

Hit Counter

New Solar Ritual as of 02-02-02!
and related
Qabalistic Tables of Correspondences,
followed by useful First Principles of Self Transformation!

Liber Resh vel Helios - 2: Expanded Adorations of the Sun.

Initial Adoration:

Dawn, to East, Golden Light, Give Sign of Air.
Recite: "Hail unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Rising, even unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Strength, who travelest over the Heavens in Thy Bark at the Dawn-hour of the Sun! Tahuti standeth in His Splendor at the Prow, and Ra-Hoor abideth in His Glory at the Helm! Hail unto Thee from the abodes of the Midnight Sun of Khephra!"

Noon, to South, Fire-Light, Give Sign of Fire. Recite as above but with : "Ahathoor, Triumphing, Beauty, Noon-hour, from the abodes of the Rising Sun of Ra!"

Sunset, to West, Sky-Blue Light, Give Sign of Water. "Atum, Descending, Joy, Setting, from the abodes of the Noon-day Sun of Ahathoor!"

Midnight, to North, Earth-Green or Black Light, Give Sign of Earth. "Khephra, Hiding, Silence, Midnight-hour, from the abodes of the Setting Sun of Atum!"

Give and Hold Elemental Sign through initial Adoration, while assuming the God-form of the Sun in that Quarter (i.e., as if the You & the God had the same form, a Human with the Head of a Hawk, Cow, Man, and Beetle respectively, & were both giving that Sign in Adoration of THAT which is beyond both), until giving Signs of the Enterer and Silence (with Names of Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Paar-Kraat) and assuming those God-forms, right after initial Adoration. Continue with rest of Adoration in your own Charged Body of Light.

Recite "Strike, strike the Master Chord; Draw, draw the Flaming Sword; Crowned Child and Conquering Lord, Horus, Avenger!" (Ring Bell & Draw Sword. Can draw Circle over head with "Crowned Child", Line down to Yesod (9) (and projected to Malkuth (10)) with "Conquering Lord", back up to Tipharet (6) with "Horus" and up/out to Infinity while giving Sign of Apophis & Typhon ("X" Sign) with "Avenger". Thus extended upward continue with 1st of the 6 Adorations below. (Or one can then return with Sign of Silence & "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", for very fast "Thelemic Cross" anytime or use another Thelemic Cross with nearly the same form but with a different recitation and beginning which follows at the 6th Solar Adoration. (and see "Liber V vel Reguli")).

Recite all 6 Solar Adoration verses (in bold) from Obverse of Stele of Revealing, with Visualizations, (in smaller print) and Rousing of the Citadels (of the Middle Pillar) with the respective Element, with the resulting Charging of the Body of Light or whole Aura as a Star or Sun, by Light Radiated from the Filament or Axis of the Middle Pillar. The Ritual thus circulates the Solar Light down to the material Universe, the physical body, and the whole sphere of the individuals life, as follows:

Active Spirit centering on Brilliant White Kether-Point (1) at Crown of Head. (See an Infinite
"Above, the gemmed azure is The naked splendor of Nuit; Circle spiral in on Brilliant Point just above
She bends in ecstasy to kiss the secret ardors of Hadit. head. Point becomes Winged Globe
The winged globe, the starry blue, Are mine, O Ankh-af-na-Khonsu! among Infinite Stars)

Air Element as Bright Yellow Diamond-Prism at Daath (11) at Throat. (Dawn. Ego-Mind. See link
"I am the Lord of Thebes, and I The inspired forth-speaker of Mentu; between Supernals
For me unveils the veiled sky, The self-slain Ankh-af-na-Khonsu Above, and Tipharet
Whose words are truth. I invoke, I greet Thy presence, O Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" Below)

Fire Element as Rose-Gold Sun-Heart at Tipharet (6) at Solar Plexis. (Noon. Heart-center. Kether
"Unity uttermost showed! I adore the might of Thy breath, expressed in Tipharet as Center of Supreme and terrible God. Who makest the gods and death whole system & "Center stage"
To tremble before Thee:-- I, I adore Thee!" for Adoration Of Holy Guardian Angel)

Water Element as Indigo-Violet Orb at Yesod (9) at Genitals. (Sunset. Seat of Power (Id).
"Appear on the throne of Ra! Open the ways of the Khu! Follow progression up from 9 to Lighten the ways of the Ka! The ways of the Khabs run through 6 to 11 to 1, then reflected
To stir me or still me! Aum! Let it fill me!" or connected back down the Total M.P. to 10 at "Aum")

Earth Element as if you were standing on Horizontal Equal Armed Cross of Yellow, Blue, Black, & Red, (in E, W, N, & S arms) centered on Brilliant Polychromatic Orb At feet (10).

"The Light is mine; its rays consume Me: I have made a secret door (Midnight. Body.
Into the House of Ra and Tum, of Khephra and of Ahathoor. Final link to This World. Draw
I am thy Theban, O Mentu, The prophet Ankh-af-na-Khonsu!" Cross from E to W & N to S)

Passive Spirit Energizing Middle Pillar & Shining Out to Aura defined by "Infinite" Circle drawn by hand over head.
"By Bes-na-Maut my breast I beat; By wise Ta-Nech I weave my spell (Beat breast to
Show Thy star-splendor, O Nuit! Bid me within Thine House to dwell, affirm M.P.. Weave Spell. Use
O winged snake of light, Hadit! Abide with me, Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" "Fig" sign to draw Circle of Light over head with "Nuit" and Line of Light down to 9 (and projected down to10) with "Hadit". Then project Light back up to Heart with "Ra", then up to "X" Sign with "Hoor" and hold while projecting Outward to the Infinite with "Khuit!". Return Body of Light to physical body by giving Sign of Silence with the Name "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", thus doing a Thelemic Cross again at the end as at the beginning (just prior to the 6 Solar Adorations)).

Lastly to seal the Current of Solar Light (666) recite:
"The Letters are Five, the Letters are Six, Eleven are the Letters: Abrahadabra!"

Notes:

The appropriate Pentagram and/or the Solar Unicursal Hexagram may be added prior to Initial Adoration before giving (and holding) Elemental Sign. Also the Pentagrams for each Element may be drawn or projected at beginning of the respective Adorations from the Stele as one Rouses the Citadels of the Middle Pillar, from Active Spirit at Kether, to Air at Daath, to Fire at Tipharet, to Water at Yesod, to Earth at Malkuth, and to Passive Spirit as the whole Aura/Body of Light.

Also the "A Ka Dua.." Adoration may be added after "Unity uttermost showed..." as a second, deeper, Adoration at Tipharet to reflect "the Sun behind the Sun", and to make the total Adorations Seven instead of (actually "as well as") Six to reflect the Goddess through and above the Suns.

Also a last Adoration may be added just before "The Letters are 5...", as from the Gnostic Mass: "Thou who art I beyond all I am...", or the credo from Liber Reguli: "I also am a Star in Space, unique and Self-existent...", or any that Adores the Holy Guardian Angel as ones True Self.

The order of Active and Passive Spirit may be reversed if desired, but the order of the Elements used here is that of the apparent cycle of the Sun through Day & Night, and of the Ritual Circle when moving Deosil, clockwise, and of the Chakras from Daath to Malkuth (all below the Abyss), and (with Spirit first and last) of the 6 verses of the Solar Adorations from the Stele of Revealing, and of the first 6 "steps" of the OTO, Minerval to Perfect Initiate, and so gives the correct order of the Elements from the Thelemic Point of View, replacing the usual "IHVH" order of Fire, Water, Air, Earth, when Worshiping Our Lord in the Macrocosm, the Sun. It shows a continuous Cycle rather then a linear sequence. The Whole is to be assimilated by Meditation following the Ritual.

Solar (Microcosmic, Terrestrial, Winds) Cycle Correspondences (w/ Pre & Post)

(0.)	1.	2.	3.	4.	(5.)
(Spirit)	Air	Fire	Water	Earth	(Spirit+Experience)
(Pre-being)	Dawn	Noon	Sunset	Midnight	(Post-being)
(None)	Spring	Summer	Fall	Winter	(All at Once)
(None)	1st Q.	Full Moon	3rd Q.	Dark Moon	(All at Once)
(Beforelife)	Birth	Life	Death	Afterlife	(Withdrawn from Cycle)
(Baseline)	Tension	Charge	Discharge	Relaxation	(Baseline)
(Above)	East	South	West	North	(Below)
(Ptah)	Ra-Hawk	Ahathor-Cow	Atum-Man	Kephra-Beetle	(Set)
(Amoun)	Shu	Heru	Isis	Set	(Nephthys)
(Nuit)	Hadit	Therion	Babalon	Nuit	(Hadit)
(Pre-Tarot)	Fool	Aeon	Hanged Man	Universe	(All Tarot Cards)
(Superconscious)	Inspiration	Lucidity	Ecstasy	Thought	(Subconsciousness)
(True Self)	Eye	Heart	Genitals	Feet	(Whole Body)
(Star)	Mind	Soul	Flesh	World	(Star+Experience)
(Kether)	Daath	Tiphareth	Yesod	Malkuth	(Whole Structure)

INITIATION:

(Pre Incarn), Man at First, Seed/Bindu, Babe Growing, Mature Adult, (New Man)

( )	Mere-hum	Virgin	Babe	Beast	(Initiate)
( )	-	Hermes	Dionysus	Pan	-
( )	Heirophant-V	Hermit-I	Fool- A	Devil-O	(Heirophant-V)

(Minerval-0) Initiation-I Consecration-II Devotion-III Exaltation-IV (Perfection-P.I.)

("Above the...) "I am the... "Unity utter... "Appear on... "The Light is... ("By Bes-na-Maut...)

For practical Tools to help you help yourself try the following!

First Principles

. Be Lucid, Seek Gnosis, Know Thyself, Thou Art That.

0. Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

00. Lift up Thyself. Love is the law, love under will.

000. In Nomine Babalon: It’s all-right here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

1. By Myself, I choose the Meaning I desire, and make it True.

2. I will remember my Kingship, Godhood, Star-self: "Be Thou Hadit"

3. I give Myself the Right/ Permission, to determine my Reality & my World however I Will.

4. I don’t need to remember/feel "that" right now, if not assisting my Will.

5. Disconnect from worries: Find one thing you can do to deal practically with Adversity (in the Greater Context of Ability) while consciously relaxing.

6. Be on the physical Now when stressed or anxious, not in past trauma or future worries.

7. Realize: Experience unfolds the way you respond to it,, & that the Meaning of things is in our attitude towards them.

8. Turn into the skid, feel your feelings, own your experiences, try to choose to be your real self.

9. Know that every mood/reality tunnel changes in time to another. Suffering passes, joys return.

10. What you think, your body believes, and will make you feel. Think Strength.

11. Prophecies of Success are also self-fulfilling; reject self-defeating statements, use affirmations & internal mental self-praise all day long.

12. Always do at least one more past when you want to stop, push past all limits, do 11 rather then 10 of anything, 23 rather then 20, 56 rather then 50, 111 rather then 100, etc.

13. Remember "in the Greater Context of" to resolve any apparent conflict/paradox at a higher linguistic meta-level, i.e. "Anger in the Greater Context of Acceptance", "Suffering in the Greater Context of Ecstacy", "Lies in the Greater Context of Truth", etc.

14. Let the Ritual (the Whole of Life) be ever unto Nuit. Aspire always to the absolute.

15. "By waking up in my Dreams I Inspire Revelation & Inform my Dreambody of Its True Intentions." "I see my hands in my Dreams, I Know I am Lucid Dreaming."

16. Invoke Often: First & Last Thelemic Godforms, Resh, Qoph, Babalon Adoration, Purification & Consecration, Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, Rousing of the Citadels/Middle Pillar Ritual, Mass of the Phoenix, Gnostic Mass, other Eucharists, etc.

17. Use deep steady breath, pranayama meditation, for emotional Tranquility.

18. Remember all ye that existence is pure joy; that all the sorrows are but as shadows; they pass and are done; but there is that which remains.

19. Fear not at all. Fear neither men nor gods nor Fates nor anything. Money fear not, nor laughter of the folk folly; nor any other power in heaven or upon the earth or under the earth. Nu is your refuge as Hadit your light, and I am the strength, force, vigor, of your arms.

20. Endure and Conquer.

Back to Home Page
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Open Letter to All Allies

To all those who would daringly seek out the Feared & Forbidden (generally Yin, Lunar, & Female) Sides of Magickal (Un)Belief, & all Associates & Colleagues in 60+ Nations around the World & Beyond...

DO THY WILL

Hail Warriors & Allies of the Ancient Future! The Next Evolutionary Leap is fast approaching, & the World begins to go mad again. Or maybe it's just us. Either way we feel we must act now to spread our post-apocalyptic prophecies of Transcendence & hope they become self-fulfilling. Imminentize the Eschaton! Let the corrupting influence of human civilization be transformed by the Arising of the Future Vision, before the Earth is irreparably ruined for human (& post-human) life! Now at the start of a New Millennium, the failures of the past two can at last be cast off like our old Snake-skins. Nearly 2000 years of lies and guilt and hypocrisy are over! Also, by our counting this is not the mere year 2002, but the year 156,002, counting from the Dawn of Humankind, 78 times longer then you've been conditioned to think! Try to grasp the implications of that for Humanities self-image. To meet the future we must be in tune with ALL our Past, & refuse to be deprived of it any longer by blind denial & revisionist Judeo-Christian-Muslim bigotry against our ancient biological origins, and their justified panic at our Future Evolution after their Armageddon!

Awaken Yourself

WOGSS want to free you from false cultural constructs about reality by injecting even more Diversity, Doubt, Mystery, Uncertainty, Chaos, Rebellion & Transcendence into the worldwide cultural mix, & so restore Individual Sovereignty to the "religion game" which will determine mass human perspective on our Future in the Universe. There is no Priest but Yourself, seek your own Hidden God/Secret Lover/Daemon. Then knowing Union with THAT, offer all adoration to the Goddess Universe & Mother Earth! After this there is no limit to what we may become, in harmony with all existence. We at WOGSS don't know exactly what is going to happen but we know when it starts & that's NOW! We must seize the moment, & seize the World from its' path of total destruction to one of selective destruction & a New Creation of our own. Inter-dimensional Aliens of some kind we can't currently imagine, (an Inner Supraconsciousness, our Transcendental Selves-in-the-future, or perhaps), will help us open the doors of cosmic power, but we must do our part by preparing ourselves to deal with the totally unknown! We must be impeccable, dedicated, unblinking Warriors of a New Vision of Humankind, or there will be no humans left at all!

Pursue the Great Work

The Sacred Path of WOGSS is called "Shalu" which is the verb "To Ask" & a Name for "the Underworld" in ancient Babylonian. This indicates the Secret Key of Questioning Everything & thereby entering the Unknown Wilderness, the Forbidden Hell of Mystery outside the unquestioned security & slavery of "belief". Doubt and Free Inquiry, skeptical & devotional at once, leads the seeker behind the deceptions and distractions of everyday life, the lower ego, and commercial society, into the terrifyingly limitless realms of infinity which are always within us but rarely known or even suspected. Tear down the hideous veils of ordinary drone-life (as it comes to an end anyway)! Aspire to Actualize And Accurately Arrange All Ancient Archetypes & Atavisms of your own Awareness, & Attain An Antinomian Apotheosis!

Enter the Mystery from Behind!

Our Artwork is, in part, to promote Spiritual Advancement now, to open your mind to limitless possibilities, and to inoculate you against the soul-stunning wonders & horrors soon to come! Plunge into the Ultimate Darkness without fear & thereby intensify your Inner Light to blinding brightness! (Existence is Contrast). Learn to Swim. We will to bring forth Humankinds primal instincts & assimilate them to an emerging transcendent consciousness as we leap into the Unknown Future!

Accordingly we seek & spread data on the following subjects: Alternative Cosmologies & Belief Systems (for learning to perceive multiple Points of View), the Law of Thelema (Aleister Crowley), the Great Work or "Next Step" also called the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", Spiritual Initiation, Alchemical Transformation, Transcendental Illumination, Ritual & Ceremonial Magick, Goetic Demonology, Witchcraft, Technological Advances, Lucid Dreaming, Sex Magick, Shamanism (Primal & Techno), Saving the Earth, Return of the Goddess, Enochian Entities & Language, Alien Communion, Incubi & Succubi, Sexual Fetishes, Future Primitives, Anomalous events, Holy War, Illuminati Conspiracies, Freemasonry & Secret Societies, Underground Occulture, Tarot Card Divination, Idols & Sacred Artifacts, Fractal Synchronicities, Voudon Devotion, True Priestcraft, Cthonian & Draconian Currents, Necromancy, Chaos Magick, Black Science, Sexual Religion & Sacred Whoredom/Prostitution, Aghora & Tantra, Qabalistic analysis & Gematria, Paganism, Heathenism, Tibetan Buddhism, Surrealism, Satanism, Globalism, Survivalism, SubGenius Bulldada, Ultra-horror Films & Tapes, Black Metal & Hardcore Experimental Music, Astral Projection, Meditation, Hypnosis & Trance, Poltergeists & Possessions, Visions & Voices, Divine Revelations, Psychedelic Trips, Smart Drugs, Occult Experiments (Magickal & Mystical), Special Warnings & Emergency Actions for the Great Upheaval, & as many Allies & Contacts as possible in every part of the World!

Discover Your Divinity!

All these & more are, or will be, explored in our semi-annual Black Journals of Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos, & Art for Babalon: the Daemonolatriea! the Black Grimiors of Daemonic Whoreship! These Zine-Journals are our continuing declaration of Spiritual Warfare against Humankinds monotonotheistic oppressors! We will to Incite Spiritual Revolution by amassing & presenting tens of thousands of Key alternate Ideas, Images, Symbols, & Surprises in an attempt to explosively represent the Anarchic Whoredom of Reality and break up the false complexes of fear and desire that keep you from finding your True Will. We also steal societies' media hooks & use them to pull your mind in a quite different direction then originally intended! We urge you to explore for yourself all the possibilities, then take back your right to unmediated access to the Inner Mysteries of your own Unique, Existence, until your life is a Divine Invocation of Yourself!

Get Connected

As always each single issue contains the total Ads Listings, updated July 2000, including 100s of Internet Websites, & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads for the most incredible Hardcore, Occult, Artistic, Activist, Revolutionary, Anarchistic, Sacred, Satanick, Sexual & Radical Organizations & Individuals on Earth, & we are always accepting more, & encourage you to send in your regular or classified Ad for free today!

Turn Anger into Action!

Please submit any items of Occulture you find significant or suggestive, & reproduce Ideas & Images in our Journals that stand out to you, as thereby we shall pervade the whole human collective consciousness with our Super-Polytheistic plurality of Alternative Spiritual, Psychological, Cultural & Occult symbology, & unite all minds into an unstoppable force for polycultural exploration & evolutionary inter-action!

May this Set your Souls & Minds on Fire!

Yours in Hers,

Rev. Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus

WILL/Love

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings

Key Links

What are WOGSS!? (Terms) &
What Are We Doing!? (World-Wide Goals & Advanced Instructions for Daily Workings)
&
What is the Holy Guardian Angel?

WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan" i.e. an Independent Scientific/Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic Thelemic Discordian Draconian Scientists".

We are Secret Servants of the Star, the Snake & the Sword, as in The Book of the Law, & work to enjoy and exalt the Universe, Its Life, & Its Spirit (The World the Flesh & the Devil), in the many Names of "the Mother, the Sun & the Holy Devil!" As Priests & Priestesses (Concubines, Conjurers, & Conquers) we relentlessly serve the Goddess (as Hierodules) however personally called, & together seek the Liberation & Illumination of Humankind (as Shamans) by any means necessary! Our Key methods of perpetrating OM (Operation Mindfuck) and Zen-archic Awakening are "Spiritual Whoredom, Liberation Blasphemy, & Scientific Illuminism" in order to Create & Incite Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos & Art for Babalon!

Awake! Arouse! Arise! Adore!

Anarkey, Anarkissed, Anarchrist!

We seek to Whoreship & Exalt Our Lady Babalon by Entering the Unknown & Understanding the Mysteries! And so we pursue "Another Antinomian Arcanum" by Assimilating "Archetypes, Atavisms & Apostasies" with the process of "Transgression, Transcendence & Transmission" We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous, and promote Public Promiscuity, Transcendental Polytheism & Sacred Prostitution! We are Ant-racist, Anti-stateist, and Anti-dogmatic. (We will explain all these terms and formulas periodically as time and interest encourage)

Broad Goals and Agenda:

0. Cultivate Worldwide Illumination
1. Instigate Rebellion in the Young
2. Subvert Traditional Religion/Authority
3. Undermine Patriarchal Family forms
4. Redistribute wealth toward the poor, esp. by Housing, Feeding, Treating, & Educating All for Free

5. Radicalize Spiritual Possibilities (Eclectic Experimentation, Spiritual Whoredom)
6. Foster Anti-Imperialist Polyculturalism
7. Promote a "One World or None" philosophy
8. Create a One World Representative Government
9. Produce an Egalitarian Individualist/Collectivist Society (Anarcho-Socialist)
10. Achieve Universal Disarmament & De-industrialization
11. Enact Re-Wilderness-ation and Gradual Depopulation
12. Destroy "Outer" X-tianity Judaism & Islam, (Save the Inner Mystical forms: Gnosticism, Qabalism & Sufism) as well as all forms of Totalitarianism, Nationalism, Ethnocentrism, Racism, Sexism, Consumerist Capitalism, etc.
13. Re-establish Temple Prostitution Goddess Worship, and exalt all Sacred Whores (Heirodules)
14. Decriminalize All Victimless Crimes: Prostitution, Drug Use, Pornography, Homosexuality, Adultery, Blasphemy, etc.
15. Allow Eugenic/Genetic Improvements in Human Species
16. Develop Technological Enhancements to Mind and Body
17. Space Migration, Intelligence Increase, Life Extension (SMI2LE)18. Lead all to aspire to the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", their Inner God & True Will.
19. Establish Contact with the Universal "Community of Stars", or Stellar Illuminati.
19. Transcendence of Corporeal Existence, Time, and Space.

Daily Spiritual Work toward the Great Work (Advanced Adorations)

1. Remember and Immediately Record all dreams in Dream Journal, kept next to bed.
2. Arise & give Signs of Ra-Hoor-Khuit (The Enterer) and Hoor-Par-Kraat (Silence) over Alter or Toward East.
3. Perform the Four Daily Adorations of Our Lord the Sun (Liber Resh) at Dawn, Noon, Sunset, & Midnight (keeping in mind that it's always all four of these, somewhere on Earth).
4. Perform Nightly, or under the Moon, the Adoration of the current phase of Our Lady the Moon - New(5 Nights), Waxing(9 Nights), Full(5), & Waning(9).
5. Say Will at all meals.
6. Mentally Repeat the Name "Babalon" whenever drinking anything from any Vessel.
7. Purify & Consecrate whenever washing self or objects. (Purification: "For pure will, unassuaged of purpose, delivered from the lust of result, is every way perfect." Consecration: "I am uplifted in thine heart, and the kisses of the stars rain hard upon thy body.")
8. Meditate daily as desired for at least 1/2 Hour.
9. Perform one Magick Ritual as desired daily. (Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, the Mass of the Phoenix, Middle Pillar Ritual, Liber Samekh, Lucifer Invocation (in "Cosmology & Rituals" Section), or others, (& see Daemonolatriea for more.)
10. Study daily from The Holy Books of Thelema, or other Spiritual Texts.
11. Recite Adoration of Babalon outdoors each Night
12. Record all daily work in Magickal Record.

13. Recite "Apo Pantos Kakodaemonos!" when passing enemy clergy, with sweep of one hand from Silence Sign down & back.
14. Dream Test continually for Lucid Dreams, esp. near sleep.
15. End day with Signs of Nuit, Hadit, & Ra-Hoor-Khuit, (from Liber Reguli), x3
16. Combat oppression everywhere with Anarcho-Zen Chaos, (Way of the PAN-ZEN-TAO).
17. Let every act be one of dedication to the Great Work, the Knowledge & Conversation of Your Holy Guardian Daemon/Angel!

What is the Holy Guardian Angel!?

"The Knowledge & Conversation of your Holy Guardian Angel" (HGA) is the Classic term for the Ineffable Encounter that is the first Aim of Initiation. It is Unique & Personal, as it is written, "No man may know the Name of his brothers God", obviously not to forbid discussion among Initiates (everyone knows that Aleister Crowleys' "Angel" was Aiwass, & many use this Holy Name for their own HGA until ITS' True Name for them is communicated) but to recognize the Incommunicable & Uniquely Individual nature of each ones experience of this Central & Universal Goal of the Great Work, the Attainment of the True Gnosis. Nevertheless this Great Goal can be pointed to & suggested in many ways, until one stops looking at the pointer and Sees what is being pointed to! Therefore here are some of the Names by which the Holy Guardian Angel is foreshadowed (though mostly bright, anthropomorphic & male these are conventions and again not necessarily true-for-all):

Holy Guardian Angel (HGA):
Daemon, Daimonos (God, Fate, Genius, Destiny, Devil), Adonai (The Lord), Agoeides: (The Dawn Light), Emergent Awareness, Solar Consciousness, Aiwass-Shaitan, Asar-Un-Nefer (Myself made Perfect), Horus-Set, Sun behind the Sun, Heru-Ra-Ha: Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Par-Kraat, Crowned & Conquering Child, Ptah-Apo-Phrasz-Ra (The Creative Motion of the Sun - An Identity (Hadit) wrapped in the Dragon of Being (Nuit) and so Manifested as a Sun (Ra-Hoor-Khuit)), Solar-Phallic Identity, Akephalon (Bornless One), Silent/Secret -Self -Center -Lover, Anima/Animus, Hidden God, Higher Genius, True Self, True Will (Dynamic Aspect of the Free Creative Will), Androgynous Alien (Gnostic God), Heart Girt with a Serpent (HGS), Egg wrapped in a Serpent, Archaios Ophis (Ancient Serpent), Superconsciousness (Illumination), Lucidity, Nous (Divine Mind), Neshamah (Divine Breath): Kether-Chokhmah-Binah, Yechidah (The Only One): Kether, Bindu, Atman, Ipsissimus, Abrasax (Two in One), Baphomet (Baptism of Wisdom): Hieroglyph of Arcane Perfection, Divine/Cosmic Consciousness: Lucifer - Indra - Krishna - Christ - Quetzalcoatl - Apollo - Adonis - Osiris - Odin - Buddha - Thammuz - Mithras - Dionysus - Prometheus - Shiva - Set - Satan (All Sun Gods, Dying/Reborn-Child Gods, &/or Gods of Transcendence)
and/or whatever is to the individual the Sign & Being of his or her Inmost Aspiration to Truth!

(see Great Work, Eschaton, & HGA page for new related material)

Occult Theology & Rituals of WOGSS

(See Middle of Page for New Rituals)

In Tenebrous Generascitur Lux

Embrace Your Shadow & Shed on it Light

Whores of Goddess Scientists (WOGSS) Whoreship Our Lady Babalon as the Open Gate to the Unknown, to the Other Side, to the Outer Regions of Inner Space, which is called Hell, and is, to us, All of Existence, outside the limited local awareness of consensual reality! WOGSS are Alien Outsiders, Strangers, & other Unknown Anomalous Outcasts. Our Spawn are PolyWogss, Amphibious Transformers. Our Holy Word is "Shalu", a Babylonian Word for the Under World and a Verb meaning "to Ask", i.e.. "to Question" or "Doubt". To Enter the Unknown one has only to Question the so-called "known". To Doubt and Inquire beyond the accepted answers leads to Liberation in the Wilderness of Mysteries, where there is no law beyond do what thou wilt, and which is fearfully called "HELL" by the Obedient: the Unknown Country of the Self. This is the Key to the Gate of Initiation. We, practicing Spiritual Whoredom, desire Gnosis & Understanding through multiple Religious and Spiritual Practices & Experiences. We accept & Unite both the Carnal and the Spiritual, & impose no arbitrary distinction between them, nor any limitation on either. We welcome the Atavistic Resurgence of the Ancient Archetypes, now seen as Devil-Gods by the civilized, and the Archaic Revival of the Primal shamanic Stellar-Gnosis. We are ourselves Transcendental Polytheists, Heathen Luciferians, & Scientific Illuminists of the Left Hand Path, which is the First Path of the Original Mysteries of Being & Chaos, and the Primal Power of the Body!

Beyond Satanism

WOGSS are not Satanists, anti-social, or ego-oriented. Our "Gods" are transcendent & not "persons" as, say, Jehovah or Set are believed, by their followers, to be. Our Deities are expressed as personal metaphors of higher transcendent, and so inexpressible, realities. WOGSS worship "in the Names of the Mother & the Sun & the Holy Devil". This Mother is "Draconia-Babalon-Tiamaat", the Primeval Dragon of Chaos, Night & the Infinite Oceans of Space-Time. "She" speaks as the Star-Goddess NUIT in The Book of the Law, saying "Since I am Infinite Space & the Infinite Stars thereof, do ye also thus. Bind nothing! Let there be no difference made among you between any one thing & any other thing; for thereby there cometh hurt. But whoso availeth in this, let him be the chief of all!" She is balanced by her equal opposite, and Infinitely Transcendent complement HADIT, who calls himself, in The Book of the Law, "the winged Secret Flame that burns in every heart of man & in the core of every Star." & the "Winged Snake of Light.... the Secret Serpent coiled about to spring..." & says "I am the Snake that giveth knowledge & delight & bright glory, & stir the hearts of men with drunkenness.... I am alone; there is no god where I am" He tells us to "Remember... to be me, to follow the love of Nu in the Star-lit Heaven." We clearly see, as Aleister Crowley wrote in Magick in Theory & Practice, Hadit as Lucifer-Satan, as the God Within us, whose Center is Everywhere, just as we identify Nuit with Draconia-Tiamaat, the Goddess All About us, whose Circumference is Nowhere.

The Possibilities are Endless

Our Lady Babalon has no outer Law or God (and so is called "Anarchist" & "Devilish") as she is a Self-willed Whore who is freely self-given to All and taken by None, and She is, as it were, the Gateway between the Ultimate Reality (Nuit, Draconia, TAO) and the manifestation of That Absolute into material duality (the World the Flesh & the Devil). We are Existence, and are the Symbol for That which is beyond all existence. We therefore have no fear to declare the Satanick Assertion of the True Self (not the false human ego) as the Highest Knowable Truth, the True Will from Within, which Goes onward forever into the Unknown, which enters every Gate and ever seeks to penetrate the Secret Center of Eternal Mystery! Satan (Our Secret Self) desires Babalon (All the Infinite Unknown Possibilities of Being), & the two in ecstasy become a new One, which until It becomes perfectly None, is still incomplete until it again attains Union with Every potential Opposite Other. The Spiritual Whoredom of Babalon is the Key to Power, Ecstasy, Liberation, & Evolution in every World. The method is: Transgression, Transcendence, & Transmission. to Step Across (all boundaries & Gateways), to Assimilate the Forbidden & Unknown into a new Reality, & to Broadcast the Revelations of the New Territory that has been Discovered. Always by "Love under Will". Eternal striving for the Absolute is the Birth-right of every Devil-Child of Draconia!

Daemonic Diversity

We are siblings of the Luciferic Double-Light of Set-Horus, brightly beaming through the Sun-Beast 666, unto the Great Whore of Babalon, Queen of Heaven & Hell! We are passionate, desperate disciples of the Devil, not the Christian Anti-god, but the Archetype of earlier forms which the Christians distorted: the Double God of Light in Darkness, All-Devourer, All Begetter as Pan, Speech in Silence as Heru-Ra-Ha, Goat-Whore of the Black Sabbaths of the Witches, Devil-Angel as Star-Snake Hadit, Bisexual Beast-God Baphomet, Prometheus the Defyer, Shiva the Destroyer-Creator, Dionysus, Horned God of Pleasure, Rebellion & Cruel Wilderness, & all the Dark Tricksters & Instigators of Change (Not, however, the "Qliphoth" which are merely the unbalanced & distorted reflections, the "shells", of the Divine Qualities) But Beyond even this is a principle of pregnant Nothingness, Ultimatelessness, which is Unknown as being beyond the Duality of Being or Knowing. Called TAO by the wise, It is called by us the Great Black Dragon of Primordial Chaos, the Great None of the Night of Time, who "with Her tail churneth the Slime of Existence and from the foam thereof maketh Stars!" Her Names are Infinite but to us She is Draconia, Tiamaat, Babalon, Leviathan, Kali, Eris-Discordia, Ereshkegal, Shakti, & above all Nuit! This Goddess in all Her forms, & Her Devil-Child in all of His are our central Metaphors of Whoreship, Ultimate Godforms of our Spiritual Whoredom!

Paradigm Recontextualization

Our Dragon Goddess & Devil-Child God are not conceived of as individual entities or personalities, they precede and "compose" actual existence and so to us are the Absolute Negative & in combination create the Absolute All. They produce (both in combination & division) a "Child", the Single spark of the Big Bang which instantly becomes All of Existence from Nothing, expanding eternally in Infinite Multiplicity, continually creating every instant all of the energies & forces around & in us! The One Child becomes Its/Our existence in duality as the Twin-Gods Horus -Set, the positive & negative polarities of manifested being. Horus/Set is the God behind All Gods, the source of the creation & destruction of all dualistic manifestations of His Mothers' Unmanifest Possibilities. So also we, by Willing to Unite with (love) all opposites, (via Spiritual Whoredom) whoreship both the Dark & the Light, & attain that "Rapture of Union that Destroys". This is Union with the Devil or Goddess, Transcendental Illumination, Liberation, Initiation, or however you choose to designate the "Great Work". Nevertheless the Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon is the first/next step. Balance & Purify yourself, the lower human personality, & then Unite yourself with that One Divine Being that is for you alone. Then, made whole with your True Self, the Goddess Universe awaits your Enlightened enjoyment! Divine Union & Sexual Union are identical mirror images, just as the Spirit & the Flesh Unite, as God & Beast, in Us. We are existence, & we are the form of, or symbol for, That beyond existence!

An Adoration of Babalon!

(adapted from Crowleys' "The Vision & the Voice: Liber 418)
(do with Full Visualizations from Text)

Glory unto the Holy Grail, that is the Sacred Vessel of Our Lady the Scarlet Woman, in whom is all power given, Mystery of Mystery, Babalon the Beautiful, Great Mother of Abominations, Bride of Chaos, that rideth upon Our Lord the Beast!

By Thy Murders and Fornications Thou seduceth the Worlds. Thou hast Given Thyself to everything that liveth, & hath become a partaker in its Mystery, for in that Union Thou didst Understand, therefore art Thou called Understanding, O Babalon, Lady of Night!

O Babalon, Babalon, Thou Mighty Mother that rideth upon the Crowned Beast, & beareth the Cup of the Blood of the Saints, let me be drunken upon the Wine of Thy Fornications, let Thy kisses wanton me unto Death, that even I, Thy Cup-bearer, may Understand!

In Nomine Babalon! It's All Right Here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

Luciferic Arising

1). Perform Thelemic Qabalistic Cross: (Touch Forehead & vibrate "Soi", touch Heart & vibrate "Aiwass", touch Genitals & vibrate "O Phallos", touch Right Shoulder & vibrate "Ischuros", touch Left Shoulder & vibrate "Eucharistos", clasp hands or hold Wand at Heart & vibrate "IAO" three times, as a long drawn out vibration while visualizing the Light descending brilliantly from White Crown Sphere, to Golden Heart Sphere and to Purple Genital Sphere with the three syllables of IAO)
2).Strongly push with your hands the Light down to a brilliant Green or Black Sphere at your Feet and then vibrate "Shalu" while taking One Step forward with Left Foot.
3).Now the Light that you brought Down with "IAO" you now shoot back Up as you Spiritually Ascend with It back into Space, as follows. Slowly raise your arms like Wings, out to your sides & up above your head, palms outward, straining straight up while vibrating "Sh" at Feet, "Ay" at Genitals, "Tah" at Heart, "Na" at Crown & "SSS" out into Space above you, (Sh-Ay-Ta-Na-S= Satanas). Visualize yourself rushing up out of your body along a column of Light, piercing all barriers, streaking through Space, entering the Infinite. Continue until the strain of Ascending becomes unbearable or you reach the Ultimate.
4). Return directly (i.e. without "descending") to your body while taking one step back with Left Foot, crossing arms down in front of you and then out and back, generally with a strong exhale, & finally making the Sign of Silence (forefinger held to lips) while vibrating "Hoor-Paar-Kraat".
5). Re-orient yourself in the physical while maintaining Awareness of the Spiritual Level you perceived while Arising. Bring the Light forth as you so Will. If successful you are now an Avatar of Lucifer! Do Thy Will!

Hymn to Lucifer (Aleister Crowley)

Ware, nor of good nor ill, what aim hath act?
.......Without its climax, death, what savour hath Life? an impeccable machine, exact
.......He paces an inane and pointless path
to glut brute appetites, his sole content
.......How tedious were he fit to comprehend
Himself! More, this our noble element

.......Of fire in nature, love in spirit unkenned
Life hath no spring, no axel, and no end.

His body a blood-ruby radiant
.......With noble passion, sun souled Lucifer
Swept through the dawn colossal, swift aslant
.......On Eden's imbecile perimeter.
He blessed nonentity with every curse
.......And spiced with sorrow the dull soul of sense.
Breath life into the sterile universe,
.......With Love and Knowledge drove out innocence
The Key of Joy is disobedience.

New Rituals Below!

Text of the Invocation of HORUS at the Equinox of the Gods

(To be performed before a window open to the E. or N. without Incense. The room to be filled with jewels, but only diamonds to be worn. Use Sword, unconsecrated, & 44 pearl beads to be told. Stand. Bright daylight at 12:30 noon. Lock doors. White Robes. Bare feet. Be very loud. Saturday. Use the Sign of Apophis & Typhon.

CONFESSION

Unprepared & uninvoking Thee, I, ________, am here in Thy Presence - for Thou art Everywhere, O Lord Horus! - to confess humbly before Thee my neglect & scorn of Thee.

How shall I humble myself enough before Thee? Thou art the mighty & unconquered Lord of the Universe. I am a spark of Thine unutterable Radiance.

How should I approach Thee? but Thou art Everywhere.

But Thou hast graciously deigned to call me unto Thee, to this Exorcism of Art, that I may be Thy servant, Thine Adept, O Bright One, O Sun of Glory! Thou hast called me - should I not then hasten to Thy Presence?

With unwashed hands therefore I come unto Thee, and I lament my wandering from Thee - But Thou knowest!

Yea, I have done evil!

If one blasphemed Thee, why should I therefore forsake Thee? But Thou art the Avenger; all is with Thee.

I bow my neck before Thee; and as once Thy sword was upon it so am I in Thy hands. Strike if Thou wilt, spare if Thou wilt: but accept me as I am.

My trust is in Thee: shall I be confounded? This Ritual of Art; this Forty and Fourfold Invocation; this Sacrifice of Blood - these I do not comprehend.

It is enough if I obey Thy decree; did Thy fiat go forth for my eternal misery, were it not my joy to execute Thy Sentence on myself?

For why? For that All is in Thee and of Thee; it is enough if I burn up in the intolerable glory of Thy presence.

Enough! I turn toward Thy Promise.

Doubtful are the Words: Dark are the Ways: but in Thy Words and Ways is Light. Thus then now as ever, I enter the Path of Darkness, if haply so I may attain the Light!

Hail!

I - Aleph

Strike, strike the master Chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

(At every "Thee, I invoke," throughout the whole Ritual, give the Sign of Apophis and Typhon)

A. Thou only-begotten-child of Osiris Thy Father and Isis Thy Mother. He that was slain; She that bore Thee in Her womb flying from the Terror of the Water. Thee, Thee, I invoke!

2. O Thou whose Apron is of flashing white, whiter than the Forehead of the Morning! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

B. O Thou who hast formulated Thy Father and made fertile Thy Mother! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

3. O Thou whose garment is of golden glory with the azure bars of sky! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

C. Thou, who didst avenge the Horror of Death; Thou the slayer of Typhon! Thou who didst lift Thine arms and the Dragons of Death were as dust; Thou who didst raise Thine Head and the Crocodile of Nile was abased before Thee! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

4. O Thou whose Nemyss hideth the Universe with night, the impermeable Blue! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

D. Thou who travellest in the Boat of Ra, abiding at the Helm of the Aftet boat and of the Sektet boat! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

5. Thou who bearest the Wand of Double Power! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

6. Thou about whose presence is shed the darkness of Blue Light, the unfathomable glory of the outermost Aethyr, the utravelled, the unthinkable immensity of Space. Thou who concentrest all the 30 Aethyrs in One darkling Sphere of Fire! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

II - Beth

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

1. By Thy name of Ra, I invoke Thee, Hawk of the Sun, the glorious One!

2. By Thy name of Harmachis, youth of the Brilliant Morning, I invoke Thee!

3. By Thy name Mau, I invoke Thee, Lion of the Midday Sun!

4. By Thy name Tum, Hawk of the Even, crimson splendor of the Sunset, I invoke Thee!

5. By Thy name Keph-Ra I invoke Thee, O beetle of the hidden Mystery of Midnight!

A. By Thy nameHeru-pa-Kraat, Lord of Silence, Beautiful Child that standest on the Dragons of the Deep, I invoke Thee!

B. By Thy name Apollo, I invoke Thee, O man of Strength and splendor, O poet, O father!

C. By Thy name of Phoebus, that drivest Thy chariot through the Heaven of Zeus, I invoke Thee!

D. By Thy name of Odin I invoke Thee, O warrior of the North, O Renown of the Sagas!

E. By Thy mane of Jeheshua, O child of the Flaming Star, I invoke Thee!

F. By Thine own, Thy Secret Name Hoori, Thee I invoke!

The Names are Five.

The Names are Six.

Eleven are the Names!

Abrahadabra!

Behold! I stand in the midst. Mine is the symbol of Osiris; to Thee are mine eyes ever turned. Unto the Splendor of Geburah, the Magnificence of Chesed, the Mystery of Daath, thither I lift up mine eyes. This have I sought, and I have sought the Unity: hear Thou me!

III - Gimel

1. Mine is the Head of the Man, and my insight is keen as the Hawk's. By my head I invoke Thee!

A. I am the only-begotton child of my Father and Mother. By my body I invoke Thee!

2. About me shine the Diamonds of Radiance white and pure. By their brightness I invoke Thee!

B. Mine is the Red Triangle Reversed, the Sign given of none, save it be of Thee, O Lord! By the Lamen I invoke Thee!

3. Mine is the garment of white sewn with gold, the flashing abbai that I wear. By my Robe I invoke Thee!

C. Mine is the Sign of Apophis and Typhon! By the Sign I invoke Thee!

4. Mine is the turban of white and gold, and mine the blue vigor of the intimate air! By my Crown I invoke Thee!

D. My mystic sigils travel on the Bark of the Akasha; so run I after Thee in Thy car of Glory. By the Spells I invoke Thee!

5. I bear the Wand of Double Power in the Voice of the Master - Abrahadabra! By the Word I invoke Thee!

E. Mine are the dark-blue waves of music in the song that I made of old to invoke Thee -

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

By the Song I invoke Thee!

6. In my hand is Thy Sword of Revenge; let it strike at Thy bidding! By the Sword I invoke Thee!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

Back to Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, & Instructions
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Daemonolatriea : The Grimiores of Daemonic Whoreship

Presenting the Daemonolatriea, a Wild Funhouse Soul-Mirror for the post Y2K Evolutionary Apotheosis! You'll gasp with disbelief when you actually see this stunning series of Arcane publications: the Daemonolatriea: our semi-annual, 40+ page, self-printed chapbook Journals of Magickal Chaos, Occult Rebellion & Art for Babalon!

Free Your Mind & Soul!

Each issue is a Super-Suggestive Collage/Collection of Occult Art, Axioms, Affirmations, Ideas, Icons, Images, Fetishes, Rituals, & Teachings from Magical Belief Systems of All Ages! Automatically Inspires Instant Illumination! - in those who are "ready"! Liberate your mind from old false beliefs and illusions & install your choice of unlimited new ones! Become your own High Priest of the only "One True God" that really matters: YOURSELF! Let us give you the spiritual tools to put Your Soul back into your own hands! You must find for yourself your True Will, & do it & only it, or be unconsciously swept away in the meaningless busyness of a predefined -or undefined- life! (a fate truly worse then death!)

Who are WOGSS!?

The Daemonolatriea is created and distributed (with help from friends and Allies Worldwide) by Rev, Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus, alter-ego of Godfrey H. Slayne (JHS), Arch Operations Instigator of WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan", an Independent Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic, Thelemic, Psychick, Scientists." We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous; Anti-racist, Anti-stateist, & Anti-dogmatic; and we pursue the Antinomian Path of Scientific Illuminism! We have no open membership, but publish our Art & Ideas to Trade with & Inspire Independent Minds everywhere!

Spiritual Revolution!

Each issue of our Daemonolatriea is an Amazing Artistic Announcement of Spiritual Warfare: a Relentless Super-Unnatural Assault on parochial, paternalistic, & exclusionist restrictions on Individual Free Will in the Realm of the Spiritual, Sexual, Social & Trans-Personal expressions of Humankinds Infinite Possibilities!

Take Back Your Soul!

Every issue contains concentrated Keys of Praeternatural Power & Understanding available together in no other single place ever! Each page is a vibrant, dense collage a thousands of distinct Spiritual Symbols & Magick Sigils, Goddesses, Demons, Aliens, Concepts, & Chaos, together with many Diagrams, Table, Charts, & Lists of essential Symbolic & Qabalistic Data! In all they expound a total system of Occult Science & Alternative Religious Experience, for those who are ready, including many Esoteric Spiritual Practices we dare you to try! We will blow your mind away!

Exploding Cultural Barriers

The First in our continuing series is the WOGSS No-Rulesbook, An Alien Art Anticodebook, the Anticryptographa! This preliminary volume provides direct visual/conceptual access to the Deepest & Strangest areas of Magickal (Un)Belief, including but not nearly limited to Lucid dreaming, Alien Communion, Sacred Whoredom, Satanick Science, Personal Power, & the Great Work of personal & Worldwide Illumination! All following issues are the working Grimiores of the actual Daemonolatriea series, the Game Itself!

Embrace the Magick Within!

Each Daemonolatriea Grimiore contains diverse instructions for personal experience with Ritual/Ceremonial, Sexual, Goetic, Gnostic, Kabalistic, Enochian, Thelemic, Satanick, Shamanic, Astrological, Pagan, Chaoist, Draconian, Cthonian, Tantric, Voudon, Alien, &/or many more Polycultural Spiritual Practices to bring the Transcendent Mysteries back into your own life! Each contains numerous Invocations, Adorations, Conjurations, Incantations, Mantras, Meditations, Illuminations, & Initiations, & every element necessary to create Rites & Spells for any purpose you desire! Enter the Unknown & claim your Human Birthright of Communion with the Higher Powers of the Universe! Confront your own Gods & Demons personally & make them serve your True Will!

Be Aware! Be Ready! An Apocalyptic Awakening is Approaching!

Discover Hidden Clues to Surviving the Soul Stunning Wonders & Horrors soon coming to you at the Apotheosis of Human History! It's Armageddon or Our Awakening! So, to help you get even more Info you won't find elsewhere but will need, each individual issue of the Daemonolatriea includes the Total Ads Listings, including 100's of Internet Web Sites & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads, just updated July 2000, for the most incredible Occult, Revolutionary, Anarchic, Sacred, Satanic, Sexual, & Radical Activist Groups & Individuals on the Planet! (and you can send in yours for free now!)

Orders

Each issue is 40+, 81/2 by 11" pages, now for only$7.00, two for $13.00 or any three issues for $18.00 in cash, trade, stamps, or checks made to "cash". Get free strange surprises with every Order! Send all orders, questions, suggestions, contacts, clippings, chaos, & art donations to:

WOGSS, c/o Rev. Adtrian Cain, 1032 Irving St., PMB#906, San Francisco, CA, 94122, USA

E-mail: RevAdtrianCain93@cosmiverse.com

Explicit Graphics & Ideas, Adults 18+ Only!

Get prepared or be scared as life becomes increasingly bizarre from here on out! Take a chance and learn to think in new ways with the incredible "Rorschach tests" of the Daemonolatriea!

The Future is Now!

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open LetteR to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & InstructionsS
Theology & Rituals of WOGSS
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Wild Writings of WOGSS

A Paraphrase from Randel Helms' "Gospel Fictions", titled here:
Lazarus Was Osiris

The fascinating question is why the author of the fourth Gospel (John) placed the resurrection of Lazarus in Bethany. This village near Jerusalem is not known elsewhere in the Gospels as the sight of a miracle; it is not even connected with Mary and Martha when they are mentioned in Luke. Luke mentions no brother, nor does he use the name Lazarus in connection with the two sisters. How does the author of John make the connection?

I think he combined, with a faulty memory, his knowledge of Luke and Mark. He remembered from Mark that it was "at Bethany, in the house of Simon the Leper," that a certain unnamed woman had anointed Jesus with oil. This was enough to move John to open his story of Lazarus thus: "There was a man named Lazarus who had fallen ill. His home was at Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha. This Mary whose brother Lazarus had fallen ill, was the woman who anointed the Lord with ointment and wiped his feet with her hair" The woman in Bethany did not wipe Jesus' feet with her hair; rather she ..."poured oil over his head". John has misremembered his sources, confusing this story with the one in Luke, set in Nain, about another unnamed woman: "A woman who had been living an immoral life (brought Jesus oil). She sat beside him weeping ...on his feet... and she wiped them with her hair, kissing them and anointing them with the myrrh."

John has blended the two stories together: the woman at Bethany who anoints Jesus' head (who is not described as a sinner)becomes the sister at Nain (though remaining at Bethany) who wipes his feet with her hair. But neither of these women is named..

Mary and Martha come from a third story, in Luke 10:38-39, and they live in an unnamed village: "Jesus came to a village where a woman named Martha made him welcome in her home. She had a sister, Mary, who seated herself at his feet and listened to his words" Thus, Mary who sat a Jesus feet was already misidentified with the woman who anointed Jesus feet, who was already misidentified as the woman at Bethany who anointed his head.

Lazarus comes, of course, from another story in Luke, Jesus' parable of Dives and Lazarus (16:19-31), neither of whom is related to Mary or Martha or Bethany. What prompted John to put them all together as the characters and setting of his climactic miracle story? A Lazarus who dies, two sisters, and the village of Bethany- all unrelated, all to be joined together in the writer's mind; there must have been a catalyst.

The answer is not to be found in the Gospels, but the Egyptian myth of Osiris. In the Egyptian myth, Osiris, who dies, has two sisters, Isis and Nephthys. Osiris lies dead in Annu, the Egyptian necropolis, known in Greek as Heliopolis and in the Old Testament as Beth-shemesh (Jer. 43:13) "City of the Sun" and "House of the Sun" respectively. A formulaic name in Egyptian for this city was the "great house of Anu", ...which is readily semitized as Beth-anu. Likewise "Lazarus" (the Greek form of the Hebrew name Eleazar") readily associates itself with the name of Osiris (Asar) (semetized to El-Asar, literally "The Asar").

According to the pyramid texts, "they come to Osiris the King at the sound of the weeping of Isis, at the cry of Nephthys, at the wailing of these two spirits" At Bethany, Jesus saw "Mary weeping and the Jews her companions weeping."

Of the dead god in Annu it is said: "O Osiris the King, you have gone, but you will return; you have slept but you will awake; you have died but you will live." On hearing of the death of Lazarus Jesus says, "our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep but I shall go and wake him." Jesus approaches the tomb and says "Take away the stone". To Osiris it is said, The Tomb is opened for you, the doors of the Tomb chamber are thrown open for you." Objecting to Jesus demand, Martha says "by now there will be a stench, he has been there four days." After Osiris is resurrected we are told "Osiris speaks to Horus, for he has removed the evil which was on the King on his fourth day." The dead one in Annu/Bethany is then told to arise: "I am Horus, O Osiris the King, I will not let you suffer. Go forth, wake up." "Then he (Jesus) raised his voice in a great cry: "Lazarus, come forth."" The wrappings of the dead must be removed: "O King, live, for you are not dead. Horus will come to you that he may cut you cords and throw off your bonds; Horus has removed your hindrance." "The dead man (Lazarus) came out, his hands and feet swathed in linen bands, and Jesus said, "Loose him, let him go."

All this is from "Gospel Fictions" by Randel Helms, and ought to dispel any "Biblical inerrency" claims at the very least. Also it adds great weight to our own ecumenical view of the universality of the Inner Archtypes (IMHO). And it supports the view expressed here some time ago that the N.T. is a deliberately constructed trap, (to divert one from the inner Truth to a literalistic absurdity). More soon.

==

Key Quotations

The beginning of wisdom is to call things by their right names -- Chinese

To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself as the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty, which our dull faculties can comprehend only in the most primitive forms - this knowledge, this feeling, is at the center of true religiousness. In this sense, and in this sense only, I belong to the ranks of the devoutly religious men. – Albert Einstein

All great truths begin as blasphemies. – G.B. Shaw

Truth is what most contradicts itself. – Laurence Durrell

"Reality" is the temporary resultant of continuous struggles between rival gangs of programers. - What the thinker thinks, the prover proves. – Robert Anton Wilson

Insane people are always sure they’re just fine. It’s only the sane people who are willing to admit they’re crazy. – Nora Ephron

The sane person is not he who has eliminated all contradictions, but one who uses them & applies them in his work. – Maurice Merleau-Ponty

Sanity is madness put to good use. – Santayana

Every sentence I utter must be understood not as an affirmation but as a question. - Belief is an obsolete Aristotelian category. – Neils Bohr

Scientists are peeping toms at the keyholes of reality. – Aurther Koestler

Heresies are experiments in mans’ unsatisfied search for truth. – H. G. Wells

Freedom is the Will to take responsibility for ourselves. - Convictions are more dangerous enemies of truth then lies. – Fredrich Neitzsche

To me, every dirty act was simply a sacrament of sin, a passionately religious protest against Christianity, which was for me the symbol of all vileness, meanness, treachery, falsehood and oppression. - Something always sings in the mud and scum of things. – Aleister Crowley

In the course of this struggle against sexual urges the sexual force becomes distorted, turning in upon itself to generate destructive impulses centering about the "mortification of the flesh". The struggle against sexuality which played & still plays a large part in the so-called morality of the Christian Church has probably caused more human misery then all the great plagues combined. This struggle, at its height, reduced large segments of the population of Europe to the status of devil-obsessed homicidal lunatics. – unknown (And certainly would again if allowed the chance! Ed.)

No-one gets any second chances until everyone gets a first chance! – Adam Weishaupt

All the body is in the Mind, but not all the Mind is in the body. – Swami Rama

We are part of a symbiotic relationship with something that disguises itself as an extraterrestrial invasion so as not to alarm us. - Great events cast their shadows before them. – Terrence McKenna

Alliterative Artillery

Attention! Announcing An Amazing Aeonic Actualization Arranged Around Attaining An Anomalous Arch-Alien, Anarcho-Athiest Alternative Art Alliance And Ancient Apocalyptic Association Amongst Awakened Antinomian Adversaries!

Any And All Anti-Authoritarian Aliens Accepted As Allies Amongst Active Adherents Aflame At All-Amorous Aradia's Absolute Alter!

Annihilating Answers Assimilated And Accelerated Accordingly As Anathema Acolytes Activate Advanced Astrological Acids!

Arise Amid Autonomous Anointed Adepts Ascending An Averse Apocryphal Arcanum And Archaic Agitprop As Apostate Anchorites Activate Archetypal Aeonic Apotheosis' And Arcane Aboriginal Abominations About Atonement!

Abnormal Apes And Adulterous Astral Amphibians Also Accentuate Abstract Anathema Ambiguities And Always Attain Absurdist Aberrance And Androgynous Amoral Acculturation!

Anonymous Auguries Awake Advanced Abstract Awareness Activating All Alive As Aphrodisiac Allegories Alert Attuned Arthropods Against Altruistic Authoritarians And Abject Arresting Assholes!

Angry Angels Aiwaz, Azreal, Azazel, Asmodius, Ashtaroth, Abaddon And Appolyon Ascend An Abstract Abyss Above Avernus And Assault Antique Anachronistic Anomaly-Annihilating Analysis!

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
Wogss Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Key Links

Amazing Occult Links

New Links!

New Paranormal Links

Marik's Z(Cluster) Page (Main Chaos Magick Site)

Shub (Chaotic)

The Chaos Matrix (Fenwick)

Death and Hell (Black Chaos Magick)

Havoc23 (Chaos Magick)

Matrix of Milosh (Chaos)

Veedubs' Tarot (Chaos Tarot Cards)

Phil Hine (a5e. At the Edge of Chaos)

Thee Sigil Garden (Sigils, A.O.S., T.O.P.Y.)

UK I.O.T. (Illuminates of Thanateros)

Thee Process

Temple of Set (Ancient post-Satanists)

Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema WebRing

Villa of the Mysteries (Tim Marony, Thelema)

Interactive Thelemic Study Resources (Much useful material, including some of the free clip art on this site!)

Diamondstar 418 (Beautiful Thelemic Art & Ideas)

Thelema Zone

Ecclesia Gnostica Universalis (Thelemic Gnostics)

Hermetic Alchemical Order of the QBLH

Blue Honey (Much Psychedelics, Gaia, Science, Spirituality, Time, Image Gallery)

Illuminati.nl (Section 23, OTO & all kinds of Occulture & Info)

TruthBeKnown.com (Wonderful Astro-theological Truth about the Pagan origins, & Lies of, Judaism, X-tianity and Islam)

Christianburner.com (More as above)

Gnostic Friends Network (Alternative X-tianity)

Mass of the Mother (Gnostic Church of St. Mary Magdalene)

Anathema Books (Many Heavy Occult Titles)

Temple of Hecate (Greek Goddess Oracle)

Alamantra (Occult Band and Links)

Old Hornies Cunning Ways

Black Fire Pandemonium (Russian Satanism)

Devils Pitch Fork Society (F.C.o.S. Associates)

The 600 Club (Satanic Online Community)

Dark Arena (Dark Erotica Articles & Links)

Occult World Ledger (Occult, Wiccan & Paranormal Web)

SorcerySearch (Occult & Magick Search Engine)

Hermeticka (Cerimonial Magick Web-Store)

DrBruceGoldberg.com (Hypnotherapist)

New UFO, Crop Circles and Related Phenomena Links

UFOCenter.com

Aliendestiny.com (Dan Irrerra)

Blackvault.com (Freedom of Info Files)

DisclosureProject.org (UFO files)

Earthfiles.com (Linda Moulton Howe)

Ezekiel.org (Self Mastery Earth Institute)

Facadenovel.com (X-tian UFO opponents)

KathleenKeating.com (Anti-UFO X-tian)

LivingEnergyUniverse.com (Transformation)

RoswellRods.com (Flying Living Rods)

SacredUniverse.com (Cosmology of the Bagavata Purana)

Sollog.com (Conspiracy + Predictions)

JourneysBeyond.com (All your favorite conspiracy investigators)

Montauk Project (Conspiracies in Conspiracies)

Other

Great Older Links

Xendaths Links (Lilith, Thelema, Xaos, Eastern, Gnostic, More)

Thelema-Eros Christo-Paganism Ring

Aleister Crowley Foundation

Antichrist's Haven

First Church of Satan (Not LaVey's CoS)

The Satanic Society (FCoS, Thelema, Wicca, Vampires, Temple of Set, Alchemy, Druids, Necronomicon, Occult Library, Order Of Shaitan)

Pagan, LHP, Satanism, Druidry, Shamanism, Thelema, Wicca, Psych, Parapsych

Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema Webring

Quickening News, Art Bell (End-Times News stories)

Outside the Lightcone, Mark Pesce (Incredible Important Information!)

Proceedings of the Friesian School, Fourth Series (Advanced Philosophy)

Alternative Religions

Crystals' Many Metaphysical & Scientific Links

G. M. Kelly, The Sword of Horus

UFOs & Religion

Links to International Caliphate-OTO Bodies

Church of the SubGenius

Many Discordian & Related Links

Home Page
Banners
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
The Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings

(Links Below Still Being Corrected, Don't Use Yet)

Autonomatrix.net (Chaos Magick)

Pandemonaeon (The Chaos Aeon)

AutonomatriX (Chaotes)

Thelemic Golden Dawn

ShadowBeings.com (REALity Unveiled. Shadow People Sightings)

Blackmagick.com (Many More Occult Links)

UFOMag.co.uk (Graham Bertsol)

UFOXFiles.com

CropCircleConnection.com

InvisibleCircles.de (Crop Circles)

UndiscoveredCountry.com (Whitley Strieber)

Master Perdurabo Joeri Offecier's Bookmarks (Over 800 links:
http://huizen.dds.nl/~joerio's_list.html

Lucifer(a) Research Group
http"//.netaccess.on.ca/~irg/

http://www.escd.com.8880/beastbay/index.html

http://www.xoasis.com/~hrumachis/recomended_websites.html

http://www.xoasis.com/~hrumachis/

New Lists, Magickal Formulas, &Occult Priestcraft:

Great Work:
Next Step, Initiation, Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel, Finding your True Will, Finding the Philosophers Stone, Gnosis, Bodhi, Illumination, Enlightenment, Becoming Lucid, Awakening, Attainment, Adeptship, Ascension, Arising, Self-Overcoming, Self-Realization, Self-Actualization, Apotheosis/Annihilation, Nirvana, Dissolution, Crossing the Abyss, Becoming Egoless, Transcendence, Transfiguration, Alchemical Transmutation, Transmogrification, Union with God, Yoga, Fusion, Samadhi, Oneness, At-One-Ment, Theophany, Epiphany, God-Consciousness, Cosmic Consciousness.

Eschaton:
End Times, Evolution, Culmination, Consummation, Convergence, Critical Mass, Climax, Fulfilment, Breakthrough, Emergence, Unveiling, Revelation, Great Leap, Transcendence, Turning Point, Timewave Zero, Omega Point, Apotheosis, Apocalypse, Armageddon, Ragnarok, Doomsday, Theophany, The Stars Come Right/Cthulhu Rises, Harvest, Rapture, Exponential Curve, Geometric Progression, Asymptotic Acceleration, Quickening, Synergistic Multiplication, Immanentizing the Infinite, Arrival, Visitation, First Contact, Entering the Dreamtime, Morphogenetic Unfolding.

Holy Guardian Angel (HGA):
Daemon, Daimonos (God, Fate, Genius, Destiny, Devil), Adonai (The Lord), Agoeides: (The Dawn Light), Emergent Awareness, Solar Consciousness, Aiwass-Shaitan, Asar-Un-Nefer (Myself made Perfect), Horus-Set, Sun behind the Sun, Heru-Ra-Ha: Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Par-Kraat, Crowned & Conquering Child, Ptah-Apo-Phrasz-Ra (The Creative Motion of the Sun - An Identity (Hadit) wrapped in the Dragon of Being (Nuit) and so Manifested as a Sun (Ra-Hoor-Khuit)), Solar-Phallic Identity, Akephalon (Bornless One), Silent/Secret -Self -Center -Lover, Anima/Animus, Hidden God, Higher

Genius, True Self, True Will (Dynamic Aspect of the Free Creative Will), Androgynous Alien (Gnostic God), Heart Girt with a Serpent (HGS), Egg wrapped in a Serpent, Archaios Ophis (Ancient Serpent), Superconsciousness (Illumination), Lucidity, Nous (Divine Mind), Neshamah (Divine Breath): Kether-Chokhmah-Binah, Yechidah (The Only One): Kether, Bindu, Atman, Ipsissimus, Abrasax (Two in One), Baphomet (Baptism of Wisdom): Hieroglyph of Arcane Perfection, Divine/Cosmic Consciousness: Lucifer - Indra - Shamash/Moses - Krishna - Christ - Quetzalcoatl - Apollo - Adonis - Osiris - Odin - Buddha - Thammuz - Mithras - Dionysus - Prometheus - Shiva - Satan (& all Sun Gods, Child Gods, & Gods of Transcendence).

Magickal Formula:

The Pentagram:
Fire - Water - Air - Earth - Spirit.
Light - Love - Liberty - Life - Law.
Perception - Passion - Power - Putrification - Peace.
Darkness - Debauch - Destiny - Death - Discord.

Emotional Engineering (Paraphrased from Phil Hine: "The Pseudonomicon")
1. Fully Experience feeling when gripped by powerful emotion.
2. Be aware of physical sensations as emotion intensifies.
3. Still your inner dialogue, memories, generation of fantasies, etc.
4. Be aware of only body sensations, still all cognitive attempts to identify these sensations as one emotion or another.
5. Experience free-emotion which can be redefined as pleasure or ecstasy, for use in ego-magic, & denying power to Personal Demons. Deconstruct anger or fear into excitement which can be used to gain momentum for moving over a threshold into change, rather then reinforcing resistance.

A.B.C.D.E. (from: The Relaxation Workbook)
1. Adversity: Situation, person or thing giving trouble in some way.
2. Beliefs in error about the problem that cause suffering.
3. Challenge of false beliefs, stopping the process of self-torment.
4. Decision to eliminate false beliefs & replace with positive beliefs.
5. Energize Self & Will with new feelings of control that bring empowermen

S.P.L.I.F.F. (Phil Hine: "Condensed Chaos")
1. Statement of Intent: Formulate clear Magickal intention, divine & analyze Quest.
2. Pathways available: Open path for results to manifest along as desired.
3. Link intent to symbolic carrier: Sigil, Monogram, Glyph, Mantra, etc.
4. Intense Gnosis/Indifferent Vacuity: to create an altered state.
5. Fire: Project at peak into the Void/Multiverse (As a Photon Torpedo).
6. Forget: I don’t need to remember that right now.

A WOGSS Formula:

1. Transgression (of social taboos)
2. Transcendence (of old paradigm/restrictions)
3. Transmission (of new Gnosis to others, spiritual grounding of force)

Occult Priestcraft for Self & Others.

(Expanded from a list in Peter Carols "Liber Null & Psychonaut" & other sources).

1. To provide/elicit Active & Passive (Magickal & Mystical) techniques of Emotional Engineering: starting, stopping, & changing emotional states & consciousness at will.

2. To provide/elicit perspectives of Meaning, Knowledge, Power, Peace, Purpose, Mystery, Joy, Free Belief, True Will, etc.

3. To provide Intercession & Intervention with Magickal & Spiritual assistance & ways of affecting Reality; blessing/cursing, exorcism, cleansing, psychic protection, divination, creation & use of Magickal Tools & Weapons, Power Objects, & Talismans.

4. To provide/elicit explanations & preparations for Death, reconciliation, release, peace, practice, & inter-death guidance (Metempsychosis).

5. To formulate a Zone, Movement, or Cult to engage Holy Warriors to wage Psychic Guerrilla Cultural Warfare against dogmatism, restriction, intolerance, exclusivity, stupidity, neophobia, oppression, prejudice, consumerism, materialism, & anti-human Institutional Religious Systems.

6. To provide/elicit Sacred Rites to Initiate, Illuminate, Liberate, Empower, Activate, & Enable Individuals to take control of their own Spirituality & find their own True Will.

7. To facilitate Human Evolution by formulating/eliciting new Paradigms/Metaphors & their Symbols, Cultivating Cultural Catalysts, Immanentizing the Eschaton, preparing for the Next Step (see Eschaton List), Inciting Emergent Intelligence, & Formulating Magickal Links with Higher Intelligence to transmit the New Current (93) to Humankind.

8. To Attain & Incite Higher Awareness, Trance, Visions, Transcendental Illumination, Gnosis, Buddhi, Dhyana, Samadhi, Satori, Sunyata, Lucidity, Individual Enlightenment & Universal Liberation, Mystical Union, Magickal Initiation, & the Great Work : to Purify, Organize, & Consecrate the lower self (ego & elements of the psyche), & Unite it with the True Self (HGA), (see Great Work & Holy Guardian Angel Lists).

9. To Administer Sacraments including: Communion & Eucharists via the Gnostic Mass, Mass of Chaos, Mass of the Phoenix, etc. for purpose of Invocation, Consecration, Ordination, Enchantment, Initiation, Healing, Celebration, Baptism, Rites of Passage, Sacred Unions, Thanatosis (Death), & Honoring of Dead Ancestors or Other Spirits/Gods.

10. To Discourse - to those who are interested - widely, wisely, convincingly & with Authority on Magickal & Mystical matters, & give Spiritual Instruction generally.

11. To Explore Psychic Realms, Astral Planes, Numenal Worlds, Transpersonal Realities, the Collective Unconscious, Non-Local dimensions, Lucid Dreams, etc.

12. To Serve the Gods & Their Plan on Earth as may be needed at any given time & place.

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Wild Writings
Key Links

Open Letter to All Allies

To all those who would daringly seek out the Feared & Forbidden (generally Yin, Lunar, & Female) Sides of Magickal (Un)Belief, & all Associates & Colleagues in 60+ Nations around the World & Beyond...

DO THY WILL

Hail Warriors & Allies of the Ancient Future! The Next Evolutionary Leap is fast approaching, & the World begins to go mad again. Or maybe it's just us. Either way we feel we must act now to spread our post-apocalyptic prophecies of Transcendence & hope they become self-fulfilling. Imminentize the Eschaton! Let the corrupting influence of human civilization be transformed by the Arising of the Future Vision, before the Earth is irreparably ruined for human (& post-human) life! Now at the start of a New Millennium, the failures of the past two can at last be cast off like our old Snake-skins. Nearly 2000 years of lies and guilt and hypocrisy are over! Also, by our counting this is not the mere year 2002, but the year 156,002, counting from the Dawn of Humankind, 78 times longer then you've been conditioned to think! Try to grasp the implications of that for Humanities self-image. To meet the future we must be in tune with ALL our Past, & refuse to be deprived of it any longer by blind denial & revisionist Judeo-Christian-Muslim bigotry against our ancient biological origins, and their justified panic at our Future Evolution after their Armageddon!

Awaken Yourself

WOGSS want to free you from false cultural constructs about reality by injecting even more Diversity, Doubt, Mystery, Uncertainty, Chaos, Rebellion & Transcendence into the worldwide cultural mix, & so restore Individual Sovereignty to the "religion game" which will determine mass human perspective on our Future in the Universe. There is no Priest but Yourself, seek your own Hidden God/Secret Lover/Daemon. Then knowing Union with THAT, offer all adoration to the Goddess Universe & Mother Earth! After this there is no limit to what we may become, in harmony with all existence. We at WOGSS don't know exactly what is going to happen but we know when it starts & that's NOW! We must seize the moment, & seize the World from its' path of total destruction to one of selective destruction & a New Creation of our own. Inter-dimensional Aliens of some kind we can't currently imagine, (an Inner Supraconsciousness, our Transcendental Selves-in-the-future, or perhaps), will help us open the doors of cosmic power, but we must do our part by preparing ourselves to deal with the totally unknown! We must be impeccable, dedicated, unblinking Warriors of a New Vision of Humankind, or there will be no humans left at all!

Pursue the Great Work

The Sacred Path of WOGSS is called "Shalu" which is the verb "To Ask" & a Name for "the Underworld" in ancient Babylonian. This indicates the Secret Key of Questioning Everything & thereby entering the Unknown Wilderness, the Forbidden Hell of Mystery outside the unquestioned security & slavery of "belief". Doubt and Free Inquiry, skeptical & devotional at once, leads the seeker behind the deceptions and distractions of everyday life, the lower ego, and commercial society, into the terrifyingly limitless realms of infinity which are always within us but rarely known or even suspected. Tear down the hideous veils of ordinary drone-life (as it comes to an end anyway)! Aspire to Actualize And Accurately Arrange All Ancient Archetypes & Atavisms of your own Awareness, & Attain An Antinomian Apotheosis!

Enter the Mystery from Behind!

Our Artwork is, in part, to promote Spiritual Advancement now, to open your mind to limitless possibilities, and to inoculate you against the soul-stunning wonders & horrors soon to come! Plunge into the Ultimate Darkness without fear & thereby intensify your Inner Light to blinding brightness! (Existence is Contrast). Learn to Swim. We will to bring forth Humankinds primal instincts & assimilate them to an emerging transcendent consciousness as we leap into the Unknown Future!

Accordingly we seek & spread data on the following subjects: Alternative Cosmologies & Belief Systems (for learning to perceive multiple Points of View), the Law of Thelema (Aleister Crowley), the Great Work or "Next Step" also called the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", Spiritual Initiation, Alchemical Transformation, Transcendental Illumination, Ritual & Ceremonial Magick, Goetic Demonology, Witchcraft, Technological Advances, Lucid Dreaming, Sex Magick, Shamanism (Primal & Techno), Saving the Earth, Return of the Goddess, Enochian Entities & Language, Alien Communion, Incubi & Succubi, Sexual Fetishes, Future Primitives, Anomalous events, Holy War, Illuminati Conspiracies, Freemasonry & Secret Societies, Underground Occulture, Tarot Card Divination, Idols & Sacred Artifacts, Fractal Synchronicities, Voudon Devotion, True Priestcraft, Cthonian & Draconian Currents, Necromancy, Chaos Magick, Black Science, Sexual Religion & Sacred Whoredom/Prostitution, Aghora & Tantra, Qabalistic analysis & Gematria, Paganism, Heathenism, Tibetan Buddhism, Surrealism, Satanism, Globalism, Survivalism, SubGenius Bulldada, Ultra-horror Films & Tapes, Black Metal & Hardcore Experimental Music, Astral Projection, Meditation, Hypnosis & Trance, Poltergeists & Possessions, Visions & Voices, Divine Revelations, Psychedelic Trips, Smart Drugs, Occult Experiments (Magickal & Mystical), Special Warnings & Emergency Actions for the Great Upheaval, & as many Allies & Contacts as possible in every part of the World!

Discover Your Divinity!

All these & more are, or will be, explored in our semi-annual Black Journals of Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos, & Art for Babalon: the Daemonolatriea! the Black Grimiors of Daemonic Whoreship! These Zine-Journals are our continuing declaration of Spiritual Warfare against Humankinds monotonotheistic oppressors! We will to Incite Spiritual Revolution by amassing & presenting tens of thousands of Key alternate Ideas, Images, Symbols, & Surprises in an attempt to explosively represent the Anarchic Whoredom of Reality and break up the false complexes of fear and desire that keep you from finding your True Will. We also steal societies' media hooks & use them to pull your mind in a quite different direction then originally intended! We urge you to explore for yourself all the possibilities, then take back your right to unmediated access to the Inner Mysteries of your own Unique, Existence, until your life is a Divine Invocation of Yourself!

Get Connected

As always each single issue contains the total Ads Listings, updated July 2000, including 100s of Internet Websites, & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads for the most incredible Hardcore, Occult, Artistic, Activist, Revolutionary, Anarchistic, Sacred, Satanick, Sexual & Radical Organizations & Individuals on Earth, & we are always accepting more, & encourage you to send in your regular or classified Ad for free today!

Turn Anger into Action!

Please submit any items of Occulture you find significant or suggestive, & reproduce Ideas & Images in our Journals that stand out to you, as thereby we shall pervade the whole human collective consciousness with our Super-Polytheistic plurality of Alternative Spiritual, Psychological, Cultural & Occult symbology, & unite all minds into an unstoppable force for polycultural exploration & evolutionary inter-action!

May this Set your Souls & Minds on Fire!

Yours in Hers,

Rev. Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus

WILL/Love

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

What are WOGSS!? (Terms) &
What Are We Doing!? (World-Wide Goals & Advanced Instructions for Daily Workings)
&
What is the Holy Guardian Angel?

WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan" i.e. an Independent Scientific/Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic Thelemic Discordian Draconian Scientists".

We are Secret Servants of the Star, the Snake & the Sword, as in The Book of the Law, & work to enjoy and exalt the Universe, Its Life, & Its Spirit (The World the Flesh & the Devil), in the many Names of "the Mother, the Sun & the Holy Devil!" As Priests & Priestesses (Concubines, Conjurers, & Conquers) we relentlessly serve the Goddess (as Hierodules) however personally called, & together seek the Liberation & Illumination of Humankind (as Shamans) by any means necessary! Our Key methods of perpetrating OM (Operation Mindfuck) and Zen-archic Awakening are "Spiritual Whoredom, Liberation Blasphemy, & Scientific Illuminism" in order to Create & Incite Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos & Art for Babalon!

Awake! Arouse! Arise! Adore!

Anarkey, Anarkissed, Anarchrist!

We seek to Whoreship & Exalt Our Lady Babalon by Entering the Unknown &

Understanding the Mysteries! And so we pursue "Another Antinomian Arcanum" by Assimilating "Archetypes, Atavisms & Apostasies" with the process of "Transgression, Transcendence & Transmission" We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous, and promote Public Promiscuity, Transcendental Polytheism & Sacred Prostitution! We are Ant-racist, Anti-stateist, and Anti-dogmatic. (We will explain all these terms and formulas periodically as time and interest encourage)

Broad Goals and Agenda:

0. Cultivate Worldwide Illumination
1. Instigate Rebellion in the Young
2. Subvert Traditional Religion/Authority
3. Undermine Patriarchal Family forms
4. Redistribute wealth toward the poor, esp. by Housing, Feeding, Treating, & Educating All for Free
5. Radicalize Spiritual Possibilities (Eclectic Experimentation, Spiritual Whoredom)
6. Foster Anti-Imperialist Polyculturalism
7. Promote a "One World or None" philosophy
8. Create a One World Representative Government
9. Produce an Egalitarian Individualist/Collectivist Society (Anarcho-Socialist)
10. Achieve Universal Disarmament & De-industrialization
11. Enact Re-Wilderness-ation and Gradual Depopulation
12. Destroy "Outer" X-tianity Judaism & Islam, (Save the Inner Mystical forms: Gnosticism, Qabalism & Sufism) as well as all forms of Totalitarianism, Nationalism, Ethnocentrism, Racism, Sexism, Consumerist Capitalism, etc.
13. Re-establish Temple Prostitution Goddess Worship, and exalt all Sacred Whores (Heirodules)
14. Decriminalize All Victimless Crimes: Prostitution, Drug Use, Pornography, Homosexuality, Adultery, Blasphemy, etc.
15. Allow Eugenic/Genetic Improvements in Human Species
16. Develop Technological Enhancements to Mind and Body
17. Space Migration, Intelligence Increase, Life Extension (SMI2LE)18. Lead all to aspire to the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", their Inner God & True Will.
19. Establish Contact with the Universal "Community of Stars", or Stellar Illuminati.
19. Transcendence of Corporeal Existence, Time, and Space.

Daily Spiritual Work toward the Great Work (Advanced Adorations)

1. Remember and Immediately Record all dreams in Dream Journal, kept next to bed.
2. Arise & give Signs of Ra-Hoor-Khuit (The Enterer) and Hoor-Par-Kraat (Silence) over Alter or Toward East.
3. Perform the Four Daily Adorations of Our Lord the Sun (Liber Resh) at Dawn, Noon,

Sunset, & Midnight (keeping in mind that it's always all four of these, somewhere on Earth).
4. Perform Nightly, or under the Moon, the Adoration of the current phase of Our Lady the Moon - New(5 Nights), Waxing(9 Nights), Full(5), & Waning(9).
5. Say Will at all meals.
6. Mentally Repeat the Name "Babalon" whenever drinking anything from any Vessel.
7. Purify & Consecrate whenever washing self or objects. (Purification: "For pure will, unassuaged of purpose, delivered from the lust of result, is every way perfect." Consecration: "I am uplifted in thine heart, and the kisses of the stars rain hard upon thy body.")
8. Meditate daily as desired for at least 1/2 Hour.
9. Perform one Magick Ritual as desired daily. (Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, the Mass of the Phoenix, Middle Pillar Ritual, Liber Samekh, Lucifer Invocation (in "Cosmology & Rituals" Section), or others, (& see Daemonolatriea for more.)
10. Study daily from The Holy Books of Thelema, or other Spiritual Texts.
11. Recite Adoration of Babalon outdoors each Night
12. Record all daily work in Magickal Record.
13. Recite "Apo Pantos Kakodaemonos!" when passing enemy clergy, with sweep of one hand from Silence Sign down & back.
14. Dream Test continually for Lucid Dreams, esp. near sleep.
15. End day with Signs of Nuit, Hadit, & Ra-Hoor-Khuit, (from Liber Reguli), x3
16. Combat oppression everywhere with Anarcho-Zen Chaos, (Way of the PAN-ZEN-TAO).
17. Let every act be one of dedication to the Great Work, the Knowledge & Conversation of Your Holy Guardian Daemon/Angel!

What is the Holy Guardian Angel!?

"The Knowledge & Conversation of your Holy Guardian Angel" (HGA) is the Classic term for the Ineffable Encounter that is the first Aim of Initiation. It is Unique & Personal, as it is written, "No man may know the Name of his brothers God", obviously not to forbid discussion among Initiates (everyone knows that Aleister Crowleys' "Angel" was Aiwass, & many use this Holy Name for their own HGA until ITS' True Name for them is communicated) but to recognize the Incommunicable & Uniquely Individual nature of each ones experience of this Central & Universal Goal of the Great Work, the Attainment of the True Gnosis. Nevertheless this Great Goal can be pointed to & suggested in many ways, until one stops looking at the pointer and Sees what is being pointed to! Therefore here are some of the Names by which the Holy Guardian Angel is foreshadowed (though mostly bright, anthropomorphic & male these are conventions and again not necessarily true-for-all):

Holy Guardian Angel (HGA):
Daemon, Daimonos (God, Fate, Genius, Destiny, Devil), Adonai (The Lord), Agoeides: (The Dawn Light), Emergent Awareness, Solar Consciousness, Aiwass-Shaitan, Asar-Un-Nefer (Myself made Perfect), Horus-Set, Sun behind the Sun, Heru-Ra-Ha:

Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Par-Kraat, Crowned & Conquering Child, Ptah-Apo-Phrasz-Ra (The Creative Motion of the Sun - An Identity (Hadit) wrapped in the Dragon of Being (Nuit) and so Manifested as a Sun (Ra-Hoor-Khuit)), Solar-Phallic Identity, Akephalon (Bornless One), Silent/Secret -Self -Center -Lover, Anima/Animus, Hidden God, Higher Genius, True Self, True Will (Dynamic Aspect of the Free Creative Will), Androgynous Alien (Gnostic God), Heart Girt with a Serpent (HGS), Egg wrapped in a Serpent, Archaios Ophis (Ancient Serpent), Superconsciousness (Illumination), Lucidity, Nous (Divine Mind), Neshamah (Divine Breath): Kether-Chokhmah-Binah, Yechidah (The Only One): Kether, Bindu, Atman, Ipsissimus, Abrasax (Two in One), Baphomet (Baptism of Wisdom): Hieroglyph of Arcane Perfection, Divine/Cosmic Consciousness: Lucifer - Indra - Krishna - Christ - Quetzalcoatl - Apollo - Adonis - Osiris - Odin - Buddha - Thammuz - Mithras - Dionysus - Prometheus - Shiva - Set - Satan (All Sun Gods, Dying/Reborn-Child Gods, &/or Gods of Transcendence)
and/or whatever is to the individual the Sign & Being of his or her Inmost Aspiration to Truth!

(see Great Work, Eschaton, & HGA page for new related material)

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Occult Theology & Rituals of WOGSS

(See Middle of Page for New Rituals)

In Tenebrous Generascitur Lux

Embrace Your Shadow & Shed on it Light

Whores of Goddess Scientists (WOGSS) Whoreship Our Lady Babalon as the Open Gate to the Unknown, to the Other Side, to the Outer Regions of Inner Space, which is called Hell, and is, to us, All of Existence, outside the limited local awareness of consensual reality! WOGSS are Alien Outsiders, Strangers, & other Unknown Anomalous Outcasts. Our Spawn are PolyWogss, Amphibious Transformers. Our Holy Word is "Shalu", a Babylonian Word for the Under World and a Verb meaning "to Ask", i.e.. "to Question" or "Doubt". To Enter the Unknown one has only to Question the so-called "known". To Doubt and Inquire beyond the accepted answers leads to Liberation in the Wilderness of Mysteries, where there is no law beyond do what thou wilt, and which is fearfully called "HELL" by the Obedient: the Unknown Country of the Self. This is the Key to the Gate of Initiation. We, practicing Spiritual Whoredom, desire Gnosis & Understanding through multiple Religious and Spiritual Practices & Experiences. We accept & Unite both the Carnal and the Spiritual, & impose no arbitrary distinction between them, nor any limitation on either. We welcome the Atavistic Resurgence of the Ancient Archetypes, now seen as Devil-Gods by the civilized, and the Archaic Revival of the Primal shamanic Stellar-Gnosis. We are ourselves Transcendental Polytheists, Heathen Luciferians, & Scientific Illuminists of the Left Hand Path, which is the First Path of the Original Mysteries of Being & Chaos, and the Primal Power of the Body!

Beyond Satanism

WOGSS are not Satanists, anti-social, or ego-oriented. Our "Gods" are transcendent & not "persons" as, say, Jehovah or Set are believed, by their followers, to be. Our Deities are expressed as personal metaphors of higher transcendent, and so inexpressible, realities. WOGSS worship "in the Names of the Mother & the Sun & the Holy Devil". This Mother is "Draconia-Babalon-Tiamaat", the Primeval Dragon of Chaos, Night & the Infinite Oceans of Space-Time. "She" speaks as the Star-Goddess NUIT in The Book of the Law, saying "Since I am Infinite Space & the Infinite Stars thereof, do ye also thus. Bind nothing! Let there be no difference made among you between any one thing & any other thing; for thereby there cometh hurt. But whoso availeth in this, let him be the chief of all!" She is balanced by her equal opposite, and Infinitely Transcendent complement HADIT, who calls himself, in The Book of the Law, "the winged Secret Flame that burns in every heart of man & in the core of every Star." & the "Winged Snake of Light.... the Secret Serpent coiled about to spring..." & says "I am the Snake that giveth knowledge & delight & bright glory, & stir the hearts of men with drunkenness.... I am alone; there is no god where I am" He tells us to "Remember... to be me, to follow the love of Nu in the Star-lit Heaven." We clearly see, as Aleister Crowley wrote in Magick in Theory & Practice, Hadit as Lucifer-Satan, as the God Within us, whose Center is Everywhere, just as we identify Nuit with Draconia-Tiamaat, the Goddess All About us, whose Circumference is Nowhere.

The Possibilities are Endless

Our Lady Babalon has no outer Law or God (and so is called "Anarchist" & "Devilish") as she is a Self-willed Whore who is freely self-given to All and taken by None, and She is, as it were, the Gateway between the Ultimate Reality (Nuit, Draconia, TAO) and the manifestation of That Absolute into material duality (the World the Flesh & the Devil). We are Existence, and are the Symbol for That which is beyond all existence. We therefore have no fear to declare the Satanick Assertion of the True Self (not the false human ego) as the Highest Knowable Truth, the True Will from Within, which Goes onward forever into the Unknown, which enters every Gate and ever seeks to penetrate the Secret Center of Eternal Mystery! Satan (Our Secret Self) desires Babalon (All the Infinite Unknown Possibilities of Being), & the two in ecstasy become a new One, which until It becomes perfectly None, is still incomplete until it again attains Union with Every potential Opposite Other. The Spiritual Whoredom of Babalon is the Key to Power, Ecstasy, Liberation, & Evolution in every World. The method is: Transgression, Transcendence, & Transmission. to Step Across (all boundaries & Gateways), to Assimilate the Forbidden & Unknown into a new Reality, & to Broadcast the Revelations of the New Territory that has been Discovered. Always by "Love under Will". Eternal striving for the Absolute is the Birth-right of every Devil-Child of Draconia!

Daemonic Diversity

We are siblings of the Luciferic Double-Light of Set-Horus, brightly beaming through the Sun-Beast 666, unto the Great Whore of Babalon, Queen of Heaven & Hell! We are passionate, desperate disciples of the Devil, not the Christian Anti-god, but the Archetype of earlier forms which the Christians distorted: the Double God of Light in Darkness, All-Devourer, All Begetter as Pan, Speech in Silence as Heru-Ra-Ha, Goat-Whore of the Black Sabbaths of the Witches, Devil-Angel as Star-Snake Hadit, Bisexual Beast-God Baphomet, Prometheus the Defyer, Shiva the Destroyer-Creator, Dionysus, Horned God of Pleasure, Rebellion & Cruel Wilderness, & all the Dark Tricksters & Instigators of Change (Not, however, the "Qliphoth" which are merely the unbalanced & distorted reflections, the "shells", of the Divine Qualities) But Beyond even this is a principle of pregnant Nothingness, Ultimatelessness, which is Unknown as being beyond the Duality of Being or Knowing. Called TAO by the wise, It is called by us the Great Black Dragon of Primordial Chaos, the Great None of the Night of Time, who "with Her tail churneth the Slime of Existence and from the foam thereof maketh Stars!" Her Names are Infinite but to us She is Draconia, Tiamaat, Babalon, Leviathan, Kali, Eris-Discordia, Ereshkegal, Shakti, & above all Nuit! This Goddess in all Her forms, & Her Devil-Child in all of His are our central Metaphors of Whoreship, Ultimate Godforms of our Spiritual Whoredom!

Paradigm Recontextualization

Our Dragon Goddess & Devil-Child God are not conceived of as individual entities or personalities, they precede and "compose" actual existence and so to us are the Absolute Negative & in combination create the Absolute All. They produce (both in combination & division) a "Child", the Single spark of the Big Bang which instantly becomes All of Existence from Nothing, expanding eternally in Infinite Multiplicity, continually creating every instant all of the energies & forces around & in us! The One Child becomes Its/Our existence in duality as the Twin-Gods Horus -Set, the positive & negative polarities of manifested being. Horus/Set is the God behind All Gods, the source of the creation & destruction of all dualistic manifestations of His Mothers' Unmanifest Possibilities. So also we, by Willing to Unite with (love) all opposites, (via Spiritual Whoredom) whoreship both the Dark & the Light, & attain that "Rapture of Union that Destroys". This is Union with the Devil or Goddess, Transcendental Illumination, Liberation, Initiation, or however you choose to designate the "Great Work". Nevertheless the Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon is the first/next step. Balance & Purify yourself, the lower human personality, & then Unite yourself with that One Divine Being that is for you alone. Then, made whole with your True Self, the Goddess Universe awaits your Enlightened enjoyment! Divine Union & Sexual Union are identical mirror images, just as the Spirit & the Flesh Unite, as God &

Beast, in Us. We are existence, & we are the form of, or symbol for, That beyond existence!

An Adoration of Babalon!

(adapted from Crowleys' "The Vision & the Voice: Liber 418)
(do with Full Visualizations from Text)

Glory unto the Holy Grail, that is the Sacred Vessel of Our Lady the Scarlet Woman, in whom is all power given, Mystery of Mystery, Babalon the Beautiful, Great Mother of Abominations, Bride of Chaos, that rideth upon Our Lord the Beast!

By Thy Murders and Fornications Thou seduceth the Worlds. Thou hast Given Thyself to everything that liveth, & hath become a partaker in its Mystery, for in that Union Thou didst Understand, therefore art Thou called Understanding, O Babalon, Lady of Night!

O Babalon, Babalon, Thou Mighty Mother that rideth upon the Crowned Beast, & beareth the Cup of the Blood of the Saints, let me be drunken upon the Wine of Thy Fornications, let Thy kisses wanton me unto Death, that even I, Thy Cup-bearer, may Understand!

In Nomine Babalon! It's All Right Here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

Luciferic Arising

1). Perform Thelemic Qabalistic Cross: (Touch Forehead & vibrate "Soi", touch Heart & vibrate "Aiwass", touch Genitals & vibrate "O Phallos", touch Right Shoulder & vibrate "Ischuros", touch Left Shoulder & vibrate "Eucharistos", clasp hands or hold Wand at Heart & vibrate "IAO" three times, as a long drawn out vibration while visualizing the Light descending brilliantly from White Crown Sphere, to Golden Heart Sphere and to Purple Genital Sphere with the three syllables of IAO)
2).Strongly push with your hands the Light down to a brilliant Green or Black Sphere at your Feet and then vibrate "Shalu" while taking One Step forward with Left Foot.
3).Now the Light that you brought Down with "IAO" you now shoot back Up as you Spiritually Ascend with It back into Space, as follows. Slowly raise your arms like Wings, out to your sides & up above your head, palms outward, straining straight up while vibrating "Sh" at Feet, "Ay" at Genitals, "Tah" at Heart, "Na" at Crown & "SSS" out into Space above you, (Sh-Ay-Ta-Na-S= Satanas). Visualize yourself rushing up out of your body along a column of Light, piercing all barriers, streaking through Space, entering the Infinite. Continue until the strain of Ascending becomes unbearable or you reach the Ultimate.
4). Return directly (i.e. without "descending") to your body while taking one step back with Left Foot, crossing arms down in front of you and then out and back, generally with a strong exhale, & finally making the Sign of Silence (forefinger held to lips) while vibrating "Hoor-Paar-Kraat".

5). Re-orient yourself in the physical while maintaining Awareness of the Spiritual Level you perceived while Arising. Bring the Light forth as you so Will. If successful you are now an Avatar of Lucifer! Do Thy Will!

Hymn to Lucifer (Aleister Crowley)

Ware, nor of good nor ill, what aim hath act?
.......Without its climax, death, what savour hath
Life? an impeccable machine, exact
.......He paces an inane and pointless path
to glut brute appetites, his sole content
.......How tedious were he fit to comprehend
Himself! More, this our noble element
.......Of fire in nature, love in spirit unkenned
Life hath no spring, no axel, and no end.

His body a blood-ruby radiant
.......With noble passion, sun souled Lucifer
Swept through the dawn colossal, swift aslant
.......On Eden's imbecile perimeter.
He blessed nonentity with every curse
.......And spiced with sorrow the dull soul of sense.
Breath life into the sterile universe,
.......With Love and Knowledge drove out innocence
The Key of Joy is disobedience.

New Rituals Below!

Text of the Invocation of HORUS at the Equinox of the Gods

(To be performed before a window open to the E. or N. without Incense. The room to be filled with jewels, but only diamonds to be worn. Use Sword, unconsecrated, & 44 pearl beads to be told. Stand. Bright daylight at 12:30 noon. Lock doors. White Robes. Bare feet. Be very loud. Saturday. Use the Sign of Apophis & Typhon.

CONFESSION

Unprepared & uninvoking Thee, I, ________, am here in Thy Presence - for Thou art Everywhere, O Lord Horus! - to confess humbly before Thee my neglect & scorn of Thee.

How shall I humble myself enough before Thee? Thou art the mighty & unconquered Lord of the Universe. I am a spark of Thine unutterable Radiance.

How should I approach Thee? but Thou art Everywhere.

But Thou hast graciously deigned to call me unto Thee, to this Exorcism of Art, that I may be Thy servant, Thine Adept, O Bright One, O Sun of Glory! Thou hast called me - should I not then hasten to Thy Presence?

With unwashed hands therefore I come unto Thee, and I lament my wandering from Thee - But Thou knowest!

Yea, I have done evil!

If one blasphemed Thee, why should I therefore forsake Thee? But Thou art the Avenger; all is with Thee.

I bow my neck before Thee; and as once Thy sword was upon it so am I in Thy hands. Strike if Thou wilt, spare if Thou wilt: but accept me as I am.

My trust is in Thee: shall I be confounded? This Ritual of Art; this Forty and Fourfold Invocation; this Sacrifice of Blood - these I do not comprehend.

It is enough if I obey Thy decree; did Thy fiat go forth for my eternal misery, were it not my joy to execute Thy Sentence on myself?

For why? For that All is in Thee and of Thee; it is enough if I burn up in the intolerable glory of Thy presence.

Enough! I turn toward Thy Promise.

Doubtful are the Words: Dark are the Ways: but in Thy Words and Ways is Light. Thus then now as ever, I enter the Path of Darkness, if haply so I may attain the Light!

Hail!

I - Aleph

Strike, strike the master Chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

(At every "Thee, I invoke," throughout the whole Ritual, give the Sign of Apophis and Typhon)

A. Thou only-begotten-child of Osiris Thy Father and Isis Thy Mother. He that was slain; She that bore Thee in Her womb flying from the Terror of the Water. Thee, Thee, I invoke!

2. O Thou whose Apron is of flashing white, whiter than the Forehead of the Morning! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

B. O Thou who hast formulated Thy Father and made fertile Thy Mother! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

3. O Thou whose garment is of golden glory with the azure bars of sky! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

C. Thou, who didst avenge the Horror of Death; Thou the slayer of Typhon! Thou who didst lift Thine arms and the Dragons of Death were as dust; Thou who didst raise Thine Head and the Crocodile of Nile was abased before Thee! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

4. O Thou whose Nemyss hideth the Universe with night, the impermeable Blue! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

D. Thou who travellest in the Boat of Ra, abiding at the Helm of the Aftet boat and of the Sektet boat! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

5. Thou who bearest the Wand of Double Power! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

6. Thou about whose presence is shed the darkness of Blue Light, the unfathomable glory of the outermost Aethyr, the utravelled, the unthinkable immensity of Space. Thou who concentrest all the 30 Aethyrs in One darkling Sphere of Fire! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

II - Beth

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

1. By Thy name of Ra, I invoke Thee, Hawk of the Sun, the glorious One!

2. By Thy name of Harmachis, youth of the Brilliant Morning, I invoke Thee!

3. By Thy name Mau, I invoke Thee, Lion of the Midday Sun!

4. By Thy name Tum, Hawk of the Even, crimson splendor of the Sunset, I invoke Thee!

5. By Thy name Keph-Ra I invoke Thee, O beetle of the hidden Mystery of Midnight!

A. By Thy nameHeru-pa-Kraat, Lord of Silence, Beautiful Child that standest on the Dragons of the Deep, I invoke Thee!

B. By Thy name Apollo, I invoke Thee, O man of Strength and splendor, O poet, O father!

C. By Thy name of Phoebus, that drivest Thy chariot through the Heaven of Zeus, I invoke Thee!

D. By Thy name of Odin I invoke Thee, O warrior of the North, O Renown of the Sagas!

E. By Thy mane of Jeheshua, O child of the Flaming Star, I invoke Thee!

F. By Thine own, Thy Secret Name Hoori, Thee I invoke!

The Names are Five.

The Names are Six.

Eleven are the Names!

Abrahadabra!

Behold! I stand in the midst. Mine is the symbol of Osiris; to Thee are mine eyes ever turned. Unto the Splendor of Geburah, the Magnificence of Chesed, the Mystery of Daath, thither I lift up mine eyes. This have I sought, and I have sought the Unity: hear Thou me!

III - Gimel

1. Mine is the Head of the Man, and my insight is keen as the Hawk's. By my head I invoke Thee!

A. I am the only-begotton child of my Father and Mother. By my body I invoke Thee!

2. About me shine the Diamonds of Radiance white and pure. By their brightness I invoke Thee!

B. Mine is the Red Triangle Reversed, the Sign given of none, save it be of Thee, O Lord! By the Lamen I invoke Thee!

3. Mine is the garment of white sewn with gold, the flashing abbai that I wear. By my Robe I invoke Thee!

C. Mine is the Sign of Apophis and Typhon! By the Sign I invoke Thee!

4. Mine is the turban of white and gold, and mine the blue vigor of the intimate air! By my Crown I invoke Thee!

D. My mystic sigils travel on the Bark of the Akasha; so run I after Thee in Thy car of Glory. By the Spells I invoke Thee!

5. I bear the Wand of Double Power in the Voice of the Master - Abrahadabra! By the Word I invoke Thee!

E. Mine are the dark-blue waves of music in the song that I made of old to invoke Thee -

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

By the Song I invoke Thee!

6. In my hand is Thy Sword of Revenge; let it strike at Thy bidding! By the Sword I invoke Thee!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

Back to Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, & Instructions
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Daemonolatriea : The Grimiores of Daemonic Whoreship

Presenting the Daemonolatriea, a Wild Funhouse Soul-Mirror for the post Y2K Evolutionary Apotheosis!   You'll gasp with disbelief when you actually see this stunning series of Arcane publications: the Daemonolatriea: our semi-annual, 40+ page, self-printed chapbook Journals of Magickal Chaos, Occult Rebellion & Art for Babalon!

Free Your Mind & Soul!

Each issue is a Super-Suggestive Collage/Collection of Occult Art, Axioms, Affirmations, Ideas, Icons, Images, Fetishes, Rituals, & Teachings from Magical Belief Systems of All Ages! Automatically Inspires Instant Illumination! - in those who are "ready"! Liberate your mind from old false beliefs and illusions & install your choice of unlimited new ones! Become your own High Priest of the only "One True God" that really matters: YOURSELF! Let us give you the spiritual tools to put Your Soul back into your own hands! You must find for yourself your True Will, & do it & only it, or be unconsciously swept away in the meaningless busyness of a predefined -or undefined- life! (a fate truly worse then death!)

Who are WOGSS!?

The Daemonolatriea is created and distributed (with help from friends and Allies Worldwide) by Rev, Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus, alter-ego of Godfrey H. Slayne (JHS), Arch Operations Instigator of WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan", an Independent Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic, Thelemic, Psychick, Scientists." We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous; Anti-racist, Anti-stateist, & Anti-dogmatic; and we pursue the Antinomian Path of Scientific Illuminism! We have no open membership, but publish our Art & Ideas to Trade with & Inspire Independent Minds everywhere!

Spiritual Revolution!

Each issue of our Daemonolatriea is an Amazing Artistic Announcement of Spiritual Warfare: a Relentless Super-Unnatural Assault on parochial, paternalistic, & exclusionist restrictions on Individual Free Will in the Realm of the Spiritual, Sexual, Social & Trans-Personal expressions of Humankinds Infinite Possibilities!

Take Back Your Soul!

Every issue contains concentrated Keys of Praeternatural Power & Understanding available together in no other single place ever! Each page is a vibrant, dense collage a thousands of distinct Spiritual Symbols & Magick Sigils, Goddesses, Demons, Aliens, Concepts, & Chaos, together with many Diagrams, Table, Charts, & Lists of essential Symbolic & Qabalistic Data! In all they expound a total system of Occult Science & Alternative Religious Experience, for those who are ready, including many Esoteric Spiritual Practices we dare you to try!   We will blow your mind away!

Exploding Cultural Barriers

The First in our continuing series is the WOGSS No-Rulesbook, An Alien Art Anticodebook, the Anticryptographa!   This preliminary volume provides direct visual/conceptual access to the Deepest & Strangest areas of Magickal (Un)Belief, including but not nearly limited to Lucid dreaming, Alien Communion, Sacred Whoredom, Satanick Science, Personal Power, & the Great Work of personal & Worldwide Illumination! All following issues are the working Grimiores of the actual Daemonolatriea   series, the Game Itself!

Embrace the Magick Within!

Each Daemonolatriea Grimiore contains diverse instructions for personal experience with Ritual/Ceremonial, Sexual, Goetic, Gnostic, Kabalistic, Enochian, Thelemic, Satanick, Shamanic, Astrological, Pagan, Chaoist, Draconian, Cthonian, Tantric, Voudon, Alien, &/or many more Polycultural Spiritual Practices to bring the Transcendent Mysteries back into your own life!   Each contains numerous Invocations, Adorations, Conjurations, Incantations, Mantras, Meditations, Illuminations, & Initiations, & every element necessary to create Rites & Spells for any purpose you desire! Enter the Unknown & claim your Human Birthright of Communion with the Higher Powers of the Universe! Confront your own Gods & Demons personally & make them serve your True Will!

Be Aware! Be Ready! An Apocalyptic Awakening is Approaching!

Discover Hidden Clues to Surviving the Soul Stunning Wonders & Horrors soon coming to you at the Apotheosis of Human History! It's Armageddon or Our Awakening! So, to help you get even more Info you won't find elsewhere but will need, each individual issue of the Daemonolatriea includes the Total Ads Listings, including 100's of Internet Web Sites & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads, just updated July 2000, for the most incredible Occult, Revolutionary, Anarchic, Sacred, Satanic, Sexual, & Radical Activist Groups & Individuals on the Planet! (and you can send in yours for free now!)

Orders

Each issue is 40+, 81/2 by 11" pages, now for only$7.00, two for $13.00 or any three issues for $18.00 in cash, trade, stamps, or checks made to "cash". Get free strange surprises with every Order! Send all orders, questions, suggestions, contacts, clippings, chaos, & art donations to:

WOGSS, c/o Rev. Adtrian Cain, 1032 Irving St., PMB#906, San Francisco, CA, 94122, USA

E-mail: RevAdtrianCain93@cosmiverse.com

Explicit Graphics & Ideas, Adults 18+ Only!

Get prepared or be scared as life becomes increasingly bizarre from here on out!   Take a chance and learn to think in new ways with the incredible "Rorschach tests" of the Daemonolatriea!

The Future is Now!

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open LetteR to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & InstructionsS
Theology & Rituals of WOGSS
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Sacred Geometry:
(these from: Interactive Thelemic Study Resources Clip Art)

And Sacred Biology:

Stele666, Stele of Revealing, the Link with Antiquity, (Front) showing NUIT arched over all, HADIT as Winger Sphere at Her center, Ra-Hoor-Khuit (Horus) enthroned as Lord of the Aeon, and the Prince-Priest the Beast 666, as Ankh af na Khonsu, making offerings to Our Lord Horus. From Egyptian 26th Dynasty.

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, instructions
WOGSS Theology & rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & ordering
Wild Writings
Key Links

Amazing Occult Links

New Links!

New Paranormal Links

Marik's Z(Cluster) Page (Main Chaos Magick Site)

Shub (Chaotic)

The Chaos Matrix (Fenwick)

Death and Hell (Black Chaos Magick)

Havoc23 (Chaos Magick)

Matrix of Milosh (Chaos)

Veedubs' Tarot (Chaos Tarot Cards)

Phil Hine (a5e. At the Edge of Chaos)

Thee Sigil Garden (Sigils, A.O.S., T.O.P.Y.)

UK I.O.T. (Illuminates of Thanateros)

Thee Process

Temple of Set (Ancient post-Satanists)

Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema WebRing

Villa of the Mysteries (Tim Marony, Thelema)

Interactive Thelemic Study Resources (Much useful material, including some of the free clip art on this site!)

Diamondstar 418 (Beautiful Thelemic Art & Ideas)

Thelema Zone

Ecclesia Gnostica Universalis (Thelemic Gnostics)

Hermetic Alchemical Order of the QBLH

Blue Honey (Much Psychedelics, Gaia, Science, Spirituality, Time, Image Gallery)

Illuminati.nl (Section 23, OTO & all kinds of Occulture & Info)

TruthBeKnown.com (Wonderful Astro-theological Truth about the Pagan origins, & Lies of, Judaism, X-tianity and Islam)

Christianburner.com (More as above)

Gnostic Friends Network (Alternative X-tianity)

Mass of the Mother (Gnostic Church of St. Mary Magdalene)

Anathema Books (Many Heavy Occult Titles)

Temple of Hecate (Greek Goddess Oracle)

Alamantra (Occult Band and Links)

Old Hornies Cunning Ways

Black Fire Pandemonium (Russian Satanism)

Devils Pitch Fork Society (F.C.o.S. Associates)

The 600 Club (Satanic Online Community)

Dark Arena (Dark Erotica Articles & Links)

Occult World Ledger (Occult, Wiccan & Paranormal Web)

SorcerySearch (Occult & Magick Search Engine)

Hermeticka (Cerimonial Magick Web-Store)

DrBruceGoldberg.com (Hypnotherapist)

New UFO, Crop Circles and Related Phenomena Links

UFOCenter.com

Aliendestiny.com (Dan Irrerra)

Blackvault.com (Freedom of Info Files)

DisclosureProject.org (UFO files)

Earthfiles.com (Linda Moulton Howe)

Ezekiel.org (Self Mastery Earth Institute)

Facadenovel.com (X-tian UFO opponents)

KathleenKeating.com (Anti-UFO X-tian)

LivingEnergyUniverse.com (Transformation)

RoswellRods.com (Flying Living Rods)

SacredUniverse.com (Cosmology of the Bagavata Purana)

Sollog.com (Conspiracy + Predictions)

JourneysBeyond.com (All your favorite conspiracy investigators)

Montauk Project (Conspiracies in Conspiracies)

Other

Great Older Links

Xendaths Links (Lilith, Thelema, Xaos, Eastern, Gnostic, More)

Thelema-Eros Christo-Paganism Ring

Aleister Crowley Foundation

Antichrist's Haven

First Church of Satan (Not LaVey's CoS)

The Satanic Society (FCoS, Thelema, Wicca, Vampires, Temple of Set, Alchemy, Druids, Necronomicon, Occult Library, Order Of Shaitan)

Pagan, LHP, Satanism, Druidry, Shamanism, Thelema, Wicca, Psych, Parapsych

Society for the Promulgation of the Religion of Thelema Webring

Quickening News, Art Bell (End-Times News stories)

Outside the Lightcone, Mark Pesce (Incredible Important Information!)

Proceedings of the Friesian School, Fourth Series (Advanced Philosophy)

Alternative Religions

Crystals' Many Metaphysical & Scientific Links

G. M. Kelly, The Sword of Horus

UFOs & Religion

Links to International Caliphate-OTO Bodies

Church of the SubGenius

Many Discordian & Related Links

Home Page
Banners
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
The Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings

(Links Below Still Being Corrected, Don't Use Yet)

Autonomatrix.net (Chaos Magick)

Pandemonaeon (The Chaos Aeon)

AutonomatriX (Chaotes)

Thelemic Golden Dawn

ShadowBeings.com (REALity Unveiled. Shadow People Sightings)

Blackmagick.com (Many More Occult Links)

UFOMag.co.uk (Graham Bertsol)

UFOXFiles.com

CropCircleConnection.com

InvisibleCircles.de (Crop Circles)

UndiscoveredCountry.com (Whitley Strieber)

Master Perdurabo Joeri Offecier's Bookmarks (Over 800 links:
http://huizen.dds.nl/~joerio's_list.html

Lucifer(a) Research Group
http"//.netaccess.on.ca/~irg/

http://www.escd.com.8880/beastbay/index.html

http://www.xoasis.com/~hrumachis/recomended_websites.html

http://www.xoasis.com/~hrumachis/

New Solar Ritual as of 02-02-02!
and related
Qabalistic Tables of Correspondences,
followed by useful First Principles of Self Transformation!

Liber Resh vel Helios - 2: Expanded Adorations of the Sun.

Initial Adoration:

Dawn, to East, Golden Light, Give Sign of Air.
Recite: "Hail unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Rising, even unto Thee who art Ra in Thy Strength, who travelest over the Heavens in Thy Bark at the Dawn-hour of the Sun! Tahuti standeth in His Splendor at the Prow, and Ra-Hoor abideth in His Glory at the Helm! Hail unto Thee from the abodes of the Midnight Sun of Khephra!"

Noon, to South, Fire-Light, Give Sign of Fire. Recite as above but with : "Ahathoor, Triumphing, Beauty, Noon-hour, from the abodes of the Rising Sun of Ra!"

Sunset, to West, Sky-Blue Light, Give Sign of Water. "Atum, Descending, Joy, Setting, from the abodes of the Noon-day Sun of Ahathoor!"

Midnight, to North, Earth-Green or Black Light, Give Sign of Earth. "Khephra, Hiding, Silence, Midnight-hour, from the abodes of the Setting Sun of Atum!"

Give and Hold Elemental Sign through initial Adoration, while assuming the God-form of the Sun in that Quarter (i.e., as if the You & the God had the same form, a Human with the Head of a Hawk, Cow, Man, and Beetle respectively, & were both giving that Sign in Adoration of THAT which is beyond both), until giving Signs of the Enterer and Silence (with Names of Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Paar-Kraat) and assuming those God-forms, right after initial Adoration. Continue with rest of Adoration in your own Charged Body of Light.

Recite "Strike, strike the Master Chord; Draw, draw the Flaming Sword; Crowned Child and Conquering Lord, Horus, Avenger!" (Ring Bell & Draw Sword. Can draw Circle over head with "Crowned Child", Line down to Yesod (9) (and projected to Malkuth (10)) with "Conquering Lord", back up to Tipharet (6) with "Horus" and up/out to Infinity while giving Sign of Apophis & Typhon ("X" Sign) with "Avenger". Thus extended upward continue with 1st of the 6 Adorations below. (Or one can then return with Sign of Silence & "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", for very fast "Thelemic Cross" anytime or use another Thelemic Cross with nearly the same form but with a different recitation and beginning which follows at the 6th Solar Adoration. (and see "Liber V vel Reguli")).

Recite all 6 Solar Adoration verses (in bold) from Obverse of Stele of Revealing, with Visualizations, (in smaller print) and Rousing of the Citadels (of the Middle Pillar) with the respective Element, with the resulting Charging of the Body of Light or whole Aura as a Star or Sun, by Light Radiated from the Filament or Axis of the Middle Pillar. The Ritual thus circulates the Solar Light down to the material Universe, the physical body, and the whole sphere of the individuals life, as follows:

Active Spirit centering on Brilliant White Kether-Point (1) at Crown of Head. (See an Infinite
"Above, the gemmed azure is The naked splendor of Nuit; Circle spiral in on Brilliant Point just above
She bends in ecstasy to kiss the secret ardors of Hadit. head. Point becomes Winged Globe
The winged globe, the starry blue, Are mine, O Ankh-af-na-Khonsu! among Infinite Stars)

Air Element as Bright Yellow Diamond-Prism at Daath (11) at Throat. (Dawn. Ego-Mind. See link
"I am the Lord of Thebes, and I The inspired forth-speaker of Mentu; between Supernals
For me unveils the veiled sky, The self-slain Ankh-af-na-Khonsu Above, and Tipharet
Whose words are truth. I invoke, I greet Thy presence, O Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" Below)

Fire Element as Rose-Gold Sun-Heart at Tipharet (6) at Solar Plexis. (Noon. Heart-center. Kether
"Unity uttermost showed! I adore the might of Thy breath, expressed in Tipharet as Center of Supreme and terrible God. Who makest the gods and death whole system & "Center stage"
To tremble before Thee:-- I, I adore Thee!" for Adoration Of Holy Guardian Angel)

Water Element as Indigo-Violet Orb at Yesod (9) at Genitals. (Sunset. Seat of Power (Id).
"Appear on the throne of Ra! Open the ways of the Khu! Follow progression up from 9 to Lighten the ways of the Ka! The ways of the Khabs run through 6 to 11 to 1, then reflected

To stir me or still me! Aum! Let it fill me!" or connected back down the Total M.P. to 10 at "Aum")

Earth Element as if you were standing on Horizontal Equal Armed Cross of Yellow, Blue, Black, & Red, (in E, W, N, & S arms) centered on Brilliant Polychromatic Orb At feet (10).
"The Light is mine; its rays consume Me: I have made a secret door (Midnight. Body.
Into the House of Ra and Tum, of Khephra and of Ahathoor. Final link to This World. Draw
I am thy Theban, O Mentu, The prophet Ankh-af-na-Khonsu!" Cross from E to W & N to S)

Passive Spirit Energizing Middle Pillar & Shining Out to Aura defined by "Infinite" Circle drawn by hand over head.
"By Bes-na-Maut my breast I beat; By wise Ta-Nech I weave my spell (Beat breast to
Show Thy star-splendor, O Nuit! Bid me within Thine House to dwell, affirm M.P.. Weave Spell. Use
O winged snake of light, Hadit! Abide with me, Ra-Hoor-Khuit!" "Fig" sign to draw Circle of Light over head with "Nuit" and Line of Light down to 9 (and projected down to10) with "Hadit". Then project Light back up to Heart with "Ra", then up to "X" Sign with "Hoor" and hold while projecting Outward to the Infinite with "Khuit!". Return Body of Light to physical body by giving Sign of Silence with the Name "Hoor-Paar-Kraat", thus doing a Thelemic Cross again at the end as at the beginning (just prior to the 6 Solar Adorations)).

Lastly to seal the Current of Solar Light (666) recite:
"The Letters are Five, the Letters are Six, Eleven are the Letters: Abrahadabra!"

Notes:

The appropriate Pentagram and/or the Solar Unicursal Hexagram may be added prior to Initial Adoration before giving (and holding) Elemental Sign. Also the Pentagrams for each Element may be drawn or projected at beginning of the respective Adorations from the Stele as one Rouses the Citadels of the Middle Pillar, from Active Spirit at Kether, to Air at Daath, to Fire at Tipharet, to Water at Yesod, to Earth at Malkuth, and to Passive Spirit as the whole Aura/Body of Light.

Also the "A Ka Dua.." Adoration may be added after "Unity uttermost showed..." as a second, deeper, Adoration at Tipharet to reflect "the Sun behind the Sun", and to make the total Adorations Seven instead of (actually "as well as") Six to reflect the Goddess through and above the Suns.

Also a last Adoration may be added just before "The Letters are 5...", as from the Gnostic Mass: "Thou who art I beyond all I am...", or the credo from Liber Reguli: "I also am a Star in Space, unique and Self-existent...", or any that Adores the Holy Guardian Angel as ones True Self.

The order of Active and Passive Spirit may be reversed if desired, but the order of the Elements used here is that of the apparent cycle of the Sun through Day & Night, and of the Ritual Circle when moving Deosil, clockwise, and of the Chakras from Daath to Malkuth (all below the Abyss), and (with Spirit first and last) of the 6 verses of the Solar Adorations from the Stele of Revealing, and of the first 6 "steps" of the OTO, Minerval to Perfect Initiate, and so gives the correct order of the Elements from the Thelemic Point of View, replacing the usual "IHVH" order of Fire, Water, Air, Earth, when Worshiping Our Lord in the Macrocosm, the Sun. It shows a continuous Cycle rather then a linear sequence. The Whole is to be assimilated by Meditation following the Ritual.

Solar (Microcosmic, Terrestrial, Winds) Cycle Correspondences (w/ Pre & Post)

(0.)	1.	2.	3.	4.	(5.)
(Spirit)	Air	Fire	Water	Earth	(Spirit+Experience)
(Pre-being)	Dawn	Noon	Sunset	Midnight	(Post-being)
(None)	Spring	Summer	Fall	Winter	(All at Once)
(None)	1st Q.	Full Moon	3rd Q.	Dark Moon	(All at Once)
(Beforelife)	Birth	Life	Death	Afterlife	(Withdrawn from Cycle)
(Baseline)	Tension	Charge	Discharge	Relaxation	(Baseline)
(Above)	East	South	West	North	(Below)
(Ptah)	Ra-Hawk	Ahathor-Cow	Atum-Man	Kephra-Beetle	(Set)
(Amoun)	Shu	Heru	Isis	Set	(Nephthys)
(Nuit)	Hadit	Therion	Babalon	Nuit	(Hadit)
(Pre-Tarot)	Fool	Aeon	Hanged Man	Universe	(All Tarot Cards)
(Superconscious)	Inspiration	Lucidity	Ecstasy	Thought	(Subconsciousness)
(True Self)	Eye	Heart	Genitals	Feet	(Whole Body)
(Star)	Mind	Soul	Flesh	World	(Star+Experience)
(Kether)	Daath	Tiphareth	Yesod	Malkuth	(Whole Structure)

INITIATION:

(Pre Incarn), Man at First, Seed/Bindu, Babe Growing, Mature Adult, (New Man)

( ) Mere-hum Virgin Babe Beast (Initiate)

( ) - Hermes Dionysus Pan -

( ) Heirophant-V Hermit-I Fool- A Devil-O (Heirophant-V)

(Minerval-0) Initiation-I Consecration-II Devotion-III Exaltation-IV (Perfection-P.I.)

("Above the...) "I am the... "Unity utter... "Appear on... "The Light is... ("By Bes-na-Maut...)

For practical Tools to help you help yourself try the following!

First Principles

. Be Lucid, Seek Gnosis, Know Thyself, Thou Art That.

0. Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

00. Lift up Thyself. Love is the law, love under will.

000. In Nomine Babalon: It’s all-right here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

1. By Myself, I choose the Meaning I desire, and make it True.

2. I will remember my Kingship, Godhood, Star-self: "Be Thou Hadit"

3. I give Myself the Right/ Permission, to determine my Reality & my World however I Will.

4. I don’t need to remember/feel "that" right now, if not assisting my Will.

5. Disconnect from worries: Find one thing you can do to deal practically with Adversity (in the Greater Context of Ability) while consciously relaxing.

6. Be on the physical Now when stressed or anxious, not in past trauma or future worries.

7. Realize: Experience unfolds the way you respond to it,, & that the Meaning of things is in our attitude towards them.

8. Turn into the skid, feel your feelings, own your experiences, try to choose to be your real self.

9. Know that every mood/reality tunnel changes in time to another. Suffering passes, joys return.

10. What you think, your body believes, and will make you feel. Think Strength.

11. Prophecies of Success are also self-fulfilling; reject self-defeating statements, use affirmations & internal mental self-praise all day long.

12. Always do at least one more past when you want to stop, push past all limits, do 11 rather then 10 of anything, 23 rather then 20, 56 rather then 50, 111 rather then 100, etc.

13. Remember "in the Greater Context of" to resolve any apparent conflict/paradox at a higher linguistic meta-level, i.e. "Anger in the Greater Context of Acceptance", "Suffering in the Greater Context of Ecstacy", "Lies in the Greater Context of Truth", etc.

14. Let the Ritual (the Whole of Life) be ever unto Nuit. Aspire always to the absolute.

15. "By waking up in my Dreams I Inspire Revelation & Inform my Dreambody of Its True Intentions." "I see my hands in my Dreams, I Know I am Lucid Dreaming."

16. Invoke Often: First & Last Thelemic Godforms, Resh, Qoph, Babalon Adoration, Purification & Consecration, Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, Rousing of the Citadels/Middle Pillar Ritual, Mass of the Phoenix, Gnostic Mass, other Eucharists, etc.

17. Use deep steady breath, pranayama meditation, for emotional Tranquility.

18. Remember all ye that existence is pure joy; that all the sorrows are but as shadows; they pass and are done; but there is that which remains.

19. Fear not at all. Fear neither men nor gods nor Fates nor anything. Money fear not, nor laughter of the folk folly; nor any other power in heaven or upon the earth or under the earth. Nu is your refuge as Hadit your light, and I am the strength, force, vigor, of your arms.

20. Endure and Conquer.

Back to Home Page

Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Stay

Syzygys: False Dichotomies, or, Dualities Unified.
Compare & Contrast Symmetrical Relationships of Interpenetrating Complementary Opposites.

Intro:
Truth is a Three Edged Sword. It is the Dynamic Tension between "opposites" that creates the energy that powers Creative Change and Evolution. Opposites are always intrinsically related and progress to a Higher Synthesis. Crowley called it the "None - Two Orgiastic Dynamism". One must Transcend the Polarization of Ideas, even as they are grasped dualistically, and fight Dualistic Absolutism, also known as Binary Fascism, which is the tendency to insist on the (false) ultimate separation of "opposing" Points of View, Philosophies, Countries, Races or whatever. Do not regard either one side of any Duality as "good" or "evil" except in a limited (local) way, despite the Values given near the end of the list where I clearly favor the "Left" (Column & Philosophically).

Every Idea contains its own Opposite. Nothing is True save by the Contradiction contained within Itself. Below the Abyss contradiction is division, Above the Abyss contradiction is Unity. Correct every idea by implying the contradictory contained therein. Behold all opposites as necessary complements. Unite all apparent opposites in a Transcendent (Higher) Synthesis. Use the Dynamic Tension between Contraries to propel yourself beyond yourself. "Any idea not so equilibrated with its opposite is below the Abyss, is unbalanced and contains in itself an unmitigated duality or falsehood, & is to that extent qliphotic & dangerous." (Aleister Crowley)

"Every number is infinite; there is no difference." "Make no difference between any one thing and any other thing," "...if ye confound the space-marks, saying: They are one; or saying, They are many; ...then expect the direful judgments of Ra Hoor Khuit!" (The Book of the Law).

Don’t confuse the linguistic meta-levels. Deny false dichotomies (binary fascism, dualistic absolutism) by Uniting all opposites. Let every idea go forth as a triangle on the base of two opposites, making an apex transcending their contradiction in a higher harmony.

There is no Division between the Light & the Dark, Higher & Lower, Inner & Outer, etc.

Kether is in Malkuth and Malkuth is in Kether, after another manner. As Above, so below. (Principle of Fractile Symmetry, or Parallelism across all scales of Being.)

Ask: "when does "A" appear to be "B" ?", for any duality.

Remember: "in the Greater Context of" to resolve any apparent conflict/paradox at a higher linguistic meta-level, i.e. "Order in the Greater Context of Chaos", "Suffering in the Greater Context of Ecstasy", "Lies in the Greater Context of Truth", etc.

Keep in mind the following concepts: Nothing is "mutually exclusive", A is not A. Syncrisis: Combination of Opposites. Conjunction of Correspondents, Rhythmic Juxtaposition, Continuum of Contraries, Dualistic Symmetry, etc.

Some Contrary Principles or Antitheses may be "opposed" only on certain scales of meaning, in specific contexts, or along certain continuum, & may be found on the other Column, or opposite other Principles, in different contexts. Items are generally arranged vertically within categories according to similarity of concept in order to make the reasoning more apparent by comparison with nearby Pairs.

Finally, I have chosen Pairs which seemed the most significant to me according to the Deeper rather then the Shallower significance when appropriate, and so to be consistent with my own overall Understanding of the Multiverse at this time. Abrahadabra!

(Movement is phenomenologically from Left to Right, then Back from Right to Left ">". From Pre-Being (Chaos) to Being & back to Post-Being (UnderWorld), so that in one sense the Left Column is Both First & Last, Higher & Lower, with the Right Column the "Middle". This is a subtle point but need not trouble the ordinary Transcendental Researcher).

Column 0	Column 1
Primary Polar Pairs
TAO	TAO
TAO	Teh
TAO	Yin/Yang
Teh	Yin/Yang
Yin	Yang
Inner	Outer
Negative	Positive
Receptive	Active
Contraction	Expansion
Absorption	Projection
Female (),O	Male I,1
Dark/Night	Light/Day
Zero/Nothing	Two/Everything
Non-Being	Being
Being	Becoming
Boundless	Bounded
Left Side	Right Side
Off	On

Passive	Active
Matter	Energy
Unistic	Dualistic
Unity	Polarity
Simple	Complex
Chaos	Order
Unconditioned	Conditioned
Inconceivable	Conceivable
Infinite	Finite
Universal	Individual
Transcendent	Immanent
Non-Local	Local
Everywhere	One Place
Eternity	History
Timelessness	In Time
Simultaneous	Sequential
Holistic	Linear
Wholes	Parts
Diffuse	Focal
Macrocosm	Microcosm
Other World	This World
Past	Future
Space	Time
Matter	Motion
Enter	Exit
Reception	Expression
Essence	Existence
Other	Self
Object	Subject
Quality	Quantity

Initiated Religion & Occulture:

Involution	Evolution
Nemesis	Apotheosis
Meditational	Ceremonial
Mystical	Magickal
Mystery	Mundanity
Secret	Revealed
Unknown	Known
Sacred	Profane
Esoteric	Exoteric
Spiritual	Secular
Spirituality	Religion
Religion	Science
Transcendent	Grounded
Gnosis	Knowledge
Sunyata/Void	Maya/Illusion

Pleroma	Monad
Ain Soph (Nothing)	Kether (Big Bang)
Binah	Chokmah
Yesod (Foundation)	Tiphareth (Sun-Heart)
Malkuth (Universe)	Kether (Center)
Light	Sight
Khu (Light Body)	Khabs (Star Soul)
Triangle	Eye in the...)
Egg	Serpent
Goddess	Horned God
Maiden/Mother	Mate/Child
& Crone to God	& Father to Goddess
Circumference	Center
Nowhere	Everywhere
Infinite Circle	Omnipresent Point
Extension/Potentiality	Motion/Position
Infinite Expansion	Infinite Contraction
Nuit	Hadit
Anu	Adad
Isis (Sirius)	Osiris (Orion)
Ishtar	Tammuz
Anat	Baal
Nuit	Set-Horus
Hoor-Paar-Kraat	Ra-Hoor-Khuit
Set (Night Devil)	Horus (Sun God)
Aiwass - 418	Aiwaz - 93
Nox	Lux
Stellar	Solar
Draconia	Shaitan
Babalon 156 (Lunar)	The Beast 666 (Solar)
Universal Impersonal Life	The God-Animal
Whore	Trickster
Flesh/Body	Spirit/Soul
Sphinx	Pyramid
Mother Religion	Father Religion
Polytheistic	Monotheistic
Stars/Moon/Earth	Sky/Sun/Heaven
Ocean/Space	Mountain/Planet
Many Stars	One Sun
Choice/Doubt	Dogma/Belief
Question	Answer
Heresy	Orthodoxy
Ecumenical	Fundamentalist
Fusion	Fission
Union	Division
Combination	Separation
Synthesis	Analysis

Destruction	Creation
Coagula	Solve
Sex (Union)	Birth (Projection)
Rebirth (Cycles)	Death (Start-Stop)
Birth (Fertility)	Life (Conflict)
Death (Union)	Life (Isolation)
Love	Will
Perception	Will
Inward	Outward
Water-Love-Wine- To Keep Silent	Fire-Light-Blood- To Dare
Earth-Life-Bread- To Will	Air-Liberty-Rose- To Know

Other General Correspondences:

Absorbing	Penetrating
Constriction	Expanding
Dark Matter	Dark Energy
Gravity	Anti-Gravity
Black Hole	White Hole (Quasar)
Subtract	Add
Multiply	Divide
Exponential	Additive
Context	Facts
Both/And	Either/Or
Generality	Particularity
Depth	Surface
Ground	Figure
Background	Foreground
Behind	Before
Back	Front
Hole	Hill
Under	Over
Depth	Height
Averse	Aright
Reverse	Obverse
Horizontal	Vertical
Habit/Inertia	Novelty/Change
Position	Momentum
Wave	Particle
Rest	Movement
Silence	Speech
Peace	Power
Melody	Rhythm
Harmony	Note/Tone

Philosophical Concepts, Methods, Beliefs:

Epicureanism	Stoicism
Rationalist	Empiricist
Existentialist	Positivist
Experiential	Conceptual
Dionysian	Apollonian
Sensuous	Intellectual
Romantic	Classicist
Bohemian	Philistine
Nominalist	Realist
Idealist	Realist
Mystic	Materialist
Dialectical	Empirical
Gestalt	Analytic
Symbolic	Actual
Metaphorical	Literal
Objective	Subjective
Zeitgeist	Event
Free	Directed
Random	Controlled
Freewill/Choice	Predetermination/Fate
Synchronistic	Causal
Relativistic/Einsteinian	Materialistic/Newtonian
Curved Space	Flat Space
Holism	Atomism
Analog	Digital
Potential	Actual
Tacit	Explicit
Latent	Overt

Psychological Components - Nouns:

Anima	Animus
Understanding	Wisdom
Perception	Will
Insight	Outlook
Memory	Cognition
Creativity	Practicality
Imagination	Reason
Intuition	Reason
Subconscious	Conscious
Superconsciousness	Normal Consciousness
Collective Unconscious	Personal Subconscious
Objective Awareness	Subjective Awareness
Eros	Thanatos
Libido	Superego
Desire	Fear
Oral Stage (Infant)	Anal Stage (Toddler)
Latent Stage (Child)	Genital Stage (Adult)

Expectation	Actuality
Pleasure Orientation	Performance Orientation
Pleasure Principle	Reality Principle
Id	Ego
Being	Identity
True/Inner Self	False/ Outer Self
Shadow	Persona
Body	Mind
Sensation	Thought
Bio-gram	Logo-gram
Behavioral	Semantic
Lotus	Robot
Eidetic	Discursive
Integral Mind	Rational Mind
Intuitive Awareness	Rational Awareness
Synthetic Thought	Reductive Thought
Lateral Thought	Vertical Thought
Spatial Awareness	Linear Awareness
Non-Verbal	Verbal
Nemesis	Hubris
Flight Response	Fight Response

Psychological Functions - Verbs/Adverbs:

Synthesizing	Analyzing
Feeling	Thinking
Mythic Thinking	Positivist Thinking
Lateral Thinking	Vertical Thinking
Divergent Thinking	Convergent Thinking
Reflective Thinking	Active Thinking
Free Association	Logical Progression
Induction	Deduction
Contemplation	Action
Dependence	Autonomy
Relaxation	Tension
Inertia	Activity
Feeling	Doing
Love	Lust
Neo-phobia	Neo-philia
Objectivity	Subjectivity
Self-Transcending	Self-Asserting
Self-Negation	Self-Assertion
Withdrawal	Participation
Primary Function	Secondary Function
Cyclothymic	Schizoid
Inner Directed (Willed) Behavior	Outer Directed (Reactive) Behavior

Other Psychological Pairs:

Old (Inner) Brainstem	New (Outer) Neocortex
Hind Brain	Fore Brain
Right Brain:	Left Brain:
Intuition	Intellect
Intuitive	Logical
Imaginative	Deductive
Appositional	Propositional
Spiritual Holism	Scientific Atomism
Internal Relations	External Facts
Doubt	Conviction
Abstract	Concrete
Abstracting	Realizing
Poetic	Descriptive
Metaphorical	Literal
Mythological	Rational
Relational	Analytic
Experience	Argument
Sensuous	Intellectual
Net (Convergent)	Tree (Divergent)
Map	Territory
Territory	Map
Meta-Level	Object-Level
System	Environment
Existential	Differential
Spatial	Serial
Gestalt Intuition	Inferential Intuition
Correlates	Relation
Autistic	Realistic
Ampliative	Explicative
Tacit	Explicit
Compositional	Reductionist
Reculer	Sauter
Theoria	Praxis
Nature	Nurture

Political/Social Qualities & Conditions:

Hunter/Gatherer	Agricultural/Settled
Rural	Urban
Heterarchical	Hierarchical
Egalitarian	Elitist
Altruism	Egotism
Equality	Stratification
Dissent	Authority
Rebellion	Obedience
Defiance	Acceptance
Liberty	Conformity

Subversion	Patriotism
Progressive	Reactionary
Liberal	Conservative
Idealistic	Realistic
Arts	Sciences
Community	Agency
Sexuality	Aggression
Synergetic	Antagonistic
Dependence	Autonomy
Collective	Personal
Society	Self
Solidarity	Solitary
Being Values:	Ego Values:
Intuition	Intellect
Feeling	Reason
Reality	Morality
Differentiation	Differences
Pacifism	Militarism
Cooperation	Competition
Win/Win	Win/Lose
Permissive	Restrictive
Democratic	Authoritarian
Spontaneous	Inhibited
Hedonistic	Asceticism
Passion Encouraged	Discipline Encouraged
Dissent Valued	Loyalty Valued
Socialist Ideals	Individualist Ideals
Differences Minimized	Differences Maximized
Death Accepted/ Celebrated	Death Feared/ Repressed
Liberation	Oppression
Expression	Repression
Empowerment	Domination
Integration	Segregation
Inclusion	Exclusion
Unitism	Separatism

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, instructions
WOGSS Theology & rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & ordering
Wild Writings

Key Links

New Lists, Magickal Formulas, &Occult Priestcraft:

Great Work:
Next Step, Initiation, Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel, Finding your True Will, Finding the Philosophers Stone, Gnosis, Bodhi, Illumination, Enlightenment, Becoming Lucid, Awakening, Attainment, Adeptship, Ascension, Arising, Self-Overcoming, Self-Realization, Self-Actualization, Apotheosis/Annihilation, Nirvana, Dissolution, Crossing the Abyss, Becoming Egoless, Transcendence, Transfiguration, Alchemical Transmutation, Transmogrification, Union with God, Yoga, Fusion, Samadhi, Oneness, At-One-Ment, Theophany, Epiphany, God-Consciousness, Cosmic Consciousness.

Eschaton:
End Times, Evolution, Culmination, Consummation, Convergence, Critical Mass, Climax, Fulfilment, Breakthrough, Emergence, Unveiling, Revelation, Great Leap, Transcendence, Turning Point, Timewave Zero, Omega Point, Apotheosis, Apocalypse, Armageddon, Ragnarok, Doomsday, Theophany, The Stars Come Right/Cthulhu Rises, Harvest, Rapture, Exponential Curve, Geometric Progression, Asymptotic Acceleration, Quickening, Synergistic Multiplication, Immanentizing the Infinite, Arrival, Visitation, First Contact, Entering the Dreamtime, Morphogenetic Unfolding.

Holy Guardian Angel (HGA):
Daemon, Daimonos (God, Fate, Genius, Destiny, Devil), Adonai (The Lord), Agoeides: (The Dawn Light), Emergent Awareness, Solar Consciousness, Aiwass-Shaitan, Asar-Un-Nefer (Myself made Perfect), Horus-Set, Sun behind the Sun, Heru-Ra-Ha: Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Par-Kraat, Crowned & Conquering Child, Ptah-Apo-Phrasz-Ra (The Creative Motion of the Sun - An Identity (Hadit) wrapped in the Dragon of Being (Nuit) and so Manifested as a Sun (Ra-Hoor-Khuit)), Solar-Phallic Identity, Akephalon (Bornless One), Silent/Secret -Self -Center -Lover, Anima/Animus, Hidden God, Higher Genius, True Self, True Will (Dynamic Aspect of the Free Creative Will), Androgynous Alien (Gnostic God), Heart Girt with a Serpent (HGS), Egg wrapped in a Serpent, Archaios Ophis (Ancient Serpent), Superconsciousness (Illumination), Lucidity, Nous (Divine Mind), Neshamah (Divine Breath): Kether-Chokhmah-Binah, Yechidah (The Only One): Kether, Bindu, Atman, Ipsissimus, Abrasax (Two in One), Baphomet (Baptism of Wisdom): Hieroglyph of Arcane Perfection, Divine/Cosmic Consciousness: Lucifer - Indra - Shamash/Moses - Krishna - Christ - Quetzalcoatl - Apollo - Adonis - Osiris - Odin - Buddha - Thammuz - Mithras - Dionysus - Prometheus - Shiva - Satan (& all Sun Gods, Child Gods, & Gods of Transcendence).

Magickal Formula:

The Pentagram:
Fire - Water - Air - Earth - Spirit.
Light - Love - Liberty - Life - Law.
Perception - Passion - Power - Putrification - Peace.
Darkness - Debauch - Destiny - Death - Discord.

Emotional Engineering (Paraphrased from Phil Hine: "The Pseudonomicon")
1. Fully Experience feeling when gripped by powerful emotion.
2. Be aware of physical sensations as emotion intensifies.
3. Still your inner dialogue, memories, generation of fantasies, etc.
4. Be aware of only body sensations, still all cognitive attempts to identify these sensations as one emotion or another.
5. Experience free-emotion which can be redefined as pleasure or ecstasy, for use in ego-magic, & denying power to Personal Demons. Deconstruct anger or fear into excitement which can be used to gain momentum for moving over a threshold into change, rather then reinforcing resistance.

A.B.C.D.E. (from: The Relaxation Workbook)
1. Adversity: Situation, person or thing giving trouble in some way.
2. Beliefs in error about the problem that cause suffering.
3. Challenge of false beliefs, stopping the process of self-torment.
4. Decision to eliminate false beliefs & replace with positive beliefs.
5. Energize Self & Will with new feelings of control that bring empowermen

S.P.L.I.F.F. (Phil Hine: "Condensed Chaos")
1. Statement of Intent: Formulate clear Magickal intention, divine & analyze Quest.
2. Pathways available: Open path for results to manifest along as desired.
3. Link intent to symbolic carrier: Sigil, Monogram, Glyph, Mantra, etc.
4. Intense Gnosis/Indifferent Vacuity: to create an altered state.
5. Fire: Project at peak into the Void/Multiverse (As a Photon Torpedo).
6. Forget: I don’t need to remember that right now.

A WOGSS Formula:
1. Transgression (of social taboos)
2. Transcendence (of old paradigm/restrictions)
3. Transmission (of new Gnosis to others, spiritual grounding of force)

Occult Priestcraft for Self & Others.

(Expanded from a list in Peter Carols "Liber Null & Psychonaut" & other sources).

1. To provide/elicit Active & Passive (Magickal & Mystical) techniques of Emotional Engineering: starting, stopping, & changing emotional states & consciousness at will.

2. To provide/elicit perspectives of Meaning, Knowledge, Power, Peace, Purpose, Mystery, Joy, Free Belief, True Will, etc.

3. To provide Intercession & Intervention with Magickal & Spiritual assistance & ways of affecting Reality; blessing/cursing, exorcism, cleansing, psychic protection, divination, creation & use of Magickal Tools & Weapons, Power Objects, & Talismans.

4. To provide/elicit explanations & preparations for Death, reconciliation, release, peace, practice, & inter-death guidance (Metempsychosis).

5. To formulate a Zone, Movement, or Cult to engage Holy Warriors to wage Psychic Guerrilla Cultural Warfare against dogmatism, restriction, intolerance, exclusivity, stupidity, neophobia, oppression, prejudice, consumerism, materialism, & anti-human Institutional Religious Systems.

6. To provide/elicit Sacred Rites to Initiate, Illuminate, Liberate, Empower, Activate, & Enable Individuals to take control of their own Spirituality & find their own True Will.

7. To facilitate Human Evolution by formulating/eliciting new Paradigms/Metaphors & their Symbols, Cultivating Cultural Catalysts, Immanentizing the Eschaton, preparing for the Next Step (see Eschaton List), Inciting Emergent Intelligence, & Formulating Magickal Links with Higher Intelligence to transmit the New Current (93) to Humankind.

8. To Attain & Incite Higher Awareness, Trance, Visions, Transcendental Illumination, Gnosis, Buddhi, Dhyana, Samadhi, Satori, Sunyata, Lucidity, Individual Enlightenment & Universal Liberation, Mystical Union, Magickal Initiation, & the Great Work : to Purify, Organize, & Consecrate the lower self (ego & elements of the psyche), & Unite it with the True Self (HGA), (see Great Work & Holy Guardian Angel Lists).

9. To Administer Sacraments including: Communion & Eucharists via the Gnostic Mass, Mass of Chaos, Mass of the Phoenix, etc. for purpose of Invocation, Consecration, Ordination, Enchantment, Initiation, Healing, Celebration, Baptism, Rites of Passage, Sacred Unions, Thanatosis (Death), & Honoring of Dead Ancestors or Other Spirits/Gods.

10. To Discourse - to those who are interested - widely, wisely, convincingly & with Authority on Magickal & Mystical matters, & give Spiritual Instruction generally.

11. To Explore Psychic Realms, Astral Planes, Numenal Worlds, Transpersonal Realities, the Collective Unconscious, Non-Local dimensions, Lucid Dreams, etc.

12. To Serve the Gods & Their Plan on Earth as may be needed at any given time & place.

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & Ordering
Wild Writings
Key Links

Open Letter to All Allies

To all those who would daringly seek out the Feared & Forbidden (generally Yin, Lunar, & Female) Sides of Magickal (Un)Belief, & all Associates & Colleagues in 60+ Nations around the World & Beyond...

DO THY WILL

Hail Warriors & Allies of the Ancient Future! The Next Evolutionary Leap is fast approaching, & the World begins to go mad again. Or maybe it's just us. Either way we feel we must act now to spread our post-apocalyptic prophecies of Transcendence & hope they become self-fulfilling. Imminentize the Eschaton! Let the corrupting influence of human civilization be transformed by the Arising of the Future Vision, before the Earth is irreparably ruined for human (& post-human) life! Now at the start of a New Millennium, the failures of the past two can at last be cast off like our old Snake-skins. Nearly 2000 years of lies and guilt and hypocrisy are over! Also, by our counting this is not the mere year 2002, but the year 156,002, counting from the Dawn of Humankind, 78 times longer then you've been conditioned to think! Try to grasp the implications of that for Humanities self-image. To meet the future we must be in tune with ALL our Past, & refuse to be deprived of it any longer by blind denial & revisionist Judeo-Christian-Muslim bigotry against our ancient biological origins, and their justified panic at our Future Evolution after their Armageddon!

Awaken Yourself

WOGSS want to free you from false cultural constructs about reality by injecting even more Diversity, Doubt, Mystery, Uncertainty, Chaos, Rebellion & Transcendence into the worldwide cultural mix, & so restore Individual Sovereignty to the "religion game" which will determine mass human perspective on our Future in the Universe. There is no Priest but Yourself, seek your own Hidden God/Secret Lover/Daemon. Then knowing Union with THAT, offer all adoration to the Goddess Universe & Mother Earth! After this there is no limit to what we may become, in harmony with all existence. We at WOGSS don't know exactly what is going to happen but we know when it starts & that's NOW!

We must seize the moment, & seize the World from its' path of total destruction to one of selective destruction & a New Creation of our own. Inter-dimensional Aliens of some kind we can't currently imagine, (an Inner Supraconsciousness, our Transcendental Selves-in-the-future, or perhaps), will help us open the doors of cosmic power, but we must do our part by preparing ourselves to deal with the totally unknown! We must be impeccable, dedicated, unblinking Warriors of a New Vision of Humankind, or there will be no humans left at all!

Pursue the Great Work

The Sacred Path of WOGSS is called "Shalu" which is the verb "To Ask" & a Name for "the Underworld" in ancient Babylonian. This indicates the Secret Key of Questioning Everything & thereby entering the Unknown Wilderness, the Forbidden Hell of Mystery outside the unquestioned security & slavery of "belief". Doubt and Free Inquiry, skeptical & devotional at once, leads the seeker behind the deceptions and distractions of everyday life, the lower ego, and commercial society, into the terrifyingly limitless realms of infinity which are always within us but rarely known or even suspected. Tear down the hideous veils of ordinary drone-life (as it comes to an end anyway)! Aspire to Actualize And Accurately Arrange All Ancient Archetypes & Atavisms of your own Awareness, & Attain An Antinomian Apotheosis!

Enter the Mystery from Behind!

Our Artwork is, in part, to promote Spiritual Advancement now, to open your mind to limitless possibilities, and to inoculate you against the soul-stunning wonders & horrors soon to come! Plunge into the Ultimate Darkness without fear & thereby intensify your Inner Light to blinding brightness! (Existence is Contrast). Learn to Swim. We will to bring forth Humankinds primal instincts & assimilate them to an emerging transcendent consciousness as we leap into the Unknown Future!

Accordingly we seek & spread data on the following subjects: Alternative Cosmologies & Belief Systems (for learning to perceive multiple Points of View), the Law of Thelema (Aleister Crowley), the Great Work or "Next Step" also called the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", Spiritual Initiation, Alchemical Transformation, Transcendental Illumination, Ritual & Ceremonial Magick, Goetic Demonology, Witchcraft, Technological Advances, Lucid Dreaming, Sex Magick, Shamanism (Primal & Techno), Saving the Earth, Return of the Goddess, Enochian Entities & Language, Alien Communion, Incubi & Succubi, Sexual Fetishes, Future Primitives, Anomalous events, Holy War, Illuminati Conspiracies, Freemasonry & Secret Societies, Underground Occulture, Tarot Card Divination, Idols & Sacred Artifacts, Fractal Synchronicities, Voudon Devotion, True Priestcraft, Cthonian & Draconian Currents, Necromancy, Chaos Magick, Black Science, Sexual Religion & Sacred Whoredom/Prostitution, Aghora & Tantra, Qabalistic analysis & Gematria, Paganism, Heathenism, Tibetan Buddhism, Surrealism, Satanism, Globalism, Survivalism, SubGenius Bulldada, Ultra-horror Films & Tapes, Black Metal & Hardcore Experimental Music, Astral Projection, Meditation, Hypnosis & Trance, Poltergeists & Possessions, Visions & Voices, Divine Revelations, Psychedelic Trips, Smart Drugs, Occult

Experiments (Magickal & Mystical), Special Warnings & Emergency Actions for the Great Upheaval, & as many Allies & Contacts as possible in every part of the World!

Discover Your Divinity!

All these & more are, or will be, explored in our semi-annual Black Journals of Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos, & Art for Babalon: the Daemonolatriea! the Black Grimiors of Daemonic Whoreship! These Zine-Journals are our continuing declaration of Spiritual Warfare against Humankinds monotonotheistic oppressors! We will to Incite Spiritual Revolution by amassing & presenting tens of thousands of Key alternate Ideas, Images, Symbols, & Surprises in an attempt to explosively represent the Anarchic Whoredom of Reality and break up the false complexes of fear and desire that keep you from finding your True Will. We also steal societies' media hooks & use them to pull your mind in a quite different direction then originally intended! We urge you to explore for yourself all the possibilities, then take back your right to unmediated access to the Inner Mysteries of your own Unique, Existence, until your life is a Divine Invocation of Yourself!

Get Connected

As always each single issue contains the total Ads Listings, updated July 2000, including 100s of Internet Websites, & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads for the most incredible Hardcore, Occult, Artistic, Activist, Revolutionary, Anarchistic, Sacred, Satanick, Sexual & Radical Organizations & Individuals on Earth, & we are always accepting more, & encourage you to send in your regular or classified Ad for free today!

Turn Anger into Action!

Please submit any items of Occulture you find significant or suggestive, & reproduce Ideas & Images in our Journals that stand out to you, as thereby we shall pervade the whole human collective consciousness with our Super-Polytheistic plurality of Alternative Spiritual, Psychological, Cultural & Occult symbology, & unite all minds into an unstoppable force for polycultural exploration & evolutionary inter-action!

May this Set your Souls & Minds on Fire!

Yours in Hers,

Rev. Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus

WILL/Love

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List

Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
WOGSS Terms Plans & Instructions
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Stay

What are WOGSS!? (Terms) &
What Are We Doing!? (World-Wide Goals & Advanced Instructions for Daily Workings)
&
What is the Holy Guardian Angel?

WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan" i.e. an Independent Scientific/Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic Thelemic Discordian Draconian Scientists".

We are Secret Servants of the Star, the Snake & the Sword, as in The Book of the Law, & work to enjoy and exalt the Universe, Its Life, & Its Spirit (The World the Flesh & the Devil), in the many Names of "the Mother, the Sun & the Holy Devil!" As Priests & Priestesses (Concubines, Conjurers, & Conquers) we relentlessly serve the Goddess (as Hierodules) however personally called, & together seek the Liberation & Illumination of Humankind (as Shamans) by any means necessary! Our Key methods of perpetrating OM (Operation Mindfuck) and Zen-archic Awakening are "Spiritual Whoredom, Liberation Blasphemy, & Scientific Illuminism" in order to Create & Incite Occult Rebellion, Magickal Chaos & Art for Babalon!

Awake! Arouse! Arise! Adore!

Anarkey, Anarkissed, Anarchrist!

We seek to Whoreship & Exalt Our Lady Babalon by Entering the Unknown & Understanding the Mysteries! And so we pursue "Another Antinomian Arcanum" by Assimilating "Archetypes, Atavisms & Apostasies" with the process of "Transgression, Transcendence & Transmission" We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous, and promote Public Promiscuity, Transcendental Polytheism & Sacred Prostitution! We are Ant-racist, Anti-stateist, and Anti-dogmatic. (We will explain all these terms and formulas periodically as time and interest encourage)

Broad Goals and Agenda:

0. Cultivate Worldwide Illumination
1. Instigate Rebellion in the Young
2. Subvert Traditional Religion/Authority
3. Undermine Patriarchal Family forms
4. Redistribute wealth toward the poor, esp. by Housing, Feeding, Treating, & Educating All for Free
5. Radicalize Spiritual Possibilities (Eclectic Experimentation, Spiritual Whoredom)
6. Foster Anti-Imperialist Polyculturalism
7. Promote a "One World or None" philosophy
8. Create a One World Representative Government
9. Produce an Egalitarian Individualist/Collectivist Society (Anarcho-Socialist)
10. Achieve Universal Disarmament & De-industrialization
11. Enact Re-Wilderness-ation and Gradual Depopulation
12. Destroy "Outer" X-tianity Judaism & Islam, (Save the Inner Mystical forms: Gnosticism, Qabalism & Sufism) as well as all forms of Totalitarianism, Nationalism, Ethnocentrism, Racism, Sexism, Consumerist Capitalism, etc.
13. Re-establish Temple Prostitution Goddess Worship, and exalt all Sacred Whores (Heirodules)
14. Decriminalize All Victimless Crimes: Prostitution, Drug Use, Pornography, Homosexuality, Adultery, Blasphemy, etc.
15. Allow Eugenic/Genetic Improvements in Human Species
16. Develop Technological Enhancements to Mind and Body
17. Space Migration, Intelligence Increase, Life Extension (SMI2LE)18. Lead all to aspire to the "Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon", their Inner God & True Will.
19. Establish Contact with the Universal "Community of Stars", or Stellar Illuminati.
19. Transcendence of Corporeal Existence, Time, and Space.

Daily Spiritual Work toward the Great Work (Advanced Adorations)

1. Remember and Immediately Record all dreams in Dream Journal, kept next to bed.
2. Arise & give Signs of Ra-Hoor-Khuit (The Enterer) and Hoor-Par-Kraat (Silence) over Alter or Toward East.
3. Perform the Four Daily Adorations of Our Lord the Sun (Liber Resh) at Dawn, Noon, Sunset, & Midnight (keeping in mind that it's always all four of these, somewhere on Earth).
4. Perform Nightly, or under the Moon, the Adoration of the current phase of Our Lady the Moon - New(5 Nights), Waxing(9 Nights), Full(5), & Waning(9).
5. Say Will at all meals.
6. Mentally Repeat the Name "Babalon" whenever drinking anything from any Vessel.
7. Purify & Consecrate whenever washing self or objects. (Purification: "For pure will, unassuaged of purpose, delivered from the lust of result, is every way perfect." Consecration: "I am uplifted in thine heart, and the kisses of the stars rain hard upon thy body.")

8. Meditate daily as desired for at least 1/2 Hour.
9. Perform one Magick Ritual as desired daily. (Star Ruby, Star Saphire, Liber Reguli, the Mass of the Phoenix, Middle Pillar Ritual, Liber Samekh, Lucifer Invocation (in "Cosmology & Rituals" Section), or others, (& see Daemonolatriea for more.)
10. Study daily from The Holy Books of Thelema, or other Spiritual Texts.
11. Recite Adoration of Babalon outdoors each Night
12. Record all daily work in Magickal Record.
13. Recite "Apo Pantos Kakodaemonos!" when passing enemy clergy, with sweep of one hand from Silence Sign down & back.
14. Dream Test continually for Lucid Dreams, esp. near sleep.
15. End day with Signs of Nuit, Hadit, & Ra-Hoor-Khuit, (from Liber Reguli), x3
16. Combat oppression everywhere with Anarcho-Zen Chaos, (Way of the PAN-ZEN-TAO).
17. Let every act be one of dedication to the Great Work, the Knowledge & Conversation of Your Holy Guardian Daemon/Angel!

What is the Holy Guardian Angel!?

"The Knowledge & Conversation of your Holy Guardian Angel" (HGA) is the Classic term for the Ineffable Encounter that is the first Aim of Initiation. It is Unique & Personal, as it is written, "No man may know the Name of his brothers God", obviously not to forbid discussion among Initiates (everyone knows that Aleister Crowleys' "Angel" was Aiwass, & many use this Holy Name for their own HGA until ITS' True Name for them is communicated) but to recognize the Incommunicable & Uniquely Individual nature of each ones experience of this Central & Universal Goal of the Great Work, the Attainment of the True Gnosis. Nevertheless this Great Goal can be pointed to & suggested in many ways, until one stops looking at the pointer and Sees what is being pointed to! Therefore here are some of the Names by which the Holy Guardian Angel is foreshadowed (though mostly bright, anthropomorphic & male these are conventions and again not necessarily true-for-all):

Holy Guardian Angel (HGA):
Daemon, Daimonos (God, Fate, Genius, Destiny, Devil), Adonai (The Lord), Agoeides: (The Dawn Light), Emergent Awareness, Solar Consciousness, Aiwass-Shaitan, Asar-Un-Nefer (Myself made Perfect), Horus-Set, Sun behind the Sun, Heru-Ra-Ha: Ra-Hoor-Khuit & Hoor-Par-Kraat, Crowned & Conquering Child, Ptah-Apo-Phrasz-Ra (The Creative Motion of the Sun - An Identity (Hadit) wrapped in the Dragon of Being (Nuit) and so Manifested as a Sun (Ra-Hoor-Khuit)), Solar-Phallic Identity, Akephalon (Bornless One), Silent/Secret -Self -Center -Lover, Anima/Animus, Hidden God, Higher Genius, True Self, True Will (Dynamic Aspect of the Free Creative Will), Androgynous Alien (Gnostic God), Heart Girt with a Serpent (HGS), Egg wrapped in a Serpent, Archaios Ophis (Ancient Serpent), Superconsciousness (Illumination), Lucidity, Nous (Divine Mind), Neshamah (Divine Breath): Kether-Chokhmah-Binah, Yechidah (The Only One): Kether, Bindu, Atman, Ipsissimus, Abrasax (Two in One), Baphomet (Baptism of Wisdom): Hieroglyph of Arcane Perfection, Divine/Cosmic Consciousness:

Lucifer - Indra - Krishna - Christ - Quetzalcoatl - Apollo - Adonis - Osiris - Odin - Buddha - Thammuz - Mithras - Dionysus - Prometheus - Shiva - Set - Satan (All Sun Gods, Dying/Reborn-Child Gods, &/or Gods of Transcendence)
and/or whatever is to the individual the Sign & Being of his or her Inmost Aspiration to Truth!

(see Great Work, Eschaton, & HGA page for new related material)

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Theology & Rituals
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Occult Theology & Rituals of WOGSS

(See Middle of Page for New Rituals)

In Tenebrous Generascitur Lux

Embrace Your Shadow & Shed on it Light

Whores of Goddess Scientists (WOGSS) Whoreship Our Lady Babalon as the Open Gate to the Unknown, to the Other Side, to the Outer Regions of Inner Space, which is called Hell, and is, to us, All of Existence, outside the limited local awareness of consensual reality! WOGSS are Alien Outsiders, Strangers, & other Unknown Anomalous Outcasts. Our Spawn are PolyWogss, Amphibious Transformers. Our Holy Word is "Shalu", a Babylonian Word for the Under World and a Verb meaning "to Ask", i.e.. "to Question" or "Doubt". To Enter the Unknown one has only to Question the so-called "known". To Doubt and Inquire beyond the accepted answers leads to Liberation in the Wilderness of Mysteries, where there is no law beyond do what thou wilt, and which is fearfully called "HELL" by the Obedient: the Unknown Country of the Self. This is the Key to the Gate of Initiation. We, practicing Spiritual Whoredom, desire Gnosis & Understanding through multiple Religious and Spiritual Practices & Experiences. We accept & Unite both the Carnal and the Spiritual, & impose no arbitrary distinction between them, nor any limitation on either. We welcome the Atavistic Resurgence of the Ancient Archetypes, now seen as Devil-Gods by the civilized, and the Archaic Revival of the Primal shamanic Stellar-Gnosis. We are ourselves Transcendental Polytheists, Heathen Luciferians, & Scientific Illuminists of the Left Hand Path, which is the First Path of the Original Mysteries of Being & Chaos, and the Primal Power of the Body!

Beyond Satanism

WOGSS are not Satanists, anti-social, or ego-oriented. Our "Gods" are transcendent & not "persons" as, say, Jehovah or Set are believed, by their followers, to be. Our Deities are expressed as personal metaphors of higher transcendent, and so inexpressible, realities. WOGSS worship "in the Names of the Mother & the Sun & the Holy Devil". This Mother is "Draconia-Babalon-Tiamaat", the Primeval Dragon of Chaos, Night & the Infinite Oceans of Space-Time. "She" speaks as the Star-Goddess NUIT in The Book of the Law, saying "Since I am Infinite Space & the Infinite Stars thereof, do ye also thus. Bind nothing! Let there be no difference made among you between any one thing & any other thing; for thereby there cometh hurt. But whoso availeth in this, let him be the chief of all!" She is balanced by her equal opposite, and Infinitely Transcendent complement HADIT, who calls himself, in The Book of the Law, "the winged Secret Flame that burns in every heart of man & in the core of every Star." & the "Winged Snake of Light.... the Secret Serpent coiled about to spring..." & says "I am the Snake that giveth knowledge & delight & bright glory, & stir the hearts of men with drunkenness.... I am alone; there is no god where I am" He tells us to "Remember... to be me, to follow the love of Nu in the Star-lit Heaven." We clearly see, as Aleister Crowley wrote in Magick in Theory & Practice, Hadit as Lucifer-Satan, as the God Within us, whose Center is Everywhere, just as we identify Nuit with Draconia-Tiamaat, the Goddess All About us, whose Circumference is Nowhere.

The Possibilities are Endless

Our Lady Babalon has no outer Law or God (and so is called "Anarchist" & "Devilish") as she is a Self-willed Whore who is freely self-given to All and taken by None, and She is, as it were, the Gateway between the Ultimate Reality (Nuit, Draconia, TAO) and the manifestation of That Absolute into material duality (the World the Flesh & the Devil). We are Existence, and are the Symbol for That which is beyond all existence. We therefore have no fear to declare the Satanick Assertion of the True Self (not the false human ego) as the Highest Knowable Truth, the True Will from Within, which Goes onward forever into the Unknown, which enters every Gate and ever seeks to penetrate the Secret Center of Eternal Mystery! Satan (Our Secret Self) desires Babalon (All the Infinite Unknown Possibilities of Being), & the two in ecstasy become a new One, which until It becomes perfectly None, is still incomplete until it again attains Union with Every potential Opposite Other. The Spiritual Whoredom of Babalon is the Key to Power, Ecstasy, Liberation, & Evolution in every World. The method is: Transgression, Transcendence, & Transmission. to Step Across (all boundaries & Gateways), to Assimilate the Forbidden & Unknown into a new Reality, & to Broadcast the Revelations of the New Territory that has been Discovered. Always by "Love under Will". Eternal striving for the Absolute is the Birth-right of every Devil-Child of Draconia!

Daemonic Diversity

We are siblings of the Luciferic Double-Light of Set-Horus, brightly beaming through the Sun-Beast 666, unto the Great Whore of Babalon, Queen of Heaven & Hell! We are passionate, desperate disciples of the Devil, not the Christian Anti-god, but the Archetype of earlier forms which the Christians distorted: the Double God of Light in Darkness, All-Devourer, All Begetter as Pan, Speech in Silence as Heru-Ra-Ha, Goat-Whore of the Black Sabbaths of the Witches, Devil-Angel as Star-Snake Hadit, Bisexual Beast-God Baphomet, Prometheus the Defyer, Shiva the Destroyer-Creator, Dionysus, Horned God of Pleasure, Rebellion & Cruel Wilderness, & all the Dark Tricksters & Instigators of Change (Not, however, the "Qliphoth" which are merely the unbalanced & distorted reflections, the "shells", of the Divine Qualities) But Beyond even this is a principle of pregnant Nothingness, Ultimatelessness, which is Unknown as being beyond the Duality of Being or Knowing. Called TAO by the wise, It is called by us the Great Black Dragon of Primordial Chaos, the Great None of the Night of Time, who "with Her tail churneth the Slime of Existence and from the foam thereof maketh Stars!" Her Names are Infinite but to us She is Draconia, Tiamaat, Babalon, Leviathan, Kali, Eris-Discordia, Ereshkegal, Shakti, & above all Nuit! This Goddess in all Her forms, & Her Devil-Child in all of His are our central Metaphors of Whoreship, Ultimate Godforms of our Spiritual Whoredom!

Paradigm Recontextualization

Our Dragon Goddess & Devil-Child God are not conceived of as individual entities or personalities, they precede and "compose" actual existence and so to us are the Absolute Negative & in combination create the Absolute All. They produce (both in combination & division) a "Child", the Single spark of the Big Bang which instantly becomes All of Existence from Nothing, expanding eternally in Infinite Multiplicity, continually creating every instant all of the energies & forces around & in us! The One Child becomes Its/Our existence in duality as the Twin-Gods Horus -Set, the positive & negative polarities of manifested being. Horus/Set is the God behind All Gods, the source of the creation & destruction of all dualistic manifestations of His Mothers' Unmanifest Possibilities. So also we, by Willing to Unite with (love) all opposites, (via Spiritual Whoredom) whoreship both the Dark & the Light, & attain that "Rapture of Union that Destroys". This is Union with the Devil or Goddess, Transcendental Illumination, Liberation, Initiation, or however you choose to designate the "Great Work". Nevertheless the Knowledge & Conversation of the Holy Guardian Angel/Daemon is the first/next step. Balance & Purify yourself, the lower human personality, & then Unite yourself with that One Divine Being that is for you alone. Then, made whole with your True Self, the Goddess Universe awaits your Enlightened enjoyment! Divine Union & Sexual Union are identical mirror images, just as the Spirit & the Flesh Unite, as God & Beast, in Us. We are existence, & we are the form of, or symbol for, That beyond existence!

An Adoration of Babalon!

(adapted from Crowleys' "The Vision & the Voice: Liber 418)
(do with Full Visualizations from Text)

Glory unto the Holy Grail, that is the Sacred Vessel of Our Lady the Scarlet Woman, in whom is all power given, Mystery of Mystery, Babalon the Beautiful, Great Mother of Abominations, Bride of Chaos, that rideth upon Our Lord the Beast!

By Thy Murders and Fornications Thou seduceth the Worlds. Thou hast Given Thyself to everything that liveth, & hath become a partaker in its Mystery, for in that Union Thou didst Understand, therefore art Thou called Understanding, O Babalon, Lady of Night!

O Babalon, Babalon, Thou Mighty Mother that rideth upon the Crowned Beast, & beareth the Cup of the Blood of the Saints, let me be drunken upon the Wine of Thy Fornications, let Thy kisses wanton me unto Death, that even I, Thy Cup-bearer, may Understand!

In Nomine Babalon! It's All Right Here, I Embrace It All, IO PAN!

Luciferic Arising

1). Perform Thelemic Qabalistic Cross: (Touch Forehead & vibrate "Soi", touch Heart & vibrate "Aiwass", touch Genitals & vibrate "O Phallos", touch Right Shoulder & vibrate "Ischuros", touch Left Shoulder & vibrate "Eucharistos", clasp hands or hold Wand at Heart & vibrate "IAO" three times, as a long drawn out vibration while visualizing the Light descending brilliantly from White Crown Sphere, to Golden Heart Sphere and to Purple Genital Sphere with the three syllables of IAO)
2).Strongly push with your hands the Light down to a brilliant Green or Black Sphere at your Feet and then vibrate "Shalu" while taking One Step forward with Left Foot.
3).Now the Light that you brought Down with "IAO" you now shoot back Up as you Spiritually Ascend with It back into Space, as follows. Slowly raise your arms like Wings, out to your sides & up above your head, palms outward, straining straight up while vibrating "Sh" at Feet, "Ay" at Genitals, "Tah" at Heart, "Na" at Crown & "SSS" out into Space above you, (Sh-Ay-Ta-Na-S= Satanas). Visualize yourself rushing up out of your body along a column of Light, piercing all barriers, streaking through Space, entering the Infinite. Continue until the strain of Ascending becomes unbearable or you reach the Ultimate.
4). Return directly (i.e. without "descending") to your body while taking one step back with Left Foot, crossing arms down in front of you and then out and back, generally with a strong exhale, & finally making the Sign of Silence (forefinger held to lips) while vibrating "Hoor-Paar-Kraat".
5). Re-orient yourself in the physical while maintaining Awareness of the Spiritual Level you perceived while Arising. Bring the Light forth as you so Will. If successful you are now an Avatar of Lucifer! Do Thy Will!

Hymn to Lucifer (Aleister Crowley)

Ware, nor of good nor ill, what aim hath act?
.......Without its climax, death, what savour hath
Life? an impeccable machine, exact
.......He paces an inane and pointless path
to glut brute appetites, his sole content
.......How tedious were he fit to comprehend
Himself! More, this our noble element
.......Of fire in nature, love in spirit unkenned
Life hath no spring, no axel, and no end.

His body a blood-ruby radiant
.......With noble passion, sun souled Lucifer
Swept through the dawn colossal, swift aslant
.......On Eden's imbecile perimeter.
He blessed nonentity with every curse
.......And spiced with sorrow the dull soul of sense.
Breath life into the sterile universe,
.......With Love and Knowledge drove out innocence
The Key of Joy is disobedience.

New Rituals Below!

Text of the Invocation of HORUS at the Equinox of the Gods

(To be performed before a window open to the E. or N. without Incense. The room to be filled with jewels, but only diamonds to be worn. Use Sword, unconsecrated, & 44 pearl beads to be told. Stand. Bright daylight at 12:30 noon. Lock doors. White Robes. Bare feet. Be very loud. Saturday. Use the Sign of Apophis & Typhon.

CONFESSION

Unprepared & uninvoking Thee, I, ________, am here in Thy Presence - for Thou art Everywhere, O Lord Horus! - to confess humbly before Thee my neglect & scorn of Thee.

How shall I humble myself enough before Thee? Thou art the mighty & unconquered Lord of the Universe. I am a spark of Thine unutterable Radiance.

How should I approach Thee? but Thou art Everywhere.

But Thou hast graciously deigned to call me unto Thee, to this Exorcism of Art, that I may be Thy servant, Thine Adept, O Bright One, O Sun of Glory! Thou hast called me - should I not then hasten to Thy Presence?

With unwashed hands therefore I come unto Thee, and I lament my wandering from Thee - But Thou knowest!

Yea, I have done evil!

If one blasphemed Thee, why should I therefore forsake Thee? But Thou art the Avenger; all is with Thee.

I bow my neck before Thee; and as once Thy sword was upon it so am I in Thy hands. Strike if Thou wilt, spare if Thou wilt: but accept me as I am.

My trust is in Thee: shall I be confounded? This Ritual of Art; this Forty and Fourfold Invocation; this Sacrifice of Blood - these I do not comprehend.

It is enough if I obey Thy decree; did Thy fiat go forth for my eternal misery, were it not my joy to execute Thy Sentence on myself?

For why? For that All is in Thee and of Thee; it is enough if I burn up in the intolerable glory of Thy presence.

Enough! I turn toward Thy Promise.

Doubtful are the Words: Dark are the Ways: but in Thy Words and Ways is Light. Thus then now as ever, I enter the Path of Darkness, if haply so I may attain the Light!

Hail!

I - Aleph

Strike, strike the master Chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

(At every "Thee, I invoke," throughout the whole Ritual, give the Sign of Apophis and Typhon)

A. Thou only-begotten-child of Osiris Thy Father and Isis Thy Mother. He that was slain; She that bore Thee in Her womb flying from the Terror of the Water. Thee, Thee, I invoke!

2. O Thou whose Apron is of flashing white, whiter than the Forehead of the Morning! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

B. O Thou who hast formulated Thy Father and made fertile Thy Mother! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

3. O Thou whose garment is of golden glory with the azure bars of sky! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

C. Thou, who didst avenge the Horror of Death; Thou the slayer of Typhon! Thou who didst lift Thine arms and the Dragons of Death were as dust; Thou who didst raise Thine Head and the Crocodile of Nile was abased before Thee! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

4. O Thou whose Nemyss hideth the Universe with night, the impermeable Blue! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

D. Thou who travellest in the Boat of Ra, abiding at the Helm of the Aftet boat and of the Sektet boat! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

5. Thou who bearest the Wand of Double Power! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

6. Thou about whose presence is shed the darkness of Blue Light, the unfathomable glory of the outermost Aethyr, the utravelled, the unthinkable immensity of Space. Thou who concentrest all the 30 Aethyrs in One darkling Sphere of Fire! Thee, Thee, I invoke!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

II - Beth

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

1. By Thy name of Ra, I invoke Thee, Hawk of the Sun, the glorious One!

2. By Thy name of Harmachis, youth of the Brilliant Morning, I invoke Thee!

3. By Thy name Mau, I invoke Thee, Lion of the Midday Sun!

4. By Thy name Tum, Hawk of the Even, crimson splendor of the Sunset, I invoke Thee!

5. By Thy name Keph-Ra I invoke Thee, O beetle of the hidden Mystery of Midnight!

A. By Thy nameHeru-pa-Kraat, Lord of Silence, Beautiful Child that standest on the Dragons of the Deep, I invoke Thee!

B. By Thy name Apollo, I invoke Thee, O man of Strength and splendor, O poet, O father!

C. By Thy name of Phoebus, that drivest Thy chariot through the Heaven of Zeus, I invoke Thee!

D. By Thy name of Odin I invoke Thee, O warrior of the North, O Renown of the Sagas!

E. By Thy mane of Jeheshua, O child of the Flaming Star, I invoke Thee!

F. By Thine own, Thy Secret Name Hoori, Thee I invoke!

The Names are Five.

The Names are Six.

Eleven are the Names!

Abrahadabra!

Behold! I stand in the midst. Mine is the symbol of Osiris; to Thee are mine eyes ever turned. Unto the Splendor of Geburah, the Magnificence of Chesed, the Mystery of Daath, thither I lift up mine eyes. This have I sought, and I have sought the Unity: hear Thou me!

III - Gimel

1. Mine is the Head of the Man, and my insight is keen as the Hawk's. By my head I invoke Thee!

A. I am the only-begotton child of my Father and Mother. By my body I invoke Thee!

2. About me shine the Diamonds of Radiance white and pure. By their brightness I invoke Thee!

B. Mine is the Red Triangle Reversed, the Sign given of none, save it be of Thee, O Lord! By the Lamen I invoke Thee!

3. Mine is the garment of white sewn with gold, the flashing abbai that I wear. By my Robe I invoke Thee!

C. Mine is the Sign of Apophis and Typhon! By the Sign I invoke Thee!

4. Mine is the turban of white and gold, and mine the blue vigor of the intimate air! By my Crown I invoke Thee!

D. My mystic sigils travel on the Bark of the Akasha; so run I after Thee in Thy car of Glory. By the Spells I invoke Thee!

5. I bear the Wand of Double Power in the Voice of the Master - Abrahadabra! By the Word I invoke Thee!

E. Mine are the dark-blue waves of music in the song that I made of old to invoke Thee -

Strike, strike the master chord!

Draw, draw the Flaming Sword!

Crowned Child and Conquering Lord!

Horus, Avenger!

By the Song I invoke Thee!

6. In my hand is Thy Sword of Revenge; let it strike at Thy bidding! By the Sword I invoke Thee!

The Voice of the Five.

The Voice of the Six.

Eleven are the Voices.

Abrahadabra!

Back to Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List

Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, & Instructions
Daemonolatriea Data & Ordering
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Daemonolatriea : The Grimiores of Daemonic Whoreship

Presenting the Daemonolatriea, a Wild Funhouse Soul-Mirror for the post Y2K Evolutionary Apotheosis!   You'll gasp with disbelief when you actually see this stunning series of Arcane publications: the Daemonolatriea: our semi-annual, 40+ page, self-printed chapbook Journals of Magickal Chaos, Occult Rebellion & Art for Babalon!

Free Your Mind & Soul!

Each issue is a Super-Suggestive Collage/Collection of Occult Art, Axioms, Affirmations, Ideas, Icons, Images, Fetishes, Rituals, & Teachings from Magical Belief Systems of All Ages! Automatically Inspires Instant Illumination! - in those who are "ready"! Liberate your mind from old false beliefs and illusions & install your choice of unlimited new ones! Become your own High Priest of the only "One True God" that really matters: YOURSELF! Let us give you the spiritual tools to put Your Soul back into your own hands! You must find for yourself your True Will, & do it & only it, or be unconsciously swept away in the meaningless busyness of a predefined -or undefined- life! (a fate truly worse then death!)

Who are WOGSS!?

The Daemonolatriea is created and distributed (with help from friends and Allies Worldwide) by Rev, Adtrian Cain, Primate Illuminatus, alter-ego of Godfrey H. Slayne (JHS), Arch Operations Instigator of WOGSS: Whores of Goddess Scientists, "A Goddess Chaos Crowley Kali Qovan", an Independent Religious Order of "Anarcho-Gnostic, Thelemic, Psychick, Scientists." We are Polycultural, Polytheistic, & Polyamorous; Anti-racist, Anti-stateist, & Anti-dogmatic; and we pursue the Antinomian Path of Scientific Illuminism! We have no open membership, but publish our Art & Ideas to Trade with & Inspire Independent Minds everywhere!

Spiritual Revolution!

Each issue of our Daemonolatriea is an Amazing Artistic Announcement of Spiritual Warfare: a Relentless Super-Unnatural Assault on parochial, paternalistic, & exclusionist restrictions on Individual Free Will in the Realm of the Spiritual, Sexual, Social & Trans-Personal expressions of Humankinds Infinite Possibilities!

Take Back Your Soul!

Every issue contains concentrated Keys of Praeternatural Power & Understanding available together in no other single place ever! Each page is a vibrant, dense collage a thousands of distinct Spiritual Symbols & Magick Sigils, Goddesses, Demons, Aliens, Concepts, & Chaos, together with many Diagrams, Table, Charts, & Lists of essential Symbolic & Qabalistic Data! In all they expound a total system of Occult Science & Alternative Religious Experience, for those who are ready, including many Esoteric Spiritual Practices we dare you to try! We will blow your mind away!

Exploding Cultural Barriers

The First in our continuing series is the WOGSS No-Rulesbook, An Alien Art Anticodebook, the Anticryptographa! This preliminary volume provides direct visual/conceptual access to the Deepest & Strangest areas of Magickal (Un)Belief, including but not nearly limited to Lucid dreaming, Alien Communion, Sacred Whoredom, Satanick Science, Personal Power, & the Great Work of personal & Worldwide Illumination! All following issues are the working Grimiores of the actual Daemonolatriea series, the Game Itself!

Embrace the Magick Within!

Each Daemonolatriea Grimiore contains diverse instructions for personal experience with Ritual/Ceremonial, Sexual, Goetic, Gnostic, Kabalistic, Enochian, Thelemic, Satanick, Shamanic, Astrological, Pagan, Chaoist, Draconian, Cthonian, Tantric, Voudon, Alien, &/or many more Polycultural Spiritual Practices to bring the Transcendent Mysteries back into your own life! Each contains numerous Invocations, Adorations, Conjurations, Incantations, Mantras, Meditations, Illuminations, & Initiations, & every element necessary to create Rites & Spells for any purpose you desire! Enter the Unknown & claim your Human Birthright of Communion with the Higher Powers of the Universe! Confront your own Gods & Demons personally & make them serve your True Will!

Be Aware! Be Ready! An Apocalyptic Awakening is Approaching!

Discover Hidden Clues to Surviving the Soul Stunning Wonders & Horrors soon coming to you at the Apotheosis of Human History! It's Armageddon or Our Awakening! So, to help you get even more Info you won't find elsewhere but will need, each individual issue of the Daemonolatriea includes the Total Ads Listings, including 100's of Internet Web Sites & 300+ Free Worldwide Contact Ads, just updated July 2000, for the most incredible Occult, Revolutionary, Anarchic, Sacred, Satanic, Sexual, & Radical Activist Groups & Individuals on the Planet! (and you can send in yours for free now!)

Orders

Each issue is 40+, 81/2 by 11" pages, now for only$7.00, two for $13.00 or any three issues for $18.00 in cash, trade, stamps, or checks made to "cash". Get free strange surprises with every Order! Send all orders, questions, suggestions, contacts, clippings, chaos, & art donations to:

WOGSS, c/o Rev. Adtrian Cain, 1032 Irving St., PMB#906, San Francisco, CA, 94122, USA

E-mail: RevAdtrianCain93@cosmiverse.com

Explicit Graphics & Ideas, Adults 18+ Only!

Get prepared or be scared as life becomes increasingly bizarre from here on out! Take a chance and learn to think in new ways with the incredible "Rorschach tests" of the Daemonolatriea!

The Future is Now!

Home Page
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open LetteR to Allies
WOGSS Terms Plans & InstructionsS
Theology & Rituals of WOGSS
Occult Arts
Wild Writings
Key Links

Sacred Geometry:
(these from: Interactive Thelemic Study Resources Clip Art)

And Sacred Biology:

Stele666, Stele of Revealing, the Link with Antiquity, (Front) showing NUIT arched over all, HADIT as Winger Sphere at Her center, Ra-Hoor-Khuit (Horus) enthroned as Lord of the Aeon, and the Prince-Priest the Beast 666, as Ankh af na Khonsu, making offerings to Our Lord Horus. From Egyptian 26th Dynasty.

Back to Homepage
Adorations of the Sun
Dualities Unified List
Great Work, Eschaton, HGA, & Formula
Open Letter to Allies
WOGSS Terms, Plans, instructions
WOGSS Theology & rituals
Daemonolatriea, Data & ordering
Wild Writings
Key Links

Stay

Wild Writings of WOGSS

A Paraphrase from Randel Helms' "Gospel Fictions", titled here:
Lazarus Was Osiris

The fascinating question is why the author of the fourth Gospel (John) placed the resurrection of Lazarus in Bethany. This village near Jerusalem is not known elsewhere in the Gospels as the sight of a miracle; it is not even connected with Mary and Martha when they are mentioned in Luke. Luke mentions no brother, nor does he use the name Lazarus in connection with the two sisters. How does the author of John make the connection?

I think he combined, with a faulty memory, his knowledge of Luke and Mark. He remembered from Mark that it was "at Bethany, in the house of Simon the Leper," that a certain unnamed woman had anointed Jesus with oil. This was enough to move John to open his story of Lazarus thus: "There was a man named Lazarus who had fallen ill. His home was at Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha. This Mary whose brother Lazarus had fallen ill, was the woman who anointed the Lord with ointment and wiped his feet with her hair" The woman in Bethany did not wipe Jesus' feet with her hair; rather she ..."poured oil over his head". John has misremembered his sources, confusing this story with the one in Luke, set in Nain, about another unnamed woman: "A woman who had been living an immoral life (brought Jesus oil). She sat beside him weeping ...on his feet... and she wiped them with her hair, kissing them and anointing them with the myrrh."

John has blended the two stories together: the woman at Bethany who anoints Jesus' head (who is not described as a sinner)becomes the sister at Nain (though remaining at Bethany) who wipes his feet with her hair. But neither of these women is named..

Mary and Martha come from a third story, in Luke 10:38-39, and they live in an unnamed village: "Jesus came to a village where a woman named Martha made him welcome in her home. She had a sister, Mary, who seated herself at his feet and listened to his words" Thus, Mary who sat a Jesus feet was already misidentified with the woman who anointed Jesus feet, who was already misidentified as the woman at Bethany who anointed his head.

Lazarus comes, of course, from another story in Luke, Jesus' parable of Dives and Lazarus (16:19-31), neither of whom is related to Mary or Martha or Bethany. What prompted John to put them all together as the characters and setting of his climactic miracle story? A Lazarus who dies, two sisters, and the village of Bethany- all unrelated, all to be joined together in the writer's mind; there must have been a catalyst.

The answer is not to be found in the Gospels, but the Egyptian myth of Osiris. In the Egyptian myth, Osiris, who dies, has two sisters, Isis and Nephthys. Osiris lies dead in Annu, the Egyptian necropolis, known in Greek as Heliopolis and in the Old Testament as Beth-shemesh (Jer. 43:13) "City of the Sun" and "House of the Sun" respectively. A formulaic name in Egyptian for this city was the "great house of Anu", ...which is readily semitized as Beth-anu. Likewise "Lazarus" (the Greek form of the Hebrew name Eleazar") readily associates itself with the name of Osiris (Asar) (semetized to El-Asar, literally "The Asar").

According to the pyramid texts, "they come to Osiris the King at the sound of the weeping of Isis, at the cry of Nephthys, at the wailing of these two spirits" At Bethany, Jesus saw "Mary weeping and the Jews her companions weeping."

Of the dead god in Annu it is said: "O Osiris the King, you have gone, but you will return; you have slept but you will awake; you have died but you will live." On hearing of the death of Lazarus Jesus says, "our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep but I shall go and wake him." Jesus approaches the tomb and says "Take away the stone". To Osiris it is said, The Tomb is opened for you, the doors of the Tomb chamber are thrown open for you." Objecting to Jesus demand, Martha says "by now there will be a stench, he has been there four days." After Osiris is resurrected we are told "Osiris speaks to Horus, for he has removed the evil which was on the King on his fourth day." The dead one in Annu/Bethany is then told to arise: "I am Horus, O Osiris the King, I will not let you suffer. Go forth, wake up." "Then he (Jesus) raised his voice in a great cry: "Lazarus, come forth."" The wrappings of the dead must be removed: "O King, live, for you are not dead. Horus will come to you that he may cut you cords and throw off your bonds; Horus has removed your hindrance." "The dead man (Lazarus) came out, his hands and feet swathed in linen bands, and Jesus said, "Loose him, let him go."

All this is from "Gospel Fictions" by Randel Helms, and ought to dispel any "Biblical inerrency" claims at the very least. Also it adds great weight to our own ecumenical view of the universality of the Inner Archtypes (IMHO). And it supports the view expressed here some time ago that the N.T. is a deliberately constructed trap, (to divert one from the inner Truth to a literalistic absurdity). More soon.

==

Key Quotations

The beginning of wisdom is to call things by their right names -- Chinese

To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself as the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty, which our dull faculties can comprehend only in the most primitive forms - this knowledge, this feeling, is at the center of true religiousness. In this sense, and in this sense only, I belong to the ranks of the devoutly religious men. – Albert Einstein

All great truths begin as blasphemies. – G.B. Shaw

Truth is what most contradicts itself. – Laurence Durrell

"Reality" is the temporary resultant of continuous struggles between rival gangs of programers. - What the thinker thinks, the prover proves. – Robert Anton Wilson

Insane people are always sure they’re just fine. It’s only the sane people who are willing to admit they’re crazy. – Nora Ephron

The sane person is not he who has eliminated all contradictions, but one who uses them & applies them in his work. – Maurice Merleau-Ponty

Sanity is madness put to good use. – Santayana

Every sentence I utter must be understood not as an affirmation but as a question. - Belief is an obsolete Aristotelian category. – Neils Bohr

Scientists are peeping toms at the keyholes of reality. – Aurther Koestler

Heresies are experiments in mans’ unsatisfied search for truth. – H. G. Wells

Freedom is the Will to take responsibility for ourselves. - Convictions are more dangerous enemies of truth then lies. – Fredrich Neitzsche

To me, every dirty act was simply a sacrament of sin, a passionately religious protest against Christianity, which was for me the symbol of all vileness, meanness, treachery, falsehood and oppression. - Something always sings in the mud and scum of things. – Aleister Crowley

In the course of this struggle against sexual urges the sexual force becomes distorted, turning in upon itself to generate destructive impulses centering about the "mortification of the flesh". The struggle against sexuality which played & still plays a large part in the so-called morality of the Christian Church has probably caused more human misery then all the great plagues combined. This struggle, at its height, reduced large segments of the population of Europe to the status of devil-obsessed homicidal lunatics. – unknown (And certainly would again if allowed the chance! Ed.)

No-one gets any second chances until everyone gets a first chance! – Adam Weishaupt

All the body is in the Mind, but not all the Mind is in the body. – Swami Rama

We are part of a symbiotic relationship with something that disguises itself as an extraterrestrial invasion so as not to alarm us. - Great events cast their shadows before them. – Terrence McKenna

Alliterative Artillery

Attention! Announcing An Amazing Aeonic Actualization Arranged Around Attaining An Anomalous Arch-Alien, Anarcho-Athiest Alternative Art Alliance And Ancient Apocalyptic Association Amongst Awakened Antinomian Adversaries!

Any And All Anti-Authoritarian Aliens Accepted As Allies Amongst Active Adherents Aflame At All-Amorous Aradia's Absolute Alter!

Annihilating Answers Assimilated And Accelerated Accordingly As Anathema Acolytes Activate Advanced Astrological Acids!

Arise Amid Autonomous Anointed Adepts Ascending An Averse Apocryphal Arcanum And Archaic Agitprop As Apostate Anchorites Activate Archetypal Aeonic Apotheosis' And Arcane Aboriginal Abominations About Atonement!

Abnormal Apes And Adulterous Astral Amphibians Also Accentuate Abstract Anathema Ambiguities And Always Attain Absurdist Aberrance And Androgynous Amoral Acculturation!

Anonymous Auguries Awake Advanced Abstract Awareness Activating All Alive As Aphrodisiac Allegories Alert Attuned Arthropods Against Altruistic Authoritarians And Abject Arresting Assholes!

Angry Angels Aiwaz, Azreal, Azazel, Asmodius, Ashtaroth, Abaddon And Appolyon Ascend An Abstract Abyss Above Avernus And Assault Antique Anachronistic Anomaly-Annihilating Analysis!

Headlines

- breakdown
- 7 months ago
- Signs Your Vehicle Might Be Eligible for Lemon Law
- horse
- 2 years ago

How to Care for a Racing Horse
classic car
2 years ago
Shipping Classic Cars: Preserving Automotive Legends During Transport
2 years ago
Exploring the Role of Criminal Defense Lawyers: Why and How They Contact Accusers cash buyer
2 years ago
Why Engaging Cash Buyers Is Ideal for Selling Your Distressed Property
check
3 years ago
Understanding Your Vehicle Safety Inspection Checklist
breakdown
7 months ago
Signs Your Vehicle Might Be Eligible for Lemon Law
horse
2 years ago
How to Care for a Racing Horse
classic car
2 years ago
Shipping Classic Cars: Preserving Automotive Legends During Transport
2 years ago
Exploring the Role of Criminal Defense Lawyers: Why and How They Contact Accusers cash buyer
2 years ago
Why Engaging Cash Buyers Is Ideal for Selling Your Distressed Property
check
3 years ago
Understanding Your Vehicle Safety Inspection Checklist

Popular News

Auto

Ways To Customize Your Car
How to choose the best Belly Rings
David Lopez 7 months ago
An In Ground Pool for your Home
David Lopez 7 months ago
Insightful Tips When Buying Used Compact Tractors
David Lopez 7 months ago
Latest News
breakdown

Law

Signs Your Vehicle Might Be Eligible for Lemon Law

David Lopez7 months ago06 mins

Purchasing a vehicle is an exciting milestone. Whether it's your first car or an upgrade to something more luxurious, the thrill of hitting the open road can't be understated. However, what happens when that dream ride turns into a nightmare? If you find yourself facing persistent issues with your new vehicle, you may feel overwhelmed and frustrated. That's where lemon laws come into play. These consumer protection laws can help safeguard buyers from defective vehicles. Arizona's Lemon Law offers specific measures to protect consumers who purchase faulty new cars. But how do you know if your car qualifies for these protections? Let's explore some telltale signs that might indicate you're dealing with a lemon on wheels.

Serious Safety Defects

When it comes to vehicle safety, any defect can be alarming. Serious safety issues pose a considerable risk not only to the driver but also to passengers and pedestrians. Imagine discovering that your brakes fail unexpectedly or that the airbag system isn't functioning properly. These are not minor inconveniences; they jeopardize lives on every journey. If you notice warning lights on your dashboard or hear strange noises when operating essential systems, these could signal defects needing urgent attention. Ignoring such signs is dangerous. Moreover, if recall notices keep popping up for your model yet repairs are inadequate, this is a red flag.

Repeated Mechanical Failures engine failures

Repeated mechanical failures are a major red flag when it comes to vehicle reliability. If your car is constantly in the shop for repairs, it's time to take notice. Think about it: you shouldn't have to return to the mechanic every few weeks for issues that should be resolved. Frequent breakdowns can lead to mounting repair bills and endless frustration. Even minor problems that keep cropping up can add up quickly. A persistent issue may indicate a deeper defect within the vehicle's design or construction. If you're facing ongoing troubles despite numerous attempts at fixing them, documenting these incidents becomes crucial.

Poor Performance or Handling

You expect your vehicle to respond smoothly and efficiently. When it doesn't, it can be frustrating. Poor performance often manifests as sluggish acceleration or unresponsive steering. If your car struggles on inclines or feels wobbly during turns, something is likely amiss. These signs are not just annoying; they can signal deeper issues that may fall under lemon law protections. Inconsistent braking or excessive vibrations while driving also raise red flags. Such problems can compromise safety and overall enjoyment behind the wheel. A vehicle should inspire confidence in its handling capabilities, not anxiety about every drive.

Extended Downtime

down time

Extended downtime can be a frustrating experience for any vehicle owner. If your car spends more time in the shop than on the road, it's a significant red flag. Mechanics should fix issues promptly, but when repairs drag on for weeks or even months, you may have grounds to consider lemon law protections. Each visit for repair chips away at your confidence in that vehicle. You might find yourself missing important commitments because of an unreliable car. It's not just inconvenient; it impacts your daily life and peace of mind. If you notice frequent trips to the dealership with long wait times each time, take note.

Knowing the signs that your vehicle may be covered by lemon law can empower you as a consumer. If you're experiencing repeated mechanical failures, serious safety defects, extended downtime, or poor performance and handling, it might be time to take action. Don't hesitate to seek advice from legal professionals who specialize in lemon law. Understanding your rights is crucial for protecting yourself and ensuring that you drive safely …
Read More
horse

General

How to Care for a Racing Horse
David Lopez2 years ago07 mins

Caring for a racing horse requires a comprehensive approach that ensures the animal's health, performance, and overall well-being. The good horse breeds for racing are elite athletes, and their care involves specialized feeding, training, grooming, medical attention, and mental stimulation. This guide provides essential tips on how to care for a racing horse effectively.
Proper Nutrition

Nutrition is the cornerstone of a racing horse's care. These horses need a balanced diet rich in energy, protein, vitamins, and minerals to sustain their high levels of activity and promote optimal health. Providing high-quality forage such as hay or pasture grass is essential, with alfalfa hay often recommended for its higher protein content. Supplementing the diet with grains or commercial feed designed for high-performance horses is also important to meet their energy requirements. Consider adding dietary supplements to ensure the horse receives all necessary nutrients, including electrolytes, vitamins, minerals, and joint support products. Ensuring constant access to clean, fresh water is crucial for maintaining the horse's performance and health.
Regular Exercise and Training

A well-structured training regimen is essential for a racing horse to build strength, speed, and stamina. Developing a consistent training schedule that includes a mix of gallops, sprints, and slow work helps build the horse's fitness and conditioning. Starting with a warm-up session to prepare the horse's muscles and ending with a cool-down period helps prevent injuries and aid recovery. Including rest days in the training program allows the horse’s muscles to recover and reduces the risk of overtraining. Incorporating different types of exercises, such as swimming or trail riding, keeps the horse engaged and prevents boredom.

horses

Grooming and Skin Care

Regular grooming is vital for maintaining a racing horse’s coat, skin, and overall health. Brushing the horse daily to remove dirt, sweat, and loose hair helps keep the coat healthy and shiny. Bathing the horse regularly, especially after intense workouts, removes sweat and dirt buildup. Using a gentle, horse-specific shampoo is recommended. Cleaning and inspecting the hooves daily and scheduling regular farrier visits every 4-6 weeks are essential to keep the hooves in good condition and prevent issues like cracks or infections. Checking for any signs of skin conditions, such as rain rot or fungal infections, and treating them promptly while keeping the horse’s living environment clean and dry helps prevent such issues.

Veterinary Care

Regular veterinary care is crucial for monitoring the horse’s health and addressing any medical issues promptly. Scheduling regular veterinary examinations helps monitor the horse’s health and detect any potential issues early. Keeping up with a regular vaccination schedule and deworming program protects the horse from common diseases and parasites. Having the horse’s teeth checked and floated by a veterinarian or equine dentist at least once a year prevents dental problems that can affect feeding and performance. Being vigilant for signs of injury or lameness and promptly addressing any injuries with appropriate treatment and rest is essential for the horse’s well-being.

Mental Stimulation and Socialization

A racing horse’s mental and physical fitness are equally vital. It is critical to provide chances for social engagement for racing horses since they are friendly creatures that thrive in the company of other horses. Providing toys, treat balls, and other forms of environmental enrichment keeps the horse mentally stimulated. Maintaining a consistent routine helps reduce stress and anxiety, as horses find comfort in predictable schedules and familiar surroundings.

Safe and Comfortable Housing

A racing horse’s health and happiness depend on its living conditions, which are clean, safe, and pleasant. A well-ventilated, wide stall with clean bedding promotes the horse’s comfort and safety. Allowing the horse regular …

Read More
classic car

Services

Shipping Classic Cars: Preserving Automotive Legends During Transport

David Lopez2 years ago06 mins

Classic cars, with their timeless designs and historical significance, are more than just vehicles. They are rolling pieces of art and cultural heritage. Whether you’re a passionate collector, an enthusiast, or a proud owner, the prospect of shipping a classic car can be both exciting and nerve-wracking. Preserving these automotive legends during transport requires careful planning, attention to detail, and a commitment to ensuring their safe journey. Let’s explore the essential considerations for shipping classic cars and safeguarding these iconic vehicles for generations to come.

Choose an Experienced Classic Car Shipping Specialist specialist

When entrusting your classic car to a shipping company, opt for specialists with experience in handling vintage and classic automobiles. These experts understand the unique requirements of classic cars, including secure loading, proper securing, and climate-controlled transport options. Removals of classic cars require a delicate touch, and experienced specialists excel in providing the meticulous care these treasured vehicles deserve.

Research and Verify Credentials

Thoroughly research potential classic car shipping companies and verify their credentials. Look for industry certifications, reviews from fellow classic car enthusiasts, and testimonials from previous customers. A reputable and reliable shipping partner is crucial for the safe transport of your prized possessions.

Insist on Enclosed Transport

Classic cars deserve the highest level of protection during transport, and enclosed carriers provide just that. Enclosed transport shields your classic car from external elements, such as road debris, adverse weather conditions, and potential scratches. This premium service helps maintain the pristine condition of your vintage vehicle.

Ensure Proper Insurance Coverage

Classic cars often have sentimental and monetary value far beyond that of regular vehicles. Ensure that your classic car shipping company provides adequate insurance coverage. Verify the coverage limits and inquire about additional insurance options to protect your investment during transit.

Document the Condition of Your Classic Car

Before handing over your classic car for shipping, conduct a thorough inspection and document its current condition. Take photographs from multiple angles, noting any existing scratches, dents, or unique features. This documentation serves as a reference point in case any issues arise during transport.

Disable Alarms and Secure Loose Parts

Prior to shipping, disable any alarms or anti-theft devices in your classic car. Additionally, secure loose parts and accessories to prevent damage during transport. Items like side mirrors, antennas, or convertible tops should be properly secured to avoid any potential issues.

car alarm

Choose the Right Shipping Schedule

Consider the timing of your classic car shipment, especially if you're participating in a car show, auction, or special event. Plan the shipping schedule to ensure your classic car arrives well in advance, allowing time for any unexpected delays and ensuring it's in pristine condition for its showcase.

Communicate Special Handling Instructions

Classic cars may have specific handling requirements due to their age or unique features. Communicate any special instructions to the shipping company, such as delicate paint finishes, low ground clearance, or manual handling preferences. Clear communication ensures that your classic car receives the attention it deserves.

Choose Direct Routes and Experienced Drivers

Opt for shipping routes that minimize the time your classic car spends on the road. Direct routes and experienced drivers who are familiar with the nuances of classic car transport contribute to a smoother and safer journey.

Shipping classic cars is not just about moving vehicles from one point to another; it's about preserving the legacy of automotive history. By choosing experienced shipping specialists, insisting on enclosed transport, ensuring proper insurance coverage, and communicating specific handling instructions, you contribute to the longevity and pristine condition of these automotive legends. As your classic car gracefully cruises through time and miles, the …

Read More

Law

Exploring the Role of Criminal Defense Lawyers: Why and How They Contact Accusers

David Lopez2 years ago06 mins

At the heart of any intricate legal framework lies the role of a criminal defense lawyer. These dedicated legal warriors are not just defenders but strategists who leave no stone unturned in their quest for justice. One crucial aspect of their job involves reaching out to accusers and gathering additional information that could make or break a case.

This behind-the-scenes maneuvering plays an instrumental role in shaping the outcome of criminal proceedings, often leading to surprising revelations and unexpected twists. So, let’s delve into this fascinating world as we explore why and how criminal defense lawyers contact accusers.

Collection of Additional Information

In the pursuit of justice, professional criminal defense lawyers leave no stone unturned. One crucial aspect of their role is gathering additional information from accusers. This step is essential to building a strong defense strategy and uncovering any hidden truths that may be pivotal to the case.

To gather this information, defense lawyers employ various tactics. They conduct thorough interviews with the accusers, meticulously combing through every detail of their statements. They aim to uncover inconsistencies or discrepancies in the narrative. Armed with these valuable insights obtained through diligent investigation and meticulous fact-finding efforts, they are better equipped to fight for justice in the courtroom on behalf of their clients.

Cross-Examination Preparation

Preparing for cross-examination is a crucial part of a criminal defense lawyer’s role. It involves strategizing and gathering information to effectively challenge the prosecution’s case through questioning the accuser. This process can make or break a trial, as it allows the defense attorney to expose inconsistencies, biases, or ulterior motives that may undermine the credibility of the accuser.

To begin with, the defense lawyer meticulously studies all available evidence related to the case. They review police reports, witness statements, and any other relevant documents that could provide insights into weaknesses in the prosecution’s argument. This thorough preparation enables them to identify potential areas of attack during cross-examination.

Once armed with this knowledge, the attorney will craft their questions carefully. The best criminal defense lawyer south carolina often aims to elicit responses that either discredit or cast doubt on what has been presented by the accuser and other witnesses. By probing deeper into specific details or challenging contradictions in testimonies, they seek to demonstrate reasonable doubt.

Negotiation and Resolution on Your Behalf

Your lawyer will thoroughly analyze the evidence presented against you and pinpoint any weaknesses or inconsistencies in the prosecution’s case. Armed with this information, they can then engage in negotiations with the accuser or prosecutor.

During these negotiations, your defense attorney will advocate for your rights and interests. They will present compelling arguments highlighting any mitigating factors that may have influenced your alleged actions. They aim to secure a resolution that minimizes potential penalties or even leads to charges being dropped altogether. To effectively negotiate on your behalf, lawyers must possess excellent communication skills. They understand how important it is to maintain open lines of dialogue while advocating for their client’s best interests.

Establishment of Credibility

One way that a criminal defense lawyer establishes credibility is by thoroughly investigating the facts surrounding the case. They will gather evidence, interview witnesses, and review any available documentation to build a solid foundation for their client’s defense. Additionally, a good lawyer will maintain open lines of communication with their client throughout the legal process. By actively listening to their client’s concerns and questions, they can demonstrate empathy and understanding while also providing clear explanations regarding strategy and potential outcomes.

All in all, the ultimate role of a criminal defense lawyer goes beyond merely representing their client in court …
Read More
cash buyer

Real Estate

Why Engaging Cash Buyers Is Ideal for Selling Your Distressed Property
David Lopez2 years ago04 mins

Selling a distressed property can be a challenging task for homeowners, especially when time and financial constraints are at play. In such situations, engaging cash buyers can offer numerous advantages over traditional buyers who rely on mortgage financing. This guide aims to highlight four factors that make cash buyers ideal for selling distressed properties. By considering these factors, homeowners can maximize their chances of a successful and expedited sale.

Speed of Sale

One of the primary benefits of engaging cash buyers when selling a distressed property is the speed at which the transaction can be completed. Cash buyers have the advantage of not having to secure mortgage financing, eliminating the lengthy process of loan approval and underwriting. With cash readily available, these buyers can often close the deal within a matter of days or weeks, compared to the months it may take with traditional buyers.
Higher Likelihood of Closing closingDistressed properties often come with their own set of challenges, such as extensive repairs, liens, or legal complications. Traditional buyers may hesitate to purchase such properties due to the potential risks and uncertainties involved. Cash buyers, however, are more likely to proceed with the purchase, as they are typically experienced investors or real estate professionals who specialize in distressed properties.

As-Is Purchase

Cash buyers are generally willing to purchase distressed properties in their current condition without requiring extensive repairs or renovations. Traditional buyers, especially those relying on mortgage financing, may demand repairs or negotiate lower prices to account for the property's condition. This can be a significant advantage for distressed property owners who may lack the financial resources or time to invest in repairs. By engaging cash buyers, homeowners can sell their properties without the burden of costly renovations, allowing them to move on from their distressed situation swiftly.

Certainty and Convenience certain

Cash buyers offer a level of certainty and convenience that traditional buyers cannot always guarantee. Mortgage financing can be subject to various contingencies, such as property appraisals, inspections, and loan approvals, which can introduce uncertainties into the selling process. Cash buyers, on the other hand, eliminate these contingencies, providing a more straightforward and streamlined transaction process. This certainty not only reduces stress for distressed property owners but also provides the convenience of a smoother and more predictable closing.

Engaging cash buyers when selling a distressed property can yield numerous benefits for homeowners facing financial or time constraints. The speed at which cash buyers can close transactions, coupled with their willingness to purchase properties in as-is condition, make them an ideal option for distressed property owners.…

Read More

check

Auto

Understanding Your Vehicle Safety Inspection Checklist

David Lopez3 years ago06 mins

Are you tired of feeling clueless and intimidated regarding your vehicle's safety inspection checklist? Don't worry; you're not alone. Many drivers struggle with understanding the ins and outs of this crucial process. But fear not because this blog post breaks down everything you need to know about your vehicle's safety inspection checklist. We've got you covered, from what items are inspected to why they matter. So buckle up and get ready for a crash course in car safety.

Lights and Signals

A crucial aspect of a vehicle safety inspection is assessing the lights and signals. Inspectors check the functionality of headlights, taillights, brake lights, turn signals, and hazard lights. They ensure that these lights are not only working but also properly aligned.

Faulty or misaligned lights can compromise your visibility and create hazardous conditions on the road. So, keeping these essential components in proper working order is vital for a successful safety inspection. You can visit the vtv turnos la plata service to get your vehicle inspected and learn more about why lights and signals are so important.

Steering and Alignment

steer

The steering and alignment of your vehicle play a vital role in its maneuverability and overall safety. During an inspection, the inspector will evaluate the condition of the steering system, including the steering wheel, steering column, and power steering components. They will also check the wheel alignment to ensure it is within acceptable limits. A well-functioning steering and properly aligned wheels contribute to a smooth and controlled driving experience.

Braking System

Your vehicle’s braking system is a key player in your safety on the road. During a safety inspection, the inspector will evaluate the condition of your brake pads, rotors, and calipers. They will check for wear, leakage, or improper functioning. Additionally, the parking brake will be tested for effectiveness. A properly maintained braking system ensures quick and reliable stops, providing you with peace of mind while driving.

Tires and Suspension

The condition of your tires and suspension greatly impacts your vehicle‘s stability and handling. Inspectors will examine the tread depth, sidewall condition, and overall tire health. They will also check the suspension components, including shock absorbers, struts, and control arms. Any excessive wear, damage, or misalignment can lead to a failed inspection. Proper tire pressure and regular suspension maintenance will help you pass this part of the inspection easily.

Exhaust Emissions

Environmental concerns are an essential part of vehicle safety inspections. Inspectors will assess the emissions system to ensure it meets the required standards. They will check for any leaks, the proper functioning of the catalytic converter, and the presence of any visible smoke or excessive emissions. A well-maintained emissions system reduces harmful pollutants released into the environment.

Other Essential Components

checklistIn addition to the above, a vehicle safety inspection may include reviewing other important components. These can vary depending on local regulations, but commonly inspected items include windshield wipers, mirrors, seatbelts, horns, chassis, fuel systems, etc. Each of these components contributes to your vehicle’s overall safety and functionality, ensuring you and others on the road are protected.

Each aspect is carefully evaluated, from lights and signals to the braking system, tires and suspension, steering and alignment, exhaust emissions, and other essential components to keep you roadworthy. Regular maintenance, prompt repairs, and proactive attention to these areas will help you pass the inspection and ensure your vehicle’s safety and performance. So, remember these checkpoints and enjoy a safe and smooth ride.…

Read More
baby

Home

Key Factors to Consider When Baby-Proofing Your Home

David Lopez3 years ago04 mins

Did you know that your home can simply be a dangerous place for your baby? This is especially true if your baby starts exploring his surroundings. So, baby-proofing your home as soon as possible seems a must, not a gimmick anymore, isn’t it? You want to ensure that your little one is safe and secure in their environment, even when playing with toys. There are many different factors to consider when baby-proofing your home. And that’s what we’re about to explore today. Here we’ll guide you on how to properly baby-proof your home and keep your baby safe and sound.

Blocked Areas and Gates

gateOne of the most important aspects of baby-proofing your home is keeping certain areas blocked off or inaccessible to your baby. This may involve installing gates, particularly for staircases and other rooms, that could pose a safety risk for your little one. Additionally, it would help if you also considered blocking off any hazardous products you have in your households, such as cleaning supplies and chemicals. After all, it’s better to be safe than sorry.

Anchored Furniture and Appliances

couchAnother crucial area to consider when baby-proofing your home is furniture and appliances. Make sure that all of your furniture pieces are anchored securely so that they cannot accidentally tip over. Additionally, inspect any electrical outlets for exposed wiring, which can cause a shock hazard. Also, cover any radiators or other hot water sources so your little one won’t get burned.

Covered Electrical Outlets and Other Electrical Hazards

When baby-proofing your home, be sure to cover or block any exposed electrical outlets. You can purchase outlet covers from a hardware store that will help protect your child from any shock hazard. Aside from that, inspect all of your appliances for exposed cords and wires, as these can also pose a safety risk for your little one.

Household Hazards Education for the Entire Family

panBut most importantly, one thing that you can’t afford to skip is to educate your entire family about potential household hazards. Let everyone know what areas are off limits and which ones they should keep an eye on while your little one is exploring his environment. This will help ensure that all family members are aware of any potential safety risks, and can take the necessary steps to ensure your baby’s safety.

By understanding and following these key factors when baby-proofing your home, you can rest assured that your little one is safe while they explore their environment. Make sure to check all of these areas regularly and be vigilant in keeping up with any potential safety hazards. Your child is priceless. So protect him at all cost.…

Read More
car

General

Five Things that Affect Your Car’s Performance
David Lopez3 years ago04 mins

Like most people, you probably don’t think about your car’s performance often. You want it to get you from Point A to Point B with no problems. However, a few things can affect your car’s performance and cause it to run poorly. For instance, a radiator stop leak can hinder performance in other parts of your car’s engine. Below are five other things that can affect your car’s performance.
Dirty Oil

Dirty oil can cause several problems for your car, including decreased performance. When you don’t change your oil often enough, the oil becomes dirty and doesn’t lubricate the engine as well. It can lead to increased engine wear and tear, leading to decreased performance.

red
Fuel Additives

Fuel additives can do more harm than good, especially if you use them too often. Over time, they can build up your fuel system and clog it. This can lead to decreased performance and engine damage. Some car owners have even reported their engines quitting altogether after using too many fuel additives.
Air Filters

A dirty air filter can restrict airflow to your engine, leading to decreased performance. Your car’s engine needs a certain amount of air to run properly. When the air filter is clogged, it doesn’t allow enough air to get through, leading to decreased performance. You can avoid this problem by changing your air filter regularly.
Spark Plugs

Spark plugs are another critical part of your car’s engine. They create the spark that ignites the fuel in your engine. When they become fouled or damaged, they can cause many problems, including decreased performance. It is advisable to replace your spark plugs every few years to avoid this problem.
Catalytic Converters

carA catalytic converter is a device that helps to reduce emissions from your car’s engine. However, they can become clogged over time, leading to decreased performance. You’ll know if your catalytic converter is going bad if you notice your car’s engine running rough or losing power.

If this happens, you'll need to replace it. These are just a few things that can affect your car's performance. Monitor these things and ensure they're in good working order to avoid any problems. Have your vehicle checked out by a mechanic if you think there may be an issue. You can learn more about caring for your vehicle by reading your car's owner's manual. Hopefully, this article has given you insight into what can affect your car's performance. Monitor these things and have your car regularly serviced to avoid any problems.…
Read More
crypto

Finance

Mistakes to Avoid When Trading Cryptocurrency

David Lopez3 years ago06 mins

Cryptocurrencies have taken the world by storm in recent years. There are now over 1,500 different cryptocurrencies in circulation. Immediate edge and other trading bots have made it possible for anyone to trade cryptocurrencies, regardless of experience or expertise.

However, just because anyone can trade cryptocurrency doesn't mean everyone should. Several mistakes that novice traders often make can cost them dearly. If you're thinking about getting into cryptocurrency trading, it's important to avoid making these five common mistakes:

Ignoring Research

trading plansBefore you trade cryptocurrency, it's essential to do your research and understand the market. There are a lot of different factors that can affect the price of cryptocurrencies, and it's important to be aware of them before trading.

If you don't do your research, you could buy a cryptocurrency that's about to crash in value or sell one that's about to skyrocket. Spend some time reading up on the market before you trade. There are a lot of great resources out there, like online forums, blogs, and podcasts.

Not Diversifying Your Portfolio

When you're starting, it's tempting to put all your eggs in one basket and invest all of your money in one cryptocurrency. However, this is a risky strategy because if that cryptocurrency crashes, you could lose everything. Instead, it would help to diversify your portfolio by investing in various cryptocurrencies. That way, if one crashes, you won't lose everything. There are hundreds of different cryptocurrencies to choose from, so there's no need to put all of your money into just one.

Not Setting a Stop-Loss

A stop-loss is an order you set with your broker to sell a security if it reaches a specific price. It’s important because it can help you limit your losses if the price of a cryptocurrency starts to crash. For example, let’s say you bought Bitcoin for $500 and set a stop-loss at $450. If the price of Bitcoin falls to $450, your broker will automatically sell it, and you’ll only lose $50. Without a stop-loss, you could lose a lot more money if the price of Bitcoin crashes. So, make sure you set one before you start trading.

Getting Emotional

Cryptocurrency trading can be very emotional. It’s important to stay calm and rational when you’re making decisions. If you get too emotionally attached to your investments, you could make some bad decisions. For example, you might hold onto a losing investment for too long, hoping it will eventually turn around. Or you might sell an investment too early because you’re worried about it losing value. It’s important to remember that cryptocurrency trading is a long-term game. Don’t make any rash decisions that you’ll regret later.

Not Using a Trading Plan

mobile tradingA trading plan is a set of rules you follow when trading. It should include things like how much money you’re willing to invest, your goals, and your exit strategy. A trading plan can help you stay disciplined and avoid impulsive decisions. Without a plan, it’s easy to get caught up in the excitement of trading and make costly mistakes.

Conclusion

Taking time to avoid these mistakes will put you in a much better position to succeed as a cryptocurrency trader. So do your research, diversify your portfolio, set a stop-loss, and don’t get emotional about your trades. And most importantly, make sure you have a solid trading plan before you start trading.…

Read More

playing

Uncategorized

Top Security Features in Platforms to Purchase Rust Skins

David Lopez3 years ago04 mins

If you’re in the market for some new rust skins, you’ll want to make sure you’re choosing a platform with top security features. After all, you don’t want your private information or money to be at risk. This blog post will discuss some of the best security features to look for when choosing sites at https://farmingless.com/best-places-to-buy-rust-skins/ to purchase rust skins. We’ll also give you a few tips on how to stay safe while shopping online.

Secure Login

phoneA secure login is one of the most critical security features to look for when purchasing rust skins. This means that the platform you’re using will encrypt your login information so that anyone else can’t access it. This is important because it means that even if someone were to get ahold of your login information, they wouldn’t be able to do anything with it.

Two Factor Authentification

Another great security feature to look for is two-factor authentication. This means that in addition to your password, you'll also need another piece of information (usually a code sent to your phone) to log in. It makes it much harder for someone to hack into your account, even if they have your password. If a platform offers two-factor authentication, it's worth considering.

Customer Support

When shopping online, choosing a platform with excellent customer support is always essential. This way, if you ever have any problems or questions, you'll be able to get in touch with someone who can help. Look for a platform that offers 24/seven customer support so you can always get the help you need. In addition to excellent customer support, you'll also want to ensure that the platform has a good reputation.

Buyer Protection

Finally, you'll want to ensure that the platform you're using offers buyer protection. It means that if something goes wrong with your purchase, or if you don't receive the skins you ordered, you'll be able to get your money back. This is a great safety net to have and can give you peace of mind when making rust-skin purchases. When purchasing rust skins, choosing a platform with top security features is crucial. Look for secure login, two-factor authentication, and a buyer protection platform. You'll also want to ensure that the platform has excellent customer support. Following these tips, you can shop for rust skins confidently, knowing that your information and money are safe.
Thanks for reading.…
Read More couple

General

Perfect Ways to Set Up a Romantic Dinner at Home

David Lopez4 years ago05 mins

Valentine's Day has passed, but there is nothing wrong with always celebrating the love for each other. We've got you covered if you're looking for a romantic way to spend an evening at home. Even though you're such an extremely busy man like Bart Peterschick, you can still set up and have a lovely dinner with your wife. Find out here. Today, we will talk about some of the best ways to set up a romantic dinner for two. Whether you're cooking a meal yourself or ordering in, these tips will help make your night special.

balloons

Bring the Right Ambiance to Your Dining Room

One of the most important things for a romantic dinner is setting the mood. Your dining room feels warm and inviting, not like a sterile hotel lobby. One way to do this is with lighting. Candles are always a good choice, but they can be a fire hazard if you're not careful. If you're not comfortable with candles, try string lights or even turn off the overhead light and use lamps instead. Another way to set the mood is with music. Create a playlist of your partner's favorite songs, or find a romantic playlist online. Soft instrumental music is usually best so you can still talk and enjoy each other's company.

Serve a Delicious Meal With a Set of Desserts

Aside from that, there won't be a dinner without a meal and dessert, right? A romantic dinner is a perfect time to try a new recipe or make your partner's favorite dish. If you're not much of a cook, plenty of places will deliver food right to your door. Just be sure to set the table with some candles and flowers to make it special. And don't forget dessert. Chocolate is always a good choice, but you can also get creative with strawberry shortcakes or heart-shaped cookies.

Clean Up Yourself and Mind Your Look

Now that you have the perfect romantic dinner set up, it's time to focus on yourself. Make sure you're well-groomed and wearing something excellent. This is not the time for sweatpants and a ratty t-shirt. Brush your hair, put on some makeup, and wear something that makes you feel confident. Your partner will appreciate the effort, and you'll feel better about yourself.

meal

Serve Champagne and Enjoy the Evening

Finally, it's time to enjoy your romantic dinner. Pour some champagne, make a toast to your love, and enjoy the evening. Things may go perfectly fine, but sometimes, they don't. If you're feeling nervous or things get awkward, remember that your partner is there with you because they love you. So relax, be yourself, and enjoy the night. And if all else fails, you can always order pizza.

As a final note, enjoy the company of your loved one. If you're both feeling stressed from work or life in general, take this time to reconnect and enjoy each other's company. Talk about things that make you both happy or even things bothering you. The important thing is that you're spending time together and creating memories that will last a lifetime.…

Read More

money

Business

Benefits of Using Online Payroll Software for Your Start-up

David Lopez4 years ago04 mins

As we start running our business, there are many things to do. They can be pretty daunting. One of the most vital things to work with is payroll management. Online check stub maker can be an invaluable tool for start-ups. It is a time-saver, and it helps manage the accounting process. But what does online payroll offer? This blog post will discuss four benefits of using this type of software: cost savings, ease of use, paperless transactions, and lower risk for error.

Cost Savings

online payrollOnline payroll software helps cut costs. It reduces the number of transactions that need to be completed manually. It saves hours and hours, thus decreasing salaries for employees performing these functions.

Moreover, as there is no need to print and mail paychecks, there are fewer expenses on postage. Finally, online payroll software can help save money by helping you avoid errors in calculating employees' wages.

Ease of Use

online pay stubUsing a web-based portal for managing payroll takes away much of the stress related to this task. The interface is easy to use and understand by all personnel involved in various payables management processes: managers, employees, and accountants.

Employees can view their paystubs and tax forms from the comfort of their computer screen. Managers can quickly generate reports on employee hours worked and wages paid. And accountants have access to all the data they need to complete required filings with government agencies.

Paperless Transactions

One of the great benefits of online payroll software is that it does not require the paper to work. All paychecks are issued electronically, thus preventing time wasted on printing and processing paperwork. Moreover, employees receive their wages in electronic form: direct deposit into bank accounts or via debit cards.

Lower Risk for Error

wagesThe last benefit of using this type of software is the lowered risk for error. With all calculations and transactions performed electronically, it becomes harder to make mistakes. It can be a lifesaver when it comes to tax season, as incorrect filings can lead to hefty fines from the IRS. Moreover, online payroll software offers the ability to back up data, so you can always restore it if something happens to your computer.

Overall, online payroll software provides many benefits for start-ups. It is a time-saver, helps with accounting processes, and lowers the risk for error. In addition, it offers paperless transactions and ease of use. If you use this type of software, you can get these benefits to help you run your business more efficiently and effectively.…

Read More

mechanic

Auto

Ways To Customize Your Car

David Lopez4 years ago05 mins

Customizing your car can be a lot of fun, and it is also a great way to express yourself. Whether you are looking for something minimalistic or over the top with neon lights and decals, there are many ways to customize your ride.

Customizing your car doesn’t have to be expensive either. This article will go over some of the most popular ways people customize their cars on a budget.

Install a Lift Kit

car repair

A suspension lift kit will help you achieve that sought-after off-road look. Lift kits come in many different sizes and can be done on most cars with little to no modification. You may be surprised that there is much information online regarding suspension lift kits, like comparisons of 4 vs 6 inch lift kit. Most people that drive SUVs and Off-road vehicles will find it necessary to install a lift kit.

A suspension lift is one of the most affordable ways to customize your car, and it doesn’t take much work either. Installing a suspension lift will increase ground clearance, allowing you to traverse off-road terrain more easily and give your vehicle an aggressive look with larger tires and rims.

Customize Headlights

A new set of headlights is an affordable way to make your car stand out at night, especially if they are LED lights. Replacing the bulbs with high-intensity light-emitting diodes is an easy task that can be done in a few hours. The same goes for fog lights; they are another great way to customize your car at night time when visibility is low.

Replacement LED lights will make it easier to spot obstacles on the road ahead of you while driving in poorly lit areas. Although fog lights and headlight replacement projects will cost a little bit more, the results are well worth it.

You can also consider installing underbody LED lights to help you see obstacles when driving in dark conditions. This is especially important if you drive an SUV since they sit higher up from the ground than ordinary cars. Installing aftermarket LED lights will make it easier to spot potholes in the road, small children, or animals that may run out in front of you while driving at night.

Add a Spoiler to Your Car

sleek car

You should also consider adding a spoiler to your car. Many different spoilers can be added to give the exterior or interior an upgraded look, feel, and functionality. If you want more stability while driving at higher speeds, adding a rear spoiler is perfect for you. It will reduce lift by keeping the back end on the ground giving better control and stability.

If you are more interested in giving the exterior a sleek look, consider adding some side skirts or canards to your car as well. Adding a spoiler is an easy and simple way for anyone with any type of car to customize their vehicle without having to do too much work. All it takes is just finding the right-wing or spoiler that fits your style and finding a professional to install it.

You should consider customizing your car to improve how it looks and performs. You can do more online research for additional information on the topic.…
Read More
solar

General

The Benefits of Solar Rooftop Systems
David Lopez4 years ago06 mins

Solar power has become an increasingly popular solution for many people, especially in areas where electricity rates are high. Many people are considering solar rooftop systems for many different reasons. If you are looking for a solar company, you need to ensure that they offer the best solar for your needs. Progressture solar is one of the leading solar company around. Below are the benefits of solar rooftop systems.

solar company
Saves Money

A solar rooftop system provides a cost-effective and straightforward way to generate energy from the sun. Unlike other renewable energy sources like wind or hydro, solar is clean and does not produce pollution. It also costs less than traditional forms of power generation because it can be installed on top of existing buildings at no additional cost. Although some upfront costs are associated with installing a solar panel system, these expenses typically pay off within five years due to lower monthly utility bills. Businesses also benefit from lower costs associated with solar panels, making them more competitive in their respective markets by lowering overhead.
Environmentally Friendly

Aside from providing energy savings, solar also provides several other benefits to the environment. By generating electricity with a renewable source like sunlight instead of fossil fuels, you reduce your environmental footprint and help preserve our natural resources for future generations. According to Energy Star, using clean power sources can reduce air pollution by 50% or more than traditional methods. This is why many people, including famous ones, are taking advantage of solar power.
Reduces Carbon Footprint

Many people understand the benefits of solar energy, but they choose to use other forms of power because it is still difficult for them to make a switch. Solar has been gaining momentum in recent years. This trend will likely continue as more companies begin offering innovative ways to help their customers go green without sacrificing convenience or comfort. Many people should know that reducing our carbon footprint helps improve health and quality of life for everyone. The U.S Department of Energy estimates the average solar rooftop system will eliminate around 20 metric tons of greenhouse gas emissions every year. This makes them an incredibly effective method for lowering your company's environmental impact on a large scale.

Lasts for Decades

While it is true that solar power has been around for a while, people do not realize how far technology has come. Modern panels are made with advanced materials and have better efficiency ratings than ever before, which means they last longer and produce more energy. This saves money long-term because you will need to use fewer resources in order to generate the same amount of energy. Many people are currently using solar rooftop systems to save money, be environmentally friendly, and reduce their carbon footprint while generating clean electricity for years to come.

So there you have it. Solar energy is the future, and if you don't believe us, then do some digging on your own time to see what we're talking about. Suppose people are willing to spend hundreds of dollars every month on their cell phone bills. In that case, they'll also be willing to pay a small monthly fee so that they can power their home with clean solar electricity instead of dirty coal or oil-fueled electric utilities. We hope this article has given you enough information so that you know how much money installing a solar rooftop system could save in the long run, as well as more reasons why now might be an ideal time for you to make the switch over from traditional energy sources like coal or natural …
Read More
Fire Extinguishers

Security

Three Facts About Fire Extinguishers
David Lopez4 years ago05 mins

A fire extinguisher is an active fire control device to protect property and lives against fire damages and is intended to be used in emergency situations. There are also many types of fire extinguishers manufactured today, such as the class A, class B fire extinguishers, class C, class D, and class K. Probably you're wondering if there are more things to know about fire extinguishers, and in case you are unfamiliar with them. Let us give you the facts you'll need to know before buying a fire extinguisher:
It's Advised to Always Recharge After Using

Spray

Let's say you just doused a small kitchen fire at home or work, and you feel like you've only used the fire extinguisher for a short time, normally if you're using other equipment, you wouldn't bother too much and just put it back where you found them, right? But that won't be the case when dealing with fire extinguishers. Experts say we need to always top them up for every time we use them because the active compound inside can diminish quickly after being released upon the fire, and the content inside can dissipate over time, which will be dangerous if we run out when dealing with a fire outbreak in the future.

It Can Expire

Did you know that fire extinguishers can expire too? Yes, just like foods and medications, they too have a shelf life that you can find on the back of the tool. Typically, they can last up to 12 years, depending on how well you keep them. One thing for sure is they don't last forever, and you should always keep that in mind whenever you see a fire extinguisher.

There Are Plenty of Types

The five main types of fire extinguishers that you should know have been mentioned above, and they are classified as water, foam, CO2, ABC powder, and wet chemicals. They are manufactured differently because there are different types of fires, such as:

Types of Fire Extinguishers

- Flammable materials (wood, paper, textiles)
- Flammable liquids (oil, grease, paint, gasoline)
- Flammable metals (sodium, uranium, potassium, plutonium)
- Gaseous fires
- Kitchen combustibles (cooking oils and animal or vegetable fats)
- Electrical fires

It is important to know which fire extinguishers to use depending on which type of fire you are dealing with.

The Takeaway

Remember that there are different types of fire extinguishers for different types of fires, and it will do you good to do a bit of research before making a purchase. We hope that you have enjoyed reading this as much as we enjoyed making it. Please don't forget to share this article with your friends and family if you find it useful and informative.…

Read More

hair transplant

- Hair

Understanding the Causes of Hair Loss

David Lopez5 years ago05 mins

Alopecia areata, also known as baldness, is a serious problem affecting countless people around the world. A prime example is the United States, where 35 million men and 21 million women suffer from baldness. Alopecia occurs when the amount of hair loss is not compensated by the growth of new hair. The good thing is that you can undergo several procedures to restore your lost hair.

Several clinics carry out this procedure. You can find out the cost to determine whether it will meet your budget. Different types of baldness manifest differently, and a few hairs left on the comb do not mean a serious problem. In fact, we lose up to 100 hairs a day, which then grow back.

hair restoration

However, if you notice numerous bald patches or less hair, then you may have started to go bald seriously. It is noteworthy that the concept of baldness has different shades in cases of occurrence in men or women. In most cases, male pattern baldness is perceived as an unfortunate but quite expected consequence of aging, while for women, baldness becomes a real tragedy. This shows how different hair loss affects men and women.

Causes of Hair Loss

Let’s take a look at the common causes of hair loss.

Improper hair and scalp care. It is advisable to stop your choice exclusively on natural remedies. They should be free of parabens, sulfates, harmful chemical compounds. A good result is ensured by organic-based shampoos containing natural ingredients: they do not provoke dryness and irritation.

Season. Many people know that the amount of hair loss can depend on the specific season. For example, in autumn, in spring, the hairline is weakened: it is at risk since the body lacks vitamins.

Certain medications. Some means, procedures can give such unpleasant side effects.

hair restoration

Hormonal disruptions. This situation is typical for the period of bearing a child and the postpartum stage. Menopause is becoming a serious risk factor. All these processes are associated with complex hormonal changes in the body, which can be accompanied by various failures in the work of certain systems. So, hair falls out in diabetes most often, with problems in the endocrine system’s functioning.

Iron deficiency in the body. When the level of this valuable trace element decreases, hair begins to fall out. The causes are blood loss, as well as strict diets. It is important to regularly include pomegranate and apple juice, buckwheat porridge, beef, and fish in the diet. The appropriate vitamin complex will also help.

Antibiotic therapy should be carried out with caution, antidepressants and medications should be taken to stabilize blood pressure. All of these techniques and treatments can cause hair loss.

Frequent stress. When the emotional background is unstable, there is depression, which is a serious negative factor.

…

Read More cat bed

Pets

Must-Have Accessories for Cat

David Lopez5 years ago04 mins

Cats need the right accessories to stay comfortable. The best thing with cat's accessories is the fact they take less space. Even if you live in a small apartment, it is possible to have multiple cat accessories. The truth is that you do not own everything at once.

In the beginning, make sure that you have important accessories to make your cat feel comfortable. With time you can add luxurious accessories and treats for your cat. Here are some must-have accessories for your cat:

Cat Bed

A cat bed is one of the most important accessories for your cat. It would help if you had a place where your cat can sleep, and a cat bed is necessary. It is possible to get a simple cat bed with a removable cover. On the other hand, you can get one that is attached to a cat tree.

If you have recently gotten a cat, it is advisable to start with a simple bed to study the habits of your cat.

Litter Box

Apart from a cat bed, you will also need a litter box. Your cat will need some privacy, and a litter will be necessary. When getting a litter box, it is advisable to get an automatic one.

A self-cleaning litter box will save you a lot of time cleaning, and all you have to do is get new cat litter. The cost of an automatic cat litter is not very high, and you can save money by getting a self-cleaning litter at the beginning instead of buying a basic one.

Cat Tree

It is always a good idea to have a cat tree. Cats like scratching into things and is always a good idea to have somewhere to scratch.

Instead of scratching your furniture, having a cat tree will offer a good place for your cat to do all the scratching and climbing.

Carrier

If you would like to be traveling with your cat, it is important to have a hard plastic carrier. The carrier will be used to move your car safely.

Your cat might be scared of being in the carrier for the first time, but they will get used over time. Buying a good quality carrier can make all the difference when traveling.…

Read More cannabis buds

Marijuana

3 Tips to Consider When Shopping for Cannabis Flowers

David Lopez6 years ago04 mins

Cannabis is a plant that contains hundreds of cannabinoids. Some of these cannabinoids work with the body to relieve some symptoms such as chronic pains and nausea. There are very many strains of cannabis that have different concentrations of these compounds. Each of these strains is good for some specific ailments. You need to know what you are suffering from to know the right strain to pick.

Other than ailments, you also need to know what the law says about cannabis in your area. In some states, THC is illegal because of its mind-altering effect, while some states have made it legal. Here are some of the tips you should consider when shopping for cannabis buds

1. The law

Cannabis has been tested numerous times and has been found to treat and relieve many symptoms. Even though it could be more effective than other available drugs, it has not yet been approved by the Food and Drug Authority (FDA) as a form of medication.

There are two main compounds in cannabis that help with the treatment of these ailments which are Cannabidiol (CBD) and Tetrahydrocannabinol (THC)/ THC is a psychoactive compound, and it has been made illegal in some states. If you live in such a state, you should go for cannabis buds that are low in THC concentration. The allowed amount is from 0.3% to 0.5%. Anything higher than this can get you arrested.

2. Ailment

CBD and THC both have different effects on the body, and they both treat different ailments. If you are suffering from chronic pains, back pains, migraines, and anxiety, CBD would be the best for you. You should, therefore, pick a bud that is high in CBD concentration. If you are suffering from light headaches, depression, nausea, and vomiting, THC is what would give you relief from these symptoms. Buds that are high in TCH concentration would be the best for you.

3. Cost

When making any purchase, the most important consideration is the price. It will help if you look through various cannabis vendors and compare prices. The chances are that the expensive ones are high-quality buds, but you should inquire how they are grown. This will give you some insight into the quality of buds being sold.

There are many strains to choose from. You should know which strains fit your requirements. Some are more affordable than others but would still do a great job of treating your symptoms. Making a budget can help you get the best out of your medication.…

Read More meeting room

Business

How to Choose the Right Meeting Space Room

Lisa Pearson6 years ago04 mins

Finding an appropriate meeting space for your corporate or social needs can be quite a complicated and time-consuming process. That is because there are various factors that should be considered. You should note that meeting rooms for rent can be used for a wide range of purposes: client meetings, conferences, training workshops, and many more. However, choosing the wrong type can thwart your success. It does not matter whether it is a place to close a deal or even meet with stakeholders; you must get the right venue that suits your needs.

Nature of the Meeting

You should note that there are various types of meetings that include board meetings, focus groups, and seminars that can compliment your agenda. It does not matter whether you will be doing presentations; you may require a projector or whiteboard. When meeting clients or board members, then you should have a meeting room that projects professionalism. Meetings or workshops with catering services require set-ups.

Seating Arrangement

There is a need to consider the number of people that will attend your meeting. It is vital to ensure that the meeting room holds all the attendees. On the other hand, you may not need a large meeting room if you are only meeting a few people. Remember that bigger rooms cost more money. Ensure you determine the number of people attending your meeting and choose a room with adequate space.

Budget

An important thing you ought to be looking at is budget, and you need to pay attention to it. Ensure that no aspects of your meeting suffer because of the budget. Therefore, you should determine the amount of money you are ready to spend on the meeting and then look for rental rooms that suit your needs. It is advisable to choose quality rental at a size that matches the number of attendees.

Facilities Offered at the Venue neat meeting roomWhen renting the meeting space, there is a need to ensure that the meeting room has all the facilities you require. The facilities include projectors, telephone, video conferencing, displays, and LCD TVs. You can find rental spaces that provide a wide range of tools and equipment in their meeting rooms with modern technology to ensure you have the best meeting.

Location

It does not matter whether you want to impress existing or prospective clients, conduct interviews, increase employee productivity, or train new employees; it is vital you choose a central location. Moreover, the meeting room should be located in a safe area.…
Read More
legal steroids

Supplements

Buying Guide for Legal Steroids
David Lopez6 years ago04 mins

Steroids are quite useful when it comes to boosting your workout sessions and ensuring you get the best from your fitness program. They play a crucial role in ensuring you gain muscle mass and burn excess body fat. You will also get the endurance needed for your workout sessions whenever you use steroids. Not all steroids are legal or suitable for use. Some have been tested by different health bodies and listed safe for human use. You should familiarize yourself with legal steroids to be on the safe side.

Legal steroids are readily available, and you can find them being sold openly in different pharmacies and online stores. One perfect example of a legal steroid is Anavar, which helps you gain muscle mass and also boost protein synthesis.

These steroids have different elements that help ensure you achieve quality gains. You will come across some with fat burning ingredients that work by boosting the rate of metabolism in your body. This makes your body utilize energy from stored fats. You will shed off some extra pounds as a result. Steroids also boost endurance during workouts by reducing the oxidation process. You should be extra careful when buying them to get quality results from their use. Here is what to consider when buying them.

Components

You have to check carefully to know the available ingredients in the legal steroid you are trying to buy. Make sure the components available in one can offer the kind of results you need. They should also not subject you to any side effects. Considering this will help you get the best steroid for your workouts.

Buy from Certified Dealers

You should buy your legal steroids from shops or online stores licensed to sell them. Not every dealer out there has legit legal steroids. Take your time to identify the licensed outlets in your area to settle for legit products.

Reasons for Use

Not all legal steroids offer the kind of results you need for your fitness program. You should look for one meant for the kind of gains you need. Go through the description of the product to understand more. You can also seek advice from your trainer or a health expert who will advise you on the best one.…

Read More
school children

Uncategorized

When Choosing the Right Stick on Name Labels for Your Kid’s School Stuff

David Lopez6 years ago05 mins

Name labels for your kid’s school items will prevent losses of belongings when in school. A lost object will not have a difficult time finding its way to their rightful owners when they have name labels on them. Indeed, it is important that your kid’s school stuff should all have stick on name labels on them. This will ensure that any chance of loss is minimized or your kid’s belongings will not be interchanged with another kid’s stuff.

The following are things to consider when looking for the best stick on name labels for your kid’s school items.

Name Labels Come in Different Shapes and Sizes

School items come in varying sizes and shapes too. The smaller the item, the more it can get lost. This includes pens, pencils, erasers, and other things. These items will need mini and elongated stick on labels. Notebooks, pen containers and other pouches to contain small school items can have the small-sized stick on name labels on them. There are round-shaped stick on labels that can go with larger school items like folders, umbrellas and even bags.scissor, pen,

Help Your Child Decide on the Color

You can choose the favorite color of your child when it comes to the stick on name labels you are going to paste on your kid’s school stuff. Doing so will endear your child to his belongings even more. Having a unique design and color can let your child identify what belongs to him even from a distance.

Having different colors of stick on name labels will also leave you with more options to choose from. Because your kid’s stuff can have different colors too, you will not opt for a stick on name label with the same color, or you are losing one of the purposes of sticking name labels on your kid’s items which is for easy identification.

Artistic Designs Make Your Kid’s Stuff More Attractive

Kids will always compare their school items with other kids. Make your child prouder of his belongings with creative designs of the stick on name labels. Although you can let your child select the design, you can help him find what’s is best for his school items. The better the designs, the more it can make your kid’s school items look more beautiful.

More durable stick on name labels are also intended for raincoats and umbrellas.

Ease of Transaction and Delivery

Ordering online from a stick on name label manufacturing company gives the most exceptional convenience. You will be able to browse all the designs of stick on name labels posted on the company's website. A reliable company will not keep you waiting for your stick on name labels. Waiting for three days or less may be the ideal time for delivery of the stick on name label for your kid's school stuff.…

Read More
driving training instructor

Auto

The Importance of Undergoing a Driving Course

David Lopez6 years ago04 mins

The important reason why people go for driving courses besides getting a driving license is to learn safety in driving and how to be careful on the roads. It's good to master driving skills. Getting a driving license is also very cardinal. It grants one the endorsement to be able to drive anywhere they want without being intermitted mostly by the traffic police. When you have your license, the freedom of mobility is guaranteed to you.

Apart from the license, in driving courses, you are taught on the basics of using the road. There are many driving courses online one can register but here is one that is highly preferred by many.

It is sage if you can visit the website and get some information on the driving courses and the offers. These courses are dominant because people who mentor you on the proficiency of using the road are well trained and possess a sundry knowledge on road deals.

Attending these driving courses will deepen yourdefense driving knowledge on the road approach. You will also be endowed with the mandatory rules and regulations that you should observe on the road while driving. This knowledge will enable you to be safe on the road. Some of the concerns as to why you should undertake driving courses are.

Minimizes Chances of Accidents

Drivers are prepared efficiently on the laws of the road. They also know what to do in different road situations. This information is very informative as it assists the drivers to prevent accidents from happening. Driving courses also help drivers to banish lousy driving habits such as drinking while driving. They also give them tips on how to enhance their comfort while driving. This reduces tension, and hence, you secure a safe drive.

Teaches Important Skills on Road Use

There are many skills that a driver has to master for a safe drive. There are many components and factors behind driving that every driver should perceive. These skills can only be fetched from driving courses. It is, therefore, judicious for one to attend to these driving courses.

Oaths Safety of Your Business

All businesses are set to take necessary deeds to cushiondefense driving their employees and to curtail the risks of accidents. It is sage if the workers are approved to have taken a driving course before being recruited as a driver in that particular firm. This also enables the firm to be biddable with the law and also making workers to be more shrewd and vigilant on the road, hence cutting down risks of accident occurrence.…
Read More
broom

Services

Reasons to Hire Professional Cleaners
David Lopez7 years ago04 mins

It is essential that you maintain your home in a clean and tidy condition at all times. However, the cleaning work can get a bit too overwhelming at times. A great alternative to struggling with the cleaning work yourself is hiring the services of professional cleaners. Your house will become squeaky clean and tidy by the time that the professional cleaners are done with it. Remember to choose a cleaning company that offers the best services at great prices. Below are a few top reasons as to why you should hire professional cleaners.
They Have the Right Tools and Equipmenthouse cleaning

Professional cleaners have specialized tools and equipment, which they can use while cleaning your house to get the best results. This will save you from having to buy the tools, which can be quite expensive. Using the specialized tools and equipment, they can deal with stubborn stains or clean areas that you probably would not be able to.
They Have Relevant Training and Experience

The professional cleaners who work for reputable cleaning companies have all the relevant training and experience required for them to do a fantastic cleaning job. You can be sure that they will deliver excellent results if you hire those to clean your home. You will also not have to incur costs due to damages caused by errors such as using the wrong cleaning agents. The best cleaning companies usually have insurance that covers any damages that may occur during the cleaning process.
You Save Time

woman cleaning the floorThe skills and experience offered by professional cleaners allow them to get the job done within a much shorter time than it would take you. This means that they can come in quite handy when you need emergency cleaning services, such as when expecting guests in your home. Hiring professional cleaning services also allows you to spend your day doing other things that may be more important to you as opposed to cleaning your home. You will not experience the fatigue that comes with the job either.
You Enjoy Great Prices

A majority of people shy away from hiring professional cleaners due to the misconception that the services are expensive. Competition in the industry has ensured that the prices are quite reasonable. All you need to do is hire a company that offers a decent price to quality ratio. How clean and tidy your house will get will be worth every cent that you spend.…

Read More
dried herb in a glass container

Health

Considerations Before Buying CBD Oils
David Lopez7 years ago04 mins

As CBD flower is now possible, it indicates that CBD manufacturing is one of the fastest-growing industries in recent years. More importantly, recent studies have now proven its medical advantages that doctors can use to treat certain health problems, such as cancer, chronic pain, and inflammation. Although the consumption is still a subject of endless debates, it does not change the fact that the product contains beneficial properties that offer health benefits. For that reason, it is not a surprising thing to see that many regions in the world have legalized its use for medical purpose.

As you may think that the consumption of CBD oils needs strict supervision from doctors and medical experts, the truth is that people are quite free to buy and consume the products. In some areas, the products are even available in drugstores, implying that the product is indeed a safe choice for people. Especially for this case, buyers still need to consider several things before buying the product. Note that not all products are produced with the same standards and formulas. For that reason, there are several things to take into account before buying this oil.

Third Party Lab

Has the third party lab tested the product? It is one of the most vital questions that you need to answer immediately before buying. The reason for the statement is that it is vital not to depend on the one-sided claim that often states that the product is perfectly safe for people in general. The statement can be very subjective, depending on the profits that the manufacturers are after. Thus, it is crucial to make sure that the product has gone through a series of tests by other medical partners. This way, the product is more likely to be safer. Checking the lab’s website is also advisable as you can find important information about the product on it.

THC

Another thing that you should consider is the amount of THC that should not exceed the maximum limit, which is 0.3%. Consuming any products that contain more than the maximum THC limit can lead to more health risks. Note that THC is illegal in many states due to its adverse effect. The safe percentage of the compound implies that the products should not and will not inflict its psychoactive effects that can lead to more problems. Thus, it is wise to always inquire more before buying one specific product.…
Read More

dried pot

Drug Abuse

How to Pass a Drug Test for Marijuana

David Lopez7 years ago06 mins

Marijuana has been known to treat several ailments for about 3000 years now, says the National Institutes of Health. Some countries such as Canada, Uruguay, and other 9 US states have legalized marijuana for recreational use. However, according to the Food and Drug Administration using this drug is not yet safe neither has it proven to treat any medical condition.

With that being said, most employers still conduct drug tests on their employees, and one of the main tests is that of marijuana use. Samples could be taken from your hair, blood, urine or saliva. If found positive, you could risk damaging your career or losing your job, and you don’t want that, do you? Therefore, in this detailed guide, we’ll show you how to pass a drug test for marijuana.

Use Detox Pills

pills used for drug detoxIf you’re looking for a quick fix to your marijuana test, there is an array of best detox pills in the market. Most of these detox pills for drug test are supposed to help you pass a urine drug test although some pills are known to help you pass saliva and hair tests.

Although some of these detox pills do work, they can also be positively identified on a drug test in case you undergo random testing. To add to this, they’re even costly. So this is not the best way to pass your drug tests as some testing programs might consider the presence of detox pills as a positive drug test.

Water

This looks pretty straight forward although it must be done correctly to achieve the desired results. Don’t start drinking gallons of water days or even weeks before the screening because you’ll only be wasting your time. The best thing to do is to drink 2-3 liters on the specific day of your test, and around 1-2 liters hours before the screening. However, crystal clear urine sample might raise suspicions, but at least you have higher chances of passing the test.

Drink Lemon

Over the years, lemon juice has been proposed as an effective detox drink by many health and fitness gurus. They claim that it’s beneficial in shifting toxins and cleansing your body in general. Citrus fruit is very rich in vitamins which are essential for detoxifying the body.

Furthermore, lemon juice can flush small quantities of THC metabolites from your system. Mixing 500ml of water with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice could do the trick and should be taken frequently for several hours. Start this regime earlier before the drug screening day and if possible take it for around 7-8 times.

Exercise

Being fat soluble, cannabis is mainly stored in the body's fat cells for the long-term. You should keep this in mind while exercising since you'll be burning out excess fats and in the process getting rid of marijuana. Do a combination of exercises such as swimming, running and weight lifting as this will help you burn fat much faster.

leafy green vegetables
Replace Junk Food with Greens

Generally, junk food and fast food are unhealthy and will help you with nothing when it comes to flushing out marijuana from your body. Their high sodium, sugar and fat concentration causes water retention in the body as well as slowing down metabolism

On the other hand, lean meats, vegetables, and fruits are rich in minerals like iron and vitamins. Vegetables such as broccoli, kale, and spinach are essential for boosting the body's metabolism.

To sum it up, passing a marijuana test won't certainly be easy without putting in hard work and dedication.…
Read More

Machinery

Insightful Tips When Buying Used Compact Tractors
David Lopez7 years ago05 mins

Every business should aim to upgrade, diversify and grow their portfolios. One way this is achieved is by adding new equipment to their fleet. The companies unable to buy new machines can opt for the used equipment purchase alternatives. Those operating in the landscape and lawn care industries can opt for used tractors. According to experts at www.becksidemachinery.co.uk, most manufacturers have seen double-digit increases in the sales of new tractors as buyers have the opportunity of trading in older ones. The trade-in option provided by some tractor companies has seen a sharp rise in sales.

The influx of top options available is great for tractor seekers. Not every machine is created equal – meaning there are ownership options for buyers to carefully research, conduct vetting and investigate purchases. Whether you stand out as a veteran buyer of equipment or a beginner, here are some insightful tips for buying a used compact tractor.
Begin the Search

Magazine ads, Craiglist, newspaper classifieds or auction websites are some of the avenues people explore when searching for used tractors. The digital world eases the online search and remains a top recommendation by leading experts. Websites today are user-friendly ensuring the inventory catalogs are updated with ease. On clicking on the machine one can get to check out the details of the equipment. You can still find listings on magazines and newspapers but remember, they hardly direct the user to a website.

Vet Your Sources

When buying a state of the art machine goes for quality. Do some research on the seller to gauge their level of trustworthiness. Use the same metric applied when gauging the suitability of someone selling a used car. The used tractor business differs from a used car in that the background details are not easily advertised – you need to dig deeper for details. Whether you are buying from a dealership, private seller, auction house or additional outlet, scour the internet for online reviews. See what previous buyers are saying about the equipment. Buying from a private seller will differ from a dealership which can provide guidance on which machine is the best fit for you. The former will try to sell the equipment no matter what.

Right Timing

In the agricultural sector, there are several seasonal factors affecting your pricing. Most manufacturer programs begin by March and extend to June. The used seekers will capitalize on end season sales where most attractive offers on equipment translate into trade-ins. Watch out for the high and low points, when trying to secure a purchase.

Machine Details

The right model and make of the tractor arises from quality sellers. This gives you the green light to proceed. When going through a thorough investigation you must consider the used tractors before making your purchases.

First, insist on a full check and evaluation that covers hours and records covering maintenance, not forgetting the history of your machine. Check the detailed photos covering general machine shots as well as those that document major repair work done.

Do not be deceived by the appearance of a tractor. The shiny appearance does not translate into performance. Do your homework and pick the right product.…

Read More

research

Activities

Activities to Kill Time

David Lopez7 years ago04 mins

The holiday is almost here, do you know what you'll be doing? It's nearly school break, and kids will be out from school, annoying you to take them to somewhere cool for their vacation. Or maybe you don't have kids, and you live alone, which means a lot of time for yourself! How are you going to spend your break? If you have no clue on how to spend your time, we got you. In this article we've listed some activities for you, to kill your time and maybe make some money as well. Read this article to know more about what we've made.

Metal Hunting

metal detectorIf you love treasure hunting as a kid, you might want to give metal hunting a try. It is pretty straightforward as all you need to do is to use the device and look around on your field, hoping to find valuable things underneath it. But how do you choose a metal hunting device with so many selections in the market? If you want to know more, you can click on the link that we provided. Who knows if you're lucky you might be finding a valuable item that's worth up to hundreds of dollars!
De-clutter

If you're a hoarder or at least have a lot of things at home, maybe this break time is the perfect time for you to de-clutter. You can start from your wardrobe, to find things that you can throw away or maybe sell it on eBay if it's still on a good condition. At the same time, you can also give it away to your friend or donate it to those who need it. For example, let's say that you found your old textbooks, which cost a lot back when you're in college, and you don't know what to do with it. Why not sell it to juniors that need it? They'll get it at a lower price, and you also get some money, it's a win-win solution.

Break Time

tea timeSince it's the break time, why not enjoy your time to pamper yourself? If you've been working your bones to the core, you deserve to lay down and relax, sipping a glass of wine and watch your favorite serials. Or you can also book an appointment at your favorite spa place with your best friend. Whatever you do, make sure that it's relaxing and charging for your body!…
Read More

Wagons

How to Purchase a Folding Wagon for Garden and Home Use
Lisa Pearson7 years ago04 mins

Deciding to purchase a folding wagon is an important decision. You can use it to carry the tools such as gloves, spades, trowels, pruners, and pesticides. Moreover, you can use it to carry garden produce and even weeds. It is quite challenging to move such things to and from the garden. Also, you will find it challenging to carry several items, hence the need to get a wagon. This portable, comfortable, handy, foldable utility is the ideal one for providing the support you require when it comes to gardening.
Dimensioning

a folding wagonWith weight not less than 30 pounds, these utility wagons come with a pulling handle and wheels that work like a charm. In fact, an assembly is not required to make it fold. Thus, it will take a few seconds to fold it. This is an engineered product that is quite large and small when folded. In fact, it can fit in any particular blocked space or the shelf. When you unfold it, it becomes quite large. Also, these wagons come with a convenient and a handy carrying case that makes it ideal for easy setup, pack up, and transportation.

Durability and Strength

The wagon has sturdy material and frames that can hold up to 150 pounds. Also, the fabric is made of high-quality and durable denier fabric. In fact, the features that add up for strength and durability can go on and on. Moreover, the handle makes it easy to transport the wagon effortless across several pavements, grass, driveway, and other surfaces. It is smartly designed to provide easy mobility on water and sand with adequate grip. It works quite well on the hills and dirt as well as the usual road sidewalks and grass.

Applied Benefits

canopy folding cartThis is not just a pulling wagon; it can be locked in an upright position. In this way, it becomes quite easy to use. It can be placed in cars and it is easily foldable. As a result of its build quality, you can grow or start your garden. As you know, it is quite hectic to carry heavy soil packages. For instance, you may need about 25 kg of fertile soil for your garden. It is very difficult to do this manually. Fortunately, with the best folding wagon, anyone can do the task with a lot of ease.…

Read More

pest

Business

How to Find the Best Pest Control Companies

David Lopez7 years ago05 mins

A home that is free from pests is something that most of us have given up on. It is especially hard to look forward to this kind of peaceful setting when they are everywhere. It’s a bit too early to start giving up now because there are plenty of options to choose from. Who said you have to fight this battle alone? On the contrary, you are free to involve all the professional help that you might need along the way. The likes of bats, rats, and other pests are not exactly fun to have around.

pest control

Get Searching

This is not the time to let your pest problems get the better of you. It should be the start of something new that should motivate you to fight for your home. All the more reason for you to get searching far and wide for the best pest control teams available within your area. It gets better when you know just where to look as well as what to look for. The best part is that such experts won’t even take up much of your time. It will be something so direct that you’ll wish you’d have done it sooner.

Accessibility

Your ideal pest control company should be located not too far from where you live. Imagine having to wait long hours for the pest control team to come over due to their distant location. Don’t take chances especially when the pests have taken over your home and you feel like you're under their mercy. Among your search items should be a location which will not keep you waiting when you are in dire need of exterminator services. With all the search tools and engines at your every beck and call, it must be easy to find companies that are closer to you than you'd ever know. What's more, try those that offer their services every waking moment. At least you won't have to worry about them being closed for the weekend or holidays.

Quality Services

To some of us, it's almost impossible to find a pest control company that will offer unmatched services when called upon. This doesn't mean that you don't have any to look forward to. Instead, you are just as sure to find them because they are littered all over the internet. With quality services available, you don't have to worry so much about the pests that are taking over your home. Instead, you can be confident about the fact that there are teams ready to take them on every day. The quality of their job will depend on the kind of reviews they get from previous clients. This will make it all the more easy for you to know the kind of people that you are dealing with.
customer service
Customer Service

Every client in need of quality services is always on the lookout for how they are treated especially on the phone. You will want to hang up immediately you sense some bit of rudeness on the other line.…
Read More
rat

Pest Control

How Exterminators Deal With Removal of Rats, Bats and Snakes at Home
David Lopez7 years ago05 mins

The issue of pests is never an easy one to deal with. Before involving the experts, there are certain things that we must do beforehand. For instance, having boundaries which they must never cross. When this is in place, everything else is taken care of. It means that they can run, but they can't hide. Before involving them, you must first learn how exterminators deal with the removal of rats, bats and snakes at home. It will make it easier for you to know what to expect.
Lay the Traps

rat trapIt is not an operation that any ordinary person can handle single-handedly. On the contrary, it requires years of expertise for one to learn the proper way of handling pests and rodents. This way, it won't be such a difficult thing to stop them on their tracks. Laying traps for rodents and other animals is one thing that only the real experts can do phenomenally. They have handled cases such as the ones troubling you and can almost do it with their eyes closed.

It might sound like something that just about anyone can do. The exterminators have mastered the art of determining which kinds of traps would be suitable for specific animals. Bats, rats and snakes are no joke and must be handled with all due seriousness.

Use of Removal equipment

As much as it’s everywhere in black and white, you do need the unmatched services of a seasoned exterminator. They know just which equipment to use for bats, snakes and other pests. On the other hand, you wouldn’t be successful if you tried it out yourself.

You wouldn’t really know which equipment would remove them from the compound unless you involved a real expert. After all, some of these products make the exterminators’ work very easy. All they have to do is ensure that they are genuine, then go ahead and use them.

Seal All Entry Points

snake Those of us that have rodents, bats and snakes which keep going and coming will understand just what this is all about. In fact, it gets so annoying that you wish there was a way you’d get rid of them for good. When you involve trained pest exterminators, you don’t have to worry about anything anymore because it’s all under control.

Exterminators tend to use their knowledge and mechanism to trace their hideout. They shut all the likely places from where they might be seen entering, especially the attic for the bats and toilets for snakes. This way, they begin to come out as they are in panic mode. They are not really aware of what lies ahead of them.

Get backup

Rodents and other animals can be quite a pain in the neck if you lack the know-how when trying to remove them. Which is why even the most experienced exterminators will call for backup when they find the job a bit too overwhelming.

There is no better way to bring nasty pests under control other than through such means. Besides, this is a quicker way of ensuring that they exit your premises as soon as they can. You’ll be glad you resorted to this plan in the first place.…

Read More

playing with wagon

Wagons

Purchasing a Folding Wagon

David Lopez8 years ago04 mins

Since the introduction of the first wagon during the early days, we have witnessed significant changes in the various types of wagons produced up to date. Back in the days, they were used to transport people or heavy load. They were mostly made of wood and steels. The evolution of wagons has seen the introduction of modern ones, which can be used to carry different items and children.

Modern wagons do come in different types and sizes meant to suit the specifications of the owner. One kind of cart with a unique and beneficial feature is the folding wagon. This is a type of wagon that can be folded to become portable. You can carry it wherever you go, on your bike or even vehicle.

Folding it makes it fit better in the boot of your car. To get the best folding wagons, you should look at some of its essential features. There arefolding wagon several reasons why you should get a folding wagon. It is very efficient during shopping because you can carry most of your items using your wagon. A wagon is also perfect for your kid’s outings.

Kids do enjoy having a ride on these wagons whenever you go out to the park. You can also carry your luggage using your cart. There are a couple of things you should consider when purchasing a folding wagon. They include:
Material

The material of your folding wagon is one crucial thing that should be put into consideration. The material used in making it should be strong and durable to withstand some of the heavy load. One material said to be best for these wagons is leather because it is hard and waterproof. The pulling rod should be made of stiff or hard materials like plastic or metal.
Price

You should also factor out the cost of the folding wagon you want to purchase. The prices of these folding wagons do vary from one type to the folding cartother. Those made with a material considered stronger will be more costly. Size can also determine the price of a specific wagon. You should compare prices between different vendors and pick one that suits your budget.
Size

One should also put into consideration the size of the wagon because it dictates its capacity. Large wagons can carry a wide range of items. Medium sized carts are the best for family uses. Large-sized wagons also require more space, which is something you should consider before purchasing one.…
Read More perfume

Perfumes

Common Reasons Why Women Wear Perfumes
David Lopez8 years ago04 mins

People have worn perfumes and numerous other fragrances since time immemorial. To begin with, perfumes are scented products obtained by mixing some aromatic compounds with selected oils. Today, there are a million and one fragrances across the globe with additional new brands being introduced in the market. You can visit the official site of Natura for a more comprehensive list of the latest perfumes today. The reasons for wearing fragrances varies from one person to another. In this article, we will reveal some of the most common reason why women are into perfumes.

Positive Outlook In Life

Perfume bottlesIt’s no secret that perfume can make a woman feel wanted. It connects with her memories and helps her show that individuality is phenomenal. Supposedly, this remarkable boost of positivity in a woman’s everyday life increases her vitality, enhances her resistance to failure, and improves her drive to accomplish mega tasks.

Sex Drive

Most fragrances including perfumes are scented. This scent can trigger hormones that ignite sexual appetite. The same hormone that’s triggered by perfume is said to play a crucial role in human sexuality. Natural human hormone analogs can be found in some fragrances mainly to give scents that trigger heightened sexual appetite.

lips with red lipstick cartoon

Although most of the pheromones hormones only work on men, this is an advantage to any women wearing perfumes. She can instill a greater sexual desire in any man she likes. In return, she can significantly boost her self-esteem as her feelings of being wanted. Thus, the power to have any man on your palm as a woman is just a few dollars away. However, bear in mind that this isn’t the reason why all women wear perfumes.

Boost Memory

Industry experts claim that there’s an adamant connection between fragrance and memory. For example, you may be somewhere sitting and smell something from a restaurant that reminds you of something your mother used to make when you were a kid. Perhaps, something like chocolate brownies, a queen cake, homemade or raspberry pie. A lotion or a perfume that smells exactly like raspberries can bring memories of raspberries too. The same applies to hundreds of other fragrances and scents out there that connects us with positive and warm nostalgic memories such as the smell a boyfriend or a husband’s cologne on his shirt. The smell of special holidays, the scent of snow or rain, and so on and so forth. Connecting yourselves to fond memories through fragrances can make you happy as a woman.…

Read More

Fashion

How To Wear Sweatshirts

David Lopez8 years ago04 mins

Commonly sweatshirts are associated with chilling in the house. However, these can be very fashionable garments when combined well with other clothes. The market provides a variety of cute sweatshirts to buy that can go well with other types of clothes. They offer warmth comfort as well as style. Knowing how to match the sweatshirts is crucial for ladies who are keen on fashion.

Tips on how to wear sweatshirts
Wear cute sweatshirt with a short skirt

This will make a perfect holiday wear during the summer season. While going out combine this outfits that will make you look cute. It is a comfortable outfit as the heat will not bake you, yet you remain decent for public appearance. You can accessorize this with a college bag or a sling bag. It will go well with casually closed college shoes.
Wear sweatshirt under denim jacketSweatshirts

For cold weather, this seems to be a booster for warmth. It should be the type that layers out well not to make one look so bulky. It is important that one goes for plain colors to avoid looking too complicated. It can be accessorized with a neck scarf and a medium size handbag.
Sweatshirt with jeans

Perhaps this is the most combination we know. It is a cool outdoor outfit that makes someone comfortable to move around and at the same time keep you warm. Boots can enhance the look especially if the sweatshirt has a bold graphic printed on it.
Plain sweatshirt with printed beanie

This is yet another cool casual wear that makes ladies look so cute. The plain top will complement well the prints making a balanced look. This can be a good combination to go out shopping and coffee dates over the weekend.
Sweatshirt with sneaker shoes

shoesIt gives the ladies that boyish look and makes them feel cool. It will give them that 80s celebrity feel when worn during the weekends. It can also be a neat appearance during youths dancing competition or skating competition. It is important to know that this is best worn with baggy jeans. Tight jeans can also come out well for slim ladies.
Sweatshirt with leather skirt

Leather skirts are very delicate clothes to wear. They are sensitive to weather as well as to fashion. A sweat skirt can give them a nice casual wear to be worn during a cool climate. This can be accessorized by a small handbag and will make ladies look very decent. It is nice to have it plain.…
Read More
seo

Internet Marketing

Factors to consider when looking for a web design company
Lisa Pearson8 years ago04 mins

The way your website looks is important in attracting visitors. Your site design can make or break your site. Therefore, you should strive to make it look attractive. You should hire a web designer to help you out. Given that there are many web design companies out there, it becomes difficult to choose the appropriate one. If you want to hire a Webdesign company, then here are a few factors to keep in the back of your mind.

Considerations Experience

seo

You should not take any chances with the way your website looks. You have to look for the best web designer in the market. The web designer should be knowledgeable in different aspects. A company that has been in the industry for long has all it takes to do a good job. Additionally, such company keeps up with the changes in the industry and guarantees you quality service. You will be paying your money so make sure you get a company that can handle the work as required. You can go for a company that is starting up, but that will be risking your business. If you are serious about making money with your site, then you should conduct research to get the best web design company.
Customer service

When hiring a web design company, you should consider their customer service. You will require the help of the company even after they have designed your site you may need a few changes here and there. As such, the company should have the best customer services to help you out. They should respond to your calls and emails in the shortest time possible. In case they take long, then you are better off with another company.
Pricing

The cost of the service is an important factor when choosing a web design company. You can compare the prices offered by different companies. In doing that, you will find the company that has affordable services. You may be on a tight budget but do not go for a company that has affordable services. It may cost you in the long run. Always go for a company with affordable pricing and quality service.
Customer reviews

seo 2

Through the client reviews, you will find out more about the company. Previous customers always leave their feedback on the company’s services. You should use such reviews to make your decision. In case a web design company has a lot of negative feedback, it is a red light. Make sure you only go for a company with a lot of positive reviews.…
Read More
paintball gun game

Gaming

Paintball Guns – An Introduction
Lisa Pearson8 years ago06 mins

Introduction

Paintball is considered as one of the most popular and exciting hobbies nowadays. Thanks to a plethora of exquisite equipment options and exciting gameplay, paintball has quickly amassed a great following all across the world.

The key element of paintball is, of course, the paintball gun. These guns are filled with paint, obviously, and they use rapid expanding gasses, such as carbon dioxide, so as to propel the paintballs. The air can propel a paintball at around 300 feet per second. This velocity is more than enough to ensure that the ball breaks down upon impacting the target but is also appropriate enough so as to avoid any tissue damage.
The key components of every paintball gun are the following

- paintball gunThe body
- The hopper
- The barrel
- The tank

Firing systems

Paintball guns can be customized in a myriad of ways. You can choose from a wide variety of guns that feature different attachments and specifications. Some models may feature electro-pneumatic firing systems, whereas other may utilize sear trippers, which feature a hammer that slams into the valve that contains the bullet, thus propelling the bullet towards the target. The most widely used guns use gas chambers to propel the balls.

The barrels

When speaking of the barrels, they commonly come in 20, 18, 16 or 12 inches. There are also highly customized guns that have barrels that can reach almost 40 inches in length. Most people prefer having guns with longer barrels, as they produce less noise when fired. The main reason behind this is that longer barrels greatly limit the escape of excess gasses. However, keep in mind that there is no tangible difference regarding noise or accuracy when comparing a 40-inch barrel and a 16-inch one. Also, longer barrels are usually heavier and can slow you down.

Firing modes

Paintball guns feature different firing modes, as well. The most basic ones feature the pump-action firing mode. These guns are slow, however, they are perfect for novice players. Next up, we have the semi-automatic ones, which are reloaded whenever the trigger is pulled. And finally, there are fully automatic ones. These offer the largest amount of firepower but are difficult to control. They are mostly preferred by experienced players.

When it comes to purchasing a paintball gun, these are some of the tips that you might find useful.

Ask for recommendations and read expert reviews

If you are interested in buying your first paintball gun, start by asking some of the more experienced players for any recommendations. Also, it would be a good thing to check out some specialized sites, like the Paintball Dojo, and read a few expert reviews.
Know your budget man using paintball gunTo make the best purchase, you should accurately define your budget. There are a plethora of paintball guns on the market. Some can cost around $100, others can reach almost $1000. Keep in mind that fully automatic and semi-automatic are usually more expensive than pump-action ones. If you are a novice, start with cheaper, pump-action ones. If you are more experienced, go with a semi-automatic.

Look for second-hand guns

If you plan on playing paintball on a regular basis, you should go with a brand new gun. However, if you are just interested in playing from time to time, a second-hand gun will do just fine. It will cost you much less than a new one and still serve its purpose admirably.…
Read More

Internet Marketing

Why you should invest in seo
David Lopez8 years ago04 mins

The digital landscape is quite dynamic. There is increasing demand for online marketing services considering that practically everyone gets online for every basic need. This could be a service or when looking for a certain product. This has resulted in a substantial increase in demand for local seo services. SEO is an important online marketing service that helps businesses generate maximum leads online. Businesses stand to gain a lot by investing in SEO services.
New visitorsoptimization

SEO helps you improve your rankings. A top position for a given search places guarantees you of new visitors. This is because most people only select one of the first few searches. Furthermore, most of the hardly go past the first two pages. So, ranking your keywords in the first come with great rewards. You will enjoy improved traffic and better returns on investments.
Brand awareness

Any marketer knows the value of having a solid brand name. This might not be very easy for a new business. The good thing with online marketing is that it plays a vital part in creating brand awareness. For instance, if you feature among the first among the top search results, any customer can trust you. This is great news for anyone that wants to grow their brand.
Long lasting results

The good thing about SEO is that it offers long lasting results. Unlike media ads, which only last for a given period, good SEO practices will leave you at the top for a long time without spending often. Moreover, if by any chance you manage to get some clients, you can be sure of working with them provided you offer to give them quality.
laptop and phoneHuge market

Online marketing is universal. As such, starting a business lets you open up to people from all walks of life. The vast prospects offered by the online industry is one of the main reasons most businesses have an online presence. Gone are the days when businesses were confined to their geographical locations.

There is real competition in the online world. It is not enough to have a site with some content. You need to get out of your way and invest in SEO services. Your site should be optimized to load faster; your content should be developed around specific keywords, and it should also be mobile-friendly. There are many other things that SEO companies do to get you up there. For a fact, experts know much more than you do when it comes to matters SEO.…
Read More
woman's belly with Belly Rings 2

Fashion

How to choose the best Belly Rings
David Lopez8 years ago05 mins
Description of Belly Rings

Belly rings are prevalent naval piercings that are mostly worn by ladies for different purposes the most common being beauty. All people believe that having them is a good idea. To achieve the main purpose of choosing to have it, it is important to make some considerations. It is clear that most people enjoy having belly rings but do not know that a wrong choice can be disadvantageous when it was meant to be a form of pleasure. The main considerations on how to choose the best belly rings include the material, the accents and the elegance of the making. Other general considerations include the cost as well as the size of the ring.
How to Choose the Best Belly Rings – Main considerations
The Accent

The accent of the belly ring is very important as it determines the beauty of the ring which is mainly displayed in the form of color and the reflection ability. A color that matches well with one’s body tone is important and in case it is exposed, a color that matches well with the clothing is effective. Taking an example, belly rings with a gem appearance are very attractive and are a good choice.

Belly Rings
The Material

Another important factor to look into when deciding on how to choose the best belly rings is the material. Belly rings that are stainless are considered to be the best as rusting can bring about health challenges which are disastrous. Among the best materials to use are stainless steel, silver, gold and finally titanium. Availability of all these materials differs according to the location but at all times, a surgical belly ring that stains easily should not be chosen. Metals made from alloys of very high quality are an effective choice.

The Elegance

This is the style of the ring, and it affects the physical outlook of the ring. Among the best styles to choose are; standard rings that hang on your belly, rings that are captive and those that have little or no form of charm. Elegance differs according to how the ring is shaped and how different components are connected to each other.

Size

woman's belly with Belly RingsThe size of the ring should be one that is easily manageable. Belly rings that are not comfortable are not a good choice since different forms of clothing relate differently with different sizes of naval rings. To be more specific, a small or medium size is well suited for this.

Cost

Quality comes with a cost, and this is why one should choose a belly ring that is not very cheap. Availability of quality naval rings can be a challenge, but if one chooses to have the best, an extra mile can be taken to ensure that a beautiful and safe choice is made.…

Read More

Construction

What Is Concrete Waterproofing?

David Lopez8 years ago05 mins

For us to better comprehend concrete waterproofing and its mechanics we need first to understand the meaning of concrete and waterproofing. Concrete is a heavy and rough building material that is made from a mixture of gravel, broken stone, water, cement, and sand. This mixture can be poured or spread into molds to form a stone-like hardened sheet; these sheets are often known as concrete slabs.Concrete Waterproofing

Waterproofing is a process of reinforcing a material so that it can be more water resistant and making it more capable of averting water entry. We can now conclude by describing ‘concrete waterproofing’ as the process of making concrete water resistant and less likely to be affected by water.

From a general view, houses can be built by concrete in which case you would have a concrete foundation, concrete walls and concrete ceiling. Concrete is a very porous building material and if it is not waterproofed it can easily absorb water which will cause cracks and eventual relapse of the structure. You can get quality concrete protection products from GSG Distribution. Another feature of a water damaged concrete structure is the presence of molds and water borne parasites.

Types of concrete waterproofing

Concrete waterproofing can be performed in 3 ways; you can choose to waterproof from the exterior (Positive) side, interior (Negative) side and the integral system which is the concrete itself. There are four types of concrete waterproofing methods namely:

- Crystalline admixture
- Admixtures
- Liquid applied membranes
- Sheet membrane systems

Crystalline admixtures

Crystalline admixtures are typically hydrophilic and often come in a dry or powdered form. Using the interior (Negative) system, they differ with other methods because they are not hydrophobic, and they tend to use the existing water to grow crystals inside the concrete. These crystals effectively close off any pathways that may encourage any water entry into the concrete.
Admixtures

Admixtures are a more integral way of waterproofing. They are usually added at the batching plant/onsite where the concrete is manufactured. They use the integral system whereby the chemical reactions occur within the concrete itself making it waterproof.
Liquid applied membranes

Liquid aroofpplied membranes offer concrete waterproofing options that use the exterior (Positive) system. They can be applied (hot or cold) with a squeegee, brush, roller and trowel or even sprayed over the concrete. The solvent used for waterproofing is made from polymeric asphalt or urethane.
Sheet membrane systems

The sheet membrane system is made from cold applied polymer-modified bitumen which is composed of active polymer materials with asphalt and is attached to a polyethylene sheet. These sheets are reinforced on the concrete to make it more waterproof and self-adhering during high temperatures. The sheet membranes are usually stronger and more durable than asphalt when used on its own.…
Read More
cleaning service

- Appliance

Choosing the best dustbuster
David Lopez8 years ago04 mins

One of the household tools that people opt to buy first is the Dustbuster. Some may just buy any brand as long as it fits into their budget and also their limited time to spend on choosing the right vacuum cleaner. Read on to understand the best tips for choosing the best dustbuster.

Do the initial survey in an electric goods departmental store in your vicinity.

You are going to see a wide variety and range of Dustbuster. Ask for a demonstration and compare the prices of the different Dustbuster.

Then find out some of the plus and minus points of some vacuum cleaner models that you have selected, mentally. Do remember to take your vacuum cleaner for a trial run, to see how easily you can handle the machine and its accessories. Then, go online to look for the same models, which you can get at discounted prices online.
Think of the different functions you want in a Dustbuster.

cleaning toolsMany people consider the best vacuum cleaner to be one which has a HEPA filter. These Dustbuster are comparatively expensive, but they are going to leave your house totally dust free. You might also want a Dustbuster with a bag.

Apart from this, you have to look at the different types of nozzles available, the filters, and even extended cords. A Dustbuster with a replaceable bag may cost more. You might want to look at the Dustbuster, which has attached brushes.

Some models are upright and have metal bottom plates with dirt sensors. Once you have your priorities, specifications, requirements and budget right, you know exactly what you need from your vacuum cleaner.
Check on warranty

Be sure the Dustbuster you select is covered having a warranty. Be certain you fully grasp what the warranty covers and how long it lasts.
How long you assemble the Dustbuster

How long does it take you to assemble the Dustbuster is what you are going to check out next.

If you spend 15 minutes just attaching the attachments, that vacuum cleaner is definitely not the right model for you. On the other hand, if the attachments can be put together and taken apart really easily, they fit properly, are airtight and stay on until dismantled, buy that particular model.
Dustbuster are meant to make cleaner easier cleaningIt has been improved and innovated over the century to accommodate the daily needs of household keeping. In all household tools, everybody wants the best and the most cost-effective. In conclusion, in all purchases to be made, one must be mindful about the real needs of the household and not just what looks good in it.…

Read More running athlete

Health and Fitness

The Best ZMA Supplements For Athletes

David Lopez9 years ago05 mins

So, what exactly is a ZMA pill? ZMA or Zinc Monomethionine Aspartate usually is taken by sports people and those that undergo intense activities. More sports people, especially athletes, are using this ZMA supplement for better performance. This surge in worldwide recognition is especially impressive as the ZMA nutritional supplement hasn't been available on the market for very long. In light of this current publicity, this brand new dietary supplement has been on a tight demand.

The Best ZMA Supplements For Athletes

ZMA Ingredients

All the ingredients of ZMA are vitamin B6, Zinc, and Magnesium. These three elements all play a vital role in keeping your entire body strong. It has been medically proven, over and over again, that athletes, in particular, can suffer from a deficiency of Magnesium and Zinc levels within their human body. This is due to an excess of perspiration and not enough food consumption. So what exactly is Zinc useful for in your body?

pills

It powers cell growth and helps to synthesize protein. Magnesium, on the other hand, is important for the conditioning of bones, the immune system, and the central nervous system. Possessing a good amount of magnesium in your body could also help with sleeping soundly. Vitamin B6 also serves a key function, since it is accountable for transforming protein into energy.

How ZMA works

When used together, Zinc, Magnesium, and Vitamin B6 can be extremely helpful for the body. Therefore, taking ZMA tablets can be highly helpful, as the tablet combines all these elements. A ZMA supplement could also help decrease catabolism. Catabolism is usually named a destructive metabolism, which may be very disadvantageous for those who exercise on a regular basis. Limiting a destructive metabolism is important for all people looking to maintain a strong and healthy body.

Benefits of ZMA supplements

ZMA is also used by sportsmen planning to boost their recovery times after exercise. Muscle builders and athletes reap the benefits of this because it reduces the time they need to recover from muscle stores, and it provides more time to train and workout. Also, taking ZMA can help prevent people getting ill, as it fortifies the immune system.

people running

It will increase sexual drive, minimizes muscle cramps and ensures much better sleeping patterns.When taking ZMA, it's important to be on the safe side. Though it has been found to feature no harmful side-effects, ZMA needs to be taken alongside a few precautions. For instance, as with every other health supplement, you must confer with your GP before taking it.

Conclusion

For ZMA tablets to be more advantageous, folks taking this product should watch their diet program. Foods rich in protein include things like seafood and animal meat, together with milk products and eggs. ZMA nutritional supplements must not be taken with calcium too because it tends to avert zinc assimilation.…
Read More
chairs in classroom

Education

Sending Your Daughter to a Private all Girls School
Lisa Pearson9 years ago04 mins
Introduction

If you are a parent, and have a young teenage daughter. You may be looking for an excellent all girls school to give her the best education possible. However, finding a school is not as easy as some may think especially if yu want a private all girls school where your child can learn and grow up to be a successful member of society.
Why a private school?

First of all, let us consider why it is better to go to a private school? stationaryWell, the fact remains that public school can be ok, but they are often packed to the hilt with students and classrooms are always packed. We cannot discount the fact that government schools do provide essential education to the masses but if you want your child to have better and a safer learning environment like the Ipswich High School for girls a private school is your best bet.

Private schools will also have better facilities and therefore your child will be able to not only grow mentally but also physically. Private schools will have a great PT center a gym and grounds for training. They will also have a comprehensive library, science labs, etc. that the students can use during their course of study.

There is also more safety in private schools, and you can be relaxed knowing that your child is safe. We have all heard of the many horrible things that happen in schools so you should not compromise the safety of your daughter. The extra money you have to pay will be worth it.
Why an all girls school?

Most schools these days are mixed, and while this can be good in some areas, it can also have its drawbacks. Your kid will not get personalized attention and it won’t have modern facilities.

chairsA private school will afford your child the individual attention she deserves, and they will be able to learn better and absorb more information.

All girls schools will also allow your daughter not to be distracted by boys as many young girls do in their teens. They will be able to concentrate on their studies more.
The cost

Without a doubt, private schools will cost more than a public one; however, the benefits far outweigh the extra money. Education is one of the greatest things you can give your child and if you can afford it, sending your daughter to an all girls private school will do them a lot of good.…
Read More
coffee and cookie

Machine

Features of the best home espresso machine
David Lopez9 years ago05 mins

If you value and love your coffee, then the best home espresso machine is one of the valuable appliances you should consider having. It is a benefit which comes with a cost but with the wide market available, there are a lot of brands and models available, and you should find a reliable espresso machine at an affordable price. When purchasing the machine, you should not only consider prices but also other qualities like storage, maintenance, functionality and the flavor of the beverage.

Here are some features of the best espresso machine you should consider.
Grinding capabilities

coffeeThere are units have a built-in grinder. The grinders can manage unground coffee beans which are in their canister so that you can be able to choose fresh beans for brewing your favorite coffee. Others are built with a receptacle which is for coffee grinds and hence this means the bean is ground at a store or by use of a separate appliance. If you are the kind of person that loves their coffee freshly ground, then the in- built grinder mechanism will be of great useful to you.
Frothing capabilities

the espresso machine offers you with a very strong java beverage. However, you can enjoy other beverages such as macchiato, Americanos, and Cappuccinos. To have it right together with milk frothing, you should consider the frother. This is the spout designed for pressurized milk flow hence the pressure is supposed to be right in terms of temperature and PSI in order to make a good drink. Not every espresso machine necessarily needs to have this capability, but if you like the specialty drinks, then it is a feature worth considering when buying the machine.
Water storage

Depending on the type of machine you decide in the end, it will require you to pour in water into the mouth or by connecting to a water source making the process very easy and efficient. Some units can hold to as many cups as 8 of them of espresso and when you have a machine with a small spout, and then it might be challenging to pour in the much-needed water. Remember to check the make of how water goes into your machine and your comfortability with that before purchases.

Machine capacity

home espresso machineHow much water does the machine hold? Or the beans storage capacity? They are useful questions that help in making the right capacity choice. If you love coffee or maybe you're planning to make a family coffee every day, then a machine that can hold as many cups as possible is the ideal for you.

Other features that are worth checking when buying are storage, cleaning demands, and aesthetics. Always choose the kind of machine that suits your many needs from every angle.…
Read More
man pointing at computer screen

Uncategorized

Binary Trading Option Systems
Lisa Pearson9 years ago04 mins

Many experts agree that if someone wants to succeed in trading binary options trading, he or she needs to have an effective and system. Without a system, you can still lose money even if you can make many accurate signals and trend predictions. Through the years, quite some trading systems and binary options robot that have been developed by trading experts and analysts. These systems were developed with the goal of helping traders make a profit and to put their avoid worry.
Benefits of using trading robots

Winning binary trading option systems work well even you have an automatic system, and you are trading with robots. One of the advantages of using a trading robot is that it can be used on differobotrent binary options brokers.

Apart from this, it also includes automatic trades, which are placed through the use of several trading systems options. Indeed, many people succeed in binary options trading with the use of trading robots combined with a sound strategy and good analysis of the market.
Binary trading option systems

Below is a quick look at the three binary trading option systems that one can use with a trading robot to experience consistent wins in binary options trading.

Classic System – Asell or buys the name suggests, this is a basic trading option systems on this list. Under this system, the same amount of dolls is used for every trade that the trading robot places irrespective whether the trade is a win or a lose.
Martingale System – This is regarded by many as the most effective trading system to be used with a trading robot. This is what is known as a changing trading system. Under this system, the robot will increase the amount from the last trade if it is an unsuccessful one and lower it if it is a successful one.

Fibonacci System – This system is different from the Martingale system. Under the system, the trading robot will lower the amount of money to be traded after a losing trade and raise the amount after a winning one.

It may not be easy to find a winning binary trading option system but if you do find one it will surely be a game changer.…
Read More
clean Ground Pool

Pools

An In Ground Pool for your Home
Lisa Pearson9 years ago04 mins

An in-ground pool is one of the most popular pool that most homes prefer. This is especially ideal for areas that experience a warm climate for the most time of the year. This is different from an above ground pool that is proffered y people living in the colder areas. A piscina interrata might be a little bit expensive to construct compared to above the ground pools, but it has other advantages that surpass the high initial cost. For instance, an in-ground pool is long lasting and durable compared to the other types of pool.
Why you should construct an in-ground pool
Durable and permanentGround Pool

An in-ground pool is a durable and a permanent feature once installed. Once it is installed by a professional, all you have to do is clean and maintain it. This differs from above ground pools that are semi-permanent and are susceptible to crushing.

Once installed an in-ground pool will last as long as you house. This is a long-term investment that you make just like your home.
Increase value of your home

A home that has an in ground swimming pool will always be valued high compared to one that doesn’t. A swimming pool is a great additional feature that buyers would want as part of their home. If you have a swimming pool in the backyard of the compound, potential buyers will always be attracted to your home.
Better landscaGround Pool 2pe look

If you want the compound of your home to look beautiful, then an in ground pool is one of the ways of adding to the beauty. An in-ground pool will always look better when you look at the clear water in the pool it acts as a good reflection to the compound. A pool always adds beauty to the landscape especially if it is cleaned from time to time.
Easier to decorate

An in ground pool provides you with numerous ways to decorate and keep it beautiful. You can use different materials to enhance the look of your pool. The most common way of decorating your pool is through pool fencing where you can experiment using different materials like glass and vinyl. All these materials give you a beautiful look depending on your taste and preference.…

Read More

types of Gaming Chairs

Furniture

Choosing The Best Gaming Chairs For PC – Your Ultimate Buying Guide

David Lopez9 years ago05 mins

Gamers who spend endless hours every day playing video games while sitting on the wrong chair have one thing in common – back pains. That's because the standard chairs they use aren't designed for gaming. PC gaming chairs have better features like headrest, lumbar support and comfortable armrests to make your gaming experience enjoyable.

So, how do you find the best gaming chairs for pc? Here's a detailed buying with key features to look for when shopping as well as the benefits of investing in a professional chair.

Features To Look For

Comfort

If you're going to spend your hard-earned cash on a gaming chair for PC, make sure it can provide you with the utmost comfort you need to play for long periods.

man using Gaming Chairs

Ergonomics

Sitting wrongly during long periods of play can increase your risk of developing shoulder injuries, back pain, and tendinitis among others. It's, therefore, important that the seat you choose has better ergonomics to allow you to adjust it in every way possible to suit your body type and height. This greatly helps to reduce unnecessary stress on your body.

Lumbar Support

Also, ensure that the chair you buy has lumbar support (preferably adjustable) to help support and protect your back.

Headrest

The best chair for PC gaming should also have headrest to support your head and increase your comfort level during long gaming sessions.

Armrest

Another feature that is equally important is the armrest. Go for a seat with an adjustable armrest, as opposed to a fixed one. This way, you can adjust it the way you want to increase your comfort.

Durability

To get good value for your money, you need to choose a chair made of high-quality materials that will last for a long time. A good starting the point is to go for seats made of genuine leather, as they last longer, require less maintenance and prevent heat loss when it gets cold.

Gaming Chairs
Why Invest In The Best Gaming Chairs For PC?
Posture Support

Sitting in the wrong posture when gaming can make you tired fast, and increase your risk of getting injured. However, a good gaming chair will offer you the best posture support and make you feel as comfortable as possible. This enables you to enjoy your game longer without getting tired.
No Back Pains

Your spine's natural curve must be supported properly, especially when you're sitting in one position for several hours. Ordinary seats do not give your spine the best support when you're gaming, and this results in constant back pains. However, the right seat provides you with the best back support, thereby eliminating back pains.
Reduced Neck Pain and Stiffness

Sitting on the wrong chair as you play your favorite computer games can also lead to neck pain and stiffness. However, the best gaming chairs have headrests to support your head as you play without causing pains to your spine and neck.

With the above tips, finding the best gaming chairs for PC should be much easier for you.…
Read More hug

Relationships

What Can You Get By Dating A Sugar Daddy?
David Lopez9 years ago04 mins

The idea of sugar daddy dating started a long time ago, but the society never accepted it. Well, things are currently changing. It is becoming more and more of a trend, with modern ladies. Meeting sugar daddies has also become a lot easier as you can now find them on dating sites. The main idea behind sugar daddy dating for the ladies is usually to find a man who is financially stable and can take care of all their financial needs. The sugar daddy in return gets to enjoy the companionship of a younger woman. Some of the other benefits you stand to gain by dating a sugar daddy include:
Experience-based knowledgelady

A majority of the sugar daddies usually have a wealth of not only money but wisdom as well. You can learn a lot from their experiences regarding relationships and other aspects of life. If you are in any trouble, he will be there to advise and guide you through it.
Freedom

One of the great things about dating a sugar daddy is the freedom that comes with it. As such, you will carry on with your normal life without him pestering. That said, you can even go out with your friends without him worrying about you. For some sugar daddies, monogamy is not a requirement. You will be able to enjoy your other relationship freely while still enjoying all the benefits that come with dating a sugar daddy.
Real relationships

Some of the times, a relationship with a sugar daddy usually turns into something more than that. There are many chances of developing real and genuine feelings, which all will end up in a real relationship. Some even go as far as getting married and living happily ever after. Of course, that is usually not the plan while looking for the sugar daddy, but there are good chances that it will happen.
modelVacations and holidays

This is among the main benefits that come with dating a sugar daddy. You get to enjoy traveling around the world and staying in the best accommodations during the holidays, all for free. The man is usually a rich and wealthy man, so he will not mind taking care of all the expenses.
Social links

A majority of sugar daddies are usually well-established individuals regarding businesses and career. They obviously meet many wealthy and influential people who can help you in a variety of ways. Being with the sugar daddy will help you make those prominent social links and relations.…
Read More
black Gaming Mouse

Gaming

Features To Look For In a Gaming Mouse
Anita Skaggs9 years ago04 mins

Selecting the right gaming mouse to buy can end up being a bit of a challenge, especially for those who are new in the gaming world and are unsure of what to look for. It is not just a matter of buying a new mouse or the best gaming mouse 2016. It is more about getting the right one that will suit all your needs appropriately. Some of the features to consider include:
Sizewhite Gaming Mouse

The size of the mouse definitely matters. Select a gaming mouse that will feel right in your hand when you hold it is key to you excelling in your games and maximizing the experience. Ensure that all the buttons are positioned in places where you can reach them easily, and there are no sharp edges that feel uncomfortable to you.

The overall shape of the mouse should also not be annoying to you and should fit well in your hand. The same mouse will give a different feel to different individuals based on the size and shape of the hand meaning that you have to get one that suits you specifically.

Custom weight

The weight of the gaming mouse is also another thing to consider. Weight customization is an added advantage. A lightweight mouse will reduce fatigue during prolonged gaming sessions. A heavy mouse on the other hand will provide better gaming control.

A compromise has to be made in one way or the other and a great solution presents itself in a gaming mouse that has adjustable weights. You can alter the weight accordingly to find your most appropriate weight.

DPI rating

It is advisable to have a gaming mouse that has the option of adjusting the DPI rating. The ability to set the responsiveness of the mouse is important because it forms the foundation on how the courser is controlled as well as the in-game view. Changing the DPI rating should also be a natural process.

Software

Gaming MouseThe gaming mouse should come with an included software which will give you the ability to customize the mouse a lot further. Normally, you should be able to customize all the technical aspects of the mouse and save the settings through the included software. The ability to do this will help you tailor the mouse just for you.

Number of buttons

The number of buttons that a gaming mouse should have depends on the games that you play. MMO gamers will usually want as many programmable buttons as possible, meaning the more, the better.…

Read More

fancy acrylic shower panels

Bathroom

Why many people prefer acrylic shower panels

David Lopez9 years ago04 mins

There are many types of shower installments that you can find on the market today. Over the years, some shower styles have become quite common and almost boring. For many people today, having a good shower enclosure is not just about convenience but also style. This is why a lot of people are looking for unique products more and more every single day. When shopping for any kind of home appliances, most people consider quality, flexibility, and price over many other factors.

In recent days, however, a lot more people have included ergonomic factors in their list when shopping for home appliances. There are many more features which make acrylic shower panels preferred, below are a couple of them.

Easy Installation

acrylic shower panelsThese systems are some of the easiest to install and many times they may not require any professional help. This means that there is a lot of money saved which could have been used to pay a professional. Replacing a unit can also be done as often as needed. This flexibility drives a lot of people away from other types of shower products available in the market.

Variety

One of the most important thing that customers always have on the back of their mind is the availability of product options in the market. Whether as a substitute or complimentary product, it is always important to have many styles, designs, and varieties of the same product. This is very apparent when you analyze the different kinds of acrylic shower panels in the market. There is not a shortage of variety, and you can easily find a good system based on material like metal or glass or even different textures to cater to different tastes.

Maintaining acrylic shower panels acrylic shower panels 2When it comes to maintenance, these systems are very easy to clean, repair and replace. While they are quite durable and resistant to wear compared to other products in the market, it is important to realize that they can have problems from time to time – just like any other home appliance. The advantage of these panels, however, is that they are easy to repair and do not cost an arm and a leg to maintain.

Acrylic shower panels are without a doubt quality home products. Like any other systems, however, they require adequate care and proper use to serve you well. These panels are lightweight and quite fairly priced compared to many other rival products in the market.…

Read More

person playing Piano

Music

The Benefit of Online Piano Lessons

Lisa Pearson9 years ago04 mins

If you want your child to learn music or even if you want to learn to play an instrument, the piano has always been a classic and a favorite. If you are wondering how you can fit piano lessons into your busy schedule, you may want to consider online lessons as an alternative to going to a piano class.

Why the piano?

The piano is one musical instrument that will always be popular among those who like music. You can entertain your family or guest or even play to help you feel good. We all know that music heals and playing the piano can bring joy to not only oneself but also to those around you.
Why consider online lessonsPiano;

Unlike in the past people do not have much free time with busy jobs that demand a lot of time and other household chores and commitments. For children, the last thing you want is for them to spend time going to and from a music class and not have any free time to study or play with friends. When you learn the piano online, you can arrange your own schedule, and you can learn in the comfort of your home.

Online lessons will give you more freedom to learn at your own pace, and there will be no pressure to perform. You do not have to spend hours on the road in traffic and will feel more relaxed learning at home.
The cost

Traditional piano lessons can cost quite a bit if you take lessons at a studio. However, online classes will only cost a fraction of that and not to mention the money you save on traveling. The time you spend traveling can also be saved to do other more important things.
playing PianoThe piano opens up many opportunities

If you want your child to have a future in music, the piano can give them the best opportunities. There is a lack of children choosing music, and therefore, the trend may be dying. But with online piano lessons you can get your child on his or her way to becoming a musical genius.
Conclusion

There are many musical instruments that one can choose from, but since the piano is a favorite among many, you can start learning how to play without busting the bank. Online lessons are descriptive, easy to follow and can be done at your convenience, From beginner to advanced, all the lessons can be followed by a few clicks on your computer.…
Read More

Health

Benefits Of Beetroot Juice
David Lopez10 years ago04 mins
Beetroot juice is undervalued today despite the many benefits it offers.

Benefits Of Beetroot Juice (1)

If you are looking for an all-natural way to improve your overall health, then you are in the right place. In this post, we’ll highlight the several beetroot juice benefits. Let’s start!

– Enhanced Immune System

Beetroot is rich in nutrients that boost the functioning of the immune system. They do so by encouraging the production of antibodies that help the body to fight against infections and diseases. The white blood cells fight against infections as beet enhances their function by providing the much required nutritional support. Besides, beet juice is rich in iron that boosts the red blood cells and facilitates the supply of oxygen to all cells in the body making you young and healthy.

– Prevents Cancer

Beet juice contains manganese that is responsible for the formation a potent anticancer substance referred to as interferon. Besides, it also contains betanin, the pigment responsible for beet’s red color that fights acts against cancer by fighting free radicals.

– Detoxifier

Your body has a complex detox system that works. However, studies show that it can’t keep up with getting rid of the toxins that are produced in your body daily. Some of these toxins accumulate in your body, organs and tissues. Beet juice is a natural detoxifier as well as a blood purifier.

– Cardiovascular Benefits

If you have suffered from cardiovascular complications, beet juice is rich in nitrates that have numerous cardiovascular benefits. They include decreasing blood pressure, inhibiting platelet aggregation to mention a few.

– Improves Sexual LifeBenefits Of Beetroot Juice (2)

Apart from having cardiovascular benefits, the nitrates present in beet juice improve your sexual stamina. Besides, it is converted to nitric oxide that is responsible for widening blood vessels and increasing blood flow that increases sensitivity during intimacy. If you are suffering from erectile dysfunction, nitric oxide improves circulation that is the primary cause of erectile dysfunction. Women having fertility issues are strongly recommended to take beet juice that will enhance blood flow to the uterus and improve healthy implantation. On the other hand, beet juice is the perfect source of folate responsible for improving sperm quality. Lastly, beet juice is rich in boron that promotes the production of sex hormones in males and females.

Conclusion:

There you have it-beetroot juice benefits. Beetroot is an important super food that is part of any healthy diet. However, finding it online is a daunting task because its price gets consistently inflated. So, instead of wasting money online buying beet juice, how about you invest in a juicer and make your own from the comfort of your home?…
Read More

- Garden

Lawn Mower Repair Troubleshooting Guide

David Lopez10 years ago05 mins

Lawn mowers experience problems just like any other machine. Such problems arise when the machine is needed most. Proper maintenance is key to an optimal functioning machine. Sometimes minor wear and tear may be lead to major mower problems that can make it fail to start. Getting equipped with simple tips on how to handle minor engine problems is the best step to take. In the case of any slight problem, the owner can correct and get back to work.
The following are DIY lawn mower repair troubleshooting tips.

Lawn Mower Repair Troubleshooting Guide (2)

If a mower won’t start

There are various possible causes of the problem. It could be the gas tank is empty. Sometimes old gas may be the cause. In such a case, the user can consider filling the tank with fresh gas. Another reason can be a dirty air filter. It can be cleaned and replaced with new one. The carburetor may not be allowing the flow of the gas; hence, fuel may not reach the engine. The carburetor can be replaced in such a case. Again, the gas cap can be clogged and may not allow the flow of gas. The gas cap can be loosened to check if it is the cause of the problem.

Smoking mower

Causes of a smoking mower may be a full oil chamber. Again if oil leaks into the exhaust, muffler, it can make a mower smoke. It happens when the mower is tilted excessively to one side. Other common causes of smoking mower include the buildup of debris and clippings. To troubleshoot such problem, the user can consider cleaning the underside of the mower deck. Again, the side discharge may be clogged and should be cleaned to remain clear. Dull or loose mower blade may be another cause of the problem. The blade can be sharpened or replaced if it is too old. However, if the problem persists, one can consider seeking a professional.

Ignition not functioning

If the ignition system is malfunctioning, one can consider removing the spark plug. In case there is any debris, it can be cleaned off then reconnect and tighten the lead wire to the spark plug.

Primer not workingLawn Mower Repair Troubleshooting Guide (1)

If a carburetor that has a diaphragm, one can consider checking if it contains any holes. Such diaphragms can be hardened or replaced. In the case of an air assembly primer box, one can check if there is a hole or crack. In case such a problem exists, one can consider replacing it.

Lawn mowers are the landscaping machines that every gardener must have. Understanding its workability can help one to correct simple problems that occur when using the machine. The above are some of the DIY lawn mower repair troubleshooting tips to consider if a problem occurs.…

Read More
Follow

facebook

Latest Posts

Signs Your Vehicle Might Be Eligible for Lemon Law
How to Care for a Racing Horse
Shipping Classic Cars: Preserving Automotive Legends During Transport
Exploring the Role of Criminal Defense Lawyers: Why and How They Contact Accusers
Why Engaging Cash Buyers Is Ideal for Selling Your Distressed Property

Pages

About Us
Auto Detailing
Contact
Latex mattress benefits
Privacy Policy
Smart Phone
Terms of Use

ad- Matrix Media Group (1)

You May Have Missed

calendarspecial.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Fourni par Google TraductionTraduction

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus

- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico

- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe

Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

King Jesus the Sun image

Was Jesus a God, man or myth?
The answer may surprise you.

Introduction

Around the world over the centuries, much has been written about religion, its meaning, its relevance and contribution to humanity. In the West particularly, sizable tomes have been composed speculating upon the nature and historical background of one of the main characters of Western religions, Jesus Christ. Many have tried to dig into the precious few clues as to Jesus's identity and come up with a biographical sketch that either bolsters faith or reveals a more human side of this godman to which we can all relate. Obviously, considering the time and energy spent on them, the subjects of Christianity and its legendary founder are very important to the Western mind and culture, and increasingly to the rest of the world as well.

The Controversy

Despite all of this literature continuously being cranked out and the significance of the issue, in the public at large there remains a serious lack of formal and broad education regarding religion and mythology, and most individuals are highly uninformed in this area. Concerning the issue of Christianity, for example, the majority of people are taught in most schools and churches that Jesus Christ was an actual historical figure and that the only controversy regarding him is that some people accept him as the Son of God and the Messiah, while others do not. However, whereas this is the raging debate most evident in this field today, it is not the most important. Shocking as it may seem to the general populace, the most enduring and profound controversy in this subject is whether or not a person named Jesus Christ ever really existed.

Although this debate may not be evident from publications readily found in popular bookstores, when one examines this issue closely, one will find a tremendous volume of literature that demonstrates, logically and intelligently, time and again that Jesus Christ is a mythological character along the same lines as the Greek, Roman, Egyptian, Sumerian, Phoenician, Indian or other godmen, who are all presently accepted as myths rather than historical figures. Delving deeply into this large body of work, one uncovers evidence that the Jesus character is based upon much older myths and heroes from around the globe. One discovers that this story is not, therefore, a historical representation of a Jewish rebel carpenter who had physical incarnation in the Levant 2,000 years ago. In other words, it has been demonstrated continually for centuries that this character, Jesus Christ, was invented and did not depict a real person who was either the "son of God" or was "evemeristically" made into a superhuman by enthusiastic followers.

History and Positions of the Debate

This controversy has existed from the very beginning, and the writings of the Church fathers themselves reveal that they were constantly forced by the Pagan intelligentsia to defend what the non-Christians and other Christians ("heretics") alike saw as a preposterous and fabricated yarn with absolutely no evidence of it ever having taken place in history.

As Rev. Dr. Robert Taylor says, "And from the apostolic age downwards, in a never interrupted succession, but never so strongly and emphatically as in the most primitive times, was the existence of Christ as a man most strenuously denied." According to these learned dissenters, the New Testament could rightly be called, "Gospel Fictions."

For the rest, please see Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ ebook.

Now available on Kindle, IPhone, IPod, IPad, Blackberry, etc.!

Origins of Christianity on Kindle

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

Support the ongoing needs of the website

Welcome to the world of
Acharya S/D.M. Murdock!

Truth Be Known was created in 1995 by independent scholar of comparative religion and mythology D.M. Murdock, also known as "Acharya S."

Acharya's work is designed to bring to light fascinating lost, hidden and destroyed religious, mythological and spiritual traditions that reveal an exciting core of knowledge dating back thousands of years.

Please feel free to post the following articles to your website or blog using the RSS feed!
Christ Myth and Other Articles RSS feed for TBK's Christ Myth Articles
Who was Jesus Christ?Who was Jesus Christ?
Was Jesus a God, man or myth? Did he exist as a real person? The answer may shock and surprise you. Were George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Jesus Mythicists?Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
Did American Founding Fathers study the case for Christ as a mythical figure?

Is the Shroud of Turin real?Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
Is the Shroud of Turin genuine? Or is it a forgery in a long line of "pious frauds?"

Noah's ArkIs Noah's Ark Real?
Is the biblical story of Noah's Ark a true story? Was there a global flood? Many people have tried to find evidence for this tale.

Jewish historican Flavian JosephusThe Jesus Forgery: Josephus
A brief paragraph in by Jewish historian is cited as proof of the existence of Jesus Christ. Is it really? Or is it a forgery?

Tacitus, Roman Politician and Historian, (c. 56-120 CE)Do Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus Prove Jesus Existed?
Are these supposed references evidence or worthless in the quest for the historical Jesus?
Does Roman historian Suetonius refer to Jesus Christ?Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth or another individual altogether? Does Church Father Justin Martyr Discuss the Four Canonical Gospels?Does Justin Martyr Refer to the Gospels?
When were the gospels written? Does Justin serve as evidence for their existence in his time?

The Virgin Mary crowned by angelsWho was the Virgin Mary?
Who was the Virgin Mary? Was she the Mother of God? As with Jesus himself, Joseph and Mary never appear in the historical record of the time.

Who was Mary Magdalene?Who was Mary Magdalene?
Was Mary Magdalene a "common prostitute?" Was she the wife of Jesus Christ and the mother of his children?

Jesus the 'Sun of Righteousness' arises, with healing on his wingsWhen Was the First Christmas?
Was the first Christmas truly the birth of Jesus Christ on December 25th? Or is this holiday much older than that?
The sun at winter solstice, forming a cross of lightIs Jesus the Reason for the Season?
Christmas is a winter solstice celebration, not the birthday of the Jewish messiah and Son of God.

Egyptian hieroglyph of Orion with three loops and SiriusThe Star in the East and Three Kings
Is the gospel account of the "star in the east" followed by "wise men" from afar true? Or is it a myth based on older stories?

Isis nursing HorusWas Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
Jesus Christ is not the only god supposedly born of a virgin on December 25th. So too was Horus of Egypt.
Was the Roman god Mithra born of a virgin on December 25th?Was Mithra Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
Mithra, the Light of the World, is an ancient sun god identified with Sol Invictus, who was born on December 25th. Was Dionysus killed and resurrected after three days?Was Dionysus Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
The Greek god has been depicted as born of a virgin mother on December 25th, dying and rising after three days.
Was the Greek god Attis born of a virgin on December 25th? Was he killed and resurrected after three days?Was Attis Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
What is the evidence that the god Attis was portrayed as born of a virgin on December 25th, killed and resurrecting afterwards? Was the Indian god Krishna born of a virgin?Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
The theme of the virgin mother of a god or hero was abundant in antiquity, including in India, as depicted in the Mahabharata, for one.
The Egyptian goddess Neith was the Virgin Mother of the World thousands of years before the Virgin MaryNeith, the Virgin Mother of the World
The worship of the Egyptian goddess Neith, a sometime mother of the solar deity Horus, is traceable to around 7,000 years ago. Virgin Mother Goddesses of AntiquityVirgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
The Great Creator of the Universe has been viewed as a female - a goddess - during a significant period of human culture.
Is Easter Christian or Pagan?Is Easter a Christian or Pagan Holiday?
Rather than being a "Christian" holiday, Easter celebrations date back into remotest antiquity and are found around the world.	Is Jesus a rehash of Osiris?Is Jesus a Remake of the Egyptian God Osiris?

The dying and resurrected Osiris was worshipped thousands of years before Christ. Is it Osiris's story in the New Testament?
Was Jesus Christ in India?Was Jesus in India?
Over the centuries, the claim has been made that Jesus Christ spent his early and post-crucifixion years in a variety of places.	Was Jesus Christ in Great Britain? Or is he remake of the pagan woodworking god Esus?Was Christ in Great Britain?
Rumors hold that Jesus traveled to England, but did he really? Or is there another reason for these stories?
Was Apollonius of Tyana the basis for Jesus Christ?Was Jesus Christ Based on Apollonius of Tyana?
Why are the lives of Jesus and Apollonius so similar? Why does Apollonius resemble St. Paul as well?	So-called James Ossuary does not serve as proof of a historical JesusThe James Ossuary Provides No Proof of Jesus
Is there really some wondrous "new proof" of Jesus to set the record straight once and for all, or is it another bit of faithful flotsam?
Mithra slaying the bull, surrounded by 12 companionsWhat Did the Church Fathers Say about Mithraism?
Why did the religion of Mithraism so bother the early Christians that they were compelled to write against it?	Dr. Chris Forbes, Australian historianRebuttal to Chris Forbes Concerning Zeitgeist
An indepth analysis exposes 21 errors in this Australian historian's critique of the religion part of the hit internet film.
Isis in cruciform or cross-shapeIsis was Called the Chr
728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr
HOME

ARTICLES

BLOGS

BOOKS

VIDEOS

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Fourni par Google TraductionTraduction

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?

- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?
- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

gospel160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image
Support this site!

The Jesus Forgery: Josephus Untangled
by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock
Josephus

The following article is excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god

When addressing the mythical nature of Jesus Christ, one issue repeatedly raised is the purported "evidence" of his existence to be found in the writings of Flavius Josephus, the famed Jewish general and historian who lived from about 37 to 100 CE. In Josephus's Antiquities of the Jews appears the notorious passage regarding Christ called the "Testimonium Flavianum" ("TF"):

> "Now, there was about this time, Jesus, a wise man, if it be lawful to call him a man, for he was a doer of wonderful works,--a teacher of such men as receive the truth with pleasure. He drew over to him both many of the Jews, and many of the Gentiles. He was [the] Christ; and when Pilate, at the suggestion of the principal men amongst us, had condemned him to the cross, those that loved him at the first did not forsake him, for he appeared to them alive again the third day, as the divine prophets had foretold these and ten thousand other wonderful things concerning him; and the tribe of Christians, so named from him, are not extinct at this day." (Whitson, 379)

This surprisingly brief and simplistic passage constitutes the "best proof" of Jesus's existence in the entire ancient non-Christian library comprising the works of dozens of historians, writers, philosophers, politicians and others who never mentioned the great sage and wonderworker Jesus Christ, even though they lived contemporaneously with or shortly after the Christian savior's purported advent.
A False Witness

eusebius church historian catholic imageDespite the best wishes of sincere believers and the erroneous claims of truculent apologists, the Testimonium Flavianum has been demonstrated continually over the centuries to be a forgery, likely interpolated by Catholic Church historian Eusebius in the fourth century. So thorough and universal has been this debunking that very few scholars of repute continued to cite the passage after the turn of the 19th century. Indeed, the TF was rarely mentioned, except to note that it was a forgery, and numerous books by a variety of authorities over a period of 200 or so years basically took it for granted that the Testimonium Flavianum in its entirety was spurious, an interpolation and a forgery. As Dr. Gordon Stein relates:

> "...the vast majority of scholars since the early 1800s have said that this quotation is not by Josephus, but rather is a later Christian insertion in his works. In other words, it is a forgery, rejected by scholars."

So well understood was this fact of forgery that these numerous authorities did not spend their precious time and space rehashing the arguments against the TF's authenticity. Nevertheless, in the past few decades apologists of questionable integrity and credibility have glommed onto the TF, because this short and dubious passage represents the most "concrete" secular, non-biblical reference to a man who purportedly shook up the world. In spite of the past debunking, the debate is currently confined to those who think the TF was original to Josephus but was Christianized, and those who credulously and self-servingly accept it as "genuine" in its entirety.

To repeat, this passage was so completely dissected by scholars of high repute and standing--the majority of them pious Christians--that it was for decades understood by subsequent scholars as having been proved in toto a forgery, such that these succeeding scholars did not even mention it, unless to acknowledge it as false. (In addition to being repetitious, numerous quotes will be presented here, because a strong show of rational consensus is desperately needed when it comes to matters of blind, unscientific and irrational faith.) The scholars who so conclusively proved the TF a forgery made their mark at the end of the 18th century and into the 20th, when a sudden reversal was implemented, with popular opinion hemming and hawing its way back first to the "partial interpolation theory" and in recent times, among the third-rate apologists, to the notion that the whole TF is "genuine." As Earl Doherty says, in "Josephus Unbound":

> "Now, it is a curious fact that older generations of scholars had no trouble dismissing this entire passage as a Christian construction. Charles Guignebert, for example, in his Jesus (1956, p.17), calls it 'a pure Christian forgery.' Before him, Lardner, Harnack and Schurer, along with others, declared it entirely spurious. Today, most serious scholars have decided the passage is a mix: original parts rubbing shoulders with later Christian additions."

Bishop Rev. Nathaniel Lardner imageThe earlier scholarship that proved the entire TF to be fraudulent was determined by intense scrutiny by some of the most erudite, and mainly Christian, writers of the time, in a number of countries, their works written in a variety of languages, but particularly German, French and English. Their general conclusions, as elucidated by Christian authority Dr. Lardner, and related here by the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled (c. 1842), include the following reasons for doubting the authenticity of the TF as a whole:

> "Mattathias, the father of Josephus, must have been a witness to the miracles which are said to have been performed by Jesus, and Josephus was born within two years after the crucifixion, yet in all the works he says nothing whatever about the life or death of Jesus Christ; as for the interpolated passage it is now universally acknowledged to be a forgery. The arguments of the 'Christian Ajax,' even Lardner himself, against it are these: 'It was never quoted by any of our Christian ancestors before Eusebius. It disturbs the narrative. The language is quite Christian. It is not quoted by Chrysostom, though he often refers to Josephus, and could not have omitted quoting it had it been then in the text. It is not quoted by Photius [9th century], though he has three articles concerning Josephus; and this author expressly states that this historian has not taken the least notice of Christ. Neither Justin Martyr, in his dialogue with Trypho the Jew; nor Clemens Alexandrinus, who made so many extracts from ancient authors; nor Origen against Celsus, have ever mentioned this testimony. But, on the contrary, in chap. 25th of the first book of that work, Origen openly affirms that Josephus, who had mentioned John the Baptist, did not acknowledge Christ. That this passage is a false fabrication is admitted by Ittigius, Blondel, Le Clerc, Vandale, Bishop Warburton, and Tanaquil Faber.'" (CMU, 47)

Hence, by the 1840's, when the anonymous author of Christian Mythology Unveiled wrote, the Testimonium Flavanium was already "universally acknowledged to be a forgery."

Origen church fatherThe pertinent remarks by the highly significant Church father Origen (c. 185-c.254) appear in his Contra Celsus, Book I, Chapter XLVII:

> "For in the 18th book of his Antiquities of the Jews, Josephus bears witness to John as having been a Baptist, and as promising purification to those who underwent the rite. Now this writer, although not believing in Jesus as the Christ, in seeking after the cause of the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the temple, whereas he ought to have said that the conspiracy against Jesus was the cause of these calamities befalling the people, since they put to death Christ, who was a prophet, says nevertheless--being, although against his will, not far from the truth--that these disasters happened to the Jews as a punishment for the death of James the Just, who was a brother of Jesus (called Christ)--the Jews having put him to death, although he was a man most distinguished for his justice" (Emphasis added)

Here, in Origen's words, is the assertion that Josephus, who discusses more than a dozen Jesuses, did not consider any of them to be "the Christ." This fact proves that the same phrase in the TF is spurious. Furthermore, Origen does not even intimate the presence of the rest of the TF. Concerning Origen and the TF, Arthur Drews relates in Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus:

> "In the edition of Origen published by the Benedictines it is said that there was no mention of Jesus at all in Josephus before the time of Eusebius [c. 300 ce]. Moreover, in the sixteenth century Vossius had a manuscript of the text of Josephus in which there was not a word about Jesus. It seems, therefore, that the passage must have been an interpolation, whether it was subsequently modified or not." (Drews, 9; emph. added)

According to the author of Christian Mythology Unveiled ("CMU"), this Vossius mentioned by a number of writers as having possessed a copy of Josephus's Antiquities lacking the TF is "I. Vossius," whose works appeared in Latin. Unfortunately, none of these writers includes a citation as to where exactly the assertion may be found in Vossius's works. Moreover, the Vossius in question seems to be Gerardus, rather than his son, Isaac, who was born in the seventeenth century.

Church Fathers Ignorant of Josephus Passage

In any event, as G.A. Wells points out in The Jesus Myth, not only do several Church fathers from the second, third and early fourth centuries have no apparent knowledge of the TF, but even after Eusebius suddenly "found" it in the first half of the fourth century, several other fathers into the fifth "often cite Josephus, but not this passage." (Wells, JM, 202) In the 5th century, Church father Jerome (c. 347-c.419) cited the TF once, with obvious disinterest, as if he knew it was fraudulent. In addition to his reference to the TF, in his Letter XXII. to Eustochium, Jerome made the following audacious claim:

> "Josephus, himself a Jewish writer, asserts that at the Lord's crucifixion there broke from the temple voices of heavenly powers, saying: 'Let us depart hence.'"

Saint Jerome imageEither Jerome fabricated this alleged Josephus quote, or he possessed a unique copy of the Jewish historian's works, in which this assertion had earlier been interpolated. In any case, Jerome's claim constitutes "pious fraud," one of many committed by Christian proponents over the centuries, a rampant practice, in fact, that must be kept in mind when considering the authenticity of the TF.

Following is a list of important Christian authorities who studied and/or mentioned Josephus but not the Jesus passage:

Justin Martyr (c. 100-c. 165), who obviously pored over Josephus's works, makes no mention of the TF.

Theophilus (d. 180), Bishop of Antioch--no mention of the TF.

Irenaeus (c. 120/140-c. 200/203), saint and compiler of the New Testament, has not a word about the TF.

Clement of Alexandria (c. 150-211/215), influential Greek theologian and prolific Christian writer, head of the Alexandrian school, says nothing about the TF.

Origen (c. 185-c. 254), no mention of the TF and specifically states that Josephus did not believe Jesus was "the Christ."

Hippolytus (c. 170-c. 235), saint and martyr, nothing about the TF.

The author of the ancient Syriac text, "History of Armenia," refers to Josephus but not the TF.

Minucius Felix (d. c. 250), lawyer and Christian convert--no mention of the TF.

Anatolius (230-c. 270/280)--no mention of TF.

Chrysostom (c. 347-407), saint and Syrian prelate, not a word about the TF.

Methodius, saint of the 9th century--even at this late date there were apparently copies of Josephus without the TF, as Methodius makes no mention of it.

Photius (c. 820-891), Patriarch of Constantinople, not a word about the TF, again indicating copies of Josephus devoid of the passage, or, perhaps, a rejection of it because it was understood to be fraudulent.

Arguments Against Authenticity Further Elucidated

When the evidence is scientifically examined, it becomes clear that the entire Josephus passage regarding Jesus was forged, likely by Church historian Eusebius, during the fourth century. In "Who on Earth was Jesus Christ?" David Taylor details the reasons why the TF in toto must be deemed a forgery, most of which arguments, again, were put forth by Dr. Lardner:

"It was not quoted or referred to by any Christian apologists prior to Eusebius, c. 316 ad.

"Nowhere else in his voluminous works does Josephus use the word 'Christ,' except in the passage which refers to James 'the brother of Jesus who was called Christ' (Antiquities of the Jews, Book 20, Chapter 9, Paragraph 1), which is also considered to be a forgery.

"Since Josephus was not a Christian but an orthodox Jew, it is impossible that he should have believed or written that Jesus was the Christ or used the words 'if it be lawful to call him a man,' which imply the Christian belief in Jesus' divinity.

"The extraordinary character of the things related in the passage--of a man who is apparently more than a man, and who rose from the grave after being dead for three days--demanded a more extensive treatment by Josephus, which would undoubtedly have been forthcoming if he had been its author.

"The passage interrupts the narrative, which would flow more naturally if the passage were left out entirely.

"It is not quoted by Chrysostom (c. 354-407 ad) even though he often refers to Josephus in his voluminous writings.

"It is not quoted by Photius, Patriarch of Constantinople (c. 858-886 ad) even though he wrote three articles concerning Josephus, which strongly implies that his copy of Josephus' Antiquities did not contain the passage.

"Neither Justin Martyr (110-165 AD), nor Clement of Alexandria (153-217 ad), nor Origen (c.185-254 AD), who all made extensive reference to ancient authors in their defence of Christianity, has mentioned this supposed testimony of Josephus.

"Origen, in his treatise Against Celsus, Book 1, Chapter 47, states categorically that Josephus did NOT believe that Jesus was the Christ.

"This is the only reference to the Christians in the works of Josephus. If it were genuine, we would have expected him to have given us a fuller account of them somewhere."

When the earliest Greek texts are analyzed, it is obvious that the Testimonium Flavianum interrupts the flow of the primary material and that the style of the language is different from that of Josephus. There is other evidence that the TF never appeared in the original Josephus. As Wells says:

"As I noted in The Jesus Legend, there is an ancient table of contents in the Antiquities which omits all mention of the Testimonium. Feldman (in Feldman and Hata, 1987, p. 57) says that this table is already mentioned in the fifth- or sixth-century Latin version of the Antiquities, and he finds it 'hard to believe that such a remarkable passage would be omitted by anyone, let alone by a Christian summarizing the work.'" (Wells, JM, 201)

Flavius Josephus imageAlso, Josephus goes into long detail about the lives of numerous personages of relatively little import, including several Jesuses. It is inconceivable that he would devote only a few sentences to someone even remotely resembling the character found in the New Testament. If the gospel tale constituted "history," Josephus's elders would certainly be aware of Jesus's purported assault on the temple, for example, and the historian, who was obviously interested in instances of messianic agitation, would surely have reported it, in detail. Moreover, the TF refers to Jesus as a "wise man"--this phrase is used by Josephus in regard to only two other people, out of hundreds, i.e., the patriarchs Joseph and Solomon. If Josephus had thought so highly of an historical Jesus, he surely would have written more extensively about him. Yet, he does not. Lest it be suggested that Josephus somehow could have been ignorant of the events in question, the Catholic Encyclopedia ("Flavius Josephus") says:

> "... Josephus...was chosen by the Sanhedrin at Jerusalem to be commander-in-chief in Galilee. As such he established in every city throughout the country a council of judges, the members of which were recruited from those who shared his political views."

Indeed, Josephus was a well-educated Jew who lived in the precise area where the gospel tale was said to have taken place, as did his parents, the latter at the very time of Christ's alleged advent. It was Josephus's passion to study the Jewish people and their history; yet, other than the obviously bogus TF, and the brief "James passage" mentioned by Taylor above, it turns out that in his voluminous works Josephus discussed neither Christ nor Christianity. Nor does it make any sense that the prolific Jewish writer would not detail the Christian movement itself, were Christians extant at the time in any significant numbers.

The Catholic Encyclopedia (CE), which tries to hedge its bet about the Josephus passage, is nevertheless forced to admit: "The passage seems to suffer from repeated interpolations." In the same entry, CE also confirms that Josephus's writings were used extensively by the early Christian fathers, such as Jerome, Ambrose and Chrystostom; nevertheless, as noted, except for Jerome, they never mention the TF.

Regarding the TF, as well as the James passage, which possesses the phrase James, the brother of Jesus, who was called Christ, Jewish writer ben Yehoshua makes some interesting assertions:

> "Neither of these passages is found in the original version of the Jewish Antiquities which was preserved by the Jews. The first passage (XVII, 3, 3) was quoted by Eusebius writing in c. 320 C.E., so we can conclude that it was added in some time between the time Christians got hold of the Jewish Antiquities and c. 320 C.E. It is not known when the other passage (XX, 9, 1) was added... Neither passage is based on any reliable sources. It is fraudulent to claim that these passages were written by Josephus and that they provide evidence for Jesus. They were written by Christian redactors and were based purely on Christian belief."

Yehoshua claims that the 12th century historian Gerald of Wales related that a "Master Robert of the Priory of St. Frideswide at Oxford examined many Hebrew copies of Josephus and did not find the 'testimony about Christ,' except for two manuscripts where it appeared [to Robert, evidently] that the testimony had been present but scratched out." Gerardus Vossius imageYehoshua states that, since "scratching out" requires the removal of the top layers, the deleted areas in these mere two of the many copies likely did not provide any solid evidence that it was the TF that had been removed. Apologists will no doubt insist that these Hebrew texts are late copies and that Jewish authorities had the TF removed. This accusation of mutilating an author's work, of course, can easily be turned around on the Christians. Also, considering that Vossius purportedly possessed a copy of the Antiquities without the TF, it is quite possible that there were "many Hebrew copies" likewise devoid of the passage.
Higher Criticism by Christian Authorities

The many reasons for concluding the Josephus passage to be a forgery have been expounded upon by numerous well-respected authorities, so much so that such individuals have been compelled by honesty and integrity to dismiss the Testimonium in toto as a forgery. In The Christ, John Remsburg relates the opinions of critics of the TF from the past couple of centuries, the majority of whom were Christian authorities, including and especially Dr. Lardner, who said:

"A testimony so favorable to Jesus in the works of Josephus, who lived so soon after our Savior, who was so well acquainted with the transactions of his own country, who had received so many favors from Vespasian and Titus, would not be overlooked or neglected by any Christian apologist (Lardner's Works, vol. I, chap. iv)."

Yet, the TF was overlooked and neglected by early Christian writers. In other words, they never cited it because it didn't exist.

Bishop William Warburton imageAnother authority, Bishop Warburton, called the TF a "rank forgery, and a very stupid one, too." Remsburg further related the words of the "Rev. Dr. Giles, of the Established Church of England," who stated:

"Those who are best acquainted with the character of Josephus, and the style of his writings, have no hesitation in condemning this passage as a forgery, interpolated in the text during the third century by some pious Christian, who was scandalized that so famous a writer as Josephus should have taken no notice of the gospels, or of Christ, their subject...."

In addition, the Rev. S. Baring-Gould remarked:

"This passage is first quoted by Eusebius (fl. A.D. 315) in two places (Hist. Eccl., lib. I, c. xi; Demonst. Evang., lib. iii); but it was unknown to Justin Martyr (fl. A.D. 140), Clement of Alexandria (fl. A.D. 192), Tertullian (fl. A.D. 193), and Origen (fl. A.D. 230). Such a testimony would certainly have been produced by Justin in his apology or in his controversy with Trypho the Jew, had it existed in the copies of Josephus at his time. The silence of Origen is still more significant. Celsus, in his book against Christianity, introduces a Jew. Origen attacks the argument of Celsus and his Jew. He could not have failed to quote the words of Josephus, whose writings he knew, had the passage existed in the genuine text. He, indeed, distinctly affirms that Josephus did not believe in Christ (Contr. Cels. I)."

Remsburg also recounts:

"Cannon Farrar, who has written an ablest Christian life of Christ yet penned, repudiates it. He says: 'The single passage in which he [Josephus] alludes to him is interpolated, if not wholly spurious' (Life of Christ, Vol. I, p. 46).

"The following, from Dr. Farrar's pen, is to be found in the Encyclopedia Britannica: 'That Josephus wrote the whole passage as it now stands no sane critic can believe.'"

And so on, with similar opinions by Christian scholars such as Theodor Keim, Rev. Dr. Hooykaas and Dr. Alexander Campbell. By the time of Dr. Chalmers and others, the TF had been so discredited that these authorities understood it as a forgery in toto and did not even consider it for a moment as "evidence" of Jesus's existence and/or divinity. In fact, these subsequent defenders of the faith, knowing the TF to be a forgery, repeatedly commented on how disturbing it was that Josephus did not mention Jesus.

In the modern apologist work The Case for Christ, Lee Strobel relates a passage from a novel published in 1979 by Charles Templeton, in which the author states, regarding Jesus, "There isn't a single word about him in secular history. Not a word. No mention of him by the Romans. Not so much as a reference by Josephus." (Strobel, 101) Strobel then reports the response by Christian professor Edwin Yamauchi, who claimed that Templeton was mistaken and that there was a reference to Jesus by Josephus. Yamauchi's fatuous response ignores, purposefully or otherwise, the previous ironclad arguments about which Templeton was apparently educated, such that he made such a statement. In other words, Templeton was evidently aware of the purported reference in Josephus but had understood by the arguments of the more erudite, earlier Christian authorities that it was a forgery; hence, there is "not so much as a reference by Josephus." In this facile manner of merely ignoring or dismissing the earlier scholarship, modern believers cling to the long-dismissed TF in order to convince themselves of the unbelievable.

For a more modern criticism, in The Jesus Puzzle and his online article "Josephus Unbound," secularist and classicist Earl Doherty leaves no stone unturned in demolishing the TF, permitting no squirming room for future apologists, whose resort to the TF will show, as it has done in the past, how hopeless is their plight in establishing an "historical Jesus." Concerning the use of Josephus as "evidence" of Jesus's existence, Doherty remarks:

> "[I]n the absence of any other supporting evidence from the first century that in fact the Jesus of Nazareth portrayed in the Gospels clearly existed, Josephus becomes the slender thread by which such an assumption hangs. And the sound and fury and desperate manoeuverings which surround the dissection of those two little passages becomes a din of astonishing proportions. The obsessive focus on this one uncertain record is necessitated by the fact that the rest of the evidence is so dismal, so contrary to the orthodox picture. If almost everything outside Josephus points in a different direction, to the essential fiction of the Gospel picture and its central figure, how can Josephus be made to bear on his shoulders, through two passages whose reliability has thus far remained unsettled, the counterweight to all this other negative evidence?"

Other modern authors who criticize the TF include The Jesus Mysteries authors Freke and Gandy, who conclude:

> "Unable to provide any historical evidence for Jesus, later Christians forged the proof that they so badly needed to shore up their Literalist interpretation of the gospels. This, as we would see repeatedly, was a common practice." (Freke and Gandy, 137)

Despite the desperate din, a number of other modern writers remain in concurrence with the earlier scholarship and likewise consider the TF in toto a fraud.
The Suspect: Eusebius (c. 264-340)

Eusebius church father catholic historian imageIn addition to acknowledging the spuriousness of the Josephus passage, many authorities quoted here agreed with the obvious: Church historian Eusebius was the forger of the entire Testimonium Flavianium. Various reasons have already been given for making such a conclusion. In "Did Jesus Really Live?" Marshall Gauvin remarks:

> "Everything demonstrates the spurious character of the passage. It is written in the style of Eusebius, and not in the style of Josephus. Josephus was a voluminous writer. He wrote extensively about men of minor importance. The brevity of this reference to Christ is, therefore, a strong argument for its falsity. This passage interrupts the narrative. It has nothing to do with what precedes or what follows it; and its position clearly shows that the text of the historian has been separated by a later hand to give it room."

Regarding the absence of the TF in the writings of earlier Christian fathers and its sudden appearance with Eusebius, CMU says:

> "it has been observed that the famous passage which we find in Josephus, about Jesus Christ, was never mentioned or alluded to in any way whatever by any of the fathers of the first, second, or third centuries; nor until the time of Eusebius, 'when it was first quoted by himself [sic].' The truth is, none of these fathers could quote or allude to a passage which did not exist in their times; but was to all points short of absolutely certain, forged and interpolated by Eusebius, as suggested by Gibbon and others. Even the redoubtable Lardner has pronounced this passage to be a forgery." (CMU, 79-80)

Moreover, the word "tribe" in the TF is another clue that the passage was forged by Eusebius, who is fond of the word, while Josephus uses it only in terms of ethnicity, never when describing a religious sect. Kerry Shirts adds to this particular point:

> "Eusebius studied Josephus diligently, and could thus masquerade as he, except when he used the word 'tribe' to describe the Christians. All the literature from the Ante-Nicene Fathers show they never used the word 'tribe' or 'race' with reference to the Christians, was [sic] either by the Fathers or when they quoted non-Christian writers. Tertullian, Pliny the Younger, Trajan, Rufinus--none use 'tribe' to refer to Christians. Eusebius is the first to start the practice."

In Antiqua Mater: A Study of Christian Origins, Edwin Johnson remarked that the fourth century was "the great age of literary forgery, the extent of which has yet to be exposed." He further commented that "not until the mass of inventions labelled 'Eusebius' shall be exposed, can the pretended references to Christians in Pagan writers of the first three centuries be recognized for the forgeries they are." Indeed, Eusebius's character has been assailed repeatedly over the centuries, with him being called a "luminous liar" and "unreliable." Like so many others, Drews likewise criticizes Eusebius, stating that various of the Church historian's references "must be regarded with the greatest suspicion." As Drews relates, Swiss historian Jakob Burckhardt (1818-1897) declared Eusebius to be "the first thoroughly dishonest historian of antiquity." (Drews, 32/fn) Eusebius's motives were to empower the Catholic Church, and he did not fail to use "falsifications, suppressions, and fictions" to this end.

Conclusion: Josephus No Evidence of Jesus

Even if the Josephus passage were authentic, which we have essentially proved it not to be, it nevertheless would represent not an eyewitness account but rather a tradition passed along for at least six decades, long after the purported events. Hence, the TF would possess little if any value in establishing an "historical" Jesus. In any event, it is quite clear that the entire passage in Josephus regarding Christ, the Testimonium Flavianum, is spurious, false and a forgery. Regarding the TF, Remsburg summarizes:

> "For nearly sixteen hundred years Christians have been citing this passage as a testimonial, not merely to the historical existence, but to the divine character of Jesus Christ. And yet a ranker forgery was never penned....
>
> "Its brevity disproves its authenticity. Josephus' work is voluminous and exhaustive. It comprises twenty books. Whole pages are devoted to petty robbers and obscure seditious leaders. Nearly forty chapters are devoted to the life of a single king. Yet this remarkable being, the greatest product of his race, a being of whom the prophets foretold ten thousand wonderful things, a being greater than any earthly king, is dismissed with a dozen lines...."

The dismissal of the passage in Josephus regarding Jesus is not based on "faith" or "belief" but on intense scientific scrutiny and reasoning. Such investigation has been confirmed repeatedly by numerous scholars who were mostly Christian. The Testimonium Flavianum, Dr. Lardner concluded in none too forceful words, "ought, therefore...to be discarded from any place among the evidences of Christianity." With such outstanding authority and so many scientific reasons, we can at last dispense with the pretentious charade of wondering if the infamous passage in the writings of Josephus called the Testimonium Flavianum is forged and who fabricated it.

Excerpted from Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled by Acharya S.

Sources:

Anonymous, Christian Mythology Unveiled, 1842
ben Yehoshua, mama.indstate.edu/users/nizrael/jesusrefutation.html
Catholic Encyclopedia, "Flavius Josephus," www.newadvent.org/cathen/08522a.htm
Charlesworth, James H., www.mystae.com/restricted/reflections/messiah/sources.html
Doherty, Earl, pages.ca.inter.net/~oblio/supp10.htm
Doherty, Earl, The Jesus Puzzle, Canadian Humanist, Ottawa, 1999
Drews, Arthur, Witnesses to the Historicity of Jesus, Joseph McCabe, tr., Watts, London, 1912
Freke, Timothy and Gandy, Peter, The Jesus Mysteries, Three Rivers, NY, 1999
Gauvin, Marshall, www.infidels.org/library/historical/marshall_gauvin/did_jesus_really_live_/html
Jerome, www.ccel.org/fathers2/NPNF2-06/Npnf2-06-03.htm
Johnson, Edwin, Antiqua Mater: A Study of Christian Origins, www.christianism.com/articles/1.html
Josephus, The Complete Works of, Wm. Whitson, tr., Kregel, MI, 1981
Kirby, Peter, home.earthlink.net/~kirby/xtianity/josephus.html
Origen, www.ccel.org/fathers2/ANF-04/anf04-55.htm
Oser, Scott, www.infidels.org/library/modern/scott_oser/hojfaq.html
Remsburg, John, The Christ, www.positiveatheism.org/hist/rmsbrg02.htm
Shirts, Kerry, www.cyberhighway.net/~shirtail/jesusand.htm
Stein, Dr. Gordon, www.infidels.org/library/modern/gordon_stein/jesus.html
Strobel, Lee, The Case for Christ, Zondervan, MI, 1998
Taylor, David, www.mmsweb.com/eykiw/relig/npref.txt
Wells, G.A., The Jesus Legend, Open Court, Chicago, 1997
Wells, G.A., The Jesus Myth, Open Court, Chicago, 1999

For more information, see Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled.

HOME ARTICLES BOOKS BLOGS VIDEOS RADIO FORUM AUTHOR

Acharya S in the Media | Christ Myth Articles | Religion & Spirituality | Quotes on Religion | Politics & Society | Earth & Cosmos | About the Author | Superconsciousness | Search | Site Map | Mailing List | Truth Be Known | TBK News | Forums | Stellar House Publishing | Privacy Statement | Contact | Freethought Nation | Freethought Examiner | Acharya on Twitter, Facebook, etc.

TBK logo

© December 2025 Acharya S/D.M. Murdock and Stellar House Publishing archaeology mythology religion history astrotheology

728mosesbanner.jpg
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

Come join me! Facebook image Come join Acharya on Twitter Acharya on Google+ Acharya's Youtube channel Acharya on Linked In Acharya on Tumblr

Support the ongoing needs of the website

Welcome to the world of
Acharya S/D.M. Murdock!

Truth Be Known was created in 1995 by independent scholar of comparative religion and mythology D.M. Murdock, also known as "Acharya S."

Acharya's work is designed to bring to light fascinating lost, hidden and destroyed religious, mythological and spiritual traditions that reveal an exciting core of knowledge dating back thousands of years.

Please feel free to post the following articles to your website or blog using the RSS feed!
Christ Myth and Other Articles   RSS feed for TBK's Christ Myth Articles
Who was Jesus Christ?Who was Jesus Christ?
Was Jesus a God, man or myth? Did he exist as a real person? The answer may shock and surprise you.   Were George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Jesus Mythicists?Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
Did American Founding Fathers study the case for Christ as a mythical figure?

Is the Shroud of Turin real?Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
Is the Shroud of Turin genuine? Or is it a forgery in a long line of "pious frauds?"

Noah's ArkIs Noah's Ark Real?
Is the biblical story of Noah's Ark a true story? Was there a global flood? Many people have tried to find evidence for this tale.

Jewish historican Flavian JosephusThe Jesus Forgery: Josephus
A brief paragraph in by Jewish historian is cited as proof of the existence of Jesus Christ. Is it really? Or is it a forgery?

Tacitus, Roman Politician and Historian, (c. 56-120 CE)Do Pliny, Suetonius and Tacitus Prove Jesus Existed?
Are these supposed references evidence or worthless in the quest for the historical Jesus?
Does Roman historian Suetonius refer to Jesus Christ?Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
Does the Roman historian refer to the historical Jesus of Nazareth or another individual altogether?   Does Church Father Justin Martyr Discuss the Four Canonical Gospels?Does Justin Martyr Refer to the Gospels?
When were the gospels written? Does Justin serve as evidence for their existence in his time?

The Virgin Mary crowned by angelsWho was the Virgin Mary?
Who was the Virgin Mary? Was she the Mother of God? As with Jesus himself, Joseph and Mary never appear in the historical record of the time.

Who was Mary Magdalene?Who was Mary Magdalene?
Was Mary Magdalene a "common prostitute?" Was she the wife of Jesus Christ and the mother of his children?

Jesus the 'Sun of Righteousness' arises, with healing on his wingsWhen Was the First Christmas?
Was the first Christmas truly the birth of Jesus Christ on December 25th? Or is this holiday much older than that?
The sun at winter solstice, forming a cross of lightIs Jesus the Reason for the Season?
Christmas is a winter solstice celebration, not the birthday of the Jewish messiah and Son of God.

Egyptian hieroglyph of Orion with three loops and SiriusThe Star in the East and Three Kings
Is the gospel account of the "star in the east" followed by "wise men" from afar true? Or is it a myth based on older stories?

Isis nursing HorusWas Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
Jesus Christ is not the only god supposedly born of a virgin on December 25th. So too was Horus of Egypt.
Was the Roman god Mithra born of a virgin on December 25th?Was Mithra Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
Mithra, the Light of the World, is an ancient sun god identified with Sol Invictus, who was born on December 25th. Was Dionysus killed and resurrected after three days?Was Dionysus Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
The Greek god has been depicted as born of a virgin mother on December 25th, dying and rising after three days.
Was the Greek god Attis born of a virgin on December 25th? Was he killed and resurrected after three days?Was Attis Born of a Virgin on December 25th?
What is the evidence that the god Attis was portrayed as born of a virgin on December 25th, killed and resurrecting afterwards? Was the Indian god Krishna born of a virgin?Was Krishna Born of a Virgin?
The theme of the virgin mother of a god or hero was abundant in antiquity, including in India, as depicted in the Mahabharata, for one.
The Egyptian goddess Neith was the Virgin Mother of the World thousands of years before the Virgin MaryNeith, the Virgin Mother of the World
The worship of the Egyptian goddess Neith, a sometime mother of the solar deity Horus, is traceable to around 7,000 years ago. Virgin Mother Goddesses of AntiquityVirgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity
The Great Creator of the Universe has been viewed as a female - a goddess - during a significant period of human culture.
Is Easter Christian or Pagan?Is Easter a Christian or Pagan Holiday?
Rather than being a "Christian" holiday, Easter celebrations date back into remotest antiquity and are found around the world. Is Jesus a rehash of Osiris?Is Jesus a Remake of the Egyptian God Osiris?
The dying and resurrected Osiris was worshipped thousands of years before Christ. Is it Osiris's story in the New Testament?
Was Jesus Christ in India?Was Jesus in India?

Over the centuries, the claim has been made that Jesus Christ spent his early and post-crucifixion years in a variety of places. Was Jesus Christ in Great Britain? Or is he remake of the pagan woodworking god Esus?Was Christ in Great Britain?
Rumors hold that Jesus traveled to England, but did he really? Or is there another reason for these stories?
Was Apollonius of Tyana the basis for Jesus Christ?Was Jesus Christ Based on Apollonius of Tyana?
Why are the lives of Jesus and Apollonius so similar? Why does Apollonius resemble St. Paul as well? So-called James Ossuary does not serve as proof of a historical JesusThe James Ossuary Provides No Proof of Jesus
Is there really some wondrous "new proof" of Jesus to set the record straight once and for all, or is it another bit of faithful flotsam?
Mithra slaying the bull, surrounded by 12 companionsWhat Did the Church Fathers Say about Mithraism?
Why did the religion of Mithraism so bother the early Christians that they were compelled to write against it? Dr. Chris Forbes, Australian historianRebuttal to Chris Forbes Concerning Zeitgeist
An indepth analysis exposes 21 errors in this Australian historian's critique of the religion part of the hit internet film.
Isis in cruciform or cross-shapeIsis was Called the Chr
2015calendarbanner.gif
Consciousness Media interview of Acharya S image
Online video "You can
help!"
donate help
Truth Be Known logo with the Egyptian goddess Maat's Feather of Truth
religion mythology archaeology history astrotheology archeoastronomy online since 1995

RADIO

FORUMS

AUTHOR
Find the Best Fundraising Ideas on GiveForward
Fourni par Google TraductionTraduction

Acharya S on DVD!
Great Minds DVD of Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER!
Enter your name and email address below:
Name:
Email:
Subscribe Unsubscribe
Donate to keep us going!

Articles
- Apollo the Chrēst?
- Apollonius, Jesus and Paul
- Astrotheology of the Ancients
- Attis: Born of a Virgin on December 25th, Crucified and Resurrected after Three Days
- Beddru is Beddou is Buddha
- Bone-Box No Proof of Jesus
- The Chi-Rho Symbol and Chrestos
- Chrestes as Oracle
- Chresto in the Suetonius Manuscript Tradition
- Chrestos Magical Cup?
- Christ Conspiracy Errata
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- Christ Conspiracy Review
- The Christmas Hoax
- The Christ Myth
- Debunking the Christ Myth?
- Did George Washington and Thomas Jefferson Believe Jesus was a Myth?
- Dionysus: Born of a Virgin, Killed and Resurrected
- Early Church Fathers on Mithraism
- Is Easter Christian or Pagan?
- The Historical Jesus?
- Was Horus Born on December 25th of a Virgin?
- Jesus the Druid?
- Isis the Chrēst
- Jesus in India?

- Josephus on Jesus
- How Old is Christianity?
- Is Jesus a Remake of Osiris?
- The Jesus Puzzle
- Mithra the Pagan Christ
- The Naked Truth
- Neith the Egyptian Virgin Mother of the World
- Is Noah's Ark Real?
- Origins of Christianity
- Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius: No Proof of Jesus
- The Problem of Religion
- Rebuttal to Dr. Chris Forbes concerning 'Zeitgeist, Part 1'
- Is the Shroud of Turin Real?
- Is Suetonius's Chrestus a Reference to Jesus?
- Sun Lore of All Ages
- Suns of God Review | Danny McNeal
- Suns of God Review | Dr. Robert M. Price
- Virgin Mother Goddesses of Antiquity | A Review by D.M. Murdock | Marguerite Rigoglioso
- Was Krishna Born of a Virgin? | Devaki
- Was Krishna Crucified?
- When Was the First Christmas?
- Who was Buddha?
- Who was Mary Magdalene?
- Who is the Virgin Mary?
- ZEITGEIST Sourcebook (PDF)
- Les origines du christianisme et la recherche pour Jésus le Christ historique
- Los orígenes del cristianismo y la búsqueda del Jesús Cristo histórico
- Christ Myth Articles
- Religion & Spirituality Articles
- Quotes from Luminaries & Lunatics
- Politics & Society
- Stellar House Publishing Articles

Testimonials

"Murdock's scholarship is relentless! ...the research conducted by D.M. Murdock concerning the myth of Jesus Christ is certainly both valuable and worthy of consideration." —Dr. Kenneth L. Feder, Professor of Archaeology, Central Connecticut State University, Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience In Archaeology

"I find myself in full agreement with Acharya S/D.M. Murdock... I find it undeniable that...many, many of the epic heroes and ancient patriarchs and matriarchs of the Old Testament were personified stars, planets and constellations..." —Dr. Robert M. Price, The Pre-Nicene New Testament

"I can recommend your work whole-heartedly!" —Dr. Robert Eisenman, James the

Brother of Jesus and The New Testament Code, RobertEisenman.com

"Acharya S deserves to be recognized as a leading researcher and an expert in the field of comparative mythology, on a par with James Frazer or Robert Graves—indeed, superior to those forerunners in the frankness of her conclusions and the volume of her evidence." —Barbara Walker, The Women's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets and Man Made God

"...I have found Murdock's scholarship, research, knowledge of the original languages, and creative linkages to be breathtaking and highly stimulating." —Rev. Dr. Jon Burnham, Pastor, Presbyterian Church, Houston, TX

"I've known people with triple Ph.D's who haven't come close to the scholarship in Who Was Jesus?" —Pastor David Bruce, M.Div, North Park Seminary, Chicago, HollywoodJesus.com

"Thirty years ago, when in divinity school, I might have had second thoughts about becoming an Episcopal priest if a book like D. M. Murdock's Who Was Jesus? had been available to me." —Bob Semes, Retired university professor of History and Religion, Founder and Executive Director of The Jefferson Center

"Ms. Murdock is one of only a tiny number of scholars with the richly diverse academic background (and the necessary courage) to adequately address the question of whether Jesus Christ truly existed as a walking-talking figure in first-century Palestine." —David Mills, Atheist Universe
Join me

Acharya S

Acharya on Twitter
Click to join superconsciousness
Click to join Superconsciousness

Books

wwj160x600.jpg

christinegypt160x600.jpg

Ebooks

Freethought Gear

Freethought Gear products image

Support this site!

The "Historical" Jesus?

by Acharya S/D.M. Murdock

The following article is excerpted from:

Suns of God: Krishna, Buddha and Christ Unveiled

suns of god cover image

When were the gospels written? With their absence in Justin Martyr's works, we remain with the dating of the gospels to the last quarter of the second century.

The Gospel Dates

When scrutinized, the Pauline epistles do not reveal any historical Jesus; nor do they demonstrate any knowledge of the existence of the four canonical gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. As has been proved repeatedly, the gospels themselves cannot be viewed as "history" written by "eyewitnesses." Besides the fact that they date to much later than is supposed, the gospels frequently contradict each other, and, based on the numerous manuscripts composed over the centuries, have been determined (by German theologian Johann Griesbach, for one) to be a mass of some 150,000 "variant readings." In this regard, The Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible, a Christian book, contains an article written by M.M. Parvis (vol. 4, 594-595), who states:

> The New Testament is now known, in whole or in part, in nearly five thousand Greek manuscripts alone. Every one of these handwritten copies differ from the other one It has been estimated that these manuscripts and quotations differ among themselves between 150,000 and 250,000 times. The actual figure is, perhaps, much higher. A study of 150 Greek manuscripts of the Gospel of Luke has revealed more than 30,000 different readings It is safe to say that there is not one sentence in the New Testament in which the manuscripts' tradition is wholly uniform.

Some sources place the figure for the "variant readings" even higher, including The Anchor Bible Dictionary On CD-ROM ("Textual Criticism, NT"), which says, "Perhaps 300,000 differing readings is a fair figure for the 20th century (K.W. Clark 1962: 669)." So much for "God's infallible Word" and his "inspired scribes." Apologists have come up with all sorts of excuses for this manmade mess; their excuses only demonstrate further that man's hand - and not that of the Almighty God - has been involved in the creation of Christianity and its texts at every step.

Rylands papyrus P52 John's gospelIt would be impossible to date the appearance of the gospels based on the extant manuscripts, since the autographs or originals were destroyed long ago, an act that would appear to be the epitome of blasphemy, were these texts truly the precious testimonials by the Lord's very disciples themselves. Although a miniscule bit of papyrus (Rylands P52) dating to the middle of the second century has been identified speculatively as part of "John's Gospel" (18:31-33), the oldest fragments conclusively demonstrated as coming from the canonical gospels date to the 3rd century. The two verses of "John's Gospel," comprising only about 60 words, could easily be part of another, non-canonical gospel, of which there were numerous in the first centuries of the Christian era. That such texts contained verses paralleling those found in the canonical gospels is known from the writings of Justin Martyr, for example, who quotes from a number of them.

In reality, the four gospels selected for inclusion in the New Testament do not make any appearance in the literary and archaeological record until the last quarter of the 2nd century,between 170 and 180 CE, and even then they are not much mentioned for a couple of decades. In this regard, Church father and archbishop of Constantinople John Chrysostom (c. 347-407) stated that the names traditionally attached to the canonical gospels were first designated at the end of the second century. The orthodox dating, of course, attempts to put the gospels a century earlier, between 70 and 110 CE. However, it should be kept in mind that the current mainstream dating was heretical when first propagated, over 150 years ago, causing apoplexy in the faithful, who believed the texts were composed shortly after Jesus's death. Over the centuries, because of increasingly scientific scholarship, the date of the canonical gospels has been continually pushed to later decades, as it has long been accepted that there is absolutely no evidence, internal or external, for such an early date.

The early dating is mere wishful thinking on the part of those who truly believe that Jesus Christ existed and that his words, deed and life were faithfully recorded by eyewitnesses, i.e., his disciples. Such a scenario is not reality, however, and the most scholarship can offer in bending the dates to fit the alleged adventof Jesus Christ in the time of Herod is that the gospels were composed during the last decades of the first century. The internal evidence cited for this "late" a date is that the gospel writers were aware of the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE. Therefore, Mark, considered by most mainstream authorities to be the earliest of the gospels, could not have been written anyearlier than 70 CE. The others followed, with John appearing perhaps as late as 110 CE. That is where mainstream scholarship ends. Nonetheless, the fact remains that the gospels are conspicuously absent from the writings of the Church fathers and apologists until the end of the second century.

Evangelist Mark Gospel imageAs concerns the order in which the gospels were written, the priority of Mark was proposed as early as 1786 by Storr and argued in detail by Christian Wilke in 1838. According to proponents of the specious "outdated" argument, which claims that newer scholarship is better and more correct merely by virtue of its "modernity," the Markan—priority thesis is a very "outdated" premise and must therefore be wrong. By this same argument, "Q" scholarship—which proposes that an original "sayings" text was used in the creation of the gospels - is likewise "outdated," because it too began over a century and a half ago, with the research of Christian Weiss, also in 1838. It should be noted that even the existence of a Q document has been argued against by a number of scholars, including Farrer (1955), Farmer (1964) and Hobbs (1980).

Despite these facts, it is perceived that to go against the crowd is to commit scholarly heresy! In actuality, critics of the Mark-priority thesis must come afterwards, obviously, which makes their theories more "modern." G.R.S. Mead, for one, writing after the Markan-priority thesis was proposed, was insistent that the other synoptists, Matthew and Luke, did not use the canonical Mark as one of their source texts: "It is very evident that Mt. and Lk. do not use our Mk., though they use most of the material contained in our Mk."

This conclusion was also reached by Helmut Koester and others in the modern era. Indeed, scholars have hit upon an "Ur-Markus" or source of Mark from which all three synoptics (Matthew, Mark and Luke) drew. Hence, it is asserted by Ur-Markus proponents that the other two synoptics did not use the canonical Mark. The Ur-Markus theory was developed by Weisse in the 1850s. At the end of the 19th century, Hernle attempted to prove that Ur-Markus was the canonical Mark, and the debate was supposedly settled in the 1920s. Yet, modern mainstream scholars continue to debate the priority. As Burton Mack says, in The Lost Gospel of Q, "Even today there are scholars who continueto favor Matthew as the earliest gospel."

Following Griesbach (1783), the Tubingen School in the 1830s maintained not only the priority but also the late date of 130 CE for Matthew, swimming firmly against the tide. Scholars of the 20th century who have argued for the priority of Matthew include "Jameson, Chapman, Butler, and Wenham."

The fact is that scholars have gone back and forth on the order, as did the early Church fathers. As the Catholic Encyclopedia relates ("Synoptics"):

> The order: Matthew, Luke, Mark, was advanced by Griesbach and has been adopted by De Wette, Bleek, Maier, Langen, Grimm, Pasquier. The arrangement: Mark, Matthew, Luke, with various modifications as to their interdependence, is admitted by Ritschl, Reuss, Meyer, Wilke, Simons, Holtzmann, Weiss, Batiffol, Weizscker, etc. It is often designated under the name of the "Mark hypothesis", although in the eyes of most of its defenders, it is no longer a hypothesis, meaning thereby that it is an established fact. Besides these principal orders, others (Mark, Luke, Matthew; Luke, Matthew, Mark; Luke, Mark, Matthew) have been proposed, and more recent combinations (such as those advocated by Calmel, Zahn, Belser, and Bonaccorsi) have also been suggested.

In Therapeutae: St. John Never in Asia Minor, George Reber evinces that the order the gospels were composed is the same as their placement in the canon: Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, as each one appears to correct the previous texts' mistakes, likely pointed out by critics along the way. Says Reber, "The blunders and mistakes of the first Gospel [Matthew] made it necessary that there should be a second." Reber further states, "Mark copies Matthew, and Luke uses the words of both." Concerning the gospel of Matthew, Reber also remarks that the book"the source of all"was "not written in Judea, or by one who knew anything of geography of the country, or the history of the Jews." "Whoever the writer may have been," he continues, "it is evident that he received his education at the college at Alexandria, where Medicine and Divinity were taught, and regarded as inseparable."

Despite claims to the contrary, little in New Testament scholarship is set in stone, including not only the priority of the gospels but also the dating. In reality, the majority of modern bible scholars have simply gone along with the dates of c. 70-110 CE, in spite of the fact that there is no evidence of the gospels' existence until a century later, as evinced by such notables as Bronson Keeler, author of A Short History of the Bible; the Christian Judge Charles Waite in History of the Christian Religion to the Year Two Hundred; and Walter Cassels in Supernatural Religion. Cassels's knowledge on the subject was so startlingly profound that, when his book was first released anonymously, other scholars—including Christian detractors—believed him to be a bishop. Regarding the orthodox dates (70-110), which were already established by his time at the end of the 19th century, Cassels states, "It is evident that the dates assigned by apologists are wholly arbitrary."

Justin Martyr (c. 100-c. 165-167)

Justin MartyrAlthough a number of writers and apologists have argued that Justin Martyr is the first Christian writer to be cognizant of the canonical gospels, in reality Martyr does not quote from the New Testament texts but apparently uses one or more of the same sources employed in the creation of the gospels, as well as other texts long lost. Furthermore, no other writer subsequent to Martyr shows any awareness of the existence of the gospels until around the year 180. It should also be noted that Martyr 's works did not escape the centuries of mutilation and massive interpolation done to virtually every ancient author's works,which makes the disentanglement all that more difficult. Yet, even as it stands, Justin's writing still does not demonstrate knowledge of the canonical gospels.

In dozens of pages, Cassels provides a painstaking and thorough analysis of the Martyr material, using the original Greek text and revealing that Justin often repeats the same quotes, making it appear as if he is quoting "extensively," when, in fact, as the material is pared down, very little is left germane to the quest of whether or not the canonical gospels existed in his time. In the end, there is a mere handful of Martyr 's sentences that Christian authorities have attempted to hold up as evidence for the gospels' existence: For example, biblical scholar Tischendorf "only cites two passages in support of his affirmation that Justin makes use of our first Gospel."

A number of the passages in Justin that purportedly correspond to New Testament scriptures come from a text called "Memoirs of the Apostles," which, Cassels shows, is a book by that title, not a reference to several "memoirs" or apostolic gospels. The "Memoirs," in other words," constitutes a single textlike the "Acts of the Apostles." Upon examination, the quotes Justin uses from the Memoirs "differ more or less widely" from parallel scriptures in the synoptics, Matthew, Mark and Luke. As confirmed by Tischendorf, only a couple of short exceptions are sufficiently similar to warrant comparison with the synoptic gospels. These various passages from the Memoirs or "Memorabilia" are repeated often enough that it is clear Justin is quoting them verbatim, rather than paraphrasing; yet, they are not identical to gospel scriptures, differing enough that they could not have come from those books. "There is almost invariably some difference," says Keeler "either in sense or construction, showing that Justin's book was different from our Gospels." Also, several of the Memoirs scriptures do not appear in any form in the canonical gospels. Moreover, Justin 's version of the gospel tale and the Church history in its details is different from and contradictory to that found in the New Testament.

Per the extant archaeological evidence and literary record, the gospel story itself does not even make its appearance in detail until the time of Justin around 140-150 CE. Even so, it is evident that Martyr did not refer Marcion of Pontus imageto the four gospels. Nor did he address the apostles as we know them from the New Testament tales, which is peculiar considering that Justin opposed the Docetist Marcion, whose Gospel of the Lord was also "Paul's gospel" although not the "veiled gospel" of the Pauline epistles. Oddly enough, particularly since he does attack Marcion, who considered Paul the "truest apostle," Justin never refers to Paul. Also, despite his illusion to the Gospel of Peter, Martyr depicts virtually nothing of the chief apostle. Indeed, Reber remarks that Justin is "so oblivious of Peter that he seems to have been unconscious of his existence." Concerning these important developments, Johnson remarks that the "Memorabilia do not coincide on their contents as a whole with any work that has come down to us; nor are the Apostles' identifiable with any known historical person." He then explains that the term "apostle" is Jewish and pre-Christian, referring to wandering Jews of the Diaspora (Jewish dispersion throughout the Roman Empire), and that the Memorabilia may simply be their "moral sayings."

In addition, rather than being sloppy in his citations, which is the accusation made to explain why his "Memoirs " differs somuch from the gospels, Justin is surprisingly consistent and conscientious in his quotation. For example, Martyr quotes from the Old Testament 314 instances, 197 of which he names the particular book or author, equaling an impressive two-thirds of the total amount. Several of the other 117 instances may not have needed citation, "considering the nature of the passage." Despite his remarkably fastidious record, when Justin is supposedly quoting the New Testament, he mentions none of the four gospels. Instead, he distinctly states that the quotes are from the "Memoirs." Since he is careful in his quotation of the Old Testament, it is reasonable to assume that he is accurately citing the "Memoirs " and that such a book is not the same as any of the texts found in the New Testament. There could be no reason why Martyr would not cite the gospel books by name, unless he was not using them. Since he never mentions the four gospels, it is logical to assert that he had never heard of them. Thus, the Memoirs text is not the same as the canonical gospels, and the mention of and quotation from this book does not serve as evidence of the existence of the gospels.

One absurd notion propounded as a result of the concession that Justin did not use the canonical gospels is that he did in fact possess the texts but never saw fit to refer to them or their authors, while willfully changing their words. This argument, were it true, would reflect intense "disregard and disrespect for the Gospels," especially since it is further argued that Justin altered them as he wished, discarding various parts and adding to the tale in other places. Nor, if these precious gospels existed at his time, did

Justin show any respect for their purported authors, as he never named them. Once he mentions "John," but it is evident that he does not associate any gospel with that name. Concluding that Justin "knows no authoritative writings except the Old Testament," Johnson adds that "he had neither our Gospels' nor our Pauline writings"

Infancy Gospel imageIn addition to the Memoirs, a single, non-canonical text apparently lost, Justin utilized other sources, including the mysterious Gospel of the Hebrews, which was widely read in Palestine during the second century and which in reality predates the canonical gospels. Per Cassels, the Gospel of the Hebrews was also called "the Gospel according to the Apostles," which suggests it was the same text as the Memoirs of the Apostles. Other texts used by Justin include the Acts of Pilate (Gospel of Nicodemus), which he cited, and the Protevangelion and Gospel of the Infancy, as shown by Waite, among others. Justin also likely used the Gospel of Peter or "Memoirs of Peter," as he alludes to it, demonstrating that by "Memoirs " the Church father did indeed mean a single text. Another source for Justin's "narrative" is the Sibylline Oracles, which reflect essential points of the gospel tale. The Church father even proudly refers to the Greek prophetess, saying "the Sybil not only expressly and clearly foretells the future coming of our Savior Jesus Christ, but also all things that should be done by him." Justin's comments, of course, imply that by his time Jesus still had not come.

In actuality, the word "Gospels" appears only once in all of Justin's extant works, found in The First Apology (ch. LXVI), where the phrase occurs "which are called Gospels." This phrase is evidently an interpolation, of which, it must be recalled, there were many in the works of not only Justin Martyr but also practically every ancient author. The phrase is extraneous and gratuitous to the subject matter of the rest of the paragraph. To repeat, it is also the only instance the term "Gospels" is found in Justin 's entire works. Martyr does use the word "Gospel" thrice in his Dialogue, but the term there refers not to the Memoirs or other texts but to the Gospel, i.e. the "Good News" of Jesus Christ. He also refers to the Gospel in one of the fragments of his lost work on the Resurrection, but these few are the only times the word appears in Justin 's known writings.

Concerning the early use of the word "Gospel," Ellegard evinces that it referred to the "florilegia, anthologies of Biblical passages, which were evidently popular reading among the Saints," i.e., the Jewish Messianic Hagioi who made up the elders of the pre-Christian churches of God found scattered throughout the empire. The Hagioi, Johnson avers, are tangential to the Hosioi, who likewise morphed into Christians.

Regarding the worth of Justin Martyr's works in establishing the existence of the canonical gospels in his day, Waite concludes:

